30 Flee, get you farre off (e they haue consulted to dwell) O yee inhabitants of Hazor, sayth the Lorde: for Nebuchad-nezzar king of Babel hath taken counsell against you, and hath deuised a purpose against you.

31 f Arise, and get you vp vnto the wealthie nation, that dwelleth without care, sayth the Lorde, which haue neyther gates nor barres, but dwell alone.

32 And their camels shalbe a bootie, and the multitude of their cattell a spoyle, and I will scatter them into all windes, and to the vtmost corners, and I will bring their destruction from all the sides thereof, sayth the Lord.

37 For I will cause Elam to be afraid before their enemies, and before them that seeke their liues, and will bring vpon them a plague, euen the indignation of my wrath, saith the Lorde, and I will send the sword after them till I haue consumed them.

CHAP. L.

He prophecieth the destruction of Babylon, and the deliuerance of Israel, which was in captiuitie.

THe word that the LORDE spake concerning Babel, and concerning the land of the Caldeans by the ‡ ministerie of Ieremiah the Prophet.

2 Declare among the nations, and publish it, & set vp a standart, proclaime it and conceale it not: say, a Babel is taken, Bel is confounded, b Merodach is broken downe: her idoles are confounded, and their images are burst in pieces.

3 For out of the North there c commeth vp a nation against her, which shall make her land waste, and none shal dwel therein: they shall flee, and depart, both man & beast.

4 In those dayes, and at that time, saith the LORD, the children of Israel shal d come, they, and the children of Iudah together, going, and e weeping shall they goe, and seeke the LORD their God.

5 They shall aske the way to Zion, with their faces thitherward, saying, Come, and let vs cleaue to the LORDE in a perpetuall couenant that shall not be forgotten.

6 ¶ My people hath bene as lost sheepe: their f shepheards haue caused them to goe astray, and haue turned them away to the mountaines: they haue gone from a mountaine to hill, and forgotten their resting place.

7 All that founde them, haue deuoured them, and their enemies saide, We offend not, because they haue sinned against the LORDE, h the habitation of iustice, euen the LORD the hope of their fathers.

8 i Flee from the middes of Babel, and depart out of the land of the Caldeans, and be ye as the hee goates k before the flocke.

9 For lo, I will raise, & cause to come vp against Babel a multitude of mightie nations from the North countrey, and they shall set themselues in aray against her, whereby she shall be taken: their arrowes shall be as of a strong man, which is expert, for none shall returne in vaine.

10 And Caldea shall be a spoyle: all that spoyle her, ! shall bee satisfied, sayeth the LORDE.

11 Because ye were glad and reioyced in destroying mine heritage, and because yee are growen fat, as the calues in the grasse, m and neyed like strong horses.

12 Therefore your mother shall bee sore confounded, and shee that bare you, shall be ashamed: beholde, the vttermost of the nations shalbe a desart, a drie land, and a wildernesse.

13 Because of the wrath of the LORDE it shall not be inhabited, but shall be wholy desolate: euer one that goeth by Babel, shall be astonished, and n hisse at all her plagues.

14 ¶ Put your selues in aray against Babel round about: all yee that bende the bowe, shoote at her, spare no arrowes: for she hath p sinned against the LORD.

15 Crie against her round about: shee hath ‖ giuen her hand: her foundations are fallen, and her walles are destroyed: for it is the vengeance of the LORD: take vengeance vpon her: as shee hath done, doe vnto her.

16 Destroy the q sower from Babel, and him, that handleth the sickle in the time of harueste: because of the sworde of the oppressour they shall turne euery one to his people, and they shall flee euery one to his owne land.

17 Israel is like scattered sheepe: the lyons haue dispersed them: first the King r of Assur hath deuoured him, and last this Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel hath broken s his bones.

18 Therefore thus sayeth the Lorde of hostes the GOD of Israel, Beholde, I will visite the King of Babel, and his lande, as I haue visited the king of Assur.

19 And I wil bring Israel againe to his habitation: hee shall feede on Carmel and Bashan, and his soule shall be satisfied vpon the mount Ephraim and Gilead.

20 In those dayes, and at that time, saith the LORDE, the iniquitie of Israel shall bee sought for, and there shall bee none: and the sinnes of Iudah, & they shall not bee found: for I will be mercifull vnto them, whome I reserue.

21 Goe vp against the lande of the t rebels, euen against it, and against the inhabitants * of ‖ Pekod: destroy, and lay it waste after them, sayeth the LORDE, and doe according to all that I haue commaunded thee.

22 A crie of battell is in the lande, and of great destruction.

23 How is the u hammer of the whole worlde destroyed and broken! how is Babel become desolate among the nations!

24 I haue snared thee, and thou art taken, O Babel, and thou wast not aware: thou art founde, and also caught, because thou hast striuen against the Lord.

25 The Lorde hath opened his treasure, and hath brought forth the weapons of his wrath: for this is the worke of the Lorde God of hostes in the land of the Caldeans.

26 Come against her ‡ from the vtmost border: open her store houses: treade on her as on sheaues, and destroy her vtterly: let nothing of her be left.

29 Call vp the archers against Babel: all ye that bend the bowe, besiege it round about: let none thereof escape: *recompence her according to her worke, and according to all that she hath done, doe vnto her: for she hath bene proude against the Lord, euen against the holy one of Israel.

Reuel. 18. 6.

30 Therefore shall her yong men fall in the streetes, and all her men of warre shalbe destroyed in that day, saith the Lord.

31 Beholde, I come vnto thee, O proude man, saith the Lorde God of hostes: for thy day is come, euen the time that I will visite thee.

z He sheweth that when God executeth his iudgements against his enemies, that his Church shal then haue rest.

32 And the proude shall stumble and fal, and none shall raise him vp: and I will kindle a fire in his cities, & it shal deuoure all round about him.

33 Thus sayth the Lorde of hostes, The children of Israel, and the children of Iudah were oppressed together: and all that tooke them captiues, held them, and would not let them goe.

a For Cyrus did cut the riuer Euphrates and deuided the course thereof into many streames, so that it might be passed ouer as though there had bene no water: which thing he did by the counsel of two of Belshazzars captaines, who conspired against their king, because he had gelded the one of them in despite, and slaine the sonne of the other.

34 But their strong Redeemer, whose Name is the Lorde of hostes, he shall maintene their cause, that hee may giue rest to the lande, z and disquiet the inhabitants of Babel.

35 A swoorde is vpon the Caldeans, saith the Lorde, and vpon the inhabitants of Babel, and vpon her princes, and vpon her wise men.

36 A swoord is vpon the ‡ soothsapers, and they shall dote: a swoorde is vpon her strong men, and they shal be afraid.

37 A swoord is vpon their horses, and vpon their charets, and vpon all the multitude that are in the middes of her, and they shall be like women: a swoorde is vpon her treasures, and they shal be spoyled.

b Reade Isa. 13. 21.

41 ¶ Beholde, a people shall come from the North, and a great nation, and many kings shall be raysed vp from the coasts of the earth.

c Meaning, that the Persians should gather their armie of many nations.

42 They shall holde the bowe and the buckler: they are cruell and vnmercifull: their voyce shall roare like the sea, and they shall ride vpon horses, and be put in arraye like men to the battell against thee, O daughter of Babel.

43 The king of Babel hath heard the report of them, and his hands d waxed feeble: sorow came vpon him, euen sorow as of a woman in trauaile.

d Which is meant of Belshazzar, Dan. 5. 6.

44 Beholde, he * shal come vp like a lyon fro the swelling of Iorden vnto the strong habitation: for I wil make Israel to rest, and I will make them to haste away from her: and who is a chosen man that I may appoint against her? for who is like me, and who will appoint me the time? and who is the e shepheard that will stand before me?

45 Therefore heare the counsell of the Lorde that he hath deuised against Babel, and his purpose that he hath conceiued against the land of the Caldeans: surely the least of the flocke shal draw them out: surely hee shall make their habitation desolate with them.

46 At the noyse of the winning of Babel the earth is moued, & the crie is heard among the nations.

CHAP. LI.

6 Why Babylon is destroied. 41 The vaine confidence of the Babylonians. 43 The vanity of idolaters. 59 Jeremiah giueth his booke to Sheraiah.

THus saith the Lord, Behold, I wil raise vp against Babel, and against the inhabitants ‖ that lift vp their heart against me, a destroying a wind.

a The Medes and Persians, that shal destroy them as the winde doth the chaffe.

2 And wil send vnto Babel fanners that shall fanne her, and shall empty her lande: for in b day of trouble they shall be against her on euery side.

b Though they were forsaken for a time, yet they were not vtterly cast off as though their husband were dead.

3 Also to the bender that bendeth his bowe, and to him that lifteth himselfe vp in his brigandine, will I say, Spare not her yong men, but destroy all her hoste.

4 Thus the slaine shall fall in the land of the Caldeans, and they that are thrust through in her streetes.

c He sheweth y there remaineth nothing for them that abide in Babylon, but destruction, Chap. 17. 6. & 48. 6.

5 For Israel hath bene no c widow, nor Iudah from his God, from the Lorde of hostes, though their land was filled with sinne against the holy one of Israel.

d By whom the Lord powred out the drinke of his vengeance to whom it pleased him.

6 ¶ d Flee out of the midst of Babel, and deliuer euery man his soule: be not destroyed in her iniquitie: for this is the time of the Lordes vengeance: he wil render vnto her a recompence.

q By theſe three nations he meaneth Armenia the hier, & Armenia the lower, and Scythia: for Cyrus had gathered an armie of diuers nations.

28 Prepare againſt her p nations with the kings of the Medes, the dukes thereof, and the princes thereof, and all the land of his dominion.

29 And the land ſhal tremble and ſorow: for the deuice of the Lord ſhalbe performed againſt Babel, to make the land of Babel waſte without an inhabitant.

30 The ſtrong men of Babel haue ceaſed to fight: they haue remained in their holdes: their ſtrength hath fayled, and they were like women: they haue burnt her dwelling places, and her barres are broken.

31 A poſte ſhal runne to meete the poſte, and a meſſenger to meete the meſſenger, to ſhew the king of Babel, that his citie is taken on a r ſide thereof, r By turning the courſe of the riuer, one ſide was made open, and the reedes that did grow in the water, were deſtroyed, which Cyrus did by the counſell of Gobria & Gabatha Belſhazzars captaines.

32 And that the paſſages are ſtopped, & the reedes burnt with fire, and the men of warre troubled.

33 For thus ſaith the Lord of hoſtes the God of Iſrael, The daughter of Babel is like a threſhing flooze: the time of her threſhing is come: yet a litle while, and the time of her harueſt ſ ſhall come.

ſ When ſhe ſhall be cut vp and threſhed.

34 Nebuchad-nezzar the king of Babel hath t deuoured me, and deſtroyed me: he hath made me an emptie veſſel: he ſwallowed me vp like a dragon, and filled his belie with my delicates, and hath caſt me out.

t This is ſpoken in the perſon of the Iewes, bewayling their ſtate and the crueltie of the Babylonians.

35 The ſpoile of me, and that which was left of mee, is brought vnto Babel, ſhall the inhabitant of Zion ſay: and my blood vnto the inhabitants of Caldea, ſhal Ieruſalem ſay.

u Thus the Lord eſteemeth the iniurie done to his Church as done to himſelfe, becauſe their cauſe is his.

36 Therefore thus ſayth the Lorde, Behold, I will maintaine thy u cauſe, and take vengeance for thee, and I will drie vp the ſea, and drie vp her ſpringes.

37 And Babel ſhalbe as heapes, a dwelling place for Dragons, an aſtoniſhment, and an hiſſing, without an inhabitant.

38 They ſhal roare together like lyons, and yell as the lyons whelpes.

x When they are inflamed with furfetting and drinking, I will feaſt with them, alluding to Belſhazzars banket, Dan. 5.2.

39 In their x heate I will make them feaſtes, and I wil make them drunken, that they may reioyce, and ſleepe a perpetual ſleepe, and not wake, ſaith the Lorde.

40 I will bring them downe like lambs to the ſlaughter, and like rammes and goates.

y Meaning, Babel, as chap. 25. 26.

41 How is y Sheſhach taken? and how is the glorie of the whole earth taken? how is Babel become an aſtoniſhment among the nations?

z The great armie of the Medes and Perſians.

42 The z ſea is come vp vpon Babel: ſhe is couered with the multitude of the waues thereof.

43 Her cities are desolate: the lande is dry and a wildernesse, a lande wherein no man dwelleth, neither doeth the sonne of man passe thereby.

44 I will also visite Bel in Babel, and I will bring out of his mouth, that which he hath swallowed vp, and the nations shall runne no more vnto him, and þ wall of Babel shall fall.

45 My people, go out of the midst of her, and deliuer yee euery man his soule from the fierce wrath of the Lord, 46 Least your heart faint, and yee feare the rumour, that shalbe heard in the land: the rumour shall come this yeere, and after that in the other b yeere shall come a rumour, and crueltie in the land, and ruler against ruler.

47 Therefore beholde, the dayes come, that I will visite the images of Babel, and the whole land shalbe confounded, and all her slaine shall fall in the midst of her.

48 Then the heauen and the c earth, and all that is therein, shall reioyce for Babel: for the destroyers shal come vnto her from the North, saith the Lord.

49 As Babel caused the d slayne of Israel to fall, so by Babel the slaine of all the earth did fall.

50 Ye that e haue escaped the sword, goe away, stand not still: remember the Lorde a farre off, and let Ierusalem come into your minde.

51 We are f confounded because we haue heard reproche: shame hath couered our faces, for strangers are come into þ Sanctuaries of the Lords house.

52 Wherefore beholde, the dayes come, saith the Lord, that I will visite her grauen images, & through all her land the wounded shall grone.

53 Though Babel should mount vp to heauen, and though she should defend her strength on high, yet from me shall her destroyers come, saith the Lord.

54 A sound of a crie commeth from Babel, and great destruction from the land of the Caldeans, 55 Because the Lorde hath layd Babel waste, & destroied from her the great voice, and her waues shall roare like great waters, & a sound was made by their noyse:

56 Because the destroyer is come vpon her, euen vpon Babel, and her strong men are taken, their bowes are broken: for the Lord God that recompenseth, shall surely recompense.

57 And I will g make drunke her princes, and her wise men, her dukes, & her nobles, and her strong men: and they shal sleepe a perpetuall sleepe, and not wake, saith the King, whose Name is the Lord of hosts.

58 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, The h thicke wall of Babel shall be broken, and her hie gates shal be burnt with fire, & the people shal labour in vaine, and the folke in the fire, for they shall be wearie.

59 The worde which Ieremiah þ Prophet commaunded Sheraiah the sonne of Nerriah, the sonne of Maaseiah, when hee went with Zedekiah the king of Iudah into Babel, in the k fourth yere of his reigne: & this Sheraiah was a peaceable prince.

60 So Ieremiah wrote in a booke all the euil that should come vpon Babel: euen all these things, þ are written against Babel.

61 And Ieremiah sayde to Sheraiah, When thou commest vnto Babel, & shalt see, and shalt reade all these words, 62 Then shalt thou say, O Lord, thou hast spoken against this place, to destroy it, that none should remaine in it, neither man nor beast, but that it should be desolate for euer.

63 And when thou hast made an end of reading this booke, thou shalt bind a l stone to it, and cast it in the midst of Euphrates, 64 And shalt say, Thus shall Babel be drowned, and shall not rise from the euil, that I will bring vpon her: and they shall m be wearie. Thus farre are the wordes of Ieremiah.

CHAP. LII.

4 Ierusalem is taken, 10 Zedekiahs sonnes are killed before his face, and his eyes put out. 13 The citie is burned, 31 Iehoiachin is brought forth of prison, and fed like a king.

ZEdekiah * was one and twentie yeere olde when he began to reigne, & he reigned eleuen yeere in Ierusalem, & his mothers name was Hamutal, the daughter of Ieremiah of Libnah.

2 And he did euil in the eyes of the Lord, according to all that Iehoiakim had done.

3 a Doubtlesse because the wrath of the Lord was against Ierusalem and Iudah, till he had cast them out from his presence, therefore Zedekiah rebelled against þ King of Babel.

4 *But in the ninth yeere of his reigne, in the tenth moneth, the tenth day of the moneth came Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel, he and all his hoste against Ierusalem, and pitched against it, and built fortes against it round about.

5 So the citie was besieged vnto the eleuenth yeere of the King Zedekiah.

6 Now in the fourth moneth, the ninth day of the moneth, the famine was sore in the citie, so that there was no more breade for the people of the land.

7 Then the citie was broken vp and all the men of warre fled, and went out of the citie by night, by the b way of the gate betweene the two walles, which was by the Kings garden: (now the Caldeans were by the citie round about) and they went by the way of the wildernesse.

8 But the army of the Caldeans pursued after the King, and tooke Zedekiah in the desert of Iericho, and all his hoste was scattered from him.

9 Then they tooke the King and caried him vp vnto the King of Babel to Riblah in the land of Hamath, c where hee gaue iudgement vpon him.

10 And þ king of Babel slew the sonnes of Zedekiah, before his eyes: he slewe also all the princes of Iudah in Riblah.

12 Now in the fifth moneth in the d tenth day of the moneth (which was the nine-tenth yeere of the king Nebuchad-nezzar king of Babel) came Nebuzar-adan chiefe steward which e stoode before the king of Babel in Jerusalem, 14 And all the armie of the Caldeans ꝑ were with the chiefe steward, brake downe all the walles of Jerusalem round about.

15 Then Nebuzar-adan the chiefe steward carred away captiue certaine of the poore of the people, and the residue of the people that remained in the citie, and those that were fled, & fallen to the king of Babel, with the rest of the multitude.

16 But Nebuzar-adan ꝑ chiefe steward left certaine of the poore of the land, to dresse the vines, and to till the land.

17 Also the f pillars of brasse that were in the house of the Lord, and the bases, and the brasen Sea, that was in the House of the Lord, the Caldeans brake, & carried all the brasse of them to Babel.

18 The pots also & the g besoms, and the instruments of musicke, & the bassins, & the incense dishes, and all the vessels of brasse wherwith they ministred, tooke they away.

19 And the bowles, & the Althans, and the bassins, & the pots, & the candlesticks, and the incense dishes, and the cups, and all that was of golde, and that was of siluer, tooke the chiefe steward away.

20 With the two pillars, one Sea, and twelue brasen bulles, that were vnder the bases, which king Salomon had made in the House of the Lord: the brasse of all these vessels was without h weight.

21 And concerning the pillars, ꝑ height of one pillar was eightene cubites, and a thredde of twelue cubites did compasse it, and the thicknesse thereof was foure fingers: it was holowe.

22 And a chapiter of brasse was vpon it, and the height of one chapiter was fiue cubites with networke, and pomegranates vpon the chapiters round about, all of brasse: the second pillar also, and the pomegranates were like vnto these.

23 And there were ninetie & sixe pomegranates on a side: and all the pomegranates vpon the networke were an hundreth round about.

24 And ꝑ chiefe steward tooke Sheraiah the chiefe Priest, & Zephaniah k the second Priest, and the three kepers of the dooze.

25 He tooke also out of the citie an Eunuch, which had the ouersight of the men of warre, and l seuen men that were in the kings presence, which were founde in the citie, & Sopher captaine of the hoste who mustred the people of the land, and three-score men of the people of the land, ꝑ were found in the mids of the citie.

26 Nebuzar-adan the chiefe steward tooke them, and brought them to the king of Babel to Riblah.

27 And the king of Babel smote them, and slewe them in Riblah, in the lande of Hamath: thus Judah was caried away captiue out of his owne land.

CHAP. I.

1 The Prophet bewaileth the miserable estate of Ierusalē, 5 And sheweth that they are plagued because of their sinnes. The first and second chapter begin euery verse according to the letters of the Ebrew Alphabet. The third hath three verses for euery letter, and the fourth is as the first.

a The Prophet wondereth at the great iudgement of God, seeing Ierusalem, which was so strong and so full of people, to bee nowe destroyed and desolate.

HOwe doeth a the citie remaine solitarie that was full of people? how is as a Widower shee that was great among the nations, and b princesse among the prouinces, is made tributarie.

b Which had chiefe rule ouer many prouinces & countries.

2 She weepeth continually in c ꝑ night, and her teares runne downe by her cheekes: among all her d louers, shee hath none to comfort her: all her friendes haue dealt vnfaithfully with her, and are her enemies.

c So that she taketh no rest.

d Meaning, the Egyptians and Assyrians, which promised helpe.

3 Judah is caried away captiue, because e of affliction, and because of great seruitude: she dwelleth among the heathen, and findeth no rest: all her persecuters tooke her in the straites.

e For her cruelty toward the poore, & oppression of seruants, Iere. 34.11.

no man commeth f to the solemne feastes: all her gates are desolate: her Priests sigh: her virgines are discomfited, and shee is in ‡ heauinesse.

5 Her aduersaries g are the chiefe, and her enemies prosper: for the Lord hath afflicted her, for the multitude of her transgressions, and her children are gone into captiuitie before the enemie.

6 And from the daughter of Zion all her beautie is departed: her princes are become h like hartes that finde no pasture, and they are gone without strength before the purluer.

7 Ierusalem remembred the dayes of her affliction, and of her rebellion, and al her pleasant things, that shee had in times past, when her people i fell into the hand of the enemie, and none did helpe her: the aduersaries saw her, and did mocke at her k Sabbaths.

8 Ierusalem hath grieuously sinned, therefore shee is ‖ in derision: all that haue honoured her, despise her, because they haue seene her filthinesse: yea, she sigheth and turneth backeward.

9 l Her filthinesse is in her skirts: she remembred not her last ende, therefore shee came downe wonderfully: shee had no comforter: O Lord, beholde mine affliction: for the enemie ‡ is proud.

10 The enemie hath stretched out his hand vpon all her pleasant thinges: for shee hath seene the Heathen enter into her Sanctuarie, whome m thou diddest commaund, that they should not enter into thy Church.

11 All her people sigh and seeke their bread: they haue giuen their pleasant things for meate to refresh the soule: see, O Lord, and consider: for I am become vile.

12 Haue ye no regard, all ye that passe by this way? beholde, and see, if there be any n sorowe like vnto my sorowe, which is done vnto me, wherewith the Lord hath afflicted me in the day of his fierce wrath.

13 From aboue hath o hee sent fire into my bones, which preuaile against them: he hath spred a net for my feete, and turned me backe: he hath made me desolate, and daily in heauinesse.

14 The p yoke of my transgressions is bounde vpon his hand: they are wrapped, and come vp vpon my necke: he hath made my strength to fall: the Lord hath deliuered mee into their handes, neither am I able to rise vp.

15 The Lord hath troden vnder foote all my valiant men in the middes of mee: hee hath called an assemblie against mee to destroy my yong men: the Lord hath troden q the winepresse vpon the virgin the daughter of Iudah.

16 *For these things I weepe: mine eye, euen mine eye casteth out water, because the comforter that should refresh my soule, is farre from me: my children are desolate, because the enemie preuailed.

17 Zion stretched out her handes, and there is none to comfort her: the Lord hath appointed the enemies of Iaakob round about him: Ierusalem is r as a menstruous woman in the middes of them.

18 The Lorde is righteous: for I haue rebelled against his ‡ commaundement: heare, I pray you, all people, and behold my sorowe: my virgines and my yong men are gone into captiuitie.

19 I called for my louers, but they deceiued me: my Priests and mine elders perished in the citie while they f sought their meate to refresh their soules.

20 Behold, O Lorde, howe I am troubled: my bowels swell: mine heart is turned within mee, for I am full of heauinesse: the sword spoyleth abroade, as death doeth at home.

21 They haue heard that I mourne, but there is none to comfort mee: all mine enemies haue heard of my trouble, and are glad, that thou hast done it: thou wilt bring the day, that thou hast pronounced, and they shall be like vnto me.

CHAP. II.

HOwe hath the Lorde a darkened the daughter of Zion in his wrath! and hath cast downe from b heauen vnto the earth the beautie of Israel, and remembred not his c footestoole in the day of his wrath!

2 The Lorde hath destroyed all the habitations of Iaakob, and not spared: hee hath throwne downe in his wrath the strong holdes of the daughter of Iudah: he hath cast them downe to the ground: hee hath polluted the kingdome and the princes thereof.

3 Hee hath cut off in his fierce wrath all the d horne of Israel: he hath drawen backe his e right hand from before the enemie, and there was kindled in Iaakob like a flame of fire, which deuoured round about.

4 Hee f hath bent his bowe like an enemie: his right hand was stretched vp as an aduersarie, and slewe all that was pleasant to the eye in the Tabernacle of the daughter of Zion: he powred out his wrath like fire.

5 The Lord was as an enemie: he hath deuoured Israel, and consumed all his palaces: he hath destroyed his strong holdes, and hath increased in the daughter of Iudah lamentation and mourning.

6 For hee hath destroyed his tabernacle, as a garden, hee hath destroyed his congregation: the Lord hath caused the feasts and Sabbaths to be forgotten in Zion, and hath despised in the indignation of his wrath the King and the Priest.

7 The Lord hath forsaken his altar: he hath abhorred his Sanctuarie: he hath giuen into the hand of the enemie the walles of her palaces: they haue made a g noyse in the house of the Lord, as in the day of solemnitie.

14 Thy prophets haue [k] looked out vaine and foolish things for thee, and they haue not discouered thine iniquitie, to turne away thy captiuitie, but haue looked out for thee false ‖ prophesies, and causes of banishment.

15 All that passe by the way, clap their handes at thee: they hisse and wagge their head vpon the daughter Jerusalem, saying, Is this the citie that men call, The perfection of beautie, and the ioy of the whole earth?

16 All thine enemies haue opened their mouth against thee: they hisse and gnash the teeth, saying, Let vs deuoure it: certainely this is the day that wee looked for: we haue found and seene it.

17 * The Lord hath done that which he had purposed: hee hath fulfilled his word that he had determined of old time: he hath throwen done, and not spared: hee hath caused thine enemie to reioyce ouer thee, and set vp the horne of thine aduersaries.

18 Their heart * cryed vnto the Lord, O wall of the daughter Zion, let teares runne downe like a riuer, day and night: take thee no rest, neither let the apple of thine eye cease.

19 Arise, crie in the night: in the beginning of the watches powre out thine heart like water before the face of the Lord: lift vp thine handes toward him for the life of the yong children, that faint for hunger in the corners of all the streetes.

a The Prophet complaineth of the punishments and afflictions that he endured by the false prophets and hypocrites, when he declared the destruction of Jerusalem, as Ier. 20.2.

b Hee speaketh this as one that felt Gods heauie iudgements, which hee greatly feared, and therefore setteth them out with this diuersitie of words.

The prayer of Ieremiah.

a This prayer as is thought, was made when some of the people were caried away captiue, others, as the poorest, remained, and some went into Egypt and other places for succour, albeit it seemeth that the Prophet foreseeing their miseries to come, thus prayed.

REmember, O Lord, what is come vpon vs: [a] consider, and beholde our reproch.

2 Our inheritance is turned to the strangers, our houses to the aliants.

3 Wee are fatherlesse, euen without father, and our mothers are as widowes.

4 We haue dronken our [b] waters for money, and our wood is solde vnto vs.

5 Our neckes are vnder persecution: we are wearie, and haue no rest.

6 We haue giuen our [c] hands to the Egyptians, and to Ashur, to be satisfied with bread.

7 Our fathers haue sinned, and are not, and we haue borne their [d] iniquities.

8 Seruants haue ruled ouer vs, and none woulde deliuer vs out of their handes.

9 Wee gate our bread with the perill of our liues, because of the [e] sworde of the wildernes.

10 Our skin was blacke like as an ouen, because of the terrible famine.

11 They defiled the women in Zion, and the maides in the cities of Iudah.

12 The princes are hanged vp by [f] their hand: the faces of the Elders were not had in honour.

13 They tooke the yong men to grinde, and the children fell vnder [g] the wood.

14 The Elders haue ceased from the [h] gate, and the yong men from their songs.

15 The ioy of our heart is gone, our dance is turned into mourning.

16 The crowne of our head is fallen: wo now vnto vs, that we haue sinned.

17 Therefore our heart was heauie for these thinges, our [i] eyes are dimme, 18 Because of the mountaine of Zion which is desolate: the foxes runne vpon it.

19 But thou, O Lorde, remainest for [k] euer: thy throne is from generation to generation.

20 Wherefore doest thou forget vs for euer, and forsake vs so long time?

21 [l] Turne thou vs vnto thee, O Lorde, and we shal be turned: renue our dayes as of olde.

22 But thou hast vtterly reiected vs: thou art exceeding angrie against vs.

b Meaning, their extreme seruitude and bondage.

c We are ioyned in league and amitie with them, or haue submitted our selues vnto them.

d As our fathers haue bene punished for their sinnes, so we that are culpable of the same sinnes, are punished.

e Because of the enemie that came from the wildernesse, and would not suffer vs to go and seeke our necessarie foode.

f That is, by the enemies hand.

g Their slauerie was so great, that they were not able to abide it.

h There were no more lawes nor forme of common wealth.

Ezekiel.

THE ARGVMENT.

AFter that Iehoiachin by the counsell of Ieremiah and Ezekiel had yeelded himselfe to Nebuchadnezzar, and so went into captiuitie with his mother and diuers of his Princes and of the people, certaine beganne to repent and murmure that they had obeyed the Prophets counsell, as though the thing which they had prophesied should not come to passe, and therefore their estate should bee still miserable vnder the Caldeans. By reason whereof hee confirmeth his former prophesies, declaring by newe visions and reuelations shewed vnto him, that the citie shoulde most certainely bee destroyed, and the people greeuously tormented by Gods plagues, in so much that they that remained, should bee brought into cruell bondage. And lest the godly shoulde despaire in these great troubles, hee assureth them that God will deliuer his Church at his time appointed, and also destroy their enemies which either afflicted them, or reioyced in their miseries. The effect of the one and the other should chiefly be performed vnder Christ, of whome in this Booke are many notable promises, and in whom the glory of the newe Temple shoulde perfectly bee restored. Hee prophecied these things in Caldea at the same time that Ieremiah prophecied in Iudea, and there began in the fift yere of Iehoiachins captiuitie.

CHAP. I.

1 The time wherein Ezekiel prophesied and in what place. 3 His kindred. 5 The vision of the foure beastes. 26 The vision of the throne.

IT came to passe in the a thirtieth yeere in the fourth moneth, and in the fift day of the moneth (as I was among the captiues by the riuer b Chebar) that the heauens were opened, and I sawe visions of c God.

2 In the fift day of the moneth (which was the fift yeere of King Ioiachins captiuitie)

3 The worde of the Lord came vnto Ezekiel the Priest, the sonne of Buzi, in the land of the Caldeans, by the riuer Chebar, where the d hand of the Lorde was vpon him.

4 And I looked, and behold, e a whirlewinde came out of the North, a great cloud and a fire wrapped about it, and a brightnesse was about it, and in the midst thereof, to wit, in the midst of the fire came out as the likenesse of ‖ amber.

5 Also out of the midst thereof came the likenesse of foure f beastes, and this was their forme: they had the appearance of a man.

6 And euery one had foure faces, and euery one had foure wings.

7 And their feete were streight feete, and the sole of their feete was like the sole of a calues foote, and they sparkled like the appearance of bright brasse.

8 And the handes of a man came out from vnder their wings in the foure partes of them, and they foure had their faces, and their wings.

9 They were g ioyned by their wings one to another, and when they went foorth, they returned not, but euery one went straight forward.

10 And the similitude of their faces was as h the face of a man: and they foure had the face of a lion on the right side, & they foure had the face of a bullocke on the left side: they foure also had the face of an eagle.

11 Thus were their faces: but their wings were spread out aboue: two wings of euery one were ioyned one to another, and two couered their bodies.

12 And euery one went straight forwarde: they went whither their ‡ spirit led them, and they returned not when they went foorth.

13 The similitude also of the beastes and their appearance was like burning coales of fire, and like the appearance of lampes: for the fire ranne among the beasts, and the fire gaue a glister, and out of the fire there went lightning.

14 And the beasts ranne, and i returned like vnto lightning.

15 ¶ Nowe as I beheld the beasts, beholde, a wheele appeared vpon the earth by the beastes, hauing foure faces.

16 The facion of the wheeles and their worke was like vnto a k chrysolite: and they foure had one forme, and their facion, and their worke was as one wheele in another wheele.

17 When they went, they went vpon their foure sides, and they returned not when they went.

18 They had also ‖ rings, and height, and were fearefull to beholde, and their rings were full of eyes, round about them foure.

19 And when the beastes went, the wheeles went with them: and when the beastes were lift vp from the earth, the wheeles were lift vp.

20 Whither their spirit led them, they went, & thither did the spirit of the wheeles leade them, and the wheeles were lifted vp besides them: for the spirite of the beastes was in the wheeles.

21 When the beasts went, they went, and when they stood, they stood, and when they were lifted vp from the earth, the wheeles were lifted vp besides them: for the spirit of the beasts was in the wheeles.

22 And the similitude of the firmament vpon the heads of the beasts was wonderful, like vnto christall, spread ouer their heads aboue.

23 And vnder the firmament were their wings streight, the one towarde the other: euery one had two, which couered them, and euery one had two, which couered their bodies.

24 And when they went forth, I heard the noyse of their l wings, like the noyse of great waters, and as the voyce of the Almightie, euen the voyce of speech, as the noyse of an hoste: and when they stood, they m let downe their wings.

25 And there was a voyce from the firmament that was ouer their heads, when they stood, and had let downe their wings.

26 And aboue the firmament that was ouer their heads, was the facion of a throne like vnto a saphire stone, and vpon the similitude of the throne was by appearance, as the similitude of a man aboue vpon it.

27 And I sawe as the appearance of Amber, and as the similitude of fire n round about within it to looke to, euen from his loynes vpwarde: and to looke to, euen from his loynes downewarde, I sawe as a likenesse of fire, and brightnesse round about it.

28 As the likenesse of the bowe, that is in the cloude in the day of raine, so was the appearance of the light round about.

29 This was the appearance of the similitude of the glory of the Lord: and when I sawe it, I fell o vpon my face, and I heard a voyce of one that spake.

a After that the booke of the lawe was found, which was the eighteenth yeere of the reigne of Iosiah, so that fiue and twentie yeeres after this booke was found, Ieconiah was led away captiue with Ezekiel (and many of the people) who the first yeere after saw these visions.

b Which was a part of Euphrates, so called.

c That is, notable and excellent visions, so that it might be knowen, it was no naturall dreame, but came of God.

d That is, the Spirite of prophecie, as Chap. 3.22. and 37.1.

f Which were the foure Cherubims that represented the glory of God, as Chap. 3.23.

g The wing of the one touched the wing of the other.

h Euery Cherubim had foure faces, the face of a man, and of a lion on the right side, and the face of a bullocke, and of an eagle on the left side.

‡ Ebr. whither their spirit, or will was to goe.

CHAP. II.

The Prophet is sent to call the people from their errour.

AND a he sayd vnto me, b Sonne of man, stand vp vpon thy feete, and I will speake vnto thee.

a That is, the Lord.

b Meaning man, which is but earth and ashes, which was to humble him, and cause him to consider his owne state, and Gods grace.

2 [c] And the Spirit entred into me, when he had spoken vnto mee, and set me vpon my feete, so that I heard him that spake vnto me.

3 And he said vnto me, Sonne of man, I send thee to the children of Israel, to a rebellious nation, that hath rebelled against me: for they and their fathers haue rebelled against me, euen vnto this very day.

4 For they are ‡ impudent children, and stiffe hearted: I doe send thee vnto them, and thou shalt say vnto them, Thus sayth the Lord God.

5 But surely they will not heare, neither in deede will they cease: for they are a rebellious house: yet shall they know that [d] there hath bene a Prophet among them.

6 And thou sonne of man, feare them not, neither be afraide of their wordes, although rebels, and thornes bee with thee, and thou remainest with scorpions: feare not their wordes, nor be afraide at their lookes, for they are a rebellious house.

7 Therefore thou shalt speake my words vnto them: but surely they will not heare, neither will they in deede cease: for they are rebellious.

8 But thou sonne of man, heare what I say vnto thee: be not thou rebellious, like this rebellious house: open thy mouth, and [f] eate that I giue thee.

9 And when I looked vp, beholde, an hand was sent vnto me, and lo, a roule of a booke was therein.

10 And he spred it before me, and it was written within and without, and there was written therein, [g] Lamentations, & mourning, and woe.

c So that hee could not abide Gods presence till Gods Spirit did enter into him.

d This declareth on the one part Gods great affection towarde his people, that notwithstanding their rebellion, yet he will send his Prophets among them, and admonisheth his ministers on the other part that they cease not to doe their duetie, though the people be neuer so obstinate: for the worde of God shall bee either to their saluation or greater condemnation.

e Reade Iere. 1. 17: he sheweth that for none afflictions they should cease to doe their duties.

f He doeth not onely exhort him to his duetie, but also giueth him [y] meanes wherewith he may be able to execute it.

g Hee sheweth what were the contents of this booke: to wit, Gods iudgements against the wicked.

CHAP. III.

1 The Prophet being fedde with the worde of God, and with the constant boldnesse of the Spirit, is sent vnto the people that were in captiuitie, 17 The office of true ministers.

MOreouer hee sayd vnto mee, Sonne of man, eate that thou findest: [a] eate this roule, and goe, and speake vnto the house of Israel.

2 So I opened my mouth, and hee gaue me this roule to eate.

3 And he said vnto mee, Sonne of man, cause thy belly to eate, and fill thy bowels with this roule that I giue thee. Then did I eate it, and it was in my mouth as [‡] sweet as honie.

4 And he sayd vnto me, Sonne of man, goe, and enter into the house of Israel, and declare them my wordes.

5 For thou art not sent to a people of an vnknowen tongue, or of an hard language, but to the house of Israel,

6 Not to many people of vnknowen tongue, or of an hard language, whose words thou canst not vnderstand: yet if I should send thee to them they would obey thee.

7 But the house of Israel will not obey thee: for they will not obey mee: yea, all the house of Israel are impudent and stiffe hearted.

8 Behold, I haue made thy face [b] strong against their faces, and thy forehead hard against their foreheads.

9 I haue made thy forehead as the adamant, and harder then the flint: feare them not therefore, neither be afraide at their lookes: for they are a rebellious house.

10 He sayd moreouer vnto me, Sonne of man, [c] receiue in thine heart all my wordes that I speake vnto thee, and heare them with thine eares, 11 And go and enter to them that are led away captiues vnto the children of my people, and speake vnto them, and tell them, Thus sayth the Lord God: but surely they will not heare, neither will they in deede cease.

12 Then the Spirit tooke me vp, and I heard behinde mee a noyse of a great rushing, saying, [d] Blessed be the glory of the Lord out of his place.

13 I heard also the noyse of the wings of the beastes, that toucheth one another, and the rattling of the wheeles that were by them, euen a noyse of great rushing.

14 So the Spirite lift me vp, and tooke me away, and I [e] went in bitternesse, and indignation of my spirite, but the hand of the Lord was strong vpon me.

15 Then I came to them that were led away captiues to [f] Tel-abib, that dwelt by the riuer Chebar, and I sate where they sate, and remained there astonished among them [g] seuen dayes.

16 And at the ende of seuen dayes, the worde of the Lorde came againe vnto mee, saying, 17 Sonne of man, I haue made thee a [h] watchman vnto the house of Israel: therefore heare the word at my mouth, and giue them warning from me.

18 When I shall say vnto the wicked, Thou shalt surely die, and thou giuest him not warning, nor speakest to admonish the wicked of his wicked way, that hee may liue, the same wicked man shall die in his iniquitie: but his bloode will I require at thine hand.

19 Yet if thou warne the wicked, and he turne not from his wickednesse, nor from his wicked way, he shall die in his iniquitie, but thou hast deliuered thy soule.

20 Likewise if a [i] righteous man turne from his righteousnesse and commit iniquitie, I will lay a [k] stumbling blocke before him, and he shall die, because thou hast not giuen him warning: hee shall die in his sinne, and his [l] righteous deedes, which he hath done, shall not be remembred: but his blood will I require at thine hand.

21 Neuertheless, if thou admonish that righteous man, that the righteous sinne not, and that he doeth not sinne, he shall liue because he is admonished: also thou hast deliuered thy soule.

22 And the [m] hand of the Lord was there vpon me, and he sayd vnto me, Arise, and b God promiseth his assistance to his ministers, and that he will giue them boldnesse and constancie in their vocation, Isa. 50. 7. Iere. 1. 18. micah 3. 8.

c Hee sheweth what is meant by the eating of the booke, which is, that the ministers of God may speake nothing as of themselues, but that onely which they haue receiued of the Lord, d Whereby he signifieth, that Gods glorie should not bee diminished, although he departed out of his Temple: for this declared, that the citie and Temple should be destroyed.

e This sheweth that there is euer an infirmitie of the flesh which can neuer be ready to render full obedience to God, and also Gods grace, who euer assisteth his, and ouercometh their rebellious affections.

1 The besieging of the citie of Ierusalem is signified. 9 The long continuance of the captiuitie of Israel. 16 An hunger is prophecied to come.

THou also sonne of man, take thee a bricke, and lay it before thee, and portray vpon it the citie, euen Ierusalem,

2 And lay siege against it, and builde a fort against it, and cast a mount against it: set the campe also against it, and lay engins of warre against it round about.

3 Moreouer, take an [s] yron panne, and set it for a wall of yron betweene thee and the citie, and direct thy face toward it, and it shall bee besieged, and thou shalt lay siege against it: this shalbe a signe vnto the house of Israel.

4 Sleepe thou also vpon thy left side, and lay the iniquitie of the [t] house of Israel vpon it: according to the number of the dayes, that thou shalt sleepe vpon it, thou shalt beare their iniquitie.

5 For I haue layd vpon thee the yeeres of their iniquitie, according to the number of the dayes, euen three hundreth and ninetie dayes: so shalt thou beare the iniquitie of the house of Israel.

6 And when thou hast accomplished them, sleepe againe vpon thy [u] right side, and thou shalt beare the iniquitie of the house of Iudah fourtie dayes: I haue appointed thee a day for a yeere, euen a day for a yeere.

7 Therefore thou shalt direct thy face toward the siege of Ierusalem, and thine [x] arme shall bee vncouered, and thou shalt prophesie against it.

8 And behold, I will lay [y] bands vpon thee, and thou shalt not turne thee from one side to an other, till thou hast ended the dayes of thy siege.

9 Thou shalt take also vnto thee wheat, and barley, and beanes, and lentiles, [z] millet, and [a] fitches, and put them in one vessel, and make thee breade thereof according to the number of the dayes, that thou shalt sleepe vpon thy side: euen [b] three hundreth and ninetie dayes shalt thou eate thereof.

10 And the meate whereof thou shalt eate, shall be by weight, euen [c] twentie shekels a day: and from time to time shalt thou eate thereof.

11 Thou shalt drinke also water by measure, euen the first part of an [d] Hin: from time to time shalt thou drinke.

12 And thou shalt eate it as barly cakes, and thou shalt bake it [e] in the doung that commeth out of man in their sight.

13 And the Lord sayd, So shall the children of Israel eate their defiled bread among the Gentiles, whither I will cast them.

14 Then sayd I, Ah Lord God, behold, my soule hath not bene polluted: for from my youth vp, euen vnto this houre, I haue not eaten of a thing dead, or torne in peeces, neither came there any [f] vncleane flesh in my mouth.

15 Then hee sayd vnto mee, Loe, I haue giuen thee bullocks [g] doung for mans doung, and thou shalt prepare thy bread therewith.

16 Moreouer, hee sayd vnto me, Sonne of man, beholde, I will breake [h] the staffe of bread in Ierusalem, and they shall eate bread by weight, and with care, and they shall drinke water by measure, and with astonishment.

17 Because that bread and water shall faile, they shalbe astonied one with another, and shall consume away for their iniquitie.

b To wit, of that citie which hee had pourtrayed vpon the bricke, Chap. 4.1. By the fire and pestilence he meaneth the famine, wherewith one part perished, during the siege of Nebuchad-nezzar. By the sword those that were slaine when Zedekiah fled, and those that were caried away captiue. And by the scattering into the winde, those that fledde into Egypt and into other partes after the citie was taken.
c Meaning, that a very few shoulde bee left, which the Lorde would preserue among all these stormes, but not without troubles, and trialls.

into wickednesse more then the nations, and my statutes more then the countries that are round about her: for they haue refused my iudgements and my statutes, and they haue not walked in them.

7 Therefore thus saieth the Lord God, Because your [f] multitude is greater then the nations that are rounde about you, and yee haue not walked in my statutes, neither haue yee kept my iudgements: no, yee haue not done according to the iudgements of the nations, that are round about you,

8 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, I, euen I come against thee, and will execute iudgement in the mids of thee, euen in the sight of the nations.

9 And I will doe in thee, that I neuer did before, neither will do any more the like, because of all thine abominations.

10 For in the middes of thee, the fathers *shall eate their sonnes, and the sonnes shall eate their fathers, and I will execute iudgement in thee, and the whole remnant of thee will I scatter into all the windes.

11 Wherefore, as I liue, saith the Lord God, Surely, because thou hast defiled my Sanctuarie with al thy filthinesse, and with all thine abominations, therefore will I also destroy thee, neither shall mine eye spare thee, neither will I haue any pitie.

12 The third part of thee shall die with the pestilence, and with famine shall they be consumed in the mids of thee: and another third part shall fall by the [g] swoorde rounde about thee; and I will scatter the last third part into all windes, and I will draw out a sword after them.

13 Thus shall mine anger bee accomplished, and I will cause my wrath to cease in them, and I will be [g] comforted: and they shall knowe, that I the Lord haue spoken it in my zeale, when I haue accomplished my wrath in them.

14 Moreouer, I will make thee waste, and abhorred among the nations, that are round about thee, and in the sight of all that passe by.

15 So thou shalt be a reproch and shame, a chastisment and an astonishment vnto the nations, that are round about thee, when I shall execute iudgements in thee, in anger and in wrath, and in sharpe rebukes: I the Lord haue spoken it.

16 When I shall sende vpon them the [h] euill arrowes of famine, which shall bee for their destruction, and which I will sende to destroy you: and I will encrease the famine vpon you, and will breake your staffe of bread.

17 *So will I send vpon you famine, and euill beastes, and they shall spoile thee, and pestilence, and blood shall passe thorowe thee, and I will bring the sword vpon thee: I the Lord haue spoken it.

CHAP. VI.

1 He sheweth that Ierusalem shalbe destroyed for their idolatrie. 8 He propheseth the repentance of the remnant of the people, and their deliuerance.

AGaine the word of the Lorde came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, Set thy face towards the *mountaines of Israel, and propheste against them,

3 And say, Yee mountaines of Israel, heare the word of the Lord God: thus sayth the Lord God to the [a] mountaines and to the hilles, to the riuers and to the valleys, Beholde, I, euen I will bring a sword vpon you, and I will destroy your hie places:

4 And your altars shall be desolate, and your images of the [b] sunne shall bee broken: and I will cast downe your slaine men before your idoles.

5 And I wil lay the dead carkeises of the children Israel before their [c] idoles, and I will scatter your bones rounde about your altars.

6 In all your dwelling places the cities shall be desolate, and the hie places shall be layde waste, so that your altars shall bee made waste and desolate, and your idoles shall be broken, and cease, and your images of the sunne shall be cut in peeces, and your workes shalbe abolished.

7 And the slaine shall fall in the mids of you, and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

8 Yet will I leaue a remnant, [d] that you may haue some that shall escape the swoorde among the nations, when you shalbe scattered through the countreys.

9 And they that escape of you shall remember mee among the nations, where they shalbe in captiuitie, because I am grieued for their whorish hearts, which haue departed from me, and for their eyes, which haue gone a whoring after their idoles, and they [e] shall be displeased in themselues for the euils, which they haue committed in all their abominations.

10 And they shall knowe that I am the Lord, and that I haue not said in vaine, that I would doe this euill vnto them.

11 Thus sayth the Lorde God, [f] Smite with thine hand, and stretch forth with thy foote, and say, Alas, for all the wicked abominations of the house of Israel: for they shall fall by the swoorde, by the famine, and by the pestilence.

12 He that is farre off shall die of the pestilence, and he that is neere, shall fall by the swoord, and hee that remaineth and is besieged, shall die by the famine: thus will I accomplish my wrath vpon them.

13 Then ye shall knowe, that I am the Lord, when their slaine men shalbe among their idoles round about their altars, vpon euery hie hill in all the tops of the mountaines, and vnder euery greene tree, and vnder euery thicke oake, which is the place where they did offer sweete sauour to all their idoles.

14 So will I *stretch mine hand vpon them, and make the land waste, and desolate [h] from the wildernesse vnto Diblath in all their habitations, and they shall knowe, that I am the Lord.

CHAP. VII.

The ende of all the land of Israel shall suddenly come.

MOreouer the worde of the Lorde came vnto me, saying,

2 Also a I will punish thee as thou hast deserued for thine idolatrie.

[Or, behold, euill commeth after euill.

b He sheweth that the iudgement of God euer watch to destroy the sinners, which notwithstanding he delayeth till there be no more hope of repentance.

d Which was a voyce of ioy and mirth.

f That is, the proude tyrant Nebuchad-nezzar hath gathered his force and is readie.

g This cruel enemie shall be a sharpe scourge for their wickednesse.

h Their owne affliction shalbe so great, that they shall haue no regard to lament for others.

k For he shall loose nothing.

l In the yeere of the Iubile, meaning that none should enioy the priuiledge of the law, Leuit 25.13. for they should all be caried away captiues.

m This vision signified, that all should be caried away, and none should returne for the Iubile.

n No man for all this endeuoureth himselfe, or taketh heart to repent for his euill life. Some reade, for none shalbe strengthened in his iniquitie of his life: meaning, that they should gaine nothing by flattering themselues in euill. o The Israelites made a brag, but their hearts failed them. Isa.13.7.iere.6.24.Isa.13.7.ezec.48.17.

2 Also thou sonne of man, thus saith the Lord God, An end is come vnto the land of Israel: the end is come vpon the foure corners of the land.

3 Now is the ende come vpon thee, and I will send my wrath vpon thee, and will iudge thee according to thy wayes, and will lay vpon thee all thine abominations.

4 Neither shall mine eye spare thee, neither will I haue pitie: but I will lay thy wayes vpon thee: and thine abomination shalbe in the middes of thee, and ye shall knowe that I am the Lord.

5 Thus saith the Lorde God, [a] Behold, one euill, euen one euill is come.

6 An ende is come, the ende is come, it [b] watcheth for thee: behold, it is come.

7 The [c] morning is come vnto thee, that dwellest in the lande: the time is come, the day of trouble is neere, and not the [d] sounding againe of the mountaines.

8 Now I will shortly powre out my wrath vpon thee, and fulfil mine anger vpon thee: I will iudge thee according to thy wayes, and will lay vpon thee all thine abominations.

9 Neither shall mine eye spare thee, neither will I haue pitie, but I will lay vpon thee according to thy wayes, and thine abominations shalbe in the middes of thee, and ye shall know that I am the Lord that smiteth.

10 Beholde, the day, behold, it is come: the morning is gone forth, the [e] rod flourisheth: [f] pride hath budded.

11 [g] Crueltie is risen vp into a rodde of wickednesse: none of them shall remaine, nor of their riches, nor of any of theirs, neither shall there be [h] lamentation for them.

12 The time is come, the day draweth neere: let not the buyer reioyce, nor let him that selleth, [k] mourne: for the wrath is vpon all the multitude thereof.

13 For he that selleth, shall not [l] returne to that which is solde, although they were yet aliue: for the [m] vision was vnto all the multitude thereof, and they returned not, [n] neither doeth any encourage him selfe in the punishment of his life.

14 [o] They haue blowen the trumpet, and prepared all, but none goeth to the battell: for my wrath is vpon all the multitude thereof.

15 The swoorde is without, and the pestilence and the famine within: he that is in the fielde, shall die with the swoorde, and he that is in the citie, famine and pestilence shall deuoure him.

16 But they that flee away from them, shall escape, and shalbe in the mountaines, like the doues of the valleys: all they shall mourne, euery one for his iniquitie.

17 *All handes shalbe weake, and all knees shall fall away as water.

18 *They shall also girde them selues with sackecloth, and feare shall couer them, and shame shalbe vpon all faces, and baldnesse vpon their heads.

19 They shall cast their siluer in the streetes, and their gold shalbe cast farre off: their [*] siluer and their gold cannot deliuer them in the day of the wrath of the Lorde: they shall not satisfie their soules, neither fill their bowels, for this ruine is for their iniquitie.

20 He had also set the beautie of his [p] ornament in maiestie: but they made images of their abominations, and of their idoles therein: therefore haue I set it farre from them.

21 And I will giue it into the hands of the [q] strangers to be spoiled, and to the wicked of the earth to be robbed, and they shall pollute it.

22 My face will I turne also from them, and they shall pollute my [r] secrete place: for the destroyers shall enter into it, and defile it.

23 ¶ Make a [s] chaine: for the land is full of the [t] iudgement of blood, and the citie is full of crueltie.

24 Wherfore I will bring the most wicked of the heathen, and they shall possesse their houses: I will also make the pompe of the mightie to cease, and their [u] holy places shall be defiled.

25 When destruction commeth, they shall seeke peace, and shall not haue it.

26 Calamitie shall come vpon calamitie, and rumour shalbe vpon rumour: then shall they seeke a vision of the Prophet: but the Lawe shall perish from the Priest, and counsell from the Ancient.

27 The king shall mourne, & the prince shall bee clothed with desolation, and the handes of the people in the lande shall bee troubled: I will doe vnto them according to their wayes, and according to their iudgements will I iudge them, and they shall knowe that I am the Lord.

CHAP. VIII.

1 An appearance of the similitude of God. 3 Ezekiel is brought to Ierusalem in the Spirit. 6 The Lord sheweth the Prophet the idolatries of the house of Israel.

AND in the [a] first yere, in the [b] first moneth, and in the fifth day of the moneth, as I sate in mine house, and the Elders of Iudah sate before mee, the hande of the Lord God fell there vpon me.

2 Then I beheld, and loe, there was a likenesse, as the appearance of fire to looke to, from his loynes downeward, and from his loynes vpward, as the appearance of brightnesse, and like vnto amber.

3 And hee stretched out the likenesse of an hande, & tooke me by an hairie locke of mine head, and the Spirite lift mee vp betweene the earth, & the heauen, & brought mee [‡] by a Diuine [d] vision to Ierusalem, into the entrie of the inner [e] gate that lieth towarde the North, where remained the idole of [f] indignation, which prouoked indignation.

4 And beholde, the glorie of the God of Israel was there according to the vision, that I sawe in the fielde.

p Meaning, the sanctuarie.

q That is, of the Babylonians.

r Which signifieth the most holy place, wherinto none might enter but the hie Priest.

s Signifying, that they shoulde be bound and led away captiues.

t That is, of sinnes that deserue death.

u Which was the Temple, that was deuided into three partes, Psal.68.35.

b Which conteined part of August, and part of September.

c As Chap.1.27.

‡ Or, in the visions of God.

d Meaning, that he was thus caried, in spirit, and not in bodie.

e Which was the porch of ỹ court where the people assembled.

f So called because it prouoked Gods indignatiõ, which was the idole Baal.

g Read Cha.11.2

5 Then said he vnto me, Sonne of man, lift vp thine eyes nowe toward the North. So I lift vp mine eyes toward the North, and beholde, Northward, at the gate of the h altar, this idole of indignation was in the entrie.

6 He said furthermore vnto me, Sonne of man, seest thou not what they doe? euen the great abominations that the house of Israel committeth here to cause mee to depart from i my Sanctuarie? but yet turne thee and thou shalt see greater abominations.

7 And he caused me to enter at the gate of the court: and when I looked, beholde, an hole was in the wall.

8 Then said he vnto me, Sonne of man, digge nowe in the wall. And when I had digged in the wall, beholde, there was a doore.

9 And he sayde vnto me, Goe in, and beholde the wicked abominations that they doe here.

10 So I went in, and sawe, and behold, there was euery similitude of creeping things and k abominable beastes and all the idoles of the house of Israel painted vpon the wall round about.

11 And there stood before them seuentie men of the Ancients of l house of Israel, and in the middes of them stood Iaazaniah, the sonne of Shaphan, with euery man his censour in his hand, and the vapour of the incense went vp like m a cloude.

12 Then said he vnto me, Sonne of man, hast thou seene what the Ancients of the house of Israel n do in the darke, euery one in the chamber of his imagerie? for they say, The Lorde seeth vs not, the Lord hath forsaken the earth.

13 Againe he saide also vnto me, Turne thee againe, and thou shalt see greater abominations that they doe.

14 And hee caused me to enter into the entrie of the gate of the Lordes house, which was toward the North: and behold there sate women mourning for o Tammuz.

15 Then said he vnto me, Hast thou seene this, O sonne of man? Turne thee againe, and thou shalt see greater abominations then these.

16 And he caused me to enter into the inner court of the Lordes house, and beholde, at the doore of the Temple of the Lord, betweene the porch and the altar were about fiue and twentie men with their backs toward the Temple of the Lord, and their faces toward the East, and they worshipped the sunne, toward the East.

17 Then he said vnto me, Hast thou seene this, O sonne of man? Is it a small thing to the house of Judah to commit these abominations which they doe here? for they haue filled the land with crueltie, and haue returned to prouoke me: and loe, they haue cast out p stinke before their noses.

18 Therefore will I also execute my wrath: mine eye shal not spare them, neither will I haue pitie, and *though they cry in mine eares with a loude voyce, yet will I not heare them.

h That is, in the court, where the people had made an altar to Baal.

i For God will not be where idoles are.

k Which were forbidden in the Law, Leuit. 11.4.

l Thus they that should haue kept all the rest in the feare & true seruice of God, were the ringleaders to all abomination, and by their example pulled others from God.

m It was in such abundance.

n For besides their common idolatry, they had particular seruice, which they had in secret chambers.

o The Iewes write that this was a prophet of the idoles, who after his death was once a yeere mourned for in the night.

p Declaring that the censings, and seruice of the idolaters are but infection and vilanie before God. Pro.1.28. Isa.46. Ierem.11.11. Micah.3.4.

CHAP. IX.

1 The destruction of the citie. 4 They that shal be saued, are marked. 8 A complaint of the Prophet for the destruction of the people.

HE cried also with a loud voyce in mine eares, saying, The visitations of a the citie drawe neere, and euery man hath a weapon in his hand to destroy it.

2 And beholde, sixe b men came by the way of the hie gate, which lieth toward the North, and euery man a weapon in his hande to destroy it: and one man among them was clothed with linen, with a writers c pinkehorne by his side, and they went in and stoode beside the brasen altar.

3 And the glory of the God of Israel was d gone vp from the Cherub, whereupon hee was, and stoode on the ‖ doore of the house, and hee called to the man clothed with linen, which had the writers pinkehorne by his side.

4 And the Lorde sayde vnto him, Goe through the midst of the citie, euen through the middes of Ierusalem, and ‖ set a marke vpon the foreheads of them that e mourne, and cry for all the abominations that bee done in the middes thereof.

5 And to the other he sayd, that I might heare, Goe yee after him through the citie, and smite: let your eye spare none, neither haue pitie.

6 Destroy vtterly the olde, and the yong, and the maydes, and the children, and the women, but touch no man, vpon whom is the f marke, and beginne at my Sanctuarie. Then they began at the h Ancient men, which were before the house.

7 And hee sayde vnto them, Defile the house, and fill the courtes with the slaine, then go forth: and they went out, and slewe them in the citie.

8 Now when they had slaine them, and I had escaped, I fell downe vpon my face, and cried, saying, Ah Lord God, wilt thou destroy all the residue of Israel, in powring out thy wrath vpon Ierusalem?

9 Then sayde he vnto me, The iniquity of the house of Israel, and Iudah is exceeding great, so that the land is full of blood, and the citie full of corrupt iudgement: for they say, The Lord hath forsaken the earth, and the Lord seeth vs not.

10 As touching me also, mine eye shall not spare them, neither will I haue pitie, but will recompense their wayes vpon their heads.

11 And beholde, the man clothed with linen which had the pinkehorne by his side, made report, and said, Lord, I haue done as thou hast commanded me.

a The citie to take vengeance.

b Which were Angels in the similitude of men.

c Signifying, that the Babylonians shoulde come from the North to destroy the citie and the Temple.

d To make them that should be saued.

e Which declared, that he was not bound thereunto, neyther would remaine any longer, then there was hope that they would returne from their wickednesse, and worthippe him aright.

f He sheweth what is the manner of Gods children, whom he marketh to saluation: to wit, to mourne and crie out against the wickednesse, which they see committed against Gods glorie.

g Thus in all his plagues the Lord preserueth his small nomber, which he marketh, as Exod. 12.22. Reue. 7.3. but the chiefe marke is the Spirite of adoption, wherewith the heart is sealed vp to life euerlasting. h Which were the chief occasion of all these euils, as Chap. 8.11. i This declareth, that the seruants of God haue a compassion, when they see his iudgements executed. k That is, with all kinde of wickednesse, reade Isa. 1.15.

CHAP. X.

1 Of the man that tooke hote burning coales out of the middle of the wheeles of the Cherubims. 8 A rehearsall of the vision of the wheeles, of the beasts, and of the Cherubims.

And

a Which in the first chap.vers. 5. he called the foure beasts.

AND as I looked, behold, in the * firmament that was above the heade of the a Cherubims, there appeared vpon them like vnto the similitude of a throne, as it were a saphir stone.

2 And hee spake vnto the man clothed with linnen, and saide, Go in betweene the wheeles, euen vnder the Cherub, & fil thine handes with coales of fire from betweene the Cherubims, and scatter them ouer b the citie. And he went in my sight.

b This signified that the citie should be burnt.

3 Nowe the Cherubims stood vpon the right side of the house when the man went in, and the cloude filled the inner court.

c Meaning, that the glorie of God should depart from the Temple.

4 Then the glorie of the Lord c went vp from the Cherub, and stoode ouer the doore of the house, and the house was filled with the cloude, and the court was filled with the brightnesse of the Lords glorie.

d Reade Chap. 1.24.

5 And d sound of the Cherubims wings was heard into the vter court, as the voice of the Almighty God, when he speaketh.

6 And when hee had commaunded the man clothed with linnen, saying, Take fire from betweene the wheeles, and from betweene the Cherubims, then he went in & stoode beside the wheele.

7 And one Cherub stretched forth his hand from betweene the Cherubims vnto the fire, that was betweene the Cherubims, and tooke thereof, and put it into the handes of him that was clothed with linnen: who tooke it and went out.

8 And there appeared in the Cherubims, the likenesse of a mans hande vnder their wings.

9 And when I looked vp, behold, foure wheeles were beside the Cherubims, one wheele by one Cherub, and another wheele by another Cherub, and the appearance of the wheeles was as the colour of a e Chrysolite stone.

e Reade Chap. 1.16.

10 And their appearance (for they were all foure of one fashion) was as if one wheele had bene in another wheele.

11 When they went forth, they went vpon their foure sides, and they returned not as they went: but to the place whither the first went, they went after it, and they returned not as they went.

f Vntill they had executed Gods iudgements.

12 And their whole bodie, and their frings, and their handes, and their wings, and the wheeles were full of eyes rounde about, euen in the same foure wheeles.

13 And the cherub cryed to these wheeles in mine hearing, saying, O wheele.

14 And euery beast had foure faces: the first face was the face of a Cherub, and the second face was the face of a man, and the third the face of a lion, and the fourth the face of an Eagle.

15 And the Cherubims were lifted vp: this is the beast that I sawe at the riuer Chebar.

Chap.1.5.

16 And when the Cherubims went, the wheeles went by them: and when the Cherubims lift vp their wings to mount vp from the earth, the same wheeles also turned not from beside them.

17 When the Cherubims stood, they stood: and when they were lifted vp, they lifted themselues vp also: for the g spirite of the beast was in them.

g There was one consent betweene the Cherubims and the wheeles 18 h Then the glorie of the Lord departed from aboue the doore of the house, & stoode vpon the Cherubims.

h Reade Chap. 9.3.

19 And the Cherubims lift vp their wings, and mounted vp from the earth in my sight: when they went out, the wheeles also were beside them: and euery one stoode at the entrie of the gate of the Lords house at the East side, and the glorie of the God of Israel was vpon them on high.

20 * This is the beast that I sawe vnder the God of Israel by the riuer Chebar, and I knewe that they were the Cherubims.

Chap.1.15.

i That is, the whole body of the foure beasts, or Cherubims.

21 Euery one had foure faces, and euery one foure wings, and the likenesse of mans hands was vnder their wings.

22 And the likenesse of their faces was the selfe same faces, which I saw by the riuer Chebar, and the appearance of the Cherubims was the selfe same, and they went euery one straight forward.

CHAP. XI.

1 Who they were that seduced the people of Israel. 5 Against these he propheceth, shewing them how they shalbe dispersed abroad. 19 The renuing of the heart commeth of God. 21 Hee threatneth them that leane vnto their owne counsels.

MOreouer, the Spirite lift mee vp, and brought mee vnto the East gate of the Lordes house, which lieth Eastward, and beholde, at the entrie of the gate were fiue and twentie men: among whome I sawe Iaazaniah the sonne of Azur, and Pelatiah the sonne of Benaiah, the princes of the people.

a Thus the wicked derided the Prophets, as though they preached but errors, and therfore gaue themselues ful to their pleasures.

2 Then said he vnto me, Sonne of man, these are the men that imagine mischefe, and deuise wicked counsell in this citie.

3 For they say, a It is not neere, let vs build houses: this citie is the b caldron, and we be the flesh.

b We shal not be pulled out of Ierusalem, till the houre of our death come, as the flesh is not taken out of the caldron till it bee sod.

4 Therefore prophecie against them, sonne of man, prophecie.

5 And the Spirit of the Lorde fell vpon me, and said vnto me, Speake, Thus saith the Lord, O ye house of Israel, this haue ye sayde, and I know that which riseth vp of your mindes.

6 Many haue ye murthered in this citie, and ye haue filled the streetes thereof with the slaine.

c Contrary to their vaine confidence he sheweth in what sense this citie is the caldron: that is, because of the dead bodies that haue beene murthered therein, and so lie as flesh in the caldron.

7 Therefore thus saith the Lorde God, They that ye haue slaine, and haue layd in the middes of it, they are the flesh, and this citie is the caldron, but I wil bring you forth of the middes of it.

8 Ye haue feared the sword, and I wil bring a sword vpon you, saith the Lord God.

9 And I wil bring you out of the middes thereof, and deliuer you into the d handes of strangers, and will execute iudgements among you.

d That is, of the Caldeans.

10 Ye shal fal by the sworde, and I will iudge you in the border of e Israel, and ye shall knowe that I am the Lord.

e That is, in Riblah, Reade 2. King. 25.6.

11 This citie shall not bee your caldron, neither shal ye be the flesh in the middes thereof, but I wil iudge you in the border of Israel, 12 And ye shal know that I am þ Lord: for ye haue not walked in my statutes, neither executed my iudgements, but haue done after the maners of the heathen that are round about you.

13 ¶ And when I prophecied, Pelatiah the sonne of e Benaiah dyed: then fell I downe vpon my face, and cryed with a loude voyce, and sayde, Ah Lord God, wilt thou then vtterly destroy al the remnant of Israel?

14 Againe the word of the Lorde came vnto me, saying,

15 Sonne of man, thy brethren, euen thy brethren, the men of thy kinred, and all the house of Israel, whom are they vnto whom the inhabitants of Ierusalem haue sayde, Depart ye far from the Lord: for the land is giuen vs in possession.

16 Therefore say, Thus sayeth the Lord God, Although I haue cast them farre off among the heathen, and although I haue scattered them among the countries, yet wil I be to them as a little h Sanctuarie in the countreyes where they shall come.

17 Therefore say, Thus sayeth the Lord God, I will gather you againe from the people, and assemble you out of the countreis where ye haue bene scattered, and I will giue you the land of Israel.

18 And they shall come thither, and they shal take away all the idoles thereof, and al the abominations thereof from thence.

19 *And I wil giue them one heart, and I will put a newe spirit within their bowels: and I will take the i stonie heart out of their bodies, and wil giue them an heart of flesh, 20 That they may walke in my statutes, and kepe my iudgements, and execute them: and they shal be my people, and I wil be their God.

21 But vpon them, whose heart is toward their idoles, and whose affection goeth after their abominations, I will laye their way vpon their owne heades, sayeth the Lord God.

22 ¶ Then did þ Cherubims lift vp their wings, and the wheeles beside them, and the glory of the God of Israel was vpon them on hie.

23 And the glory of the Lorde went vp from the middes of the citie, & stoode vpon the mountaine which is toward the East side of the citie.

24 Afterward the Spirit tooke me vp, and brought me in a vision by þ Spirit of God into Caldea to them that were led away captiues: so the vision that I had seene, went vp from me.

25 Then I declared vnto them that were k led away captiues, all the things that the Lord had shewed me.

CHAP. XII.

1 The parable of the captiuitie. 18 Another parable wherby the distresse of hunger & thirst is signified

THe worde of the Lorde also came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, thou dwellest in the middes of a rebellious house, which haue eyes to see, and see not: they haue eares to heare, and heare not: for they are a rebellious house.

3 Therefore thou sonne of man, ‡ prepare thy stuffe to go into captiuitie, and go forth by day in their sight: and thou shalt passe from thy place to another place in their sight, if it be possible that they may consider it: for they are a rebellious house.

4 Then shalt thou bring forth thy stuffe by day in their sight as the stuffe of him that goeth into captiuitie: and thou shalt go forth at euen in their sight, as they that goe forth vnto captiuitie.

5 Digge thou through the wall in their sight, and carry out thereby.

6 In their sight shalt thou beare it vpon thy shoulders, & carry it forth in the darke: thou shalt couer thy face that thou see not the earth: for I haue set thee as a b signe vnto the house of Israel.

7 And as I was commanded, so I brought forth my stuffe by day, as the stuffe of one that goeth into captiuitie: and by night I digged through the wall with mine hande, and brought it forth in the darke, and I bare it vpon my shoulder in their sight.

8 And in the morning came the word of the Lord vnto me, saying,

9 Sonne of man, hath not the house of Israel, the rebellious house, saide vnto thee, What c doest thou?

10 But say thou vnto them, Thus sayeth the Lord God, This ‖ burden concerneth the chiefe in Ierusalem, and al the house of Israel that are among them.

11 Say, I am your signe: like as I haue done, so shal it be done vnto them: they shal goe into bondage and captiuitie.

12 And the chiefest that is among them, shall beare vpon his shoulder in the darke, and shall goe forth: they shall digge through the wall, to carry out thereby: he shal couer his face, that he see not the ground with his eyes.

13 My net also wil I spread vpon d him, and he shalbe taken in my net, and I will bring him to Babel to the land of the Caldeans, yet shall he not see it, though he shall die there.

14 And I will scatter towarde euerie winde all that are about him to helpe him, and all his garisons, and I will draw out the sword after them.

15 And they shall knowe that I am the Lord, when I shall scatter them among the nations, and disperse them in the countries.

16 But I wil leaue a e litle nomber of them from the sword, from the famine, and from the pestilence, that they may declare al these abominations among the heathen, where they come, and they shall know, that I am the Lord.

17 ¶ Moreouer, the worde of the Lorde came vnto me, saying,

18 Sonne of man, eate thy bread with trembling, and drinke thy water with trouble and with carefulnesse,

19 And say vnto the people of the land, Thus sayeth the Lorde God of the inhabitants of Ierusalem, and of the lande of Israel, They shall eate their bread with care-f It seemeth that this noble man died of some terrible death, and therefore the Prophet feare i some strange iudgement of God towarde the rest of the people.

g They that remained still at Ierusalem, thus reproched them that were gone into captiuitie, as though they were cast off and forsaken of God.

h They shall bee yet a little church, shewing that the Lorde wil euer haue some to call vpon his Name, whom hee will preserue and restore, though they be for a time afflicted. Iere. 32. 39. chap. 36. 26.

carefulnes, and drinke their water with desolation: for the land shall be desolate from her abundance because of the cruelitie of them that dwell therein.

20 And the cities that are inhabited, shal be left voyde, and the land shall be desolate, and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

21 ¶ And the woyde of the Lorde came vnto me, saying,

22 Sonne of man, what is that prouerbe that yon haue in the land of Israel, saying, The dayes ‖ are prolonged and all visions ‖ faile?

23 Tell them therefore, Thus sayth the Lorde God, I will make this prouerbe to cease, and they shal no more vse it as a prouerbe in Israel: but say vnto them, The dayes are at hand & the effect of euery visiō.

24 For no vision shall bee any more in vaine, neither shal there be any flattering diuination within the house of Israel.

25 For I am the Lorde: I will speake, & that thing that I shall speake, shal come to passe: it shall be no more prolonged: for in your dayes, O rebellious house, will I say the thing, and will performe it, saith the Lord God.

26 Againe the woyde of the Lorde came vnto me, saying,

27 Sonne of man, beholde, they of the house of Israel say, The vision that he seeth, is for g many dayes to come, and he prophecieth of the times that are farre off.

28 Therefore say vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God, All my woyds shall no longer be delaied, but that thing which I haue spoken, shalbe done, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XIII.

2 The woyde of the Lorde against false prophets, which teach the people the counsels of their owne hearts.

AND the woyde of the Lorde came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, prophecie against the prophets of Israel, that prophecie, and say thou vnto them, that prophecie out of their a owne hearts, Heare the woyd of the Lord.

3 Thus saith the Lorde God, Woe vnto the foolish prophets that follow their owne spirit, and haue seene nothing.

4 O Israel, thy prophets are like b foxes in the waste places.

5 c Ye haue not risen vp in the gappes, neither made vp the hedge for the house of Israel, to stand in the battell in the day of the Lord.

6 They haue seene vanitie, and lying diuination, saying, The Lord saith it, and the Lord hath not sent them: and they haue made others to hope that they would confirme the woyd of their prophecie.

7 Haue ye not seene a vaine vision? and haue ye not spoken a lying diuination? d ye say, The Lorde saith it, albeit I haue not spoken.

8 Therefore thus saith the Lorde God, Because ye haue spoken vanitie, and haue seene lyes, therefore beholde, I am against you, saith the Lord God, 9 And mine hand shall be vpon the prophets that see vanitie, and diuine lyes: they shall not be in e assembly of my people, neither shal they be written in the f writing of the house of Israel, neither shal they enter into the land of Israel: and ye shall knowe that I am the Lord God.

10 And therefore, because they haue deceiued my people, saying, g Peace, and there was no peace: and one built vp a wall, and beholde, the others daubed it with vntempered morter, 11 Say vnto them which daube it with vntempered morter, that it shall fall: for there shall come a great showre, and I will send hailestones, which shall cause it to fall, and a stormie winde shall breake it.

12 Loe, when the wall is fallen, shall it not be sayde vnto you, Where is the daubing wherewith ye haue daubed it?

13 Therefore thus sayth the Lord God, I will cause a stormie winde to breake forth in my wrath, and a great showre shall bee in mine anger, and hailestones in mine indignation to consume it.

14 So I will destroy the wall that ye haue daubed with vntempered morter, and bring it downe to the ground, so that the foundation thereof shall be discouered, and it shall fall, and ye shall be consumed in the middes thereof, and ye shall knowe, that I am the Lord.

15 Thus will I accomplish my wrath vpon the wall, and vpon them that haue daubed it with h vntempered morter, and will say vnto you, The wall is no more, neither the daubers thereof, 16 To wit, the Prophets of Israel, which prophecie vpon Jerusalem, and see visions of peace for it, and there is no peace, sayth the Lord God.

17 Likewise thou sonne of man, set thy face against the daughters of thy people, which prophecie out of their owne heart: and prophecie thou against them, and say,

18 Thus saith the Lord God, Woe vnto the women that sowe i pillowes vnder all armeholes, and make vailes vpon the head of euery one that standeth vp, to hunt soules: will ye hunt the soules of my people, and will ye saue life to the soules that come vnto you?

19 And will yee pollute me among my people for handfuls of barly, and for pieces of bread to slay the soules of them that should not dye, and k to saue life to the soules that should not liue, in lying to my people, that heare your lyes?

20 Wherefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will haue to do with your pillowes, wherewith yee hunt the m soules to make them to flie, and I will teare them from your armes, and will let the soules goe, euen the soules, that ye hunt to make them to flie.

21 Your vailes also will I teare, & deliuer my people out of your hand, & they shall be no more in your handes to bee hunted, and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

22 Because with your lies ye haue made the heart of the n righteous sad, whome I one according as they prophecied. m That is, to perish, and that they should depart from the body. them that were godly, and vpholding the wicked.

e That is, in the booke of life, wherein the true Israelites are written.

f Reade Iere. 6.14.

g Whereas the true Prophets prophecied the destruction of the citie to bring the people to repentance, the false prophets spake the contrary and flattered them in their vanities, so that what one false prophet sayde, (which is here called the building of the wall) another false prophet would affirme, though he had neither occasion nor good ground to beare him.

h Whereby is meant whatsoeuer man of himselfe setteth forth vnder the authoritie of Gods worde.

i These superstitious women for lucre would prophecie and tell euery man his fortune, giuing them pillowes to leane vpon, and kerchiefes to couer their heads, to the intent they might the more allure them and bewitch them.

k Will ye make my worde to serue your bellies?

l These sorcerers made the people beleeue that they could preserue life or destroy it, and that it should come to euery one as they deserued.

m That is, to cause them to perish.

CHAP. XIIII.

4 The Lord sendeth false prophets for the ingratitude of the people. 22 He reserueth a small portion for his Church.

THen came certaine of the Elders of Israel vnto me, and [a] sate before me.

2 And the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

3 Sonne of man, these men haue set vp their idoles in their [b] heart, & put the stumbling blocke of their iniquitie before their face: should I, being required, answere them?

4 Therefore speake vnto them, and say vnto them, Thus sayth the Lorde God, Euery man of the house of Israel that setteth vp his idoles in his heart, and putteth the stumbling blocke of his iniquitie before his face, and commeth to the [c] Prophet, I the Lord will answere him that commeth, according to the multitude [d] of his idoles:

5 That [e] I may take the house of Israel in their owne heart, because they are all departed from me through their idoles.

6 Therefore say vnto the house of Israel, Thus sayth the Lord God, Returne, and withdrawe your selues, and turne your faces from your idoles, and turne your faces from all your abominations.

7 For euery one of the house of Israel, or of the stranger that sojourneth in Israel, which departeth from mee, and setteth vp his idoles in his heart, & putteth the stumbling blocke of his iniquitie before his face, and commeth to a Prophet, for to inquire of him for mee, I the Lorde will answere him [f] for my selfe,

8 And I wil set my face against [g] man, and will make him an example and prouerbe, and I will cut him off from the middes of my people, and yee shall knowe that I am the Lord.

9 And if the prophet be [f] deceiued, when he hath spoken a thing, I the Lord haue deceiued that prophet, and I will stretch out mine hand vpon him, and will destroy him from the mids of my people of Israel.

10 And they shall beare their punishment: the punishment of the prophet shalbe euen as the punishment of him that asketh, 11 That the house of [g] Israel may goe no more astray from me, neither be polluted any more with all their transgressions, but that they may be my people, and I may be their God, saith the Lord God.

12 ¶ The word of the Lord came againe vnto me, saying,

13 Sonne of man, when the lande sinneth against me by committing a trespasse, then will I stretch out mine hand vpon it, [h] and will breake the staffe of the bread thereof, and will send famine vpon it, and I will destroy man and beast fourth of it.

14 Though these three men [i] Noah, Daniel, & Iob were among them, they should deliuer but their own soules by their [k] righteousnesse, saith the Lord God.

15 If I bring noysome beastes into the lande, and they spoyle it, so that it be desolate, that no man may passe through, because of beasts, 16 Though these three men were in the mids therof, As I liue, saith the Lord God, they shall saue neither sonnes nor daughters: they onely shall be deliuered, but the land shalbe waste.

17 Or if I bring a sword vpon this land, & say, Sword, goe through the land, so that I destroy man and beast out of it, 18 Though these three men were in the middes thereof, As I liue, sayth the Lorde God, they shall deliuer neither sonnes nor daughters, but they onely shal be deliuered themselues.

19 Or if I sende a pestilence into this land, and powre out my wrath vpon it in blood, to destroy out of it man and beast, 20 And though Noah, Daniel and Iob were in the middes of it, As I liue, sayth the Lorde God, they shall deliuer neither sonne nor daughter: they shall but deliuer their owne soules by their righteousnesse.

21 For thus sayth the Lord God, How much more when I sende my * foure sore iudgements vpon Ierusalem, euen [l] sword, and famine, and the noysome beast & pestilence, to destroy man and beast out of it?

22 Yet behold, therin shalbe left a [l] remnant of them that shalbe caried away both sonnes and daughters: beholde, they shall come forth vnto you, and yee shall see their way, and their enterprises: and ye shall be comforted, concerning the euill that I haue brought vpon Ierusalem, euen concerning all that I haue brought vpon it.

23 And they shall comfort you, when ye see their way and their enterprises: and ye shall knowe, that I haue not done without cause all that I haue done in it, saieth the Lord God.

As the vnprofitable wood of the vine tree is cast into the fire, so Ierusalem shall be burnt.

AND the worde of the Lorde came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, what commeth of the vine tree aboue all other trees? and of the vine branch, which is among [a] the trees of the forest?

3 Shall wood be taken thereof to doe any worke? or will men take a pinne of it to hang any vessell thereon?

4 Behold, it is cast in the fire to be consumed: the fire consumeth both the ends of it, and the middes of it is burnt. Is it meete for any worke?

5 Behold, when it was whole, it was meete

a He sheweth the hypocrisie of the idolaters, who will dissemble to heare the Prophets of God, though in their heart they follow nothing lesse then their admonitions, and also how by one meanes or other, God doth discouer them.

b They are not onely idolaters in heart, but also worship their filthie idoles openly, which leade them in blindnesse, and cause them to stumble, and cast them out of Gods fauour, so that he will not heare them when they call vnto him, reade Ier. 10.15.

CHAP. XVI.

The Prophet declareth the benefites of God toward Ierusalem. 15 Their vnkindnesse. 46 He iustifieth the wickednesse of other people in comparison of the sinnes of Ierusalem. 49 The cause of the abominations, into which the Sodomites fell. 60 Mercie is promised to the repentant.

a Thou boastest to be of the seede of Abraham, but thou art degenerate and followest the abominations of y wicked Canaanites, as children do the maners of their fathers, Isa.1.4. and 57.3.

AGaine, the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, cause Ierusalem to knowe her abominations,

3 And say, Thus saith the Lord God vnto Ierusalem, Thine habitation & thy kinred is of the land a of Canaan: thy father was an Amorite, & thy mother an Hittite.

4 And in thy nativitie when thou wast b borne, thy navel was not cut: thou wast not washed in water to soften thee: thou was not salted with salt, nor swadled in cloutes.

b When I first brought thee out of Egypt, and planted thee in this land to bee my Church.

5 None eye pitied thee to doe any of these vnto thee, for to haue compassion vpō thee, but thou wast cast out in the open fielde to the contempt of thy person in thy day that thou wast borne.

c Being thus in thy filthinesse & forsaken of all men, I tooke thee and gaue thee life: whereby is meant that before God wash his Church, and giue life, there is nothing but filthinesse and death.

6 And when I passed by thee, I sawe thee polluted in thine c owne blood, and I said vnto thee, whē thou wast in thy blood, Thou shalt liue: euen when thou wast in thy blood, I said vnto thee, Thou shalt liue.

7 I haue caused thee to multiplie, as ꝑ budde of the fielde, and thou hast increased and waxen great, and thou hast gotten excellent ornaments: thy breastes are facioned, thine haire is growen, whereas thou wast naked and bare.

8 Now when I passed by thee, and looked vpon thee, beholde, thy time was as the time of loue, and I spread my skirtes ouer thee, and couered d thy filthinesse: yea, I sware vnto thee, & entred into a couenant with e thee, saith the Lord God, and thou becamest mine.

d These wordes, as blood, pollution, nakednesse, and filthinesse, are oftentimes repeated, to beate downe their pride, and to cause them to consider what they were before God receiued them to mercie, fauoured them, and couered their shame.

9 Then washed I thee with f water: yea, I washed away thy blood from thee, & I g anoynted thee with oyle.

e That thou shouldest bee a chaste wife vnto mee, and that I should maintaine thee & endue thee with all graces.

f I washed away thy sinnes.

10 I clothed thee also with broydred worke, and shod thee with badgers skinne: and I girded thee about with fine linnen, and I couered thee with silke.

g I sanctified thee with mine holy spirite.

11 I decked thee also with ornaments, and I put bracelets vpon thine hands, and a chaine on thy necke.

12 And I put a frontlet vpon thy face, and earerings in thine eares, & a beautifull b crowne vpon thine head.

h Hereby he sheweth how he saued his church, enriched it, and gaue it power & dominion to reigne.

13 Thus wast thou decked with gold and siluer, and thy rayment was of fine linen, and silke, and broidred worke: thou diddest eate fine floure, and hony and oyle, & thou wast very beautiful, and thou diddest grow vp into a kingdome, i He declareth wherein the dignitie of Ierusalem stoode: to wit, in that that the Lorde gaue them of his beautie and excellencie.

14 And thy name was spread among the heathen for thy beautie: for it was perfect through my i beautie which I had set vpon thee, saith the Lord God.

15 Mowe thou diddest k trust in thine owne beautie, and playedst the harlot, because of thy renowne, and hast powred out l thy fornications on euery one that passed by, thy desire was to him.

k In abusing my gifts, and in putting thy confidence in thine owne wisedome and dignitie, which were the occasions of thine idolatrie.

16 And thou diddest take thy garments, and deckedst thine hie places with diuers colours, m and playedst the harlot thereupon: the like things shall not come, neither hath any done so.

l There was none idolatrie so vile, wherewith thou diddest not pollute thy selfe.

17 Thou hast also taken thy faire iewels made of my gold and of my siluer, which I had giuen thee, and n madest to thy selfe images of men, and diddest commit whoredome with them, m This declareth howe the idolaters put their chiefe delite in those things, which please the eyes and outward senses.

18 And tookest thy broidred garments, and coueredst them: and thou hast set mine oyle and my perfume before them.

19 My meate also, which I gaue thee, as fine floure, oyle and hony, wherewith I fedde thee, thou hast euen set it before them for a sweet sauour: thus it was, saith ꝑ Lord god.

n Thou hast conuerted my vessels & instruments, which I gaue thee to serue mee with, to the vse of thine idoles.

20 Moreouer thou hast taken thy sonnes and thy daughters, whom thou hast borne vnto me, and these hast thou sacrificed vnto them, to o be deuoured: is this thy whoredome a small matter?

o Meaning, by fire, reade Leuit. 18.21.2.King. 23.10.

21 That thou hast slaine my children, & deliuered thē to cause them to passe through fire for them?

22 And in all thine abominations and whoredomes thou hast not remembred the dayes of thy youth, when thou wast naked, and bare, & wast polluted in thy blood.

23 And beside all thy wickednesse, (Wo, wo vnto thee, saith the Lord God.)

24 Thou hast also built vnto thee an hie place, and hast made thee an hie place in euery streete.

25 Thou hast built thine hie place at euery ‖ corner of the way, and hast made thy beautie to be abhorred: thou hast opened thy feete to euery one that passed by, and multiplied thy whoredome.

p He noteth the great impietie of this people, who first falling from God to seeke helpe at strange nations, did also at length imbrace their idolatrie, thinking thereby to make their amitie more strong.

26 Thou hast also committed fornication with the p Egyptians thy neighbours, which haue great members, and hast encreased thy whoredome, to prouoke me.

27 Beholde, therefore I did stretch out mine hand ouer thee, & will diminish thine ordinarie, and deliuer thee vnto the will of them that hate thee, euen to the ‖ daughters of the Philistims, which are ashamed of thy wicked way.

28 Thou hast played ꝑ whore also with the Assyrians, because thou wast insatiable: yea, thou hast played the harlot with them, and yet couldest not be satisfied.

29 Thou hast moreouer multiplied thy fornication from the lande of Canaan vnto Caldea, and yet thou wast not satisfied herewith.

30 How weake is thine heart, saith the Lord God, seeing thou doest all these things, euen the worke of a ‖ presumptuous whorish woman?

‖ Or, that will beare rule.

31 In that thou buildest thine hie place in the corner of euery way, & makest thine hie place in euerie streete, and hast not bene as an harlot q that despiseth a rewarde, q Meaning, that some harlots contemne small rewardes, but no louers gaue a reward to Israel, but they gaue to al others: signifying, that the idolaters bestowe all their substance, which they receiue of God for his glorie, to serue their vile abominations.

32 But as a wife that playeth the harlot, and taketh others for her husband:

33 They giue gifts to all other whores, but thou giuest gifres vnto all thy louers, and rewardest them, that they may come vnto thee on euery side for thy fornication.

34 And the contrarie is in thee from other women in thy fornications, neither the like fornication shall bee after thee: for in that thou giuest a rewarde, and no reward is giuen vnto thee, therefore thou art contrarie.

35 Wherefore, O harlot, heare the word of the Lord.

36 Thus saith the Lord God, Because thy ‖ shame was powred out, and thy filthinesse discouered through thy fornications with thy louers, and with all the idoles of thine abominations, and by the blood of thy children, which thou biddest offer vnto them,

37 Beholde, therefore I will gather all r thy louers, with whome thou hast taken pleasure, and all them that thou hast loued, with all them that thou hast hated: I will euen gather them rounde about against thee, and will discouer thy filthinesse vnto them, that they may see all thy filthinesse.

r Egyptians, Assyrians and Caldeans, whom thou tookest to be thy louers, shall come and destroy thee. Chap. 23.9.

38 And I will iudge thee after the maner of them that are f harlots, and of them that shead bloud, and I will giue thee the blood of wrath and iealousie.

f I will iudge thee to death, as the adulteres and murtherers.

39 I will also giue thee into their hands, and they shall destroy thine hie place, and shal breake downe thine hie places: they shall strip thee also out of thy clothes, and shall take thy faire iewels, and leaue thee naked and bare.

40 They shall also bring vp a companie against thee, and they shal stone thee with stones, and thrust thee through with their swordes.

41 And they* shall burne vp thine houses with fire, & execute iudgements vpon thee in the sight of many women: and I will cause thee to cease from playing the harlot, and thou shalt giue no reward any more.

2. King. 25.9.

42 So will I make my wrath towarde thee to rest, and my t iealousie shall depart from thee, and I will cease and be no more angrie.

t I will vtterly destroy thee, and so my iealousie shall cease.

43 Because thou hast not remembred the dayes of thy youth, but hast prouoked mee with all these thinges, beholde, therefore I also haue u brought thy way vpon thine head, saith the Lord God: yet hast not thou had consideration of al thine abominations.

u I haue punished thy faultes, but thou wouldest not repent, 44 Beholde, all that vse prouerbes, shall vse this prouerbe against thee, saying, As is the mother, x so is her daughter.

x As were the Canaanites, and the Hittites and others your predecessours, so are you their successours.

45 Thou art thy mothers daughter, that hath cast off her husband and her children, and thou art the sister of thy y sisters, which forsooke their husbands and their children: your mother is an Hittite, and your father an Amorite.

y That is, of Samaria and Sodom.

z That is, her cities.

‡ Ebr. thy sister yonger then thou.

47 Yet hast thou a not walked after their wayes, nor done after their abominations: but as it had bene a verie little thing, thou wast corrupted more then they in all thy wayes.

a But done farre worse.

48 As I liue, saith the Lorde God, Sodom thy sister hath not done, neither she nor her daughters, as thou hast done and thy daughters.

b He alledgeth these foure vices, pride, excesse, idlenesse, and contempt of the poore, as foure principall causes of such abomination, wherefore they were so horribly punished, Gen. 19.24.

49 Behold, this was the iniquitie of thy sister Sodom, b Pride, fulnes of bread, and abundance of idlenes was in her, and in her daughters: neither did she strengthen the hand of the poore and needie.

50 But they were hautie, and committed abomination before mee: therefore I tooke them away, as pleased me.

c Which worshipped the calues in Bethel and Dan.

51 Neither c hath Samaria committed halfe of thy sinnes, but thou hast exceeded them in thine abominations, and hast d iustified thy sisters in al thine abominations, which thou hast done.

d Thou art so wicked, that in respect of thee, Sodom and Samaria were iust.

52 Therefore thou which hast iustified thy sisters, beare thine owne shame for thy sinnes, that thou hast committed more abominable then they which are more righteous then thou art: be thou therefore confounded also, and beare thy shame, seeing that thou hast iustified thy sisters.

e This he speaketh in comparison, saying, that he would restore Ierusalem when Sodome should be restored, that is, neuer: and this is meant of the greatest part of the Iewes.

53 Therefore I will bring againe e their captiuitie with the captiuitie of Sodome, & her daughters, and with the captiuitie of Samaria, and her daughters: euen the captiuitie of thy captiues in the mids of them, 54 That thou maiest beare thine owne shame, and mayest be confounded in al that thou hast done, in that thou hast f comforted them.

f In that thou hast shewed thy selfe worse then they, and yet thoughtest to escape punishment.

55 And thy sister Sodome & her daughters shall returne to their former state: Samaria also and her daughters shall returne to their former state, g when thou and thy daughters shall returne to your former state.

g Meaning, that it shoulde neuer come to passe.

56 For thy sister Sodom was not heard of h by thy report in the day of thy pride, ‡ Eb. was not a rumour in thy mouth.

57 Before thy wickednes was i discouered, as in that same time of the reproche of the daughters of Aram, and of al k daughters of the Philistims round about k her which despise thee on all sides.

h Thou wouldest not call her punishment to minde when thou wast aloft, to learne by her example to feare my iudgements. i That is, till thou wast brought vnder by the Syrians and Philistims, 2. Chron. 28.19. k Which ioyned with the Syrians, or compassed about Ierusalem.

l When thou brakest the couenant, which was made betweene thee and me, as verse 8.

m That is, of mercie and loue I will pitie thee, and so stand to my couenant, though thou hast deserued the contrary.

n Whereby he sheweth that among the most wicked he had euer some seede of his Church which he would cause to fructifie in due time: and here he declareth howe hee will call the Gentiles.

o But of my free mercie.

p This declareth what fruites Gods mercies worke in his, to wit, sorowe, and repentance for their former life.

58 Thou hast borne therefore thy wickednesse, & thine abommination, saith the Lord.

59 For thus saith the Lord God, I might euen deale with thee, as thou hast done: when thou didst despise the l othe, in breaking the couenant.

60 Neuertheles, I will m remember my couenant made with thee in the dayes of thy youth, and I will confirme vnto thee an euerlasting couenant.

61 Then thou shalt remember thy waies, and be ashamed, when thou shalt receiue n thy sisters, both thy elder and thy ponger, and I will giue them vnto thee for daughters, but not o by thy couenant.

62 And I will establish my couenaunt with thee, and thou shalt know that I am the Lord, 63 That thou mayest remember, and be p ashamed, and neuer open thy mouth any more: because of thy shame when I am pacified toward thee, for all that thou hast done, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XVII.

The parable of the two Egles.

2 That is, Nebuchad-nezzar, who hath great power, riches, and many countries vnder him, shal come to Ierusalem, and take away Ieconiah the king, as verse 12.

b Meaning, to Babylon.

c That is, Zedekiah, who was of the kings blood, and was left at Ierusalem, and made king in steade of Ieconiah, 2. King. 24. 17. iere. 37. 1.

d This was Zedekiahs kingdome.

e That it might not haue power to rebell against Babylon, as verse 14.

f Meaning, the king of Egypt, of whom Zedekiah sought succour against Nebuchad-nezzar.

g They thought to be moystened by the waters of Nilus.

h Shall not Nebuchad-nezzar destroy it?

AND the word of the Lorde came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, put forth a parable and speake a prouerbe vnto the house of Israel,

3 And say, Thus saith the Lorde God, The great a egle with great wings, & long wings, and full of feathers, which had diuers colours, came vnto Lebanon, and tooke the hiest branch of the cedar,

4 And brake off the toppe of his twigge, and caried it into the land b of marchants, and set it in a citie of marchants.

5 He tooke also of the seede c of the land, and planted it in a fruitfull ground: he placed it by great waters, and set it as a willow tree.

6 And it budded vp, & was d like a spreading vine of e lowe stature, whose branches turned toward it, and the rootes thereof were vnder it: so it became a vine, and it bringht forth branches, & shot forth buds.

7 There was also f another great egle with great wings and many feathers, and beholde, this vine did turne her rootes toward it, and spread foorth her branches toward it, that shee might water it by the trenches of her plantation.

8 It was planted in a good soyle by great g waters, that it should bring foorth branches, and beare fruite, and be an excellent vine.

9 Say thou, Thus saith the Lorde God, Shall it prosper? shall h he not pul vp the rootes thereof, and destroy the fruite thereof, and cause them to die? all the leaues of her bud shal wither without great power, or many people, to pluck it vp by the roots thereof.

10 Beholde, it was planted: but shall it prosper? shall it not be dried vp, and wither? when the East winde shall touch it, it shall wither in the trenches, where it grewe.

i By this drie winde, he meaneth the Babylonians.

11 Moreouer, the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

12 Say nowe to this rebellious house, Know ye not, what these things meane? tell them, Behold, the King of Babel is come to Ierusalem, and hath taken k the King thereof, and the princes thereof, and led them with him to Babel, k That is, Ieconiah, 2. King. 24. 15.

13 And hath taken one of the kings seed, and made a couenant with him, and hath taken an l othe of him: her hath also taken the princes of the land, l For his subiection & obedience.

14 That the kingdome might be in subiection, and not lift it selfe vp, but keepe their couenant, and stand to it.

15 But he rebelled against him, and sent his ambassadours into Egypt, that they might giue him horses, and much people: shall hee prosper? shall he escape, that doeth such things? or shal he breake the couenant, and be deliuered?

16 As I liue, saith the Lord God, he shal die in the middes of Babel, in the place of the King, that had made him King, whose othe he despised, and whose couenant made with him, he brake.

17 Neither shall Pharaoh with his mightie hoste, and great multitude of people, maintaine him in the warre, when they haue cast vp mounts, and builded ramparts to destroy many persons.

m Because he tooke the Name of God in vaine, and brake his oth which he had confirmed by giuing his hand, therefore the Prophet declareth that God would not suffer such periurie and infidelitie to escape punishment. Chap. 12. 13. and 32. 3.

18 For he hath despised the othe, & broken the couenant (yet loe, he had giuen m his hand) because he hath done all these things, he shall not escape.

19 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, As I liue, I will surely bring mine othe that he hath despised, and my couenant that he hath broken, vpon his owne head.

20 * And I will spread my nette vpon him, and he shalbe taken in my nette, and I wil bring him to Babel, and wil enter into iudgement with him there for his trespasse that he hath committed against me.

21 And all that flee from him with all his hoste, shall fall by the swoorde, and they that remaine, shall be scattered toward all the windes: and ye shall knowe that I the Lord haue spoken it.

n This promes is made to the Church which shall be as a small remnant, and as the top of a tree.

22 Thus saith the Lord God, I wil also take off the toppe n of this hie cedar, and wil set it, and cut off the o toppe of the tender plant thereof, and I will plant it vpon an hie mountaine and great.

o I will trimme it and dresse it.

23 Euen in the hie mountaine of Israel wil I plant it: & it shal bring forth boughs and beare fruite, and be an excellent cedar, and vnder it shall remaine all byrds, and euery p fowle shall dwel in the shadow of the branches thereof.

p Both the Iewes and Gentiles shal be gathered into it.

24 And all the q trees of the fielde shall know that I the Lord haue brought downe the hie tree, and exalted the lowe tree: that I haue dried vp the greene tree, and made the drie tree to flourish: I the Lord haue spoken it, and haue done it.

q All the worlde shall knowe that I haue pluckt downe the proud enemies, and set vp my Church which was low and contemned.

CHAP. XVIII.

He sheweth that euery man shal beare his owne sinne.

sinne. 21 To him that amendeth, is salvation promised. 24 Death is prophecied to the righteous, which turneth backe from the right way.

THe worde of the Lorde came vnto me againe, saying,

2 What meane yee that yee speake this prouerb, concerning the land of Israel, saying, a The fathers haue eaten sowre grapes, and the childrens teeth are set on edge?

3 As I liue, saith the Lord God, ye shall vse this prouerbe no more in Israel.

4 Behold, all soules are mine, both the soule of the father, and also the soule of the sonne are mine: the soule that sinneth, it shal die.

5 But if a man bee iust, and doe that which is lawful, and right,

6 And hath not eaten b vpon the mountaines, neither hath lift vp his eyes to the idoles of the house of Israel, neither hath * defiled his neighbours wife, neither hath ‡ spoken with a * menstruous woman,

7 Neither hath oppressed any, but hath restored the pledge to his dettour: hee that hath spoyled none by violence, * but hath giuen his bread to the hungrie, and hath couered the naked with a garment,

8 And hath not giuen forth vpon * vsurie, neither hath taken any increase, but hath withdrawen his hand from iniquitie, and hath executed true iudgement betweene man and man,

9 And hath walked in my statutes, and hath kept my iudgements to deale truely, he is iust, he shal surely liue, saith the Lorde God.

10 ¶ If hee beget a sonne, that is ‖ a thiefe, or a sheader of blood, if he doe any one of these things,

11 Though he do not all these things, but either hath eaten vpon the mountaines, or defiled his neighbours wife,

12 Or hath oppressed the poore and needie, or hath spoyled by violence, or hath not restored the pledge, or hath lift vp his eyes vnto the idoles, or hath committed abomination,

13 Or hath giuen forth vpon vsurie, or hath taken increase, shall hee liue? hee shal not liue: seeing he hath done all these abominations, c hee shall die the death, and his blood shalbe vpon him.

14 ¶ But if he beget a sonne, that seeth all his fathers sinnes, which he hath done, and feareth, neither doeth such like,

15 That hath not eaten vpon the mountaines, neither hath lift vp his eyes to the idoles of the house of Israel, nor hath defiled his neighbours wife,

16 Neither hath oppressed any, nor hath withholden the pledge, neither hath spoyled by violence, but hath giuen his bread to the hungrie, and hath couered the naked with a garment,

17 Neither hath withdrawen his hande from the afflicted, nor receiued vsurie nor increase, but hath executed my iudgements, and hath walked in my statutes, hee shall not die in the iniquitie of his father, but he shall surely liue.

18 His father, because he cruelly oppressed and spoyled his brother by violence, and hath not done good among his people, loe, euen he dieth in his iniquitie.

19 Yet say yee, wherefore shall not the sonne beare the iniquitie of the father? because the sonne hath executed iudgement and iustice, and hath kept all my statutes, and done them, he shall surely liue.

20 * The same soule that sinneth, shal die: the sonne shall not beare the iniquitie of the father, neither shall the father beare the iniquitie of the sonne, but the righteousnesse of the righteous shalbe vpon him, and the wickednesse of the wicked shalbe vpon himselfe.

21 But if the wicked will returne from all his sinnes that hee hath committed, and keepe all my d statutes, and doe that which is lawfull and right, he shal surely liue, and shall not die.

22 All his transgressions that hee hath committed, they shall not bee ‖ mentioned vnto him, but in his e righteousnesse that he hath done, he shal liue.

23 f Haue I any desire that the wicked should die, saith the Lord God? ‖ or shall he not liue, if he returne from his wayes?

24 But if the righteous turne away from his righteousnesse, and commit iniquitie, and doe according to all the abominations, that the wicked man doeth, shall he liue? all his ‖ righteousnesse that hee hath done, shall not bee mentioned: but in his transgression that hee hath committed, and in his sinne that hee hath sinned, in them shal he die.

25 Yet ye say, The way of the Lord is not g equall: heare nowe, O house of Israel. Is not my way equall? or are not your wayes vnequall?

26 For when a righteous man turneth away from his righteousnesse, and committeth iniquitie, hee shall euen die for the same, he shall euen die for his iniquitie, that he hath done.

27 Againe, when the wicked turneth away from his wickednesse that hee hath committed, and doeth that which is lawfull and right, he shal saue his soule alive.

28 Because he considereth, and turneth away from all his transgressions that hee hath committed, he shal surely liue and shal not die.

29 Yet saith h house of Israel, The way of the Lord is not equal. O house of Israel, are not my wayes equall? or are not your wayes vnequall?

30 Therefore I will iudge you, O house of Israel, euery one according to his waies saith the Lord God: returne therfore & cause others to turne away frō all your transgressiōs: so iniquitie shal not be your destructiō.

31 Cast away from you all your transgressions, whereby yee haue transgressed, and make i you a newe heart & a newe spirit: for why will yee die, O house of Israel?

32 For I desire not h death of him that dieth, saith the Lorde God: cause therefore one another to returne, and liue ye.

CHAP. XX.

3 The Lord denieth that hee will answere them when they pray, because of their vnkindnes. 33 He promiseth that his people shall returne from captiuitie. 46 By the forest that should be burnt, is signified the burning of Ierusalem.

AND in the [a] seuenth yere, in the fift moneth, the tenth day of the moneth came certaine of the Elders of Israel to enquire of the Lord, and sate before me.

2 Then came the word of the Lord vnto me, saying,

3 Sonne of man, speake vnto the Elders of Israel, and say vnto them, Thus saith the [b] Lorde God, Are ye come to enquire of me? As I liue, saith the Lord God, when I was asked of you, I will not answere you.

4 Wilt thou iudge them, sonne of man? wilt thou iudge them? cause [c] the to vnderstand the abominations of their fathers,

5 And say vnto them, Thus saieth the Lord God, In the day when I chose Israel, and [d] lift vp mine hand vnto the seede of the house of Iaakob, & made my selfe knowen vnto them in the land of Egypt, when I lift vp mine hand vnto them, and sayde, I am the Lord your God,

6 In the day that I lift vp mine hande vnto them to bring them forth of the land of Egypt, into a land that I had prouided for them, flowing with milke and honie, which is pleasant among all lands,

7 Then said I vnto them, Let euery man cast away the abominations of his eyes, [e] and defile not your selues with the idoles of Egypt: for I am the Lord your God.

8 But they rebelled against me, & would not heare me: for none cast away the abominations of [f] their eyes, neither did they forsake the idoles of Egypt: the I thought to powre out mine indignation vpon the, and to accomplish my wrath against them in the middes of the land of Egypt.

9 But I had respect to my [g] Name, that it should not bee polluted before the heathen, among whom they were, and in whose sight I made my selfe knowen vnto them in bringing them forth of the land of Egypt.

10 Now I caried them out of the land of Egypt, & brought the into the wilderneſſe.

11 And I gaue them my statutes, & declared my iudgements vnto them, * which if a man doe, he shall liue in them.

12 Moreouer I gaue the also my *Sabbaths to be a signe betweene me and them, that they might knowe that I am the Lord, that sanctifie them.

13 But the house of Israel rebelled against me in the wilderneſſe: they walked not in my statutes, and they cast away my iudgements, which if a man do, he shall liue in them, & my Sabbaths haue they greatly polluted: then I thought to powre out mine indignation vpon them * in the wilderneſſe to consume them, 14 But I had respect to my Name, that it should not be polluted before the [g] heathen, in whose sight I brought them out.

15 Yet neuertheleſſe, I lift vp mine hand vnto them in the wilderneſſe that I would not bring them into the land, which I had giuen them, flowing with milke and honie, which was pleasant aboue all lands, 16 Because they cast away my iudgements, and walked not in my statutes, but haue polluted my [h] Sabbaths: for their heart went after their idoles.

17 Neuertheles mine eie spared the, that I would not destroy them, neither would I consume them in the wilderneſſe.

a Of the captiuitie of Ieconiah.

b This declareth the great lenitie and patience of God, which calleth sinners to repentance before he condemne them.

c I sware that I would be their God, which maner of othe was obserued from antiquitie, where they vsed to lift vp their hands toward the heauen, acknowledging God to bee the author of trueth, and the defender thereof, and also the iudge of y heart, withing that he should take vengeance, if they concealed any thing which they knew to be trueth.

d God had forbidden them to make mention of the idoles, Exod. 23 13. psal. 16 4.

e Which thing declareth y wickednes of mans heart which iudge Gods seruice by their eyes and outward senses.

f God had euer this respect to his glorie, that he would not haue his name euill spoken of among the Gentiles for the punishment that his people deserued, in confidence whereof the godly euer prayed, as Exod. 32 12. Nomb. 14. 13.

of your i fathers, neither obserue their maners, nor defile your selues w their idoles.

19 I am the Lorde your God: walke in my statutes, and keepe my iudgementes and doe them, 20 And sanctifie my Sabbaths, & they shalbe a signe betwene me and you, that ye may know that I am the Lord your God.

21 Notwithstanding the children rebelled against me: they walked not in my statutes, nor kept my iudgements to do them, which if a man doe, he shall liue in them, but they polluted my Sabbaths: then I thought to powre out mine indignation vpon them, and to accomplish my wrath against them in the wildernesse.

22 Neuertheles I withdrewe mine hand, and had respect to my Name, that it shoulde not be polluted before the heathen, in whose sight I brought them forth.

23 Yet I lift vp mine hand vnto them in the wildernesse, that I would scatter them among the heathen, and disperse them through the countries, 24 Because they had not executed my iudgements, but had cast away my statutes and had polluted my Sabbaths, and their eyes were after k their fathers idoles.

25 Wherefore I l gaue them also statutes that were not good, and iudgments, wherein they should not liue.

26 And I polluted them in their owne m giftes, in that they caused to passe by the fire all that first openeth the wombe, that I might destroy them, to the ende that they might knowe that I am the Lord.

27 Therefore, sonne of man, speake vnto the house of Israel, & say vnto them, Thus sayth the Lorde God, Yet in this your fathers haue blasphemed mee, though they had before grieuously transgressed against me.

28 n For when I had brought them into the lande, for the which I lifted vp mine hand to giue it to them, then they saw euery hie hill, and all the thicke trees, and they offered there their sacrifices, and there they presented their offering of prouocation: there also they made their sweete sauour, & powred out there their drinke offerings.

29 Then I said vnto them, What is the hie place whereunto ye go? And the name thereof was called o Bamah vnto this day.

30 Wherefore, say vnto the house of Israel, Thus saith the Lord God, Are ye not polluted after the maner of your fathers? and commit ye not whoredome after their abommanions?

31 For when you offer your giftes, and make your sonnes to passe through the fire, you pollute your selues with all your idoles vnto this day: shall I answere you when I am asked, O house of Israel? As I liue, saith the Lorde God, p I will not answere you when I am asked.

32 Neither shall that be done that commeth into your minde: for ye say, We will be as the heathen, and as the families of the countries, and serue wood, and q stone.

33 As I liue, saith the Lord God, I will surely rule you with a mightie hand, and with a stretched out arme, and in my wrath powred out, 34 And will bring you from the people, and will gather you out of the countreys, wherein yee are scattered, with a mightie hand, and with a stretched out arme and in my wrath powred out.

35 And I will bring you into the r wildernesse of the people, & there will I pleade with you face to face.

36 Like as I pleaded with your fathers in the wildernesse of the lande of Egypt, so will I pleade with you, saith ꝑ Lord God.

3 He threatneth the ſworde, and deſtruction to Ieruſalem. 25 He ſheweth the fall of King Zedekiah. 28 He is commanded to prophecie the deſtruction of the children of Ammon. 30 The Lord threatneth to deſtroy Nebuchad-nezzar.

THe worde of the Lorde came to me againe, ſaying,

2 Sonne of man, ſet thy face towarde Ieruſalem, a and droppe thy worde toward the holy places, and prophecie againſt the land of Iſrael, 9 Sonne of man, prophecie, & ſay, Thus ſayeth the Lord God, ſay, A ſword, a ſword both ſharpe, and fourbiſhed.

10 It is ſharpned to make a ſore ſlaughter, and it is fourbiſhed that it may f glitter: how ſhall we reioyce? for it contemneth the g rodde of my ſonne, as h all other trees.

11 And he hath giuen it to be fourbiſhed, that he may handle it: this ſword is ſharpe, and is fourbiſhed, that he may giue it into the hand of the i ſlayer.

13 For it is a triall, l and what ſhall this be, if the ſword contemne euen the rodde? It ſhalbe no more, ſayth the Lord God.

14 Thou therefore, ſonne of man, prophecie, and ſmite m hand to hand, and let the ſworde be doubled: let the ſworde that hath killed, returne the third time: it is the ſworde of the great ſlaughter entring into their priuie chambers.

15 I haue brought the feare of the ſword vnto all their gates, to make their heart to faint, and to multiplie their ruines. Ah it is made bright, and it is dreſſed for the ſlaughter.

16 Get thee n alone: go to the right hand, or get thy ſelfe to the left hand, whitherſoeuer thy face turneth.

17 I will alſo ſmite mine handes together, and will cauſe my wrath to ceaſe. I the Lord haue ſaid it.

18 ¶ The worde of the Lord came vnto me againe, ſaying, 19 Alſo thou ſonne of man, appoint thee o two wayes, that the ſword of the King of Babel may come: both twaine ſhall come out of one land, and chuſe a place, and chuſe it in the corner of the way of the citie.

20 Appoint a way, that the ſword may come to Rabbath of the Ammonites, and p to Iudah in Ieruſalem the ſtrong citie.

21 And the King of Babel ſtoode at the parting of the way, at the head of the two wayes, conſulting by diuination, and made his arrowes bright: hee conſulted with idoles, and looked in the liuer.

22 At his right hand was the diuination for Ieruſalem to appoint captaines, to open their mouth in the ſlaughter, and to lift vp their voyce with ſhouting, to lay engins of warre againſt the gates, to caſt a mount, and to build a fortreſſe.

23 And it ſhall be vnto them q as a falſe diuination in their ſight for the othes made vnto them: but hee will call to remembrance their iniquitie, to the intent they ſhould be taken.

24 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, Becauſe ye haue made your iniquitie to be remembred, in diſcouering your rebellion, that in all your workes your ſinnes might appeare: becauſe, I ſay, that ye are come to remembrance, ye ſhalbe taken with r hand.

2 Nowe thou sonne of man, wilt thou [a] iudge, wilt thou iudge this bloodie citie? wilt thou shewe her al her abominations?

3 Then say, Thus saith the Lord God, The citie sheadeth blood in the midst of it, that her [b] time may come, & maketh idoles [c] against her selfe to pollute her selfe.

4 Thou hast offended in thy blood, that thou hast shed, and hast polluted thy selfe in thine idoles, which thou hast made, & thou hast caused thy dayes to drawe neere, and art come vnto thy terme: therefore haue I made thee a reproche to the heathen, and a mocking to all countreys.

5 Those that be neere, and those that be farre from thee, shall mocke thee, which are vile in [d] name and sore in affliction.

6 Beholde, the princes of Israel euery one in thee was ready to his power, to shead blood.

19 Therefore, thus saith the Lord God, Because ye are all as drosse, beholde, therefore I will gather you in the middes of Ierusalem.

20 As they gather siluer and brasse, and yron, and lead, and tinne into the middes of the fornace, to blowe the fire vpon it to melt it, so will I gather you in mine anger and in my wrath, and will put you there and melt you.

21 I will gather you, I say, and blowe the fire of my wrath vpon you, & you shall be melted in the middes thereof.

22 As siluer is melted in the middes of the fornace, so shal ye be melted in the middes thereof, and ye shall know, that I the Lord haue powred out my wrath vpon you.

25 There is a conspiracie [n] of her prophets in the middes thereof like a roaring lyon, rauening the praye: they haue deuoured soules: they haue taken the riches and precious things: they haue made her many widowes in the middes thereof.

26 Her priests haue broken my lawe, and haue defiled mine holy things: they haue put no difference betweene the holy and prophane, neyther discerned betweene the vncleane, and the cleane, and haue hid their [o] eyes from my Sabbaths, and I am prophaned among them.

CHAP. XXIII.

Of the idolatrie of Samaria and Ieruſalem, vnder the names of Aholah and Aholibah.

THe word of the Lord came againe vnto me, ſaying,

2 Sonne of man, there were two women, the daughters of one [a] mother.

3 And they committed fornication [b] in Egypt, they committed fornication in their youth: there were their breaſtes preſſed, and there they bruiſed the teates of their virginitie.

4 And the names of [c] them were Aholah, the elder, and Aholibah her ſiſter: and they were mine, and they bare ſonnes & daughters: thus were their names. Samaria is Aholah, and Ieruſalem Aholibah.

5 And Aholah played the harlot ‡ when [d] ſhee was mine, and ſhee was ſet on fire with her louers, to wit, with the Aſſyrians her neighbours,

6 Which were clothed with blewe ſilke, both captaines and princes: they were all pleaſant young men, and horſemen riding vpon horſes.

7 Thus ſhe committed her whoredome with them, euen with all them that were the choſen men of Aſſhur, and with all on whome ſhee doted, and defiled her ſelfe with all their idoles.

8 Neither left ſhee her fornications, learned of the Egyptians: for in her youth they [e] lay with her, and they bruiſed the breaſts of her virginitie, and powred their whoredome vpon her.

9 Wherefore I deliuered her into the hands of her louers, euen into the hands of the Aſſyrians, vpon whom ſhe doted.

10 Theſe diſcouered her ſhame: they tooke away her ſonnes and her daughters, and ſlewe her with the ſword, and ſhe had an euill name among women: for [f] they had executed iudgement vpon her.

11 And when her ſiſter Aholibah ſawe this, ſhee marred her ſelfe with inordinate loue, more then ſhe, & with her fornications more then her ſiſter with her fornications.

12 Shee doted vpon the Aſſyrians her neighbours, both captains and princes cloathed with diuers ſuites, horſemen riding vpon horſes: they were all pleaſant young men.

13 Then I ſawe that ſhe was defiled, & that they were both after one ſort,

14 And that ſhe encreaſed her fornications: for when ſhe ſaw men [g] painted vpon the wall, the images of the Caldeans painted with vermilion,

15 And girded with girdles vpon their loynes, & with died attire vpon their heads (looking all like princes after the maner of the Babylonians in Caldea, the lande of their natiuitie,) after whom they luſt.

16 Aſſoone, I ſay, as ſhe ſawe them, ſhe doted vpon them, and ſent meſſengers vnto them in to Caldea.

17 Now when the Babylonians came to her into the bed of loue, they defiled her with their fornication, and ſhe was polluted with them, and her luſt departed from them.

18 So ſhee diſcouered her fornication, and diſcloſed her ſhame: then mine heart forſooke her, like as mine heart had forſaken her ſiſter.

19 Yet ſhee encreaſed her whoredome more, and called to remembrance the daies of her youth, wherein ſhee had played the harlot in the land of Egypt.

20 For ſhe doted vpon their ſeruaunts, whoſe members are as the members of aſſes, & whoſe iſſue is like the iſſue of horſes.

21 Thou calledſt to remembrance the wickednes of thy youth, when thy teates were bruiſed by the Egyptians: therefore the pappes of thy youth are thus.

22 Therefore, O Aholibah, thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, I will rayſe vp thy louers againſt thee, from whom thine heart is departed, and I will bring them againſt thee on euery ſide, 23 To wit, the Babylonians, and all the Caldeans, [h] Peked, and Shoah, and Koa, and all the Aſſyrians with them: they were all pleaſant yong men, captaines and princes: all they were valiant and renowned, riding vpon horſes.

24 Euen theſe ſhall come againſt thee, with charets, wagons, and wheeles, and with a multitude of people, which ſhal ſet againſt thee, buckler and ſhield, and helmet round about: and ‡ I will leaue the punishment vnto them, and they ſhal iudge thee according to their iudgements.

25 And I will lay mine indignation vpon thee: and they ſhal deale cruelly with thee: they ſhal cut off thy [i] noſe and thine eares, and thy remnant ſhall fall by the ſwoorde: they ſhall carie away thy ſonnes and thy daughters, and thy reſidue ſhalbe deuoured by the fire.

26 They ſhal alſo ſtrippe thee out of thy clothes, and take away thy faire iewels.

27 Thus will I make thy wickednes to ceaſe from thee, and thy fornication out of the land of Egypt: ſo that thou ſhalt not lift vp thine eyes vnto them, nor remember Egypt any more.

28 For thus ſaith ℣ Lord God, Behold, I will deliuer thee into the hande of them, whom thou hateſt: euen into the handes of them from whom thine heart is departed.

29 And they ſhal handle thee deſpitefully, & ſhal take away all thy [k] labour, & ſhall leaue thee naked & bare, and the ſhame of thy fornications [l] ſhall be diſcouered, both thy wickednes, and thy whoredome.

30 I will doe theſe things vnto thee, becauſe thou haſt gone a whoring after the heathen, and becauſe thou art polluted with their idoles.

31 Thou haſt walked in the way of thy ſiſter: therefore will I giue her [m] cup into thine hand.

n Meaning, that the afflictions thoulde be so great, that they thould cause them to loose their fences & reason.

34 Thou shalt euen drinke it, and wring it out to the dregges, and thou shalt breake the sheards thereof, and teare thine owne breastes: for I haue spoken it, saieth the Lord God.

35 Therefore thus saieth the Lord God, Because thou hast forgotten mee, and cast me behinde thy backe, therefore thou shalt also beare thy wickednesse and thy whoredome.

36 ¶ The Lorde said moreouer vnto me, Sonne of man, wilt thou iudge Aholah, & Aholibah? and wilt thou declare to them their abominations?

39 For whē they had slaine their children to their idoles, they came the same day into my Sanctuarie to defile it: and loe, thus haue they done in p middes of mine house.

p They sent into other countreies, to haue such as should teach the seruice of their idoles.

43 Then I said vnto her that was olde in adulteries, Now shall she and her fornications come to an ende.

44 And they went in vnto her as they go to a common harlot: so went they to Aholah and Aholibah the wicked women.

f That is, worthy death, reade Chap. 16. 38.

45 And the righteous men they shall iudge them, after the manner of harlots, and after the manner of murtherers: for they are harlots, & blood is in their handes.

46 Wherefore thus saith the Lord God, I will bring a multitude vpon them, & will giue them vnto the tumult, & to the spoile, 47 And the multitude shal stone the with stones, and cut them with their swordes: they shal slay their sonnes, and their daughters, and burne vp their houses with fire.

s Meaning, all other cities, and countries.

48 Thus will I cause wickednes to cease out of the land, that all t women may bee taught, not to doe after your wickednesse.

49 And they shall lay your wickednesse vpon you, and ye shall beare the sinnes of your idoles, and ye shall know that I am the Lord God.

b Called Tebeth, which conteineth part of December and part of Ianuarie: in the which moneth and day Nebuchad-nezzar beseiged Ierusalem.

2 Sonne of man, write thee the name of the day, euen of this same day: for the King of Babel set himselfe against Ierusalem this same day.

3 Therefore speake a parable vnto the rebellious house, and say vnto them, Thus saith the Lorde God, Prepare a c pot, prepare it, and also powre water into it.

c Whereby was meant Ierusalē.

4 Gather the d pieces thereof into it, euen euery good piece, as the thigh and the shoulder, and fill it with the chiefe bones.

d That is, the citizens, and the chiefe men thereof.

5 Take one of the best sheepe, and ‖ burne also the e bones vnder it, and make it boyle well, and seethe the bones of it therein,

e Meaning, of the innocents, whom they had slaine, who were the cause of the kindling of Gods wrath against them.

6 Because the Lord God saith thus, Woe to the bloodie citie, euen to the pot, f whose skomme is therein, and whose skomme is not gone out of it: bring it out g piece by piece: let no h lot fall vpon it.

f Whose iniquities, and wicked citizens there yet remaine.

g Signifying, that they should not be destroyed all at once, but by litle and litle.

h Spare none estate or condition.

7 For her blood is in the middes of her: shee set it vpon an high i rocke, and powred it not vpon p ground to couer it with dust, i The citie shewed her cruelties to all the worlde, and was not ashamed thereof, neyther yet hid it.

8 That it might cause wrath to arise, and take vengeance: euen I haue set her blood vpon an high rocke that it should not bee couered.

9 Therefore thus saith the Lorde God, * Woe to the bloodie citie, for I will make ‖ the burning great.

Nahum. 3. 1. habak. 2. 12.

‖ Or, an heape of wood.

10 Heape on much wood: k kindle the fire, consume the flesh, and cast in spice, and let the bones be burnt.

k Meaning, that the citie shoulde bee vtterly destroyed, and that hee woulde giue the enemies an appetite thereunto.

11 Then set it emptie vpon the coales thereof, that ‖ the brasse of it may be hotte, and may burne, & that the filthinesse of it may be molten in it, and that the skomme of it may be consumed.

12 l Shee hath wearied her selfe with lyes, and her great skomme went not out of her: therefore her skomme shalbe consumed with fire.

l The citie hath flattered her selfe in vayne.

13 Thou remainest in thy filthinesse & wickednesse: because I would m haue purged thee, and thou wast not purged, thou shalt not be purged from thy filthinesse, till I haue caused my wrath to light vpon thee.

m I laboured by sending my Prophetes to call thee to repentance, but thou wouldest not.

14 I the Lorde haue spoken it: it shall come to passe, and I will doe it: I will not goe backe, neither will I spare, neither will I repent: according to thy wayes, and according to thy workes shall n they iudge thee, saith the Lord God.

n That is, the Babylonians.

15 ¶ Also the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

16 Sonne of man, behold, I take away from thee the o pleasure of thine eyes with a plague: yet shalt thou neither mourne nor weepe, neither shall thy teares runne downe.

o Meaning, his wife in whom he delited, as verse 18.

17 Cease from sighing: make no mourning for the dead, and binde the tyre of thine head vpon thee, p and put on thy shooes vpon thy feete, and couer not thy lips, and eate q not the bread of men.

p For in mourning, they went bare headed and barefooted, and also couered their lips.

q That is, which the neighbours sent to them that mourned.

18 So I spake vnto the people in the morning, and at euen my wife died: and I did in r the morning, as I was commanded.

r Meaning, the morning following.

19 And the people sayde vnto me, Wilt thou not tell vs what these things meane toward vs, that thou doest so?

20 Then I answered them, The word of the Lord came vnto me, saying, 21 Speake vnto the house of Israel, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will f pollute my Sanctuarie, euen the s pride of your power, the pleasure of your eyes, and your hearts desire, and your sonnes, and your daughters whome ye haue left, shall fall by the sword.

f By sending the Caldeans to destroy it, as Chap. 7.22.

s Wherein you boast and delite.

22 And ye shall doe as I haue done: ye shall not couer your lippes, neither shall ye eate the bread of men.

23 And your tire shalbe vpon your heads, and your shooes vpon your feete: ye shall not mourne nor weepe, but ye shall pine away for your iniquities, and mourne one toward another.

24 Thus Ezekiel is vnto you a signe: according to all that hee hath done, ye shall doe: and when this commeth, ye shal know that I am the Lord God.

25 Also, thou sonne of man, shall it not be in the day when I take from them their power, the ioy of their honour, the pleasure of their eyes, and the ‡ desire of their heart, their sonnes and their daughters, ‡ Ebr. lifting vp of their soules.

26 That hee that escapeth in that day, shall come vnto thee to tell thee that which he hath heard with his eares?

27 In that day shall thy mouth be opened to him which is escaped, and thou shalt speake, and be no more dumme, and thou shalt be a signe vnto them, and they shall knowe that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXV.

1 The word of the Lord against Ammon, which reioyced at the fall of Ierusalem. 8 Against Moab and Seir, Idumea and the Philistims.

THe word of the Lord came againe vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, set thy face against the Ammonites, and prophecie against them,

3 And say vnto the Ammonites, Heare the word of the Lorde God, Thus saith the Lord God, Because thou saidest, a Ha, ha, against my Sanctuarie, when it was polluted, and against the land of Israel, when it was desolate, and against the house of Iudah, when they went into captiuitie, a Because ye reioyced when the enemie destroyed my citie and Temple.

4 Behold, therefore I will deliuer thee to the b men of the East for a possession, and they shall set their c palaces in thee, & make their dwellings in thee: they shall eate thy fruite, and they shall drinke thy milke.

b That is, to the Babylonians.

c They shall chase thee away and take thy gorgeous houses to dwell in.

5 And I will make d Rabbah a dwelling place for camels, and the Ammonites a sheepecote, and ye shall knowe that I am the Lord.

d Called also Philadelphia, which was the chiefe citie of the Ammonites and full of conduites, 2. Sam. 12, 27.

6 For thus saieth the Lorde God, Because thou hast clapped thy handes, and stamped with the feete, and reioyced in heart with all thy despite against the lande of Israel,

7 Beholde, therefore I will stretch out mine hand vpon thee, and will deliuer thee to be spoyled of the heathen, and I will root thee out from the people, and I will cause thee to be destroyed out of the countreys and I will destroy thee, and thou shalt know that I am the Lord.

8 Thus saieth the Lorde God, Because that Moab and Seir doe say, Beholde, the house of Iudah is like vnto all the heathen, 9 Therefore, behold, I will open the side of Moab, euen of the cities e of his cities, I say, in his frontiers with the pleasant countrey, Beth-iehimoth, Baal-meon, and Kiriathaim, e So that no power or strength should be able to resist the Babylonians.

10 I will call the men of the East against the Ammonites, and will giue them in possession, so that the Ammonites shal no more be remembred among the nations, 11 And I will execute iudgements vpon Moab, and they shall knowe that I am the Lord.

12 ¶ Thus saith the Lord God, Because that Edom hath done euill by taking vengeance vpon the house of Iudah, and hath committed great offence, & reuenged himselfe vpon them, 13 Therefore thus saith the Lorde God, I will also stretch out mine hand vpon Edom, and destroy man and beast out of it, and I will make it desolate from Teman, and they of Dedan shall fall by the sworde.

14 And I will execute my vengeance vpon Edom by the hande of my people Israel, and they shall doe in Edom according to mine anger, and according to mine indignation, and they shall knowe my vengeance, saith the Lord God.

15 Thus saith the Lord God, Because the Philistims haue executed vengeance, and reuenged themselues with a despitefull heart, to destroy it for the olde hatred, 16 Therefore thus saith the Lorde God, Behold, I will stretch out mine hand vpon the Philistims, and I will cut off the f Cherethims, and destroy the remnant of the sea coast.

f Which were certaine garisons of the Philistims, whereby they oft times molested the Iewes. Of the Cherethims Dauid also had a gard, 2. Sam. 8. 18.

17 And I will execute great vengeance vpon them with rebukes of mine indignation, and they shall knowe that I am the Lorde, when I shall lay my vengeance vpon them.

CHAP. XXVI.

1 He prophecieth that Tyrus shalbe ouerthrowen because it reioyced at the destruction of Ierusalem. 15 The wondring and astonishment of the marchants for the destruction of Tyrus.

AND in the [a] eleuenth yere, in the first day of the moneth, the worde of the Lorde came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, because that Tyrus hath said against Jerusalem, Aha, the [b] gate of the people is broken: it is turned vnto me: for seeing she is desolate, I shall be [b] replenished,

3 Therefore thus saith the Lorde God, Beholde, I come against thee, O Tyrus, and I will bring vp many nations against thee, as the sea mounteth vp with his waues.

4 And they shall destroy the walles of Tyrus and breake downe her towres: I will also scrape her dust from her, and make her like the toppe of a rocke.

5 Thou shalt be for the spreading of nets in the middes of the sea: for I haue spoken it, saith the Lord God, and it shalbe a spoyle to the nations.

6 And her [d] daughters which are in the field, shall bee slaine by the sword, and they shall knowe that I am the Lord.

7 For thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will bring vpon Tyrus Nebuchad nezzar King of Babel, a King of Kings, from the North, with horses and with charets, and with horsemen, with a multitude and much people.

8 He shal slay with the sword thy daughters in the fielde, and he shall make a forte against thee, and cast a mount against thee, and lift vp the buckler against thee.

9 Hee shall set engins of warre before him against thy walles, and with his weapons breake downe thy towers.

10 The dust of his horses shall couer thee, for their multitude: thy walles shall shake at the noyse of the horsemen, and of the wheeles, and of the charets, when hee shall enter into thy gates, as into the entrie of a citie that is broken downe.

11 With the hoones of his horses shall he treade downe all thy streets: he shall slay thy people by the sword, and the [e] pillars of thy strength shall fall downe to the ground.

12 And they shall robbe thy riches, and spoyle thy marchandize, & they shall breake downe thy walles, and destroy thy pleasant houses, and they shall cast thy stones and thy timber and thy dust into the middes of the water.

13 * Thus will I cause the sound of thy songs to cease, & the sound of thine harpes shall be no more heard.

14 I will lay thee like the top of a rocke: [f] thou shalt be for a spreading of nets: thou shalt be built no more: for I the Lord haue spoken it, saith the Lord God.

15 Thus saith the Lord God to Tyrus, Shall not the yles tremble at the sounde of thy fall? and at the crie of the wounded, when they shall be slaine and murthered in the middes of thee?

16 Then all the princes of the [g] sea shall come downe from their thrones: they shall lay alway their robes, and put off their broydred garments, and shall clothe themselues with astonishment: they shall sit vpon the grounde and bee astonished at euery moment, and be amased at thee.

17 And they shall take vp a lamentation for thee, and say to thee, Howe art thou destroyed, that wast inhabited [h] of the sea men, the renowmed citie which was strong in the sea, both she and her inhabitants, which cause their feare to bee on all that haunt therein!

18 Nowe shall the yles be astonished in the day of thy fall: yea, the yles that are in the sea, shalbe troubled at thy departure.

19 For thus saith the Lorde God, when I shall make thee a desolate citie, like the cities that are not inhabited, and when I shal bring the deepe vpon thee, and great waters shall couer thee,

20 When I shall cast thee downe with them that descend into the pit, with the people [i] of olde time, and shall set thee in the lowe parts of the earth, like the old ruines, with them, I say, which goe downe to the pit, so that thou shalt not bee inhabited, and I shall shewe my glorie in the lande of the [k] liuing,

21 I will || bring thee to nothing, & thou shalt be no more: though thou be sought for, yet shalt thou neuer be founde againe, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XXVII.

The Prophet bewayleth the desolation of Tyrus, shewing what were the riches, power and authoritie thereof in time past.

THE worde of the Lord came againe vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, take vp a lamentation for Tyrus,

3 And say vnto Tyrus, that is situate at the entrie of the sea, which is the mart [a] of the people for many yles, Thus saieth the Lord God, O Tyrus, thou hast said, I am of perfite beautie.

4 Thy borders are in the ‡ middes of the sea, and thy builders haue made thee of perfite beautie.

5 They haue made all thy ship boards of firre trees of [b] Shenir: they haue brought cedars from Lebanon, to make maists for thee.

6 Of the Okes of Bashan haue they made thine oyes: the company of the Assyrians haue made thy bankes of yuorie, brought out of the yles of [c] Chittim.

7 Fine linnen with broydered worke, brought from Egypt, was spread ouer thee to be thy saile, blew silke and purple, brought from the yles of Elishah, was thy couering.

8 The inhabitants of Zidon and Arnad were thy mariners, O Tyrus: thy wise men that were in thee, they were thy || pilots.

9 The ancients of Gebal, and the wise men thereof were in thee thy [d] calkers, all the shippes of the sea with their mariners were in thee to occupie thy marchandise.

CHAP. XXVIII.

2 The word of God against the King of Tyrus for his pride. 21 The worde of the Lorde against Zidon. 25 The Lorde promiseth that he will gather together the children of Israel.

THe word of the Lord came againe vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, Say vnto the Prince of Tyrus, Thus saith the Lord God, Because thine heart is exalted, and thou hast sayde, a I am a god, I sit in the seate of God in the middes of the sea, yet thou art but a man and not God, and ‡ though thou diddest thinke in thine heart, that thou wast equall with God,

3 Beholde, thou art wiser then b Daniel: there is no secrete, that they can hide from thee.

4 With thy wisedome and thine vnderstanding thou hast gotten thee riches, and hast gotten golde and siluer into thy treasures.

5 By thy great wisedome and by thine occupying hast thou increased thy riches, and thine heart is lifted vp because of thy riches.

6 Therefore thus saieth the Lord God, Because thou diddest thinke in thine heart, that thou wast equall with God,

7 Beholde, therefore I will bring strangers vpon thee, euen the terrible nations: and they shall drawe their swords against against the beautie of thy wisedome, and they shall defile thy brightnesse.

8 They shall cast thee downe to the pit, and thou shalt die the death of them, that are slaine in the middes of the sea.

9 Wilt thou say then before him, that slayeth thee, I am a god? but thou shalt be a man, and no God, in the handes of him that slayeth thee.

10 Thou shalt die the death of the [c] vncircumcised by the handes of strangers: for I haue spoken it, saith the Lord God.

11 ¶ Moreouer the worde of the Lorde came vnto me, saying,

12 Sonne of man, take vp a lamentation vpon the King of Tyrus, and say vnto him, Thus sayth the Lord God, Thou sealest vp the summe, and art full of [d] wisedome and perfect in beautie.

13 Thou hast bene in Eden the garden of God: euery precious stone was in thy garment, the rubie, the topaze and the ‖ diamond, the chrysolite, the onix, and the iasper, the saphir, Iemerald, and the carbuncle and golde: the workemanship of thy timbrels, and of thy pipes was prepared in thee in the day that thou wast created.

14 Thou art [e] the anointed Cherub, that couereth, and I haue set thee [f] in honour: thou wast vpon the holy mountaine of God: thou hast walked in the middes of the [g] stones of fire.

15 Thou wast perfect in thy wayes from the day that thou wast [h] created, til iniquitie was found in thee.

16 By the multitude of thy marchandise, they haue filled the midst of thee with crueltie, and thou hast sinned: therefore I will cast thee as prophane out of the [i] mountaine of God: and I will destroy thee, O couering Cherub, from the middes of the stones of fire.

17 Thine heart was lifted vp because of thy beautie, and thou hast corrupted thy wisedome by reason of thy brightnesse: I will cast thee to the ground: I will lay thee before kings that they may behold thee.

18 Thou hast defiled thy [k] sanctification by the multitude of thine iniquities, & by the iniquitie of thy marchandise: therefore will I bring fooith a fire from the mids of thee, which shall deuoure thee: and I wil bring thee to ashes vpon the earth, in the sight of all them that behold thee.

19 All they that know thee among the people, shalbe astonished at thee: thou shalt be ‖ a terrour, and neuer shalt thou be any more.

20 ¶ Againe, the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

21 Sonne of man, set thy face against Zidon, and prophecie against it,

22 And say, thus saith the Lorde God, Behold, I come against thee, O Zidon, & I will be [l] glorified in the mids of thee: & they shall know that I am the Lord, when I shal haue executed iudgements in her, and shall be sanctified in her.

23 For I will send into her pestilence, & blood into her streetes, & the slaine shall fal in the mids of her: [m] the enemie shall come against her with the sworde on euery side, and they shall know that I am the Lorde,

24 And they shall be no more a pricking thorne vnto the house of Israel, nor any grieuous thorne of al that are round about them, and despised them, and they shall knowe that I am the Lorde God.

25 Thus saith the Lorde God, when I shall haue gathered the house of Israel from the people where they are scattered, and shalbe [n] sanctified in them in the sight of the heathen, then shall they dwell in the lande, that I haue giuen to thy seruaunt Iaakob.

26 And they shall dwell safely therein, & shall build houses, and plant vineyardes: yea, they shall dwell safely, when I haue executed iudgements vpon all round about them that despise them, and they shal know that I am the Lord their God.

CHAP. XXIX.

He prophecieth against Pharaoh and Egypt. 13 The Lord promiseth that he wil restore Egypt after fourtie yeeres. 18 Egypt is the rewarde of King Nebuchad-nezzar for the labour which hee tooke against Tyrus.

IN the [a] tenth peere, and in the tenth moneth, in the twelfth day of the moneth, the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, set thy face against Pharaoh the king of Egypt, and prophecie against him, and against all Egypt.

3 Speake, and say, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I come against thee, Pharaoh kung of Egypt, the great [b] dragon, that lieth in the mids of his riuers, which hath sayde, The riuer is mine, and I haue made it for my selfe.

4 But I will put [c] hookes in thy chawes, and I will cause the fish of thy riuers to sticke vnto thy scales, and I will drawe thee out of the middes of the riuers, and all the fish of thy riuers shall sticke vnto thy scales.

5 And I will leaue thee in the wildernes, both thee and all the fish of thy riuers: thou shalt fall vpon the open fielde: thou shalt not be brought together, nor gathered: for I haue giuen thee for meate to the beastes of the fielde, and to the foules of the heauen.

6 And al the inhabitants of Egypt shall knowe that I am the Lorde, because they haue bene a staffe of [d] reede to the house of Israel.

7 When they tooke holde of thee with their hand, thou diddest breake, and rent all their shoulder: and when they leaned vpon thee, thou brakest and madest all their lopnes to ‖ stand [e] vpright.

8 Therefore thus saieth the Lord God, Behold, I will bring a sworde vpon thee, and destroy man and beast out of thee,

9 And the land of Egypt shall be desolate, and waste, and they shall know that I am the Lorde: because hee hath sayd, [f] The riuer is mine, and I haue made it, 11 No foote of man shall passe by it, nor foote of beast shall passe by it, neither shall it be inhabited fourtie yeeres.

12 And I will make the land of Egypt desolate in the mids of the countreis that are desolate, and her cities shall be desolate among the cities that are desolate, for fortie yeeres: and I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations, and will disperse them through the countries.

Iere.46.26.

13 Yet thus sayeth the Lorde God, * At the end of fourtie yeeres will I gather the Egyptians from the people, where they were scattered,

14 And I will bring againe the captiuitie of Egypt, & will cause them to returne into the land of Pathros, into the lande of their habitation, and they shall be there a § small kingdome.

§ Meaning, that they should not haue full dominion, but be vnder the Persians, Grecians, & Romanes, and the cause is, that the Israelites should no more put their trust in them, but learne to depend on God.

15 It shalbe the smallest of ‖ kingdoms, neither shall it exalt it selfe any more aboue the nations: for I will diminish them, that they shall no more rule the nations.

16 And it shalbe no more the confidence of the house of Israel, to bring their h iniquitie to remembrance by looking after them, so shall they knowe, that I am the Lord God.

h Left I should by this meanes punish their sinnes.

17 ¶ In the i seuen and twentieth yeere also in the first moneth, and in the first day of the moneth came the worde of the Lorde vnto me, saying,

i Counting from the captiuitie of Ieconiah.

18 Sonne of man, Nebuchad-nezzar king of Babel caused his armie to serue a great k seruice against Tyrus: euery head was made balde, and euery shoulder was made bare: yet had he no wages, l nor his armie for Tyrus, for the seruice that he serued against it.

k He tooke great paines at the siege of Tyrus, & his armie was sore handled.

l Signifying, that Nebuchad-nezzar had more paines then profite, by the taking of Tyrus.

19 Therefore thus saieth the Lorde God, Behold, I will giue the land of Egypt vnto Nebuchad-nezzar the king of Babel, and hee shall take her multitude, and spoile her spoile, and take her pray, and it shall be the wages for his armie.

20 I haue giuen him the land of Egypt for his labor, ‖ he serued against it, because they wrought ‖ for me, saith the Lord God.

‖ Or, in it.

‖ Or, euil against me.

21 In that day will I cause the horne of the house of Israel to growe, & I will giue thee an open mouth in the mids of them, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXX.

The destruction of Egypt, and the Cities thereof.

THe worde of the Lorde came againe vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, prophecie, & say, Thus saith the Lorde God, Howle and crie, Woe be vnto this day.

3 For the day is neere, and the day of the Lord is at hand, a cloudie day, & it shal be the time of the heathen.

4 And the sword shal come vpon Egypt, and feare shall bee in Ethiopia, when the slaine shall fall in Egypt, when they shall take away her multitude, & when her foundations shalbe broken downe.

5 a Ethiopia, and Phut, and Lud, and al the common people, and Cub, and the men of the land, that is in league, shall fall with them by the sword.

a By Phut and Lud are meant Aphrica and Lybia.

6 Thus saith the Lorde, They also that maintaine Egypt, shall fall, and the pride of her power shall come downe: from the towre of b Seueneh shall they fall by the sword, saith the Lord God.

b Which was a strong citie of Egypt, chap.29.10.

7 And they shall be desolate in the mids of the countries that are desolate, and her cities shall be in the mids of the cities that are wasted.

8 And they shall knowe that I am the Lord, when I haue set a fire in Egypt, and when all her helpers shalbe destroyed.

9 In that day shall there messengers go foorth from mee in shippes, to make the careleſſe Moores afraid, and feare shal come vpon them as in the day of Egypt: for loe, it commeth.

10 Thus saieth the Lorde God, I will also make the multitude of Egypt to cease by the hand of Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel.

11 For he and his people with him, euen the terrible nations shall be brought to destroy the land: and they shall drawe their swordes against Egypt, and fill the lande with the slaine.

12 And I will make the riuers drie, and sell the land into the handes of the wicked, and I will make the lande waste, and all that therein is, by the hands of strangers: I the Lord haue spoken it.

13 Thus saith the Lord God, I will also destroy the idoles, and I will cause their idoles to cease out of ‖ Noph, and there shal be no more a prince of the land of Egypt, and I will send a feare in the land of Egypt.

‖ Or, Memphis, or Alkaira.

14 And I will make Pathros desolate, and will set fire in ‖ Zoan, and I will execute iudgement in No.

‖ Or, Tanis.

15 And I will powre my wrath vpon ‖ Sin, which is the strength of Egypt: and I will destroy the multitude of ‖ No.

‖ Or, Pelusium.

16 And I will set fire in Egypt: Sin shal haue great sorowe, & No shalbe destroyed, and Noph shall haue sorowes daily.

‖ Or, Alexandria.

17 The yong men of ‖ Auen, & of ‖ Phibeseth shall fall by the sworde: and these cities shall goe into captiuitie.

‖ Or, Heliopolis.

‖ Or, Pubastum.

18 At Tehaphnehes the day c shall restreine his light, when I shall breake there the d barres of Egypt: and when the pompe of her power shall cease in her, the cloude shall couer her, and her daughters shall goe into captiuitie.

c Meaning, that there shall be great sorow and affliction.

d That is, the strength and force.

19 Thus will I execute iudgements in Egypt, and they shall knowe, that I am the Lord.

20 ¶ And in the e eleuenth yeere, in the first moneth, and in the seuenth day of the moneth, the worde of the Lorde came vnto me, saying, e Of the captiuitie of Ieconiah, or of Zedekiahs reigne.

21 Sonne of man, f I haue broken the arme of Pharaoh king of Egypt: and loe, it shall not be bound vp to be healed, neyther shall they put a roule to binde it, and so make it strong, to holde the sword.

f For Nebuchad-nezzar destroyed Pharaoh Necho at Carchemish, Iere.46.26.

22 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I come against Pharaoh king of Egypt, and will breake his g arme, that g His force and power.

was strong, but is broken, and I will cause the swoord to fall out of his hand.

23 And I wil scatter the Egyptians among the nations, and will disperse them throughe the countreis.

24 And I will strengthen the arme of the king of Babel, & put my swoorde in his hand, but I will breake Pharaohs armes, and he shall cast out syghings, as the sighings of him, that is wounded before him.

25 But I will strengthen the armes of the king of Babel, and the armes of Pharaoh shall fall downe, and they shal knowe, that I am the Lord, h when I shal put my swoorde into the hand of the king of Babel, and he shall stretch it out upon the land of Egypt.

26 And I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations, & disperse them among the countreis, and they shall know, that I am the Lord.

h Whereby we see that tyrants have no power of themselues, neither can doe any more harme then God appointeth, and when he will, they must cease.

CHAP. XXXI.

2 A comparison of the prosperitie of Pharaoh with the prosperitie of the Assyrians. 10 He prophecieth a like destruction to them both.

a Of Zedekiahs reigne, or of Ieconiahs captivitie.

AND in the a eleuenth yeere, in the third moneth, and in the first day of the moneth, the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, speake vnto Pharaoh king of Egypt, & to his multitude, Whom art thou b like in thy greatnesse?

b Meaning, that he was not like in strength to the king of the Assyrians, whom the Babylonians ouercame.

3 Behold, Asshur was like a cedar in Lebanon with faire branches, and with thicke shadowing boughes, and shot vp very hie, & his top was among the thicke boughes.

4 The waters nourished him, and the deepe exalted him on hie with her riuers running round about his plantes, and sent out her c litle riuers vnto all the trees of the ‖ fielde.

c Many other nations were vnder their dominion. ‖Or, countrey.

5 Therefore his height was exalted aboue all the trees of the field, & his boughes were multiplied, and his branches were long, because of the multitude of the waters, which the deepe sent out.

6 All the foules of the heauen made their nestes in his boughs, and vnder his branches did all the beastes of the fielde bring forth their young, and vnder his shadowe dwelt all mightie nations.

7 Thus was he faire in his greatnesse, and in the length of his branches: for his roote was neere great waters.

8 The cedars in the garden d of God could not hide him: no fir tree was like his branches, and the chesnut trees were not like his boughes: all the trees in the garden of God were not like vnto him in his beautie.

d Signifying, that there was no greater power in the world then his was.

9 I made him fayre by the multitude of his branches: so that all the trees of Eden, that were in the garden of God, enuied him.

‖Or, thou wast lift vp.

10 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because ‖ he is lift vp on high, & hath shot vp his top among the thicke boughs, and his heart is lift vp in his height, e That is, of Nebuchad nezzar, who afterward was the monarch and onely ruler of the world.

11 I haue therefore deliuered him into the handes of the e mightiest among the heathen: he shal handle him, for I haue cast him away for his wickednesse.

12 And ſ strangers haue destroied him, euen the terrible nations, and they haue left him vpon the mountaines, and in all the valleyes his branches are fallen, and his boughs are f broken by all the riuers of the land: and all the people of the earth are departed from his shadowe, and haue forsaken him.

f Hereby is signified the destruction of the power of the Assyrians by the Babylonians.

13 Vpon his ruine shall all the foules of the heauen remaine, and all the beastes of the field shalbe vpon his branches, 14 So that none of all the trees by the waters shalbe exalted by their height, neyther shall shoote vp their toppe among the thicke boughes, neyther shall their leaues stand vp in their height, which drinke so much water: for they are al deliuered vnto death in the nether partes of the earth in the middes of the children of men among them that goe downe to the pit.

15 Thus saith the Lord God, In the day when he went downe to hel, I caused them to mourne, & I g couered the deep for him, and I did restraine the floods thereof, & the great waters were staied: I caused Lebano to mourne for him, and all the trees of the field fainted.

g The deepe waters* caused him to mount to hie (meaning his great abundance & pompe) shall now lament as though they were couered with sackcloth.

16 I made the nations to shake at the sound of his fall, when I cast him downe to hell, with them that descend into the pit, and all the excellent trees of Eden, and the best of Lebanon: euen all that are nourished with waters, shal h be comforted in the nether partes of the earth.

h To cause this destruction of the king of Assyria, to seeme more horrible, he setteth forth other kings and princes which are dead, as though they reioyced at the fall of such a tyrant.

17 They also went downe to hell with him vnto them that be slaine ‖ by the swoord, and his arme, and they that dwelt vnder his shadow in the midst of the heathen.

18 To whom i art thou thus like in glorie and in greatnes among the trees of Eden? yet thou shalt be cast downe with the trees of Eden vnto the nether parts of the earth: thou shalt sleepe in the midst of the k vncircumcised, with them that be slayne by the swoord: this is Pharaoh and all his multitude, saith the Lord God.

i Meaning, that Pharaohs power was nothing so great as his.

k Reade Chap. 28.10.

CHAP. XXXII.

2 The Prophet is commaunded to bewaile Pharaoh king of Egypt. 12 He prophecieth that destruction shall come vnto Egypt through the king of Babylon.

AND in the a twelfth yere in the twelfth moneth, and in the first day of the moneth, the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying, a Which was the first yeere of the generall captiuitie vnder Zedekiah.

2 Sonne of man, take vp a lamentation for Pharaoh king of Egypt, and say vnto him, Thou art like a b lyon of the nations, and art as a ‖ dragon in the sea: thou castedst out thy riuers, c and troubledst the waters with thy feete, and stampedst in their riuers.

b Thus the scriptures compare tyrants to cruell and huge beasts which deuoure all that be weaker then they, & such as they may ouercome. ‖Or, whale.

3 Thus saieth the Lord God, * I will therefore spread my nette ouer thee with a great multitude of people, and they shall make thee come vp into my net.

c Thou prepareddst great armies.

4 Then will I leaue thee vpon the land, and I will cast thee vpon the open fielde, and I will cause all the foules of the heauen to remaine vpon thee, and I will fill all

Chap. 12.13 and 17.20.

all the beastes of the field with thee.

5 And I will lay thy flesh vpon ꝑ mountaines, & fill the valleys d with thine height.

6 I will also water with thy blood the land wherein thou e swimmest, euen to the mountaines, and the riuers shall be full of thee.

7 And when I shall f put thee out, I will couer the heauen, and make the starres thereof darke: I will couer the sunne with a cloude, and the moone shall not giue her light.

8 All the lights of heauen will I make darke for thee, and bring g darkenesse vpon thy land, saith the Lord God.

9 I will also trouble the hearts of many people, when I shall bring thy destruction among the nations, and vpon the countries which thou hast not knowen.

10 Yea, I will make many people amazed at thee, & their kings shalbe astonished with feare for thee, when I shall make my sword to glitter against their faces, & they shall be afraide at euery moment: euery man for his owne life in the day of thy fall.

11 For thus saieth the Lord God, The sword of the king of Babel shal come vpon thee.

12 By the swordes of the mightie will I cause thy multitude to fall: they all shall be terrible nations, and they shall destroy the h pompe of Egypt, & all the multitude thereof shall be consumed.

13 I wil destroy also all the beastes therof from the great water sides, neither shall the foote of man trouble them any more, nor the hooues of beast trouble them.

14 Then will I make i their waters deepe, and cause their riuers to runne like oyle, saith the Lord God.

15 When I shal make the land of Egypt desolate, and the countrey with all that is therein, shall be laide waste: when I shall smite all them, which dwell therein, then shall they knowe, that I am the Lord.

16 This is the mourning wherewith they shall lament her: the daughters of the nations shall lament her: they shall lament for Egypt, and for all her multitude, saith the Lord God.

17 ¶ In the twelfth yeere, also in the fifteenth day of the moneth, came the worde of the Lord vnto me, saying,

18 Sonne of man, lament for the multitude of Egypt, and k cast them downe, euen them and the daughters of the mightie nations vnto the nether partes of the earth, with them that go downe into the pit.

19 Whom doest thou passe l in beautie? go downe & sleepe with the vncircumcised.

20 They shal fall in the middes of them that are slaine by the sword: m she is deliuered to the sword: drawe her downe, and all her multitude.

21 The most mightie and strong shall speake to n him out of the midst of hel with them that helpe her: they are gone downe and sleepe with the vncircumcised that bee slaine by the sword.

22 Asshur is there and all his companie: their graues are about him: all they are slaine and fallen by the sworde.

23 Whose graues are made in the side of the pit, and his multitude are round about his graue: all they are slaine and fallen by the sword, which caused feare to be in the land of the liuing.

24 There is o Elam & all his multitude round about his graue: all they are slaine and fallen by the sworde, which are gone downe with the vncircumcised into the nether partes of ꝑ earth, which caused themselues to bee feared in the lande of the p liuing, yet haue they borne their shame with them that are gone downe to the pit.

25 They haue made his bed in the midst of the slaine with all his multitude: their graues are round about him: all these vncircumcised are slaine by the sword: though they haue caused their feare in the lande of the liuing, yet haue they borne their shame with them that go downe to the pit: they are laid in the middes of them that be slaine.

26 There is q Meshech, Tubal, and all their multitude: their graues are round about them: all these vncircumcised were slaine by the sworde, though they caused their feare to be in the land of the liuing.

27 And they shall not lie with ꝑ valiant of the vncircumcised, that are fallen, which are gone downe to the graue, with their weapons of warre, and haue layed their swordes vnder their heades, but their wickednesse shall be vpon their bones: because they were the feare of the mightie in the land of the liuing.

28 Yea, thou shalt be broken in the midst of the vncircumcised, & lie with them that are slaine by the sword.

29 There is Edom, his kings, & all his princes, which with their strength are laide by them that were slaine by the sworde: they shall sleep with the vncircumcised, and with them that goe downe to the pit.

30 There be all ꝑ princes of the r North, with all the Zidonians, which are gone downe with the slaine, with their feare: they are ashamed of their strength, and the vncircumcised sleepe with them that bee slaine by the sword, and beare their shame with them that go downe to the pit.

31 Pharaoh shall see them, and he shalbe s comforted ouer all his multitude: Pharaoh, and all his armie shall be slaine by the sword, saith the Lord God.

32 For I haue caused my t feare to bee in the land of the liuing: and he shalbe laid in the middes of the vncircumcised with them, that are slaine by the sworde, euen Pharaoh and all his multitude, saith the Lord God.

2 The office of the gouernours and ministers. 14 He strengtheneth them that despaire, and boldeneth the with the promise of mercie. 30 The word of the Lord against the mockers of the Prophet.

AGaine the word of the Lorde came vnto me, saying,

g By this maner of speech is meant the great sorow that shall be for the slaughter of the king and his people.

h This came to passe in lesse then foure yeres after this prophecie.

r Which died not by cruell death, but by the course of nature, and are honourably buried with their coate armour and signes of honour.

s The kings of Babylon.

t As the wicked reioyce when they see others partakers of their miseries.

u I will make the Egyptians afraide of me, as they caused others to feare them.

I bring the sword vpon a land, if the people of the land take a man ‖from among them, and make them their a watchman,

3 If when he seeth the sword come vpon the land, he blow the trumpet, & warne the people,

4 Then he that heareth the sound of the trumpet, and will not be warned, if the sword come, and take him away, his blood shalbe vpon his owne head.

5 For he heard the sound of þ trumpet, and would not bee admonished: therefore his blood shalbe vpon him: but he that receiueth warning, shal saue his life.

6 But if the watchman see the sworde come, and blowe not the trumpet, and the people be not warned: if the sworde come, and take any person from among them, he is taken away for his b iniquitie, but his blood will I require at the watchmans hande.

7 * So thou, O sonne of man, I haue made thee a watchmã vnto þ house of Israel: therefore thou shalt heare the word at my c mouth, and admonish them from me.

8 When I shal say vnto the wicked, O wicked man, thou shalt die the death, if thou doest not speake, and admonish the wicked of his way, that wicked man shall die for his iniquitie, but his blood will I d require at thine hand.

9 Neuertheless, if thou warne the wicked of his way, to turne from it, if he doe not turne from his way, he shal die for his iniquitie, but thou hast deliuered thy soule.

10 Therefore, O thou sonne of man, speake vnto the house of Israel, Thus yee speake and say, If our transgressions & our sinnes be vpon vs, & we are consumed because of them, e how should we then liue?

11 Say vnto them, As I liue, saith the Lord God, f I desire not the death of the wicked, but that the wicked turne from his way and liue: turne you, turne you from your euil wayes, for why will ye die, O ye house of Israel?

12 Therefore thou sonne of man, say vnto the children of thy people, The g righteousnesse of the righteous shall not deliuer him in the day of his transgression, nor the wickednesse of the wicked shall cause him to fall therein, in the day that hee returneth from his wickednes, neither shall the righteous liue for his righteousnesse in the day that he sinneth.

13 When I shall say vnto the righteous, that he shall surely liue, if hee trust to his owne righteousnes, and commit iniquitie, all his righteousnes shal be no more remembred, but for his iniquitie that hee hath committed, he shall die for the same.

14 Againe when I shall say vnto the wicked, Thou shalt die the death, if hee turne from his sinne, and do that which is lawfull and h right, 15 To wit, if the wicked restore the pledge, & giue againe that he had robbed, & walke in the statutes of life, without committing iniquitie, he shall surely liue, and not die.

16 None of his sins that he hath committed, shall be mentioned vnto him: because he hath done that, which is lawfull and right, he shall surely liue.

17 Yet the children of thy people say, *The way of the Lord is not equall: but their owne way is vnequall.

18 When the righteous turneth from his righteousnesse, and committeth iniquitie, he shall euen die therefore.

19 But if the wicked returne from his wickednesse, and do that which is lawfull, and right, he shall liue therefore.

20 Yet ye say, the way of the Lord is not equall. O ye house of Israel, I wil iudge you euery one after his wayes.

21 Also in the twelfth yeere of i our captiuitie, in the tenth moneth, and in the fift day of the moneth, one that had escaped out of Jerusalem, came vnto me, and saide, The citie is smitten.

22 Now the k hande of the Lord had bene vpon me in the euening afore he that had escaped, came, and had opened my mouth, vntil he came to me in þ morning: and when he had opened my l mouth, I was no more dumme.

23 Againe the worde of the Lord came vnto me, and said,

24 Sonne of man, these that dwell in þ desolate places of the land of Israel, talke and say, m Abraham was but one, and hee possessed the land: but we are many, therefore the land shall be giuen vs in possession.

25 Wherefore say vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God, Yee eate with the n blood, and lift vp your eyes toward your idoles, and shed blood: shoulde yee then possesse the land?

26 Ye leane vpon your n swordes: yee worke abomination, & ye defile euery one his neighbours wife: shoulde ye then possesse the land?

27 Say thus vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God, As I liue, so surely they that are in the desolate places, shall fall by the sword: and him that is in the open fielde, will I giue vnto the beasts to be deuoured: and they that bee in the fortes and in the caues, shall die of the pestilence.

28 For I will lay the land desolate and waste, and the* pompe of her strength shall cease: and the mountaines of Israel shall be desolate, and none shall passe through.

29 Then shal they know that I am the Lord, when I haue laide the lande desolate and waste, because of all their abominations, that they haue committed.

30 Also thou sonne of man, the children of thy people that p talke of thee by the walles and in the doores of houses, and speake one to another, euery one to his brother, saying, Come, I pray you, and heare what is þ word þ commeth from the Lord.

31 For they come vnto thee, as the people vseth to come: and my people sit before thee, and heare thy wordes, but they will not do them: for with their mouthes they make q iestes, and their heart goeth after their couetousnes.

32 And loe, thou art vnto them, as a ‖iesting song of one þ hath a pleasant voice, & can sing well: for they heare thy wordes, but

b Signifying, that the wicked shall not escape punishment though y watchman be negligent: but if the watchman blow the trumpet, and then he will not obey, he shall deserue double punishment. Chap.3.17.

c Which teacheth that hee that receiueth not his charge at the Lordes mouth, as a spie, and not a true watchman.

CHAP. XXXIIII.

2 Against the shepheards that despised the flocke of Christ,and seeke their owne gaine. 7 The Lorde saith that he will visite his dispersed flocke, and gather them together. 23 He promiseth the true shepheard Christ,and with him peace.

AND the worde of the Lorde came vnto me,saying,

2 Sonne of man, prophecie against the shepheards of Israel, prophecie & say vnto them, Thus saith the Lorde God vnto the shepheards,* Woe be vnto the [a] shepheards of Israel, that feede themselues: shoulde not the shepheards feede the flockes?

3 Ye eate the [b] fatte, and yee clothe you with the woollie:ye kil them that are fed,but ye feede not the sheepe.

4 The [c] weake haue ye not strengthened: the sicke haue yee not healed, neyther haue yee bound vp the broken, nor brought againe that which was driuen awap, neyther haue yee sought that which was lost, but with crueltie, and with rigour haue ye ruled them.

5 And they were scattered bpon a shepheard: and when they were dispersed, they were [d] deuoured of all the beasts of the field.

6 My sheepe wandred thzough all the mountaines, and vpon euery hie hill: yea, my flocke was scattered thzough all the earth, & none did seeke or search after them.

7 Therefore ye shepheards, heare the worde of the Lord.

8 As I liue, saith the Lorde God, surely because my flocke was spoyled, and my sheepe were deuoured of all the beastes of the field,hauing no shepheard, neither did my shepheards seeke my sheepe, but the shepheards fed themselues,and fed not my sheepe, 9 Therefore, heare ye the worde of the Lord,O ye shepheards.

10 Thus saith the Lorde God, Behold, I come against the shepheards,and will require my sheepe at their handes, and cause them to cease from feeding the sheepe: neither shall the shepheardes feede themselues any more: for I will deliuer my sheepe from [e] their mouthes, and they shall no more deuoure them.

11 For thus saith the Lord God,Behold, I will search my sheepe,& seeke them out.

12 As a shepheard searcheth out his flocke, when he hath bin among his sheepe that are scattered, so will I seeke out my sheepe and will deliuer them out of all places,where they haue bene scattered in [f] the cloudie and darke day.

13 And I will bring them out from the people, and gather them from the countries, and will bring them to their owne land,and feede them vpon the mountaines of Israel, by the riuers,and in all the inhabited places of the countrey.

14 I will feede them in a good pasture, & vpon the hie mountaines of Israel shall their folde be; there shall they lie in a good folde,and in fat pasture shall they feede vpon the mountaines of Israel.

15 I will feed my sheepe,and bring them to their rest,saith the Lord God.

16 I will seeke that which was lost,and bring againe that which was driuen awap, and will binde vp that which was broken, and will strengthen the weake, but I will destroy the fatte and the strong,and I will feede them with [h] iudgement.

17 Also you my sheepe, Thus saith the Lorde God, Beholde, I iudge betweene sheepe, and sheepe, betweene the rammes and the goates.

18 Seemeth it a small thing vnto you to haue eaten vp the good [i] pasture, but yee must treade downe with your feete the residue of your pasture? and to haue drunk of the deepe waters, but yee must trouble the residue with your feete?

19 And my sheepe eate that which yee haue troden with your feet,and drinke that which ye haue troubled with your feete.

20 Therefore thus saith the Lorde God vnto them,Behold, I,euen I will iudge betweene the fat sheepe and the leane sheepe.

21 Because ye haue thrust with side and with shoulder, and pusht all the weake with your hornes,till ye haue scattered the abroade, 22 Therefore will I helpe my sheepe,and they shal no more be spoyled, & I will iudge betweene sheepe and sheepe.

23 And I will set vp a shepheard ouer them, and he shall feede them,euen my seruant [k] Dauid, he shall feede them, and hee shall be their shepheard.

24 And I the Lorde will be their God, and my seruant Dauid shall be the prince among them. I the Lord haue spoken it.

25 And I will make with them a couenant of peace,and will cause the euil beasts to cease out of the lande: and they shall dwell safely in the wildernesse, and sleepe in the woods.

26 And I wil set them,as a blessing,euen round about my mountaine: and I will cause raine to come downe in due season, and there shall be raine of blessing.

27 And the [m] tree of the field shall yeeld her fruit,and the earth shall giue her fruite, and they shalbe safe in their land, and shall knowe that I am the Lorde, when I haue broken the cordes of their yoke, & deliuered them out of the hands of those that serued themselues of them.

28 And they shall no more be spoyled of the heathen, neither shall the beastes of the lande deuoure them, but they shall dwell safely and none shall make them afraide.

29 And I will raise vp for them a [n] plant of renowme,& they shall be no more consumed with hunger in the land,neither beare the reproch of the heathen any more.

30 Thus shall they vnderstande,that I the Lord their God am with them,and that they, euen the house of Israel, are my people,saith the Lord God.

31 And ye my sheepe, the sheepe of my pasture are men, and I am your God,saith the Lord God.

2 The destruction that shall come on mount Seir, because they troubled the people of the Lord.

MOreouer the worde of the Lorde came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, set thy face against mount [a] Seir, and prophecie against it,

3 And say vnto it, Thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, O mount Seir, I come against thee, & I will stretch out mine hand against thee, and I will make thee desolate and waste.

4 I will lay thy cities waste, and thou shalt be desolate, and thou shalt know that I am the Lord.

5 Because thou hast had a perpetual hatred and hast put the children of Israel to flight by the force of the sword in the time of their calamitie, when their [b] iniquitie had an ende,

6 Therefore as I liue, saith the Lorde God, I will prepare thee vnto blood, and blood shall pursue thee: except thou [c] hate blood, euen blood shall pursue thee.

7 Thus will I make mount Seir desolate and waste, and cut off from it him that passeth out and him that returneth.

8 And I will fill his mountaines with his slaine men: in thine hilles and in thy valleis and in all thy riuers shall they fall, that are slaine with the sword.

9 I will make thee perpetuall desolations, and thy cities shall not [d] returne, and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

10 Because thou hast sayde, [e] These two nations, and these two countreis shall be mine, and we will possesse them (seeing the Lord was [f] there)

11 Therefore as I liue, saieth the Lorde God, I will euē do according to thy wrath, and according to thine indignation which thou hast vsed in thine hatred against thē: and I will make my selfe knowen among [h] them when I haue iudged thee.

12 And thou shalt know, that I the Lord haue heard all the blasphemies which thou hast spoken against the mountaines of Israel, saying, They lie waste, they are giuen vs to be deuoured.

13 Thus with your mouthes ye haue boasted against mee, and haue multiplied your woordes against me: I haue heard them.

14 Thus saith the Lord God, So shall all the world reioyce, when I shal make thee desolate.

15 As thou diddest reioyce at the inheritance of the house of Israel, because it was desolate, so wil I doe vnto thee: thou shalt be desolate, O mount Seir, and all Idumea wholy, and they shall knowe, that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXXVI.

8 He promiseth to deliuer Israel from the Gentiles. 22 The benefites done vnto the Iewes, are to be ascribed to the mercie of God, and not vnto their deseruings. 26 God renueth our hearts, that we may walke in his commandements.

ALso thou sonne of man, prophecie vnto the *mountaines of Israel, and say, Ye mountaines of Israel, heare the worde of the Lorde.

2 Thus saith the Lorde God, Because the [a] enemie hath sayde against you, Aha, euen the [b] hie places of the world are ours in possession,

3 Therefore prophecie, & say, Thus saith the Lord God, Because that they haue made you desolate, & swalowed you vp on euery side, that ye might be a possession vnto the residue of the heathen, and ye are come vnto the lippes and [c] tongues of men, and vnto the reproch of the people,

4 Therefore yee mountaines of Israel, heare the word of the Lord God, Thus saith the Lord God to the mountaines and to the hilles, to the riuers, and to the valleis, and to the waste, and desolate places, and to the cities that are forsaken: which are spoyled and had in derision of the residue of the heathen that are round about.

5 Therefore thus saieth the Lord God, Surely in the fire of mine indignation haue I spoken against the residue of the heathen, and against all Idumea, which [d] haue taken my lande for their possession, with the ioy of all their heart, and with despiteful mindes to cast it out for a pray.

6 Prophecie therefore vpon the land of Israel, and say vnto the mountaines, and to the hilles, to the riuers, and to the valleys, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I haue spoken in mine indignation, and in my wrath, because ye haue suffered the [e] shame of the heathen,

7 Therefore thus saith the Lorde God, I haue [f] lifted vp mine hande, surely the heathen that are about you, shall beare their shame.

8 But you, O mountaines of Israel, ye shall [g] shoote forth your branches, & bring forth your fruite to my people of Israel: for they are readie to come.

9 For behold, I come vnto you, and I will turne vnto you, and ye shall be tilled and sowen.

10 And I will multiplie the men vpon you, euen all the house of Israel wholy, and the cities shall be inhabited, and the desolate places shall be builded.

11 And I wil multiplie vpon you man and beast, and they shall increase and bring fruite, and I will cause you to dwell after your olde estate, and I wil bestow benefits vpon you more then [h] at the first, and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

12 Yea, I will cause men to walke vpon [i] you, euen my people Israel, and they shall possesse [j] you, and ye shall be their inheritance, and ye shal no more hencefoorth deprine them of men.

13 Thus saith the Lord God, Because they say vnto you, Thou [k] lande deuourest vp men, and hast bene a waster of thy people,

14 Therefore thou shalt deuoure men no more, neither waste thy people hencefoorth, saith the Lord God, 15 Neither wil I cause men to heare in thee the shame of the heathen any more, neither shalt thou beare the reproch of the people any more, neither shalt cause thy folke to fall any more, saith the Lord God.

16 ¶ Moreouer the worde of the Lorde came vnto me, saying,

17 Sonne of man, when the house of Israel dwelt in their owne land, they defiled it by their owne wayes, & by their deedes: their way was before me as the filthinesse of the menstruous.

18 Wherefore I powred my wrath vpon them, for the blood that they had shed in the land, and for their idoles, wherewith they had polluted it.

19 And I scattered them among the heathen, and they were dispersed through the countreis: for according to their wayes, and according to their deedes, I iudged them.

20 *And when they entred vnto the heathen, whither they went, they polluted mine holy Name, when they said of them, These are the people of the Lorde, and are gone out of his land.

21 But I fauoured mine holy ‖ Name which the house of Israel had polluted among the heathen, whither they went.

22 Therefore say vnto the house of Israel, Thus saith ℣ Lord God, I do not this for your sakes, O house of Israel, but for mine m holy Names sake, which ye polluted among the heathen whither ye went.

23 And I will sanctifie my great Name, which was polluted among the heathen, among whome you haue polluted it, and the heathen shal know that I am the Lord, saith the Lord God, when I shall be sanctified in you before‖ their eyes.

24 For I will take you from among the heathen, & gather you out of all countryes, and will bring you into your owne land.

25 Then wil I powre cleane n water vpon you, and ye shalbe cleane: yea, from all your filthinesse, and from all your idoles will I cleense you.

26 *A new heart also will I giue you, and a new spirit wil I put within you, & I will take away the stony heart out of your body, and I will giue you an heart of flesh.

27 And I will put my Spirit within you, & cause you to walke in my statutes, and ye shall keepe my iudgements and doe them.

28 And ye shal dwel in the land, that I gaue to your fathers, & ye shalbe my people, and I will be your God.

29 I will also deliuer you from all your filthines, & I will call for o corne, and will increase it, and lay no famine vpon you.

30 For I will multiplie the fruite of the trees, and the increase of the fielde, that ye shall beare no more the reproche of famine among the heathen.

31 Then shall ye remember your owne wicked wayes, and your deedes that were not good, and shall iudge your selues worthie to haue bene p destroyed for your iniquities, and for your abominations.

32 Be it knowen vnto you that I doe not this for your sakes, saith ℣ Lord God: therefore, O ye house of Israel, be ashamed, and confounded for your owne wayes.

33 Thus saith the Lorde God, What time as I shal haue cleansed you frō al your iniquities, I will cause you to dwell in the cities, & the desolate places shalbe builded, 34 And the desolate lande shall be tilled, whereas it lay waste in the sight of all that passed by.

35 For they said, This waste land was like the garden of Eden, & these waste and desolate & ruinous cities were strong, and were inhabited.

36 Then the residue of the heathen that are left round about you, shall q know that I the Lord build the ruinous places, and plant the desolate places: I the Lord haue spoken it, and will doe it.

37 Thus saith the Lord God, I will yet for this be sought of the house of Israel, to perfourme it vnto them: I wil increase them with men like a flocke.

38 As the holy flocke, as ℣ flocke of Ierusalem in their solemne feastes, so shal the desolate cities be filled with flockes of men, and they shall know, that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXXVII.

1 He prophecieth the bringing againe of the people being in captiuitie. 16 He sheweth the vnion of the ten tribes with the two.

THe hand of the Lord was vpon me, and caried me out in the Spirit of the Lord, and set me downe in the mids of the ‖ fielde, which was full of a bones.

2 And he led me round about by them, and beholde, there were very many in the open fielde, and lo, they were verie drie.

3 And he said vnto me, Sonne of man, can these bones liue? And I answered, O Lord God, thou knowest.

4 Againe he sayde vnto me, Prophecie vpon these bones and say vnto them, O ye dry bones, heare the word of the Lord.

5 Thus saith the Lorde God vnto these bones, Beholde, I will cause breath to enter into you, and ye shall liue.

6 And I will lay sinewes vpon you, and make flesh grow vpon you, and couer you with skin, & put breath in you, that ye may liue, and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

7 So I prophecied, as I was commanded: & as I prophecied, there was a noyse, and beholde, there was a shaking, and the bones came together, bone to his bone.

8 And when I beheld, lo, the sinewes, and the flesh grewe vpon them, and aboue, the skin couered them, but there was no breath in them.

9 Then said he vnto me, Prophecie vnto the winde: prophecie, sonne of man, and say to the winde, Thus saith the Lorde God, Come from the foure b windes, O breath, and breathe vpon these slaine, that they may liue.

10 So I prophecied as he had commanded me: and the breath came into them, and they liued, and stoode vp vpon their feete, an exceeding great armie.

11 Then he said vnto me, Sonne of man, these bones are the whole house of Israel. Beholde, they say, Our bones are dried, and our hope is gone, and we are cleane cut off.

12 Therefore prophecie, & say vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, my people, I will open your graues, and cause

22 And I will make them one people in the land, vpon the mountaines of Israel, * and one king shalbe king to them all: and they shalbe no more two peoples, neither be deuided any more henceforth into two kingdomes.

23 Neither shall they be polluted any more with their idoles, nor with their abominations, nor with any of their transgressions: but I will saue them out of all their dwelling places, wherein they haue sinned, and will cleanse them: so shal they be my people, and I will be their God.

24 And Dauid my * seruant shalbe king ouer them, and they all shal haue one shepheard: they shall also walke in my iudgements, and obserue my statutes, and doe them.

8 After many dayes thou shalt be visited: for in the latter yeeres thou shalt come into the land, that hath bin destroyed with the sworde, and is gathered out of many people vpon the mountaines of Israel, which haue long lyen waste: yet ‖ they haue bene brought out of the people, and they shall dwell all safe.

9 Thou shalt ascende and come vp like a tempest, and shalt be like a cloude to couer the land, both thou, and all thy bands, and many people with thee.

7 So will I make mine holy Name knowen in the mids of my people Israel, and I will not suffer them to pollute mine holy Name any more, and the heathen shal knowe that I am the Lord, the holy one of Israel.

8 Beholde, [d] it is come, and it is done, sayth the Lord God: this is the day whereof I haue spoken.

9 And they that dwel in the cities of Israel, shall [e] goe forth, and shall burne and set fire vpon the weapons, and on the shieldes, and bucklers, vpon the bowes, and vpon the arrowes, and vpon the staues in their hands, and vpon the speares, and they shal burne them with fire seuen yeeres.

10 So that they shall bring no wood out of the fielde, neither cut downe any out of the forests: for they shall burne the weapons with fire, and they shall robbe those that robbed them, and spople those that spopled them, sayth the Lord God.

11 And at the same time will I giue vnto Gog [f] a place there for buriall in Israel, euen the valley whereby men goe towarde the East part of the Sea: and it shall cause them that passe by, to stoppe their [g] noses, and there shall they burie Gog with all his multitude: and they shall call it the valley of ‖ Hamon-gog.

12 [h] And seuen moneths long shall the house of Israel bee burying of them, that they map cleanse the land.

13 Yea, all the people of the lande shall burp them, & they shall haue a name when I shalbe glorified, sayth the Lord God.

14 And they shall chuse out men to goe continually through the [i] lande with them that trauaile, to burie those that remaine vpon the grounde, and cleanse it: they shall search to the ende of seuen moneths.

15 And the trauailers that passe through the land, if any see a mans bone, then shall he set vp a signe by it, till the buriers haue buried it, in the valley of Hamon-Gog.

16 And also the name of the citie shall be ‖ Hamonah: thus shall they cleanse the land.

17 And thou sonne of man, thus sayeth the Lorde God, Speake vnto euery feathered foule, and to all the beastes of the fielde, Assemble your selues, and come: [k] gather your selues on euery side to my sacrifice: for I do sacrifice a great sacrifice for you vpon the mountaines of Israel, that ye may eate flesh and drinke blood.

18 Yee shall eate the flesh of the valiant, and drinke the blood of the princes of the earth, of the weathers, of the lambs, and of the goates, and of bullockes, euen of all fat beastes of Bashan.

19 And ye shall eate fat till you bee full, and i Shalt not thou spie thine occasions to come against my Church, when they suspect nothing?

k Meaning, in the last age, and from the comming of Christ vnto the ende of the world.

l Signifying, that God will be sanctified by maintaining his Church, and destroying his enemies, as chap. 36. 23. and 37. 28.

m Hereby he declareth that none affliction can come to the Church, whereof they haue not bene aduertised aforetime, to teach them to indure all things with more patience when they know that God hath so ordeined.

n All meanes whereby man should thinke to saue himselfe, shall faile, the affliction in those dayes shall be so great, & the enemies destruction shalbe so terrible.

o Against the people of Gog and Magog. Chap. 36. 23. and 37. 28.

a Or, destroy thee with sixe plagues, as Chap. 38. 22.

b Meaning, that by the vertue of Gods word the enemie shalbe destroyed where-soeuer he assaileth his Church.

c That is, among all nations where the enemies of my people dwell, seeme they neuer so farre separate.

d That is, this plague is fully determined in my counsell, and cannot be changed.

e After this destruction the Church shal haue great peace and tranquillitie, and burne all their weapons because they shall no more feare the enemie: and this is chiefly meant of the accomplishment of Christes kingdome, when by their head Christ all enemies shall be ouercome.

f Which declareth that the enemies shall haue an horrible fall.

g For the stinke of the carkeises.

h Meaning, a long time.

i Partly that the holy land should not be polluted, and partly for the compassion that the children of God haue, euen on their enemies.

k Whereby he signifieth the horrible destruction that should come vpon the enemies of his Church.

and drinke blood, till ye be drunken of my sacrifice, which I haue sacrificed for you.

20 Thus you shall be filled at my table with horses and chariots, with valiant men, and with all men of warre, sayeth the Lord God.

21 And I will set my glorie among the heathen, and all the heathen shall see my iudgement, that I haue executed, and mine hand, which I haue layde vpon them.

22 So the house of Israel shall knowe, that I am the Lorde their God from that day and so forth.

23 And the heathen shall know, that the house of Israel went into captiuitie for their iniquitie, because they trespalled against mee: therefore hid I my face from them, and gaue them into the hand of their enemies: so fell they all by the sword.

24 According to their vncleanesse, and according to their transgressions haue I done vnto them, & hid my face from them.

25 Therefore thus saith the Lorde God, Nowe will I bring againe the captiuitie of Iaakob, and haue compassion vpon the whole house of Israel, and will be iealous for mine holy Name,

26 After that they haue borne their shame, and all their transgression, whereby they haue transgressed against mee, when they dwelt safely in their land, and without feare of any,

27 When I haue brought them againe from the people, and gathered them out of their enemies lands, and am * sanctified in them in the sight of many nations,

28 Then shall they know, that I am the Lord their God, which caused them to bee ledde into captiuitie among the heathen: but I haue gathered them vnto their owne lande, and haue left none of them any more there, 29 Neither will I hide my face any more from them: for I haue powred out my Spirit vpon the house of Israel, saith the Lord God.

1 The heathen shall knowe that they ouercame not my people by their strength, neither yet by the weakenesse of mine arme, but that this was for my peoples sinnes.

* Chap. 36. 23.

CHAP. XL.

The restoring of the citie and the Temple.

IN the fiue and twentieth yeere of our being in captiuitie in the [a] beginning of the yeere, in the tenth day of the moneth, in the fourteenth yeere after that the citie was smitten, in the selfe same day, the hande of the Lorde was vpon mee, and brought mee thither.

2 Into the land of Israel brought he me by ‖ a diuine vision, and set me vpon a very hie mountaine, whereupon was as the building of a citie, toward the South.

3 And hee brought me thither, and beholde, there was a [b] man, whose similitude was to looke to, like brasse, with a linen thread in his hand, and a reede to measure with: and he stoode at the gate.

4 And the man sayd vnto me, Sonne of man, behold with thine eyes, and heare with thine eares, and set thine heart vpon all that I shall shewe thee: for to the intent that they might bee shewed thee, art thou brought hither: declare all that thou seest, vnto the house of Israel.

a The Iewes counted the beginning of the yeere after two sortes: for their feastes they began to count in March, and for their other affaires in September: so that this is to be vnderstand of September.

‖ Or, visions of God.

b Which was an Angel in forme of a man, that came to measure out this building.

5 And behold, I sawe a wall on the outside of the house roumbe about: and in the mans hand was a reede to measure with, of sixe cubites long, by the cubite, and an hand breadth: so he measured the breadth of the building with one reed, and the height with one reede.

6 Then came he vnto the gate, which looketh toward the East, and went by the staires thereof, and measured the ‖ poste of the gate, which was one reede broade, and ‖ the other poste of the gate, which was one reede broad.

7 And euery chamber was one reede long, and one reede broad, and betweene the chambers were fiue cubites: and the poste of the gate by the porch of the gate within was one reede.

8 He measured also the porch of the gate within with one reede,

9 Then measured hee the porche of the gate of eight cubites, and the ‖ postes thereof, of two cubites, and the porch of the gate was inward.

10 And the chambers of the gate Eastward, were three on this side, and three on that side: they three were of one measure, and the posts had one measure on this side, and one on that side.

11 And hee measured the breadth of the entrie of the gate ten cubites, and the height of the gate thirteene cubites.

12 The space also before the chambers was one cubite on this side, and the space was one cubite on that side, and the chambers were sixe cubites on this side, & sixe cubites on that side.

13 Hee measured then the gate from the roofe of a chamber to the toppe of the gate: the breadth was fiue and twentie cubites, doore against doore.

14 He made also postes of threescore cubites, and the postes of the court, and of the gate had one measure round about.

15 And vpon the forefront of the entrie of the gate vnto the forefront of the porch of the gate within were fiftie cubites.

16 And there were narrowe windowes in the chambers, and in their postes within the gate round about, and likewise to the arches: and the windowes went round about within: & vpon the posts were palme trees.

17 ¶ Then brought he me into the outward court, and loe, there were chambers, and a pauement made for the court roumde about, and thirtie chambers were vpon the pauement.

18 And the pauement was by the side of the gates ouer against the length of the gates, and the pauement was beneath.

19 Then hee measured the breadth from the forefront of the lower gate without, vnto the forefront of the court within, an hundreth cubites Eastward and Northward.

20 And the gate of the outward court, that looked toward the North, measured he after the length and breadth thereof.

21 And the chambers thereof were three on this side, and three on that side, and the postes thereof and the arches there-

‖ Or, threshold.

‖ Or, vpper poste.

of were after the measure of the first gate: the length thereof was fiftie cubites, and the breadth fiue and twentie cubites.

22 And their windowes, & their arches & their palme trees, were after the measure of the gate that looketh toward þ East, and the going vp vnto it had seuen steppes, and the arches thereof were before them.

23 And the gate of the inner court stoode ouer against the gate towarde the North, and towarde the East, and he measured from gate to gate an hundreth cubites.

24 After that, he brought me toward the South, and loe, there was a gate toward the South, and he measured the postes thereof, and the arches therof according to these measures.

25 And there were windowes in it, and in the arches thereof round about, like those windowes: the height was fiftie cubites, and the breadth fiue and twentie cubites.

26 And there were seuen steps to goe vp to it, & the arches thereof were before them: and it had palme trees, one on this side, and another on that side vpon the post thereof.

27 ¶ And there was a gate in the inner court toward the South, and he measured from gate to gate towarde the South an hundreth cubites.

28 And he brought me into þ inner court by the South gate, and hee measured the South gate according to these measures, 29 And the chambers thereof, and the postes thereof, and the arches thereof according to these measures, and there were windowes in it, and in the arches thereof round about, it was fiftie cubites long and fiue and twentie cubites broade.

30 And the arches rounde about were fiue and twentie cubites long, and fiue cubites broade.

31 And the arches thereof were towarde the vtter court, and palme trees were vpon the postes thereof, and the going vp to it had eight steppes.

32 ¶ Againe he brought me into the inner court toward the East, and he measured the gate according to these measures.

33 And the chabers thereof, & the postes thereof, and the arches thereof were according to these measures, and there were windowes therein, and in the arches thereof round about, it was fiftie cubites long, and fiue and twentie cubites broad.

34 And the arches thereof were toward the vtter court, and palme trees were vpon the postes thereof, on this side and on that side, and the going vp to it had eight steps.

35 ¶ After, he brought me to the North gate, and measured it, according to these measures.

36 The chambers thereof, the postes thereof, and the arches thereof, and there were windowes therein round about: the height was fiftie cubites, and the breadth fiue and twentie cubites.

37 And the postes thereof were towarde the vtter court, and palme trees were vpon the postes thereof on this side, and on that side, and the going vp to it had eight steps.

38 And euery chamber, and the entrie thereof was vnder the postes of the gates: there they washed the burnt offring.

39 And in the porche of the gate stoode two tables on this side, and two tables on that side, vpon the which they slewe the burnt offering, and the sinne offering, and the trespasse offering.

40 And at the side beyond the steps, at the entrie of the North gate stoode two tables, and on the other side, which was at the porch of the gate were two tables.

41 Foure tables were on this side, and foure tables on that side by the side of the gate, euen eight tables whereupon they slewe their sacrifice.

42 And the foure tables were of hewen stone for the burnt offering of a cubite and an halfe long, and a cubite and a halfe broad, and one cubite hie: whereupon also they layd the instruments wherewith they slewe the burnt offering and the sacrifice.

43 And within were borders an hande broad, fastened round about, and vpon the tables lay the flesh of the offering.

44 And without the inner gate, were the chambers of the singers in the inner court, which was at the side of the North gate: and their prospect was towarde the South, and one was at the side of the East gate, hauing the prospect toward the North.

45 And he said vnto me, This chamber whose prospect is toward the South, is for the priestes that haue charge to keepe the house.

46 And the chamber whose prospect is towarde the North, is for the Priestes that haue the charge to keepe the altar: these are the sonnes of Zadok among the sonnes of Leui which may come neere to the Lord to minister vnto him.

47 So hee measured the court, an hundreth cubites long, and an hundreth cubites broade euen foure square: likewise the altar that was before the house.

48 And hee brought me to the porch of the house, and measured the postes of the porch, fiue cubites on this side, and fiue cubites on that side: and the breadth of the gate was three cubites on this side, and three cubites on that side.

49 The length of the porch was twentie cubites, and the breadth eleuen cubites, and he brought me by the steppes whereby they went vp to it, and there were pillars by the postes, one on this side, and an another on that side.

CHAP. XLI.

The disposition and order of the building of the Temple and the other things thereto belonging.

AFterward, he brought me to the Temple, and measured the postes, sixe cubites broad on the one side, and sixe cubites broad on þ other side, which was the breadth of the Tabernacle.

2 And the breadth of the entrie was tenne cubites, and the sides of the entrie were fiue cubites on the one side, and fiue cubites on the other side, and hee measured the length thereof fourtie cubites, and the breadth twentie cubites.

3 Then went he in, and measured the postes postes of the entrie two cubites, and the entrie fyre cubites, and the breadth of the entrie seuen cubites.

4 So hee measured the length thereof twentie cubites, and the bredth twentie cubites before the Temple. And he sayd vnto me, This is the most holy place.

5 After, he measured þ wall of the house, sixe cubites, and the breadth of euery chamber foure cubites round about the house on euery side.

6 And the chambers were chamber vpõ chamber, three and thirtie foote high, & they entred into the wall made for the chambers which was round about the house, that the postes might be fastened therein, and not be fastened in the wall of the house.

7 And it was large, & went round mounting vpward to the chambers: for the staire of þ house was mounting vpward, round about the house: therefore the house was larger vpward: so they went vp from the lowest chamber to the highest by the middes.

8 I saw also the house hie round about: the foundations of the chambers were a full reede of sixe great cubites.

9 The thicknesse of the wall which was for the chamber without, was fiue cubites, and that which remained, was the place of the chambers that were within.

10 And betweene the chambers was the wideneſſe of twentie cubites round about the house on euery side.

11 And the doores of the chambers were toward the place that remained, one doore toward the North, and another doore toward the South, and the breadth of the place that remained, was fiue cubites round about.

12 Now þ building that was before the separate place toward the West corner, was seuentie cubites broade, and the wall of the building was fiue cubites thicke, round about, and the length ninetie cubites.

13 So he measured þ house an hundreth cubites long, and the separate place and the building with the walles thereof were an hundreth cubites long.

14 Also þ breadth of the forefront of the house and of the separate place toward the East, was an hundreth cubites.

15 And he measured the length of þ building, ouer against the separate place, which was behinde it, and the chambers on the one side and on the other side an hundreth cubites with the Temple within, and the arches of the court.

16 The postes and the narrowe windowes, and the chambers round about, on three sides ouer against the postes, sieled with cedar wood round about, and from the ground vp to the windowes, and the windowes were sieled.

17 And from aboue the doore vnto the inner house & without, and by all the wall round about within and without it was sieled according to the measure.

18 And it was made with Cherubims and palme trees, so that a palme tree was betweene a Cherub and a Cherub: and euery Cherub had two faces.

19 So that the face of a man was toward the palme tree on the one side, and the face of a lyon towarde the palme tree on the other side: thus was it made through all the house round about.

20 From the ground vnto aboue the doore were Cherubims and palme trees made as in the wall of the Temple.

21 The postes of the Temple were squared, and thus to looke vnto was the similitude and forme of the Sanctuarie.

22 The altar of wood was three cubites hie, and the length thereof two cubites, and the corners thereof and the length thereof and the sides thereof were of wood. And he sayd vnto mee, This is the table that shall be before the Lord.

23 And the temple and the Sanctuarie had two doores.

24 And the doores had two wickets, euen two turning wickets, two wickets for one doore, and two wickets for another doore.

25 And vpon the doores of the Temple there were made Cherubims and palme trees, like as was made vpon the walles, and there were thicke plankes vpon the forefront of the porch without.

26 And there were narrowe windowes and palme trees on the one side, and on the other side, by the sides of the porch, and vpon the sides of the house, and thicke planks.

CHAP. XLII.

Of the chambers of the Temple for the Priests, and the holy things.

THen brought he me into the vtter court by the way towarde the North, and he brought mee into the chamber that was ouer against the separate place, and which was before the building towarde the North.

2 Before the length of an hundreth cubites, was the North doore, and it was fiftie cubites broade.

3 Ouer against the twentie cubites which were for the inner court, and ouer against the pauement, which was for the vtter court, was chamber against chamber in three rowes.

4 And before the chambers was a gallerie of tenne cubites wide, and within was a way of one cubite, and their doores toward the North.

5 Nowe the chambers aboue were narrower: for those chambers seemed to eate vp these, to wit, the lower, and those that were in the middes of the building.

6 For they were in three rowes, but had not pillars as the pillars of the court: therefore there was a difference from them beneath and from the middlemost, euen from the ground.

7 And the wall that was without ouer against the chambers, towarde the vtter court on the forefront of the chambers, was fiftie cubites long.

8 For the length of the chambers that were in the vtter court, was fiftie cubites: and loe, before the Temple were an hundreth cubites.

9 And

9 And vnder these chambers was the entrie, on the East side, as one goeth into them from the outward court.

10 The chambers were in the thicknesse of the wall of the court towarde the East, ouer against the separate place, and ouer against the building.

11 And the way before them was after the maner of the chambers, which were toward the North, as long as they, and as broade as they: and all their entries were like, both according to their fashions, and according to their doores.

12 And according to the doores of the chambers that were towarde the South, was a doore in the corner of the way, euen the way directly before the wall towarde the East, as one entreth.

13 Then sayde he vnto mee, The North chambers and the South chambers which are before the separate place, they bee holy chambers, wherein the Priestes that approch vnto the Lord, shal eate the most holy things: there shall they lay the most holy things, and the meate offering, and the sinne offering, and the trespasse offring: for the place is holy.

14 When the Priests enter therein, they shall not goe out of the holy place into the vtter court, but there they shall lay their garments wherein they minister: for they are holy, and shall put on other garments, and so shall approch to those things, which are for the people.

15 Nowe when he had made an ende of measuring the inner house, he brought mee forth toward the gate whose prospect is toward the East, & measured it round about.

16 He measured the East side with the measuring rod, fiue hundreth reedes, euen with the measuring reede round about.

17 He measured also the North side, fiue hundreth reedes, euen with the measuring reede round about.

‖Or, winde.

18 And he measured the South ‖side fiue hundreth reedes with the measuring reede.

19 He turned about also to the West side, and measured fiue hundreth reedes with the measuring reede.

20 He measured it by the foure sides: it had a wall rounde about, fiue hundreth reedes long, & fiue hundreth broade to make a separation betweene the Sanctuarie, and the prophane place.

CHAP. XLIII.

2 Hee seeth the glorie of God going into the Temple, from whence it had before departed. 7. He mentioneth the idolatrie of the children of Israel for the which they were consumed and brought to nought. 9 Hee is commanded to call them againe to repentance.

AFterward hee brought me to the gate, euen the gate that turneth towarde the East.

2 And beholde, the glorie of the God of Israel came from out of the East, whose voice was like a noyse of great waters, and the earth was made light with his glorie.

Chap. 9. 3. a When I prophecied the destruction of the citie by the Caldeans.

3 And the vision which I saw was * like the vision, euen as the vision that I sawe a when I came to destroy the citie: and the visions were like the vision that I sawe by the river Chebar: and I fell vpon my face.

4 And the b glorie of the Lord came into the house by the way of the gate, whose prospect is towarde the East.

b Which was departed afore, Chap. 10. 4. and 11. 22.

5 So the Spirite tooke me vp & brought mee into the inner court, and beholde, the glorie of the Lord filled the house.

6 And I heard one speaking vnto me out of the house: and there stoode a man by me,

7 Which said vnto me, Sonne of man, this place is my throne, and the place of the soles of my feete, whereas I will dwell among the children of Israel for euer, and the house of Israel shall no more c defile mine holy Name, neither they, nor their Kings by their fornication, nor by the carkeises of d their Kings in their hie places.

c By their idolatries.

d He alludeth to Ammon and Manasseh, who were buried in their gardens neere the Temple, and there had erected vp mountaines to their idoles.

8 Albeit they set their thresholds by my thresholds, and their posts by my postes (for there was but a wall betweene mee and them) yet haue they defiled mine holy Name with their abominations, that they haue committed: wherefore I haue consumed them in my wrath.

9 Nowe therefore let them put away their fornication, and the carkeises of their Kings farre from me, and I will dwell among them for euer.

10 ¶ Thou sonne of man, shewe this House to the house of Israel, that they may be ashamed of their wickednesse, and let them measure the paterne.

11 And if they bee ashamed of all that they haue done, shew them the forme of the house, and the paterne thereof, and the going out thereof, and the comming in thereof, and the whole facion thereof, and all the ordinances therof, and al the figures thereof, and all the lawes thereof: and write it in their sight, that they may keepe the whole facion thereof, and al the ordinances thereof, and doe them.

12 This is the ‡description of the house, It shall be vpon the toppe of the mount: all the limites thereof rounde about shall bee most holy. Beholde, this is the description of the house.

‡Ebr, lawe.

13 And these are the measures of the Altar, after the cubites, the cubite is a cubite, and an hand breadth, euen the bottome shal be a cubite, and the breadth a cubite, and the border thereof by the edge therof, round about shall be a spanne: and this shall be the height of the altar.

14 And from the bottome which toucheth the grounde to the lower piece shall be two cubites, and the breadth one cubite, and from the litle piece to the great piece shall be foure cubites, and the breadth one cubite.

15 So the altar shalbe foure cubites, and from the altar vpward shalbe foure homes.

16 And the altar shall bee twelue cubites long, and twelue broade, and foure square in the foure corners thereof.

17 And the frame shall be fourteene cubites long, and fourteene broade in the foure square corners therof, and the border about it shall bee halfe a cubite, and the bottome thereof shall be a cubite about, and the steps thereof shall be turned toward the East.

18 ¶ And

18 ¶ And hee sayde vnto mee, Sonne of man, thus sayth the Lord God, These are the ordinances of the altar in the day when they shall make it to offer the burnt offring thereon, and to sprinkle blood thereon.

19 And thou shalt giue to the Priestes, and to the Leuites, that be of the seed of Zadok, which approch vnto mee, to minister vnto mee, saith the Lord God, a young bullocke for a sinne offering.

20 And thou shalt take of the blood thereof, and put it on the foure hornes of it, and on the foure corners of the frame, and vpon the border round about: thus shalt thou cleanse it, and reconcile it.

21 Thou shalt take the bullocke also of the sinne offering, and burne it in the appointed place of the house without the Sanctuarie.

22 But the second day thou shalt offer an hee goate without blemish for a sinne offering, and they shall cleanse the altar, as they did cleanse it with the bullocke.

23 When thou hast made an end of cleansing it, thou shalt offer a young bullocke without blemish, and a ramme out of the flocke without blemish.

24 And thou shalt offer them before the Lorde, and the Priestes shall cast salt vpon them, and they shal offer them for a burnt offering vnto the Lord.

25 Seuen dayes shalt thou prepare euery day an hee goat for a sinne offering: they shall also prepare a young bullocke and a ramme out of the flocke, without blemish.

26 Thus shall they seuen dayes purifie the altar, and cleanse it, and ‡ consecrate it. ‡Ebr. fill his hand.

27 And when these dayes are expired, vpon the eyght day & so forth, the Priests shall make your burnt offerings vpon the altar, and your peace offerings, and I will accept you, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XLIIII.

He reproueth the people for their offence. 7 The vncircumcised in heart, and in the flesh. 9 Who are to be admitted to the seruice of the Temple, and who to be refused.

THen he brought me toward the gate of the outwarde Sanctuarie, which turneth toward the East, and it was shut.

2 Then saide the Lorde vnto mee, This gate shall be a shut, and shall not be opened, and no man shall enter by it, because the Lord God of Israel hath entered by it, and it shall be shut. a Meaning, from the common people, but not from the Priests, nor the Prince, reade Chap. 46.8,9.

3 It appertaineth to the prince: the prince himselfe shall sit in it to eate bread before the Lorde: he shall enter by the way of the porch of that gate, and shall goe out by the way of the same.

4 ¶ Then brought he me toward the North gate before the House: and when I looked, beholde, the glory of the Lord filled the house of the Lord, & I fell vpon my face.

5 And the Lord said vnto mee, Sonne of man, ‡ marke well, and beholde with thine eyes, and heare with thine eares, all that I say vnto thee, concerning all the ordinances of the House of the Lorde, and all the lawes thereof, and marke well the entring in of the house with euery going forth of the Sanctuarie. ‡Ebr. set thine heart.

6 And thou shalt say to the rebellious, euen to the house of Israel, Thus saieth the Lorde God, O house of Israel, yee haue ynough of all your abominations,

7 Seeing, that ye haue brought into my Sanctuarie b strangers, vncircumcised in heart, and vncircumcised in flesh, to bee in my Sanctuarie, to pollute mine House, when yee offer my bread, euen fat, & blood: and they haue broken my couenant, because of all your abominations. b For they had brought idolaters, which were of other countries, to teach them their idolatrie, Chap. 23.40.

8 For ye haue not kept the c ordinances of mine holy things: but you your selues haue set other to take the charge of my Sanctuarie. c Ye haue not offred vnto me according to my Lawe.

9 Thus saith the Lord God, No stranger vncircumcised in heart, nor vncircumcised in flesh, shall enter into my Sanctuarie, of any stranger that is among the children of Israel,

10 Neyther yet the d Leuites that are gone backe from mee, when Israel went astray, which went astray from mee after their idoles, but they shall beare their iniquitie. d The Leuites which had committed idolatrie, were put from their dignitie, and couldo not be receiued into the Priests office, although they had beene of the house of Aaron, but must serue in the inferior offices, as to watch and to keepe the doores, reade 2. King. 23.9.

11 And they shal serue in my Sanctuarie, and keepe the gates of the house, and minister in the House: they shall slay the burnt offering and the sacrifice for the people: and they shall stande before them to serue them.

12 Because they serued before their idoles, and caused the house of Israel to fall into iniquitie, therefore haue I lift vp mine hand against them, saith the Lord God, and they shall beare their iniquitie, 13 And they shall not come neere vnto me to doe the office of the Priest vnto me, neither shall they come neere vnto any of mine holy things in the most holy place, but they shall beare their shame and their abominations, which they haue committed.

14 And I will make them keepers of the watch of the House, for all the seruice there of, for all that shall be done therein.

15 But the Priestes of the Leuites, the sonnes of Zadok, that e kept the charge of my Sanctuarie, when the children of Israel went astray from mee, they shall come neere to me to serue me, and they shall stand before me to offer me the fat and the blood, saith the Lord God. e Which obserued the Lawe of God, and fell not to idolatrie.

16 They shall enter into my Sanctuarie, and shall come neere to my table, to serue me, and they shall keepe my charge.

17 And when they shall enter in at the gates of the inner court, they shalbe clothed with linnen garments, and no wool shall come vpon them while they serue in the gates of the inner court, and within.

18 They shall haue linnen bonets vpon their heads, and shall haue linnen breeches vpon their loines: they shal not gird themselues in the sweating places.

19 But when they go forth into the vtter court, euen to the vtter court to the people, they shall put off their garments, wherein they ministred, and lay them in the holy chambers, and they shall put on other garments: for they shall not sanc-tifie the people with their garments.

20 They shall not also f shaue their heads, nor suffer their lockes to grow long, but roiund their heads.

f As did the infidels and heathen. *Leuit.*10.9.

21 * Neither shal any Priest drink wine when they enter into the inner court.

22 Neyther shall they take for their wiues a widowe, or her that is diuorced: but they shall take maidens of the seede of the house of Israel, or a widowe that hath bene the widowe of a Priest. *Leuit.*21.13,14.

23 And they shall teach my people the difference betweene the holy and prophane, and cause them to discerne betweene the vncleane and the cleane.

24 And in controuersie they shall stand to iudge, and they shall iudge it according to my iudgements: and they shal keepe my lawes and my statutes in all mine assemblies, and they shal sanctifie my Sabbaths.

25 *And they shal come at no dead person to defile themselues, except at their father, or mother, or sonne, or daughter, brother or sister, that hath had yet none husband: in these may they g be defiled. *Leuit.*21.1,2,11

26 And when he is cleansed, they shal reckon vnto him seuen dayes.

g They may be at their buriall, which was a defiling.

27 And whe he goeth into the Sanctuarie vnto the inner court to minister in the Sanctuarie, he shal offer his sinne offring, saith the Lord God.

28 * And the Priesthood shall be their inheritance, yea, I am their inheritance: therfore shall ye giue them no possession in Israel, for I am their possession. *Deut.*18.1. *nom.*18,20, 29 They shall eate the meate offering, and the sinne offering, and the trespasse offering, and euery dedicate thing in Israel shalbe theirs.

30 *And all the first of all the first borne, and euery oblation, euen all ofeuery sort of your oblations shalbe the Priests. Ye shall also giue vnto the Priest the first of your dough, that hee may cause the blessing to rest in thine house. *Exod.*13.2.& 22.29.& 34.19. *nom.*3.13.

31 The Priestes shall not eate of any thing that is * dead, or torne, whether it be foule or beast. *Exod.*22.31. *Leuit.*22.8.

CHAP. XLV.

1 Out of the land of promise are there separate foure portiõs, of which the first is giuē to the Priests and to the Temple, the second to the Leuites, the third to the citie, the fourth to the prince. 9 An exhortation vnto the heads of Israel. 10 Of iust weights and measures. 13 Of the first fruits, &c.

MOreouer when ye shall deuide the land for inheritance, ye shall offer an oblation vnto the Lord an a holy portion of the land, fiue & twentie thousand reedes long, and ten thousand broade: this shall be holy in all the borders thereof round about.

a Of all the land of Israel the Lord onely requireth this portion for the Temple and for the Priests, for the citie and for the Prince,

2 Of this there shall be for the Sanctuarie fiue hundreth in length with fiue hundreth in breadth, all square round about, and fiftie cubites round about for the suburbes thereof.

3 And of this measure shalt thou measure the length of fiue and twentie thousand and the breadth of ten thousand: and in it shal be the Sanctuarie, & the most holy place.

4 The holy portion of the land shall bee the priestes, which minister in the Sanctuarie, which came neere to serue the Lorde: and it shall be a place for their houses, and an holy place for the Sanctuarie.

5 And in the fiue and twentie thousand of length, & ten thousand of breadth shall the Leuites that minister in the house, haue their possession for twentie chambers.

6 Also ye shall appoint the possession of the citie, fiue thousand broad, and fiue and twentie thousand long ouer against the oblation of the holy portion: it shal be for the whole house of Israel.

7 And a portion shall be for the prince on the one side, and on that side of the oblation of the holy portion, and of the possession of the citie, euen before the oblation of the holy portion, and before the possession of the citie from the West corner Westward, and from the East corner Eastwarde, and the length shal be by one of the portions from the West border vnto the East border.

8 In this land shall be his possession in Israel: and my princes shall no more oppresse my people, and the rest of the lande shall they giue to the house of Israel, according to their tribes.

9 Thus saith the Lord God, Let it b suffice you, O princes of Israel: leaue off crueltie and oppression, and execute iudgement and iustice: take away your exactions from my people, saith the Lord God. b The Prophet sheweth that the heads must be first reformed, afore any good order can be established among the people.

10 Ye shall haue iust ballances, and a true c Ephah, and a true Bath.

c Ephah and Bath were both of one quantitie, saue that Ephah conteined in dry things, that which Bath did in liquor, Leuit. 5.11.1. King.5.11. *Exod.*30.13. *leuit.*27.25. *nom.*3.47.

12 *And the shekel shall bee twentie gerahs, and twentie shekels, and d fiue and twentie shekels and fifteene shekels shalbe your Maneh.

d That is, threescore shekels make a weight called Mina: for he ioyneth these three partes to a Mina.

13 ¶ This is the oblation that ye shall offer, the first part of an Ephah of an Homer of wheat, and ye shal giue the first part of an Ephah of an Homer of barley.

14 Concerning the ordinance of the oile, euen of the Bath of oyle, yee shall offer the tenth part of a Bath out of the Coz (tenne Baths are an Homer: for tenne Baths fill an Homer)

15 And one Lambe of two hundreth sheepe out of the fatte pastures of Israel for a meate offring, and for a burnt offring and for peace offrings, to make reconciliation for them, saieth the Lord God.

16 All the people of the land shall giue this oblation for the prince in Israel.

17 And it shalbe the princes part to giue burnt offerings, and meate offerings, and drinke offerings in the solemne feastes and in the newe moones, and in the Sabbaths, and in all the iye feastes of the house of Israel: he shal prepare the sinne offering, and the meate offering, and the burnt offering, and the peace offerings to make reconciliation for the house of Israel.

e Which was Nisan, conteyning part of March and part of Aprill, 18 ¶ Thus saith the Lord God, In the first moneth, in the first day of e the moneth, thou shalt shalt take a yong bullocke without blemish and cleanse the Sanctuarie.

19 And the Priest shall take of the blood of the sinne offering, and put it vpon the postes of the house, and vpō the foure ‖ corners of the frame of the altar, and vpon the postes of the gate of the inner court.

‖ Or, court.

20 And so shalt thou doe the seuenth day of the moneth, for euery one that hath erred, and for him that is deceiued: so shall you reconcile the house.

Exod.12.18. Ieuit.23.5.

21 *In the first moneth in the fourteenth day of the moneth, ye shal haue the Passeouer, a feast of seuen dayes, and ye shall eate vnleauened bread.

22 And vpon that day, shall the Prince prepare for himselfe, and for all the people of the land, a bullocke for a sinne offring.

23 And in the seuen daies of the feast, he shall make a burnt offring to the Lord, euen of seuen bullocks, & seuen rammes without blemish daily for seuen dayes, and an hee goate daily for a sinne offering.

24 And he shall prepare a meat offring of an Ephah for a bullocke, an Ephah for a ramme, & an [f] Hin of oyle for an Ephah.

[f] Reade Exod. 29.40.

25 In the seuenth moneth, in the fifteenth day of the moneth, shal he do the like in the feast for seuen dayes, according to the sinne offering, according to the burnt offering, and according to the meate offering, & according to the oyle.

CHAP. XLVI.

1 The sacrifices of the Sabbath and of the newe moones. 8 Thorow which doores they must goe in, or come out of the Temple. &c.

THus saith the Lorde God, The gate of the inner court, that turneth towarde the East, shall bee shut the sixe woorking dayes: but on the Sabbath it shall be opened, and in the day of the newe moone it shall be opened.

2 And the prince shal enter by the way of the porch of that gate without, and shall stande by the poste of the gate, and the Priests shall make his burnt offering, and his peace offrings, and hee shall worship at the threshold of the gate: after, he shall goe foorth, but the gate shall not be shut till the euening.

3 Likewise the people of the lande shall worship at the entrie of this gate before the Lord on the Sabbaths, and in the newe moones.

4 And the burnt offring that the prince shall offer vnto the Lorde on the Sabbath day, shall be sixe lambes without blemish, and a ramme without blemish.

5 And the meate offring shall be an Ephah for a ramme: and the meate offering for the lambes [a] a gift of his hand, and an Hin of oyle to an Ephah.

a That is, as much as he will.

6 And in the day of the newe moone it shall be a yong bullocke without blemish, and sixe lambes and a ramme: they shalbe without blemish.

7 And he shal prepare a meate offering, euen an Ephah for a bullocke, and an Ephah for a ramme, and for the lambes [b] according as his hand shal bring, and an Hin of oyle to an Ephah.

b Meaning, as hee shall thinke good.

8 And when the prince shal enter, he shal go in by the way of the porch of that gate, and he shal go forth by the way thereof.

9 But when the people of the land shall come before the Lord in the solemne feasts, he that entreth in by the way of the North gate to worship, shall goe out by the way of the South gate: & he that entreth by the way of the South gate, shal go forth by the way of the North gate: hee shall not returne by the way of the gate wherby hee came in, but they shall goe foorth ouer against it.

10 And the prince shal be in the mids of them: he shal go in when they goe in, and when they goe forth, they shall goe foorth together.

11 And in the feastes, and in the solemnities the meate offering shalbe an Ephah to a bullocke, and an Ephah to a ramme, and to the lambes, the gift of his hand, and an Hin of oyle to an Ephah.

12 Nowe when the prince shall make a free burnt offring or peace offrings freely vnto the Lord, one shall then open him the gate that turneth towarde the East, and hee shall make his burnt offering and his peace offerings as hee did on the Sabbath day: after, he shall goe foorth, and when he is gone foorth, one shall shut the gate.

13 Thou shalt daily make a burnt offering vnto the Lorde of a lambe of one peere without blemish: thou shalt doe it euery morning.

14 And thou shalt prepare a meate offering for it euery morning, the first part of an Ephah, and the third part of an Hin of oyle, to mingle with the fine floure: this meate offering shalbe continually by a perpetuall ordinance vnto the Lord.

15 Thus shall they prepare the lambe, and the meate offering and the oyle euery morning, for a continuall burnt offering.

16 ¶ Thus saith the Lorde God, If the prince giue a gift of his inheritance vnto any of his sonnes, it shalbe his sonnes, and it shall be their possession by inheritance.

17 But if he giue a gift of his inheritance to one of his seruants, then it shall be his to the [c] peere of libertie: after, it shall returne to the prince, but his inheritance shall remaine to his sonnes for them.

c Which was at the Iubile, Leuit. 25.9.

18 Moreouer the prince shall not [d] take of the peoples inheritance, nor thrust them out of their possession: but he shall cause his sonnes to inherite of his owne possession, that my people be not scattered euery man from his possession.

d But be content with that portion that God hath assigned him, as Chap. 45.8.

19 ¶ After, hee brought me through the entry, which was at the side of the gate, into the holy chambers of the priests, which stood toward the North: and behold, there was a place at the west side of them.

20 Then saide he vnto me, This is the place where the Priestes shall seethe the trespasse offering, and the sinne offering, where they shall bake the meate offering, that they shoulde not beare them into the vtter court, [e] to sanctifie the people.

e That the people should not haue to doe with those things which appertaine to the Lord, and thinke it lawfull for them to eate them.

21 Then he brought me forth into the vtter court, and caused me to goe by the foure corners

corners of the court: and beholde, in euery corner of the court, there was a court.

22 In the foure corners of the court there were courtes ioyned of fourty cubites long, and thirtie broade: these foure corners were of one measure.

23 And there went a wall about them, euen about those foure, and kitchins were made vnder the walles round about.

24 Then sayde he vnto mee, This is the kitchen where the ministers of the house shall seethe the sacrifice of the people.

CHAP. XLVII.

1 The vision of the waters, that came out of the Temple. 13 The coostes of the land of promesse, & the diuision thereof by tribes.

AFterwarde hee brought mee vnto the doore of the house: and beholde, a waters issued out from vnder the threshold of the house Eastwarde: for the forefront of the house stoode towarde the East, and the waters came downe from vnder the right side of the house, at the South side of the altar.

2 Then brought he me out towarde the Northgate, and led mee about by the way without vnto the vtter gate, by the way that turneth Eastward: and beholde, there came forth waters on the right side.

3 And when the man that had the line in his hand, went forth Eastward, he measured a thousand cubites, and hee brought me through the waters: the waters were to the ancles.

4 Againe he measured a thousande, and brought me through the waters: the waters were to the knees: againe hee measured a thousand, and brought mee through: the waters were to the lopnes.

5 Afterward he measured a thousand, & it was a b riuer that I could not passe ouer: for the waters were risen, and the waters did flowe, as a riuer that could not be passed ouer.

6 And he saide vnto me, Sonne of man, hast thou seene this? Then he brought me, and caused mee to returne to the bancke of the riuer.

7 Now when I returned, behold, at the bancke of the riuer were very many c trees on the one side, and on the other.

8 Then saide he vnto me, These waters issue out towarde the East countrey, and runne downe into the plaine, & shall go into one d sea: they shall runne into another sea, and the e waters shall be wholesome.

9 And euery thing that liueth, which moueth, whereseoeuer the riuers shal come, shall liue, and there shalbe a very great multitude of fish, because these waters shall come thither: for they shall bee wholesome, and euery thing shall liue whither the riuer commeth.

10 And then the f fishers shall stand vpon it, & from En-gedi euen vnto g En-eglaim, they shall spread out their nettes: for their fish shalbe according to their kindes, as the fish of h the maine sea, exceeding many.

11 But i the myrie places thereof, and the marises thereof shall not bee wholesome: they shalbe made salt pits.

12 And by this riuer vpon the bancke thereof, on this side, and on that side shall grow all ‖ fruitfull trees, whose leafe shall not fade, neither shall the fruit thereof faile: it shall bring foorth newe fruite according to his monethes, because their waters run out of the Sanctuarie: and the fruit thereof shall be meate, and the leafe thereof shall be for ‖ medicine.

‖ Or, for bruises and sores.

13 ¶ Thus saith the Lord God, This shal be the border, whereby ye shall inherite the land according to the twelue tribes *of Israel: Ioseph shall haue two portions.

*Gen. 48, 22.

14 And ye shal inherite it, one as wel as an other: *concerning the which I lift vp mine hand to giue it vnto your fathers, and this land shal fall vnto you for inheritance.

*Gen. 12, 7. & 13, 15. & 15, 18. & 26, 4. deut. 34, 4.

15 And this shall bee the border k of the land toward the Northside, from the maine sea toward Hethlo as men go to Zedadah:

k By the land of promes he signifieth the spirituall land whereof this was a figure.

16 Hamath, Berothah, Sibraim, which is betweene the border of Damascus, and the border of Hamath, and Hazar, Hatticon, which is by the coast of Hauran.

17 And the border from the sea shall be Hazar, Enan, and the border of Damascus, and the residue of the North, Northward, and the border of Hamath: so shall be the North part.

18 But the East side shall yee measure from Hauran, and from Damascus, and from Gilead, and from the lande of Israel by Iorden, and from the border vnto the East sea: and so shall be the East part.

19 And the Southside shall be towarde Teman from Tamar to the waters of ‖ Meriboth in Kadesh, and the riuer to the maine sea: so shalbe the South part toward Teman.

‖ Or, strife.

20 The West part also shall be the great sea from the border, til a man come ouer against Hamath: this shalbe the West part.

21 So shall yee deuide this lande vnto you, according to the tribes of Israel.

22 And you shall deuide it by lot for an inheritance vnto you, and to the strangers that dwell among you, which shall beget children among you, and they shalbe vnto you, as borne in the countrey among the children of Israel, l they shall part inheritance with you in the midst of the tribes of Israel.

l Meaning, that in this spirituall kingdome there should be no difference betweene Iew nor Gentile, but y all should be partakers of this inheritance in their head Christ.

23 And in what tribe the stranger dwelleth, there shal ye giue him his inheritance, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XLVIII.

2 The lots of the tribes. 9 The parts of the possession of the Priests, of the Temple, of the Leuites, of the citie and of the Prince are rehearsed.

NOw these are the names of the a tribes. From the Northside, to the coast toward Hethlon, as one goeth to Hamath, Hazar, Enan, and the border of Damascus Northwarde the coast of Hamath, euen from the East side to the West shalbe a portion for Dan.

a The tribes after y they entred into the land vnder Iosua, diuided the land somewhat otherwise then is here set forth by this vision.

2 And by the border of Dan from the East side vnto the West side, a portion for Asher.

3 And by the border of Asher from the East part euen vnto the West part a portion for Naphtali.

a Whereby are meant the spirituall graces that should be giuen to the Church vnder the kingdome of Christ.

b Signifying, that the graces of God should neuer decrease, but euer abound in his Church.

c Meaning, the multitude of the that should be refreshed by the spirituall waters.

d Shewing that the abundance of these graces shoulde be so great, that all the world should be full thereof, which is here meant by y Persian sea or Genezareth, & the sea called Mediterraneum, zec. 14. 8

e The waters which of nature are salt & vnholsome, shall be made sweete and comfortable.

f Signifying, that when God bestoweth his mercies in such abundance, the ministers shall by their preaching winne many.

g Which were cities at the corners of the salt or dead sea.

h They shall be here of all sorts, and in as great abundance as in the great Ocean where they are bred.

i That is, the wicked & reprobate.

4 And by the border of Naphtali from the East quarter vnto the West side, a portion for Manasseh.

5 And by the border of Manasseh from the East side vnto the West side, a portion for Ephraim.

6 And by the border of Ephraim, from the East part euen vnto the West part, a portion for Reuben.

7 And by the border of Reuben, from the East quarter vnto the West quarter, a portion for Iudah.

8 And by the border of Iudah, from the East part vnto the West part [b] shall be the offering which they shall offer of fiue and twentie thousande reedes broade, and of length as one of the other partes, from the East side, vnto the West side, and the Sanctuarie shall be in the middes of it.

b That is, the portion of the ground, which they shall separate and appoint to the Lorde, which shall be deuided into three parts, for the Priests, for the prince, and for the citie.

9 The oblation that yee shall offer vnto the Lorde, shall be of fiue and twentie thousand long, and of ten thousand the breadth.

10 And for them, euen for the Priestes shalbe this holy oblation, towardes North fiue and twentie thousand long, and toward the West ten thousand broad, and towarde the East ten thousand broad, and towarde the South fiue and twentie thousand long, and the Sanctuarie of the Lorde shall be in the middes thereof.

11 It shal be for the Priests that are sanctified of the sonnes of * Zadok, which haue kept my charge, which went not astray when the children of Israel went astray, as the Leuites went astray.

*Chap. 44. 15.

12 Therefore this oblation of the lande that is offered, shall bee theirs, as a thing most holy by the border of the Leuites.

13 And ouer against the border of the Priests, the Leuites shal haue fiue and twentie thousand long, and ten thousand broad: all the length shall be fiue and twentie thousand, and the breadth ten thousand.

14 And they shall not sell of it, neyther change it, nor alienate the first fruites of the land: for it is holy vnto the Lord.

15 And the fiue thousand that are left in the breadth ouer against the fiue and twentie thousand, shall be a prophane place for the citie, for housing, and for suburbes, and the citie shall be in the middes thereof.

16 And these shalbe the measures thereof, the North part fiue hundreth and foure thousand, and the South part [c] fiue hundreth and foure thousande, and the East part fiue hundreth and foure thousande, and the West part fiue hundreth and foure thousand.

c Meaning, that it should bee square.

17 And the suburbes of the citie shall be towarde the North two hundreth and fiftie, and toward the South two hundreth and fiftie, & toward the East two hundreth and fiftie, and towarde the West two hundreth and fiftie.

18 And the residue in length ouer against the oblation of the holy portion shall bee ten thousand Eastward, & ten thousand Westward: and it shall be ouer against the oblation of the holy portion; and the increase thereof shall bee for foode vnto them that serue in the citie.

19 And they that serue in the citie, shall be of all the tribes of Israel that shall serue therein.

20 All the oblation shalbe fiue and twentie thousand with [d] fiue and twentie thousande: you shall offer this oblation foure square for the Sanctuarie, and for the possession of the citie.

d Euery way it shall be fiue and twentie thousand.

21 And the residue shall be for the prince on the one side and on the other of the oblation of the Sanctuarie, and of the possession of the citie, ouer against the fiue and twentie thousande of the oblation towarde the East border, and Westwarde ouer against the fiue and twentie thousande toward the West border, ouer against shalbe for the portion of the prince: this shalbe the holy oblation, and the house of the Sanctuarie shall be in the middes thereof.

22 Moreouer, from the possession of the Leuites, and from the possession of the citie, that which is in the midst shall be the princes: betweene the border [e] of Iudah, and betweene the border of Beniamin shall bee the princes.

e So that Iudah was on the North side of the princes and Leuites portions, and Beniamin on the South side.

23 And the rest of the tribes shall be thus: from the East part vnto the West part, Beniamin shall be a portion.

24 And by the border of Beniamin, frō the East side vnto the West side, Simeon a portion.

25 And by the border of Simeon from the East part vnto the West part, Issachar a portion.

26 And by the border of Issachar from the East side vnto the West, Zebulun a portion.

27 And by the border of Zebulun from the East part vnto the West part, Gad a portion.

28 And by the border of Gad at the South side, toward [f] Temath, the border shalbe euen from [g] Tamar vnto the waters of Meribath in Kadesh, and to the [h] riuer, that runneth into the maine sea.

f Which is here taken for Idumea.

g Which was Iericho the citie of Palme trees.

29 This is the lande, which yee shall distribute vnto the tribes of Israel for inheritance, and these are their portions, saieth the Lord God.

h Meaning, Nilus, that runneth into the sea called Mediterraneum.

30 And these are the boundes of the citie, on the North side fiue hundreth, and foure thousand measures.

31 And the gates of the citie shall be after the names of the tribes of Israel, the gates Northward, one gate of Reuben, one gate of Iudah, and one gate of Leui.

32 And at the East side fiue hundreth & foure thousande, and three gates, and one gate of Ioseph, one gate of Beniamin, and one gate of Dan.

33 And at the South side, fiue hundreth and foure thousande measures, and three portes, one gate of Simeon, one gate of Issachar, and one gate of Zebulun.

34 At the West side fiue hundreth & foure thousand, with their three gates, one gate of Gad, one gate of Asher, and one gate of Naphtali.

35 It was rounde about eighteene thousand measures, and the name of the citie from that day shall be, ‡ The Lord is there.

THE ARGVMENT.

THe great prouidence of God, and his singular mercie toward his Church are most liuely heere set forth, who neuer leaueth his destitute, but nowe in their greatest miseries and afflictions giueth them Prophets, as Ezekiel, and Daniel, whome he adorned with such graces of his holy Spirit, that Daniel aboue all other had most speciall reuelations of such thinges as should come to the Church, euen from the time that they were in captiuitie, to the last ende of the worlde, and to the generall resurrection, as of the foure Monarchies and empires of al the world, to wit, of the Babylonians, Persians, Grecians and Romans. Also of the certaine nomber of the times euen vnto Christ, when all ceremonies and sacrifices shauld cease, because he should be the accomplishment thereof: moreouer he sheweth Christes office and the cause of his death, which was by his sacrifice to take away sinnes, and to bring euerlasting life. And as from the beginning God euer exercised his people vnder the crosse, so hee teacheth here, that after that Christ is offered, he will still leaue this exercise to his Church vntill the dead rise againe, and Christ gather his into his kingdome in the heauens.

d He calleth them Eunuches whome the king nourished and brought vp to be rulers of other countreys afterward.

e His purpose was to keepe them as hostages, and that he might shewe himselfe victorious, and also by their good intreatie and learning of his religion, they might fauour rather him then the Iewes, and so to be able to serue him as gouernours in their lande: moreouer by this meanes the Iewes might bee better kept in subiection, fearing otherwise to procure hurt to these noble men. f The King required three thinges, that they shoulde be of noble birth, that they shoulde be wittie and learned, and that they shoulde be of a strong and comely nature, that they might doe him better seruice: this hee did for his owne commoditie, therefore it is not to praise his liberalitie: yet in this hee is worthie prayse, that hee esteemed learning, and knew that it was a necessarie meane to gouerne by. g That they might forget their owne religion and countrey facions, to serue him the better to his purpose: yet is it not to be thought that Daniel did learne any knowledge that was not godly: in all pointes hee refused the abuse of thinges and superstition, in so much that he would not eate the meate which the King appointed him, but was content to learne the knowledge of naturall thinges. h That by their good entertainement they might learne to forget the mediocritie of their owne people.

IN the a third yere of the reigne of Iehoiakim King of Iudah, came Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel vnto Ierusalem, and b besieged it.

2 And the Lorde gaue Iehoiakim King of Iudah into his hande, with part of the vessels of the House of God, which hee caried into the lande of b Shinar, to the house of his God, and he brought the vessels into his gods treasurie.

3 And the King spake vnto c Ashpenaz the master of his d Eunuches, that hee should bring certaine of the children of Israel, of the e Kings seede, and of the princes:

4 Children in whome was no blemish, but well fauoured, and instruct in all wisedome, and well seene in knowledge, & able to vtter knowledge, and such as were able to stand in the kings palace, and whome they might teache the e learning, and the tongue of the Caldeans.

5 And p King appointed them prouision euery day of a h portio of the kings meate, and of the wine which hee dranke, so nourishing them i three yeere, that at the ende thereof, they might stand k before the king.

6 Now among these were certaine of the children of Iudah, Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah.

7 Vnto whome the chiefe of the Eunuches gaue other names: for he called Daniel, Belteshazzar, and Hananiah, Shadrach, and Mishael, Mesach, and Azariah, Abednego.

8 ¶ But Daniel had determined in his heart, that he woulde not m defile himselfe with the portion of the kings meate, nor with the wine which he dranke: therefore he required p chiefe of the Eunuches that he might not defile himselfe.

9 (Now God had brought Daniel into fauour, and tender loue with the chiefe of the Eunuches)

10 And the chiefe of the Eunuches said vnto Daniel, n I feare my Lorde the king, who hath appointed your meate and your drinke: therefore if he see your faces worse liking then the other children, which are of your sort, then shall you make me lose mine head vnto the king.

11 Then said Daniel to Melzar, whome the chiefe of the Eunuches had set ouer Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael and Azariah, 12 Proue thy seruants, I beseech thee, o ten dayes, and let them giue vs p pulse to eate, and water to drinke.

13 Then let our countenances be looked vpon before thee, and the countenances of the children that eate of the portion of i To the intent that in this time they might both learne the maners of the Caldeans, and also their tongue.

k As well to serue at the table, as in other offices.

l That they might altogether forget their religion: for the Iewes gaue their children names, which might euer put them in remembrance of some point of religion: therefore this was a great tentation and a signe of seruitude which they were not able to resist.

m Not that he thought any religion to be in the meate or drinke (for afterwarde he did eate) but because the King shoulde not entise him by this sweete poyson, to forget his religion and accustomed sobrietie, and that in his meate and drinke hee might dayly remember of what people he was: and Daniel bringeth this in to shewe how God from the beginning assisted him with his Spirit, and at length called him to be a Prophet. n Hee supposed they did this for their religion, which was contrarie to the Babylonians, and therefore herein he representeth them which are of no religion: for neyther he would condemne theirs nor maintaine his owne. o Meaning, that within this space hee might haue the triall, and that no man should be able to discerne it: and thus he spake, being moued by the Spirite of God. p Not that it was a thing abominable to eate deintie meates and to drinke wine, as both before and after they did, but if they shoulde haue hereby beene wonne to the King and haue refused their owne religion, that meate and drinke had bene accursed.

14 So he consented to them in this matter, and proued them ten dayes.

15 And at the ende of tenne dayes, their q countenances appeared fairer, & in t better liking then all the children, which did eate the portion of the kings meate.

16 Thus Melzar tooke away the portion of their meate, and the wine that they should drinke, and gaue them pulse.

17 As for these foure children, God gaue them knowledge, and vnderstanding in all learning: and wisedome: also hee gaue Daniel vnderstanding of all u visions and dreames.

18 Now when the time was x expired, that the king had appointed to bring them in, the chiefe of the Eunuches brought them before Nebuchad-nezzar.

19 And the king communed with them: and among them all was found none like Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah: therefore stood they before the king.

20 And in all matters of wisedome, and vnderstanding that the king enquired of them, he found them ten times better then all the inchanters and astrologians, that were in all his realme.

21 And Daniel was vnto y the first yere of King Cyrus.

q This bare feeding and that also of Moses, when he fledde from the court of Egypt, declareth that wee must liue in such sobrietie as God doeth call vs vnto, seeing he will make it more profitable vnto vs, then all deinties: for his blessing onely sufficeth.

CHAP. II.

The dreame of Nebuchad-nezzar. 13 The king commandeth all the wise men of Babylon to bee slaine, because they could not interpret his dreame. 16 Daniel requireth time to solute the question. 24 Daniel is brought vnto the king, and sheweth him his dreame and the interpretation thereof. 44. Of the everlasting kingdome of Christ.

AND the a second yeere of the reigne of Nebuchad-nezzar, Nebuchad-nezzar dreamed b dreames wherewith his spirite was c troubled, and his d sleepe was vpon him.

2 Then the king commanded to call the inchanters, and the astrologians and the sorcerers, and the e Caldeans for to shewe the king his dreames: so they came and stoode before the king.

3 And the king sayd vnto them, I haue dreamed a dreame, & my spirite was troubled to knowe the dreame.

4 Then spake the Caldeans to the king in the f Aramites language, O king, liue for euer: shewe thy seruants thy dreame, and we shall shewe the interpretation.

5 And the king answered and saide to the Caldeans, The thing is gone from me. If ye will not make me vnderstand p dreame with the interpretation thereof, yee g shalbe drawen in pieces, and your houses shall be made a takes.

6 But if yee declare the dreame and the interpretation thereof, yee shall receiue of me giftes and rewardes, and great honour: therefore shewe me the dreame and the interpretation of it.

7 They answered againe, and saide, Let the king shew h his seruantes the dreame, and wee will declare the interpretation thereof.

8 Then the king answered, and saide, I knowe certainely that yee t woulde gaine the time, because yee see the thing is gone from me.

9 But if yee will not declare mee the dreame, there is but one iudgement for you: for yee haue prepared lying and corrupt wordes, to speake before me till the time be changed: therefore tell me the dreame, that I may knowe, if yee can declare me the interpretation thereof.

10 Then the Caldeans answered before the king, and sayde, There is no man vpon earth that can declare the kinges matter: yea, there is neither king, nor prince, nor lord that asked such things at an inchanter or astrologian or Caldean.

11 For it is a rare thing that the king requireth, and there is none other that can declare it before the king, except the gods whose dwelling is not with flesh.

12 For this cause the king was angry & in great furie, and commanded to destroy all the wise men of Babel.

13 ¶ And when sentence was giuen, the wise men were slaine: & they i sought Daniel and his fellowes to be put to death.

14 Then Daniel answered with counsel and wisedome to Arioch the kings || chiefe stewarde, which was gone foorth to put to death the wise men of Babel.

15 Yea, he answered and saide vnto Arioch the kings captaine, Why is k sentence so hastie from the king? Then Arioch declared the thing to Daniel.

16 So Daniel went and desired the king that he would giue him leasure, and that he would shewe the king the interpretation thereof.

17 ¶ Then Daniel went to his house and shewed the matter to Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah his companions, 18 That they should beseech the God of heauen for grace in this secret, that Daniel and his fellowes should not perish with the rest of the wise men of Babel.

19 Then was the secrete reuciled vnto Daniel in a vision by night: therefore Daniel praysed the God of heauen.

20 And Daniel answered and said, *The Name of God be praysed for euer & euer: for wisedome and strength are his,

21 And he changeth the times and seasons: he taketh away kings: he setteth vp kings: he giueth wisedome vnto the wise, and a The father and the sonne were both called by this name: so that this is meant of the sonne, when hee reigned alone: for he reigned also after a sort with his father.

b Not that he had many dreames, but because many matters were conteined in this dreame.

c Because it was so rare and strange a dreame that hee had not had the like.

d He was so heauie with sleepe that hee began to sleepe againe. Some reade, & his sleepe was broken from him.

e For all these astrologers and sorcerers called themselues by this name of honour, as though all the wisedome and knowledge of the countrey depended vpon them, & that all other countreys were void of the same.

f That is, in the Syrian tongue which differed not much from the Caldeans, saue it seemed to be more eloquent, and therefore the learned vsed to speake it: as the Iewish writers do to this day.

g This is a iust reward of their arrogancie (which vaunted of themselues that they had the knowledge of all things) that they should be proued fooles, and that to their perpetuall shame and confusion.

h Herein appeared their ignorance, that notwithstanding their brags, yet were they not able to tell the dreame, except he entred them into the matter, and therefore they would pretende knowledge where was but meere ignorance, and so as deluders of the people, they were worthie to die.

i Which declareth, that God would not haue his seruant ioyned in the company of these sorcerers and astrologers, whose artes were wicked, and therefore iustly ought to die, though the king did it vpon a rage, and no zeale.

and vnderstanding to those that vnderstād.
22 He discouereth the deepe and secrete things: he knoweth what is in the darkenes, and the k light dwelleth with him.
23 I thanke thee and praise thee, O thou God of my l fathers, that thou hast giuen me wisedome and m strength, and hast shewed me now the thing that wee desired of thee: for thou hast declared vnto vs the kings matter.
24 ¶ Therefore Daniel went vnto Arioch, whome the king had ordayned to destroy the wise men of Babel: he went and sayd thus vnto him, Destroy not n the wise men of Babel, but bring mee before the king, and I will declare vnto the king the interpretation.
25 Then Arioch brought Daniel before the king in al haste, and said thus vnto him, I haue found a man of the children of Iudah that were brought captiues, that will declare vnto the king the interpretation.
26 Then answered the King and saide vnto Daniel, whose name was Belteshazzar, Art thou able to shew me the dreame, which I haue seene, and the interpretation thereof?
27 Daniel answered in the presence of the King, and sayde, The secrete which the king hath demaunded, can neither the wise, the astrologians, the inchanters, nor the soothsayers declare vnto the King.
28 But there is a God in o heauen that reuealeth secrets, and sheweth the king Nebuchad-nezzar what shall bee in the latter dayes. Thy dreame, and the things which thou hast seene in thine head vpon thy bed, is this.
29 O King, when thou wast in thy bed, thoughts came into thy mind, what should come to passe hereafter, and he that reuealeth secrets, telleth thee, what shall come.
30 As p for me, this secret is not shewed me for any wisdome that I haue, more then any other liuing, but onely to shewe the King the interpretation, and that thou mightest know the thoughts of thine heart.
31 O King, thou sawest, and beholdest, there was a great image: this great image whose glory was excellent, stoode before thee, and the fourme thereof was terrible.
32 This images head was of fine q gold, his breast and his armes of siluer, his belly and his thighs of brasse, 33 His legges of yron, and his feete were part of yron, and part of clay.
34 Thou beheldest it till a stone was cut without handes, which smote the image vpon his feete, that were of yron and clay, and brake them to pieces.
35 Then was p yron, the clay, the brasse, the siluer and the golde broken all together, and became like the chaffe of the summer flowers, and the wind caried them away, that no place was founde for them: and the stone that smote the image, became a great mountaine, and filled the whole earth.
36 This is the dreame, and wee will declare before the King the interpretation thereof.
37 ¶ O King, thou art a king of kings: for the God of heauen hath giuen thee a kingdome, power, and strength, and glory.
38 And in all places where the children of men dwell, the beastes of the field, and the foules of the heauen hath hee giuen into thine hande, and hath made thee ruler ouer them all: thou art this head of golde.
39 And after thee shal rise another kingdome, r inferiour to thee, of siluer, and another s third kingdome shall bee of brasse, which shall beare rule ouer all the earth.
40 And the fourth kingdome shall bee strong as yron: for as yron breaketh in pieces, and subdueth all things, and as yron bruseth all these things, so shall it breake in t pieces, and bruse all.
41 Whereas thou sawest the feete and toes, part of potters clay, and part of yron: the kingdome shall be x deuided, but there shall bee in it of the strength of the yron, as thou sawest yron mixt with the clay, and earth.
42 And as the toes of the feete were part of yron, and part of clay, so shall the kingdome be partly strong, and partly broken.
43 And whereas thou sawest yron mixt with clay and earth, they shal mingle themselues with y the seede of men: but they shal not ioyne one with another, as yron can not be mixed with clay.
44 And in the dayes of these kings, shal the God of heauen set vp a kingdome, which z shall neuer be destroyed: and this kingdome shal not be giuen to another people, but it shall breake, and destroy all these kingdoms, and it shall stand for euer.
45 Whereas thou sawest, that the stone was cutte of the mountaine without handes, and that it brake in pieces the yron, the brasse, the clay, the siluer and the golde:

k He sheweth that man hath neither wisdome nor knowledge, but very darke blindnes, and ignorance of himselfe: for it commeth onely of God, that man vnderstandeth any thing.
l To whom thou madest thy promise, and who liued in thy feare: whereby he excludeth all other gods.
m Meaning, power to interprete it.
n Whereby appeareth that many were slaine, as verse 13. and the rest at Daniels offer were preserued on condition: not that Daniel fauoured their wicked profession, but that he had respect to equitie, because the king proceeded according to his wicked affection, and not considering, if their science were lawfull or no.
o He affirmeth that man by reason & arte is not able to attaine to the cause of Gods secrets, but the vnderstanding onely thereof must come of God: whereby he smiteth the King with a certaine feare and reuerence of God, that he might be the more apt to receiue his mysteries, if should be reueiled.
p Because hee had sayde that God onely must reueile the signification of this dreame, the King might haue asked, why Daniel did enterprise to interprete it, and therefore he sheweth, that hee was but Gods minister, and had no gifts, but such as God had giuen him to set forth his glory.
q By golde, siluer, brasse and yron, are meant the Caldean, Persian, Macedonian and Romane kingdome, which should successiuely rule all the world till Christ (which is here called the stone) come himselfe, and destroy the last: & this was to assure the Iewes, that their affliction should not ende with the empire of the Caldeans, but that they should patiently abide the comming of Messiah, which should be at the ende of this fourth Monarchie.
r Daniel leaueth out the kingdome of the Assyrians, which was before the Babylonian, both because it was not a Monarchie and generall empire, & also because he would declare the things that were to come, to the comming of Christ, for the comfort of the elect amōg these wonderfull alterations: and he calleth the Babylonian kingdome the golden head, because in respect of the other three, it was the best, and yet was of it selfe wicked & cruell.
s Meaning, the Persians, which were not inferiour in dignitie, power, and riches, but were worse touching ambition, cruelties, & all kind of vice: shewing, that the world should growe worse and worse, till it was restored by Christ.
t That is, of the Macedonians shall bee of brasse, not alluding to the hardnes thereof, but to the vilenesse in respect of siluer.
u That is, the Romane empire shall subdue all these other aforenamed, which after Alexander were deuided into the Macedonians, Grecians, Syrians and Egyptians.
x They shall haue ciuil warres, & continual discords among themselues.
y They shall by mariages, and affinities thinke to make themselues strong: yet shal they neuer be ioyned in hearts.
z His purpose is to shew, that all the kingdomes of the world are transitorie, and that the kingdome of Christ shall onely remaine for euer.
a Meaning, Christ, who was sent of God, and not set vp by man, whose kingdome at the beginning should bee small and without beautie to mans iudgement, but should at length growe and fill the whole earth, which he calleth a great mountaine, as verse 35. And this kingdome which is not onely referred to the person of Christ, but also to the whole body of his Church, and to euery member thereof, shall be eternall: for the spirite that is in them, is life eternall, Rom. 8. 10.

b Though this humbling of the king seemed to deserue commendation, yet because he ioyned Gods honour with the Prophets, it is to be reproued, and Daniel herein erred: he suffered it: but it is credible that Daniel admonished him of his fault, and did not suffer it.

c This confession was but a sudden motion, as it was also in Pharaoh, Exod. 9.27, 28. but his heart was not golde: so the great God hath shewed the king, what shall come to passe hereafter, and the dreame is true, and the interpretation thereof is sure.

46 ¶ Then the King Nebuchad-nezzar fell vpon his face, and bowed himselfe vnto Daniel, and commanded that they should offer meate offerings, and sweete odours vnto him.

47 Also the king answered vnto Daniel, and sayde, I knowe of a truetly that your [c] God is a God of gods, and the Lorde of kings, and the reuealer of secrets, seing thou couldest open this secret.

48 So [b] king made Daniel a great man, and gaue him many and great [d] giftes. He made him gouernour ouer the whole prouince of Babel, and chiefe of the rulers, and aboue all the wise men of Babel.

49 Then Daniel [e] made request to the King, and he set Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego ouer the charge of the prouince of Babel: But Daniel sate in the [f] gate of the king.

touched, as appeared soone afterward. d Not that the Prophet was desirous of gifts or honour, but because by this meanes he might relieue his poore brethren which were grieuously oppressed in this their captiuitie, and also he receyued them, least hee shoulde offende this cruell king, which willingly gaue them. e He did not this for their priuate profite, but that the whole Church which was then there in affliction, might haue some release and ease, by this benefite. f Meaning, that eyther he was a iudge, or that hee had the whole authoritie, so that none could be admitted to the k. gs presence, but by him.

CHAP. III.

1 The king setteth vp a golden image. 8 Certaine are accused because they despised the Kings commaundment, and are put into a burning ouen. 25 By beliefe in God they are deliuered from the fire. 26 Nebuchad-nezzar confesseth the power of God after the sight of the miracle.

[g] Vnder pretence of religion and holines, in making an image to his idoll Bel, he sought his owne ambition and vaine glory: and this declareth, that he was not touched with the true feare of God before, but that he confessed him on a sudden motion, as the wicked, when they are ouercome with the greatnesse of his workes. The Greeke interpreters write, that this was done eighteene yeeres after the dreame, and as may appeare, the King feared least the Iewes by their religion should haue altered the state of his common wealth, and therefore he meant to bring all to one kinde of religion, and so rather sought his owne quietnesse, then Gods glory. b Shewing that the idole is not knowen for an idole so long as hee is with the workeman: but when the ceremonies and customes are recited and vsed, and the consent of the people is there, then of a blocke they thinke they haue made a god. c This was sufficient with the wicked at all times to approue their religion, if the Kings authoritie were alledged for the establishment thereof, not considering in the meane season what Gods worde did permit.

NEbuchad-nezzar the King made [a] an image of golde, whose height was three score cubites, and the breadth thereof six cubites: he set it vp in the plaine of Dura, in the prouince of Babel.

2 Then Nebuchad-nezzar the king sent forth to gather together the nobles, the princes and the dukes, the iudges, the receyuers, the counsellers, the officers, and all the gouernours of the prouinces, that they should come to the [b] dedication of the image, which Nebuchad-nezzar the [c] King had set vp.

3 So the nobles, princes and dukes, the iudges, the receyuers, the counsellers, the officers, and all the gouernours of the prouinces were assembled vnto the dedicating of the image, that Nebuchad-nezzar the king had set vp: and they stoode before the image, which Nebuchad-nezzar had set vp.

4 Then an heralde cried aloude, See it knowen to you, O people, [d] nations, and languages,

5 That when yee heare the sounde of the cornet, trumpet, harpe, sackebut, psalterie, dulcimer, and all instruments of musicke, ye fall downe and worship the golden image, that Nebuchad-nezzar the King hath set vp.

6 And whosoeuer falleth not downe and worshipperh, shall the same houre bee cast into the middes of an hote fierie fornace.

7 Therefore assoone as all the people heard the sounde of the cornet, trumpet, harpe, sackebut, psalterie, and all instruments of musike, all the people, nations, and languages fell downe, and worshipped the golden image, that Nebuchad-nezzar the king had set vp.

8 ¶ By reason whereof at that same time came men of the Caldeans, and grieuously accused the Iewes.

9 For they spake and sayde to the king Nebuchad-nezzar, O king, liue for euer.

10 Thou, O king, hast made a decree, that euery man that shall heare the sounde of the cornet, trumpet, harpe, sackebut, psalterie, and dulcimer, and all instruments of musicke, shall fall downe and worship the golden image, 11 And whosoeuer falleth not downe, and worshipperh, that he should be cast into the middes of an hote fierie fornace.

12 There are certaine Iewes whome thou hast set ouer the charge of the prouince of Babel, [e] Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego: these men, O King, haue not regarded thy commandement, neither will they serue thy gods, nor worship the golden image, that thou hast set vp.

13 ¶ Then Nebuchad-nezzar in his anger & wrath commanded that they should bring Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego: so these men were brought before the king.

14 And Nebuchad-nezzar spake, and said vnto them, What disorder? will not you, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego serue my god, nor worshippe the golden image, that I haue set vp?

15 [f] Now therefore are yee readie when ye heare the sounde of the cornet, trumpet, harpe, sackebut, psalterie, and dulcimer, and all instruments of musicke, to fall downe, & worship the image, which I haue made? for if yee worship it not, ye shall be cast immediatly into the midst of an hote fierie fornace: for who is that God, that can deliuer you out of mine hands?

16 Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego answered and say de to the King, O Nebuchad-nezzar, wee [g] are not carefull to answere thee in this matter.

17 Behold, our God whom we serue, is d These are the two dangerous weapons wherewith Satan vseth to fight against the Children of God, the consent of the multitude, and the crueltie of [h] punishment: for though some feared God, yet the multitude, which consented to the wickednes, astonied them: and here the king required not an inward consent, but an outward gesture, that the Iewes might, by little and little learne to forget their true religion.

e It seemeth that they named not Daniel, because he was greatly in the kings fauour, thinking if these three had bene destroyed, they might haue had better occasion to accuse Daniel: and this declareth that this pollicie of ereeting this image, was inuented by the malicious flatterers, which sought nothing but the destruction of the Iewes, whome they accused of rebellion and ingratitude.

f Signifying, that he would receiue them to grace, if they would nowe at the length obey his decree.

g For they should haue done iniurie to God, if they should haue doubted in this holy cause, and therefore they say, that they are resolued to die for Gods cause.

h able

h They ground on two points, first on ỹ power and prouidence of God ouer them, and secondly on their cause, which was Gods glory, and the testifying of his true religion with their blood, & so make open confession, that they will not so much as outwardly consent to idolatrie.

i This declareth that the more ỹ tyrants rage, and the more wittie they shew themselues in inuenting strange and cruell punishments, the more is God glorified by his seruants to whom he giueth patience and constancie to abide the crueltie of their punishment: for either hee deliuereth them from death, or els for this life giueth them a better.

k For the Angels were called the sonnes of God because of their excellencie: therefore the king called this Angel, whome God sent to comfort his in these great torments, the sonne of God.

l This commendeth their obedience vnto God, that they would not for any feare depart out of this fornace, till the time appointed, as Noah remained in the Arke till the Lord called him forth.

m He was moued by the greatnesse of the miracle to prayse God, but his heart was not troubled. And here we see that miracles are not sufficient to conuert men to God, but this doctrine must chiefly be adioyned, without the which there can be no faith-h able to deliuer vs from the hote fierie fornace, and hee will deliuer vs out of thine hand, O king.

18 But if not, be it knowen to thee, O king, that we will not serue thy gods, nor worship the golden image, which thou hast set vp.

19 ¶ Then was Nebuchad-nezzar ful of rage, and the fourme of his visage was changed against Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego: therefore he charged and commanded that they should heate the fornace at once seuen i times more then it was wont to be heat.

20 And he charged ỹ most valiant men of warre that were in his armie, to binde Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, and to cast them into the hote fierie fornace.

21 So these men were bound in their coates, their hosen, and their clokes, with their other garments, and cast into the middes of the hote fierie fornace.

22 Therefore, because the kings commandement was straite, that the fornace should be exceeding hote, the flame of the fire slewe those men that brought forth Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego.

23 And these three men, Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego fell downe bound into the middes of the hote fierie fornace.

24 ¶ Then Nebuchadnezzar the king was astonied & rose vp in haste, and spake, & sayde vnto his counsellers, Did not we cast three men bound into the middes of the fire? Who answered, and saide vnto the king, It is true, O king.

25 And he answered, and saide, Loe, I see foure men loose, walking in the middes of the fire, and they haue no hurt, and the fourme of the fourth is like the k sonne of God.

26 Then the king Nebuchad-nezzar came neere to the mouth of the hote fierie fornace, & spake and sayd, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, the seruants of the high God, goe forth and come hither: so Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego l came forth of the middes of the fire.

27 Then the nobles, princes and dukes, and the kings counsellers came together to see these men, because the fire had no power ouer their bodies: for not an haire of their head was burnt, neither were their coates changed, nor any smell of fire came vpon them.

28 Wherefore Nebuchad-nezzar spake & sayde, m Blessed be the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, who hath sent his Angell, and deliuered his seruants, that put their trust in him, & haue changed the kings commaundement, and yeelded their bodies rather then they would serue or worship any God, saue their owne God.

29 Therefore I make a decree, that euery people, nation, and language, which speake n blasphemie against the God of Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, shall bee drawen in pieces, and their houses shal be made a takes, because there is no God that can deliuer after this sort.

30 Then the king promoted Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego in the prouince of Babel.

31 Nebuchad-nezzar King vnto all people, nations and languages, that dwell in all the o worlde, Peace be multiplied vnto you:

32 I thought it good to declare ỹ signes and wonders, that the High God hath wrought toward me.

33 How great are his signes, and how mightie are his wonders! p his kingdome is an euerlasting kingdome, and his dominion is from generation to generation.

o Meaning, so farre as his dominion extended. p Reade Chap.2.44.

CHAP. IIII.

2 Another dreame of Nebuchad-nezzar, which Daniel declareth. 29 The Prophet declareth how of a proude King hee should become as a beast. 31 After, he confesseth the power of God, and is restored to his former dignitie.

1 Nebuchad-nezzar being at a rest in mine house, and flourishing in my palace,

2 Sawe a b dreame, which made me afraide, and the thoughts vpon my bed, and the visions of mine head troubled me.

3 Therefore made I a decree, that they should bring all the wise men of Babel before me, that they might declare vnto mee the interpretation of the dreame.

4 So came the inchanters, ỹ astrologians, the Caldeans and the soothsayers, to whom I tolde the dreame, but c they could not shewe me the interpretation thereof,

5 Till at the last Daniel came before me, (whose name was d Beltheshazzar, according to the name of my God, which hath the spirit of the holy gods in him) and before him I tolde the dreame, saying,

6 O Beltheshazzar, e chiefe of the inchanters, because I knowe, that the spirite of the holy gods is in thee, and no secrete troubleth thee, tell me the visions of my dreame, that I haue seene, and the interpretation thereof.

7 Thus were the visions of mine head in my bed. And beholde, I sawe a f tree in the middes of the earth, and the height thereof was great:

8 A great tree and strong, and the height thereof reached vnto heauen, and the sight thereof to the ends of all the earth.

9 The boughes thereof were faire and the fruite thereof much, and in it was meate for all: it made a shadowe vnder it for the beastes of the fielde, and the a There was no trouble that might cause me to dreame, and therefore it came only of God.

b This was another dreame besides that which he sawe of the foure empires: for Daniel both declared what that dreame was, and what it meant: and here he only expounded the dreame.

c In that that he sent abroade to others whose ignorance in times past he had experimented, and left Daniel which was euer ready at hand, it declareth the nature of the vngodly, which neuer seeke to the seruants of God, but for very necessitie, and then they spare no flatterings.

d This no doubt was a great griefe to Daniel not onely to haue his name changed, but to be called by the name of a vile idole, which thing Nebuchad-nezzar did, to make him forget the true religion of God. e Which also was a great griefe to the Prophet to be nourished among the sorcerers, and men whose practises were wicke and contrarie to Gods worde. f By the tree, is signified the dignitie of a King, whome God ordeineth to be a defence for all kinde of men and whose state is profitable for mankinde.

foules of the heauen dwelt in the boughes thereof, and all fleshly feede of it.

10 I sawe the visions of mine head, vpon my bed, and behold, a watchman, & an holy one came downe from heauen, 11 And cryed aloude, & said thus, Hewe downe the tree, and breake all his branches: shake off his leaues, and scatter his fruite, that the beasts may flee from vnder it, and the foules from his branches.

12 Nevertheless leaue the stumpe of his roote in the earth, and with a band of yron and brasse binde it among the grasse of the fielde, and let it be wet with the dewe of heauen, and let his portion be with the beastes among the grasse of the field.

13 [h] Let his heart be changed from mans nature, and let a beastes heart be giuen vnto him, & let seuen times be passed ouer him.

14 [i] The sentence is according to the decree of the watchmen, and according to the worde of the holy ones: the demaund was answered, to the intent that liuing men may knowe, that the most High hath power ouer the kingdome of men, and giueth it to whomsoeuer he will, and appointeth ouer it the most abiect among men.

15 This is the dreame, that I king Nebuchad-nezzar haue seene: therefore thou, O Belteshazzar, declare the interpretation thereof: for all the wisemen of my kingdome are not able to shewe me the interpretation: but thou art able, for the spirite of the holy gods is in thee.

16 ¶ Then Daniel (whose name was Belteshazzar) helde his [k] peace by the space of one houre, & his thoughts troubled him, and the king spake and sayde, Belteshazzar, let neither the dreame, nor the interpretation thereof trouble thee. Belteshazzar answered and said, My lord, the dreame be to them that hate thee, and the interpretation thereof to thine enemies.

17 The tree that thou sawest, which was great and mightie, whose height reached vnto the heauen, and the sight thereof throughout all the world,

18 Whose leaues were faire and the fruit thereof much, and in it was meate for all, vnder the which the beastes of the fielde dwelt, and vpon whose branches the foules of the heauen did sit,

19 It is thou, O king, that art great and mightie: for thy greatnes is growen, and reacheth vnto heauen, and thy dominion to the ends of the earth.

20 Whereas the king saw a watchman, and an holy one, that came downe from heauen, and saide, Hewe downe the tree, and destroy it, yet leaue the stumpe of the rootes thereof in the earth, & with a bande of yron & brasse binde it among the grasse of the fielde, and let it be wet with the dewe of heauen, and let his portion be with the beasts of the fielde, [l] till seuen times passe ouer him,

21 This is the interpretation, O king, & it is the decree of the most High, which is come vpon my Lord the king, 22 That they shall driue thee from men, and thy dwelling shal be with the beasts of the field: they shal make thee to eate grasse as the [m] oxen, & they shall wette thee with the dewe of heauen: and seuen times shall passe ouer thee, till thou knowe, that [n] the most High beareth rule ouer the kingdome of men, & giueth it to whomsoeuer he will.

23 Whereas they saide, that one should leaue the stumpe of the tree rootes, thy kingdome shall remaine vnto thee: after that, thou shalt knowe that the heauens haue the rule, 24 Wherefore, O king, let my counsel bee acceptable vnto thee, & [o] breake off thy sinnes by righteousnesse, and thine iniquities by mercie towarde the poore: loe, let there be an [p] healing of thine errour.

25 All these things shall come vpon the king Nebuchad-nezzar.

26 ¶ At the end of twelue [q] moneths, he walked in the royall pallace of Babel.

27 And the king spake and saide, Is not this great Babel, that I haue built for the house of the kingdome by the might of my power, and for the honour of my maiestie?

28 While the worde was in the kings mouth, a voyce came downe from heauen, saying, O king Nebuchad-nezzar, to thee be it spoken, Thy kingdome is departed from thee, 29 And they shall driue thee from men, and thy dwelling shall be with the beastes of the fielde: they shall make thee to eate grasse, as the oxen, and seuen times shall passe ouer thee, vntill thou knowest, that the most High beareth rule ouer the kingdome of men, and giueth it vnto whomsoeuer he will.

30 The very same houre was this thing fulfilled vpon Nebuchad-nezzar, and he was driuen from men, and did eate grasse as the oxen, and his body was wet with the dewe of heauen, till his haires were growen as egles feathers, & his nayles like birdes clawes.

31 And at the end of these [r] dayes I Nebuchad-nezzar lift vp mine eyes vnto heauen, and mine vnderstanding was restored vnto me, & I gaue thankes vnto the most High, and I praised and honoured him that liueth for euer, * whose power is an euerlasting power, & his kingdome is from generation to generation.

32 And all the inhabitants of the earth are reputed as nothing: & according to his [s] will he worketh in the armie of heauen, and in the inhabitants of the earth: and none can stay his hand, nor say vnto him, What doest thou?

33 At the same time was mine vnderstanding restored vnto me, and I returned to the honour of my kingdome: my glorie and my beautie was restored vnto mee, and my counsellers [t] & my princes sought vnto me, and I was established in my kingdome, and my glory was augmented toward me.

34 Now therefore, I Nebuchad-nezzar

g Meaning, the Angel of God, which neither eateth nor sleepeth, but is euer readie to doe Gods will, and is not infect with mans corruption, but is euer holy: & in that that he commandeth to cut downe this tree, he knew y it should not be cut downe by man, but by God.

h Hereby hee meaneth y Nebuchad-nezzar should not onely for a time lose his kingdome, but be like a beast.

i God hath decreed his iudgement, & y whole armie of heauen haue as it were subscribed vnto it, like as also they desire the execution of his decree against all them that lift vp themselues against God.

k He was troubled for y great iudgement of God which he sawe ordeined against the king: and so the Prophets vsed on the one part to denounce Gods iudgements for the zeale they bare to his glory, and on the other part to haue cōpassion vpon mā, and also to consider that they should be subiect to Gods iudgements, if he did not regarde them with pitie.

l Whereby he meaneth a long space, as seuen yeeres. Some interpret seuen moneths, and others seuen weekes: but it seemeth hee meant of yeeres.

m Not that his shape or forme was changed into a beast, but y he was either striken mad, and so auoyded mans company, or was cast out for his tyrannie, and so wandred among the beastes, and ate herbes and grasse.

n Daniel sheweth the cause why God thus punished him.

o Cease from prouoking God to anger any longer by thy sinnes, that he may mitigate his punishment, if thou shew by thine vpright life that thou hast true faith and repentance.

p Suffer the errours of thy former life to be redressed.

q After that Daniel had declared this visions & this his pride declareth that it is not in man to conuert to God except his Spirite moue him, seeing that these terrible threatnings could not moue him to repent.

r When y terme of these seuen yeeres was accomplished. Chap.7.14. micah.4.7. luke 1.33.

s He confesseth Gods will to be the rule of all iustice, and a most perfit law whereby he gouerneth both man & Angels and deuils, so that none ought to murmure, or aske a reason of his doings, but onely to stand content therewith and giue him the glory.

t By whome it seemeth that he had bene put from his kingdome before.

u He doeth not onely praise God for his deliuerance, but also confesseth his fault, that God may onely haue the glorie and man the shame, and that he may be exalted and man cast downe.

u praise, and extoll and magnifie the King of heauen, whose workes are all trueth, and his wayes iudgement, and those that walke in pride, he is able to abase.

CHAP. V.

5 Belshazzar King of Babylon seeth an hand writing on the wall. 8 The soothsayers called of the king, cannot expound the writing. 25 Daniel readeth it, and interpreteth it also. 30 The King is slaine. 31 Darius enioyeth the kingdome.

a Daniel reciteth this historie of king Belshazzar Euilmerodachs sonne, to shewe Gods iudgements against the wicked for the deliuerance of his Church, and how the prophecie of Ieremiah was true, that they should be deliuered after seuentie yeeres.

b The kings of the East parts then vsed to sit alone commonly, and disdayned that any should sit in their company: and now to shew his power, and how little he set by his enemie, which then besieged Babylon, he made a solemne banket, and vsed excesse in their company, which is meant here by drinking wine: thus the wicked are most dissolute and negligent when their destruction is at hand.

c Meaning, his grandfather.

d In contempt of the true God they praised their idoles, not that they thought that the gold or siluer were gods, but that there was a certaine vertue and power in them to doe them good, which is also the opinion of all idolaters. e That it might the better be seene. f So he that before contemned God, was mooued by this sight to tremble for feare of Gods iudgements. g Thus the wicked in their troubles seeke many meanes, who drawe them from God, because they seeke not to him who is the onely comfort in all afflictions. h To wit, his grandmother Nebuchad-nezzars wife, which for her age was not before at the feast, but came thither when she heard of these strange newes.

KIng a Belshazzar made a great feast to a thousand of his princes, and dranke wine b before the thousand.

2 And Belshazzar ‖ whiles he tasted the wine, commanded to bring him the golden and siluer vessels, which his c father Nebuchad-nezzar had brought from the Temple in Ierusalem, that the King and his princes, his wiues, and his concubines might drinke therein.

3 Then were brought the golden vessels, that were taken out of the Temple of the Lordes house at Ierusalem, and the King and his princes, his wiues, and his concubines dranke in them.

4 They dranke wine and praysed the d gods of golde, and of siluer, of brasse, of yron, of wood and of stone.

5 At the same houre appeared fingers of a mans hand, which wrote ouer e against the candlesticke vpon the plaister of the wall of the kings palace, and the king sawe the palme of the hand that wrote.

6 Then the kings countenance was changed, & his thoughts troubled him, so that the ioyntes of his loynes were loosed, and his f knees smote one against the other.

7 Wherefore the King cryed loude, that they shoulde bring g the Astrologians, the Caldeans & the soothsayers. And the king spake, and sayde to the wise men of Babel, Whosoeuer can reade this writing, and declare me the interpretation thereof, shall be clothed with purple, and shall haue a chaine of golde about his necke, and shall be the third ruler in the kingdome.

8 Then came all the Kings wise men, but they coulde neither reade the writing, nor shewe the King the interpretation.

9 Then was King Belshazzar greatly troubled, and his countenance was changed in him, and his princes were astonied.

10 Nowe the h Queene by reason of the talke of the King and his Princes, came into the banket house, and the Queene spake, and sayd, O King, liue for euer: let not thy thoughts trouble thee, nor let thy countenance be changed.

11 There is a man in thy kingdome, in whom is the spirit of the holy gods, and in the dayes of thy father, light & vnderstanding and wisdome like the wisedome of the gods, was found in him: whome the king Nebuchad-nezzar thy father, the king, I say, thy father, made chiefe of the i enchanters, astrologians, Caldeans, and soothsayers,

12 Because a more excellent spirite, and knowledge, and vnderstanding (for he did expound dreames, and declare hard sentences, and dissolued doubtes) were found in him, euen in Daniel, whom the king named Belteshazzar: now let Daniel be called, and he will declare the interpretation.

13 ¶ Then was Daniel brought before the King, and the King spake, and said vnto Daniel, Art thou that Daniel, which art of the children of the captiuitie of Iudah, whome my father the King brought out of Iewrie?

14 Now I haue heard of thee, that k the spirite of the holy gods is in thee, and that light and vnderstanding and excellent wisdome is found in thee.

15 Nowe therefore, wise men, and astrologians haue bene brought before mee, that they shoulde reade this writing, and shewe mee the interpretation thereof: but they coulde not declare the interpretation of the thing.

16 Then heard I of thee, that thou couldest shewe interpretations, and dissolue doubts: nowe if thou canst reade the writing, and shew me the interpretation therof, thou shalt be clothed with purple, and shalt haue a chaine of golde about thy necke, and shalt be the third ruler in the kingdome.

17 Then Daniel answered, and sayd before the King, Keepe thy rewardes to thy selfe, and giue thy giftes to another: yet I will reade the writing vnto the King, and shewe him the interpretation.

18 O King, heare thou, The most High God gaue vnto l Nebuchad-nezzar thy father a kingdome, and maiestie and honour and glorie.

19 And for the maiestie that he gaue him, all people, nations & languages trembled, and feared before him: hee put to death whome hee would: hee smote whome hee would: whome hee would hee set vp, and whome he would he put downe.

20 But when his heart was puft vp, and his minde hardened in pride, hee was deposed from his kingly throne, and they tooke his honour from him.

21 And he was driuen from the sonnes of men, and his heart was made like the beastes, and his dwelling was with the wilde asses: they fedde him with grasse like oxen, and his body was wet with the dew of the heauen, till hee knewe that the most High God bare rule ouer the kingdome of men, and that hee appointeth ouer it, whomsoeuer he pleaseth.

22 And thou his sonne, O Belshazzar, hast not humbled thine heart, though thou knewest all these thinges, i Read Chap 4. 6. and this declareth that both this name was odious vnto him, and also that he did not vse these vile practises, because hee was not among them when all were called.

k For the idolaters thought, that the Angels had power as God, and therefore had them in like estimation, as they had God, thinking that the spirite of prophecie, and vnderstanding came of them.

l Before he read the writing, he declareth to the king his great ingratitude toward God, who coulde not be mooued to giue him the glory, considering his wonderful worke toward his grandfather, and so sheweth, that he doeth not sinne of ignorance, but of malice.

23 But

23 But hast lift thy selfe vp against the Lord of heauen, and they haue brought the vessels of his house before thee, and thou and thy princes, thy wiues and thy concubines haue drunke wine in them, and thou hast praised the gods of siluer and golde, of brasse, yron, wood and stone, which neither see, neither heare, nor vnderstand: and the God in whose hand thy breath is and all thy wayes, him hast thou not glorified.

m After that God had, so long time deferred his anger, and patiently waited for thine amendement.

24 m Then was the parte of the hande sent from him, & hath written this writing.

25 And this is the writing that he hath written, MENE, MENE, TEKEL VPHARSIN.

n This word is twise written for the certaintie of the thing: shewing that God had most surely counted: signifying also that God hath appointed a terme for all kingdomes, and that a miserable ende shall come on all that raise themselues against him.

26 This is the interpretation of the thing, MENE, God hath nombred thy kingdome, and hath finished it.

27 TEKEL, thou art waged in the balance, and art found ‖ too light.

28 PERES, thy kingdome is deuided, and giuen to the Medes and Persians.

29 Then at the commaundement of Belthazzar, they clothed Daniel with purple, and put a chaine of golde about his necke, and made a proclamation concerning him that he shoulde be the third ruler in the kingdome.

30 The same night was Belthazzar the king of the Caldeans slaine.

31 And Darius o of the Medes tooke the kingdome, being threescore and two yeere olde.

‖ Or, wanting.

o Cyrus his sonne in lawe gaue him this title of honour although Cyrus in effect had the dominion.

CHAP. VI.

1 Daniel is made ruler ouer the gouernours. 5 An act against Daniel. 16 He is put into a den of lyons by the commandement of the King. 23 He is deliuered by faith in God. 24 Daniels accusers are put vnto the lyons. 25 Darius by a decree magnifieth the God of Daniel.

a Reade Esther Chap. 1. 1.

IT pleased Darius to set ouer the kingdome a an hundreth and twentie gouernours, which shoulde bee ouer the whole kingdome.

2 And ouer these, three rulers (of whom Daniel was one) that the gouernors might giue accompts vnto them, and the king should ‖ haue no domage.

‖ Or, not be troubled.

b This heathen King preferred Daniel a stranger to all his nobles and familiars, because the graces of God were more excellent in him then in others.

3 Now this Daniel b was preferred aboue the rulers and gouernours, because the spirite was excellent in him, and the king thought to set him ouer the whole realme.

c Thus the wicked cannot abide the graces of God in others, but seeke by all occasions to deface them: therefore against such as rules there is no better remedy then to walke vprightly in the feare of God, and to haue a good conscience.

4 ¶ Wherefore the rulers and gouernours c sought an occasion against Daniel concerning the kingdome: but they coulde finde none occasion nor fault: for hee was so faithfull that there was no blame nor fault found in him.

5 Then sayde these men, Wee shall not finde an occasion against this Daniel, except we finde it against him concerning the Lawe of his God.

6 Therefore the rulers and these gouernours went together to the King, and sayde thus vnto him, King Darius, liue for euer.

7 All the rulers of thy kingdome, the officers & gouernours, the counsellers, and dukes haue consulted together to make a decree for the King, & to establish a statute, that whosoeuer shall aske a petition of any god or man for thirtie dayes saue of thee, O King, he shalbe cast into the denne of lyons.

8 Now, O king, confirme the decree, and seale the writing, that it be not changed, according to the law of the Medes and Persians, which altereth not.

9 Wherefore king Darius d sealed the writing and the decree.

d Herein is condemned the wickednesse of the king, who would be set vp as a god, and passed not what wicked lawes he approoued for the maintenance of the same.

10 ¶ Nowe when Daniel vnderstoode that he had sealed the writing, hee went into the house, and his e windowe being open in his chamber toward Jerusalem, hee kneeled vpon his knees three times a day, and prayed, and praised his God, as he did afore time.

e Because he would not by his silence shew that he consented to this wicked decree, hee set open his windowes toward Ierusalem, when he prayed: both to stirre vp himselfe with the remembrance of Gods promises to his people when they should pray toward that Temple, and also that others might see, that he woulde neither consent in heart nor deed for those fewe dayes to any thing that was contrary to Gods glory.

11 Then these men assembled, and found Daniel praying, and making supplication vnto his God.

12 So they came, and spake vnto the King concerning the Kings decree, Hast thou not sealed the decree, that euery man that shall make request to any god or man within thirtie dayes, saue to thee, O King, shall be cast into the denne of lyons? The King answered, and said, The thing is true, according to the lawe of the Medes and Persians, which altereth not.

13 Then answered they, and sayde vnto the King, This Daniel which is of the children of the captiuitie of Judah, regardeth not thee, O King, nor the decree, that thou hast sealed, but maketh his petition three times a day.

14 When the King heard these wordes, hee was sore displeased with him selfe, and set his heart on Daniel, to deliuer him: and hee laboured till the sunne went downe, to deliuer him.

15 Then these men assembled vnto the King, and said vnto the King, Vnderstand, O King, that the lawe of the Medes and Persians is, that no decree nor statute which the King confirmeth, may be altered.

f Thus the wicked maintaine euill lawes by constancie and authoritie, which is oft times either lightnesse, or stubburnnesse, when as the innocents thereby perish: and therefore gouernours neither ought to feare nor be ashamed to breake such.

16 ¶ Then the King commaunded, and they brought Daniel, and cast him into the denne of lyons: nowe the King spake, and sayde vnto Daniel, Thy God, whome thou alway seruest, euen he will deliuer thee.

17 And a stone was brought, and layde vpon the mouth of the denne, and the King sealed it with his owne signet, and with the signet of his princes, that the purpose might not bee changed, concerning Daniel.

18 Then the king went vnto his palace, and remained fasting, neither were the instruments of musicke brought before him, and his sleepe went from him.

19 ¶ Then the King arose early in the morning, and went in all haste vnto the denne of lyons.

20 And when hee came to the denne, he cried with a lamentable voice vnto Daniel:

and

and the king spake, and sayde to Daniel, O Daniel, the seruant of the liuing God, is not thy God (whome thou allway seruest) g able to deliuer thee from the lyons?

21 Then saide Daniel vnto the King, O King, liue for euer.

22 My God hath sent his Angel & hath shut the lyons mouthes, that they haue not hurt me: for h my iustice was founde out before him: and vnto thee, O King, I haue done i no hurt.

23 Then was the king exceeding glad for him, and commanded that they should take Daniel out of the denne: so Daniel was brought out of the denne, and no maner of hurt was found vpon him, because he k beleeued in his God.

24 And by the commaundement of the king these men which had accused Daniel, were brought, and were cast into the denne of lyons, euen they, their children, and their wiues: and the lyons had the masterie of them, and brake all their bones a pieces, or euer they came at the grounde of the denne.

25 ¶ Afterwarde King Darius wrote, Vnto all people, nations and languages, that dwell in all the world: Peace be multiplied vnto you.

26 I make a decree, that in all the dominion of my kingdome, men tremble and feare m before the God of Daniel: for he is the n liuing God, & remaineth for euer: and his kingdome shall not perish, and his dominion shall be euerlasting.

27 He rescueth and deliuereth, and hee worketh signes and wonders in heauē and in earth: who hath deliuered Daniel from the power of the lyons.

28 So this Daniel prospered in the reigne of Darius and in the reigne of Cyrus of Persia.

g This declareth that Darius was not touched with the true knowledge of God, because he doubted of his power.

h My iust cause and vprightnesse in this thing, wherein I was charged, is approued of God.

i For he did disobey the kings wicked commandement to obey God, and so did no iniurie to the king, who ought to command nothing, whereby God should be dishonoured.

k Because he cōmitted himselfe wholy vnto God whose cause he did defend, he was assured, that nothing but good coulde come vnto him: wherein we see the power of faith, as Heb. 11.33.

l This is a terrible example against all § wicked, which doe against their conscience make cruell lawes to destroy the children of God, and also admonisheth Princes howe to punish such, when their wickednesse is come to light: though not in euery poynt, or with like circumstances, yet to execute true iustice vpon them.

m This proueth not that Darius did worship God aright, or else was conuerted: for then he would haue destroyed all superstition & idolatrie, and not onely giuen God the chiefe place, but also haue set him vp, & caused him to be honoured according to his worde: but this was a certaine confession of Gods power, whereunto he was compelled by this wonderfull miracle.

n Which hath not onely life in him selfe, but is the onely fountaine of life, and quickeneth all thinges, so that without him there is no life.

CHAP. VII.

3 A vision of foure beastes is shewed vnto Daniel. 8 The tenne hornes of the fourth beast. 27 Of the euerlasting kingdome of Christ.

a Whereas the people of Israel looked for a cōtinuall quietnes after these seuenthe yeeres, as Ieremiah had declared, he sheweth that this rest shal not be a deliuerance from all troubles, but a beginning, and therefore encouraged them to looke for a continuall affliction till the Messiah be vttered and reuealed, by whom they should haue a spirituall deliuerance, and all the promises fulfilled: whereof they shoulde haue a certaine token in the destruction of the Babylonicall kingdome, the summe of the matter.

IN the first yeere of Belshazzar King of Babel, Daniel sawe a dreame, and there were visions in his head, vpon his bedde: a then hee wrote the dreame, and declared

2 Daniel spake and saide, I sawe in my b vision by night, and beholde, the foure windes of the heauen stroue vpon b the great sea:

3 And foure great beasts came vp from the sea one diuers from another.

4 The first was as a c lyon, & had eagles wings: I beheld, till the wings thereof were pluckt off, and it was lifted vp from the earth, & set vpon his feete as a man, and a mans heart was giuen him.

5 And beholde, another beast which was the seconde, was like a d beare and stoode vpon the e one side: and he had three ribs in his f mouth betweene his teeth, & and they sayde thus vnto him, Arise and deuoure much flesh.

6 After this, I beheld, and loe, there was an other like a h leopard, which had vpon his backe i foure wings of a foule: the beast had also foure heads, and k dominion was giuen him.

7 After this I saw in p visions by night, and beholde, the l fourth beast was fearefull, and terrible, and verp strong. It had great m yron teeth: it deuoured, & brake in pieces and stamped n the residue vnder his feete: and it was vnlike to the beastes that were before it: for it had o tenne homes.

8 As I considered the homes, beholde, there came vp among them another litle p horne, before whome there were 9 three of the first homes pluckt away: and beholde, b Which signified that there should be horrible troubles, and afflictions in the worlde in all corners of the world and at sundrie times.

c Meaning the Assirian and Caldean Empire, which was most strong and fierce in power, and most soone come to their authoritie as though they had had wings to flie: yet their wings were pulled by the Persians, and they went on their feete, and were made like other men which is here meant by mans heart.

d Meaning the Persians, which were barbarous and cruell.

e They were small in the beginning, and were shutte vp in the mountaines and had no bruite.

f That is, destroyed many kingdomes, and was insatiable.

g To wit, the Angels by Gods commandement, who by this meanes punished the ingratitude of the worlde.

h Meaning, Alexander the King of Macedonie.

i That is, his foure chiefe captaines, which had the Empire among them after his death. Seleucus had Asia the great, Antigonus the lesse, Cassander and after him Antipater was King of Macedonie, and Ptolemeus had Egypt.

k It was not of himselfe nor of his owne power that hee gate all these countreys: for his armie contained but thirtie thousand men, and hee ouercame in one battell Darius, which had tenne hundred thousand, when he was so heauie with sleepe that his eyes were scarce open, as the stories report: therefore this power was giuen him of God.

l That is, the Romane Empire which was as a monster and coulde not be compared to any beast, because the nature of none was able to expresse it.

m Signifying the tyrannie and greedinesse of the Romanes.

n That which the Romanes coulde not quietly enioy in other countreys, they would giue it to other Kings and Rulers, that at al times when they would, they might take it againe: which liberalitie is here called the stamping of the rest vnder the feete.

o That is, sundrie and diuers prouinces which were gouerned by the deputies and proconsuls, whereof euery one might bee compared to a king.

p Which is meant of Iulius Cæsar, Augustus, Tiberius, Caligula, Claudius, and Nero, &c. who were as kings in effect, but because they coulde not rule, but by the consent of the Senate, their power is compared to a litle horne. For Mahomet came not of the Romane Empire, and the Pope hath no vocation of gouernement: therefore this cannot be applyed vnto them. And also in this prophecie the Prophets purpose is chiefely to comfort the Iewes vnto the reuelation of Christ. Some take it for the whole body of Antichrist.

q Meaning, a certaine portion of the tenne hornes: that is, a part from the whole estate was pluckt away. For Augustus tooke from the Senate the libertie of chusing the deputies to sende into the prouinces, and tooke the gouernement of certaine countreys to himselfe.

in this horne were r eyes like the eyes of man, and a mouth speaking presumptuous things.

9 I beheld, till the thrones were set vp, and the s Ancient of dayes did sit, whose garment was white as snowe, and the haire of his head like the pure wooll: his throne was like the fiery flame, & his wheeles as burning fire.

10 A fierie streame issued, and came fourth from before him: thousande thousands ministred vnto him, and tenne thousande t thousands stoode before him: the iudgement was set, and the u bookes opened.

11 Then I beheld, v because of the voyce of the presumptuous wordes, which the horne spake: I beheld, euen till the beast was slaine, and his body destroyed, and giuen to the burning fire.

12 As x concerning the other beastes, they had taken away their dominion: yet their liues were prolonged for a certaine time and season.

13 ¶ As I beheld in visions by night, beholde, y one like the sonne of man came in the clouds of heauen, and z approched vnto the Ancient of dayes, and they brought him before him.

14 And he gaue him a dominion, and honour, and a kingdome, that all people, nations, and languages should serue him: his dominion is an euerlasting dominion, which shall neuer be taken away: and his kingdome shall neuer be destroyed.

15 ¶ I Daniel was b troubled in my spirite, in the middes of my bodie, and the visions of mine heade made mee afraide.

16 Therefore I came vnto c one of them that stoode by, and asked him the trueth of all this: so hee tolde mee, and shewed mee the interpretation of these things.

17 These great beastes which are fourre, are foure Kings, which shall arise out of the earth, 18 And they shall take the d kingdome of the Saints of the most High, & possesse the kingdome for euer, euen for euer and euer.

19 ¶ After this, I would know e the trueth of the fourth beast, which was so vnlike to all the others, verie fearefull, whose teeth were of yron, and his nailes of brasse: which deuoured, brake in pieces, and stamped the f residue vnder his feete.

20 Also to knowe of the ten hornes that were in his head, and of the other which came vp, before whom three fel, and of the horne that had eyes, and of the mouth that spake presumptuous things, whose g looke was more stout then his fellowes.

21 I beheld, and the same h horne made battell against the Saints, yea, and preuailed against them, 22 Vntill i the Ancient of dayes came, and iudgement was giuen to the Saints of the most High: and the time approched, that the Saintes possessed the kingdome.

23 Then he said, The fourth beast shalbe the fourth kingdome in the earth, which shalbe vnlike to all the kingdomes, and shall deuoure the whole earth, and shall treade it downe and breake it in pieces.

24 And the ten hornes out of this kingdome are ten Kings that shal rise: & another shall rise after them, and he shalbe vnlike to the first, and he shall subdue k three Kings,

25 And shall speake words against l the most High, and shall consume the Saintes of the most High, and thinke that hee may m change times and lawes, and they shall be giuen into his hand, vntill a n time, and times, and the deuiding of time.

26 But the iudgement shall sit, and they shall take away his dominion, to consume and destroy it vnto the ende.

27 And the o kingdome, and dominion, r These Romane Emperours at the first vsed a certaine humanitie and gentlenesse, and were content that others, as the Consuls and Senate should beare the name of dignitie, so that they might haue the profite, & therefore in elections and counsels would behaue themselues according as did other Senators: yet against their enemies & those that would resist them, they were fierce and cruel, which is here meant by the proude mouth.

s Meaning, the places where God and his Angels should come to iudge these Monarchies, which iudgement should begin at the first comming of Christ.

t That is, God which was before all times, and is here described as mans nature is able to comprehend some portion of his glory.

u That is, an infinite nomber of Angels, which were ready to execute his commandement.

x This is meant of the first comming of Christ, when as the will of of God was plainely reueiled by his Gospell.

y Meaning, that he was astonied, when hee sawe these Emperours in such dignitie, and pride, and so suddenly destroyed at the comming of Christ, when this fourth Monarchie was subiect to men at other nations.

z As the three former Monarchies had an ende of the time that GOD appointed, although they flourished for a time, so shall this fourth haue, and they that patiently abide Gods appointment, shall enioy the promises.

a Which is meant of Christ, who had not yet taken vpon him mans nature, neyther was the sonne of Dauid according to the flesh, as hee was afterwarde: but appeared then in a figure, and that in the cloudes: that is, being separate from the common sorte of men by manifest signes of his diuinitie.

b To wit, when hee ascended into the heauens, and his diuine maiestie appeared, and all power was giuen vnto him in respect of that that hee was our Mediatour.

c This is meant of the beginning of Christes kingdome when GOD the Father gaue vnto him all dominion, as to the Mediatour, to the intent that hee shoulde gouerne here his Church in earth continually till the time that he brought them to eternall life.

d Through the strangenesse of the vision.

e Meaning, of the Angels, as verse 10.

f Because Abraham was appointed heire of all the world, Rom. 4.13. and in him all the faithful, therefore the kingdome theres of is theirs by right, which these foure beasts or tyrants should inuade, and vsurpe vntill the worlde were restored by Christ: and this was to confirme them that were in troubles, that their afflictions should haue an ende at length.

g That is, of the most hie things, because God hath chosen them out of this world that they should looke vp to the heauens, whereon all their hope dependeth.

h For the other three Monarchies were gouerned by a king, and the Romane Empire by consuls: the Romanes changed their gouernours yeerely, and the other Monarchies retained them for terme of life: also the Romanes were the strongest of all the other, and were neuer quiet among themselues.

i Reade verse 7.

k This is meant of the fourth beast, which was more terrible then the other.

l Meaning, the Romane Emperours, who were most cruell against the Church of God both of the Iewes & of the Gentiles.

m Till God shewed his power in the person of Christ, and by the preaching of the Gospel gaue vnto his some rest, and so obtained a famous name in the world, and were called the Church of God, or the kingdome of God.

n Reade the exposition hereof, verse 8.

o That is, shall make wicked decrees and proclamations, against Gods worde, and send throughout all their dominion, to destroy all that did professe it.

p These Emperours shall not consider that they haue their power of God, but thinke it is in their owne power to change Gods lawes and mans: and as it were the order of nature, as appeareth by Octauius, Tiberius, Caligula, Nero, Domitianus, &c.

q God shall suffer them thus to rage against his Saints for a long time, which is meant by the time and times, but at length hee will asswage these troubles and shorten the times for his electes sake, Matth. 24.22. which is here meant by the deuiding of time.

r God by his power shall restore things that were out of order, and so destroy this litle horne, that it shall neuer rise vp againe.

s Hee sheweth wherefore the beast shoulde be destroyed, to wit, that his Church might haue rest and quietnesse, which though they doe not fully enioy here, yet they haue it in hope, and by the preaching of the Gospell enioy the beginning thereof, which is meant by these words, vnder the heauen, and therefore he here speaketh of the beginning of Christes kingdome in this world, which kingdome the faithfull haue by the participation that they haue with Christ their head.

and

t That is, some of euery sort that beare rule.
u Though he had many motions in his heart which mooued him to and fro to seeke out this matter curiously: yet he was content with that which God reueiled, and kept it in memorie, and wrote it for the vse of the Church.

and the greatnesse of the kingdome vnder the whole heauen shall be giuen to the holy people of the most High, whose kingdome is an euerlasting kingdome, and all t powers shall serue and obey him.

28 Euen this is the end of the matter, I Daniel had many u cogitations which troubled mee, and my countenance changed in me: but I kept the matter in mine heart.

CHAP. VIII.

A vision of a battell betweene a ramme and a goate. 20 The vnderstanding of the vision.

a After the generall vision he commeth to certaine particular visions: as touching the destruction of the Monarchie of the Persians, and Macedonians: for the ruine of the Babylonians was at hand, and also he had sufficiently spoken thereof.
b That is, of Persia.
c Which represented the kingdome of the Persians and Medes, which were ioyned together.
d Meaning, Cyrus, which after grew greater in power then Darius his vncle and father in lawe.
e That is, no kings or nations.
f Meaning, Alexander that came from Grecia, with great speede and expedition.
g Though he came in the name of all Grecia, yet he bare the title and dignitie of the generall captaine, so that the strength was ascribed to him, which is meant by this horne.

IN the third yeere of the reigne of King Belshazzar, a vision appeared vnto mee, euen vnto me Daniel, a after that which appeared vnto me at the first.

2 And I saw in a vision, and when I saw it, I was in the palace of Shushan, which is in the prouince b of Elam, and in a vision me thought I was by the riuer of Vlai.

3 Then I looked vp and saw, and behold, there stoode before the riuer a c ramme, which had two homes: and these two homes were hie: but one was d hier then another, and the hiest came vp last.

4 I sawe the ramme pushing against the West, and against the North, and against the South: so that no e beasts might stand before him, nor coulde deliuer out of his hand, but he did what he listed, and became great.

5 And as I considered, behold, f a goate came from the West ouer the whole earth, and touched not the ground: and this goate had an g horne that appeared betweene his eyes.

6 And he came vnto the ramme that had the two homes, whome I had seene standing by the riuer, and ranne vnto him in his fierce rage.

7 And I saw him come vnto the ramme, and being mooued against him, he h smote the ramme, and brake his two homes: and there was no power in the ramme to stand against him, but hee cast him downe to the ground, and stamped vpon him, and there was none that could deliuer the ramme out of his power.

8 Therefore the goate waxed exceeding great, and when hee was at the strongest, his great i horne was broken: and for it came vp foure that k appeared toward the foure windes of the heauen.

9 And out of one of the came forth a l litle horne, which waxed very great toward the m South, and toward the n East, & toward the o pleasant land.

10 Yea, it grewe vp vnto the p hoste of heauen, and it cast downe some of the hoste, and of the starres to the ground, and troad vpon them,

11 And exalted him selfe against the q prince of the hoste from whome the daily sacrifice was taken away, and the place of his sanctuarie was cast downe.

12 And r a time shall bee giuen him ouer the daily sacrifice for the iniquitie: and it shall t cast downe the trueth to the ground, and thus shall it doe, and prosper.

13 Then I heard one of the u Saintes speaking, and one of the Saints spake vnto a certaine one, saying, How long shall endure the vision of the daily sacrifice, and the iniquitie of the x desolation to treade both the Sanctuarie and the y armie vnder foote?

14 And hee z answered mee, Vnto the a euening, and the morning, two thousande and three hundreth: then shall the Sanctuarie be cleansed.

15 ¶ Now when I Daniel had seene the vision, and sought for the meaning, beholde, there stoode before mee b like the similitude of a man.

16 And I heard a mans voice betweene the bankes of Vlai, which called and sayde, Gabriel, c make this man to vnderstand the vision.

17 So he came where I stood: and when he came, I was afraid, & fell vpon my face: but he sayd vnto me, Vnderstand, O sonne of man: for d in the last time shalbe the vision.

18 Now as he was speaking vnto me, I being a sleepe fell on my face to the ground: but he touched me, & set me vp in my place.

19 And he said, Behold, I will shew thee what shall be in the last e wrath: for in the ende of the time appointed it shall come.

20 The ramme which thou sawest hauing two homes, are the kings of the Medes and Persians.

21 And the goate is the King of Grecia, and the great horne that is betweene his eyes, is the first King.

22 And that that is broken, and foure stoode vp for it, are foure kingdomes, which shall stand vp f of that nation, but not g in his strength.

23 And in the ende of their kingdome, when the rebellious shalbe consumed, a king of h fierce countenance, and vnderstanding h Alexander ouercame Darius in two sundry battels, and so had the two kingdomes of the Medes & Persians.

i Alexanders great power was broken: for when he had ouercome al the East, he thought to returne toward Grecia to subdue them that there had rebelled, and so died by the way.
k That is, which were famous: for almost in the space of fifteene yere there were fifteene diuers successors before this monarchie was deuided to these foure, wherof Cassander had Macedonia, Seleucus Syria, Antigonus Asia the lesse, and Ptolemeus Egypt.
l Which was Antiochus Epiphanes, who was of a seruile and flattering nature, and also there were others betwene him & the kingdome, & therfore is here called the litle horne, because neither princely conditions, nor any other thing was in him, why he should obteine this kingdome.
m That is, toward Egypt.
n Whereby he meaneth Ptolemais.
o That is, Iudea.
p Antiochus raged against the elect of God, and trode his precious starres vnder feete, which are so called, because they are separated from the world.
q That is, God, who gouerneth and maintaineth his Church.
r He laboured to abolish all religion, and therefore cast Gods seruice out of his Temple, which God had chosen as a litle corner from all the rest of the world to haue his name there truely called vpon.
s He sheweth that their sinnes are the cause of these horrible afflictions: and yet comforteth them, in that he appointeth this tyrant a time, whom he woulde not suffer vtterly to abolish his religion.
t This horne shal abolish for a time the true doctrine, and so corrupt Gods seruice.
u Meaning, that he heard one of the Angels asking this question of Christ, whom he calleth a certaine one, or a secrete one, or a marueilous one.
x That is, the Iewes sinnes, which were cause of this destruction.
y That is, which suppresseth Gods religion, and his people.
z Christ answered me for the comfort of the Church.
a That is, vntill so many naturall dayes be past, which make sixe yeeres, three moneths and an halfe: for so long vnder Antiochus was the Temple prophaned.
b Which was Christ, who in this maner declared himselfe to the old fathers how he would be God manifested in flesh.
c This power to command the Angel, declared that he was God.
d The effect of this vision shall not yet appeare, but a long time after.
e Meaning that great rage which Antiochus shoulde shewe against the Church.
f That is, out of Grecia.
g They shall not haue like power as had Alexander.
h Noting that this Antiochus was impudent, and cruell, and also craftie that he could not be deceiued.

darke sentences, shall stand vp.

24 And his power shall be mightie, but not in his strength: and hee shall destroy wonderfully, and shall prosper, and practise, and shall destroy the k mightie, and the holy people.

25 And through his l policie also, hee shall cause craft to prosper in his hand, and he shall extoll himselfe in his heart, and by m peace shall destroy many: hee shall also stand vp against the n Prince of princes, but he shall be broken downe o without hand.

26 And the vision of the p euening and the morning, which is declared, is true: therefore seale thou vp the vision, for it shall be after many dayes.

27 And I Daniel was striken and sicke q certaine dayes: but when I rose vp, I did the kings businesse, and I was astonished at the vision, but none vnderstoode it.

k That is, not like Alexanders strength.

l Whatsoeuer he goeth about by his craft, he shall bring it to passe.

m That is, vnder pretence of peace, or as it were in sport.

o For God would destroy him with a notable plague, and so comfort his Church, 2. Mac. 9. 9.

p Reade verse 14.

q For feare and astonishment.

CHAP. IX.

3 Daniel desireth to haue that performed of God, which he had promised concerning the returne of the people from their banishment in Babylon. 5 A true confession. 20 Daniels prayer is heard. 21 Gabriel the Angell expoundeth vnto him the vision of the seuentie weekes. 24 The anoynting of Christ. 25 The building againe of Ierusalem. 26 The death of Christ.

IN the first peere of Darius the sonne of a Ahasshueroth, of the seede of the Medes, which was made king ouer the b realme of the Caldeans,

2 Euen in the first peere of his reigne, I Daniel vnderstood by c bookes the number of the peeres whereof the Lord had spoken vnto Jeremiah the Prophet, that he would accomplish seuentie peeres in the desolation of Jerusalem.

3 And I turned my face vnto the Lord God, and d sought by prayer and supplications with fasting and sackcloth & ashes.

4 And I prayed vnto the Lord my God, and made my confession, saying, Oh Lord God, which art e great and fearefull, and keepest couenant and mercie towarde them which loue ‡ thee, and towarde them that keepe thy commandements,

5 We haue sinned, and haue committed iniquitie and haue done wickedly, yea, wee haue rebelled, and haue departed from thy precepts, and from thy iudgements.

6 For we would not obey thy seruants the Prophets, which spake in thy Name to our kings, to our princes, and to our fathers, and to all the people of the land.

7 O Lord, f righteousnesse belongeth vnto thee, and vnto vs ‡ open shame, as appeareth this day vnto euery man of Judah, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem: yea, vnto all Israel, both neere and farre off, through all the countreys, whither thou hast driuen them, because of their offences, that they haue committed against thee.

8 O Lord, vnto vs appertaineth open shame, to our g kings, to our princes, and to our fathers, because we haue sinned against thee.

9 Yet compassion and forgiuenesse is in the Lord our God, albeit wee haue rebelled against him.

10 For we haue not obeyed the h voyce of the Lord our God, to walke in his lawes, which he had layde before vs by the ministerie of his seruants the Prophets.

11 Yea, all Israel haue transgressed thy Lawe, and are turned backe, and haue not heard thy voyce: therefore the i curse is powred vpon vs, and the othe that is written in the Lawe of Moses the seruant of God, because we haue sinned against him.

12 And hee hath confirmed his woordes, which he spake against vs, and against our iudges that ‖iudged vs, by bringing vpon vs a great plague: for vnder the whole heauen hath not bene the like, as hath bene brought vpon Jerusalem.

13 All this plague is come vpon vs, as it is written in the Lawe of Moses: yet made wee not our prayer before the Lorde our God, that we might turne from our iniquities and vnderstand thy trueth.

14 Therefore hath the Lord ‡ made ready the plague, and brought it vpon vs: for the Lorde our God is righteous in all his workes which he doeth: for we would not heare his voyce.

15 * And nowe, O Lorde our God, that hast brought thy people out of the lande of Egypt with a mightie hand, and hast gotten thee renowne, as appeareth this day, we haue sinned, we haue done wickedly.

16 O Lord, according to all thy k righteousnesse, I beseech thee, let thine anger and thy wrath bee turned away from thy citie Jerusalem thine holy mountaine: for because of our sinnes, and for the iniquities of our fathers, Jerusalem and thy people are a reproch to all that are about vs.

17 Nowe therefore, O our God, heare the prayer of thy seruant, and his supplications, and cause thy face to l shine vpon thy Sanctuarie, that lieth waste for the m Lords sake.

18 O my God, encline thine eare, and heare: open thine eyes, and beholde our desolations, and the citie whereupon thy Name is called: for wee doe not present our supplications before thee for our owne n righteousnesse, but for thy great tender mercies.

19 O Lord, heare, O Lord forgiue, O Lord o consider, and doe it: deferre not, for thine owne sake, O my God: for thy Name is called vpon thy citie, and vpon thy people.

20 ¶ And whiles I was speaking and praying, and confessing my sinne, and the sinne of my people Israel, & did present my supplication before the Lord my God, for the b For Cyrus leadde with ambition, went about warres in other countreys, and therefore Darius had the title of the kingdome, though Cyrus was king in effect.

c For though he was an excellent Prophet, yet he daily increased in knowledge by the reading of the Scriptures.

d He speaketh not of that ordinarie prayer, which he vsed in his house thrise a day, but of a rare and vehement prayer, least their sinnes should cause God to delay the time of their deliuerance prophecied by Ieremiah.

e That is, hast all power in thy selfe to execute thy terrible iudgements against obstinate sinners, as thou art rich in mercie to comfort them which obey thy word and loue thee. ‡ Ebr. him.

f He sheweth that whensoeuer God punisheth, hee doeth it for iust cause: and thus the godly neuer accuse him of rigour as the wicked doe, but acknowledge that in themselues there is iust cause why he should so intreate them. ‡ Ebr. confusion of face.

g Hee doeth not excuse the Kings because of their authoritie, but prayeth chiefly for them as the chiefe occasions of these great plagues.

23 At the beginning of thy supplications the commandement came forth, and I am come to shew thee, for thou art greatly beloued: therefore vnderstand the matter and consider the vision.
24 Seuentie p weekes are determined vpon q thy people, and vpon thine holy citie, to finish the wickednesse, and to seale vp the r sinnes, & to reconcile the iniquitie, and to bring in euerlasting righteousnesse, and to seale vp the vision and prophecie, and to anoynt the most Holy.
25 Know therefore and vnderstand, that from s the going forth of the commandement to bring againe the people, and to build Ierusalem, vnto Messiah the prince, shall be seuen t weekes, and u threescore and two weekes, and the streete shall be built againe, and the wall euen in a ‡ troublous time.
26 And after threescore & two x weekes, shall Messiah be slaine, and shall y haue nothing, and the people of z the prince that shall come, shall destroy the citie and the Sanctuarie, and the ende thereof shall be with a flood: and vnto the ende of the battell it shall be destroyed by desolations.

CHAP. X.

There appeareth vnto Daniel a man clothed in linnen. 11 Which sheweth him wherfore he is sent.

a He noteth this third yeere, because at this time the building of the Temple began to be hindred by Cambyses Cyrus sonne, when the father made warre in Asia minor against the Scythians, which was a discouraging to the godly, and a great feare to Daniel. b Which is to declare that the godly shoulde not hasten too much, but patiently to abide the issue of Gods promise.

IN the third peere of Cyrus king of Persia, a thing was reuciled vnto Daniel (whose name was called Beltehazzar) and the word was true, but the time appointed was b long, and he vnderstood the thing, and had vnderstanding of the vision.
2 At the same time, I Daniel was in heauinesse for three weekes of dayes.
3 I ate no pleasant bread, neither came flesh nor wine in my mouth, neither did I anoynt my selfe at all, till three weekes of dayes were fulfilled.
4 And in the foure and twentie day of the c first moneth, as I d was by the side of that great riuer, euen Hiddikel,
5 And I lift vp mine eyes, and looked, and beholde, there was a man e clothed in linnen, whose loynes were girded with fine golde of * Uphaz.
6 His body also was lyke the Chrysolite, and his face (to looke vpon) like the lightning, and his eyes as lampes of fire, and his armes and his feete were like in colour to polished brasse, and the voyce of his woordes was like the voyce of a multitude.
7 And I Daniel alone sawe the vision: for the men that were with me, saw not the vision: but a great feare fell vpon them, so that they fled away and hid themselues.
8 Therefore I was left alone, & saw this great vision, and there remained no strength in me: for my f strength was turned in mee into corruption, and I retained no power.
9 Yet heard I the voyce of his woordes: and when I heard the voyce of his woords, I slept on my face: and my face was toward the ground.
10 And behold, an hand g touched mee, which set me vp vpon my knees and vpon the palmes of mine hands, 11 And he said vnto me, O Daniel, a man greatly beloued, vnderstand the words that I speake vnto thee, and stand in thy place: for vnto thee am I now sent. And when he had said this woorde vnto me, I stood trembling.
12 Then said he vnto me, Feare not, Daniel: for from the first day that thou diddest set thine heart to vnderstand, and to humble thy selfe before thy God, thy woordes were heard, and I am come for thy words.
13 But the h prince of the kingdome of Persia withstoode mee one and twentie dayes: but loe, i Michael one of the chiefe princes, came to helpe me, and I remained there by the kings of Persia.
14 Now I am come to shew thee what shall come to thy people in the latter dayes: for yet the k vision is for many dayes.
15 And when he spake these woordes vnto me, I set my face towarde the grounde, and held my tongue.
16 And behold, l one like the similitude of the sonnes of man touched my lippes: then I opened my mouth, and spake, and sayd vnto him that stood before me, O my Lord, m by the vision my sorowes are returned vpon me, and I haue retained no strength.
17 For how can the seruant of this my Lorde talke with my Lorde being such one? for as for mee, streightway there remained no strength in mee, neither is there breath left in me.

c Called Abib, which conteineth part of March, & part of April.
d Being called by the spirit of prophecie to haue the sight of this riuer Tygris.
e This was the Angel of God, which was sent to assure Daniel in this prophecie that foloweth. Iere.10.9.
f The word also signifieth comelines, or beauty, so that for feare he was like a dead man for deformitie.
g Which declareth that when we are striken downe with the maiestie of God, we cannot rise, except hee also lift vs vp with his hand, which is his power.
h Meaning, Cambyses, who reigned in his fathers absence, and did not onely for this space hinder the building of the Temple, but would haue farther raged, if God had not sent me to resist him, and therefore haue I stayed for the profite of the Church.
i Though God could by one Angel destroy al the world: yet to assure his children of his loue, he sendeth foorth double power, euen Michael, that is, Christ Iesus the head of Angels.
k For though the Prophet Daniel should ende and cease, yet his doctrine should continue till the comming of Christ for the comfort of his Church. l This was the same Angell that spake with him before in the similitude of a man.
m I was ouercome with feare and sorowe, when I sawe the vision.

n He declareth hereby that God would be mercifull vnto the people of Israel.

o Which declareth that when God smiteth downe his children, he doeth not immediatly lift them vp at once (for now the Angel had touched him twise) but by little and little.

p Meaning, that he would not onely himselfe bridle the rage of Cambyses, but also the other Kings of Persia by Alexander the king of Macedonia. q For this Angel was appointed for the defence of the Church vnder Christ, who is the head thereof.

18 Then there came againe, and touched me one like the appearance of a man, and he strengthened me, 19 And sayde, O man, greatly beloued, feare not: n peace be vnto thee: be strong & of good courage. And when hee had spoken vnto me, o I was strengthened, and sayde, Let my Lorde speake: for thou hast strengthened me.

20 Then sayd he, Knowest thou wherefore I am come vnto thee? but now will I returne to fight with the Prince of Persia: and when I am gone forth, loe, the p prince of Grecia shall come.

21 But I will shewe thee that which is decreed in the Scripture of trueth: q & there is none that holdeth with mee in these things, but Michael your prince.

CHAP. XI.

A prophecie of the kingdoms, which should be enemies to the church of God, as of Persia, 3 Of Greece, 5 Of Egypt, 28 Of Syria, 36 And of the Romanes.

a The Angell assureth Daniel that God hath giuen him power to perfourme these things, seeing he appointed him to assist Darius, when hee ouercame the Caldeans.

b Whereof Cambyses that now reigned, was the first, the second, Smerdes, the third Darius the sonne of Hystaspis, and the fourth Xerxes, which all were enemies to the people of God, and stoode against them.

c For he raised vp all the East countreyes to fight against the Grecians: and albeit he had in his armie nine hundred thousand men, yet in foure battels he was discomfited and fled away with shame. d That is, Alexander the great. e For when his estate was most flourishing, he ouercame himselfe with drinke, & so fell into a disease: or as some write, was poysoned by Cassander. f For his twelue chiefe princes first deuided his kingdom among themselues. g After this his Monarchie was deuided into foure: for Seleucus had Syria, Antigonus Asia minor, Cassander the kingdome of Macedonia, and Ptolemeus Egypt. h Thus God reuenged Alexanders ambition and crueltie in causing his posteritie to be murthered, partly of the fathers chiefe friends, and partly one of another. i None of these foure shall be able to bee compared to the power of Alexander. k That is, his posteritie hauing no part thereof. l To wit, Ptolemeus king of Egypt. m That is, Antiochus the sonne of Seleucus, and one of Alexanders princes shall bee more mightie: for he shoulde haue both Asia and Syria. n That is, Berenice the daughter of Ptolemeus Philadelphus shall bee giuen in mariage to Antiochus Theos, thinking by this affinitie that Syria and Egypt should haue a continuall peace together.

Also I, in the first yeere of Darius of the Medes, euen I a stood to incourage and to strengthen him.

2 And now will I shew thee the trueth. Beholde, there shall stande vp yet b three kings in Persia, and the fourth shall bee farre richer then they all: & by his strength, and by his riches hee shall stirre vp c all against the realme of Grecia.

3 But a d mightie king shall stand vp, that shal rule with great dominion, and doe according to his pleasure.

4 And when hee shall stande vp, e his kingdome shall be broken, f and shall be diuided towarde the g foure windes of heauen: & not to his h posteritie, nor according to i his dominion, which he ruled: for his kingdome shall be pluckt vp, euen to be for others beside k those.

5 And the l king of the South shall bee mightie, & one of m his princes, and shal preuaile against him, and beare rule: his dominion shalbe a great dominion.

6 And in the ende of yeeres they shall be ioyned together: for the kings n daughter of the South shall come to the king of the North to make an agreement, but thee shall not retaine the power of the o arme, neither shall p he continue, nor his q arme: but shee shall be deliuered to death, and they that brought her, and he r that begate her, and he that comforted her in these times.

7 But out of the budde of her s rootes shall one stande vp in his steade, t which shall come with an armie, and shall enter into the fortresse of the king of the North, and doe with them as he list, and shall preuaile,

8 And shall also carie captiues into Egypt their gods with their molten images, and with their precious vessels of siluer and of golde, and he shall continue u more yeres then the king of the North.

9 So the king of the South shall come into his kingdome, and shall returne into his owne land.

10 Wherefore his x sonnes shalbe stirred vp, and shall assemble a mightie great armie: and one y shall come, and ouerflowe, and passe through: then shall z he returne, and be stirred vp at his fortresse.

11 And the king of the South shall bee angrie, and shall come forth, and fight with him, euen with the king of the North: for hee shall set forth a great a multitude, and the multitude shall bee giuen into his hande.

12 Then the multitude shall be proude, and their heart shall bee lifted vp: for hee shall cast downe thousands: but hee shal not still preuaile.

13 For the king of the North b shall returne, and shall set forth a greater multitude then afore, and shall come foorth (after certaine yeeres) with a mightie armie, and great riches.

14 And at the same time there shal c many stand vp against the king of the South: also the rebellious children of thy d people shall exalt themselues to establish the vision, but they shall fall.

15 So the king of the North shall come, and cast vp a mount, and take the strong citie: and the armies of the South shall e not resist, neither his chosen people, neither shall there bee any strength to withstand.

16 But he that shal come, shall doe vnto him as hee list, and none shall stande ao That force and strength shall not continue: for soone after Berenice and her yong sonne after her husbands death, was slaine of her stepsonne Seleucus Calinicus the sonne of Laodice, the lawfull wife of Antiochus, but put away for this womans sake.

p Neither Ptolemeus, nor Antiochus.

q Some reade, seed, meaning the childe begotten of Berenice.

r Some reade, she that begate her, and thereby vnderstand her nurce, which brought her vp so that all they that were occasion of this mariage, were destroyed.

s Meaning, that Ptolemeus Euergetes, after the death of his father Philadelphus, shoulde succeede in the kingdome, being of the same stocke that Berenice was.

t To reuenge his sisters death against Antiochus Calinicus king of Syria.

u For this Ptolemeus reigned ter of the South shall come to the King of the North to make an agreement, but thee shall not retaine the power of the o arme, neither shall p he continue, nor his q arme: but shee shall be deliuered to death, and they that brought her, and he r that begate her, and he that comforted her in these times.

7 But out of the budde of her s rootes shall one stande vp in his steade, t which shall come with an armie, and shall enter into the fortresse of the king of the North, and doe with them as he list, and shall preuaile,

8 And shall also carie captiues into Egypt their gods with their molten images, and with their precious vessels of siluer and of golde, and he shall continue u more yeres then the king of the North.

9 So the king of the South shall come into his kingdome, and shall returne into his owne land.

10 Wherefore his x sonnes shalbe stirred vp, and shall assemble a mightie great armie: and one y shall come, and ouerflowe, and passe through: then shall z he returne, and be stirred vp at his fortresse.

11 And the king of the South shall bee angrie, and shall come forth, and fight with him, euen with the king of the North: for hee shall set forth a great a multitude, and the multitude shall bee giuen into his hande.

12 Then the multitude shall be proude, and their heart shall bee lifted vp: for hee shall cast downe thousands: but hee shal not still preuaile.

13 For the king of the North b shall returne, and shall set forth a greater multitude then afore, and shall come foorth (after certaine yeeres) with a mightie armie, and great riches.

14 And at the same time there shal c many stand vp against the king of the South: also the rebellious children of thy d people shall exalt themselues to establish the vision, but they shall fall.

15 So the king of the North shall come, and cast vp a mount, and take the strong citie: and the armies of the South shall e not resist, neither his chosen people, neither shall there bee any strength to withstand.

16 But he that shal come, shall doe vnto him as hee list, and none shall stande a-fiue and fourtie yeeres. x Meaning, Seleucus and Antiochus the great, the sonnes of Calinicus shall make warre against Ptolemeus Philopater the sonne of Philadelphus. y For his elder brother Seleucus died, or was slaine while the warres were preparing. z That is, Philopater when he shall see Antiochus to take great dominions from him in Syria, and also ready to inuade Egypt. a For Antiochus had sixe thousande horsemen and threescore thousande footemen. b After the death of Ptolemeus Philopater, who left Ptolemeus Epiphanes his heire. c For not onely Antiochus came against him, but also Philippe King of Macedonia, and these two brought great power with them. d For vnder Onias which falsly alledged that place of Isa. 19. 19. certaine of the Iewes retired with him into Egypt to fulfill this propheeie: also the Angell sheweth that all these troubles which are in the Church, are by the prouidence and counsell of God. e The Egyptians were not able to resist Scopas Antiochus captaine,

f He sheweth ỳ he shall not only afflict the Egyptians, but also the Iewes, and shall enter into their countrey, whereof he admonisheth them before, that they may know that all these things come by Gods prouidence.

g This was the second battell that Antiochus fought against Ptolomeus Epiphanes.

h To wit, a beautifull woman, which was Cleopatra Antiochus daughter.

i For he regarded not the life of his daughter in respect of the kingdome of Egypt.

k Shee shall not agree to his wicked counsell, but shall loue her husband, as her duetie requireth, and not seeke his destruction.

l That is, toward Asia, Grecia, and those yles which are in the sea called Mediterraneum: for the Iewes called al countreyes yles which were deuided from them by sea.

m For whereas Antiochus was woont to contemne the Romanes, and put their ambassadours to shame in all places, Attilius the Consul, or Lucius Scipio put him to flight and caused his shame to turne on his owne head.

n By his wicked life and obeying of foolish counsell.

o For feare of the Romanes hee shall flee to his holdes.

p For when as vnder the pretence of pouertie he would haue robbed the Temple of Iupiter Dodoneus, the countrey men slewe him.

q That is, Seleucus shall succeede his father Antiochus.

r Not by foraine enemies, or battell, but by treason.

s Which was Antiochus Epiphanes, who as is thought, was the occasion of Seleucus his brothers death, and was of a vile, cruell and flattering nature, and defrauded his brothers sonne of the kingdome, and vsurped the kingdome without the consent of the people.

t He sheweth that great forraine powers shall come to helpe the young sonne of Seleucus against his vncle Antiochus, and yet shall bee ouerthrowen.

u Meaning, Ptolomeus Philometor Philopaters sonne, who was this childs cousin germane, and is here called the prince of the couenant, because he was the chiefe, and all other followed his conduct.

x For after the battell Philometor and his vncle Antiochus made a league.

y For he came vpon him at vnwares, and when he suspected his vncle Antiochus nothing.

z Meaning, in Egypt.

a Hee will content himselfe with the small holdes for a time, but euer labour by craft to attaine to the chiefest.

b Hee shall be ouercome with treason.

gainst him: & he shall stand in the f pleasant land, which by his hand shalbe consumed.

17 Againe he shall s set his face to enter with the power of his whole kingdome, & his confederates with him: thus shall hee doe, and he shall giue him the h daughter of women, to destroy i her: but k shee shal not stand on his side, neither be for him.

18 After this shall he turne his face vnto the l yles, & shal take many, but a prince m shall cause his shame to light vpon him, beside that he shal cause his owne shame to turne vpon n himselfe.

19 For he shal turne his face toward the fortes of his o owne lande: but he shalbe ouerthrowen & fall, and be no more p found.

20 q Then shall stand vp in his place in ṗ glory of the kingdome, one that shal raise taxes: but after fewe dayes he shall be destroyed, neither in r wrath, nor in battel.

21 And in his place shall stand vp a s vile person, to whom they shal not giue the honour of the kingdome: but he shall come in peaceably, and obtayne the kingdome by flatteries.

22 And the t armes shalbe ouerthrowen with a flood before him, and shalbe broken: and also the prince of the u couenant.

23 And after x ṗ league made with him, he shall worke deceitfully: for hee shall come vp, and ouercome with a y small people.

24 He shal enter into the quiet & plentifull prouince, and he shal do that which his fathers z haue not done, nor his fathers fathers: he shal deuide among them the pray and the spoile, and the substance, yea, and he shall forecast his deuices against the strong holdes, euen for a a time.

25 Also he shall stirre vp his power and his courage against the king of the South with a great armie, and the king of the South shall bee stirred vp to battel with a verie great and mightie armie: but he shall not b stand: for they shal forecast and practise against him.

26 Yea, they that feede of the portion of his meate, shal destroy him: and his armie d shall ouerflowe: and many shal fal, and be slaine.

27 And both these kings hearts shall bee to do e mischiefe, and they shall talke of deceite at one table: but it shall not auaile: for ẏ end shal be at the time appointed.

28 Then shall hee returne into his land with great g substance: for his heart shalbe against the holy couenant: so shall he doe and returne to his owne land.

29 At the time appointed hee shall returne, and come toward the South: but the last shall not be as the first.

30 For the ships h of Chittim shal come against him: therefore he shall be sorie and returne, and treat against the holy couenant: so shall he doe, he shall euen returne i and haue intelligence with them that forsake the holy couenant.

31 And armes k shal stand on his part, and they shall pollute the Sanctuarie l of strength, and shall take away the daily sacrifice, and they shall set vp the abominable desolation.

32 And such as wickedly m hee take the couenant, shall hee cause to sinne by flatterie: but the people that doe knowe their God, shall preuaile and prosper.

33 And they that vnderstand among the people, shall instruct many: o yet they shal fall by sworde, and by flame, by captiuity and by spoyle many dayes.

34 Nowe when they shall fall, they shal be holpen with a litle helpe: but many shal cleaue vnto them q fainedly.

35 And some of them r of vnderstanding shall fall to trie them, and to purge, and to make them white, till the time be out: for there is a time appointed.

c Signifying his princes and the chiefe about him.

d Declaring that his souldiers shall brast out and venture their life to slay and to be slaine for the safegard of their prince.

e The vncle and the nephewe shall take truce, and banket together, yet in their heartes they shall imagine mischiefe one against another.

f Signifying, that it standeth not in the counsell of men to bring things to passe, but in the prouidence of God who ruleth the kings by a secret bridle, that they can not doe what they list themselues.

g Which he shall take of the Iewes in spoyling Ierusalem and the Temple, and this is told them before, to moue them to patience, knowing that all thinges are done by Gods prouidence.

h That is, the Romane power shal come against him: for P. Popilius the ambassadour appoynted him to depart in the Romanes name, to which thing hee obeyed, although with griefe, and to reuenge his rage hee came against the people of God the second time.

i With the Iewes which shall forsake the couenant of the Lorde: for first hee was called against the Iewes by Iason the high Priest, and this seconde time by Menelaus.

k A great faction of the wicked Iewes shall holde with Antiochus.

l So called, because the power of God was nothing diminished, although this tyrant set vp in the Temple the image of Iupiter Olympius, and so beganne to corrupt the pure seruice of God.

m Meaning, such as bare the name of Iewes, but in deede were nothing lesse: for they solde their soules, and betrayed their brethren for gaine.

n They that remaine constant among the people, shall teach others by their example, and edifie manie in the true religion.

o Whereby he exhorteth the godly to constancie, although they should perish a thousande times, and though their miseries endure neuer so long.

p As God will not leaue his Church destitute, yet will hee not deliuer it all at once, but so helpe as they may still seeme to fight vnder the crosse, as he did in the time of the Maccabees, whereof he here prophecieth.

q That is, there shall be euen of this small number many hypocrites.

r To witte, of them that feare God and will lose their life for the defence of true religion, signifying also, that the Church must continually be tried and purged, and ought to looke for one persecution after another: for God hath appointed the time: therefore wee must obey.

Because the Angels purpose is to shew the whole course of the persecutions of the Iewes vnto the comming of Christ, he now speaketh of the monarchie of the Romanes, which he noteth by the name of a King, who were without all religion and contemned the true God. t So long the tyrants shall prevaile as God hath appointed to punish his people: but he sheweth that it is but for a time. u The Romanes shall obseue no certaine forme of religion as other nations, but shall change their gods at their pleasures, yea, contemne them, and preferre themselues to their gods. x Signifying, that they should be without all humanitie: for the loue of women is taken for singular or great loue, as 2. Sam. 1. 26. y That is, the god of power and riches: they shall esteeme their own power aboue all their gods, and worship it. z Vnder pretence of worshipping the gods, they shall enrich their citie with the most precious iewels of all the worlde, because that hereby all men should haue them in admiration for their power and riches. a Although in their hearts they had no religion, yet they did acknowledge the gods & worshipped them in their temples, least they should haue bene despised as Atheists: but this was to increase their fame & riches: and when they gate any countrey, they so made others the rulers thereof, that the profit euer came to the Romanes. b That is, both the Egyptians and Syrians shall at length fight against the Romanes, but they shalbe ouercome. c The Angel forewarneth the Iewes, that when they should see the Romanes inuade them, & that the wicked should escape their hands, that then they should not thinke but that all this was done by Gods prouidence, for as much as he warned them of it so long afore, and therefore he would still preserue them. d Hearing that Crassus was slaine and Antonius discomfited. e For Augustus ouercame the Parthians, and recouered that which Antonius had lost. f The Romanes after this reigned quietly through all countreyes, and from sea to sea, and in Iudea: but at length for their cruelties God shal destroy them.

36 And the king shal do what him list: he shal exalt himselfe, and magnifie himselfe against al, that is God, and shal speake marueylous things against the God of gods, & shall prosper till þ wrath be accomplished: for the determination is made.

37 Neither shall he regard the u God of his fathers, nor the desires x of women, nor care for any god: for he shall magnifie himselfe aboue all.

38 But in his place shall he honour the y god Mauzzim, and the god whome his fathers knewe not, shall hee honour with z golde and with siluer, and with precious stones, and with pleasant things.

39 Thus shall he doe in the a holdes of Mauzzim with a straunge god whome he shall acknowledge: he shall encrease his glorie, and shall cause them to rule ouer many, and shall deuide the land for gaine.

40 And at the end of time shal the king of the b South push at him, and the king of the North shall come against him like a whirlewinde with charets, and with horsemen, and with many shippes, and he shall enter into the countries, and shal ouerflowe and passe through.

41 He shall enter also into the c pleasant lande, and many countreys shall bee ouerthrowen: but these shall escape out of his hand, euen Edom and Moab, and the chiefe of the children of Ammon.

42 He shall stretch forth his hands also vpon the countries, and the land of Egypt shall not escape.

43 But hee shall haue power ouer the treasures of golde and siluer, and ouer all the precious thinges of Egypt, and of the Lybians, and of the blacke Moores where he shall passe.

44 But the tydings out of the East and the North shall d trouble him: therefore he shal goe forth e with great wrath to destroy and roote out many.

45 And he shall plant the tabernacles of his palace betweene the seas in the glorious and holie mountaine, yet he shall come to his ende, and none shall helpe him.

CHAP. XII.

1 Of the deliuerance of the Church by Christ.

AND at that a time shall Michael stande vp, the great prince, which standeth for the children of thy people, and there shalbe a time of trouble, such as neuer was since there began to bee a nation vnto that same time: and at that time the people shalbe deliuered, euery one that shall be found written in the booke.

2 And many b of them þ sleepe in the dust of the earth, shal awake, some to euerlasting life, & some to shame & perpetual contempt.

3 And they that be c wise, shal shine, as the brightnesse of the firmament: and they that d turne many to righteousnesse, shall shine as the starres, for euer and euer.

4 But thou, O Daniel, e shut vp the words, and seale the booke f til þ end of the time: many shall runne to and fro, & knowledge shalbe encreased.

5 ¶ Then I Daniel looked, and beholde, there stoode other two, the one on this side of the bynke of the g ruer, and the other on that side of the bynke of the ruer.

6 And one said vnto the man clothed in linen, which was vpō the waters of the ruer, When shalbe the end of these wonders?

7 And I heard the man clothed in linen, which was vpon the waters of the ruer, when he held vp his h right hand, & his left hand vnto heauen, and sware by him that liueth for euer, þ it shal tary for a i time, two times & an halfe: and when he shal haue accomplished k to scatter the power of the holy people, all these things shalbe finished.

8 Then I heard it, but I vnderstoode it not: then saide I, O my Lord, what shalbe the end of these things?

9 And he said, Goe thy way, Daniel: for the wordes are closed vp, and sealed, till the end of the time.

10 Many shall be purified, made white, and tried: but the wicked shal doe wickedly, and none of the wicked shal haue vnderstanding: but the wise shall vnderstand.

11 And from the time that the l daily sacrifice shalbe taken away, & the abominable desolation set vp, there m shalbe a thousand, two hundreth and ninetie dayes.

12 Blessed is he that waiteth and commeth to the thousand, three hundreth and n fiue and thirtie dayes.

13 But goe o thou thy way till the ende bee: for thou shalt rest and stand vp in thy lot, at the end of the dayes.

a The Angell here noteth two things: first that the Church shall be in great affliction and trouble at Christes comming, and next ỳ God will send his Angell to deliuer it, whom here he calleth Michael, meaning Christ, which is published by the preaching of the Gospel. b Meaning, all shall rise at the generall resurrection, which thing he here nameth, because the faithfull should haue euer their respect to that: for in the earth there shalbe no sure comfort. c Who haue kept the true feare of God and his religion. d Hee chiefly meaneth the ministers of Gods word, and next, all the faithful which instruct the ignorant, and bring them to the true knowledge of God. e Though ỳ most part despise this prophecie, yet keepe thou it sure & esteeme it as a treasure. f Till the time that God hath appointed for the full reuelation of these things: & then many shal runne to and fro to search the knowledge of these mysteries, which things they obtaine now by the light of the Gospel. g Which was Tygris. h Which was as it were a double oth, & did the more confirme the thing. i Meaning, a long time, a longer time, and at length a short time: signifying that their troubles should haue an end. k When the Church shalbe scattered and diminished in such sort as it shal seeme to haue no power. l From the time that Christ by his sacrifice shal take away the sacrifice & ceremonies of the Law. m Signifying that the time shal be long of Christs second comming, & yet the children of God ought not to be discouraged, though it be deferred. n In this number he addeth a moneth & a halfe to ỳ former nomber, signifying ỳ it is not in mā to appoint ỳ time of Christs cōming, but ỳ they are blessed that patiently abide his appearing. o The Angel warneth the Prophet patiently to abide, til ỳ time appointed come, signifying ỳ he shoulde depart this life, & rise againe with Christ, when God had sufficiently humbled and purged his Church.

Hosea.

THE ARGVMENT.

After that the tenne tribes had fallen away from God by the wicked and subtil counsel of Ieroboam the sonne of Nebat, and in stead of his true seruice commaunded by his word, worshipped him according to their owne fantasies and traditions of men, giuing themselues to most vile idolatrie and superstition, the Lord from time to time sent them Prophets to call them to repentance: but they grew euer worse and worse, & still abused Gods benefites. Therefore nowe when their prosperitie was at the highest vnder Ieroboam the sonne of Ioash, God sent Hosea and Amos to the Israelites (as he did at the same time Isaiah and Micah to them of Iudah) to condemne them of their ingratitude: and whereas they thought themselues to be greatly in the fauour of God, and to be his people, the Prophet calleth them bastardes and children borne in adulterie: and therefore sheweth them that God would take away their kingdome, & giue them to the Assyrians to be led away captiues. Thus Hosea faithfully executed his office for the space of seuentie yeeres, though they remayned still in their vices and wickednesse, and derided the Prophets, and contemned Gods iudgements. And because they should neither be discouraged with threatnings onely, nor yet flatter themselues by the sweetnesse of Gods promises, he setteth before them the two principal partes of the Lawe, which are the promise of saluation, and the doctrine of life: for the first part he directeth the faithfull to Messiah, by whome onely they should haue true deliuerance: and for the second, he vseth threatnings & menaces to bring them from their wicked maners and vices, and this is the chiefe scope of all the Prophetes, eyther by Gods promises to allure them to be godly, or els by threatnings of his iudgements to feare them from vice: and albeit that the whole Law conteine these two poynts, yet the Prophets moreouer note peculiarly both the time of Gods iudgements, and the maner.

CHAP. I.

1 The time wherein Hosea prophecied. 2 The idolatrie of the people. 10 The calling of the Gentiles. 11 Christ is the head of all people.

THe worde of the Lorde that came vnto Hosea the sonne of Beeri, in the daies of [a] Vzziah, Iotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah [b] Kings of Iudah, and in the dayes of Ieroboam the sonne of Ioash king of Israel.

2 At the beginning the Lorde spake by Hosea, and the Lord said vnto Hosea, Goe, take vnto thee a wife [c] of fornications, and children of fornications: for the land hath committed great whoredome, departing frō the Lorde.

3 So he went, and tooke [d] Gomer, the daughter of Diblaim, which conceiued and bare him a sonne.

4 And the Lord said vnto him, Call his name [e] Izreel: for yet a litle, and I will visite the blood of Izreel vpon the house [f] of Iehu, and will cause to cease the kingdome of the house of Israel.

5 And at that [g] day will I alsa breake the bowe of Israel in the valley of Izreel.

6 Shee conceiued yet againe, and bare a daughter, and God said vnto him, Call her name [h] Lo-ruhamah: for I will no more haue pitie vpon the house of Israel: but I will vtterly [i] take them away.

7 Yet I will haue mercie vpon the house of Iudah, and will [k] saue them by the Lord their God, and will not saue them by bowe, nor by sworde nor by battell, by horses, nor by horsemen.

8 Now when she had weined Lo-ruhamah, she conceiued, and bare a sonne.

9 Then said God, Call his name [l] Lo-ammi: for ye are not my people: therefore will I not be yours.

10 Yet the number of the [m] children of Israel shall be as the sand of the sea, which cannot be measured nor tolde: and in the place where it was said vnto them, Ye are not my people, it shalbe said vnto them, Ye are the sonnes of the liuing God.

11 Then shall the children of Iudah, & the children of Israel bee [n] gathered together, and appoint themselues one head, and they shal come vp out of the land: for great is the [o] day of Izreel.

a Called also Azariah, who being a leper, was deposed from his kingdome.
b So that it may be gathered by the reigne of these foure Kings, that he preached aboue threescore yeere.
c That is, one that of long time hath accustomed to play the harlot: not that the Prophet did this thing in effect, but he saw this in a vision, or else was commaunded by God to set forth vnder this parable or figure the idolatrie of the Synagogue, and of the people her children. d Gomer signifieth a consumption or corruption, and Diblaim clusters of figges, declaring, that they were all corrupt like rotten figges.
e Meaning, that they shoulde be no more called Israelites, of the which name they boasted, because Israel did preuaile with God: but that they were as bastardes, and therefore shoulde be called Izreelites, that is, scattered people, alluding to Izreel, which was the chiefe citie of tenne tribes vnder Ahab, where Iehu shead so much blood, 2. king. 10. 8, 11.
f I will bee reuenged vpon Iehu for the blood that he shed in Izreel: for albeit God stirred him vp to execute his iudgements, yet he did them for his owne ambition, and not for the glory of God, as the ende declared: for he built vp that idolatrie, which he [illegible]g. When the measure of their iniquitie is full, and [illegible] take vengeance and destroy all their policie and force.
h That is, not obteining mercy: whereby he signifieth, that Gods fauour was departed frō them.
i For the Israelites neuer returned, after that they were taken captiues by the Assyrians.
k For after their captiuitie he restored them miraculously by the meanes of Cyrus, Ezra. 1. 1.
l That is, not my people.
m Because they thought that God could not haue bene true in his promise except he had preserued them, he declareth that though they were destroyed, yet the true Israelites, which are the sonnes of the promise, should be without number, which stand both of the Iewes and the Gentiles, Rom 9. [illegible]n To wit, after the captiuitie of Babylon when the Iewes were restored: but chiefly this is referred to the time of Christ, who should bee the head both of the Iewes and Gentiles.
o The calamitie and destruction of Izreel shall be so great, that to restore them shalbe as a miracle.

CHAP. II.

1 The people is called to repentance. 5 He sheweth their idolatrie & threatneth thē except they repēt.

SAy vnto your [a] brethren, Ammi, and to your sisters, Ruhamah.

2 Pleade with your [b] mother: pleade a Seeing that I haue promised you deliuerance, it remaineth that you encourage one another to embrace the same, considering that ye are my people on whome I will haue mercie b God sheweth that the fault was not in him but in their Synagogue, and their idolaries, that he forsooke them, Isa. 50. 1.

with her: for she is not my wife, neither am I her husband: but let her take away her fornications out of her sight, and her adulteries c from betweene her breasts,

3 d Least I strip her naked, and set her as in the day that she was c borne, & make her as a wildernes, and leaue her like a dry land, and slay her for thirst.

4 And I wil haue no pitie vpon her children: for they be þ f children of fornications.

5 For their mother hath played þ harlot: she that conceiued them, hath done shamefully: for she said, I will goe after my g louers þ giue me my bread & my water, my wool & my flaxe, mine oyle & my drinke.

6 Therefore beholde, I will stoppe h thy way with thornes, & make an hedge, that she shall not find her paths.

7 Though she followe after her louers, yet shall she not come at them: though she seeke them, yet shall she not finde them: then shall she say, i I will goe and returne to my first husband: for at that time was I better then nowe.

8 Nowe she did not know that I k gaue her corne, and wine, and oyle, and multiplied her siluer and golde, which they bestowed vpon Baal.

9 Therefore will I returne, and take away l my corne in the time thereof, and my wine in the season thereof, and will recouer my wooll and my flaxe lent, to couer her shame.

10 And now will I discouer her m lewdnes in the sight of her louers, and no man shall deliuer her out of mine hand.

11 I will also cause all her mirth to cease, her feast dayes, her newe moones, and her Sabbaths, and all her solemne feastes.

12 And I wil destroy her vines and her fig trees, whereof she hath saide, These are my rewardes that my louers haue giuen me: and I will make them as a forrest, and the wilde beastes shall eate them.

13 And I will visite vpon her the dayes n of Baalim, wherein she burnt incense to them: & she decked her selfe with her earings and her iewels, and she followed her louers, and forgate me, saith the Lord.

14 Therefore beholde, I wil p allure her, and bring her into the wilderneſſe, & speake friendly vnto her.

15 And I will giue her her vineyardes from thence, & the valley q of Achor for the doore of hope, and she shal r sing there as in the dayes of her youth, and as in the day when she came vp out of þ land of Egypt.

16 And at that day, saith the Lord, thou shalt call me s Ishi, and shalt call mee no more t Baali.

17 For I will take away the names of Baalim out of her mouth, and they shalbe no more remembred by their u names.

18 And in that day wil I make a couenant for them, with the x wild beastes, and with the foules of the heauen, & with that that creepeth vpon the earth: and I will breake the bowe, and the sworde and the battel out of the earth, and will make them to sleepe safely.

19 And I will marrie thee vnto me for euer: yea, I will marrie thee vnto mee in righteousnesse, and in iudgement, and in mercie and in compassion.

20 I will euen marrie thee vnto mee in y faithfulnesse, & thou shalt know the Lord.

21 And in that day I will heare, saieth the Lord, I will euen heare z the heauens, and they shall heare the earth, 22 And the earth shall heare the corne, and the wine, and the oyle, and they shall heare Izreel.

23 And I will sowe her vnto me in the earth, & I will haue mercie vpon her, that was not pitied, & I wil say vnto them which were not my people, * Thou art my people. And they shall say, Thou art my God.

CHAP. III.

1 The Iewes shall be cast off for their idolatrie.
5 Afterward they shall returne to the Lord.

THen said the Lord to me, a Go yet, and loue a woman (beloued of her husband, and was an harlot) according to the loue of the Lord toward the children of Israel: yet they looked to other gods, and b loued the wine bottels.

2 So c I bought her to me for fifteene pieces of siluer, & for an homer of barley and an halfe homer of barley.

3 And I said vnto her, Thou shalt abide with d me many dayes: thou shalt not play the harlot, and thou shalt bee to none other man, and I will be so vnto thee.

4 For the children of Israel shall e remaine many dayes without a King, and without a f prince, & without an offering, and without an image, and without an Ephod, and without Teraphim.

5 Afterward shall the children of Israel conuert, and seeke the Lord their God, and g Dauid their King, & shall feare the Lord, and his goodnesse in the latter dayes.

c Meaning, that their idolatrie was so great, that they were not ashamed, but boasted of it, Ezek. 16.25.
d For though this people were as an harlot for their idolatries, yet he had left them with their apparell and downe and certaine signes of his fauour, but if they continued still, he would vtterly destroy them.
c When I brought her out of Egypt, Ezek. 16.4.
f That is, bastards and begotten in adulterie.
g Meaning, the idoles which they serued and by whome they thought they had wealth and abundance.
h I will punish thee that then thou mayest trie whether thine idoles can helpe thee, and bring thee into such streightnes, that thou shalt haue no lust to play the wanton.
i This he speaketh of the faithfull which are truely conuerted, and also sheweth the vse and profite of Gods rods.
k This declareth that idolaters defraud God of his honour, when they attribute his benefits to their idoles. l Signifying that God will take away his benefits when man by his ingratitude doth abuse them. m That is, all her seruice, ceremonies, and inuentions whereby she worshipped her idoles. n I will punish her for her idolatrie. o By shewing howe harlots trimme themselues to please others, he declareth howe the superstitious idolaters set a great part of their religion in decking themselues on their holy dayes. p By my benefites in offering her grace and mercie, euen in that place where she shall thinke her selfe destitute of all helpe and comfort. q Which was a plentifull valley, and wherein they had great comfort when they came out of the wilderneſſe, as Iosh. 7.26. and is called the doore of hope, because it was a departing from death, and an entrie into life. r Shee shall then praise God as she did when shee was delinered out of Egypt.
s That is, mine husband, knowsing that I am ioyned to thee by an inuiolable couenant.
t This is, my master: which name was applyed to their idoles.
u No idolatrie shall once come into their mouth, but they shall serue mee purely according to my worde.
x Meaning, that hee will so blesse them, that all creatures shall fauour them.
y With a couenant that neuer shall be broken.
z Then shall the heauen desire raine for the earth which shall bring forth for the vse of man. Rom. 9.25. 1. pet. 2.10.

a Herein the Prophet representeth the person of God, which loued his Church before he called her, and did not withdrawe the same when she gaue her selfe to idoles.
b That is, gaue themselues wholy to pleasures, and could not take vp, as they that are giuen to drunkennesse.
c Yet I loued her, and payde a small portion for her, least she perceiuing the greatnesse of my loue, should haue abused mee and not beene vnder duetie: for fifteene pieces of siluer were but halfe the price of a slaue, Exod. 21.32. d I will trie thee along time as in thy widowhoode whether thou wilt bee mine or no. e Meaning, not onely all the time of their captiuitie, but also vnto Christ. f That is, they should neither haue pollicie nor religion, and their idoles also where in they put their confidence, should bee destroyed. g This is meant of Christes kingdome, which was promised vnto Dauid to bee eternall, Psal. 72.17.

CHAP. IIII.

A complaint against the people, and the Priests of Israel.

Yeare

HEare the worde of the Lord, ye children of Israel: for the Lorde a hath a controuersie with the inhabitantes of the lande, because there is no trueth, nor mercie nor knowledge of God in the land.

2 By swearing, and lying, and killing, and stealing, and whoring, they breake out and b blood toucheth blood.

3 Therefore shall the land mourne, and euery one that dwelleth therein, shall be cut off, with the beastes of the fielde, and with the fowles of the heauen, & also the fishes of the sea shalbe taken away.

4 Yet c let none rebuke, nor reproue another: for thy people are as they that rebuke the Priest.

5 Therefore shalt thou fall in the d day, and the Prophet shall fall with thee in the night, and I will destroy thy e mother.

6 My people are destroyed for lacke of knowledge: because f thou hast refused knowledge, I wil also refuse thee, that thou shalt be no Priest to me: and seeing g thou hast forgotten the Law of thy God, I will also forget thy children.

7 As they were h increased, so they sinned against mee: therefore will I change their glory into shame.

8 i They eate vp the sinnes of my people, and lift vp their mindes in their iniquitie.

9 And there shall bee like people, like k priest: for I wil visite their wayes vpon them, and reward them their deedes.

10 For they shal eate, & not haue inough: they shall l commit adulterie, and shall not increase, because they haue left off to take heede to the Lord.

11 m Whoredome, and wine, and newe wine take away their heart.

12 My n people aske counsell at their stockes, and their staffe teacheth them: for the o spirit of fornications hath caused them to erre, and they haue gone a whoring from vnder their God.

13 They sacrifice vpon the toppes of the mountaines, & burne incense vpon p hilles vnder the okes, and the poplar tree, and the elme, because the shadow thereof is good: therefore your daughters shalbe p harlots, and your spouses shall be whores.

14 I will not q visite your daughters when they are harlots, nor your spouses when they are whores: for they themselues are separate with harlots, & sacrifice with whores: therefore the people that doeth not vnderstand shall fall.

15 Though thou, Israel, play the harlot, yet r let not Iudah sinne: come not ye vnto s Gilgal, neither goe ye vp to t Beth-auen, nor sweare, The Lord liueth.

16 For Israel is rebellious as an vnruly heifer. Now the Lord will feede them as a u lambe in a large place.

17 Ephraim is ioyned to idoles: let him alone.

18 Their drunkennes stinketh: they haue committed whoredome: their rulers loue to say, with shame, x Bring ye.

19 The winde hath y bound them vp in her wings, and they shall bee ashamed of their sacrifices.

a Because the people would not obey the admonitions of the Prophet, he citeth them before the iudgement seate of God, against whom they chiefly offended, Isa.7.13. Mica.6.1,2. Zech.12.10.

b In euery place appeareth a libertie to most heinous vices, so y one followeth in the necke of another.

c As though he would say, that it were in vaine to rebuke them: for no man can abide it: yea, they will speake against the Prophets and Priests whose office it is chiefly to rebuke them.

d Ye shal perish all together: the one, because he would not obey, & the other, because he would not admonish.

e That is, the Synagogue wherein thou boastest.

f That is, the Priests shall be cast off, because that for lacke of knowledge, they are not able to execute their charge, and instruct others, Deut.33.3. Mala.2.7.

g Meaning, the whole body of y people, which were weary with hearing the worde of God.

h The more I was beneficiall vnto them.

i To wit, the Priests seeke to eate the peoples offerings, and flatter them in their sinues.

k Signifying, that as they haue sinned together, so shall they be punished together.

l Shewing, that their wickednes shall be punished on all sortes: for though they thinke by the multitude of wiues to haue many children, yet they shall be deceyued of their hope.

m In giuing themselues to pleasures, they become like bruite beastes.

n Thus he speaketh by derision in calling them his people, which now for their sinnes they were not: for they sought helpe of stockes and stickes.

o They are caried away with a rage.

p Because they take away Gods honour, and giue it to idoles, therefore hee will giue them vp to their lustes, that they shall dishonour their owne bodies, Rom.1 28.

q I wil not correct your shame to bring you to amendment, but let you run headlong to your owne damnation.

r God complaineth y Iudah is infected, and willeth them to learne by their example to returne in time.

s For albeit the Lorde had honoured this place in time past by his presence, yet because it was abused by their idolatrie, he would not y his people should resort thither.

t He calleth Beth-el, that is, the house of God, Beth-auen, that is, the house of iniquitie, because of their abominations set vp there, signifying that no place is holy, where God is not purely worshipped.

u God will so disperse them that they shall not remaine in any certaine place.

x They are so impudent in receiuing bribes, that they will commaund men to bring them vnto them.

y To cary them suddenly away.

CHAP. V.

1 Against the Priests and rulers of Israel. 13 The helpe of man is in vaine.

OYee Priestes, heare this, and hearken ye, O house of Israel, and giue eare, O house of the King: for iudgement is toward you, because ye haue bene a z snare on Mizpah, and a net spred vpon Tabor.

2 Yet they were profound, to decline to a slaughter, though I haue bene a b rebuker of them all.

3 I know c Ephraim, & Israel is not hid from mee: for now, O Ephraim, thou art become an harlot, and Israel is defiled.

4 They will not giue their mindes to turne vnto their God: for the spirite of fornication is in the middes of them, and they haue not knowen the Lord.

5 And the d pride of Israel doeth testifie to his face: therefore shall Israel & Ephraim fall in their iniquitie: Iudah also shall fall with them.

6 They shal go with their sheepe, & with their bullockes to seeke the Lorde: but they shall not find him: for he hath withdrawen himselfe from them.

7 They haue transgressed against the Lorde: for they haue begotten e strange children: now shal a moneth deuoure them with their portions.

8 Blow ye the trumpet in Gibeah, and the shawme in Ramah: crie out at Beth-auen, after thee, O f Beniamin.

9 Ephraim shalbe desolate in the day of rebuke: among the tribes of Israel haue I caused to g know the trueth.

10 The princes of Iudah were like them that h remoue the bound: therefore will I powre out my wrath vpon them like water.

11 Ephraim is oppressed, and broken in iudgement, z The Priestes and princes catched the poore people in their snares as y fowlers did y birds, in these two high mountaines

b Notwithstanding they seemed to be giuen altogether to holines, and to sacrifices, which here he calleth slaughter in contempt.

c Though I had admonished them continually by my Prophets.

d They boasted themselues not onely to be Israelites, but also Ephraimites, because their king Ieroboam came of y tribe.

e Meaning, their contenning of all admonitions.

f That is, their children are degenerate, so that there is no hope in them.

g Their destruction is not farre off.

h That is, all Israel comprehended vnder this part, signifying that the Lords plagues should pursue them from place to place, till they were destroyed.

i By the succesle they shall knowe that I haue surely determined this.

k They haue turned vpside downe all politicall order, and all maner of religion.

iudgement, because hee willingly walked after the [l] commandement.

12 Therfore will I be vnto Ephraim as a moth, and to the house of Iudah as a rottennesse.

13 When Ephraim sawe his sickenesse, and Iudah his wound, then went Ephraim vnto [m] Ashur, and sent vnto king [n] Jareb: yet could hee not heale you, nor cure you of your wound.

14 For I will be vnto Ephraim as a lyon, and as a lyons whelpe to the house of Iudah: I, euen I will spoile, and goe away: I will take away, and none shall rescue it.

15 I will go, and returne to my place, till they acknowledge their fault, and seeke mee: in their affliction they will seeke mee diligently.

l To wit, after king Ieroboams commandement, and did not rather followe God.

m In steade of seeking for remedie at Gods hand.

n Who was king of the Assyrians.

CHAP. VI.

1 Affliction causeth a man to turne to God. 9 The wickednesse of the Priests.

COme, and let vs [a] returne to the Lorde: for hee hath spoyled, and hee will heale vs: he hath wounded vs, and he will binde vs vp.

2 After two dayes will [b] hee reuiue vs, and in the third day he will raise vs vp, and we shall liue in his sight.

3 Then shall we haue knowledge, & indeuour our selues to knowe the Lorde: his going forth is prepared as the morning, and he shall come vnto vs as the raine, and as the latter raine vnto the earth.

4 O Ephraim, what shal I do vnto thee? O Iudah, how shall I entreate thee? for [c] your goodnesse is as a morning cloude, and as the morning dewe it goeth away.

5 Therefore haue I [d] cut downe by the Prophets: I haue slayne them by the wordes of my mouth, & thy [e] iudgements were as the light that goeth forth.

6 For I desired [f] mercie, and not sacrifice, and the knowledge of God more then burnt offrings.

7 But they like [g] men haue transgressed the couenant: there haue they trespassed against me.

8 [h] Gilead is a citie of them that worke iniquitie, and is polluted with blood.

9 And as theeues waite for a man, so the company of Priestes murder in the way by consent: for they worke mischiefe.

10 I haue seene villenie in the house of Israel: there is the whoredome of Ephraim: Israel is defiled.

11 Yea, Iudah hath set a [i] plant for thee, whiles I would returne the captiuitie of my people.

a He sheweth the people how they ought to turne to ỹ Lord, that he might call backe his plagues.

b Though he correct vs from time to time, yet his helpe will not be farre off, if we returne to him.

c You seeme to haue a certaine holines & repentance, but it is vpon the sudden, & as a morning cloude.

d I haue stil laboured by my Prophets, and as it were, framed you to bring you to amendment, but all was in vaine: for my worde was not meete to feede them but a sword to slay them.

e My doctrine which I taught thee, was most euident.

f He sheweth to what scope his doctrine tended, that they should ioyne the obedience of God, and the loue of their neighbour with outwarde sacrifice.

a theefe commeth in, and the robber spoyleth without.

2 And they consider not in their hearts, that I remember all their wickednesse: now their owne inuentions haue beset them about: they are in my sight.

3 They make the [b] king glad with their wickednes, and the princes with their lies.

4 They are all adulterers, and as a [c] ouen heated by the baker, which ceaseth from raising vp, & from kneading the dough vntill it be leauened.

5 This is the [d] day of our king: the princes haue made him sicke with flagons of wine: he stretcheth out his hād to scorners.

6 For they haue made ready their heart like an ouen whiles they lie in waite: their baker sleepeth all the night: in the morning it burneth as a flame of fire.

7 They are all hote as an ouen, and haue [e] deuoured their iudges: all their kings are fallen: there is none among them that calleth vnto me.

8 Ephraim hath [f] hurt himselfe among the people. Ephraim is as a cake on the hearth not turned.

9 Strangers haue deuoured his strength, & he knoweth it not: yea, [g] gray haires are here & there vpon him, yet he knoweth not.

10 And the pride of Israel testifieth to his face, and they doe not returne to the Lord their God, nor seeke him for all this.

11 Ephraim also is like a doue deceiued, without [h] heart: they call to Egypt: they goe to Ashur.

12 But when they shall goe, I will spread my net vpon them, and drawe them downe as the fowles of the heauen: I will chastice them as their [i] congregation hath heard.

13 Woe vnto them: for they haue fled away from me: destruction shalbe vnto thē, because they haue transgressed against me: though I haue [k] redeemed them, yet they haue spoken lies against me.

14 And they haue not cryed vnto mee [l] with their hearts, [l] when they howled vpon their beds: [m] they assemble themselues for corne and wine, and they rebell against me.

15 Though I haue bound, & strengthened their arme, yet doe they imagine mischiefe against me.

16 They returne, but not to [n] most high: they are like a deceitfull bowe: their princes shall fall by the sworde, for the rage [o] of their tongues: this shall bee their derision in the land of Egypt.

a Meaning, that there was no one kinde of vice among them, but that they were subiect to all wickednesse, both secret and open.

b They esteeme their wicked King Ieroboam aboue God, and seeke but how to flatter and please him.

c He compareth the rage of the people to a burning ouen which the baker heateth still till his dough be leauened and raysed.

d They vsed all riot and excesse in their feasts and solemnities, whereby their king was ouercome with surfet, and brought into diseases, and delited in flatteries.

e By their occasion God hath depriued them of all good rulers.

f That is, he counterfaiteth the religion of the Gentiles, yet is but as a cake baked on the one side, and rawe on the other: that is, neyther through hot nor through cold, but partly a Iewe, & partly a Gentile.

g Which are a token of his manifold afflictions.

h That is, without all iudgement, as they that cannot tell whether it is better to cleaue onely to God, or to seeke the helpe of man.

i According to my curses made to the whole congregation of Israel.

k That is, diuers times redeemed them, and deliuered them from death.

l When they were in affliction and cried out for paine, they sought not vnto me for helpe.

m They onely seeke their owne commoditie and wealth, and passe not for me their God.

n Because they boast of their owne strength, and passe not what they speake against me and my seruants, Psal. 73. 9.

CHAP. VIII.

1 The destruction of Iudah and Israel, because of their idolatrie.

Set

SEt the trumpet to thy a mouth: he shall come as an egle against the house of the Lorde, because they haue transgressed my couenant, and trespassed against my Law.

2 Israel shall b cry vnto mee, My God, we know thee.

3 Israel hath cast off the thing that is good: the enemie shall pursue him.

4 They haue set vp a c King, but not by me: they haue made princes, and I knewe it not: of their siluer and their golde haue they made them idoles: therefore shal they be destroyed.

5 Thy calfe, O Samaria: hath cast thee off: mine anger is kindled against them: how long will they be without d innocencie!

6 e For it came euen from Israel: the workeman made it, therfore it is not God: but the calfe of Samaria shall be broken in pieces.

7 For they haue f sowen the winde, and they shall reape the whirlewinde: it hath no stalke: the bud shall bring forth no meale: if so be it bring forth, the strangers shall deuoure it.

8 Israel is deuoured, now shall they be among the Gentiles as a vessell wherein is no pleasure.

9 For they are gone vp to Asshur: they are as a g wilde asse alone by himselfe: Ephraim hath hired louers.

10 Yet though they haue hired among the nations, now will I gather them, and they shall sorowe a litle, for the h burden of the King, and the princes.

11 Because Ephraim hath made many altars to sinne, his altars shalbe to sinne.

12 I haue written to them the great thinges of my Lawe: but they were counted as a i strange thing.

13 They sacrifice flesh for the sacrifices of mine offerings, and eate it: but the k Lord accepteth them not: now will he remember their iniquitie, and visite their sinnes: they shall returne to Egypt.

14 For Israel hath forgotten his maker, and buildeth Temples, & Iudah hath increased strong cities: but I will send a fire vpon his cities, and it shall deuoure the palaces therof.

a God encourageth the Prophet to signifie the speedie coming of the enemie against Israel, which was once the people of God.

b They shall cry like hypocrites, but not from the heart, as their deedes declare.

c That is, Ieroboam by whome they sought their owne libertie, and not to obey my wil.

d That is, vpright iudgement and godly life.

e Meaning, the calfe was inuented by them selues, & of their fathers in the wildernesse.

f Shewing that their religion hath but a shew, and in it selfe is but vanitie.

g They neuer cease but runne to and fro to seeke helpe.

h That is, for the tribute which the King and the princes shall lay vpon them: which meanes y Lord vseth to bring them to repentance.

i Thus the idolaters count the worde of God as strange in effect of their owne inuentions.

k Saying that they offer it to the Lord, but hee accepteth no seruice, which he himselfe hath not appointed.

CHAP. IX.

Of the hunger and captiuitie of Israel.

REioyce not, O Israel for ioy, a as other people: for thou hast gone a whoring from thy God: thou hast loued b a reward vpon euery corne floore.

2 c The floore, & the wineyeresse shall not feede them, & the new wine shal faile in her.

3 They will not dwell in the Lords land, but Ephraim will returne to Egypt, and they will eate vncleane thinges in Asshur.

4 They shal not offer d wine to the Lord, neither shall their sacrifices be pleasant vnto him: but they shall be vnto them as the bread of mourners: all that eate thereof, shall be polluted: for their bread e for their soules shall not come into the house of the Lorde.

5 What wil ye doe f then in the solemne day, and in the day of the feast of the Lord?

6 For lo, they are gone from g destruction: but Egypt shall gather them vp, and Memphis shall burie them: the nettle shal possesse the pleasant places of their siluer, and the thorne shall be in their tabernacles.

7 The dayes of visitation are come: the dayes of recompense are come: Israel shall knowe it: h the prophet is a foole: the spirituall man is madde, for the multitude of thine iniquitie: therefore the hatred is great.

8 The watchman of Ephraim i shoulde be with my God: but p prophet is the snare of a fouler in all his wayes, and hatred in the house of his God.

9 They k are deepely set: they are corrupt as in the dayes of Gibeah: therefore he will remember their iniquitie, he wil visite their sinnes.

10 I found Israel like l grapes in the wildernesse: I saw your fathers as the first ripe in the fig tree at her first time: but they went to Baal-Peor, and separated themselues vnto that shame, and their abominations were according to m their louers.

11 Ephraim, their glory shall flee away like a bird: from the birth n and from the woombe, and from the conception.

12 Though they bring vp their children, yet I will depriue them from being men: yea, woe to them, when I depart frō them.

13 Ephraim as I sawe, is as a tree o in Tyrus planted in a cottage: but Ephraim shall bring forth his children to the murtherer.

14 O Lorde, giue them: what wilt thou giue them? giue them a p barren woombe and drie breastes.

15 All their wickednesse is in q Gilgal: for there doe I hate them: for the wickednesse of their inuentions, I will cast them out of mine House: I will loue them no more: all their princes are rebels.

16 Ephraim is smitten, their roote is dried vp: they can bring no fruite: yea, though they bring forth, yet will I slay euen the dearest of their body.

17 My God will cast them away, because they did not obey him: and they shall wander among the nations.

a For although all other people should escape, yet thou shalt be punished.

b Thou hast committed idolatrie in hope of rewarde, and to haue thy barnes filled, Ier. 44.17. as an harlot that had rather liue by playing the whore then to be intertained of her owne husband.

c These outward thinges that thou seekest, shalbe taken from thee.

d All these doings both touching policie and religion, shall be reiected as things polluted.

e The meate offering which they offered for themselues.

f When the Lord shall take away all the occasions of seruing him, which shalbe the most grieuous point of your captiuitie, when you shall see your selues cut off from God.

g Though they thinke to escape by fleeing the destruction that is at hand, yet shall they be destroyed in the place whither they flee for succour.

h Then they shall know that they were deluded by them who chalenged to themselues to be their Prophets & spirituall men.

i The Prophets duetie is to bring men to God, and not to be a snare to pull them from God.

k This people is so rooted in their wickednes, that Gibeah which was like to Sodome, was neuer more corrupt, Iud. 19.22.

l Meaning, that he so esteemed them and delited in them.

m They were as abominable vnto me, as their louers the idoles.

n Signifying, that God would destroy their children by these sundry meanes, and so consume them by litle and litle.

o As they kept tender plants in their houses in Tyrus to preserue them from the cold ayre of the sea, so was Ephraim at the first vnto me, but now I will giue him to the slaughter.

p The Prophet seeing the great plagues of God towarde Ephraim, prayeth to God to make them barren, rather then that this great slaughter should come vpon their children.

q The chiefe cause of their destruction is that they commit idolatrie, and corrupt my religion in Gilgal.

CHAP. X.

1 Against Israel and his idoles. 14 His destruction for the same.

ISrael is an [a] emptie vine, yet hath it brought forth fruite vnto it selfe, and according to the multitude of the fruit thereof he hath increased the altars: according to the [b] goodnes of their land they haue made faire images.

2 Their heart is [c] deuided: now shal they be found faultie: he shal breake down their altars: he shall destroy their images.

3 For now they shall say, We haue no [d] King because we feared not the Lord: and what should a King doe to vs?

4 They haue spoken woordes, sweating falsly in making a [e] couenant: thus iudgement groweth as wormewood in the furrowes of the fielde.

5 The inhabitants of Samaria shall feare because of the calfe of Beth-auen: for the people thereof shal mourne ouer it, and the [h] Chemarims thereof, that reioyced on it for the glory thereof, because it is departed from it.

6 It shal be also brought to Asshur, for a present vnto king Iareb: Ephraim shall receiue shame, and Israel shall be ashamed of his owne counsell.

7 As Samaria, the King thereof is destroyed, as the fome vpon the water.

8 The hie places also of [i] Auen shall be destroyed, euen the sinne of Israel: the thorne and the thistle shall growe vpon their altars, and they shal say to the mountaines, *Couer vs, and to the hilles, Fall vpon vs.

9 O Israel, thou hast [k] sinned from the dayes of Gibeah: there they [l] stoode: the battel in Gibeah against the children of iniquitie did not [m] ouertake them.

10 It is my desire [n] that I should chastice them, and the people shall be gathered against them, when they shall gather them selues in their two [o] furrowes.

11 And Ephraim is as an heiffer vsed to delite [p] in threshing: but I will passe by her [q] faire necke: I wil make Ephraim to ride: Iudah shall plowe, and Iaakob shal breake his cloddes.

12 Sow to your selues in righteousnes: reape after the measure of mercie: [r] breake vp your fallowe grounde: for it is time to seeke the Lorde, till he come and raine righteousnesse vpon you.

13 But you haue plowed wickednesse: ye haue reaped iniquitie: you haue eaten the fruite of lyes: because thou diddest trust in thine owne wayes, and in the multitude of thy strong men,

14 Therefore shal a tumult rise among thy people, and all thy munitions shall be destroyed, as [s] Shalman destroyed Beth-arbel in the day of battel: the mother with the children was dashed in pieces.

15 So shal Beth el do vnto you, because of your malicious wickednesse: in a morning shall the King of Israel be destroyed.

CHAP. XI.

1 The benefites of the Lorde towarde Israel. 5. Their ingratitude against him.

WHen Israel [a] was a childe, then I loued him, and called my sonne out of Egypt.

2 They called them, but they [b] went thus from them: they sacrificed vnto Baalim, and burnt incense to images.

3 I ledde Ephraim also, as one shoulde beare them in his armes: but they knewe not that I healed them.

4 I led them with cordes [c] of a man, euen with bands of loue, and I was to them, as he that taketh off [d] yoke from their iawes, and I layde the meate vnto them.

5 He shall no more returne into the land of Egypt: but Asshur shalbe his [d] King, because they refused to conuert.

6 And the sword shall fall on his cities, and shall consume his barres, and deuoure them, because of their owne counsels.

7 And my people are bent to rebellion against me: though [e] they called them to the most high, yet none at all would exalt him.

8 [f] How shall I giue thee vp, Ephraim? how shall I deliuer thee, Israel? how shal I make thee, as [g] Admah? how shall I set thee, as Zeboim? mine heart is turned vpon me: [h] my repentings are rouled together.

9 I will not execute the fiercenesse of my wrath: I will not returne to destroy Ephraim: for I am God, and not man, the holy one in the middes of thee, and I will not [i] enter into the citie.

10 They shall walke after the Lorde: he shall roare like a lyon: when he shal roare, then the children of the West shall feare.

11 [k] They shall feare as a sparrowe out of Egypt, and as a doue out of the land of Asshur, and I wil place them in their houses, saith the Lord.

12 Ephraim compasseth me about with lies, and the house of Israel with deceite: but Iudah yet ruleth [l] with God, and is faithfull with the Saints.

a Whereof though ỹ grapes were gathered, yet euer as it gathered newe strength, it increased new wickednesse, so that the correction which should haue brought them to obedience, did but vtter their stubburnnesse.

b As they were rich and had abundance.

c To wit, from God.

d The day shall come that God shall take away their King, and then they shall feele the fruite of their sinnes, and how they trusted in him in vaine, 2. King. 17. 6, 7.

e In promising to be faithfull towarde God.

f Thus their integritie and fidelitie which they pretended, was nothing but bitternesse and griefe.

g When the calfe shalbe caried away.

h Chemarims were certaine idolatrous priests, which did weare blacke apparell in their sacrifices, and cryed with a loude voyce: which superstition Eliah derided. 1. King 18. 27. reade 2. King. 23. 5.

i This he speaketh in cõtempt of Beth-el, reade Chap. 4. 15. Isa. 2. 19. luk. 23. 30. reuel 6. 16. & 9. 6.

k In those dayes wast thou as wicked as the Gibeonites, as God there partly declared: for thy zeale could not be good in executing Gods iudgements, seeing thine owne deeds were as wicked as theirs.

l To wit, to fight, or the Israelites remained in that stubburnnesse from that time.

m The Israelites were not mooued by their example to cease from their sinnes.

n Because they are so desperate, I will delite to destroy them.

o That is, when they haue gathered all their strength together.

p Wherein is pleasure, as in plowing is labour and paine.

q I will lay my yoke vpon her fat necke.

r Reade Iere. 4. 4.

s That is, Shalmanazzar in the destruction of that citie spared neither kinde nor age.

a Whiles the Israelites were in Egypt and did not prouoke my wrath by their malice and ingratitude.

b They rebelled and went a contrary way when the Prophets called them to rapentance.

c That is, friendly & not as beasts or slaues.

d Seeing they cõtemne all this kindnesse, they shalbe led captiue into Assyria.

e To wit, the Prophets.

f God considereth with himselfe, and that with a certaine griefe, how to punish them.

g Which were two of the cities that were destroyed with Sodom, Deut. 29. 23.

h Meaning, that his loue wherewith he first loued them, made him betweene doubt and assurance what to doe: and herein appeareth his fatherly affection, that his mercie towarde his iudgements, as he declareth in the next verse.

i To consume thee, but will cause thee to yeelde and so receiue thee to mercie: and this is meant of the small nomber who shall walke after ỹ Lord.

k The Egyptians and Assyrians shall be afraide when the Lorde maintaineth his people.

l Gouerneth their state according to Gods worde, and doeth not degenerate.

CHAP. XII.

He admonisheth by Iaakobs example to trust in God and not in man.

EPhraim is fed [a] with the winde, and followeth after the East winde: [b] he increaseth daily lyes and destruction, & they doe make a couenant with Asshur, and [b] oyle is carried into Egypt.

2 The Lorde hath also a controuersie with [c] Iudah, and will visite Iaakob according to his wayes: according to his workes, will he recompense him, a That is, flattereth himself with vaine confidence.

b Meaning, presents to getre friendship.

c Which in these points was like to Ephraim, but not in idolatries.

3 He

3 He tooke his brother by the heele in the wombe, and by his strength hee had [d] power with God.

4 And had [e] power ouer the Angel, and preuailed: hee wept and prayed vnto him: [f] hee founde him in Beth-el, and there he spake with vs.

5 Yea, the Lord God of hostes, the Lorde is himselfe his memoriall.

6 Therefore turne thou to thy God: keepe mercie and iudgement, and hope still in thy God.

7 He is [g] Canaan: the balances of deceite are in his hand: he loueth to oppresse.

8 And Ephraim said, Notwithstanding I am riche, I haue found me out riches in all my labours: they shall finde none iniquitie in me, [h] that were wickednesse.

9 Though I am the Lord thy God, from the land of Egypt, yet will I make thee to dwell in the tabernacles, as in [i] the dayes of the solemne feast.

10 I haue also spoken by the Prophets, & I haue multiplied visions, & vsed similitudes by the ministery of the Prophets.

11 Is there [k] iniquitie in Gilead? surely they are vanitie: they sacrifice bullockes in Gilgal, and their altars are as heapes in the furrowes of the fielde.

12 [l] And Iaakob fled into the countrey of Aram, and Israel serued for a wife, and for a wife he kept sheepe.

13 And by a[m] Prophet the Lord brought Israel out of Egypt, and by a Prophet was he reserued.

14 But Ephraim prouoked him with bie places: therefore shall his blood be powred vpon him, and his reproche shall his Lorde reward him.

d Seeing that God did thus preferre Iaakob their father, Iudahs ingratitude was the more to be abhorred.

e Reade Gen. 32.31.

f God founde Iaakob as hee lay sleeping in Beth-el, Gene. 28.12. and so spake with him there, that the fruite of that speech appertey-ned to the whole body of the people, whereof we are.

g As for Ephraim, he is more like the wicked Canaanites then Godly Abraham or Iaakob.

h Thus the wicked measure Gods fauour by outward prosperitie, and like hypocrites cannot abide that any shoulde reproue their doings.

i Seeing thou wilt not acknowledge my benefits, I wil bring thee againe to dwel in tents as in the feast of the Tabernacles, which thou doest now contemne. k The people thought that no man durst haue spoken against Gilead that holy place, and yet the Prophet sayeth, that all their religion was but vanitie. l If you boast of your riches and nobility, ye seeme to reproch your father who was a poore fugitiue and seruant. m Meaning, Moses, whereby appeareth, that whatsoeuer they haue, it commeth of Gods free goodnesse.

CHAP. XIII.

1 The abhomination of Israel, 9 And cause of their destruction.

WHen Ephraim spake, there was [a] trembling: he [b] exalted himselfe in Israel, but he hath sinned in Baal, [c] and is dead.

2 And nowe they sinne more and more, and haue made them molten images of their siluer, and idoles according to their owne vnderstanding: they were all the worke of the craftesmen: they say one to another whiles they sacrifice a [d] man, Let them kisse the calues.

3 Therefore they shalbe as the morning cloude, and as the morning dewe that passeth away, as the chaffe that is driuen with a whirlewinde out of the floore, and as the smoke that goeth out of the chimney.

a He sheweth the excellencie, and authoritie that this tribe had aboue all the rest.

b Hee made a king of his tribe.

c The Ephraimites are not farre from destruction and haue lost their authoritie.

d The false prophets perswaded the idolaters to offer their children after the example of Abraham, and he sheweth howe they would exhort one another to the same, and to kisse and to worship these calues which were their idoles.

4 Yet I am the Lorde thy God [e] from the lande of Egypt, and thou shalt knowe no God but mee: for there is no Sauiour beside me.

5 I did knowe thee in the wildernesse, in the land of drought.

6 As in their pastures, so were they filled: they were filled, and their heart was exalted: therefore haue they forgotten me.

7 And I will bee vnto them as a bere vpon, & as a leopard in the way of Asshur.

8 I will meete them, as a beare that is robbed of her whelps, and I wil breake the kall of their heart, and there will I deuoure them like a lyon: the wilde beast shall teare them.

9 O Israel, one [f] hath destroyed thee, but in me is thine helpe.

10 [g] I am: where is thy King, that should helpe thee in all thy cities? and thy iudges, of whome thou saydest, Giue mee a King, and princes?

11 I gaue thee a king in mine anger, and I tooke him away in my wrath.

12 The iniquitie of Ephraim is [h] bound vp: his sinne is hidde.

13 The sorowes of a trauailing woman shal come vpon him: he is an vnwise sonne, else would he not stand still at the time, euen at the [i] breaking forth of the children.

14 I will redeeme them from the power of the graue: I wil deliuer them frō death: O [k] death, I will be thy death: O graue, I will be thy destruction: [l] repentance is hid from mine eyes.

15 Though he grewe vp among his brethren, an Eastwinde shall come, euen the winde of the Lorde shall come vp from the wildernesse, and drie vp his veine, and his fountaine shalbe dried vp: hee shall spoyle the treasure of all pleasant vessels.

e He calleth them to repentance and reproueth their ingratitude.

f Thy destruction is certaine, and my benefites toward thee declare that it commeth not of me: therefore thine owne malice, idolatrie and vaine confidence in men must needes be the cause therof.

g I am all one, Iames 1.17.

h It is surely laid vp to bee punished, as Iere. 17.1.

i But woulde come out of the wombe, that is, out of this danger, wherein he is, and not tarrie to be stifled.

k Meaning, that no power shal resist God when he wil deliuer his, but euen in death wil he giue them life. l Because they wil not turne to me, I wil not change my purpose.

CHAP. XIIII.

1 The destruction of Samaria. 2 He exhorteth Israel to turne to God, who requireth prayse and thankes.

SAmaria shalbe desolate: for she hath rebelled against her God: they shall fall by the sword: their infants shalbe dashed in pieces, & their women with child shalbe ript.

2 O Israel, [a] returne vnto the Lorde thy God: for thou hast fallen by thine iniquitie.

3 Take vnto you wordes, and turne to the Lord, and say vnto him, [b] Take away all iniquitie, and receiue vs graciously: so will we render the calues of our [c] lyppes.

4 Asshur shall [d] not saue vs, neither will wee ride vpon horses, neither will we say any more to the worke of our handes, Yee are our Gods: for in thee the fatherlesse findeth mercy.

5 [e] I will heale their rebellion: I will loue them freely: for mine anger is turned away from him.

6 I will bee as the dewe vnto Israel: hee shall growe as the lilie and fasten his a He exhorteth them to repentance, to auoid all these plagues, willing them to declare by wordes their obedience and repentance.

b He sheweth them howe they ought to confesse their sinnes.

c Declaring that this is the true sacrifice of Iehoshaphat, euen to praise, Heb. 13.15.

d We wil leaue off all vaine confidence

e He declareth how ready God is to receiue them that doorootes, as the trees of Lebanon.

7 His branches shall spread, and his beautie shall be as the olive tree, and his smell as Lebanon.

f Whosoeuer ioyne themselues to this people, shalbe blessed.

8 They that dwell vnder his f shadowe, shall returne: they shall reuiue as the corne, and flourish as the vine: the sent thereof shalbe as the wine of Lebanon.

9 Ephraim shall say, What haue I to do any more with idoles? I haue hearde him, and looked vpon him: I am like a greene firre tree: vpon mee is thy fruite found.

g God sheweth how prompt he is to heare his, when they repent, and to offer himselfe, as a protection and sauegard vnto them, as a most sufficient fruite and profite.

10 Who is h wise, and he shal vnderstand these thinges? and prudent, and he shall knowe them? for the wayes of the Lorde are righteous, and the iust shall walke in them: but the wicked shall fall therein.

h Signifying, that the true wisdome and knowledge consisteth in this, euen to rest vpon God.

Ioel.

THE ARGVMENT.

THe Prophet Ioel first rebuketh them of Iudah, that being nowe punished with a great plague of famine, remaine still obstinate. Secondly he threatneth greater plagues, because they grewe daily to a more hardnesse of heart, and rebellion against God notwithstanding his punishments. Thirdly he exhorteth them to repentance, shewing that it must be earnest, and proceede from the heart because they had grieuously offended God. And so doing, hee promiseth that God will be mercifull, and not forget his couenant that he made with their fathers: but will send his Christ, who shall gather the scattered sheepe, and restore them to life, and libertie, though they seemed to be dead.

CHAP. I.

1 A Prophecie against the Iewes. 2 Hee exhorteth the people to prayer and fasting, for the miserie that was at hand.

THe worde of the Lorde that came to Ioel the sonne of Pethuel.

2 Heare ye this, O a Elders, and hearken yee all inhabitants of the lande, whether b such a thing hath bene in your dayes, or yet in the dayes of your fathers.

a Signifying, the princes, the Priestes, and the gouernours.

b He calleth the Iewes to the consideration of Gods iudgements, who had nowe plagued the fruites of the ground foy the space of foure yeare, which was for their sinnes, and to call them to repentance.

3 Tell your children of it, and let your children shewe to their children, and their children to another generation.

4 That which is left of the palmer worme, hath the grashopper eaten, and the residue of the grashopper hath the canker worme eaten, and the residue of the canker worme hath the caterpiller eaten.

c Meaning, that the occasion of their excesse and drunkennesse, was taken away.

5 Awake ye c drunkards, and weepe, and howle all ye drinkers of wine, because of the newe wine: for it shall be pulled from your mouth.

d This was another plague wherewith God had punished them, when he stirred vp the Assyrians against them.

6 For, d a nation commeth vpon my land, mightie, and without number, whose teeth are like the teeth of a lyon, and he hath the iawes of a great lyon.

e Mourne grieuously as a woman, which hath lost her husband to whome she hath bene married.

7 He maketh my vine waste, and pilleth off the barke of my figge tree: he maketh it bare, and casteth it downe: the branches thereof are made white.

8 Mourne like a virgine girded with sackecloth for the e husband of her youth.

9 The meate offering, and the drinke offring is f cut off from the house of the Lord: the Priests the Lords ministers mourne.

f Whole seasonable to cease, I will delite to of all their strength did is labour and as 10 The fielde is wasted: the land mourneth: for the corne is destroyed: g the newe wine is dryed vp, and the ople is decaped.

r Reade Iere. so much as Gods seruice was left off.

11 Bee yee ashamed, O husbandmen: howle, O yee vine dressers for the wheate, and for the barlie, because the harnest of the fielde is perished.

12 The vine is dried vp, and the fig tree is decaped: the pomegranate tree, and the g All comfort and that citie spared punishment is taken away, paline tree, and the apple tree, euen all the trees of the field are withered: surely the ioy is withered away from the sonnes of men.

13 h Girde your selues and lament, yee Priestes: howle ye ministers of the altar: come, and lye all night in sackecloth, ye ministers of my God: for the meate offering, and the drinke offring is taken away from the house of your God.

h He sheweth that the onely meanes to auoyd Gods wrath, and to haue all things restored is vnfained repentance.

14 Sanctifie you a fast: call a solemne assembly: gather the Elders, and all the inhabitants of the land into the House of the Lord your God, and cry vnto the Lord, 15 Alas: for the day, for the i day of the Lord is at hand, and it commeth as a destruction from the Almightie.

i We see by these great plagues that vtter destruction is at hand.

16 Is not the meate cut off before our eyes? and ioy, and gladnesse from the House of our God?

17 The seede is rotten vnder their clods: the garners are destroyed: the barnes are broken downe, for the corne is withered.

18 Howe did the beastes mourne? the heardes of cattell pine away, because they haue no pasture, and the flockes of sheepe are destroyed.

19 O Lord, to thee will I cry: for the fire hath deuoured the pastures of the wildernesse, and the flame hath burnt vp all the trees of the fielde.

20 The beasts of the field crie also vnto thee: for the riuers of waters are dried vp, and the k fire hath deuoured the pastures of the wildernesse.

k That is, drought.

CHAP. II.

Hee prophecieth of the comming and cruel tie of their enemies. 13 An exhortation to moone them to conuert. 18 The loue of God toward his people.

BLowe a the trumpet in Zion, and shoute in mine holy mountaine: let all the inhabitants of the land tremble: for the day of the Lord is come: for it is at hand.

a He sheweth the great iudgements of God which are at hand, except they repent.

2 A b day of darkenesse, and of blacknesse, a day of cloudes, and obscuritie, as the morning spred vpon the mountaines, so is there a c great people, and a mightie: there was none like it from the beginning, neither shall bee any more after it, vnto the yeeres of many generations.

b Of affliction and trouble.

c Meaning, the Assyrians.

3 A fire

3 A fire deuoureth before him, and behinde him a flame burneth vp: the lande is as the garden of d Eden before him, and behinde him a desolate wildernesse, so that nothing shall escape him.

d The enemie destroyeth our plentifull countrey, whersoeuer he commeth.

4 The beholding of him is like ꝑ sight of horses, & like the horsemen, so shal they run.

5 Like the noyse of charets in the toppes of the mountaines shall they leape, like the noyse of a flame of fire that deuoureth the stubble, and as a mightie people prepared to the battell.

6 Before his face shall the people tremble: all faces e shall gather blackenesse.

e They shalbe pale and blacke for feare, as Nahum 2.10.

7 They shall runne like strong men, and goe vp to the wall like men of warre, and euery man shall goe forward in his wayes, and they shall not stay in their paths.

f For none shall be able to resist them.

8 Neither shall one f thrust another, but euery one shall walke in his path: and when they fall vpon the sworde, they shall not be wounded.

g Reade verses 2.31. and Isa. 13.10. ezek. 32. 7. chap. 3.15. matth. 24, 29.

9 They shal runne to and fro in the citie: they shall runne vpon the wall: they shall clime vp vpon the houses, and enter in at the windowes like the thiefe.

10 The earth shal tremble before him, the heauens shall shake, the g sunne and the moone shall be darke, and the starres shall withdraw their shining, h The Lorde shall stirre vp the Assyrians to execute his iudgements. Iere. 30.7. amos 5 18. Zeph. 1.15.

11 And the Lorde shall h vtter his voyce before his host: for his host is very great: for he is strong that doeth his worde: * for the day of the Lorde is great and very terrible, and who can abide it?

i Mortifie your affections and serue God with pureneſse of heart, & not with ceremonies.

12 Therefore also now the Lorde saieth, Turne you vnto mee with all your heart, and with fasting, and with weeping, and with mourning, 13 And i rent your heart, and not your clothes: and turne vnto the Lorde your God, for he is gratious, and mercifull, slow to anger, and of great kindnesse, and repenteth him of the euill.

k He speaketh this to stirre vp their slouthfulnesse, and not that he doubted of Gods mercies, if they did repent. How God repenteth, reade Iere. 18.8.

14 Who knoweth, if he will k returne and repent and leaue a blessing behind him, euen a meate offering, and a drinke offering vnto the Lorde your God?

l That as all haue sinned, so all may shewe forth signes of their repẽtance, that men seeing the children, which are not free from Gods wrath, might be the more liuely touched with the consideration of their own sinnes. Psal. 79.10.

15 Blowe the trumpet in Zion, sanctifie a fast, call a solemne assemblie.

m If they repent, he sheweth that God will preserue and defende them with a most ardent affection.

16 Gather the people: sanctifie the congregation, gather the elders: assemble the l children, and those that sucke the breasts: let the bridegrome go forth of his chamber, and the bride out of her bride chamber.

17 Let the Priestes, the ministers of the Lorde weepe betweene the porch & the altar, and let them say, Spare thy people, O Lorde, and giue not thine heritage into reproche that the heathen should rule ouer them. * Wherefore should they say among the people, Where is their God?

18 Then will the Lorde be m ielous ouer his land and spare his people.

19 Yea, the Lord will answere & say vnto his people, Beholde, I will send you corne, and wine, and oyle, and you shalbe satisfied therewith: and I will no more make you a reproch among the heathen, 20 But I will remoue farre off from you the n Northren army, & I will drive him into a lande, barren and desolate with his face towarde the o East sea, and his ende to the vtmost sea, and his stinke shal come vp, and his corruption shall ascend, because he hath exalted himselfe to doe this.

n That is, such as should come by iust measure, and as was wont to be sent when God was reconciled with them. Leuit. 26.4. deut. 11.14.

21 Feare not, O land, but be glad, and reioyce: for the Lord will doe great thinges.

22 Be not afraid, ye beastes of the fielde: for the pastures of ꝑ wildernes are greene: for the tree beareth her fruite: the figtree and the vine doe giue their force.

23 Be glad then, ye children of Zion, and reioyce in the Lord your God: for hee hath giuen you the raine of p righteousnesse, * and he will cause to come downe for you the raine, euen the first raine, and the latter raine in the first moneth.

24 And the barnes shalbe ful of wheate, & the presses shal abound with wine & oyle.

25 And I will render you ꝑ yeres that ꝑ grashopper hath eaten, the canker worme, and the catterpiller & the palmer worme, my great hoste which I sent among you.

q That is, in greater abundance and more generally then in time past: and this was fulfilled vnder Christ, when as Gods graces, and his Spirite vnder the Gospel was abundantly giuen to the Church, Isa. 44.3. act. 2.17 Iohn 7.38, 39.

26 So you shal eate and be satisfied, and praise the Name of the Lorde your God, that hath dealt marueilously with you: and my people shall neuer be ashamed.

27 Ye shall also knowe, that I am in the middes of Israel, and that I am the Lorde your God and none other, and my people shall neuer be ashamed.

28 And afterward will I powre q out my Spirit vpon all flesh: and your sonnes and your daughters shall prophecie: your olde men shall dreame r dreames, and your yong men shall see visions, r As they had visions, and dreames in olde time, so shall they now haue clearer reuelations.

29 And also vpon the seruants, and vpon the maides in those dayes will I powre my Spirit.

30 And I will shewe s wonders in the heauens and in the earth: blood and fire and pillars of smoke.

s Ye warneth the faithfull what terrible things should come, to the intent that they should not looke for continuall quietnesse in this world, and yet in all these troubles he would preserue them.

31 The t sunne shalbe turned into darkenesse, and the moone into blood, before the great and terrible day of the Lorde come.

t The order of nature shall seeme to bee changed for the horrible afflictions that shalbe in the world, Isa. 13.10. ezek. 32 7. chap. 3.15. matt. 24.29.

32 But whosoeuer shall call u on the Name of the Lorde, shall be saued: for in mount Zion, and in Jerusalem shall be deliuerance, as the Lord hath said, and in the x remnant, whom the Lord shall call.

u Gods iudgements are for the destruction of the infidels, and to moue the godly to call vpon the Name of God, who will giue them saluation. x Meaning hereby the Gentiles, Rom. 10, 13.

CHAP. III.

Of the iudgement of God against the enemies of his people.

FOr behold, in a those dayes and in that time, when I shall bring againe the captiuitie of Iudah and Jerusalem, a When I shall deliuer my Church, which standeth of the Iewes and of the Gentiles.

2 I will also gather all nations, and will bring them downe into the b valley of b It appeareth that he alludeth to that great victorie of Iehoshaphat, when as God without mans helpe destroyed the enemies, 2. Chron. 20.26. also he hath respect to this word Iehoshaphat, which signifieth pleading, or iudgement, because God would iudge the enemies of his Church as he did there.

Jehoſhaphat, and will pleade with them there for my people, and for mine heritage Iſrael, whome they haue ſcattered among the nations, and parted my land.

3 And they haue caſt lots for my people, & haue giuen the childe [c] for the harlot, and ſold the girle for wine, ꝑ they might drinke.

4 Yea, and [d] what haue you to doe with me, O Tyrus and Zidon and all the coaſts of Paleſtina? will ye render me [e] a recompence? and if yee recompence mee, ſwiftly and ſpeedily will I render your recompence vpon your head:

5 For yee haue taken my ſiluer and my gold, and haue caried into your temples my goodly and pleaſant things.

6 The children alſo of Iudah and the children of Ieruſalem haue you ſolde vnto the Grecians, that yee might ſende them farre from their border.

7 Beholde, I will raiſe them out of the place where yee haue ſolde them, and will render your reward vpō your owne head,

8 And I will ſell your ſonnes and your daughters into the hande of the children of Iudah, and they [f] ſhall ſell them to the Sabeans, to a people farre off: for the Lorde hath ſpoken it.

9 Publiſh this among the Gentiles: prepare warre, wake vp ꝑ mightie men: let all ꝑ men of warre draw neere & come vp.

10 [g] Breake your plowſhares into ſwordes, and your ſithes into ſpeares: let the weake ſay, I am ſtrong.

11 Aſſemble your ſelues, and come all ye heathen and gather your ſelues together round about: there ſhall ꝑ Lord caſt downe thy mightie men.

12 Let the heathen be weakened, & come vp to the valley of Jehoſhaphat: for there will I ſit to iudge all the heathen rounde about.

13 Put in your [h] ſithes, for the harueſt is ripe: come, get you downe, for the wine-preſſe is full: yea, the wineprefſes runne ouer, for their wickedneſſe is great.

14 O multitude, O multitude, come into the valley of threſhing: for the day of the Lord is neere in the valley of threſhing.

15 The ſunne & moone ſhall be darkened, and the ſtarres ſhall withdraw their light.

16 The Lord alſo ſhal roare out of Zion, and vtter his voyce from Ieruſalem, & the heauens and the earth ſhal ſhake, but the Lord will be the hope [i] of his people, and the ſtrength of the children of Iſrael.

17 So ſhal ye know that I am the Lord your God dwelling in Zion, mine holy Mountaine: then ſhall Ieruſalem be holy, and there ſhall no ſtrangers go [k] through her any more.

18 And in that day ſhall the mountaines [l] drop downe new wine, and the hils ſhall flowe with milke, and all the riuers of Iudah ſhall runne with waters, & a fountaine ſhall come forth of the houſe of the Lorde, and ſhall water the valley of Shittim.

19 [m] Egypt ſhall be waſte, and Edom ſhal be a deſolate wildernes, for the iniuries of the children of Iudah, becauſe they haue ſhed innocent blood in their land.

20 But Iudah ſhal dwel for euer, & Ieruſalem from generation to generation.

21 For I will [n] cleanſe their blood, that I haue not cleanſed, and the Lord will dwell in Zion.

c That which the enemie gate for the ſale of my people, he beſtowed vpon harlots and drinke.

d He taketh the cauſe of his Church in hand againſt the enemie, as though the iniurie were done to himſelfe.

e Haue I done you wrong, that ye will render me the like?

f For a reward God ſold them by Nebuchadnezzar, and Alexander the great for the loue he bare to his people, and thereby they were comforted as though the price had bene theirs.

g When I ſhall execute my iudgements againſt mine enemies, I will cauſe euery one to be readie, and to prepare their weapons to deſtroy one another for my Churches ſake.

h Thus he ſhal incourage the enemies when their wickednes is full ripe, to deſtroy one another, which he calleth the valley of Gods iudgement.

i God aſſureth his againſt all troubles, that when he deſtroyeth his enemies, his children ſhall be deliuered.

k The ſtrangers ſhall no more deſtroy his Church: which if they doe, it is the people which by their ſinnes make the breache for the enemie.

l He promiſeth to his Church abundance of graces, reade Ezek. 47.1. which ſhoulde water and comfort the moſt barren places, Amos 9.13.

m The malicious enemies ſhall haue no part of this grace.

n Hee had ſuffered his Church hitherto to lie in their filthineſſe, but now he promiſeth to cleanſe them and to make them pure vnto him.

Amos.

THE ARGVMENT.

AMong many other Prophets that God raiſed vp to admoniſh the Iſraelites of his plagues for their wickedneſſe and idolatrie, hee ſtirred vp Amos, who was an heardman or ſhepheard of a poore towne, and gaue him both knowledge and conſtancie to reproue all eſtates and degrees, and to denounce Gods horrible iudgements againſt them, except they did in time repent: ſhewing them, that if God ſpare not ꝟ other nations about them, who had liued as it were in ignorance of God in reſpect of them, but for their ſinnes will puniſh them, that they coulde looke for nothing, but an horrible deſtruction, except they turned to the Lord by vnfained repentance. And finally, he comforteth the godly with hope of the comming of the Meſſiah, by whome they ſhoulde haue perfite deliuerance and ſaluation.

CHAP. I.

1 The time of the Prophecie of Amos. 3 The word of the Lord againſt Damaſcus, 6 The Philiſtims, Tyrus, Idumea and Ammon.

THe words of Amos, who was [a] among the heardmen at Tecoa, which he ſawe vpon Iſrael, in the dayes of Vzziah king of Iudah, and in the dayes of [b] Jeroboam the ſonne of Joaſh king of Iſrael, two yeere before the [c] earthquake.

2 And he ſaid, The Lord ſhal roare from Zion, and vtter his voyce from Ieruſalem, and the dwelling places of the ſhepheards ſhall periſh, and the toppe of [d] Carmel ſhal wither.

3 ¶ Thus ſaith the Lorde, For [e] three tranſgreſſions of Damaſcus, and for foure, I will not turne to it, becauſe they haue [f] threſhed Gilead with threſhing inſtruments of yron.

4 Therefore will I ſende a fire into the houſe of Hazael, and it ſhall deuoure the [g] palaces of Ben-hadad.

a Which was a towne ſixe miles from Ieruſalē in Iudea, but he prophecied in Iſrael.

b In his dayes the kingdome of Iſrael did moſt flouriſh.

c Which, as Ioſephus writeth, was when Vzziah would haue vſurped the Prieſtes office, and therefore was ſmitten with the Leproſie.

d Whatſoeuer is fruitful and pleaſant in Iſrael ſhal ſhortly periſh.

e He ſheweth firſt that all the people rounde about ſhould be deſtroyed for their manifolde ſinnes: which are meant by three and foure which make ſeuen, becauſe the Iſraelites ſhonld the more deeply conſider Gods iudgements toward them.

f If the Syrians ſhal not be ſpared for committing this crueltie againſt one citie, it is not poſſible that Iſrael ſhould eſcape puniſhment, which hath committed ſo many and grieuous ſinnes againſt God and man.

g The antiquitie of their buildings ſhal not auoid my iudgements, reade Ierc. 49.27.

5 I will breake also the barres of Damascus, & cut off the inhabitant of Bikeath-auen: and him that holdeth the scepter out of Beth-eden, and the people of Aram shal goe into captiuitie vnto h Kir, saith the Lorde.

6 Thus saith the Lord, For three transgressions of Azzah, and for foure, I will not turne to it, because they i caried away prisoners the whole captiuitie to shut them vp in Edom.

7 Therefore will I send a fire vpon the walles of Azzah, and it shall deuoure the palaces thereof.

8 And I will cut off the inhabitant from Ashdod, and him that holdeth the scepter from Ashkelon, and turne mine hande to Ekron, and the remnant of the Philistims shall perish, saith the Lord God.

9 ¶ Thus saith the Lord, For three transgressions of Tyrus, and for foure, I will not turne to it, because they shut the whole captiuitie in Edom, and haue not remembred the k brotherly couenant.

10 Therefore will I send a fire vpon the walles of Tyrus, and it shall deuoure the palaces thereof.

11 ¶ Thus saith the Lord, For three trãsgressions of Edom, and for foure, I will not turne to it, because hee did pursue his brother with the sword, and did ‡ cast off all pitie, and his anger spoiled him euermore, and his wrath watched him l alwap.

12 Therefore will I sende a fire vpon Teman, and it shall deuoure the palaces of Bozrah.

13 ¶ Thus saieth the Lorde, For three transgressions of the children of Ammon, and for foure, I will not turne to it, because they m haue ript vp the women with child of Gilead, that they might enlarge their border.

14 Therefore will I kindle a fire in the wall of Rabbah, and it shall deuoure the palaces thereof, with shouting in the day of battell, and with a tempest in the day of the whirlewinde.

15 And their King shall goe into captiuitie, he and his princes together, saith the Lorde.

CHAP. II.

Against Moab, Iudah, and Israel.

THus saieth the Lorde, For three transgressions of Moab, and for foure, I will not turne to it, because it burnt the a bones of the king of Edom into lime.

2 Therefore wil I send a fire vpõ Moab, and it shal deuoure the palaces of Kerioth, & Moab shal die with tumult, with shouting, and with a sound of a trumpet.

3 And I will cut off the iudge out of the middes thereof, and wil slap all the princes therof with him, saith the Lord.

4 ¶ Thus saith the Lord, For three transgressions of Iudah, and for foure, b I will not turne to it, because they haue cast away the Lawe of the Lorde, and haue not kept his commaundements, and their lies caused them to erre after the which their fathers haue walked.

5 Therefore will I send a fire vpon Iudah, and it shall deuoure the palaces of Ierusalem.

6 ¶ Thus saith the Lord, For three transgressions of c Israel, and for foure, I wil not turne to it, because they sold the righteous for siluer, and the poore for d shoes.

7 They gape ouer the head of the poore in the e dust of the earth, and peruert the wayes of the meeke: and a man and his father will goe in to a mayde to dishonour mine holy Name.

8 And they lye downe vpon clothes layde to pledge f by euery altar: and they ‡ drinke the wine of the condemned in the house of their God.

9 Yet destroyed I the h Amorite before them, whose height was like the height of the cedars, and he was strong as the okes: notwithstanding, I destroyed his fruite from aboue, and his roote from beneath.

10 Also I brought you vp from the land of Egypt, and led you fourtie yeeres throwe the wildernesse, to possesse the land of the Amorite.

11 And I raised vp of your sonnes for Prophets, and of your young men for Nazarites. Is it not euen thus, O ye children of Israel, saith the Lord?

12 But ye gaue the Nazarites wine to drinke, & commanded the Prophets, saying, Prophecie not.

13 Behold, I am k pressed vnder you as a cart is pressed that is full of sheaues.

14 Therefore the flight shal perish from the l swift, & the strong shal not strengthen his force, neither shall the mightie saue his life.

15 Nor he that handleth the bow, shall stand, and he that is swift of foote, shal not escape, neither shall he that rideth the horse, saue his life.

16 And he that is of mightie courage among the strong men, shal flee away naked in that day, saith the Lord.

a For the Moabites were so cruell against the King of Edom, that they burnt his bones after that he was dead: which declared their barbarous rage, seeing they woulde reuenge themselues of the dead.

b Seeing the Gentiles that had not so farre knowledge were thus punished, Iudah which was so fully instructed of the Lords will, might not thinke to escape.

h Tiglath Pileser led the Syrians captiue, and brought them to Cyrene, which he calleth here Kir.

i They ioyned themselues with the Edomites their enemies, which caried them away captiues.

k For Esau (of whom came the Edomites) and Iaakob were brethren: therefore they ought to haue admonished them of their brotherly friendship, and not to haue prouoked them to hatred.

l He was a continuall enemie vnto him.

m He noteth the great crueltie of the Ammonites, that spared not the women, but most tyrannously tormented them, and yet the Ammonites came of Lot, who was of the houshold of Abraham.

e If he spare not Iudah vnto whom his promises were made, much more he will not spare this degenerate kingdome.

d They esteemed most vile bribes more then mens liues.

e When they haue spoyled him and thrown him to the ground, they gape for his life.

f Thinking by these ceremonies, that is, by sacrificing, and being neere mine altar, they may excuse all their other wickednesse.

g They spoyle others and offer therof vnto God, thinking that hee will dispense with them, when he is made partaker of their iniquitie.

h The destruction of their enemies, and his mercie toward them, should haue caused their hearts to melt for loue toward him.

i Yee contemned my benefites, and abused my graces. and craftily went about to stop the mouthes of my Prophets. k You haue wearied me with your sinnes, Isa. 1.14. l None shal be deliuered by any meanes.

CHAP. III.

He reproueth the house of Israel, of ingratitude. 11 for the which God will punish them.

HEare this word that the Lord pronoũceth against you, O children of Israel, euen against the whole familie which I brought vp frõ the land of Egypt, saying,

2 You a onely haue I knowen of all the families of the earth: therefore I will visite you for all your iniquities.

3 Can two walke together except they be b agreed?

4 Will a c lion roare in the forest, when he hath no pray? or will a lions whelpe cry out of his denne, if he haue taken nothing?

a I haue onely chosen you to be mine among all other people, and yet you haue forsaken me.

b Hereby the Prophet signifieth that he speaketh not of himselfe, but as God guideth and moueth him, which is called the agreement betweene God and his Prophets.

c Will God threaten by his prophets, except there be some great occasion?

5 d Can

5 [d] Can a birde fall in a snare vpon the earth, where no fouler is? or will hee take vp thee [e] snare from the earth, and haue taken nothing at all?

6 Or shall a trumpet be blowen in the citie, and the people be not afraide? or shal there [f] be euill in a citie, and the Lorde hath not done it?

7 Surely the Lord God wil do nothing, but hee [h] reuealeth his secrete vnto his seruants the Prophets.

8 The lion hath roared: who will not be afraide? the Lord God hath spoken: who can but [i] prophecie?

9 Proclaime in the palaces at [k] Ashdod, and in the palaces in the lande of Egypt, and say, Assemble your selues vpon the mountaines of Samaria: so beholde the great tumults in the middes thereof, and the oppressed in the middes thereof.

10 For they know not to do right, saith the Lord: they store vp violence, and robberie [l] in their palaces.

11 Therefore thus saith the Lorde God, An aduersarie shall come euen round about the countrey, and shall bring downe thy strength from thee, and thy palaces shall be spoyled.

12 Thus saith the Lorde, As the shepheard taketh [m] out of the mouth of the lion two legges, or a piece of an eare: so shall the children of Israel bee taken out that dwell in Samaria in the corner of a bedde, and in [n] Damascus, as in a couche.

13 Heare, and testifie in the house of Iaakob, saith the Lord God, the God of hosts.

14 Surely in the day that I shall visite the transgressions of Israel vpon him, I wil also visite the altars of Beth-el, and the homes of the altar shall bee broken off, and fall to the ground.

15 And I wil smite the winter house with the summer house, and the houses of yuorie shall perish, and the great houses shall bee consumed, saith the Lord.

d Can any thing come without Gods prouidence?
e Shall his threatnings bein vaine?
f Shall the Prophets threaten Gods iudgements and the people not be afrayde?
g Doeth any aduersitie come without Gods appoyntment? Isa. 45.7.
h God dealeth not with the Israelites as he doeth with other people: for he euer warneth them before of his plagues by his Prophets.
i Because the people euer murmured against the Prophets, he sheweth that Gods Spirite mooued them so to speake as they did.
k He calleth the strangers, as the Philistims and Egyptians to be witnesses of Gods iudgements against the Israelites for their cruelties and oppression.
l The fruit of their cruelty and theft appeareth by their great riches, which they haue in their houses.
m When the Lion hath saciate his hunger, the shepheard findeth a legge or a tippe of an eare, to shew that the sheepe hath bene woried.
n Where they thought to haue a sure hold, and to haue bene in safetie.

CHAP. IIII.

Against the gouernours of Samaria.

HEare this worde, ye [a] kine of Bashan that are in the mountaine of Samaria, which oppresse the poore, and destroy the needie, & then say to their maisters, Bring, and let vs drinke.

2 The Lord God hath sworne by his holinesse, that loe, the dayes shall come vpon you, that hee will take you away with [c] thornes, and your posteritie with fishhookes.

3 And ye shal goe out at the breaches euery kowe forward: and yee shall cast your selues out of the palace, saith the Lord.

4 Come to [d] Beth-el, and transgresse: to Gilgal, and multiplie transgression, & bring your sacrifices in the morning, and your tithes after three [e] yeeres.

5 And offer a thankesgiuing [f] of leauen, publish and proclaime the free offerings: for this [g] liketh you, O yee children of Israel, saith the Lord God.

6 And therefore haue I giuen you [h] cleannesse of teeth in all your cities, and scarcenesse of bread in all your places, yet haue ye not returned vnto me, saith the Lord.

7 And also I haue withholden the raine from you, when there were yet three [i] moneths to the harueste, & I caused it to raine vpon one citie, and haue not caused it to raine vpon another citie: one piece was rained vpon, and the piece whereupon it rained not, withered.

8 So two or three cities wandred vnto one citie to drinke water, but they were [k] not satisfied: yet haue ye not returned vnto me, saith the Lord.

9 I haue smitten you with blasting, and mildewe: your great gardens & your vineyards, and your figge trees, and your oliue trees did the palmer worme deuoure: yet haue ye not returned vnto me, saith the Lord.

10 Pestilence haue I sent among you, after the maner of [l] Egypt: your yong men haue I slaine with the sword, and haue taken away your horses: and I haue made the stinke of your tentes to come vp euen into your nostrels: yet haue ye not returned vnto me, saith the Lord.

11 I haue ouerthrowen you, as God ouerthrewe Sodome and Gomorah: and ye were as a [m] fire brand pluckt out of the burning: yet haue ye not returned vnto mee, saith the Lord.

12 Therefore, thus will I do vnto thee, O Israel: and because I wil do this vnto thee, prepare to [n] meete thy God, O Israel.

13 For loe, he that formeth the mountaines, and createth the winde, and declareth vnto man what is his thought: which maketh the morning darkenesse, and walketh vpon the hie places of the earth, the Lord God of hostes is his Name.

a Thus he calleth the princes and gouernours, which being ouerwhelmed with the great abundance of Gods benefites, forgate God, and therefore calleth them by the name of beasts and not of men.
b They incourage such as haue authoritie ouer the people, to powle them so that they may haue profit by it.
c He alludeth to fishers which catch fish by hookes and thornes.
d He speaketh this in contempt of them which resorted to these places, thinking that their great deuotion & good intention had bin sufficient to haue bound God vnto them. e Reade Deut. 14.28.
f As Leuit. 7.13.
g You onely delite in these outward ceremonies, and haue none other respect.
h That is, lacke of bread and meate.
i I staied the raine till the fruites of the earth were destroyed with drought, and yet you would not consider it to returne to me by repentance.
k They could not finde water ynough, where they had heard say it had rained.
l As I plagued the Egyptians, Exod. 9.10.
m You were almost all consumed and a few of you wonderfully preserued, 2. Kin. 14.26.
n Turne to him by repentance.

CHAP. V.

A lamentation for the captiuitie of Israel.

HEare ye this word, which I lift vp vpon you, euen a lamentation of the house of Israel.

2 The [a] virgine Israel is fallen, and shall no more rise: she is left vpon her lande, and there is none to raise her vp.

3 For thus saieth the Lorde God, The citie which went out by a thousande, shall leaue an [b] hundreth: and that which went foorth by an hundreth, shall leaue ten to the house of Israel.

4 For thus saith the Lord vnto the house of Israel, Seeke ye me, and ye shall liue.

5 But seeke not Beth-el, nor enter into [c] Gilgal, and go not to Beer-sheba: for Gilgal shal go into captiuitie, and Beth-el shal come to nought.

6 Seeke the Lord, and ye shal liue, least he a He so calleth them because they so boasted of themselues, or bicause they were giuen to wantonnesse and deintinesse.

b Meaning, that the tenth part should scarcely be saued.
c In these places they worshipped newidoles, which aforetime serued for the true honour of God: therefore he saith that these shal not saue them, breake

breake out like fire in the house of Ioseph, & deuoure it, and there be none to quench it in Beth-el.

d In stead of iudgement and equity they execute cruelties and oppression.

7 They turne iudgemẽt to wormwood, and leaue off righteousnesse in the earth.

e He describeth the power of God, Iob.9.9.

8 He maketh Pleiades, and Orion, and hee turneth the shadowe of death into the morning, and he maketh the day darke as night: he calleth the waters of the sea, and powreth them out vpon the open earth: the Lord is his Name.

9 He strengtheneth the destroyer against the mightie: and the destroyer shall come against the fortresse.

f They hate the Prophets, which reproue them in the open assemblies.

10 They haue hated him, f that rebuked in the gate: and they abhorred him that speaketh vprightly.

g Ye take both his money and also his foode wherewith he should liue.

11 Forasmuch then as your treading is vpon the poore, & ye take from him burdens of wheate, yee haue built houses of hewen stone, but ye shall not dwel in them: yee haue planted pleasant vineyardes, but ye shall not drinke wine of them.

h God will so plague them, that they shall not suffer the godly ones to open their mouthes to admonish them of their faults.

12 For I know your manifolde transgressions, and your mightie sinnes: they afflict the iust, they take rewards, and they oppresse the poore in the gate.

i So that all degrees shall haue matter of lamentation for the great plagues.

13 Therefore h the prudent shal keepe silence in that time, for it is an euill time.

14 Seeke good and not euil, that ye may liue: and the Lorde God of hostes shall bee with you, as you haue spoken.

k Thus hee speaketh because the wicked & hypocrites said they were content to abide Gods iudgements, whereas the godly tremble and feare, Ier. 30.7. ioel.2.2, 11. zeph.1.15.

15 Hate the euill and loue the good, and establish iudgement in the gate: it may be that the Lord God of hostes will be merciful vnto the remnant of Ioseph.

16 Therefore the Lord God of hostes, the Lorde saieth thus, Mourning shal be in all streetes: and they shall say in all the high waies, Alas, alas: and they shall call the i husbandman to lamentation, and such as can mourne, to mourning.

17 And in all the vines shalbe lamentation: for I will passe through thee, saieth the Lord.

23 Take thou away from me the multitude of thy songs (for I will not heare the melodie of thy viols)

24 And let iudgement runne downe as m waters, & righteousnes as a mighty riuer.

25 Haue ye offered vnto me sacrifices & offerings in the wildernesse fourtie yeeres, O house of Israel?

26 But you haue borne n Siccuth your king, & Chiun your images, & the starre of your gods, which ye made to your selues.

27 Therefore wil I cause you to go into captiuitie beyonde Damascus, saieth the Lord, whose Name is the God of hostes.

God sheweth certaine visions, whereby he signifieth the destruction of the people of Israel. 10 The false accusation of Amaziah. 12 His craftie counsell.

THus hath the Lorde God shewed vnto me, & beholde, he formed a grashoppers in the beginning of the shooting vp of the latter growth: and loe, it was in the latter growth b after the kings mowing.
2 And when they had made an ende of eating the grasse of the lande, then I saide, O Lorde God, spare, I beseech thee: who shall raise vp Iaakob? for he is small.
3 So the Lord c repented for this. It shall not be, saith the Lord.
4 ¶ Thus also hath d Lorde God shewed vnto me, and beholde, the Lorde God called to iudgement by fire, d and it deuoured the great deepe, and did eate vp a part.
5 Then saide I, O Lord God, cease, I beseech thee: who shall raise vp Iaakob? for he is small.
6 So the Lord repented for this. This also shall not be, saith the Lord God.
7 ¶ Thus againe he shewed me, and beholde, the Lord stoode vpon a wall made by line e with a line in his hand.
8 And the Lorde saide vnto me, Amos, what seest thou? And I saide, A line. Then saide the Lorde, Beholde, I will set a line in the middes of my people Israel, and will passe by them no more.
9 And the hie places of Isaak shalbe desolate, and the temples of Israel shal be destroyed: and I will rise against the house of Ieroboam with the sword.
10 ¶ f Then Amaziah p Priest of Bethel sent to Ieroboam king of Israel, saying, Amos hath conspired against thee in the middes of the house of Israel: the land is not able to beare all his wordes.
11 For thus Amos saieth, Ieroboam shall die by the sword, and Israel shalbe led away captiue out of their owne land.
12 Also g Amaziah saide vnto Amos, O thou the Seer, go, flee thou away into the land of Iudah, and there eate thy bread and prophecie there.
13 But propheche no more at Beth-el: for it is the kings chappell, and it is the kings court.
14 Then answered Amos, & said to Amaziah, I was no h Prophet, neither was I a Prophets sonne, but I was an heardman, and a gatherer of wilde figs.
15 And the Lord tooke me as I followed the flocke, and the Lord said vnto me, Go, propheche vnto my people Israel.
16 Nowe therefore heare thou the word of the Lord. Thou saiest, Propheche not against Israel, and speake nothing against the house of Isaak.
17 Therefore thus saieth the Lord, i Thy wife shall be an harlot in the citie, and thy sonnes and thy daughters shall fall by the sworde, and thy lande shall be deuided by line: and thou shalt die in a polluted land, and Israel shall surely goe into captiuitie fooith of his land.

h Thus God vsed to approue the authoritie of his Prophets by his plagues and iudgements against them, which were malicious enemies, Ier. 28.12, and 29.21, 25: as this day hee doeth against them that persecute the ministers of his Gospel.

Obadiah.

THE ARGVMENT.

THe Idumeans, which came of Esau, were mortall enemies alway to the Israelites, which came of Iaakob, and therefore did not onely vexe them continually with sundry kindes of crueltie, but also stirred vp others to fight against them. Therefore when they were now in their greatest prosperitie, and did most triumph against Israel, which was in great affliction and miserie, God raised vp his Prophet to comfort the Israelites, forasmuch as God had now determined to destroy their aduersaries, which did so sore vexe them, and to send them such as should deliuer them, and set vp the kingdome of Messiah, which he had promised.

THe vision of Obadiah. Thus sayeth the Lord God against Edom, [a] Wee haue heard a rumor from the Lord, and an ambassadour is sent among the heathen: arise, and [b] let vs rise vp against her to battell.

2 Beholde, I haue made thee small among the heathen: thou art vtterly despised.

3 The [c] pride of thine heart hath deceiued thee: thou that dwellest in the clefts of the rockes, whose habitation is hie, that sayeth in his heart, who shall bring me downe to the ground?

4 Though thou exalt thy selfe as the egle, and make thy nest among the starres, thence will I bring thee downe, saith the Lord.

[a] God hath certainely reueiled to his Prophets that he will raise vp the heathen to destroy the Edomites, whereof the rumour is nowe published, Ierem. 49.14. [b] Thus the heathen encourage themselues to rise against Edom. [c] Which despiseth all others in respect of thy selfe, and yet are but an handfull in comparison of others, and art shut vp among the hilles, as separate from the rest of the world. [d] God will so destroy them that he will leaue none, though theeues when they come, take but till they haue ynough, and they that gather grapes, euer leaue some behinde them, Iere. 49.9.

might? how wast thou brought to silence? would they not haue stollen, till they had ynough? if the grape gatherers came to thee, would they not leaue some grapes?

6 Howe are the thinges of Esau sought vp, and his treasures searched?

7 All the men of thy confederacie haue driuen thee to the borders: the men that were at peace with thee, haue deceiued thee, and preuailed against thee: they that eate thy bread, haue layde a wounde vnder thee: there is none vnderstanding in him.

8 Shall not I in that day, saith the Lord, euen destroy the wise men out of Edom, and vnderstanding from the mount of Esau?

9 And thy strong men, O Teman, shall be afrayde, because euery one of the mount of Esau shall be cut off by slaughter.

10 For thy crueltie against thy brother Iaakob, shame shall couer thee, and thou shalt be cut off for euer.

11 When thou stoodest on the other side, in the day that the strangers caried away his substance, and strangers entred into his gates, and cast lottes vpon Ierusalem, euen thou wast as one of them.

12 But thou shouldest not haue beholden the day of thy brother, in the day that hee was made a stranger, neither shouldest thou haue reioyced ouer the children of Iudah, in the day of their destruction: thou shouldest not haue spoken proudly in the day of affliction.

13 Thou shouldest not haue entred into the gate of my people in the day of their destruction, neither shouldest thou haue once looked on their affliction in the day of their destruction, nor haue layde handes on their substance in the day of their destruction.

14 Neither shouldest thou haue stoode in the crosse wayes to cut off them, that should escape, neyther shouldest thou haue shutte vp the remnant thereof in the day of affliction.

15 For the day of the Lord is neere, vpon all the heathen: as thou hast done, it shall be done to thee: thy reward shall returne vpon thine head.

16 For as yee haue drunke vpon mine holy Mountaine, so shall all the heathen drinke continually: yea, they shall drinke and swallowe vp, and they shall bee as though they had not bene.

17 But vpon mount Zion shall be deliuerance, and it shall be holy, and the house of Iaakob shall possesse their possessions, 18 And the house of Iaakob shall bee a fire, and the house of Ioseph a flame, and the house of Esau as stubble, and they shall kindle in them and deuoure them: and there shall bee no remnant of the house of Esau: for the Lord hath spoken it.

19 And they shall possesse the Southside of the mount of Esau, and the plaine of the Philistims: and they shall possesse the fields of Ephraim, and the fields of Samaria, and Beniamin shall haue Gilead.

20 And the captiuitie of this hoste of the children of Israel, which were among the Canaanites, shall possesse vnto Zarephath, and the captiuitie of Ierusalem, which is in Sepharad, shall possesse the cities of the South.

21 And they that shall saue, shall come vp to mount Zion to iudge the mount of Esau, and the kingdome shalbe the Lords.

e They in whom thou diddest trust, for to haue helpe and friendship of them, shalbe thine enemies and destroy thee.

f That is, thy familiar friends and ghests haue by secret practises destroyed thee.

g He sheweth the cause why the Edomites were so sharply punished: to wit, because they were enemies to his Church, whom now he comforteth by punishing their enemies.

h When Nebuchad-nezzar came against Ierusalem, thou ioynedst with him, and haddest part of the spoile, and so diddest reioyce when my people, that is, thy brother, were afflicted, whereas thou shouldest haue pitied and holpen thy brother.

i When the Lorde depriued them of their former dignitie, and gaue them to bee caried into captiuitie.

k When he will summon all the heathen, and send them to destroy thee.

l That is, reioyced and triumphed.

m The Edomites shalbe vtterly destroyed, and yet in despite of all the enemies I will reserue my Church and restore it.

n God attributeth this power to consume his enemies, to his Church, which power is onely proper to himselfe, as Isa.10. 17. deut.4.24. hebr.12.29.

o He describeth how the Church shall be enlarged and haue great possessions, but this chiefly is accomplished vnder Christ, when as the faithfull are made heires and lordes of all things by him which is their head.

p By the Canaanites the Iewes meane the Dutchmen, and by Zarephath, France, and by Sepharad, Spaine.

q Meaning, that God will raise vp in his Church such as shall rule and gouerne for the defence of the same, and destruction of his enemies vnder Messiah, whom the Prophet calleth here the Lord and head of this kingdome.

Ionah.

THE ARGVMENT.

WHen Ionah had long prophesied in Israel, and had little profited, God gaue him expresse charge to goe, and denounce his iudgements against Nineueh the chiefe citie of the Assyrians, because he had appoynted, that they which were of the heathen, should conuert by the mightie power of his word, and that within three dayes preaching, that Israel might see howe horribly they had prouoked Gods wrath, which for the space of so many yeeres, had not conuerted to the Lord for so many Prophets and so diligent preaching. He prophesied vnder Ioash, and Ieroboam, as 2.King.14.25.

CHAP. I.

3 Ionah fledde when hee was sent to preach. 4 A tempest ariseth, and hee is cast into the sea for his disobedience.

a After that he had preached a long time in Israel: and so Ezekiel, after that for a time he had prophesied in Iuda, hee had visions in Babylon, Ezek.1.1.

b For seeing the great obstination of the Israelites, hee sent his Prophet to the Gentiles, that they might prouoke them to repentance, or at least make them inexcusable: for Nineueh was the chiefe citie of the Assyrians.

THE word of the Lord came a also vnto Ionah the sonne of Amittai, saying,

2 Arise, and goe to b Nineueh, that c great citie, and crie against it: for their wickednesse is come vp before me.

3 But Ionah rose vp to d flee into Tarshish from the presence of the Lord, and went downe to e Iapho: and hee found a shippe going to Tarshish: so he payed the c For as authors write, it contained in circuite about eight and fourtie mile, and had a thousand and fiue hundred towres, and at this time there were an hundreth and twentie thousand children therein, Chap.4.11.

d Whereby hee declareth his weakeneſſe, that would not promptly followe the Lords calling, but gaue place to his owne reason, which perswaded him that hee should nothing at all profite there, seeing hee had done so small good among his owne people, Chap.4.2.

e Which was the hauen and port to take shipping thither, called also Ioppe.

fare

fare thereof, and went downe into it, that hee might goe with them vnto Tarshish, from the f presence of the Lord.

4 But the Lorde sent out a great winde vnto the sea, and there was a mightie tempest in the sea, so that the ship was like to be broken.

5 Then the mariners were afraide, and cryed euery man vnto his god, and cast the wares that were in the shippe, into the sea to lighten it of them: but Ionah was gone downe into the sides of the ship, and hee lay downe, and was fast asleepe.

6 So the Shipmaster came to him, and sayd vnto him, What meanest thou, O sleeper? Arise, call vpon thy h God, if so be that God will thinke vpon vs, that we perish not.

7 And they sayd euery one to his fellow, Come, and let vs cast i lots, that we may knowe, for whose cause this euill is vpon vs. So they cast lots, and the lot fell vpon Ionah.

8 Then sayd they vnto him, Tell vs for whose cause this euill is vpon vs? what is thine occupation? & whence commest thou? which is thy countrey? and of what people art thou?

9 And hee answered them, I am an Ebrew, and I feare the Lord God of heauen, which hath made the sea, and the dry land.

10 Then were the men exceedingly afraid, and sayde vnto him, Why hast thou done this? (for the men knew, that hee fled from the presence of the Lorde, because hee had told them)

11 Then sayd they vnto him, What shal wee doe vnto thee, that the sea may bee calme vnto vs? (for the sea wrought and was troublous)

12 And he sayd vnto them, Take me, and cast me into the sea: so shall the sea be calme vnto you: for I knowe, that for my sake this great tempest is vpon you.

13 Neuertheless, the men rowed to bring it to the land, but they could not: for the sea wrought, and was troublous against them.

14 Wherefore they cried vnto the Lord, and sayd, We beseech thee, O Lord, we beseech thee, let vs not perish for this mans life, and lay not vpon vs innocent blood: for thou, O Lord, hast done, as it pleased thee.

15 So they tooke vp Ionah, and cast him into the sea, & the sea ceased from her raging.

16 Then the men feared the Lorde exceedingly, and offered a sacrifice vnto the Lord, and made vowes.

17 Now the Lorde had prepared a great fish to swallow vp Ionah: and Ionah was in the m belly of the fish three dayes, and three nights.

f From that vocation whereunto God had called him, and wherein hee would haue assisted him.

g As one that would haue cast off this care and solicitude by seeking rest and quietnesse.

h As they had called on their idoles: which declareth that idolaters haue no stay nor certainetie, but in their troubles seeke they can not tel to whom.

i Which declareth that the matter was in great extremitie and doube, which thing, was Gods motion in them for the triall of the cause: and this may not be done but in matters of great importance.

k This declareth that the very wicked in their necessities flee vnto God for succour, and also that they are touched with a certaine feare to shead mans blood, whereas they know no manifest signe of wickednesse.

l They were touched with a certaine repentance of their life past, and began to worship the true God by whome they saw themselues so wonderfully deliuered: but this was done for feare and not of a pure heart and affection, neither according to Gods worde.

m Thus the Lorde would chastise his Prophet with a most terrible spectacle of death, and hereby also confirmed him of his fauour and support in this his charge which was inioyned him.

CHAP. II.

1 Ionah in the fishes belly. 3 His prayer. 10 He is deliuered.

THen Ionah prayed vnto the Lorde his God a out of the fishes belly,

2 And sayde, I cryed in mine affliction vnto the Lorde, and he heard me: out of the belly b of hell cryed I, and thou heardest my voyce.

3 For thou haddest cast me into the bottome in the mids of the sea, and the floodes compassed me about: all thy surges, and all thy waues passed ouer me.

4 Then I sayde, I am c cast away out of thy sight: yet will I looke againe toward thine holy Temple.

5 The waters compassed me about vnto the soule: the depth closed me round about, and the weedes were wrapt about mine head.

6 I went downe to the bottome of the mountaines: the earth with her barres was about mee for euer, yet hast thou brought vp my d life from the pit, O Lorde my God.

7 When my soule fainted within me, I remembred the Lord: and my prayer came vnto thee, into thine holy Temple.

8 They that waite vpon lying e vanities, forsake their owne f mercie.

9 But I will sacrifice vnto thee with the voyce of thanksgiuing, and will pay that that I haue vowed: saluation is of the Lord.

10 And the Lord spake vnto the fish, and it cast out Ionah vpon the dry land.

a Being nowe swallowed vp of death, and seeing no remedy to escape, his faith brast out vnto the Lord, knowing that out of the very hell he was able to deliuer him.

b For hee was now in the fishes belly as in a graue or place of darknesse.

c This declared what his prayer was, and howe he laboured betweene hope and despaire, considering the neglect of his vocation, and Gods iudgements for the same: but yet in the ende faith gate the victorie.

d Thou hast deliuered me from the belly of the fish, and all these dangers, as it were rayfing me from death to life.

e They that depend vpon any thing saue on God alone.

f They refuse their owne felicitie, and that goodnesse which they shoulde else receiue of God.

CHAP. III.

1 Ionah is sent againe to Nineueh, 5 The repentance of the king of Nineueh.

AND the worde of the Lorde came vnto a Ionah the second time, saying,

2 Arise, goe vnto Nineueh that great citie, and preach vnto it the preaching, which I bid thee.

3 So Ionah arose and went to Nineueh according to the word of the Lord: now Nineueh was a b great and excellent citie of three dayes iourney.

4 And Ionah began to enter into the citie a c dayes iourney, and he cryed, and sayd, Yet fourtie dayes, and Nineueh shall bee ouerthrowen.

5 So the people of Nineueh d beleeued God, and proclaimed a fast, and put on sackecloth from the greatest of them euen to the least of them.

6 For worde came vnto the king of Nineueh, and hee arose from his throne, and layed his robe from him, and couered him with sackecloth, and sate in ashes.

7 And he proclaimed and sayde through Nineueh, (by the counsell of the king and his nobles) saying, Let neither man, nor beast, bullocke nor sheepe taste any thing, neither feede nor drinke water.

8 But let man and beast put on sackcloth, a This is a great declaration of Gods mercy, that he receiueth him againe & sendeth him forth as his Prophet, which had before shewed so great infirmitie.

b Reade Chap. 1.2.

c He went forward one day in the citie, & preached, & so he cõtinued til the city was conuerted.

d For he declared that he was a Prophet sent to them from God to denounce his iudgements against them.

e Not that the dumbe beastes had sinned or could repent, but that by their example man might be astonished, considering that for his sinne the angel of God hanged ouer all creatures.

cloth, and f cry mightily vnto God: yea, let euery man turne from his euill way, and from the wickednesse that is in their hands.

9 g Who can tell if God will turne, and repent and turne away from his fierce wrath, that we perish not?

10 And God sawe their h workes that they turned frō their euill wayes: and i God repented of the euil that hee had sayde that he would doe vnto them, and hee did it not.

f He willed, that the men should earnestly call vnto God for mercie.

g For partly by the threatning of the Prophet, and partly by the motion of his own conscience, hee doubted whether God woulde shewe them mercie.

h That is, the fruites of their repentance, which did proceed of faith which God had planted by the ministerie of his Prophet.

i Reade Ieremie 18,8.

CHAP. IIII.

The great goodnesse of God toward his creatures.

THerefore it displeased a Ionah exceedingly, and he was angrie.

2 And he prayed vnto the Lord, and said, I pray thee, O Lord, was not this my saying, when I was yet in my countrey? therefore I preuented it to flee vnto b Tarshish: for I knewe that thou art a gracious God, and mercifull, slowe to anger, and of great kindnesse, and repentest thee of the euill.

3 Therefore nowe, O Lorde, take, I beseech thee, my life c from mee: for it is better for me to die, then to liue.

4 Then sayd the Lord, Doest thou well to be d angrie?

5 So Ionah went out of the citie and sate on the East side of the citie, and there made him a boothe, and sat vnder it in the shadowe e till he might see what should bee done in the citie.

6 And the Lord God prepared a f gourd, and made it to come vp ouer Ionah, that it might bee a shadowe ouer his head, and deliuer him from his griefe. So Ionah was exceeding glad of the gourde.

7 But God prepared a worme when the morning rose the next day: and it smote the gourde, that it withered.

8 And when the sunne did arise, God prepared also a feruent Eastwinde: and the sunne beat vpon the head of Ionah, that hee fainted, and wished in his heart to die, and sayde, It is better for mee to die, then to liue.

9 And God said vnto Ionah, Doest thou wel to be angry for the gourd? And he sayd, I doe wel to be g angry vnto the death.

10 Then sayde the Lord, Thou hast had pitie on the gourd for the which thou hast not laboured, neither madest it growe, which came vp in a night, and perished in a night, 11 And shoulde h not I spare Nineueh that great citie, wherein are fiue score thousande persons, that i cannot discerne betweene their right hand, and their left hand, and also much cattell?

e For he douted as yet whether God would shew them mercie or no: and therefore after fourtie dayes he departed out of the citie, looking what issue God would send.

f Which was a further meanes, to couer him from the heate of the sunne, as he remained in his boothe.

g This declareth the great inconueniences whereinto Gods seruants doe fall when they giue place to their owne affections, and do not in al things willingly submit themselues to God.

h Thus God mercifully reproueth him which would pitie himselfe and this gourde, and yet would restraine God to shewe his compassion to so many thousande people.

i Meaning, that they were children and infants.

a Because hereby he should be taken as a false prophet, and so the Name of God which he preached should be blasphemed.

b Reade Chap. 1.3.

c Thus he prayed of griefe, fearing lest Gods Name by this forgiuenesse might be blasphemed, as though he sent his prophets forth to denounce his iudgements in vaine.

d Wilt thou bee iudge when I doe things for my glorie, and when I doe not?

Micah.

THE ARGVMENT.

MIcah the Prophet of the tribe of Iudah serued in the worke of the Lord, concerning Iudah and Israel, at the least thirtie yeres: at what time Isaiah prophesied. He declareth the destruction, first of the one kingdome, and then of the other, because of their manifolde wickednesse, but chiefly for their idolatrie. And to this ende hee noteth the wickednesse of the people, the crueltie of the princes and gouernours, and the permission of the false prophets, and the delighting in them. Then hee setteth foorth the comming of Christ, his kingdome, and the felicitie thereof. This prophet was not that Micah, which resisted Ahab, and all his false prophets, as 1. King 22.8. but another of the same name.

CHAP. I.

1 The destruction of Iudah and Israel because of their idolatrie.

THe worde of the Lord, that came vnto Micah the a Morashthite in the dayes of Iotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah Kings of Iudah, which he sawe concerning Samaria and Ierusalem.

2 Heare, b all yee people: hearken thou, O earth, and all that therein is, and let the Lord God be witnesse against you, euen the Lord from his holy Temple.

3 For beholde, the Lorde commeth out of his place, and will come c downe, and treade vpon the hie places of the earth.

4 And the mountaines shall melt vnder him (so shall the valleys cleaue) as waxe before the fire, & as the waters that are powred downeward.

5 For the wickednes of Iaakob is al this, and for the sinnes of the house of Israel: what is the wickednesse of Iaakob? Is not d Samaria? and which are the hie e places of Iudah? Is not Ierusalem.

6 Therefore I will make Samaria as an heape of the fielde, and for the planting of a vineyarde, and I will caule the stones thereof to tumble downe into the valley, and I will discouer the foundations thereof.

7 And al the grauen images thereof shall be broken, and all the f gifts thereof shall be burnt a Borne in Mareshah a citie of Iudah.

b Because of the malice and obstinacie of the people whom he had so oft exhorted to repentance, he summoneth them to Gods iudgements, taking all creatures, and God himselfe to witnesse, that the preaching of his Prophets, which they haue abused, shal be reuenged.

c Meaning hereby that God will come to iudgement against the strong cities and holdes.

d Samaria which should haue bene an example to all Israel of true religion & iustice, was the puddle and stewes of idolatrie and corruption, and boasted themselues of their father Iaakob.

e That is, the idolatrie and infection.

f Which they gathered by euill practises, and thought that their idoles had enriched them therewith for their seruice vnto them.

burnt with the fire, and all the idoles therof will I destroy: for the gathereth it of the hyre of an harlot, and they shall returne s to the wages of an harlot.

8 Therefore I will mourne and howle: I will goe without clothes, and naked: I will make lamentation like the dragons, and mourning as the ostriches.

9 For her plagues are grieuous: for it is come into Judah: the enemie is come vnto the gate of my people, vnto Ierusalem.

10 Declare yee it not at h Gath, neyther weepe yee: for the house of i Aphrah rolle thy selfe in the dust.

11 Thou that dwellest at k Shaphir, goe together naked with shame: the that dwelleth at Zaanan, shall not come forth in the mourning of Beth-ezel: the enemie shall l receiue of you for his standing.

12 For the inhabitant of Maroth waited for good, but euill came from the Lorde vnto the m gate of Ierusalem.

13 O thou inhabitant of Lachish, binde the charet to the beastes n of price: thee o is the beginning of the sinne to the daughter of Zion: for the trangressions of Israel were found in thee.

14 Therefore shalt thou giue presentes to Moresheth p Gath: the houses of Achzib shalbe as a lie to the kings of Israel.

15 Yet will I bring an q heire vnto thee, O inhabitant of Mareshah, hee shall come vnto Adullam, r the glory of Israel.

16 Make thee balde: and shaue thee for thy delicate children: enlarge thy baldnesse as the egle, for they are gone into captiuitie from thee.

s Ye shall haue no more lands to deuide, as you had in times past, and as you vsed to measure them in the Iubile.

d Thus the people warne the Prophets that they speake to them no more: for they cannot abide their threatnings.

e God saith, that they shall not prophecie, nor receiue no more of their rebukes nor taunts.

f Are these your workes according to his law?

g Doe not the godly finde my wordes comfortable?

h That is, aforetime.

i The poore can haue no commoditie by them, but they spoyle them, as though they were enemies.

k That is, their substance and liuing, which is Gods blessing, & as it were, part of his glory.

l Ierusalem shall not bee your safegard: but the cause of your destruction.

m That is, shewe himselfe to be a Prophet.

n He sheweth what prophets they delite in: that is, in flatterers, which tell them pleasant tales, and speake of their commodities.

o To destroy thee.

p The enemie shall breake their gates and walles, and leade them into Caldea.

q To driue them forward, and to helpe their enemies.

g The gaine that came by their idols, shalbe consumed as a thing of nought: for as the wages or riches of harlots are wickedly gotten, so are they vilely and speedily spent.

h Lest the Philistims our enemies reioyce at our destruction.

i Which was a citie neere to Ierusalem, Iosh. 18, 23. there called Ophrah, and signifieth dust: therefore he willeth them to mourne, & roule themselues in the dust, for their dustie citie.

k These were cities whereby the enemie should passe as he came to Iudah.

l He shall not depart before he hath ouercome you, and so you shall pay for his tarying.

m For Rabshakeh had shutte vp Ierusalem, that they coulde not send to succour them. n To flee away: for Sancherib laid siege first to that citie, and remained therein when he sent his captaines, and armie against Ierusalem. o Thou first receiuedst the idolatrie of Ieroboam, and so diddest infect Ierusalem. p Thou shalt bribe the Philistims thy neighbours, but they shall deceiue thee, as well as they of Ierusalem. q Hee prophecieth against his owne citie, and because it signified an heritage, he sayth that God would sende an heire to possesse it. r For so they thought them selues for the strength of their citie.

CHAP. II.

1 Threatnings against the wanton and deintie people. 6 They would teach the Prophets to preach.

WO vnto them, that imagine iniquitie, and worke wickednesse vpon their beddes: a when the morning is light they practise it because their hande ‡ hath power.

2 And they couet fieldes, and take them by violence, & houses, & take them away: so they oppresse a man and his house, euen a man and his heritage.

3 Therefore thus sayth the Lorde, Behold, against this famine haue I deuised a plague, whereout yee shall not plucke your neckes, and ye shall not goe so proudely, for this time is euill.

4 In that day shall they take vp a parable against you, and lament with a dolefull lamentation, and say, b We be vtterly wasted: hee hath changed the portion of my people: how hath hee taken it away to restore it vnto mee? hee hath deuided our fields.

5 Therefore thou shalt haue none that shall cast a corde by lot in c the Congregation of the Lord.

6 d They that prophecied, Prophecie ye not. e They shall not prophecie to them, neither shall they take shame.

7 O thou that art named the house of Iaakob, is the Spirite of the Lorde shortened? are these his workes? are not my wordes good vnto him g that walketh vprightly?

8 But he that was h yesterday my people, is risen vp on the other side, as against an enemie: they spoyle the i beautifull garment from them that passe by peaceably, as though they returned from the warre.

9 The women of my people haue ye cast out from their pleasant houses, and from their children haue yee taken away my glory continually.

10 Arise and depart, for this is not your l rest: because it is polluted, it shall destroy you, euen with a sore destruction.

11 If a man m walke in the Spirite, and woulde lye falsely, saying, n I will prophecie vnto thee of wine, and of strong drinke, he shall euen bee the prophet of this people.

12 I will surely o gather thee (whole O Iaakob): I will surely gather the remnant of Israel: I will put them together as the sheepe of Bozrah, euen as the flocke in the middes of their folde: the cities shall be full of bruite of the men.

13 The p breaker vp shall come vp before them: they shall breake out, and passe by the gate, & goe out by it, and their king shall goe before them, and the Lorde shall bee q vpon their heads.

CHAP. III.

1 Against the tyranny of princes & false prophets.

AND I said, Yeare, I pray you, O heads of Iaakob, and ye princes of the house of Israel: Shoulde not yee knowe a iudgement?

2 But they hate the good, and loue the euill: they plucke off their skinnes from them, and their flesh from their bones.

3 And they eat also the b flesh of my people, and flay off their skin from them, and they breake their bones, and chop them in peces, as for the potte, and as flesh within the raldron.

4 Then c shal they cry vnto the Lord, but he will not heare them: he will euen hide his face from them at that time, because they haue done wickedly in their workes.

a That thing which is iust and lawfull, both to gouerne my people aright, and also to discharge your owne conscience?

b The Prophet condemneth the wicked gouernours not only of couetousnesse, theft and murther, but compareth them to wolues, lyons and most cruell beastes. c That is, when I shall visite their wickednesse: for though I heare the godly before they crie, Isa. 65. 24: yet I will not heare these though they crie, Isa. 1. 15. ezekiel 8. 18. iames 2, 13. 1. pet. 3, 11, 12.

a Assoone as they rise, they execute their wicked deuices of the night, and according to their power hurt others.

b Thus the Iewes lament & say that there is no hope of restitution, seeing their possessions are deuided among the enemies.

They deuoure their substance, and then flatter them, promising that all shall goe well: but if one estraine from their bellies, then they inuent all wayes to mischiefe.

e As you haue loued to walke in darkenesse, & to prophecie lies, so God shall reward you with grosse blindnesse, and ignorance, so that when all others shall see the bright beames of Gods graces, ye shall as blinde men grope as in the night.

f When God shal discouer them to the worlde, they shalbe afraide to speake: for all shall knowe that they were but false prophets, and did belie the worde of God.

5 Thus saith the Lorde, Concerning the prophets that deceme my people, and [d] bite them with their teeth, and crie peace, but if a man put not into their mouthes, they prepare warre against him,

6 Therefore e night shall be vnto you for a vision, and darkenesse shalbe vnto you for a diuination, and the sonne shall goe downe ouer the prophets, and the day shalbe darke ouer them.

7 Then shall the Seers be ashamed, and the soothsayers confounded: yea, they shall all couer [f] their lippes, for they haue none answere of God.

8 Yet notwithstanding I am full [g] of power by the Spirite of the Lorde, and of iudgement, and of strength to declare vnto Iaakob his transgression, and to Israel his sinne.

9 Heare this, I pray you, yee heads of the house of Iaakob, and princes of the house of Israel: they abhorre iudgement, and peruert all equitie.

10 They build vp Zion with [h] blood, and Ierusalem with iniquitie.

11 The heads thereof iudge for rewards, and the Priestes thereof teach for hire, and the prophets thereof prophecie for money: yet will they [i] leane vpon the Lorde, and say, Is not the Lorde among vs? no euill can come vpon vs.

12 Therefore shall Zion for your sake be [k] plowed as a fielde, and Ierusalem shall bee an heape, and the mountaine of the House, as the hie places of the forest.

g The Prophet being assured of his vocation by the Spirit of God, setteth himselfe alone against all the wicked, shewing how God hath giuen him giftes, habilitie and knowledge to discerne betweene good and euill, and also constancie to reproue the sinnes of the people, and not to flatter them. h They build them houses by bribery, which he calleth blood and iniquitie. i They will say, that they are the people of God, and abuse his name, as a pretence to cloke their hypocrisie. k Reade Ieremiah 26, 18.

CHAP. IIII.

1 Of the kingdome of Christ, and felicitie of his Church.

BVt in the [a] last dayes it shall come to passe, that the mountaine of the House of the Lorde shalbe prepared in the toppe of the mountaines, and it shall bee exalted aboue the [b] hilles, & people shal flow vnto it.

2 Yea, many nations shall come & say, Come, and let vs goe vp to the mountaine of the Lorde, and to the house of the God of Iaakob, and he will [c] teach vs his wayes, and we will walke in his paths: for the Law shall goe forth of Zion, and the worde of the Lord from Ierusalem.

3 And he shall iudge among many people, and [d] rebuke mightie nations afarre off, and they shall breake their swordes into mattockes, & their speares into [e] sithes: nation shall not lift vp a sworde against nation, neither shall they [f] learne to fight any more.

4 But they shal sit euery man vnder his vine, and vnder his figge tree, and none shal make them afraide: for the mouth of the Lord of hostes hath spoken it.

f Reade Isa. 2.4.

5 For all people will walke [g] euery one in the name of his God, and wee will walke in the Name of the Lord our God, for euer and euer.

6 At the same day, saith the Lorde, will I gather her that halteth, and I will gather her that is cast out, and her that I haue afflicted.

7 And I will make her that halted, [h] a remnant, and her that was cast farre off, a mightie nation: and the Lorde shall reigne ouer them in Mount Zion, from hence forth euen for euer.

8 And thou, O [i] towre of the flocke, the strong holde of the daughter Zion, vnto thee shall it come, euen [k] the first dominion, and kingdome shall come to the daughter Ierusalem.

9 Nowe why doest thou crie out with lamentation? is [l] there no king in thee? is thy counseller perished? for sorowe hath taken thee, as a woman in trauaile.

10 Sorowe and mourne, O daughter Zion, like a woman in trauaile: for nowe shalt thou goe forth of the citie, and dwell in the fielde, and shalt goe into Babel, but there shalt thou bee deliuered: there the Lorde shall redeeme thee from the hand of thine enemies.

11 Nowe also many nations are gathered against thee, saying, Zion shall bee contemned, and our eye shal looke vpon Zion.

12 But they [m] knowe not the thoughts of the Lord: they vnderstand not his counsell, for he shall gather them as the sheaues in the barne.

13 Arise, and thresh, [n] O daughter Zion: for I will make thine horne yron, and I will make thine hooues brasse, and thou shalt breake in pieces many people: and I will consecrate their riches vnto the Lorde, and their substance vnto the ruler of the whole world.

g He sheweth that the people of God ought to remaine constant in their religion, albeit all the world should giue themselues to their superstition and idolatrie.

h I will cause that Israel, which is now as one lame & halting, and so almost destroyed, shall liue againe, and growe into a great people.

i Meaning, Ierusalem, where the Lords flocke was gathered.

k The flourishing state of the kingdome, as it was vnder Dauid and Salomon, which thing was accomplished to the Church by the comming of Christ.

l In the meane season he sheweth that they should endure great troubles and tentations, when they saw themselues neyther to haue king nor counsell.

m Hee sheweth that the faithfull ought not to measure Gods iudgements by the bragges & threatnings of the wicked, but thereby are admonished to lift vp their hearts to God to call for deliuerance.

n God giueth his Church this victorie, so oft as he ouercommeth their enemies: but the accomplishment hereof shall be at the last comming of Christ.

CHAP. V.

1 The destruction of Ierusalem. 2 The excellencie of Beth-leem.

NOw assemble thy garrisons, O daughter [a] of garrisons: hee hath layde siege against vs: they shall smite the iudge of Israel with a rodde vpon the cheeke.

2 And thou Beth-leem Ephrathah art [b] little to bee among the thousandes of Iudah, yet out of thee shall hee come forth vnto mee, that shall bee the ruler in a He forewarneth them of the dangers that shall come, before they enioy these comforts, shewing that forasmuch as Ierusalem was accustomed with her garisons to trouble others, the Lord woule now cause other garisons to vexe her, and that her Rulers should be smitten on the face most contemptuously. b For so the Iewes deuided their countrey, that for euery thousande there was a chiefe captaine: and because Beth leem was not able to make a thousand, he calleth it little, but yet God wil raise vp his captaine and gouernour therein: and thus it is not the least by reason of this benefite, as Matt. 2.6.

Israel: whose goings forth haue bene from the beginning and from euerlasting.

3 Therefore will he giue them vp, vntill the time that [d] thee which shall beare, shall trauaile: then the remnant of their brethren shall returne vnto the children of Israel.

4 And he shall [e] stande, and feede in the strength of the Lord, & in the maiestie of the Name of the Lord his God, and they shall dwell still: for now shall he bee magnified vnto the endes of the worlde.

5 And he [f] shalbe our peace when Assyrie shall come into our lande: when hee shall treade in our palaces, then shall we raise against him seuen shepheardes, and eight principall men.

6 And they shall destroy [g] Assyrie with the swoorde, and the land of Nimrod with their swoordes: thus shal he [h] deliuer vs from Assyrie, when he commeth into our lande, and when he shall treade within our borders.

7 And the [i] remnant of Iaakob shalbe among many people, as a dewe from the Lorde, and as the showres vpon the grasse, that waiteth not for man, nor hopeth in the sonnes of Adam.

8 And the remnant of Iaakob shalbe among the Gentiles, in the middes of many people, as the lyon among the beasts of the forest, and as the lyons whelpe among the flockes of sheepe, who when he goeth thorow, treadeth downe and teareth in pieces, and none can deliuer.

9 Thine hand shalbe lift vp vpon thine aduersaries, and all thine enemies shall be cut off.

10 And it shall come to passe in that day, saieth the Lorde, that I will cut off thine [k] horses out of the middes of thee, and I will destroy thy charets.

11 And I will cut off the cities of thy land, and ouerthrowe all thy strong holdes.

12 And I will cut off thine inchanters out of thine hande: and thou shalt haue no more southsayers.

13 Thine idoles also will I cut off, and thine images out of the midst of thee: and thou shalt no more worshippe the worke of thine handes.

14 And I will plucke vp thy groues out of the mids of thee: so will I destroy thine enemies.

15 And I will execute a vengeance in my wrath and indignation vpon the heathen, [l] which they haue not heard.

c He sheweth that the comming of Christ and all his wayes were appointed of God from all eternitie.

d He compareth the Iewes to women with childe, who for a time should haue great sorowes, but at length they should haue a comfortable deliuerance, Iohn.16.21.

e That is, Christs kingdome shalbe stable and euerlasting, and his people, as well the Gentiles as the Iewes shall dwell in safetie.

f This Messiah shall be a sufficient safegard for vs, & though y enemie inuade vs for a time, yet shal God stirre vp many which shall be able to deliuer vs.

g These whome God shall raise vp for the deliuerance of his Church, shall destroy all the enemies thereof, which are meant here by the Assyrians and Babylonians which were the chiefe at that time.

h By these gouernours will God deliuer vs when the enemy commeth into our land.

i This remnant or Church which God shall deliuer, shall onely depend on Gods power & defence, as doeth the grasse of the field, and not on the hope of man.

k I will destroy all things wherein thou putteſt thy confidence, as thy vaine confidence and idolatrie, and so will helpe thee.

l It shall be so terrible that the like hath not bene heard of.

CHAP. VI.

An exhortation to the dumme creatures to heare the iudgemēt against Israel being vnkinde. 6. VVhat maner of sacrifices doe please God.

HEarken ye nowe what the Lorde saieth, Arise thou, and contende before the [a] mountaines, and let the hilles heare thy voyce.

a He taketh the hie mountaines & had tockes to witnesse against the obstinacie of his people.

2 Heare ye, O mountaines, the Lordes quarell, and ye mightie foundations of the earth: for the Lord hath a quarell against his people, and he will pleade with Israel.

3 O my people, what haue I done vnto thee? or wherin haue I grieued thee? testifie against me.

4 Surely I [b] brought thee vp out of the land of Egypt, and redeemed thee out of þ house of seruants, and I haue sent before thee, Moses, Aaron, and Miriam.

5 O my people, remember nowe what Balak king of Moab had deuised, & what Balaam the sonne of Beor answered him, from [c] Shittim vnto Gilgal, that yee may know the [d] righteousnesse of the Lord.

6 Wherewith [e] shall I come before the Lorde, and bowe my selfe before the high God? Shall I come before him with burnt offerings, and with calues of a yere olde?

7 Will the Lorde be pleased with thousands of raimes, or with ten thousand riuers of oyle? shal I giue my [f] first borne for my transgression, euen the fruite of my body for the sinne of my soule?

8 He hath shewed thee, O man, what is good, and what the Lorde requireth of thee: [g] surely to doe iustly, and to loue mercie, and to humble thy selfe, to walke with thy God.

9 The Lordes voyce cryeth vnto the [h] citie, and the man of wisedome shall see thy name: Heare the rodde, and who hath appointed it.

10 Are yet the treasures of wickednesse in the house of the wicked, and the scant measure, that is abominable?

11 Shal I iustifie the wicked balances, and the bagge of deceitfull weights?

12 For the rich men [i] thereof are full of crueltie, and the inhabitants thereof haue spoken lyes, and their tongue is deceitfull in their mouth.

13 Therefore also will I make thee sicke in smiting thee, and in making thee desolate, because of thy sinnes.

14 Thou shalt eate & not be satisfied, and [k] thy casting downe shalbe in the middes of thee, and thou [l] shalt take holde, but shalt not deliuer: & that which thou deliuerest, will I giue vp to the swoorde.

15 Thou shalt sowe, but not reape: thou shalt treade the oliues, but thou shalt not anoynt thee with oyle, & make sweete wine, but shalt not drinke wine.

16 For the [m] statutes of Omri are kept, b I haue not hurt thee, but bestowed infinite benefits vpon thee.

c That is, remember my benefits from the beginning how I delivered you from Balaams curse, & also spared you from Shittim, which was in the plaine of Moab, til I brought you into the lande promised.

d That is, the trueth of his promise and his manifold benefites towarde you.

e Thus the people by hypocrisie aske how to please God, and are content to offer sacrifices, but will not chāge their liues.

f There is nothing so deare to man, but the hypocrites wil offer it vnto God, if they thinke therby to auoyde his anger: but they will neuer bee brought to mortifie their owne affections and to giue themselues willingly to serue God as he commandeth.

g The Prophet in few words calleth them to the obseruation of þ second table, to know if they will obey God aright or no, saying that God hath prescribed them to doe this.

h Meaning, that when God speaketh to anie Citie or nation, the godly will acknowledge his maiestie, and consider not the mortall man that bringeth the threatning, but God that sendeth it.

i That is, of Ierusalem.

k Thou shalt be consumed with inward griefe and euilles.

l Meaning, that the citie should goe about to saue her men, as they that lay hold on that which they would preserue.

m You haue receiued all the corruption and idolatrie, wherewith the tenne tribes were infected vnder Omri and Ahab his sonne: and to excuse your doings, you alleadge the kings authoritie by his statutes and also wisedome and policie in so doing, but & you shal not escape punishment: but as I haue shewed you great fauour, and taken you for my people, so shall your plagues be accordingly, Luke 12.47.

and all the maner of the house of Ahab, and ye walke in their counsels, that I should make thee waste, and the inhabitants thereof an hissing: therefore ye shal beare the reproche of my people.

CHAP. VII.

1 A complaint for the smal nomber of the righteous. 4 The wickednesse of those times. 14 The prosperitie of the Church.

a The Prophet taketh vpon him the person of the earth, which complaineth that all her fruites are gone, so that none is left: that is, that there is no godly man remaining: for all are giuen to crueltie & deceit, so that none spareth his owne brother.

b He sheweth that the Prince, the iudge, & the rich man are linked together, all to do euil and to cloke the doings one of an other.

c That is, the rich man that is able to giue money, abstaineth from no wickednes nor iniurie.

d These men agree among themselues and conspire with one consent to doe euill.

e They that are of most estimation and are counted most honest among them, are but thornes and briers to pricke.

f Meaning, of the Prophets and gouernours.

g The Prophet sheweth that the onely remedie for the godly in desperate euils, is to flee vnto God for succour.

h This is spoken in the person of the Church, which calleth the malignant Church her enemie.

VVOe is me, for I am as a the sommer gatherings, and as the grapes of the vintage: there is no cluster to eate: my soule desired the first ripe fruites.

2 The good man is perished out of the earth, and there is none righteous among men: b they all lie in waite for blood: euery man hunteth his brother with a net.

3 To make good for the euill of their handes, the prince asked, and the iudge iudgeth for a reward: therefore the c great man he speaketh out the corruption of his soule: so d they wrap it vp.

4 The best of them is as e a briar, & the most righteous of them is sharper then a thorne hedge: the day of f thy watchmen and thy visitation commeth: then shall bee their confusion.

5 Trust ye not in a friend, neither put ye confidence in a counseller: keepe the doores of thy mouth from her that lyeth in thy bosome.

6 For the sonne reuileth the father: the daughter riseth vp against her mother: the daughter in law against her mother in law, and a mans enemies are the men of his owne house.

7 Therefore g I will looke vnto the Lord: I will waite for God my Sauiour: my God will heare me.

8 Reioyce not against me, h O mine enemie: though I fall, I shall arise: when I shall sit in darkenesse, the Lord shal be a light vnto me.

9 I will beare the wrath of the Lord because I haue sinned against him, vntill hee pleade my cause, and execute iudgement for me: then will he bring me forth to the light, and I shall see his righteousnesse.

10 Then shee that is mine enemie, shall looke vpon it, and shame shall couer her, which saide vnto mee, Where is the Lorde thy God? Mine eyes shall behold her: now shall shee be troden downe as the mire of the streetes.

11 This is i the day, that thy walles shalbe built: this day shall time farre away k the decree.

12 In this day also they shall come vnto thee from l Ashur, and from the strong cities, and from the strong holdes euen vnto the ruer, and from sea to sea, & from mountaine to mountaine.

13 Notwithstanding, the land shalbe desolate because of them that dwell therein, & for the fruites of m their inuentions.

14 n Feede thy people with thy rod, the flocke of thine heritage (which dwell solitarie in the wood) as in the middes of Carmel: let them feede in Bashan and Gilead, as in olde time.

15 o According to the dayes of thy comming out of the land of Egypt, wil I shew vnto him marueilous thinges.

16 The nations shall see, and be confounded for all their power: they shal p lay their hand vpon their mouth: q their eares shall be deafe.

17 They shal r licke the dust like a serpent: they shall moone out of their holes like wormes: they shall be afraide of the Lorde our God, and shall feare because of thee.

18 Who is a God like vnto thee, that taketh away iniquitie, and s passeth by the transgression of the remnant of his heritage? He retaineth not his wrath for euer, because mercie pleaseth him.

19 He will turne againe, & haue compassion vpon vs: he wil subdue our iniquities, and cast all t their sinnes into the bottome of the sea.

20 Thou wilt performe thy u trueth to Iaakob, and mercie to Abraham, as thou hast sworne to our fathers in olde time.

i To wit, when God shall shewe himself a deliuerer of his Church, and a destroyer of his enemies.

k Meaning, the cruell empire of the Babylonians.

l When the Church shall be restored, they that were enemies afore, shall come out of all the corners of the worlde vnto her, so that neither holdes, riuers, seas, nor mountaines shall be able to let them.

m Afore this grace appeare, he sheweth howe grieuously the hypocrites themselues shall be punished, seeing that the earth itselfe, which can not sinne, shalbe made waste because of their wickednesse.

n The Prophet pray eth to God to be mercifull vnto his Church, when they should be scattered abroad as in solitarie places in Babylon, and to be beneficiall vnto them, as in time past.

o God promiseth to be fauourable to his people as he had bene aforetime.

p They shall be as dumme men and dare bragge no more.

q They shall be astonished, and afraide to heare men speake, least they should heare of their destruction.

r They shall fall flat on the grounde for feare.

s As though he would not see it, but winke at it.

t Meaning, of his elect.

u The Church is assured, that God will declare in effect the trueth of his mercifull promise, which hee had made of olde to Abraham, and to all that shoulde apprehende the promise by faith.

Nahum.

THE ARGVMENT.

AS they of Nineueh shewed themselues prompt and ready to receiue the worde of God at Ionahs preaching, and so turned to the Lord by repentance: so after a certaine time rather giuing themselues to worldly meanes to increase their dominion, then seeking to continue in the feare of God, and trade wherein they had begunne, they cast off the care of religion, and so returned to their vomite, and prouoked Gods iust iudgement against them, in afflicting his people. Therefore their citie Nineueh was destroyed, and Meroch-baladan King of Babel (or as some thinke Nebuchad-nezzar) enioyed the empire of the Assirians. But because God hath a continuall care of his Church, he stirreth vp his Prophet to comfort the godly, shewing that the destruction of their enemies should be for their consolation. And as it seemeth, he prophecied about the time of Hezekiah, and not in the time of Manasseth his sonne, as the Iewes write.

CHAP.

CHAP. I.

Of the destruction of the Assyrians, and of the deliuerance of Israel.

THe a burden of Nineueh. b The booke of the vision of Nahum the c Elkeshite.

2 God is d iealous, and the Lord reuengeth: the Lord reuengeth: euen the Lord e of anger, the Lorde will take vengeance on his aduersaries, and hee reserueth wrath for his enemies.

3 The f Lorde is slowe to anger, but hee is great in power, and will not surely cleare the wicked: the Lorde hath his way in the whirle winde, and in the storme, and the cloudes are the dust of his feete.

4 He rebuketh the sea, and dryeth it, and he dryeth vp all the riuers: Bashan is wasted and Carmel, and the floure of Lebanon is wasted.

5 The mountaines tremble for him, and the hilles melt, and the earth is burnt at his sight, yea, the world, and all that dwell therein.

6 g Who can stande before his wrath? or who can abide in the fiercenesse of his wrath? his wrath is powred out like fire, and the rockes are broken by him.

7 The Lord is good h and as a strong hold in the day of trouble, and he knoweth them that trust in him.

8 But passing ouer as with a flood, hee will vtterly destroy the i place thereof, and darkenesse shall pursue his enemies.

9 What doe yee k imagine against the Lord? he will make an vtter destruction: affliction shall not rise vp the second time.

10 For he shall come as vnto l thornes folden one in another, and as vnto drunkards in their drunkennesse: they shalbe deuoured as stubble fully dried.

11 There m commeth one out of thee that imagineth euill against the Lorde, euen a wicked counsellour.

12 Thus saith the Lorde, Though they be n quiet, and also many, yet thus shal they bee cut off when hee shall passe by: though I haue afflicted thee, I will afflict thee no more.

13 For now I will breake his yoke from thee, and will burst thy bonds in sunder.

14 And the Lord hath giuen a commandement concerning thee, that no more of thy name be o sowen: out of the house of thy gods will I cut off the grauen, and the molten image: I will make it thy graue for thee, for thou art vile.

15. * Beholde, vpon the mountaines the feete of him that declareth, and publisheth p peace: O Iudah, keepe thy solemne feasts, perfourme thy vowes: for the wicked shal no more passe through thee: hee is vtterly cut off.

a Reade Isa. 13.1.
b The vision or reuelation, which God commanded Nahum to write concerning the Nineuites.
c That is, borne in a poore village in the tribe of Simeon.
d Meaning, of his glorie.
e With his, he is but angrie for a time, but his anger neuer aswageth toward the reprobate, though for a time he deferre it.
f Thus the wicked woulde make Gods mercie an occasion to sinne, but the Prophet willeth them to consider his force and iustice.
g If all creatures bee at Gods commandement and none is able to resist his wrath, shall man flatter himselfe and thinke by any meanes to escape when he prouoketh his God to anger?
h Lest the faithfull shoulde be discouraged by hearing the power of God, he sheweth them that his mercies apperteine vnto them, and that hee hath care ouer them.
i Signifying, that God will suddenly destroy Nineueh, and the Assyrians, in such sort, as they shall lie in perpetuall darkenesse, and neuer recouer their strength againe.
k He sheweth that the enterprises of the Assyrians against Iudah and the Church, were against God, and therefore he woulde so destroy them at once, that hee shoulde not neede to returne the second time.
l Though the Assyrians thinke themselues like thornes that pricke on all sides, yet the Lorde will set fire on them, and as drunken men are not able to stande against any force, so they shall bee nothing able to resist him.
m Which may bee vnderstand either of Sanecherib, or of the whole body of the people of Nineueh.
n Though they thinke themselues in most safetie, and of greatest strength, yet when God shall passe by, hee will destroy them: notwithstanding he comforteth his Church, and promiseth to make an ende of punishing them by the Assyrians.
o Meaning Sanecherib, who should haue no more children, but be slaine in the house of his gods, 2. King. 19. 36, 37.
Isaiah 52.7, rom. 10.15.
p Which peace the Iewes shoulde enioy by the death of Sanecherib.

CHAP. II.

Hee describeth the victories of the Caldeans against the Assyrians.

THe a destroyer is come before thy face: keepe the munition: looke to the way: make thy loines strong: increase thy strength mightily.

2 For the Lorde hath b turned away the glory of Iaakob, as the glory of Israel: for the emptiers haue emptied them out, and c marred their vine braunches.

3 The shield of his mightie men is made redde: d the valiant men are in scarlet: the charets shall bee as in the fire and flames in the day of his preparation, and e the firre trees shall tremble.

4 The charets shall rage in the streetes: they shall runne to and fro in the hie waies: they shal seeme like lampes: they shal shoot like the lightning.

5 f Hee shall remember his strong men: they shall stumble as they goe: they shall make haste to the walles thereof, and the fence shalbe prepared.

6 The gates of the riuers shalbe opened, and the palace shall melt.

7 And Huzzab the Queene shall be led away captiue, and her maides shal leade her as with the voyce of doues, smiting vpon their breasts.

8 But Nineueh is g of olde like a poole of water: yet they shall flee away. Stand, stande, shall they crie: but none shall looke backe.

9 h Spoyle ye the siluer, spoyle the gold: for there is none ende of the store, and glorie of all the pleasant vessels.

10 i She is emptie and voyd, and waste, and the heart melteth, and the knees smite together, and sorow is in all loynes, and the faces k of them all gather blacknesse.

11 Where is the l dwelling of the lions, and the pasture of the lions whelps? where the lyon, and the lyoneesse walked, and the lions whelpe, and none made them afraid.

12 The lyon did teare in pieces ynough for his whelpes, and wooed for his lioneesse, and filled his holes with pray, & his dennes with spoyle.

a That is, Nebuchad nezzar is in a readinesse to destroy the Assyrians: and the Prophet derideth the enterprises of the Assyrians, which prepared to resist him.
b Seeing God hath punished his owne people Iudah and Israel, he will now punish the enemies by whome he scourged them: reade Isa. 10. 12.
c Signifying, that the Israelites were vtterly destroyed.
d Both to feare the enemie, and also that they themselues should not so soone espie blood one after another to discourage them.
e Meaning, their speares shoulde shake and crash together.
f Then the Assyrians shall seeke by all meanes to gather their power, but all things shall faile them.
g The Assyrians will flatter themselues and say that Nineueh is so ancient that it can neuer perish, and is as a fishpoole, whose waters they that walke on the bankes cannot touch, but they shall bee scattered, and shall not looke backe though men woulde call them.
h God commandeth the enemies to spoyle Nineueh, and promiseth them infinite riches and treasure.
i That is, Nineueh and the men thereof shalbe after this sort.
k Reade Ioel 2.6.
l Meaning, Nineueh, whose inhabitants were cruell like the lyons, and giuen to all oppression, and spared no violence or tyrannie to prouide for their wiues and children.

13 Behold,

13 Beholde, I come vnto thee, ſaith the Lord of hoſts, and I will burne her charets m the m ſmoke, and the ſword ſhall deuoure thy yong lions, and I wil cut off thy ſpoile from the earth, and the voyce of thy meſ-ſengers ſhall no more be heard.

m That is, as ſoone as my wrath beginneth to kindle.

n Signifying the heraldes, which were accuſtomed to proclaime warre. Some reade of thy gum teeth, wherewith Nineueh was wont to bruiſe the bones of the poore.

CHAP. III.

1 Of the fall of Nineueh. 8 No power can eſcape the hand of God.

O Bloodie citie, it is all full of lies, and robberie: a the prey departeth not:

a It neuer ceaſeth to ſpoyle and robbe.

2 The noyſe of a whip, b and the noyſe of the mouing of the wheeles, and the beating of the horſes, and the leaping of the charets.

b He ſheweth how the Caldeans ſhall haſte, and howe couragious their horſes ſhalbe in beating the ground when they come againſt the Aſſyrians.

3 The horſeman lifteth vp both the bright ſword, and the glittering ſpeare, and a multitude is ſlaine, and the dead bodies are maſſy: there is none ende of their corpſes: they ſtumble vpon their corpſes,

4 Becauſe of the multitude of the fornications of the c harlot that is beautifull, and is a miſtreſſe of witchcraft, and ſelleth the people through her whoredome, and the nations through her witchcrafts.

c He compareth Nineueh to an harlot, which by her beautie and ſubtiltie entiſeth yong men, and bringeth them to deſtruction.

5 Beholde, I come vpon thee, ſaieth the Lord of hoſts, and will diſcouer thy ſkirtes vpon thy face, & I will ſhew the nations thy filthineſſe, and the kingdomes thy ſhame.

6 And I will caſt filth vpon thee, & make thee vile, and will ſet thee as a gaſſing ſtocke.

7 And it ſhall come to paſſe, that all they that looke vpon thee, ſhall flee from thee, and ſay, Nineueh is deſtroyed, who will haue pitie vpon her? where ſhall I ſeeke comforters for thee?

8 Art thou better then d No, which was full of people? that lay in the riuers, and had the waters round about it? whoſe ditch was the ſea, and her wall was from the ſea?

d Meaning, Alexandria, which was in league with ſo many nations, and yet was now deſtroyed.

9 Ethiopia and Egypt were her ſtrength, and there was none ende: Put and Lubim were ‖ her helpers.

‖ Or, ſhine.

10 Yet was ſhee caried away, and went into captiuitie: her yong children alſo were dalhed in pieces at the head of all the ſtreets: and they caſt lots for her noble men, and all her mightie men were bound in chaines.

11 Alſo thou ſhalt be dronken, thou ſhalt hide thy ſelfe, and ſhalt ſeeke helpe, becauſe of the enemie.

12 All thy ſtrong cities ſhalbe like fig trees with the firſt ripe figges: for if they be ſhaken, they fall into the mouth of the eater.

13 Beholde, thy people within thee are women: the gates of thy land ſhall be opened vnto thine enemies, and the fire ſhall deuoure thy barres.

14 Drawe the waters for the ſiege: fortifie thy ſtrong holdes: go into the clay, and temper the morter: make ſtrong bricke.

15 There ſhall the fire deuoure thee: the ſword ſhall cut thee off: it ſhall eate thee vp like the e locuſtes, though thou be multiplied like the locuſtes, and multiplied like the graſhopper.

e Signifying that Gods iudgements ſhall ſuddenly deſtroy the Aſſyrians, as theſe vermine are with rame or change of weather.

16 Thou haſt multiplied thy marchants aboue the ſtarres of heauen: the locuſt ſpoyleth and flieth away.

17 Thy princes are as the graſhoppers, and thy captaines as the great graſhoppers which remaine in the hedges in the colde day: but when the ſunne ariſeth, they flee away and their place is not knowen where they are.

18 Thy f ſhepheards doe ſleepe, O King of Aſſhur: thy ſtrong men lie downe: thy people is ſcattered vpon the mountaines, and no man gathereth them.

f Thy princes and counſellers.

19 There is no healing of thy wounde: thy plague is grieuous: all that heare the bruite of thee, ſhall clap the hands ouer thee: for vpon g whom hath not thy malice paſſed continually?

g Meaning, that there was no people to whom the Aſſyrians had not done hurt.

Habakkuk.

THE ARGVMENT.

THe Prophet complaineth vnto God, conſidering the great felicitie of the wicked, and the miſerable oppreſſion of the godly, which endure al kinde of affliction and crueltie, and yet can ſee none ende. Therefore he had this reuelation ſhewed him of God, that the Caldeans ſhoulde come and take them away captiues, ſo that they could looke for none ende of their troubles as yet, becauſe of their ſtubburneſſe and rebellion againſt the Lord. And leaſt the godly ſhould deſpaire, ſeeing this horrible confuſion, he comforteth them by this that God will puniſh the Caldeans their enemies, when their pride and crueltie ſhall be at height: wherefore he exhorteth the faithfull to patience by his owne example, and ſheweth them a forme of prayer, wherewith they ſhould comfort themſelues.

CHAP. I.

2 A complaint againſt the wicked that perſecute the iuſt.

a The Prophet complaineth vnto God, and bewaileth that among the Iewes is left none equitie nor brotherly loue: but in ſtead hereof reigneth crueltie, theft, contention and ſtrife.

THe burden, which Habakkuk the Prophet did ſee.

2 O Lord, how long ſhall I crie, and thou wilt not heare! euen crie out vnto thee a for violence, and thou wilt not help!

3 Why doeſt thou ſhew me iniquitie, and cauſe me to beholde ſorowe? for ſpoyling, and violence are before mee: and there are that raiſe vp ſtrife and contention.

4 Therefore the lawe is diſſolued, and iudgement doth neuer go forth: for the wicked doeth b compaſſe about the righteous: therefore c wrong iudgement proceedeth.

b To ſuppreſſe him if any ſhould ſhewe himſelfe zealous of Gods cauſe.

5 Beholde among the heathen, and regard, and wonder, and marueile: for I will worke a worke in your dayes: ye will not beleeue it, though it be told you.

c Becauſe the iudges which ſhould redreſſe this exceſſe, are as euill as the reſt.

6 For loe, I raiſe vp the Caldeans, that bitter and furious nation, which ſhall goe vpon the breadth of the land to poſſeſſe the dwelling places, that are not theirs.

d As in times paſt you woulde not beleeue Gods word, ſo ſhall ye not nowe beleeue the ſtrange plagues which are at hand.

7 They are terrible and fearefull: c their iudgement and their dignitie shall proceede of themselues.

8 Their horses also are swifter then the leopardes, & are more fierce then þ wolues in the * euening: & their horsemen are mainly: & their horsemen shall come from farre: they shall flie as the eagle hasting to meate.

9 They come all to spoile: before their faces shalbe an f East winde, and they shall gather the captiuitie, as the g sand.

10 And they shall mocke the kings, and the princes shall bee a scorne vnto them: they shal deride euery strong holde: for they shall gather h dust, and take it.

11 Then shall they i take a courage, and transgresse and doe wickedly, imputing this their power vnto their god.

12 Art not thou of old, O Lord my God, mine holy one? we shall k not die: O Lord, þ hast ordeined the for iudgement, & O God, thou hast established them for correction.

13 Thou art of pure eies, & canst not see euill: þ canst not behold wickednes: wherefore doest thou looke vpon þ transgressors, & holdest thy tongue, when þ wicked deuoureth the man, þ is more righteous then he?

14 And makest men as the l fishes of the sea, and as the creeping things, that haue no ruler ouer them.

15 They take vp all with the angle: they catch it in their net, and gather it in their parne, wherefore they reioyce and are glad.

16 Therfore they sacrifice vnto their m net & burne incense vnto their parne, because by them their portion is fat, and their meate plentious.

17 Shal they therfore stretch out their net & not spare continually to slay n þ nations?

c They themselues shall be your iudges in this cause, and none shall haue authoritie ouer them to controll them. Zeph. 3. 3.

f For the Iewes most feared this winde, because it destroyed their fruites.

g They shall be so many in number.

h They shal cast vp mounts against it.

i The Prophet comforteth the faithfull ỹ God wil also destroy ỹ Babylonians, because they shall abuse this victory & become proud and insolent, attributing the praise hereof to their idoles.

k He assureth the godly of Gods protection, shewing that the enemie can doe no more then God hath appointed, and also that their sinnes required such a sharpe rod.

l So that the great deuoureth the small, and the Caldeans destroy all the world.

m Meaning, that the enemies flatter themselues, and glory in their owne force, power, and wit.

n Meaning, that they should not.

CHAP. II.

2 A vision, 5 against pride, couetousnesse, drunkennesse, and idolatrie.

I Will stand vpon my a watch, and set me vpon the towre, & will looke & see what he would say vnto me, & what I shall answere to him that rebuketh me.

2 And the Lord answered me, and saide, Write the vision, & make it plaine vpon tables, that he may runne d that readeth it,

3 For the vision is yet for an appointed time, but at the e last it shall speake, and not lye: though it tarie, waite: for it shal surely come, and shall not stay.

4 Beholde, d he that lifteth vp himselfe, his minde is not vpright in him, but the iust shall liue by his faith,

5 Yea, in deede the proude man is as e hee that transgresseth by wine: therefore shal he not endure, because he hath enlarged his desire as the hell, and is as death, & cannot be satisfied, but gathereth vnto him all nations, and heapeth vnto him all people.

6 Shall not all these take vp a parable against him, & a taunting prouerbe against him, and say, Vo, hee that increaseth that which is not his? how long? and hee that ladeth himselfe with thicke clay?

7 Shall they not rise vp suddenly, that shall bite thee? and awake, that shall vexe thee? and thou shalt be their pray?

8 Because thou hast spoiled many nations, all the remnant of the people shall spoile thee, because of mens blood, and for the wrong done in the land, in the citie, and vnto all that dwell therein.

9 Vo, he that coueteth an euill couetousnesse to his house, that he may set his nest on hie, to escape from the power of euill.

10 Thou h hast consulted shame to thine owne house by destroying many people, & hast sinned against thine owne soule.

11 For the i stone shall cry out of the wall, and the beame out of the timber shall answere it.

12 Wo vnto him that buildeth a towne with blood, and erecteth a citie by iniquitie.

13 Behold, is it not of the k Lord of hosts that the people shall labour in the very fire? the people shall euen wearie themselues for very vanitie.

14 For the earth shall l be filled with the knowledge of the glory of the Lorde, as the waters couer the sea.

15 Wo vnto him that giueth his neighbour m drinke: thou powrest thine heate, and makest him drunken also, that thou mayest see their priuities.

16 Thou art filled with shame o for glory: drinke thou also, and be made naked: the cuppe of the Lords right hand shall be turned vnto thee, and shamefull spuing shall be for thy glory.

17 For the o crueltie of Lebanon shall couer thee: so shall the spoile of the beasts which made them afraid, because of mens blood, and for the wrong done in the land, in the citie, and vnto all that dwell therein.

18 What profiteth the p image? for the maker thereof hath made it an image, and a teacher of lies, though he that made it, trust therein, when he maketh dumme idoles.

19 Woe vnto him that saieth to the wood, Awake, and to the dumme stone, Rise vp, it shall teach thee: q beholde, it is layde a I wil renounce mine own iudgement, & only depend on God to be instructed what I shall answere them that abuse my preaching, and to be armed against all tentations.

b Write in great letters, that he that runneth, may reade it.

c Which conteined the destruction of the enemie, & the comfort of the Church: which thing though God execute not according to mans hastie affections, yet the issue of both is certaine at his time appointed. d To trust in himselfe or in any worldly thing, is neuer to be quiet: for the onely rest is to stay vpon God by faith, Rom. 1. 17. gal. 3. 11. heb. 10. 38. e He compareth the proude and couetous man to a drunkard that is without reason and sense, whom God will punish & make him a laughing stocke to all the worlde: and this he speaketh for the comfort of the godly, and against the Caldeans.

f Signifying, that al the world shal with the destruction of tyrants, and that by their oppression and couetousnes, they heape but vpon themselues more heauie burdens: for the more they get, the more are they troubled.

g That is, the Medes & Persians, that should destroy the Babylonians.

h Signifying, that the couetous man is the ruine of his owne house, when as he thinketh to enrich it by crueltie and oppression.

i The stones of the house shall cry, and say that they are built of blood, and the wood shall answere and say the same of it selfe.

k Meaning, that God will not defere his vengeance long, but will come and destroy all their labours, as though they were consumed with fire.

l In the destruction of the Babylonians his glory shall appeare through all the world.

m He reproacheth thus the King of Babylon, who as he was drunken with couetousnesse & crueltie, so he prouoked others to the same, & inflamed them by his rage, and so in the end brought them to shame.

n Whereas thou thoughtest to haue glory of these thy doings, they shall turne to thy shame: for thou shalt drinke of the same cup with others in thy name.

o Because the Babylonians were cruell not onely against other nations, but also against the people of God, which is meant by Lebanon, and the beastes therein, he sheweth that the like crueltie shall be executed against them.

p He sheweth that the Babylonians gods could nothing availe them: for they were but blockes and stones, reade Ierem. 10. 8.

q If thou wilt consider what it is, and howe that it hath neither breath nor life, but is a dead thing.

ouer with golde and siluer, and there is no breath in it.

CHAP. III.

A prayer for the faithfull.

a The Prophet instructeth his people to pray vnto God not onely for their great sinnes, but also for such as they had committed of ignorance.

A Prayer of Habakkuk the Prophet for the a ignorances.

2 b O Lord, I haue heard thy voyce, and was afrayde: O Lorde, reuiue thy c worke in the middes of the people, in the middes of the peeres make it knowen: in wrath remember mercie.

b Thus the people were afrayd when they heard Gods threatnings, & prayed.

c That is, the state of thy Church which is now ready to perish, before it come to halfe a perfect age, which should be vnder Christ.

3 God commeth from d Teman, and the holy one from mount Paran, Selah. his glory couereth the heauens, and the earth is full of his prayse, d Teman & Paran were neere Sinai, where the law was giuen: whereby is signified that his deliuerance was as present now as it was then.

4 And his brightnesse was as the light: e he had homes comming out of his handes, and there was the hiding of his power.

5 Before him went the pestilence, & burning coales went forth before his feete.

6 He stoode and measured the earth: he beheelde and dissolued the nations, and the euerlasting mountaines were broken, and the ancient hilles did bowe: his f wayes are euerlasting.

e Whereby is meant a power that was ioyned with his brightnesse, which was hidde to the rest of the worlde, but was reuciled in mount Sinai to his people, Psalm. 31. 16.

7 g For his iniquitie I sawe the tents of Cushan, and the curtains of the land of Midian did tremble.

f Signifying that God had wonderfull meanes, and euer had a marueilous power when hee would deliuer his Church.

8 Was the Lord angry against the h riuers? or was thine anger against p floods? or was thy wrath against the sea, that thou diddest ride i upon thine horses & thy charets brought saluation.

g The iniquitie of this king of Syria in vexing thy people was made manifest by thy iudgement, to the comfort of thy Church, Iudg. 3. 10. and also of the Midianites, which destroyed themselues, Iudges 7 22.

9 Thy k bowe was manifestly reuciled, and the l othes of p tribes were a sure word, Selah. thou m diddest cleaue the earth with riuers.

h Meaning, that God was not angry with the waters, but that by this meanes he would destroy his enemies and deliuer his Church.

i And so diddest vse all the elemenes as instruments for the destruction of thine enemies.

k That is, thy power.

l For he had not onely made a couenaunt with Abraham, but renued it with his posteritie.

m Read Nom. 20. 11.

10 The mountaines sawe thee, and they trembled: the streame of the water n passed by: the deepe made a noyse, and lift vp his hand on hie.

n He alludeth to the red sea and Iorden, which gaue passage to Gods people, & shewed signes of their obedience, as it were by lifting vp of their hands.

11 The o sunne and moone stoode still in their habitation: p at the light of thine arrowes they went, and at the bright shining of thy speares.

o As appeare, Iosh 10. 12.

p According to thy commandement the sunne was directed by the weapons of thy people, that fought in thy cause, as though it durst not goe forward.

12 Thou tredest down the land in anger, & diddest thresh the heathen in displeasure.

13 Thou wentest forth for the saluation of thy people, euen for saluation with thine q Anoynted: thou hast wounded the head of the house of the wicked, and discoueredst the foundations vnto the r necke, Selah.

q Signifying that there is no saluation but by Christ.

14 Thou diddest s strike thorow with his owne staues the heades of his villages: they came out as a whirlewind to scatter mee: their reioycing was as to deuoure the poore secretly.

r From the top to the toe thou hast destroyed the enemies.

15 Thou diddest walke in the sea t with thine horses vpon the heape of great waters.

16 When I c heard, my belly trembled: my lippes shooke at the voyce: rottennesse entred into my bones, and I trembled in my selfe, that I might rest in u the day of trouble: for when hee commeth vp x vnto the people, he shall destroy them.

s God destroyed his enemies both great and small with their owne weapons, though they were neuer so fierce against his Church.

17 For the figge tree shall not flourish, neither shall fruite be in the vines: the labour of the oliue shall faile, and the fieldes shall yeeld no meate: the sheepe shall be cut off from the folde, and there shall be no bullocke in the stalles.

t Hereturneth to that which he spake in the second verse, and sheweth how he was afraide of Gods iudgements.

18 But I will reioyce in the Lord: I will ioy y in the God of my saluation.

u He sheweth that the faithfull can neuer haue true rest, except they feele before the weight of Gods iudgements.

19 The Lord God is my strength: he will make my feete like hindes feete, and he will make mee to walke vpon mine hie places. z To the chiefe singer on Neginothat.

x That is, the enemie: but the godly shall bee quiet, knowing that all things shall turne to good vnto them.

y Hee declareth wherein standeth the comfort and ioy of the faithfull, though they see neuer so great afflictions prepared.

z The chiefe singer vpon the instruments of musicke shall haue occasion to praise God for this great deliuerance of his Church.

Zephaniah.

THE ARGVMENT.

Seeing the great rebellion of the people, and that there was nowe no hope of amendement, he denounceth the great iudgement of God, which was at hand, shewing that their countrey should be vtterly destroyed, and they caried away captiues by the Babylonians. Yet for the comfort of the faithfull, he propheceied of Gods vengeance against their enemies, as the Philistims, Moabites, Assyrians and others, to assure them that God had a continuall care ouer them. And as the wicked should be punished for their sinnes and transgressions: so he exhorteth the godly to patience, and to trust to finde mercie by reason of the free promise of God made vnto Abraham: and therefore quietly to abide till God shewe them the effect of that grace, whereby in the ende they should be gathered vnto him, and counted as his people and children.

4 Threatnings against Iudah and Ierusalem, because of their idolatrie.

THe worde of the Lorde which came vnto Zephaniah the sonne of Cushi, the sonne of Gedaliah, the sonne of Amariah, the sonne of Hizkiah, in the dayes of a Iosiah, the sonne of b Amon king of Iudah.

2 I will surely destroy all things from off the land, sayth the Lord.

3 I will destroy man and beast: I will destroy the a fowles of the heauen, and the fishes of the sea, and ruines shall be to the wicked, and I will cut off man from off the land, sayth the Lord.

4 I will also stretch out mine hande vpon Iudah, and vpon all the inhabitants of Ierusalem, and I will cut off the remnant of Baal from this place, and the name of the b Themarims with the Priestes,

5 And them that worship the hoste of heauen vpon the house tops, and them that worship and sweare by the Lord, & sweare by c Malcham,

6 And them that are turned backe from the Lord, and those that haue not sought the Lord, nor inquired for him.

7 Be still at the presence of the Lorde God: for the day of the Lord is at hand: for the Lord hath prepared a sacrifice, and hath sanctified his ghestes.

8 And it shalbe in the day of the Lordes sacrifice, that I will visite the princes and the kings children, and all such as are clothed with d strange apparell.

9 In the same day also will I visite all those that e daunce vpon the thresholde so proudly, which fill their masters houses by crueltie and deceite.

10 And in that day, sayeth the Lorde, there shall bee a noyse, and cry from the f fish gate, and an howling from the second gate, and a great destruction from the hilles.

11 Howle yee inhabitants of g the lowe place: for the company of the marchants is destroyed: all they that beare siluer are cut off.

12 And at that time will I search Ierusalem with h lights, and visite the men that are frosen in their dregs, and say in their hearts, The Lorde will neither doe good nor doe euill.

13 Therefore their goods shalbe spoyled, and their houses waste: * they shall also build houses, but not inhabite them, and they shall plant vineyardes, but not drinke the wine thereof.

14 The great day of the Lord is neere: it is neere and hasteth greatly, euen the voyce of the day of the Lorde: k the strong man shall cry there bitterly.

15 * That day is a day of wrath, a day of trouble and heauines, a day of destruction and desolation, a day of obscuritie & darkenesse, a day of cloudes and blacknesse, 16 A day of the trumpet and alarme against the strong cities, and against the hie towers.

17 And I will bring distresse vpon men, that they shall walke like blinde men, because they haue sinned against the Lord, and their blood shalbe powred out as dust, and their flesh as the dung.

18 * Neither their siluer nor their golde shalbe able to deliuer them in the day of the Lords wrath, but the * whole land shall be deuoured by the fire of his iealousie: for hee shall make euen a speedy riddance of all them that dwell in the land.

4 For c Azzah shalbe forsaken, and Ashkelon desolate: they shall driue out Ashdod at the noone day, and Ekron shalbe rooted vp.

5 Woe vnto the inhabitants of the sea d coast: the nations of Cherethims, the worde of the Lord is against you: O Canaan, the land of the Philistims, I will euen destroy thee without an inhabitant.

6 And the sea coast shalbe dwellings, and cottages for shepheards and sheepefoldes.

7 And that coast shall be for the e remnant of the house of Iudah to feede thereupon: in the houses of Ashkelon shall they lodge toward night: for the Lorde their God shal visite them, and turne away their captiuitie.

8 I haue heard the reproch of Moab, and the rebukes of the children of Ammon, whereby they vpbrayded my people, and f magnified themselues against their borders.

9 Therefore as I liue, sayeth the Lorde of hostes, the God of Israel, surely Moab

10 This ſhall they haue for their pride, becauſe they haue reproched, and magnified themſelues againſt the Lorde of hoſtes people.

11 The Lord will be terrible vnto them: g for he wil conſume all the gods of y earth, and euery man ſhall worſhip him from his place, euen all the yles of the heathen.

12 Ye Morians alſo ſhalbe ſlaine by my ſword with them.

13 And hee will ſtretch out his hand againſt the North, and deſtroy Aſſhur, and will make Nineueh deſolate, and waſte like a wildernes.

15 This is the i reioycing citie that dwelt careleſſe, that ſayd in her heart, I am, and there is none beſides mee: howe is ſhe made waſte, and the lodging of the beaſts! euery one that paſſeth by her, ſhall hiſſe & wagge his hand.

4 Againſt the gouernours of Ieruſalem. 8 Of the calling of all the Gentiles. 13 A comfort to the reſidue of Iſrael.

WOe to her that is filthie and polluted, to the robbing a citie.

a That is, Ieruſalem. Ezek 22.25,27. micah 3.11. Habac. 1.8.

2 She heard not the voyce: ſhe receiued not correction: ſhe truſted not in the Lorde: ſhe drew not neere to her God.

3 Her princes within her are as roaring * Lions: her iudges are as * wolues in the euening, which b leaue not the bones till the morowe.

b They are ſo greedy that they eate vp bones and all.

4 Her prophets are light, & wicked perſons: her prieſts haue polluted the ſanctuarie: they haue wreſted the Lawe.

c The wicked thus boaſted that God was euer among them, but the Prophet anſwereth that that can not excuſe their wickednes: for God will not beare with their ſinnes: yet that he did patiently abide and ſent his prophets continually to call them to repentance, but he profited nothing.

5 The c iuſt Lord is in the mids thereof: hee will doe none iniquitie: euery morning doeth hee bring his iudgement to light, hee faileth not: but the wicked will not learne to be aſhamed.

6 I haue d cut off the nations: their towers are deſolate: I haue made their ſtreetes waſte, that none ſhall paſſe by: their cities are deſtroyed without man and without inhabitant.

d By the deſtruction of other nations, he ſheweth that the Iewes ſhould haue learned to feare God.

7 I ſaid, Surely thou wilt feare me: thou wilt receiue inſtruction: ſo their dwelling ſhould not be deſtroyed howſoeuer I viſited them, but e they roſe early and corrupted all their workes.

e They were moſt earneſt and ready to doe wickedly.

8 Therefore f waite ye vpon me, ſayth the Lorde, vntill the day that I riſe vp to the praye: for I am determined to gather the nations, and that I will aſſemble the kingdomes to powre vpon them mine indignation, euen all my fierce wrath: for all the earth ſhalbe deuoured with the fire of my ielouſie.

f Seeing ye will not repent, you ſhall looke for my vengeance aſwell as other nations.

9 Surely g then will I turne to the people a pure language, that they may all call vpon the name of the Lorde, to ſerue him ‡ with one conſent.

g Leaſt any ſhould thinke then that Gods glorie ſhould haue periſhed when Iudah was deſtroyed, hee ſheweth that he will publiſh his grace through all the world.

10 From beyond the riuers of Ethiopia, the h daughter of my diſperſed, ſhall bring me an offering.

h That is, the Iewes ſhall come as well as the Gentiles: which is to be vnderſtood vnder the time of the Goſpel.

11 In that day ſhalt thou not bee aſhamed for i all thy workes, wherein thou haſt tranſgreſſed againſt mee: for then I will take away out of the middes of thee them that reioyce of thy pride, and thou ſhalt no more be proude of mine holy mountaine.

i For they ſhall haue full remiſſion of their ſinnes: and the hypocrites which boaſted of the Temple, which was alſo thy pride in time paſt, ſhalbe taken from thee.

12 Then will I leaue in the middes of thee an humble and poore people: and they ſhall truſt in the Name of the Lord.

13 The remnant of Iſrael ſhall doe none iniquitie, nor ſpeake lies: neither ſhall a deceitfull tongue be found in their mouth: for they ſhall be fedde, and lie downe, and none ſhall make them afrayd.

k That is, the puniſhment for thy ſinne.

14 Reioyce, O daughter Zion: be ye ioyfull, O Iſrael: be glad and reioyce with all thine heart, O daughter Ieruſalem.

15 The Lorde hath taken away thy k iudgements: he hath caſt out thine l enemie: the King of Iſrael, euen the Lord is in the middes of m thee: thou ſhalt ſee no more euill.

l As the Aſſyrians, Caldeans, Egyptians and other nations.

16 In that day it ſhalbe ſayd to Ieruſalem, Feare thou not, O Zion: let not thine hands be faint.

17 The Lord thy God in the middes of thee is mightie: he will ſaue, he will reioyce ouer thee with ioy: he will quiet himſelfe in n his loue: hee will reioyce ouer thee with ioy:

m To defend thee, as by thy ſinnes thou haſt put him away and left thy ſelfe naked, as Exod. 32.25.

n Signifying, that God delighteth to ſhewe his loue and great affection toward his Church.

18 After a certaine time will I gather the afflicted that were of thee, and them that bare the reproch for o it.

o That is, them that were had in hatred and reuiled for the Church, and becauſe of their religion.

19 Beholde, at that time I will hurte all that afflict thee, and I will p ſaue her that halteth, and gather her that was caſt out, and I will get them praiſe and fame in all the q lands of their ſhame.

p I will deliuer the Church which nowe is afflicted, Micah 4.6.

q As among the Aſſyrians and Caldeans which did mocke them, and put them to ſhame.

20 At that time will I bring you againe, and then will I gather you: for I will giue you a name and a praiſe among all people of the earth, when I turne backe your captiuitie before your eyes, ſayth the Lord.

Haggai.

THE ARGVMENT.

WHen the time of the seuentie yeeres captiuitie propheſied by Ieremiah, was expired, God raiſed vp Haggai, Zechariah, and Malachi to comfort the Iewes and to exhort them to the building of the Temple, which was a figure of the ſpirituall Temple and Church of God, whoſe perfection and excellencie ſtoode in Chriſt. And becauſe that all were giuen to their owne pleaſures and commodities, he declareth that that plague of famine, which God ſent among them, was a iuſt reward of their ingratitude, in that they contemned Gods honour, who had deliuered them. Yet he comforteth them, if they will returne to the Lord, with the promiſe of greater felicitie, foraſmuch as the Lord will finiſh the worke that he hath begunne, and ſend Chriſt whom hee had promiſed, and by whom they ſhould attaine to perfite ioy and glorie.

CHAP. I.

1 The time of the propheſie of Haggai. 8 An exhortation to build the Temple againe.

IN the ſecond yeere of King [a] Darius, in the firſt moneth, the firſt day of the moneth, came the worde of the Lorde (by the miniſterie of the Prophet Haggai,) vnto [b] Zerubbabel the ſonne of Shealtiel, a prince of Iudah, and to Iehoſhua the ſonne of Iehozadak the hie Prieſt, ſaying,

2 Thus ſpeaketh the Lord of hoſts, ſaying, this people ſay, The time is not yet come, [c] that the Lordes houſe ſhould bee builded.

3 Then came the word of the Lord by the miniſtrie of the Prophet Haggai, ſaying,

4 Is it time for your ſelues to dwell in your [d] fieled houſes, and this houſe lie waſte?

5 Nowe therefore thus ſayth the Lorde of hoſtes, Conſider your owne wayes in your hearts.

6 [e] Yee haue ſowne much, and bring in litle: ye eate, but ye haue not ynough: yee drinke, but ye are not filled: yee clothe you, but ye be not warme: and hee that earneth wages, putteth the wages into a broken bagge.

7 Thus ſayth the Lord of hoſtes, Conſider your owne wayes in your hearts.

8 Goe [f] vp to the mountaine, and bring wood, and build this houſe, and [g] I will be fauourable in it, and I will [h] bee glorified, ſayth the Lord.

9 Ye looked for much, and lo, it came to litle: and when ye brought it home, I did blowe [i] vpon it. And why, ſayth the Lorde of hoſtes? Becauſe of mine houſe that is waſte, and yee runne euery man vnto his owne houſe.

10 Therefore the heauen ouer you ſtaied it ſelfe from dewe, and the earth ſtayed her frute.

11 And I called for a drought vpon the land, and vpon the mountaines, and vpon the corne, and vpon the wine, and vpon the oyle, vpon all that the grounde bringeth forth: both vpon men and vpon cattell, and vpon all the labour of the hands.

12 Then Zerubbabel the ſonne of Shealtiel, and Iehoſhua the ſonne of Iehozadak the hie Prieſt with all the remnant of the people, heard the [k] voyce of the Lorde their God, and the wordes of the Prophet Haggai (as [l] the Lord their God had ſent him) then the people did feare before the Lord.

13 Then ſpake Haggai the Lordes meſſenger in the Lords meſſage vnto the people, ſaying, I am with you, ſayth the Lord.

14 And the Lorde ſtirred vp the [l] ſpirit of Zerubbabel, the ſonne of Shealtiel a prince of Iudah, and the ſpirit of Iehoſhua the ſonne of Iehozadak the hie Prieſt, and the ſpirit of all the remnant of the people, and they came, and did the worke in the houſe of the Lord of hoſtes their God.

CHAP. II.

He ſheweth that the glory of the ſecond Temple ſhall exceede the firſt.

IN the foure and twentieth day of the firſt moneth, in the ſecond yeere of King Darius,

2 In the ſeuenth moneth, in the one and twentieth day of the moneth, came the word of the Lorde by the miniſterie of the Prophet Haggai, ſaying,

3 Speake nowe to Zerubbabel the ſonne of Shealtiel prince of Iudah, and to Iehoſhua the ſonne of Iehozadak the high Prieſt, and to the reſidue of the people, ſaying,

4 Who is left among you, that ſaw this [a] houſe in her firſt glory, and howe doe you ſee it now? Is it not in your eyes, in compariſon of it, as nothing?

5 Yet nowe be of good courage, O Zerubbabel, ſayth the Lord, & be of good comfort, O Iehoſhua, ſonne of Iehozadak the hie Prieſt: and be ſtrong, all yee people of the land, ſayth the Lord, and [b] doe it: for I am with you ſayth the Lord of hoſtes.

6 According to the word that I couenanted with you, when yee came out of Egypt: ſo my Spirite ſhall remaine among you, feare ye not.

7 For thus ſaith the Lord of hoſtes, [c] Yet a litle while, and I will ſhake the heauens and the earth, and the ſea, and the drie land:

a Who was the ſonne of Hyſtaſpis, and the third king of the Perſians, as ſome thinke.

b Becauſe the building of the Temple began to ceaſe by reaſon that the people were diſcouraged by their enemies: and if theſe two notable men had neede to be ſtirred vp and admoniſhed of their duetie, what ſhall we thinke of other gouernours, whoſe doings are either againſt God, or very colde in his cauſe?

c Not that they condemned the building thereof, but they preferred policie, and priuate profit to religion, being content w small beginnings.

d Shewing that they ſought not onely their neceſſities, but their very pleaſures, before Gods honour

e Conſider the plagues of God vpon you for preferring your policies to his religion, f Meaning, that they ſhould leaue off their owne commodities, and goe forwarde in the building of Gods Temple, g That is, I wil heare your prayers according to my promiſe, 1. Kin. 8.21,29.

h That is, my glory ſhall be ſet foorth by you.

i And ſo bring it to nothing.

k This declared that God was the authour of the doctrin, and that he was but the miniſter, as Exo. 14.31. Iudg. 7. 20. Act 15.28.

l Which declareth that men are vnapt and dul to ſerue the Lord, neither can they obey his word or his meſſengers before God reforme their hearts and giue them new ſpirits, Iohn 6.44.

a For the people, according as Iſa. 32.11. and Ezek. 41.1. had propheſied, thought this Temple ſhould haue bene more excellent then Salomons Temple, which was deſtroyed by the Babylonians, but the Prophets ment the ſpirituall Temple, the Church of Chriſt.

b That is, goe forward in building the Temple.

c He exhorteth them to patience though they ſee not as yet this Temple ſo glorious as the Prophets had declared: for this ſhould be accompliſhed in Chriſt by whom all things ſhould be renued.

8 And

8 And I will moue all nations, and d the desire of all nations shall come, and I will fill this house with glorie, sayth the Lord of hostes.

9 The e siluer is mine, and the golde is mine, saith the Lord of hostes.

10 The glorie of this last House shall be greater then the first, sayeth the Lord of hostes: and in this place will I giue f peace, saith the Lord of hostes.

11 ¶ In the foure and twentieth day of the ninth moneth, and the second yeere of Darius, came the word of the Lord vnto the Prophet Haggai, saying,

12 Thus sayth the Lord of hostes, Aske nowe the Priests concerning the Law, & say, 13 If one beare g holy flesh in the skirt of his garment, and with his skirt doe touch the bread, or the pottage, or the wine, or oyle, or any meate, shall it be holy? and the Priests answered, and sayd, No.

14 Then said Haggai, if a polluted person touch any of these, shall it be vncleane? And the Priests answered, and said, It shall be vncleane.

15 Then answered Haggai, and said, So is this people, and so is this nation before me, saith the Lord: and so are all the works of their handes, and that which they offer here, is vncleane.

16 And nowe, I pray you, consider in your mindes: from this h day, and afore, euen afore a stone was layd vpon a stone in the Temple of the Lord:

17 i Before these things were, when one came to an heape of twentie measures, there were but ten: when one came to the wine presse for to drawe out fiftie vessels out of the presse, there were but twentie.

18 I smote you with blasting, and with mildewe, and with haile, in all the labours of your handes; yet you turned not to mee, saith the Lord.

19 Consider, I pray you, in your minds, from k this day, and afore from the foure and twentieth day of the ninth moneth, euen from the day that the foundation of the Lordes Temple was layde: consider it in your minds.

20 Is the l seede yet in the barne? as yet the vine, and the figtree, and the pomegranate, and the olive tree hath not brought forth: from this day will I blesse you.

21 And againe the worde of the Lorde came vnto Haggai in the foure and twentieth day of the moneth, saying, 22 Speake to Zerubbabel the prince of Iudah, and say, I m will shake the heauens and the earth.

23 And I will ouerthrowe the throne of kingdomes, and I wil destroy the strength of the n kingdomes of the heathen, and I will ouerthrowe the charets, and those that ride in them, and the horse and the riders shall come downe, euery one by the sworde of his brother.

24 In that day, saith the Lord of hostes, will I take thee, O Zerubbabel my seruant the sonne of Shealtiel, sayth the Lorde, and will make thee as a o signet: for I haue chosen thee, saith the Lord of hostes.

d Meaning Christ, whom all ought to looke for and desire: or by desire, he may signifie all precious things, as riches and such like.

e Therefore when his time commeth, he can make all the treasures of the world to serue his purpose: but the glorie of this second Temple doth not stand in materiall things, neither can bee built.

f Meaning, all spirituall blessings and felicitie purchased by Christ, Phil. 4. 7.

g That is, the flesh of the sacrifices: whereby he signifieth that that thing, which of it selfe is good, can not make another thing so: and therefore they ought not to iustifie themselues by their sacrifices and ceremonies: but contrary, bee that is vncleane and not pure of heart, doth corrupt those things and make them detestable vnto God, which els are good and godly.

h Consider howe God did plague you with famine afore you began to build the Temple.

i That is, before the building was begunne.

k From the time they began to build the Temple, he promiseth that God woulde blesse them: and albeit as yet the fruite was not come forth, yet in the gathering they should haue plenty.

l He exhorteth them to patience and to abide till the harueste came, and then they should see Gods blessings.

m I wil make a change and renew al things in Christ of whome Zerubbabel here is a figure.

n Hereby hee sheweth that there shal be no let or hindrance when God wil make this wonderful restitution of his Church.

o Signifying that his dignitie should bee most excellent, which thing was accomplished in Christ.

Zechariah.

THE ARGVMENT.

TWo moneths after that Haggai had begunne to prophesie, Zechariah was also sent of the Lord to helpe him in the labour, and to confirme the same doctrine. First therefore hee putteth them in remembrance, for what cause God had so sore punished their fathers: and yet comforteth them, if they wil repent vnfainedly, & not abuse this great benefite of God in their deliuerance, which was a figure of that true deliuerance, that all the faithfull should haue from sinne and death by Christ. But because they still remained in their wickednesse, and coldnesse to set forth Gods glory, and were not yet made better by their long banishment, he rebuketh them most sharply: yet for the comfort of the repentant, he euer mixeth the promise of grace, that they might by this meanes bee prepared to receiue Christ, in whome all should be sanctified to the Lord.

CHAP. I.

1 He exhorteth the people to returne to the Lord, and to eschew the wickednes of their fathers. 16 He signifieth the restitution of Ierusalē & the Temple.

1 IN the eight moneth of the second yeere of a Darius came the worde of the Lorde vnto b Zechariah the sonne of Berechiah, the sonne of Iddo the Prophet, saying, a Who was the sonne of Hystaspis.

b This was not that Zechariah, whereof is mention. 2. Chro. 24. 20. but had the same name, & is called the sonne of Berechiah, as he was, because he came of those progenitors, as of Ioiada or Berechiah and Iddo.

2 The Lorde hath bene sore c displeased with your fathers.

3 Therefore say thou vnto them, Thus sayeth the Lorde of hostes, d Turne yee vnto mee, sayeth the Lorde of hostes, and I will turne vnto you, sayeth the Lorde of hostes.

4 Be ye not as your fathers, vnto whom c He speaketh this to feare them with Gods iudgements that they shoulde not prouoke him, as their fathers had done, whome hee so grieuously punished.

d Let your fruites declare, that you a Gods people, and that he hath wrought in you by his spirite: or mortified you: for els man hath no power to returne to God, b God must conuert him, as Iere. 31. 18. lament. 5. 21. Isa. 21. 8, & 31. 6. and 45. 21.

Iere.3.12.Eek.18.30.hose.14.2.ioel.2.12.

the former * Prophets haue cryed, saying, Thus saith the Lord of hostes, Turne you nowe from your euill wayes, and from your wicked workes: but they would not heare, nor hearken vnto me, saith the Lord.

5 Your fathers, where e are they? and do the Prophets liue for euer?

9 But did not my wordes and my statutes, which I commaunded by my seruants the Prophets, take holde of f your fathers? and g they returned, and said, As the Lorde of hostes hath determined to doe vnto vs, according to our owne waies, and according to our workes, so hath hee dealt with vs.

7 Vpon the foure and twentieth day of the eleuenth moneth, which is the moneth h Shebat, in the seconde peere of Darius, came the worde of the Lord vnto Zechariah the sonne of Berechiah, the sonne of Iddo the Prophet, saying,

8 I i saw by night, and behold a k man riding vpon a red horse, & he stoode among the myrrhe trees, that were in a bottome, and behinde him were there l redde horses speckled and white.

9 Then saide I, O my Lorde, What are these? and the Angel that talked with me, said vnto me, I will shewe thee what these be.

10 And the man that stoode among the myrrhe trees, answered and sayde, These are they whome the Lorde hath sent to goe thorow the world.

11 And they answered the Angel of the Lorde, that stood among the myrrhe trees, and said, We haue gone thorow the world: and behold, all the worlde sitteth still, and is at rest.

12 Then the m Angel of the Lord answered and said, O Lorde of hostes, howe long wilt thou be vnmercifull to Ierusalem, and to the cities of Iudah, with whom thou hast bene displeased nowe these threescore and ten yeeres?

13 And the Lorde answered the Angell that talked with me, with good wordes and comfortable words.

14 So the Angell that communed with me, saide vnto me, Crie thou, and speake, Thus saith the Lorde of hostes, I am n ielous ouer Ierusalem & Zion with a great zeale, 15 And am greatly angrie against the careless heathen: for I was angrie but o a little, and they helped forward the affliction.

16 Therefore thus saith the Lord, I will returne vnto Ierusalem with tender mercie: mine house shall be builded in it, saith the Lorde of hostes, and a line p shalbe stretched vpon Ierusalem.

17 Crye yet, and speake, Thus saith the Lord of hostes, My cities shall yet q be broken with plentie: the Lorde shall yet comfort Zion, and shall yet chuse Ierusalem.

18 Then lift I vp mine eyes and sawe, and behold, r foure horned.

19 And I said vnto the Angel that talked with mee, What be these? And hee answered me, These are the horns which haue scattered Iudah, Israel, and Ierusalem.

20 And the Lord shewed me foure s carpenters.

21 Then said I, What come these to do? And he answered, and saide, These are the horns, which haue scattered Iudah, so p a man durst not lift vp his head: but these are come to frap them, and to cast out the horns of the Gentiles, which lift vp their horne ouer the land of Iudah to scatter it.

e Though your fathers be dead, yet Gods iudgements in punishing them ought still to be before your eyes: and though the Prophets be dead, yet their doctrine remayneth for euer, 2. Pet. 1. 15.

f Seeing ye sawe the force of my doctrine in punishing your fathers, why doe not ye feare the threatnings conteyned in the same and declared by my Prophets?

g As men astonished with my iudgements, and not that they were touched with true repentance.

h Which conteineth part of Ianuarie and part of Februarie.

i This vision signifieth the restauration of the Church, but as yet it should not appeare to mans eyes, which is here meant by the night, by the bottome and by the myrrhe trees, which are blacke, and giue a darke shadowe: yet he compareth God to a King, who hath his postes and messengers abroad, by whom he still worketh his purpose & bringeth his matters to passe. k Who was the chiefe among the rest of the horsemen. l These signified the diuers offices of Gods Angels, by whome God sometime punisheth and sometime comforteth, and bringeth forth his workes in diuers sortes. m That is, Christ the mediatour prayed for the saluation of his Church, which was now troubled when all the countreyes about them were at rest. n Though for a time God deferre his helpe and comfort from his Church, yet this declareth that he loueth them still most dearely, as a most merciful father his children, or an husband his wife, and when it is expedient for them, his helpe is euer ready. o In destroying the reprobate I shewed my self but a litle angry toward my Church, but the enemie would haue destroyed them also, and considered not the ende of my chastisements.

p To measure out the buildings.

q The abundance shall be so great, that the places of store shall not be able to conteine these blessings that God will sende, but shall euen breake for fulnesse.

r Which signified all the enemies of the Church, East, West, North, South.

s These carpenters or Smithes are Gods instruments, which with their mallets and hammers breake these hard and strong hornes, which would ouerthrow the Church, and declare that none enemies horne is so strong, but God hath an hammer to breake it in pieces.

CHAP. II.

The restoring of Ierusalem and Iudah.

I Lift vp mine eyes againe and looked, and behold, a a man with a measuring line in his hand.

2 Then saide I, Whither goest thou? And he said vnto me, To measure Ierusalem, that I may see what is the breadth thereof, and what is the length thereof.

3 And behold, the Angel that talked with me, went foorth: and another Angel went out to meete him,

4 And said vnto him, Runne, speake to this b yong man, and say, c Ierusalem shall be inhabited without walles, for the multitude of men and cattel therein.

5 For I, saith the Lord, will be vnto her a wall of d fire round about, and will e bee the glorie in the middes of her.

6 Ho, ho, come f foorth, and flee from the land of the North, saith the Lorde: for I haue scattered you into the foure g windes of the heauen, saith the Lord.

7 h Saue thy selfe, O Zion, that dwellest with the daughter of Babel.

8 For thus saith the Lord of hostes, After this i glorie hath he sent me vnto k nations, which spoiled you: for hee that toucheth a That is, the Angel, who was Christ: for in respect of his office he is oft times called an Angel, but in respect of his eternal essence, is God and so called.

b Meaning himselfe Zechariah.

c Signifying the spirituall Ierusalem and Church vnder Christ, which should be extended by the Gospel through all the world, and should neede no materiall walles, nor trust in any worldly strength, but should be safely preserued, and dwell in peace among all their enemies. d To defende my Church, to feare the enemies, and to destroy them if they approche neere. e In mee they shall haue their full felicitie and glorie. f Hee calleth to them, which partly for feare, and partly for their owne ease remained still in captiuitie, and so preferred their owne priuate commodities to the benefits of God promised in his Church. g As it was I that scattered you, so haue I power to restore you. h By flying from Babylon and comming to the Church. i Seeing that God hath begunne to shew his grace among you by deliuering you he continueth the same still toward you, and therefore sendeth me his Angel, and his Christ to defend you from your enemies, that they shall not hurt you, neither by the way nor at home.

pon, toucheth the k apple of his eye.

9 For beholde, I will lift vp mine hand l vpon them: and they m shall be a spoile to those that serued them, and ye shall knowe, that the Lord of hostes hath n sent me.

10 Reioyce, and bee glad, O daughter Zion: for loe, I come, and will dwel in the midst of thee, saith the Lord.

11 And many nations shalbe ioyned to the Lord in that day, and shalbe my people: and I will dwell in the middes of thee, and thou shalt knowe that the Lorde of hostes hath sent me vnto thee.

12 And the Lorde shall inherite Iudah his portion in the holy land, and shal choose Ierusalem againe.

13 Let all flesh bee still before the Lorde: for he is raised vp out of his holy place.

k That is, the Angels who represented the whole number of the faithfull: signifying that all the godly should willingly receiue him.

l Because they follow my word, they are contemned in ỹ world, & esteemed as mōsters, Ha. 8. 18.

m That is, Christ, who being God equall with his Father, was sent as hee was Mediatour to dwel in his Church, and to gouerne them.

CHAP. III.

A prophesie of Christ and of his kingdome.

a He prayed to Christ the Mediator for the state of the Church.

b Which declareth that the faithfull haue not onely warre with flesh and blood, but with Satan himselfe and spirituall wickednesses, Ephe. 6. 12.

c That is, Christ speaketh to God as the Mediator of his Church that he would rebuke Satan: and here he sheweth himselfe to be the continuall preseruer of his Church.

d Meaning, that Iehoshua was wonderfully preserued in the captiuitie, and now Satan fought to afflict and trouble him when he was doing his office. e In respect of the glorious garments, and precious stones that the priestes did weare before the captiuitie: and by this contemptible state the Prophet signifieth that these small beginnings shoulde bee made excellent when Christ shall make the full restitution of his Church. f Hee sheweth of what apparell hee speaketh, which is when our filthie sinnes are taken away, and we are cladde with Gods mercies, which is meant of the spirituall restitution. g The Prophet prayeth, that besides the rayment, the Priest might also haue tyre for his head accordingly, that is, that the dignitie of the Priesthoode might bee perfect: and this was fulfilled in Christ, who was both Priest and King: and heere all such are condemned that can content themselues with any meane reformation in religion, seeing the Prophet desireth the perfection, and obtayneth it. h That is, haue rule and gouernment in my Church as thy predecessors haue had. i Whereby he meaneth, to haue the whole charge and ministerie of the Church.

AND he shewed mee Iehoshua the high Priest, a standing before the Angell of the Lorde, and b Satan stoode at his right hand to resist him.

2 And the c Lorde said vnto Satan, The Lord rebuke thee, O Satan: euen the Lorde that hath chosen Ierusalem, rebuke thee. Is not this a d brand taken out of the fire?

3 Now Iehoshua was clothed with filthie garments, and stood before the Angel.

4 And he answered & spake vnto those that stood before him, saying, Take away the e filthie garments from him. And vnto him he saide, Behold, I haue f caused thine iniquitie to depart from thee, and I will clothe thee with change of rayment.

5 And I said, Let them set a faire diademe vpon his head. So they set a faire diademe vpon his head, and clothed him with garments, and the Angell of the Lord stood by.

6 And the Angell of the Lorde testified vnto Iehoshua, saying,

7 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, If thou wilt walke in my wayes, and keepe my watch, thou shalt also g iudge mine House, & shalt also keepe my h courts, & I will giue thee place among i these that stand by.

8 Heare now, O Iehoshua ỹ hie Priest, thou and thy fellowes that sit before thee: for they l are monstrous persons: but behold, I will bring forth the m Branch my seruant.

9 For lo the n stone that I haue laid before Iehoshua: vpon one stone shall be seuen eyes: beholde, I will o cut out the grauing thereof, saith the Lord of hosts, and I will take p away the iniquity of this lande in one day.

10 In that day, saith the Lorde of hosts, shall yee call euery man his neighbour vnder the q vine, and vnder the figge tree.

a Which was euer in the midst of the Temple, signifying that the graces of Gods Spirite should shine there in most abundance, and in all perfection.

b Which conueyed the oyle that dropped from the trees into the lampes, so that the light neuer failed: and this vision was to confirme the faithful that God had sufficient power in himselfe to continue his graces, and to bring his promes to passe, though he had no helpe of man.

CHAP. IIII.

The vision of the golden candlestick, and the exposition thereof.

AND the Angell that talked with mee, came againe and waked me, as a man that is raised out of his sleepe,

2 And said vnto me, What seest thou? and I saide, I haue looked, and beholde, a a candlestick all of golde with a bowle vpon the top of it, and his seuen lampes therein, and seuen b pipes to the lampes, which were vpon the top thereof.

3 And two olive trees ouer it, one vpon the right side of the bowle, and the other vpon the left side thereof.

4 So I answered, and spake to the Angel that talked with me, saying, What are these, my Lord?

5 Then the Angel that talked with me, answered and said vnto me, Knowest thou not what these be? And I sayde, No, my Lord.

6 Then hee answered & spake vnto me, saying, This is the word of the Lorde vnto c Zerubbabel, saying, Neither by d an armie nor strength, but by my Spirite, saieth the Lord of hostes.

7 Who art thou, O e great mountaine, before Zerubbabel? thou shalt bee a plaine, and f hee shall bring forth the head stone

c Who was a figure of Christ, and therefore this doctrine was directed to al the Church who are his body & members. d He sheweth that Gods power only is sufficient to preserue his Church, though he vse not mans helpe thereunto. e He compareth the power of the aduersaries to a great mountaine, who thought the Iewes nothing in respect of them, and would haue hindered Zerubbabel, who represented Christ, whom the enemies daily labour to let in ỹ building of his spiritual Temple, but al in vaine. f Though the enemies thinke to stay this building, yet Zerubbabel shal lay the hiest stone therof, & bring it to perfection, so ỹ al the godly shal reioyce, & pray vnto God that he would continue his grace and fauour toward the Temple.

thereof, with shoutings, crying, Grace, grace vnto it.

8 Moreouer, the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

9 The hands of Zerubbabel haue laide the foundation of this house: his handes shall also finish it, & thou shalt know that the Lord of hostes hath sent me vnto you.

10 For who hath despised the day of the [h] small things? but they shall reioyce, and shall see the stone of [i] tinne in the hande of Zerubbabel: [k] these seuen are the eyes of the Lorde, which goe throwe the whole world.

11 Then answered I, and said vnto him, What are these two olme trees vpon the right and vpon the left side thereof?

12 And I spake moreouer, and said vnto him, What be these two olive branches, which through the two golden pipes emptie themselues into the gold?

13 And he answered me, and said, Knowest thou not what these be? And I said, No, my Lord.

14 Then said he, These are the two [l] olive branches, that stand with the ruler of the whole earth.

g Meaning, the Prophet, that I am Christ sent of my father for the building, and preseruation of my spirituall Temple.

h Signifying, that all were discouraged at the small and poore beginnings of the Temple.

i Whereby he signifieth the plummet & line, that is, that Zerubbabel which represented Christ should goe forward with his building to the ioy and comfort of the godly, though the world be against him, and though his for a while be discoraged, because they see not things pleasant to the eie. k That is, God hath seuen eies: meaning, a continuall prouidence, so that neither Satan nor any power in the world can go about or bring any thing to passe to hinder his worke, Chap. 3.9. l Which were euer greene and full of oile, so that still they powred foorth oile into the lamps: Signifying, that God wil continually maintaine and preserue his Church, and indue it still with abundance and perfection of graces.

CHAP. V.

1 The vision of the flying booke, signifying the curse of theeues, and such as abuse the name of God. 6 By the vision of the measure is signified the bringing of Iudahs afflictions into Babylon.

a Because the Iewes had prouoked Gods plagues by contemning his word and casting off all iudgement and equitie, he sheweth that Gods curses written in this booke had iustly light both on them, and their fathers: but now if they would repent, God would send the same among the Caldeans their former enemies.

b That is, vseth any iniurie toward his neighbour.

c Meaning, whersoeuer hee be in the world.

THen I turned me, and lifted vp mine eyes and looked, and beholde, a flying booke.

2 And he said vnto me, What seest thou? And I answered, I see a flying [a] booke: the length thereof is twentie cubites, and the breadth thereof ten cubites.

3 Then saide hee vnto mee, This is the curse that goeth foorth ouer ꝑ whole earth: for euery one that [b] stealeth, shall be cut off as well on this [c] side, as on that: and euery one that [d] sweareth shall be cut off as wel on this side, as on that.

4 I will bring it forth, saith the Lorde of hostes, and it shall enter into the house of the thiefe, and into the house of him, that falsely sweareth by my Name: and it shal remaine in the middes of his house, and shall consume it, with the timber thereof, and stones thereof.

5 Then the Angel that talked with mee, went forth and said vnto me, Lift vp nowe thine eyes, and see, what is this that goeth foorth.

6 And I saide, What is it? And he said, This is an [e] Ephah that goeth forth. He said moreouer, This is the [f] sight of them, throughout all the earth.

d He that transgresseth the first table, and serueth not God aright, but abuseth Gods Name. e Which was a measure in drie things containing about ten pottels.

7 And beholde, there was lift vp a [g] talent of lead: and this is a [h] woman that sitteth in the midst of the Ephah.

8 And he said, This is [i] wickednes, and he cast it into the midst of the Ephah, and he cast the weight of lead vpon the mouth thereof.

9 Then lift I vp mine eyes, and looked: and beholde, there came out two [k] women, and the winde was in their wings (for they had wings like the wings of a storke) and they lift vp the Ephah betweene the earth and the heauen.

10 Then said I to the Angel that talked with mee, Whither doe these beare the Ephah?

11 And he saide vnto mee, [l] To build it an house in the land of Shinar, and it shall be established and set there vpon her owne place, f That is, all the wickednesse of the vngodly is in Gods sight, which he keepeth in a measure, and can shut it, or open it at his pleasure.

g To couer the measure.

h Which representeth iniquitie, as in the next verse.

i Signifying that Satan should not haue such power against the Iewes to tempt them, as he had in time past, but that God would shut vp iniquitie in a measure as in a prison. k Which declared that God would execute his iudgements by the meanes of weake and infirme meanes. l To remoue the iniquitie and afflictions that came for the same from Iudah, to place it for euer in Babylon.

CHAP. VI.

By the foure charets he describeth the foure monarchies.

a By charets here, as by horses afore, he meaneth the swift messengers of God to execute and declare his will.

b By the brasen mountaines hee meaneth the eternall counsel and prouidence of God, whereby he hath from before all eternitie decreed what shal come to passe, and that which neither Satan nor all the world can alter.

c Which signified the great crueltie and persecutions that the Church had endured vnder diuers enemies. d Signifying, that they had endured great afflictions vnder the Babylonians. e These represented their state vnder the Persians which restored them to libertie. f Which signified that God would sometime giue his Church rest, and powre his plagues vpon their enemies, as hee did in destroying of Nineueh and Babylon, and other their enemies. g Meaning all the actions and motions of Gods Spirit, which according to his inchangeable counsell hee causeth to appeare through all the world. h That is, toward Egypt, and other countries thereabout. i That is, they of diuers colours, which aske leaue, to signifie that Satan hath no power to hurt or afflict till God giue it him, Iob 1.12.

AGaine, I turned and lift vp mine eyes, and looked: and beholde, there came foure [a] charets out from betweene [b] two mountaines, and the mountaines were mountaines of brasse.

2 In the first charet were [c] red horses, and in the second charet [d] blacke horses,

3 And in the third charet [e] white horses, and in the fourth charet horses of [f] diuers colours, and reddish.

4 Then I answered, and saide vnto the Angell that talked with mee, What are these, my Lord?

5 And the Angel answered, and said vnto me, These are the [g] foure spirites of the heauen, which goe forth from standing with the Lord of all the earth.

6 That with the blacke horse went forth into the land of the North, and the white went out after them, and they of diuers colours went forth toward the [h] South countrey.

7 And the [i] reddish went out, and required to goe, & passe through the world. And he said, Goe passe through the world. So they went throughout the world.

8 Then cried he vpon mee, & spake vnto me, saying, Behold these that goe toward the North countrey, haue pacified my k spirite in the North countrey.

9 And the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

10 Take of them of the captiuity, euen of Heldai, & of Tobiah, and Iedaiah, which are come from Babel, and come thou the same day, and go vnto the house l of Iosiah, the sonne of Zephaniah.

11 Take euen siluer and golde, and make crownes, and set them vpon the m head of Iehoshua, the sonne of Iehozadak the hie Priest, 12 And speake vnto him, saying, Thus speaketh the Lord of hostes, and saith, Behold the man whose name is the n Branch, and he shall grow vp out of his place, and he shall p build the Temple of the Lord.

13 Euen he shal build the Temple of the Lord, and he shal beare the q glory, and shal sit and rule vpon his throne, and he shal be a Priest vpon his throne, and the counsell of peace shalbe betweene r them both.

14 And the crownes shalbe to s Helem, and to Tobiah, and to Iedaiah, & to t Hen the sonne of Zephaniah, for a u memoriall in the Temple of the Lord.

15 And they that are x farre off, shall come and build in the Temple of the Lord, and ye shall knowe that the Lorde of hostes hath sent me vnto you. And this shal come to passe, if yee will y obey the voyce of the Lord your God.

k By punishing the Caldeans mine anger ceased, and you were deliuered.

l To receiue of him and the other three, money to make the two crownes: which were men of great authority among the Iews, and doubted of the restitution of the kingdome and of the priesthoode, and hurt others by their example.

m Because this could not be attributed to any one according to the Lawe, therefore it followeth that Iehoshua must represent the Messiah, who was both Priest and King.

n Meaning Christ, of whome Iosiua was the figure: for in Greeke they were both called Iesus.

o That is, of himselfe, without the help of man.

p Which declareth that none could build this temple, wherof Haggai speaketh, but onely Christ: and therefore it was spirituall, and not materiall, Haggai 2.10.

q Whereof Iehoshua had but a shadowe.

r The two offices of the kingdome and priesthood shal be so ioyned together, that they shall be no more disseuered.

s Who was also called Heldai.

t He also was called Iosiah.

u That they may acknowledge their infirmitie, which looked that al thinges shoulde haue bene restored incontinently: and of this their infidelitie these two crownes shal remaine as tokens, Acts 1.6.

x That is, the Gentiles by the preaching of the Gospell shall helpe toward the building of this spirituall Temple.

y If yee wil beleeue and remaine in the obedience of faith.

CHAP. VII.

5 The true fasting. 11 The rebellion of the people is the cause of their affliction.

a In the fourth yeere of king Darius, the worde of the Lorde came vnto Zechariah in the fourth day of the ninth moneth, euen in a Chisleu,

2 For b they had sent vnto the house of God Sharezer, and Regem-melech, and their men to pray before the Lord,

3 And to speake vnto the Priests, which were in the house of the Lord of hostes, and to the prophets, saying, Should I c weepe in the fift moneth, and d separate my selfe as I haue done these so many e yeeres?

4 Then came the worde of the Lorde of hostes vnto me, saying,

5 Speake vnto all the people of the land, & to the f Priests, and say, When ye fasted, and mourned in the fift and seuenth moneth, euen these seuentie yeeres, did yee fast vnto me? and g do I approoue it?

6 And when ye did eate, & when ye did drinke, did ye not eate h for your selues, and drinke for your selues?

7 Should ye not heare the words, which the Lord i hath cried by the ministery of the former Prophets when Ierusalem was inhabited, and in prosperitie, and the cities thereof round about her, when the South and the plaine was inhabited?

8 And the worde of the Lord came vnto Zechariah, saying,

9 Thus speaketh the Lord of hosts, saying, k Execute true iudgement, and shewe mercie and compassion, euery man to his brother,

10 And oppresse not the widowe, nor the fatherlesse, the stranger nor the poore, and let none of you imagine euill against his brother in your heart.

11 But they refused to hearken, & l pulled away the shoulder, and stopped their eares, that they should not heare.

12 Yea, they made their heartes as an adamant stone, least they should heare the Lawe and the wordes which the Lorde of hostes sent in his m spirite by the ministerie of the former Prophets: therefore came a great wrath from the Lord of hostes.

13 Therefore it is come to passe, that as he cried, and they would not heare, so they cryed, and I would not heare, saieth the Lord of hostes.

14 But I scattered them among all the nations, whome they knew not: thus the land was desolate n after them, that no man passed through nor returned: for they layd the pleasant land o waste.

a Which conteined part of Nouember and part of December.

b That is, the rest of the people that remained yet in Caldea, sent to the Church at Ierusalem, for the resolution of these questions, because these feastes were consented vpon by the agreement of the whole Church, the one in the moneth that the Temple was destroyed, and the other, when Gedaliah was slaine, Ier.41.1,2.

c By weeping and mourning appeare what exercises they vsed in their fasting.

d That is, prepare my selfe with all deuotion to this fast.

e Which was now since the time the Temple was destroyed, f For there were both of the people, and of the Priests, which doubted as touching this controuersie, besides them which as yet remayned in Caldea, and reasoned of it, as of one of the chiefe pointes of their religion.

g For they thought they had deserued towarde God, because of this fast, which they inuented of themselues: and though fasting of it selfe be good, yet because they thought it a seruice toward God, and trusted therein, it is here reproued.

h Did ye not eate and drinke for your owne commoditie and necessitie? and so likewise ye did abstaine according to your owne fantasies, and not after the prescript of my Lawe.

i Hereby he condemneth their hypocrisie, which thought by their fasting to please God, and by such things as they inuented, and in the meane season would not serue him as he had commanded.

k Hee sheweth that they did not fast with a sincere heart, but for an hypocrisie, and that it was not done of a pure religion, because that they lacked these offices of charitie, which should haue declared that they were godly, Mat.23.23.

l And would not carry the Lordes burden, which was sweete and easie, but woulde beare their owne, which was heauie and grieuous to the flesh, thinking to merit thereby: which similitude is taken of Oxen, which shrinke at the yoke, Nehem.9.29.

m Which declareth that they rebelled not onely against the Prophets, but against the Spirit of God that spake in them.

n That is, after they were carried captiue.

o By their sinnes whereby they prouoked Gods anger.

CHAP. VIII.

2 Of the returne of the people vnto Ierusalem, and of the mercie of God toward them. 16 Of good workes. 20 The calling of the Gentiles.

a Againe the worde of the Lorde of hostes came to me, saying,

2 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, I was b ielous for Zion with great ielousie, and I was ielous for her with great wrath.

3 Thus saith the Lorde, I will returne vnto Zion, and will dwell in the middes of Ierusalem: and Ierusalem shal be called a b citie of truth, and the Mountaine of the Lord a I loued my citie with a singular loue, so that I could not abide that any shoulde do her any iniury.

b Because she shalbe faithful & loyall toward me her husband.

Lord of hostes, the holy mountaine.

4 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, There shall yet [c] old men and old women dwell in the streetes of Jerusalem, and euery man with his staffe in his hand for very age.

5 And the streetes of the citie shall be full of boyes and girles, playing in the streetes thereof.

6 Thus saith the Lord of hosts, Though it be [d] vnpossible in the eyes of the remnant of this people in these dayes, should it therefore bee vnpossible in my sight, sayeth the Lord of hostes?

7 Thus sayeth the Lorde of hostes, Behold, I will deliuer my people from the East countrey, and from the West countrey,

8 And I will bring them, and they shall [e] dwell in the middes of Jerusalem, and they shall be my people, and I will be their God in trueth and in righteousnesse.

9 Thus saith the Lord of hosts, let your [f] handes bee strong, yee that heare in these dayes these wordes by the mouth of the Prophets, which were in the day that the foundation of the House of the Lorde of hostes was layde, that the Temple might be builded.

10 For before these dayes there was no hire for man nor any hire for beast, neyther was there any peace to him that went out or came in because of the affliction: for I set all men, euery one against his neighbour.

11 But nowe, I will not intreate the residue of this people as aforetime, sayeth the Lord of hostes.

12 For the seede shall be prosperous: the vine shall giue her fruite, and the grounde shall giue her increase, and the heauens shall giue their dewe, and I will cause the remnant of this people to possesse all these things.

13 And it shall come to passe, that as yee were a curse among the heathen, O house of Judah, and house of Israel, so will I deliuer you, and yee shall bee a blessing: feare not, but let your handes be strong.

14 For thus sayth the Lord of hostes, As I thought to punish [h] you, when your fathers prouoked me vnto wrath, sayeth the Lord of hosts, and repented not,

15 So againe haue I determined in these dayes [i] to doe well vnto Jerusalem, and to the house of Judah: feare ye not.

16 These are the things that ye shall doe. Speake yee euery man the trueth vnto his neighbour: execute iudgement truely and vprightly in your gates, 17 And let none of you imagine euill in your hearts against his neighbour, and loue no false othe: for all these are the things that I hate, saith the Lord.

18 And the word of the Lord of hostes came vnto me, saying,

19 Thus saith the Lord of hosts, The fast of the fourth moneth, and the fast of the fift, and the fast of the seuenth, and the fast of the [k] tenth shall bee to the house of Judah ioy and gladnesse, and prosperous hie feastes: therefore loue the trueth and peace.

20 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, That there shall yet come [l] people, and the inhabitants of great cities.

21 And they that dwell in one citie, shall goe to another, saying, * Up, let vs goe and pray before the Lord, and seeke the Lord of hostes: I will goe also.

22 Yea, great people and mighty nations shall come to seeke the Lord of hostes in Jerusalem, and to pray before the Lord.

23 Thus saith the Lord of hosts, In those dayes shall tenne men take holde out of all languages of the nations, euen take holde of the skirt of him that is a Iewe, and say, We will goe with you: for we haue heard, that God is with you.

c Though their enemies did greatly molest and trouble them, yet God woulde come and dwell among them, and so preserue them so long as nature would suffer them to liue, and encrease their children in great abundance.

d He sheweth wherein our faith standeth, that is, to beleeue that God can perfourme that which he hath promised, though it seeme neuer so vnpossible to man, Gen. 18.14. Rom. 4.20.

e So that their returne shall not be in vaine: for God wiill accomplish his promise, and their prosperitie shall bee sure and stable.

f Let neither respect of your priuate commodities, neither counsell of others, nor feare of enemies discourage you in the going forward with the building of the Temple, but be constant and obey the Prophets, which incourage you thereunto.

g For God cursed your worke, so that neither man nor beast had profite of their labours.

h Reade Ezek. 18.20.

i Which declareth that man cannot turne to God till he change mans heart by his Spirit, and so begin to doe well, which is to pardon his sinnes, and to giue him graces.

k Which fast was appoynted when the citie was besieged, and was the first fast of these foure: and here the Prophet sheweth that if the Iewes will repent, and turne wholly to God, they shall haue no more occasion to fast, or to shewe signes of heauinesse: for God will send them ioy and gladnesse.

l He declareth the great zeale that God shoulde giue the Gentiles to come to his Church, and to ioyne with the Iewes in his true religion, which should bee in the kingdome of Christ. Isai 2.2. Micah 4.1.

CHAP. IX.

1 The threatning of the Gentiles. 9 The comming of Christ.

THE burden of the word of the Lord in the land of [a] Hadrach: and Damascus shall be his [b] rest: when the [c] eyes of man, euen of all the tribes of Israel shalbe toward the Lord.

2 And Hamath also shall border [d] thereby: Tyrus also and Zidon, though they bee [e] very wise.

3 For Tyrus did build her selfe a strong hold, and heaped vp siluer as the dust, and golde as the myre of the streetes.

4 Behold, the Lord will spoyle her, and hee will smite her [f] power in the Sea, and she shall be deuoured with fire.

5 Ashkelon shall see it, and feare, and Azzah also shall be very sorowfull, and Ekron: for her countenance shall bee ashamed, and the king shall perish from Azzah, and Ashkelon shall not be inhabited.

6 And the [g] stranger shall dwell in Ashdod, and I will cut off the pride of the Philistims.

7 And I will take away his blood out of his mouth, and his abominations from betweene his [h] teeth: but hee that remaineth, euen hee shall be for our God, and he shall be as a prince in Judah, but [i] Ekron shall bee as a Iebusite.

8 And I will campe about [k] mine house against the armie, against him that passeth by, and against him that returneth, and no oppressour shall come vpon them a Whereby he meaneth Syria.

b Gods anger shall abide vpon their chiefe citie, and not spare so much as that.

c When the Iewes shall conuert and repent, then God will destroy their enemies.

d That is, by Damascus meaning that Hamath or Antiochia should be vnder the same rodde and plague.

e Hee secretly sheweth the cause of their destruction, because they deceiued all other by their craft and subtiltie, which they cloked with this name of Wisedome.

f Though they of Tyrus thinke themselues inuincible by reason of the Sea that compasseth them round about, yet they shall not escape Gods iudgements.

g Meaning, that all shoulde bee destroyed saue a very fewe, that shoulde remaine as strangers.

h Hee promiseth to deliuer the Iewes when hee shall take vengeance on their enemies for their crueltie, and wrongs done to them.

i As the Iebusites had bene destroyed, so shoulde Ekron and all the Philistims.

k Hee sheweth that Gods power onely shall bee sufficient to defend his Church against all aduersaries, be they neuer so cruell, or assemble their power neuer so often.

any more: for nowe I haue I seene with mine eyes.

9 Reioyce greatly, O daughter Zion: shoute for ioye, O daughter Ierusalem: beholde, thy king commeth vnto thee: [m] hee is iust and saued himselfe, poore and riding vpon an [n] asse, and vpon a colte the foale of an asse.

10 And I will cut off the [o] charets from Ephraim, and the horse from Ierusalem: the bowe of the battell shall be broken, and he shall speake peace vnto the heathen, and his dominion shall bee from [p] sea vnto sea, and from the [q] riuer to the end of the land.

11 [r] Thou also shalt be saued through the blood of thy couenant. I haue looked thy [s] prisoners out of the pitte wherein is no water.

12 Turne you to the [t] strong holde, yee [u] prisoners of hope: euen to day doe I declare, that I will render the [x] double vnto thee.

13 For Iudah haue I [y] bent as a bowe for me: Ephraims hand haue I filled, and I haue raised vp thy sonnes, O Zion, against thy sonnes, O Grecia, and haue made thee as a gyants sword.

14 And the Lord shalbe seene ouer them, and his arrowe shall goe forth as the lightning: and the Lorde God shall blowe the trumpet, and shall come forth with the whirlewindes of the South.

15 The Lord of hostes shall defend them, and they shall deuoure them, [z] and subdue them with sling stones, [&] they shall drinke, and make a noyse as throwe wine, and they shall bee filled like bowles, and as the hornes of the altar.

16 And the Lord their God shall deliuer them in that day as the flocke of his people: for they shall bee as the [a] stones of the crowne lifted vp vpon his land.

17 For howe great is his goodnesse! and how great is his beautie! corne shall make the yong men cheerefull, and newe wine the maides.

1 That is, God hath nowe seene the great iniuries and afflictions wherewith they haue bene afflicted by their enemies.

m That is, hee hath righteousnesse and saluation in himselfe for the vse and commoditie of his Church.

n Which declareth that they should not looke for such a King as should be glorious in the eyes of man, but should be poore, and yet in himselfe haue all power to deliuer his: and this is meant of Christ, as Mat. 21.5.

o No power of man or creature shall be able to let this kingdome of Christ, and he shall peaceably gouerne them by his word.

p That is, from the red sea, to the sea called Syriacum: and by these places which the Iewes knew he meant an infinite space and compasse ouer the whole world.

q That is, from Euphrates.

r Meaning, Ierusalem or the Church which is saued by the blood of Christ, whereof the blood of the sacrifices was a figure, and is here called the couenant of the Church, because God made it with his Church, and left it with them for the loue that he bare vnto them.

s God sheweth that he will deliuer his Church out of all dangers, seeme they neuer so great.

t That is, into the holy land, where the citie and the Temple are, where God will defend you.

u Meaning, the faithfull, which seemed to be in danger of their enemies on euery side, and yet liued in hope that God would restore them to libertie.

x That is, double benefites, and prosperitie in respect of that which your fathers inioyed from Dauids time to the captiuitie.

y I will make Iudah and Ephraim, that is, my whole Church, victorious against all enemies, which hee here meaneth by the Grecians.

z Hee promiseth that the Iewes shall destroy their enemies and haue abundance, and excesse of all things, as there is abundance on the altar when the sacrifice is offered: which things are not to moue them to intemperancie, but to sobrietie, and a thankefull remembrance of Gods great liberalitie.

a The faithfull shall bee preserued, and reuerenced of all, that the very enemies shall bee compelled to esteeme them: for Gods glory shall shine in them, as Iosephus declareth of Alexander the great, when hee mette Iadi the hie Priest.

CHAP. X.

a The vanitie of idolatrie. 3 The Lord promiseth to visite and comfort the house of Israel.

ASke you of the [a] Lord raine in the time of the latter raine: so shall the Lord make white cloudes, and giue you showres of raine, and to euery one grasse in the fielde.

2 Surely [b] the idoles haue spoken vanitie, and the soothsayers haue seene a lie, and the dreamers haue tolde a vaine thing: they comfort in vaine: therefore [c] they went away as sheepe: they were troubled, because there was no shepheard.

3 My wrath was kindled against the shepheards, and I did visite the [d] goates: but the Lord of hostes will visite his flocke the house of Iudah, and will make them as [e] his beautifull horse in the battell.

4 Out [f] of him shall the corner come forth: out of him the nayle, out of him the bowe of battell, and out of him euery [g] appointer of tribute also.

5 And they shall be as the mightie men, which treade downe their enemies in the myre of the streetes in the battell, and they shall fight, because the Lord is with them, and the riders on horses shalbe confounded.

6 And I will strengthen the house of Iudah, and I will preserue the house [h] of Ioseph, and I will bring them againe, for I pitie them: and they shall bee as though I had not cast them off: for I am the Lord their God, and will heare them.

7 And they of Ephraim shall bee as a gyant, and their heart shall reioyce as through wine: yea, their children shall see it, and be glad: and their heart shall reioyce in the [i] Lord.

8 I will [k] hisse for them, and gather them: for I haue redeemed them: and they shall encrease, as they haue encreased.

9 And I will [l] sowe them among the people, and they shall remember mee in farre countreys: and they shall liue with their children and [l] turne againe.

10 I will bring them againe also out of the land of Egypt, and gather them out of Assyria: and I will bring them into the land of Gilead, and Lebanon, and place shall not be found for them.

11 And hee [m] shall goe into the sea with affliction, and shall smite the waues in the sea, and all the depthes of the riuer shall dry vp: and the pride of Assyria shall bee cast downe, and the scepter of Egypt shall depart away.

12 And I will strengthen them in the [i] Lord, and they shall walke in his Name, saith the Lord.

a The Prophet reproueth the Iewes, because by their owne infidelitie they put backe Gods graces promised, and so famine came by Gods iust iudgement: therefore to auoyd this plague, he willeth them to returne to God, and to pray in faith to him, and so he wil giue them abundance.

b He calleth to remembrance Gods punishments in times past, because they trusted not in him, but in their idoles and forcerers who euer deceiued them.

c That is, the Iewes went into captiuitie.

d Meaning, the cruel gouernours which did oppresse the poore sheepe, Ezek. 34.16.17.

e Hee will be mercifull to his Church, and cherish them as a King or Prince doeth his best horse, which shall be for his owne vse in the warre.

f Out of Iudah shall the chiefe gouernour proceede, who shall be as a corner to vpholde the building, and as a nayle to fasten it together.

g Ouer their enemies.

h That is, the tenne tribes, which shoulde bee gathered vnder Christ to the rest of the Church.

i Whereby hee declareth the power of God, who needeth no great preparation when hee will deliuer his: for with a becke or hisse hee can call them from all places suddenly.

k Though they shall yet bee scattered and seeme to be lost, yet it shall bee profitable vnto them: for there they shall come to the knowledge of my Name, which was accomplished vnder the Gospel, among whome it was first preached.

l Not that they shoulde returne into their countrey, but bee gathered and ioyned in one faith by the doctrine of the Gospel.

m Hee alludeth to the deliuerance of the people out of Egypt, whereas the Angel smote the floods and riuers.

CHAP. XI.

1 The deſtruction of the Temple. 4 The care of the faithfull committed to Chriſt. 7 A grieuous viſion againſt Ieruſalem and Iudah.

OPen thy doores, O [a] Lebanon, and the fire ſhall deuoure thy cedars.

2 Houle, [b] firre trees: for the cedar is fallen, becauſe all the mightie are deſtroyed: houle yee, O okes of Baſhan, for the [c] defenced foreſt is cut downe.

3 There is the voyce of the houling of the ſhepheards: for their [d] glory is deſtroyed: the voyce of the roaring of lyons whelpes: for the pride of Iorden is deſtroyed.

4 Thus ſaith the Lorde my God, Feede the ſheepe of the [e] ſlaughter.

5 They that poſſeſſe them, ſlay them, [f] and ſinne not: and they that ſell them, ſay, [g] Bleſſed be the Lorde: for I am riche, and their owne ſhepheards ſpare them not.

6 Surely I will no more ſpare thoſe that dwell in the land ſaith the Lorde: but lo, [h] I will deliuer the men euery one into his neighbours hande, and into the hand of his King: and they ſhall ſmite the lande, and out of their hands I will not deliuer them.

7 For I fed the ſheepe of ſlaughter, euen the [k] poore of the flocke, and I tooke vnto me [l] two ſtaues: the one I called Beautie, and the other I called Bands, and I feede the ſheepe.

8 [m] Three ſhepheards alſo I cut off in one moneth, and my ſoule loathed [n] them, and their ſoule abhorred me.

9 Then ſaid I, I will not feede you: that that dieth, let it die: and that that periſheth, let it periſh: and let the remnant eate, euery one the fleſh of his neighbour.

10 And I tooke my ſtaffe, euen Beauty, and brake it, that I might diſanull my couenant, which I had made with all people.

11 And it was broken in that day: and ſo the [o] poore of the sheepe that waited vpon me, knew that it was the word of the Lord.

12 And I ſayd vnto them, If yee thinke it good, giue mee [p] my wages: and if no, leaue off: ſo they weighed for my wages thirtie peices of ſiluer.

13 And the Lord ſaid vnto me, Caſt it vnto the [q] porter: a goodly price, that I was valued at of them. And I tooke the thirtie peices of ſiluer, and caſt them to the potter in the houſe of the Lord.

14 Then brake I mine other ſtaffe, euen the Bands, that I might diſſolue the brotherhoode betweene Iudah and Iſrael.

15 And the Lord ſayd vnto me, Take to thee yet [r] the inſtruments of a fooliſh ſheepheard.

16 For lo, I will raiſe vp a ſhepheard in the lande, which ſhall not looke for the thing, that is loſt, nor ſeeke the tender lambes, nor heale that that is hurt, nor feede that that ſtandeth vp: but hee ſhall eat the fleſh of the fat, and teare their clawes in peices.

17 O idole ſhepheard that leaueth the flocke: the ſworde ſhall bee vpon his [t] arme, and vpon his right eye. His arme ſhall bee cleane dried vp, and his right eye ſhall bee vtterly darkned.

a Becauſe the Iewes thought themſelues ſo ſtrong by reaſon of this mountaine, that no enemie could come to hurt them the Prophet ſheweth that when God ſendeth the enemies, it ſhall ſhew it ſelfe ready to receiue them.

b Shewing, that if the ſtrong men were deſtroyed, the weaker were not able to reſiſt.

c Seeing that Lebanon was deſtroyed, which was the ſtrongeſt munition, the weaker places could not thinke to holde out.

d That is, the renoume of Iudah and Iſrael ſhould periſh.

e Which being now deſtinate to be ſlaine, were deliuered as out of the Lions mouth.

f Their gouernours deſtroy them without any remorſe of conſcience, or yet thinking that they doe euil.

g He noteth the hypocrites, which euer haue the name of God in their mouthes, though in their life and doings they denie God, attributing their gaine to Gods bleſſing, which commeth of the ſpoyle of their brethren.

h I will cauſe one to deſtroy another.

i Their gouernours ſhall execute crueltie ouer them.

k That is, the ſmall remnant, whome he thought worthie to ſhew mercie vnto.

l God ſheweth his great benefites toward his people to conuince them of greater ingratitude, which woulde neither bee ruled by his moſt beautifull order of gouernment, neither continue in the bands of brotherly vnitie, and therefore hee breaketh both the one and the other. Some reade, for Bands deſtroyers, but in the 14. verſe the firſt reading is confirmed.

m Whereby he ſheweth his care and diligence that he would ſuffer them to haue no euill rulers, becauſe they ſhould conſider his great loue.

n Meaning the people, becauſe they woulde not acknowledge theſe great benefits of God.

o Hee ſheweth that the leaſt part euer profit by Gods iudgements.

p Beſides their ingratitude God accuſeth them of malice and wickednesſe, which did not only forget his benefites, but eſteemed them as things of nought.

q Shewing that it was too litle to pay his wages, which could ſcarce ſuffice to make a few tiles for to couer the Temple.

r Signifying, that they ſhould haue a certaine kinde of regiment, and outward ſhew of gouernment: but in effect it ſhould be nothing: for they ſhould bee wolues, and deuouring beaſts in ſteade of ſheepheards.

s And is in health and ſound.

t By the arme hee ſignifieth ſtrength, as he doth wiſedome and iudgement by the eye, that is, the plague of God ſhal take away both thy ſtrength and iudgement.

CHAP. XII.

Of the deſtruction & building againe of Ieruſalem.

THe burden of the worde of the Lord vpon [a] Iſrael, ſaith the Lord, which ſpread the heauens, and laid the foundation of the earth, and formed the ſpirit of man within him.

2 Beholde, I will make Ieruſalem a [b] cup of poyſon vnto all the people rounde about: and alſo with Iudah will he bee, in the ſiege againſt Ieruſalem.

3 And in that day will I make Ieruſalem an heauie ſtone for all people: all that lift it vp, ſhalbe torne, though all the people of the earth be gathered together againſt it.

4 In that day, ſayeth the Lorde, I will ſmite euery horſe with ſtonyſhment, and his rider with madneſſe, and I will open mine eies vpon the houſe of Iudah, and will ſmite euery horſe of the people with blindneſſe.

5 And the princes of Iudah ſhall ſay in their hearts, The [c] inhabitants of Ieruſalem ſhalbe my ſtrength in the Lord of hoſts their God.

6 In that day will I make the princes of Iudah like coles of fire among the wood, and like a fire brande in the ſheafe, and they ſhall deuoure all the people rounde about on the right hand and on the left: and Ieruſalem ſhall bee inhabited againe in her owne place, euen in Ieruſalem.

7 The Lord alſo ſhall ſaue the [d] tents of Iudah, as afore time: therefore the glory of the houſe of Dauid ſhall not boaſt, nor the glory of the inhabitants of Ieruſalem againſt Iudah.

8 In that day ſhall the Lord defend the inhabitants of Ieruſalem, and hee that is feeble among them, in that day ſhall be as Dauid: and the houſe of Dauid ſhall bee as Gods houſe, and as the Angell of the Lorde before them.

9 And in that day will I ſeeke to deſtroy all the nations that come againſt Ieruſalem.

10 And I will powre vpon the houſe of a That is, the ten tribes which neglected Gods benefit in deliuering their brethren, and had rather remaine in captiuitie, then to returne home, when God called them.

b Ieruſalem ſhal bedefended againſt al her enemies. So ſhal God defend all Iudah alſo, and ſhal deſtroy the enemies

c Euery captaine that had many vnder him afore, ſhal now thinke that the ſmall power of Ieruſalem ſhalbe ſufficient to defend them againſt all enemies, becauſe the Lord is among them.

d The people which are now as it were diſperſed by the fields, and lye open to their enemies, ſhall be no leſſe preſerued by my power, then if they were vnder their kings, (which is meant by the houſe of Dauid) or in their defenced cities.

Dauid, and vpon the inhabitants of Ierusalem the Spirit of e grace and of compassion, and they shall looke vpon mee, whome they haue f pearced, and they shall lament for g him, as one mourneth for his onely sonne, and be sorie for him as one is sory for his first borne.

e They shall haue the feeling of my grace by faith, and knowe that I haue compassion on them.

f That is, whom they haue continually vexed with their obstinacie, and grieued my Spirit, Iohn 19.37. where it is referred to Christes bodie, which here is referred to the Spirit of God.

g They shall turne to God by true repentance, their ingratitude, their offences against God.

11 In that day shall there bee a great mourning in Ierusalem, as the h mourning of i Hadadrimmon in the valley of Megiddon.

12 And the k land shal bewaile euery familie apart, the familie of the m house of Dauid apart, and their wiues apart: the familie of the house of Nathan apart, and their wiues apart:

13 The familie of the house of Leui apart, and their wiues apart: the familie of n Shemei apart, and their wiues apart:

14 All the families that o remaine, euery familie apart, and their wiues apart.

h They shall lament and repent exceedingly for whome before they had so grieuously offended by i Which was the name of a towne and place neere to Megiddo where Iosiah was slaine, 2. Chron. 35. 22.

k That is, in all places where the Iewes shall remaine.

l Signifying, that this mourning or repentance should not be a vaine ceremonie: but euery one touched with his owne griefe shal lament.

m Vnder these certaine families hee conteineth all the tribes, and sheweth that both the Kings and the Priestes had by their sinnes pearced Christ.

n Called also Simeon.

o To wit, which were elect by grace, and preserued from the common destruction.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Of the fountaine of grace. 2 Of the cleane riddance of idolatrie. 3 The zeale of the godly against false prophets.

IN that day there a shall bee a fountaine opened to the house of Dauid, and to the inhabitants of Ierusalem, for sinne and for vncleannesse.

a He sheweth what shall be the fruit of their repentance, to wit, remission of sinnes by the blood of Christ, which shall be a continuall running fountaine, and purge them from all vncleanesse.

2 And in that day, saieth the Lorde of hostes, I will cut off the b names of the idoles out of the lande: and they shall no more be remembred: and I will cause the c prophets, and the vncleane spirite to depart out of the land.

b He promiseth that God wil also purge them from all superstition and that their religion shal be pure.

3 And when any shall yet d propheste, his father and his mother that begate him, shall say vnto him, Thou shalt not liue: for thou speakest lies in the name of the Lorde: and his father and his mother that begate him, e shall thrust him through, when hee propheseth.

c Meaning, the false prophets and teachers, who are the corrupters of all religion, whome the Prophet here calleth vncleane spirites.

4 And in that day shall the prophets f be ashamed euery one of his vision, when hee hath propheseted: neither shall they weare a rough garment to deceiue.

d That is, when they shall propheste lies, and make God, who is the authour of trueth, a cloke thereunto.

5 But hee shall say, I am no g Prophet: I am an husbandman: for man taught mee to be an heardman from my youth vp.

e Hee sheweth what zeale the godly shall haue vnder the kingdome of Christ, Deuter. 13.6, 9.

6 And one shall say vnto him, What are these h wounds in thine handes? Then heeh shal answere, Thus was I wounded in the house of my friends.

f God shall make them ashamed of their errours and lies, and bring them to repentance, and they shall no more weare Prophets apparell to make their doctrine seeme more holy.

g They shall confesse their former ignorance, and be content to labour for their liuing.

Hereby he sheweth that though their parents and friends delt more gently with them and put them not to death, yet they would so punish their children, that became false prophets, that the markes and signes should remaine for euer.

h The Prophet warneth the Iewes, that before this great comfort should come vnder Christ, there should be an horrible diffipation among the people: for their gouernours and pastours should bee destroyed, and the people should be as scattered sheepe: and the Euangelist applyeth this to Christ, because hee was the head of all pastors, Mat. 26.31.

7 ¶ Arise, O sword, vpon my i shepheard, and vpon the man, that is my fellowe, saieth the Lord of hostes: smite the shepheard, and the sheepe shalbe scattered: and I wil turne mine hand vpon the litle ones.

i The greatest part shall haue no portion of these blessings, and yet they that shall enioy them, shall be tried with great afflictions, so that it shall be knowen that onely Gods power and his mercies doe preserue them.

8 And k in all the land, saieth the Lord, two parts therein shall be cut off, and die: but the third shall be left therein.

9 And I will bring that third part thorow the fire, and will fine them as the siluer is fined, and will trie them as gold is tryed: they shal call on my Name, and I wil heare them: I will say, It is my people, and they shall say, The Lord is my God.

k Hearmeth the godly against the great tentations that should come before they enioyed this prosperous estate promised vnder Christ, that when these dangers should come, they might know that they were warned of them afore.

CHAP. XIIII.

8 Of the doctrine that shall proceede out of the Church, and of the restauration thereof.

BEholde, the day of the Lorde commeth, and thy spoyle shall bee a diuided in the middes of thee.

a As your fathers and you haue had experience both at the red sea, and at al other times.

2 For I will gather all nations against Ierusalem to battel, and the citie shall be taken, and the houses spoyled, and the women defiled, and halfe of the citie shal goe into captiuitie, and the residue of the people shall not be cut off from the citie.

3 Then shal the Lord go forth, and fight against those nations, as when b he fought in the day of battell.

b By this maner of speach the Prophet sheweth Gods power and care ouer his Church, and how he will as it were by miracle saue it.

4 And his feete shall stande in that day vpon the c mount of oliues, which is before Ierusalem on the East side, and the mount of oliues shal cleaue in the middes thereof: toward the East and toward the West there shall bee a very great d valley, and halfe of the mountaine shall remoue towarde the North, and halfe of the mountaine towarde the South.

c By this meanes the Prophet sheweth that though the Church should be destroyed, yet it should be restored.

5 And yee shall flee vnto the e valley of the mountaines: for the valley of the mountaines shal reach vnto Azal: yea, ye shall flee like as ye fled from the f earthquake in the dayes of Uzziah king of Iudah: and the Lord g my God shall come, and al the saints with thee.

e He speaketh of the hypocrites, which could not abide Gods presence, but should flee into all places, where they might hide them among the mountaines.

f Reade Amos 1.1.

6 And in that day shall there be no cleare light, but darke.

7 And there shalbe a day (it is knowen to g Because they did not credite the Prophets words, he turneth to God, and comforteth himselfe in that that hee knewe that these thinges should come, and saith, Thou, O God, with thine Angels wilt come to performe this great thing.

d So that out of all the parts of the world they shall see Ierusalem, which was before hid with this mountaine: and this hee meaneth of the spirituall Ierusalem the Church.

h Signifying, that there should be great troubles in the Church, and that the time hereof is in the Lords hands, yet at length (which is here meant by the euening) God would send comfort.

the Lord) h neither day nor night, but about the euening time it shalbe light.

8 And in that day shall there i waters of life goe out from Jerusalem, halfe of them toward the East sea, and halfe of them toward the vttermost sea, and shalbe both in sommer and winter.

9 And the Lord shalbe King ouer all the earth: in that day shall there be one k Lord, and his Name shall be one.

10 All the land shall be turned l as a plaine from Geba to Rimmon, toward the South of Jerusalem, & it shall be lifted vp, and inhabited in her place: from Beniamins gate vnto the place of the first gate, vnto the corner gate, and from the towre of Hananel, vnto the Kings wine presses.

11 And men shall dwell in it, and there shall be no more destruction, but Jerusalem shalbe safely inhabited.

12 And this shall be the plague, wherewith the Lorde will smite all people, that haue fought against Jerusalem: their flesh shall consume away, though they stand vpon their feete, and their eyes shall consume in their holes, and their tongue shall consume in their mouth.

13 But in that day, m a great tumult of the Lord shalbe among them, and euery one shall take the n hand of his neighbour, and his hand shall rise vp against the hand of his neighbour.

14 And Judah shall fight also against Jerusalem, and the arme of all the heathen shalbe gathered round about, with o golde and siluer, and great abundance of apparel.

15 Yet this shalbe the plague of the horse, of the Mule, of the Camell, and of the asse, and of all the beastes that be in these tents as this p plague.

16 But it shall come to passe that euery one that is left of all q nations, which came against Jerusalem, shall goe vp from yeere to yeere to worship the King the Lorde of hostes, & to keepe the feast of Tabernacles.

17 And who so will not come vp of all the families of the earth vnto Jerusalem to worship the King the Lord of hostes, euen vpon them shall come no raine.

18 And if the familie of q Egypt goe not vp, and come not, it shall not raine vpon them. This shalbe the plague wherewith the Lord will smite all the heathen, that come not vp to keepe the feast of Tabernacles.

19 This shall be the punishment of Egypt, and the punishment of all the nations that come not vp to keepe the feast of Tabernacles.

20 In that day shall there be written vpon the r bridles of the horses, The holinesse vnto the Lord, and the s pots in the Lordes house shalbe like the bowels before ỹ altar.

21 Yea, euery pot in Jerusalem and t Judah shall be holy vnto the Lorde of hostes, and all they that sacrifice, shall come and take of them, and seethe therein: and in that day there shalbe no more the u Canaanite in the House of the Lord of hostes.

i That is, the spirituall graces of God, which should euer continue in most abundance.

k All idolatrie and superstition shalbe abolished, and there shalbe one God, one faith, and one religion.

l This newe Jerusalem shalbe seene through all the world, and shall excell the first in excellencie, wealth and greatnesse.

m God wil not onely raise vp warre without, but sedition at home to trie them.

n To hurt and oppresse him.

o The enemies are rich, and therefore shall not come for a pray, but to destroy and shed blood.

p As the men should be destroyed, verse 12.

q By the Egyptians, which were greatest enemies to true religion, he meaneth all the Gentiles.

r Signifying, that to what seruice they were put now (whether to labour, or to serue in warre) they were nowe holy, because the Lord had sanctified them.

s As precious the one as the other, because they shal be sanctified.

t But all shall be pure and cleane, and there shall neither be hypocrite, or any that shall corrupt the true seruice of God.

Malachi.

THE ARGVMENT.

THis Prophet was one of the three, which God raised vp for the comfort of his Church after the captiuitie, and after him there was no more vntill Iohn Baptist was sent, which was either a token of Gods wrath, or an admonition that they should with more feruent desires looke for the comming of Messias. He confirmeth the same doctrine, that the two former doe, but chiefly he reprooueth the Priests for their couetousnesse, and for that they serued God after their owne fantasies, and not according to ỹ prescript of his word. He also noteth certaine peculiar sinnes, which were then among them, as marying of idolatrous and many wiues, murmurings against God, impatiencie, and such like. Notwithstanding, for the comfort of the godly, he declareth that God would not forget his promise made vnto their fathers, but would send Christ his messenger, in whome the couenant should be accomplished, whose comming should be terrible to the wicked, & bring all consolation & ioy vnto the godly.

CHAP. I.

A complaint against Israel and chiefly the priests.

a Reade Isai. 13. 1.

b Which declareth their great ingratitude that did not acknowledge this loue, which was so euident in that hee chose Abraham from out of all the worlde, and next chose Iaakob the yonger brother of whome they came, and left Esau the elder.

c For besides that the signes of mine hatred appeared euen when hee was made seruant vnto his yonger brother, being yet in his mothers belly, and also afterwarde in that hee was put from his birthright, yet euen nowe before your eyes the signes hereof are euident, in that that his countrey lyeth waste, and he shall neuer returne to inhabite it, whereas yee my people, whom the enemie hated more then them, are by my grace and loue toward you deliuered, reade Rom. 9. 13.

THe a burden of the worde of the Lord to Israel by the ministerie of Malachi.

2 I haue loued you, saith the Lord: yet yee say, b Wherein hast thou loued vs? Was not Esau Iaakobs brother, saith the Lord? yet I loued Iaakob,

3 And I c hated Esau, and made his mountaines waste, and his heritage a wilderneſſe for dragons.

4 Though Edom say, We are impouerished, but we will returne, and builde the desolate places, yet saith the Lord of hostes, They shall build, but I will destroy it, and they shall call them, The border of wickednesse, and the people, with whom the Lorde is angry for euer.

5 And your eyes shall see it, and ye shall say, The Lorde wil be magnified vpon the border of Israel.

6 A sonne honoureth his father, and a seruant his master. If then I bee a father, where is mine honour? And if I be a master, where is my feare, saith the Lorde of hostes vnto you, d O Priestes, that despise my Name? and ye say, e Wherein haue we despised thy Name?

d Besides the rest of the people he condemneth the Priestes chiefly, because they should haue reprooued others for their hypocrisie, and obstinacie against God, and not haue hardened them by their example to greater euils.

e Hee noteth their grosse hypocrisie, which would not see their faults, but f Ye receiue all maner offerings for your owne griedinesse, and doe not examine whether they be according to my Lawe or no.

g Not that they sayd thus, but by their doings they declared no lesse.

h You make it no fault: whereby he condemneth them, that thinke it sufficient to serue God partly as he hath commaunded, and partly after mans fantasie, and so come not to that pureness of religion, which he requireth, and therefore in reproch he sheweth them that a mortall man would not be content to be so serued.

i He derideth the Priests who bare the people in hand, that they prayed for them, and shewed that they were the occasion, that these euils came vpon the people.

k Will God consider your office and state, seeing you are so couetous and wicked?

7 Ye offer f vncleane bread vpon mine altar, and you say, Wherein haue we polluted thee? In that ye say the table of the Lord is not g to be regarded.

8 And if yee offer the blinde for sacrifice, it is h not euill: and if yee offer the lame and sicke, it is not euill: offer it nowe vnto thy Prince: will hee be content with thee, or accept thy person, sayth the Lord of hostes?

9 And nowe, I pray you, i pray before God, that hee may haue mercy vpon vs: this hath bene by your meanes: will hee regard k your persons, sayth the Lorde of hostes?

10 Who is there euen among you, that would shut the doores, and kindle not fire on mine altar in vaine? I haue no pleasure in you, sayth the Lorde of hostes, neither will I accept an offering at your hand.

11 For from the rising of the Sunne vnto the going downe of the same, my Name is l great among the Gentiles, and in euery place incense shall be offered vnto my Name, and a pure offering: for my Name is great among the Heathen, sayeth the Lord of hostes.

12 But yee haue polluted it, in that ye say, The table of the Lord is m polluted, and the fruite thereof, euen his meate is not to be regarded.

13 Ye sayd also, Beholde, it is a n wearines, and ye haue snuffed at it, saith the Lord of hostes, and yee offered that which was torne, and the lame, and the sicke: thus yee offered an offering: should I accept this of your hand, sayth the Lord?

14 But cursed bee the deceiuer, which hath in his flocke p a male, and voweth, and sacrificeth vnto the Lorde a corrupt thing: for I am a great king, saith the Lord of hostes, and my Name is terrible among the heathen.

A Nd nowe, O yee a Priestes, this commandement is for you.

2 If yee will not heare it, nor consider it in your heart, to giue glory b vnto my Name, saith the Lord of hostes, I will euen send a curse vpon you, and will curse your c blessings: yea, I haue cursed them already, because yee doe not consider it in your heart.

3 Beholde, I will corrupt d your seede, and cast dounge vpon your faces, euen the e dounge of your solemne feastes, and you shall be like vnto it.

4 And ye shall knowe, that I haue f sent this commandement vnto you, that my couenant which I made with Leui, might stand, sayth the Lord of hostes.

5 My g couenant was with him of life and peace, and I h gaue him feare, and hee feared mee, and was afraide before i my Name.

6 The law of k trueth was in his mouth, and there was no iniquitie found in his lippes: hee walked with mee in peace and equitie, and did turne many away from iniquitie.

7 For the Priestes l lips should preserue knowledge, and they should seeke the Lawe at his mouth: for hee is the m messenger of the Lord of hostes.

8 But yee are gone out of the way: yee haue caused many to fall by the Lawe: yee haue broken the couenant of Leui, sayth the Lord of hostes.

9 Therefore haue I also made you to be despised, and vile before all the people, because ye kept not my wayes, but haue bene partiall in the Law.

10 Haue wee not all one n father? hath not one God made vs? why doe wee transgresse euery one against his brother, and breake the couenant of o our fathers?

11 Iudah hath transgressed, and an abomination is committed in Israel and in Ierusalem, for Iudah hath defiled the holines of the Lord, which he loued, and hath maried the p daughter of a strange god.

12 The Lord will cut off the man that doeth this: both the master and the seruant out of the Tabernacle of Iaakob and him that q offereth an offering vnto the Lorde of hostes.

13 And this haue yee done againe, and r couered the altar of the Lorde with teares, with weeping and with mourning:

a He speaketh vnto them chiefly, but vnder them he conteineth the people also.

b To serue me according to my worde.

c That is, the abundance of Gods benefites.

d Your seede sowen shal come to no profite.

e You boast of your holines, sacrifices & feasts, but they shall turne to your shame, and be as vile as doung.

f The Priestes obiected against the Prophet that hee could not reproue them, but hee must speake against the priesthood, & the office established of God by promise, but hee sheweth, that the office is nothing slandered, when these villaines and doung are called by their owne names.

g He sheweth what were the two conditions of the couenant made with the tribe of Leui: on Gods part, that hee would giue them long life & felicitie, and on their part, that they shoulde faithfully serue him according to his worde.

h I prescribed Leui a certaine Law to serue me.

i He serued me & set forth my glory with all humilitie and submission.

k He sheweth that the Priest ought to haue knowledge to instruct others in the worde of the Lord.

l He is as the treasure house of Gods word and ought to giue to euery one according to their necessitie, & not to reserue it for himselfe.

m Shewing, that whosoeuer doeth not declare Gods wil, is not his messenger, and Priest.

n The Prophet accuseth the ingratitude of the Iewes toward God and man: for seeing they were all borne of one father Abraham, and God had elected them to be his holy people, they ought neither to offend God nor their brethren.

o Whereby they had bound themselues to God to bee an holy people.

p They haue ioyned themselues in mariage with them that are of another religion.

q That is, the Priests.

r Ye cause the people to lament, because that God doeth not regard their sacrifices, so that they seeme to sacrifice in vaine.

CHAP. II.

Threatnings against the Priestes being seducers of the people.

because because the offering is no more regarded, neither receiued acceptably at your hands.

14 Yet ye say, f Wherein? Because the Lord hath bene witnesse betweene thee and the wife of thy youth, against whom thou hast transgressed: yet is shee thy g companion, and the wife of thy u couenant.

15 And did not x he make one? yet had he y abundance of spirit: and wherefore one? because he sought a godly z seede: therefore keepe your selues in your a spirite, and let none trespasse against the wife of his youth.

16 If thou hatest her, b put her away, saith the Lord God of Israel, yet hee couereth c the iniurie vnder his garment, saith the Lord of hostes: therefore keepe your selues in your spirit, and transgresse not.

17 Ye haue d wearied the Lord with your wordes: yet yee say, Wherein haue wee wearied him? When yee say, Euery one that e doeth euill, is good in the sight of the Lord, and he deliteth in them. Or where is the God of f iudgement?

f This is another fault, whereof he accuseth them, that is, that they brake the lawes of marriage.
t As the one halfe of thy selfe.
u She that was ioyned to thee by a solemne couenant, and by the inuocation of Gods Name.
x Did not God make man and woman as one flesh and not many?
y By his power and vertue he could haue made many women for one man.
z Such as should be borne in lawful and moderate mariage wherein is no excesse of lusts.
a Conteine your selues within your boundes, and be sober in minde, and bridle your affections.
b Not that he doth allow diuorcement, but of the two faults he sheweth, which is the lesse.
c He thinketh it sufficient to keepe his wife still, albeit hee take others, and so as it were couereth his fault.
d Ye murmured against God, because hee heard not you assoone as yee called.
e In thinking that God fauoured the wicked, and hath no respect to them that serue him.
f Thus they blasphemed God in condemning his power and iustice, because he iudged not according to their fantasies.

CHAP. III.

1 Of the messenger of the Lord Iohn Baptist, and of Christes office.

a This is meant of Iohn Baptist, as Christ expoundeth it, Lu.7.27.
b Meaning, Messiah, as Psal.40.1, 7.dan.9.17,24.
c That is, Christ by whome the couenant was made & ratified. who is called the Angel or messenger of the couenant, because hee reconcileth vs to his father: and is Lord or King, because he hath the gouernment of his Church.
d He sheweth ỹ the hypocrites which wish so much for ỹ Lords cõming, will not abide when he draweth neere: for he will consume them and purge at the Priests that they might be lights & shine vnto others
f They murmured against God, because they saw not his helpe euer present to defend them: & therefore he accuseth thẽ of ingratitude & sheweth that in that they are not dayly consumed, it is a token ỹ he doeth still defend them, and so his mercie toward them neuer changeth.

BEhold, I will send my a messenger, and he shall prepare the way before me: and the b Lord whom yee seeke, shall speedily come to his Temple: euen the c messenger of the couenant whom yee desire: beholde, he shall come, saith the Lord of hostes.

2 But who d may abide the day of his comming? and who shall endure, when he appeareth? for he is like a purging fire, and like fullers sope.

3 And he shall sit downe to trie and fine the siluer: hee shall euen fine the sonnes of e Leui, and purifie them as gold and siluer, that they may bring offerings vnto the Lord in righteousnes.

4 Then shall the offerings of Iudah and Ierusalem be acceptable vnto the Lorde, as in olde time, and in the yeres afore.

5 And I will come neere to you to iudgement, and will bee a swift witnesse against the soothsayers, and against the adulterers, and against false swearers, & against those that wrongfully keepe backe the hirelings wages, and vexe the widow and the fatherlesse, and oppresse the stranger, and feare not me, saith the Lord of hostes.

6 For I am the Lord: I change not, and ye sonnes of Iaakob f are not consumed.

7 From the dayes of your fathers, yee are gone away from mine ordinances, and haue not kept them: g returne vnto me, and I will returne vnto you, sayth the Lorde of hostes: but ye sayde, Wherein shall we returne?

8 Will a h man spoile his gods? yet haue yee spoyled me: but ye say, Wherein haue we spoyled thee? In i tithes and offerings.

9 Ye are cursed with a curse: for ye haue spoyled me, even this whole nation.

10 Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse, that there may bee meate in mine House, and prooue mee now herewith, saith the Lorde of hostes, if I will not open the windowes of heauen vnto you, and powre you out a blessing k without measure.

11 And I will rebuke the l deuourer for your sakes, and ye shall not destroy the fruit of your ground, neither shall your vine bee barren in the field, sayth the Lord of hostes.

12 And all nations shall call you blessed: for ye shalbe a pleasant land, sayth the Lord of hostes.

13 Your wordes haue bene stoute m against me, sayth the Lord: yet ye say, What haue we spoken against thee?

14 Yee haue sayd, It is in vaine to serue God: and what profite is it that wee haue kept his commaundement, and that wee walked humbly before the Lord of hostes?

15 Therefore wee count the proud blessed: euen they that worke wickednesse, are set vp, and they that tempt God, yea, they are n deliuered.

16 o Then spake they that feared the Lorde, euery one to his neighbour, and the Lord hearkened and heard it, and a p booke of remembrance was written before him for them that feared the Lord, and that thought vpon his Name.

17 And they shalbe to me, sayth the Lord of hostes, in that day q that I shal doe this, for a flocke, and I will spare them, as a man spareth his owne sonne that serueth him.

18 Then shall you returne, and discerne betweene the righteous and the wicked, betweene him that serueth God, and him that serueth him not.

g Reade Zech. 1.3.
h There are none of the heathen so barbarous, that will defraud their gods of their honour, or deale deceitfully with them.
i Whereby the seruice of God should haue bene maintained, and the Priests, and the poore relieued.
k Not hauing respect how much ye neede, but I wil giue you in all abundance, so that ye shall lacke place to put my blessings in.
l Meaning, the caterpiller, and whatsoeuer destroyeth corne and fruites.
m The Prophet condemneth them of double blasphemie against God: first in that they sayd that God had no respect to them that serued him, and next that the wicked were more in his fauour then the godly.
n They are not onely preferred to honour, but also deliuered from dangers.
o After these admonitions of the Prophet some were huely touched, and incouraged others to feare God.
p Both because the thing was strange that some turned to God in that great and vniuersall corruption, and also that this might be an example of Gods mercies, to all penitent sinners.
q When I shall restore my Church according to my promise, they shalbe as mine owne proper goods.
r That is, forgiue their sinnes, and gouerne them with my spirit.

CHAP. IIII.

The day of the Lorde, before the which Eliiah should come.

FOr beholde, the day commeth, that shall a burne as an ouen, and all the proude, yea, and all that doe wickedly, shalbe stubble, and the day that commeth, shall burne them vp, sayth the Lord of hostes, and shall leaue them neither roote nor branche.

2 But vnto you ỹ feare my Name, shall a He prophesieth of Gods iudgements against the wicked, who would not receiue Christ, when as God should send him for the restauration of his Church.

b Meaning, Christ, who with his wings or beames of his grace should lighten and comfort his Church. Ephe. 5.14. and he is called the sunne of righteousnesse, because in himselfe he hath all perfection, and also the iustice of the father dwelleth in him: whereby hee regenerateth vs into righteousnesse, clenseth vs from the filth of this world, and reformeth vs to the image of God. c Ye shall be set at libertie and increase in the ioy of the Spirit, 2.Corinth.3.17. d Because the time was come, that the Iewes should be destitute of Prophets vntill the time of Christ, because they should with more feruent mindes desire his comming, the Prophet exhorteth them to exercise themselues diligently in studying the lawe of Moses in the meane season, whereby they might continue in the true religion, and also be armed against all tentations.

the b sunne of righteousnesse arise and health shalbe vnder his wings, and yee shall c goe forth, and growe vp as fat calues.

3 And ye shall tread downe the wicked: for they shalbe dust vnder the soles of your feete in the day that I shall doe this, sayeth the Lord of hosts.

4 d Remember the law of Moses my seruant, which I commanded vnto him in Horeb for all Israel with the statutes and iudgements.

5 Behold, I will send you e Eliah the Prophet before the comming of the great and f fearefull day of the Lord.

6 And he shall g turne the heart of the fathers to the children, and the heart of the children to their fathers, lest I come h and smite the earth with cursing.

e This Christ expoundeth of Iohn Baptist, Mat.11.13,14. who both for his zeale, and restoring of religion is aptly compared to Eliiah. f Which as it is true for the wicked, so doeth it waken the godly and call them to repentance. g Hee sheweth wherein Iohns office shoulde stande: in turning of men to God and ioyning the father and children in one vnitie of faith: so that the father shall turne to the religion of his sonne which is conuerted to Christ, and the sonne shall imbrace the faith of the true fathers Abraham, Izhak and Iakob. h The seconde poynt of his office was to denouuce Gods iudgements against them that woulde not receiue Christ.

The ende of the Prophets.

APOCRYPHA.

THE ARGVMENT.

THese bookes that followe in order after the Prophets vnto the newe Testament, are called APOCRYPHA, that is, bookes, which were not receiued by a common consent to be read and expounded publkely in the Church, neither yet serued to prooue any poynt of Christian religion, saue in as much as they had the consent of the other Scriptures called Canonicall to confirme the same, or rather whereon they were grounded: but as bookes proceeding from godly men, were receiued to be read for the aduancement and furtherance of the knowledge of the historie, and for the instruction of godly maners: which bookes declare that at all times God had an especiallll eare of his Church, and left them not vtterly destitute of teachers and meanes to confirme them in the hope of the promised Messiah, and also witnesse that those calamities that God sent to his Church, were according to his prouidence, who had both so threatned by his Prophets, and so brought it to passe for the destruction of their enemies, and for the triall of his children.

2 Iosias appointeth Priests, & keepeth the Passeouer. 7 Offerings for the Priests and the people. 11 The order of the Leuites. 23 The vpright life of Iosias. 25 His death and the occasion thereof, and the lamentation for him. 34 Ioachaz appointed king. 53 The destruction of Ierusalem.

2.King.23.21. 2.chron.35.1. AND Iosias kept the * Passeouer to his Lorde in Ierusalem, and offered the Passeouer in the fourteenth day of the first moneth,

2 And appoynted the Priestes according to their dayly courses, being clothed with long garments in the Temple of the Lord.

3 And he spake to the Leuites the holy ministers of Israel, that they should sanctifie themselues to the Lorde, to set the holy Arke of the Lord in the house, which Salomon the sonne of King Dauid had built,

4 And saide, Ye shall no more beare the Arke vpon your shoulders: now therefore serue the Lorde your God, and take the charge of his people of Israel, and prepare according to your families and tribes,

5 After the writing of Dauid King of Israel, and according to the maiestie of Salomon his sonne, and stand in the Temple (according to the order of the dignitie of your fathers the Leuites) which were appointed before your brethren the children of Israel.

6 Offer in order the Passeouer, and make ready the sacrifices for your brethren, and keepe the Passeouer after the Lordes commaundement giuen to Moyses.

7 And Iosias gaue to the people that was present, thirtie thousand lambes and kids with three thousand calues.

8 These were giuen of the kings possessions according to the promise, to the people, and to the Priests, and to the Leuites. Then gaue Helkias and Zacharias and ‖Sythus the gouernours of the Temple, to the priests for the Passeouer two thousand fiue hundreth sheepe, and three hundreth calues.

9 Furthermore, Iechonias, & Samaias and Nathanael his brother, and ‖ Sabias, and ‖ Chelus, and ‖ Ioram captaines gaue to the Leuites for the Passeouer fiue thousand sheepe, and seuen hundreth calues.

10 And when these thinges were done, the Priests and the Leuites stoode in order, hauing vnleauened bread according to the tribes.

11 And after the order of the dignitie of their fathers, before þ people to offer to the Lord, as it is written in the bookes of Moyses: and thus they did in the morning.

12 And they rosted the Passeouer with fire as * appertained, & they sod their offerings with perfumes in caldrons & pots. Exod.12.8.

13 And set it before all them that were of the people, and afterwarde they prepared for themselues, and for the Priestes their brethren the sonnes of Aaron.

14 For the Priests offered the fat vnto the euening, & the Leuites did make readie for themselues, and for the Priestes their brethren the sonnes of Aaron.

15 And the holy singers the sonnes of Asaph, were in their orders, according to the appointed ordinances of Dauid, to wit, Asaph, and Azarias, and ‖ Eddinus, which was of the kings appointment. ‖ Or, Iedithun.

16 And the porters were at euery gate, so that it was not lawfull, that any shoulde passe his ordinarie watch: for their brethren the Leuites made ready for them.

17 And in that day those things which appertained to the sacrifice of the Lorde, were accomplished, that they might offer the Passeouer, 18 And offer sacrifices vpon the altar of the Lord, according to the commandement of King Iosias.

19 So the children of Israel, which were present at that time, kept þ Passeouer, and the feast of vnleauened bread seuen dayes.

20 And there was not such a Passeouer kept in Israel since the time of Samuel the Prophet.

21 And all the kings of Israel did not offer such a Passeouer, as did Iosias, and the Priestes, and the Leuites, and the Iewes, and all Israel, which were founde to remaine in Ierusalem.

22 In the eighteenth yeere of the reigne of Iosias was this Passeouer kept.

23 The workes of Iosias were vpright before before his Lord ℣ a heart ful of godlynesse.

24 And concerning the thinges which came to passe in his time, they are written before, to wit, of those that sinned & did wickedly against the Lord, above euery nation and kingdome, and grieued him with ‖ sensible things, so that the wordes of the Lorde stoode vp against Israel.

‖ Or, by worshipping sensible creatures.

25 ¶* Now after al these acts of Iosias, it came to passe þ whē Pharao king of Egypt came to moue war at Carchamis vpō Euphrates, Iosias went out against him.

2.Chro.35.20.

26 But the King of Egypt sent to him, saying, What haue I to doe with thee, O king of Iudea?

27 I am not sent of the Lorde God against thee: but my warre is vpon Euphrates, and nowe the Lord is with me, and the Lord hasteneth mee forward: depart from me, and be not against the Lord.

28 But Iosias would not turne backe his chariot from him, but prepared himselfe to fight with him, not regarding the wordes of Jeremias the Prophet, by the mouth of the Lorde.

29 But he set himselfe in battell arap against him in the fielde of Megeddo, and the Princes came downe to King Iosias.

30 And the king said vnto his seruants, Conuey me out of the battell, for I am very weake. And by and by his seruants brought him out of the battell.

31 So he gate vpon the second chariot, & being come againe to Jerusalē he changed his life, & was buried in his fathers graue.

32 And in all Iudea was Iosias bewailed, yea, Jeremias the Prophet did lament for Iosias, and the gouernours, and their wiues did lament him vnto this day: and this was ordeyned in all the kindred of Israel, to be done continually.

33 But these thinges are written in the booke of þ stories of the kings of Iudea, & euery one of þ acts þ Iosias did, & his glory, & his knowledge in the law of the Lord, and the things which he did before, and the things nowe rehearsed are registred in the booke of the kings of Israel and Iudea.

34 Then they of the nation tooke * Joachaz the sonne of Iosias, & made him king in stead of his father Iosias, when he was three and twentie yeere olde.

2.King.23.30. 2.chro.36.1.

35 And he reigned in Iudea & in Jerusalem three moneths: for the king of Egypt deposed him from reigning in Jerusalem.

36 He tared also the people of an hundreth talents of siluer, & one talent of gold.

37 And the king of Egypt made Joacim his brother king of Iudea and Jerusalem.

38 And hee bound Joachaz and his gouernours: but when he had taken Zaraces his brother, he led him away into Egypt.

39 Twentie and fiue yeere old was Joacim, when he reigned in Iudea & Jerusalē, and he did euill in the sight of the Lord.

40 Wherfore against him came vp Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon, who when he had bound him with a chaine of brasse, led him away into Babylon.

41 Then Nabuchodonosor tooke of the holy vessels of the Lord, & caried thē away, and set them in his Temple at Babylon.

42 But all his acts, and his prophanation, and his reproch are written in the booke of the Chronicles of the kings.

43 And Joacim his sonne reigned for him: and when he was made king, he was eightеene yeeres olde.

44 And hee reigned three moneths and ten dayes in Jerusalem, and he did euill in the sight of the Lord.

45 ¶ So a yeere after Nabuchodonosor sent and brought him to Babylon with the holy vessels of the Lord.

46 And he made Sedecias king of Iudea and Jerusalem, when he was one & twenty yeere olde, and he reigned eleuen yeeres.

47 And hee did euill in the sight of the Lord, neither did he feare the wordes spoken * by Jeremias the Prophet from the mouth of the Lord.

Ierem.38.21.

48 For after that he was sworne to king Nabuchodonosor, he forswore himselfe by the name of the Lord, and fel away, & hardned his necke and his heart, & transgressed the lawes of the Lord God of Israel.

49 Also þ gouernours of þ people, & the Priests committed many thinges against the Lawes, and passed all the pollutions of all nations, and polluted the Temple of the Lord, which was sanctified in Jerusalem.

50 Neuertheles the God of their fathers sent his messenger to cal them back, because he spared them, and his owne Tabernacle.

51 But they derided his messengers, and in the day, that the Lorde spake vnto them, they mocked his Prophets, 52 So that he, being moued to anger against his people for their great wickednes commanded the kings of the Caldeans to inuade them.

53 These killed their young men with the sword round about their holy Temple, neither did they spare young man, nor mayden, neither olde man, nor childe among them.

54 But he deliuered them all into their handes, and all the holy vessels of the Lord, both great & small, with the vessels of the Arke of God: and they tooke, and carped away the kings treasures into Babylon.

55 And they set fire in the house of the Lord, and brake downe the walles of Jerusalem, and burnt their towres with fire.

56 They consumed also all the precious things thereof, & brought them to nought, and those that were left by the sworde, he carped away into Babylon.

57 And they were seruants to him, and to his children till the Persians reigned, to fulfill the word of the Lord by the mouth of * Jeremias,

2 The Lorde rayſed vp the ſpirit of Cyrus King of the Perſians, and hee made proclamation throughout al his kingdom, euen by expreſſe letters,

3 Saying, Thus ſaith Cyrus King of the Perſians, The Lord of Iſrael, euen the moſt high Lorde, hath made me King ouer the whole world,

4 And he hath cõmãded me to build him an houſe in Ieruſalem, which is in Iudea.

5 If there be any therefore of you of his people, let the Lord, euen his Lord be with him, & let him goe vp to Ieruſalem, which is in Iudea, and build the houſe of the Lord of Iſrael: he is the Lord which dwelleth in Ieruſalem.

6 All they then that dwell in the places round about, thoſe, I ſay, þ are in his place, let them helpe him with golde and ſiluer,

7 With giftes, with horſes and cattell, and other things, which ſhall be brought, according to the vowes, into the Temple of the Lord, which is in Ieruſalem.

8 ¶ Then aroſe the chiefe of the families of Iudea, & of the tribe of Beniamin, and the Prieſts and Leuites, & all whoſe minde the Lord had moued to goe vp, and builde an houſe to the Lord in Ieruſalem.

9 And thoſe that were about them, helped them in all things with ſiluer & golde, horſes, and cattel, and with diuers vowes of many whoſe mindes were ſtirred vp.

10 Alſo king Cyrus brought out þ holy veſſels of the Lord, which Nabuchodonoſor had caried out of Ieruſalem, & had conſecrated them in the Temple of his idoles.

11 Now when Cyrus King of the Perſians had brought them out, hee deliuered them to Mithridates his treaſurer, ‖ Or, Shaſh-baſar, or Sanabaſſar.

12 By whome they were giuen to‖ Aſſaſſar the gouernour of Iudea.

13 Whereof this was the number: a thouſand golden cups, and a thouſand ſiluer cups, baſins of ſiluer for the ſacrifices, nine and twentie viols, of golde thirtie, and of ſiluer two thouſand foure hundreth and ten, and a thouſand other veſſels.

14 So all the veſſels of golde and ſiluer, which they carped away, were fiue thouſand, foure hundreth, threeſcore and nine.

15 They were brought by Sanabaſſar with them of the captiuitie of Babylon to Ieruſalem.

16 ¶ But* in the time of Artaxerres king of the Perſians ‖ Belemus, and Mithridates, and Tabellius and Rathumus, and Beeltethmus, and ‖ Semellius the ſecretarie, and others which were ioyned to theſe, dwelling in Samaria and in other places, wrote vnto him this Epiſtle here following againſt them that dwelt in Iudea and Ieruſalem, TO THE KING ARTAXERXE S OVR LORD, ‖ Or, Shimſhi.

17 Thy ſeruants Rathumus the writer of things that come to paſſe, & Semellius the ſecretarie, and the reſt of their counſell, and the Iudges which are in Coeloſyria and Phenice.

18 Be it now therefore knowen to our lord the king, that the Iewes which came vp from you, are come to vs into Ieruſalem, that rebellious and wicked citie, and build the market places, and make vp the walles thereof, and lay the foundations of the Temple.

19 Therefore if this citie be built, and the walles be finiſhed, they will not onely not indure to pay tribute, but will alſo reſiſt kings.

20 And becauſe the things pertaining to the Temple, go forward, wee thought it not meete to paſſe ouer ſuch a thing,

21 But to declare it to our lord the king, that if it be thy pleaſure, it may bee ſought out in the bookes of thy fathers,

22 And thou ſhalt finde in the Chronicles the writings concerning theſe things, and ſhalt know that this citie did alwayes rebell, and did trouble both kings and cities,

23 And the þ Iewes are rebellious, raiſing alwayes warres therein: for the which cauſe alſo this citie was made deſolate.

24 Now therefore, O lord the king, wee declare it, that if this citie be built, and the walles thereof repayred, you ſhall haue no more paſſage into Coeloſyria, nor Phenice.

25 ¶ Then the king wrote againe to Rathumus, that wrote the things that came to paſſe, and to Beeltethmus, & to Semellius the ſecretarie, and to the reſt of thoſe that were ioyned with them, and to the dwellers of Samaria, Syria and Phenice, theſe things that follow.

26 I haue read the epiſtle, which ye ſent to me: therefore I cõmanded, that it ſhould be ſought out, and it was founde, that this citie hath alwayes practiſed againſt kings, 27 And that the men thereof were giuen to rebellion and warres, and howe that mightie kings and fierce haue reigned in Ieruſalem, which tooke tribute of Coeloſyria, and Phenice.

28 Now therefore I haue commanded to forbid theſe men to build vp the citie, and that it be taken heed that no more be done, 29 And that thoſe wicked things which ſhould moleſt the king, goe not forward.

30 Then when Rathumus, and Semellius the Secretarie & the reſt, which were ioyned with them, had read the things, which King Artaxerres had written, they mooued their tents with ſpeede to Ieruſalem with horſes and men in aray, 31 And began to let them which built, ſo that the building of the Temple in Ieruſalem ceaſed vnto the ſecond yeere of the reigne of Darius King of the Perſians.

CHAP. III.

1 The feaſt of Darius. 16 The three wiſe ſentences.

NOwe when Darius reigned, he made a great feaſt to all his ſubiects, and to all thoſe of his owne houſe, & to all the Princes of Media and Perſia,

2 And to all the gouernours and captaines, & lieutenants that were with him, from India vnto Ethiopia of an hundreth and ſeuen and twentie prouinces.

3 And when they had eaten and drunke, and were ſatiffied, they departed, and King Darius went into his chamber, and ſlept, till he wakened againe.

4 ¶ In the meane time three yong men of the the garde, keepers of the kings bodie, saide one to another,

5 Let euery one of vs speake a sentence, and he that shal ouercome, and whose sentence shall appeare wiser then the others, Darius the king shal giue him great gifts, and great things in token of victorie,

6 As to weare purple, and to drinke in golde, and to sleepe in golde, and a chariot with bridles of golde, an head tyre of fine linnen, and a chaine about his necke.

7 And he shal sit next to Darius for his wisdome, and shalbe called Darius cousin.

8 Then euery man wrote his sentence and sealed it, and put it vnder the pillowe of king Darius, 9 And said, when ꝑ king rose, they would giue him the writing, and whose sentence the king and the three Princes of Persia should iudge to be wisest, to him should the victorie be giuen, as it was appointed.

10 One wrote, The wine is strongest.

11 The other wrote, The king is strongest.

12 The other wrote, Women are strongest, but truth ouercommeth all things.

13 ¶ And when the king rose, they tooke the writings and gaue them to him, and he read them,

14 And sent and called all the noble men of Persia and of Media, and the gouernours and the captaines, and lieutenants, and the consuls,

15 And sate him downe in the Councill, and the writing was read before them.

16 Then he said, Call the young men, that they may declare their owne sentences. So they called them, and they came in.

17 Then he said vnto them, Declare vnto vs the writings. So the first beganne, which had spoken of the strength of wine, 18 And said on this maner, O yee men, howe strong is wine! it deceiueth all men that drinke it.

19 It maketh the mind of the king and of the fatherlesse both one, of the bond man and of the free man, of the poore man and of the rich man.

20 It turneth also euery thought into ioy and gladnesse, so that one remembreth no maner of sorow, nor debt.

21 It maketh euery heart rich, so that one remembreth neither king nor gouernor, and causeth to speake al things by talents.

Or, pounds.

22 When men haue drunke, they haue no mind to loue either friends or brethren, and a little after they draw out swordes.

23 But when they are from the wine, they do not remẽber what they haue done.

24 O ye men, is not wine strõgest, which compelleth to do such things? and he held his peace when he had thus spoken.

CHAP. IIII.

Of the strength of a king. 13 Of the strength of women. 34 Of the strength of trueth, which sentence is approoued, 47 And his petition granted.

THen the second which had spoken of the strength of the king, began to say,

2 O ye men, are not men strongest, which beare rule by land and by sea, and ouer all things which are in them?

3 But the king is yet greater: for he ruleth all things, and is Lord of them, so that they do all things that he commandeth them.

4 If he bid them make war one against another, they doe it: if yee sende them out against the enemies, they goe and breake downe mountaines and walles & towers.

5 They kill & are killed, and do not passe the commandement of the king: if they ouercome, they bring all to the king, aswell the spoyles as all other things,

6 And those also which goe not to warre and battell, but till the earth: for when they haue sowen it againe, they reape it, & bring it to the king, and compel one an other to pay tribute to the king.

7 Yet he is but one man: if hee bid, Kill, they kill: if he say, Spare, they spare.

8 If he bid, Smite, they smite: if hee bid them, Make desolate, they make desolate: if he bid, Build, they build.

9 If he bid, Cut off, they cut off: if he bid, Plant, they plant.

10 So al his people, and all his armies obey one man: in the meane while he sitteth downe, he eateth, and drinketh, & sleepeth.

11 For these keepe him round about: neither can any one go and do his owne busines, neither are they disobedient vnto him.

12 O ye men, howe should not the king be strongest, seeing he is thus obeyed! So he held his tongue.

13 ¶ Then the thirde which had spoken of women and of the trueth (this was Zorobabel) began to speake, 14 O ye men, neither the mightie king, nor many men, nor wine is strongest: who then ruleth them or hath dominion ouer them? are they not women?

15 Women haue borne the king, & all the people which beare rule by sea & by land.

16 Euen of them they were borne, and they nourished them which planted the vines of which the wine is made.

17 They also make mens garments and make men honourable, neither can men be without women.

18 And if they haue gathered together gold and siluer, or any goodly thing, do they not loue a faire and beautifull woman?

19 Do they not leaue all those things and giue themselues wholly vnto her, & gape, & gaze vpon her, and all men desire her more then gold or siluer, or any precious thing?

20 A man leaueth his owne father which hath nourished him, & his owne countrey, and is ioyned with his wife.

21 And for the woman hee ieopardeth his life, and neither remembreth father nor mother nor countrey.

22 Therefore by this ye may know that the women beare rule ouer you: doe ye not labour and trauaile, and giue and bring all to the women?

23 Yea, a man taketh his sword and goeth forth to kil & to steale, and to saile vpon the sea, and vpon riuers, 24 And he seeth a Lion & goeth in darkenesse, & when hee hath stollen, rauished and spoyled, he bringeth it to his loue.

25 Wherefore a man loueth his owne wife more then father or mother.

26 Yea,

26 Yea, many haue runne mad for women, and haue bene seruants for them.

27 Many also haue perished and haue erred and sinned for women.

28 Now therefore doe you not beleeue me? is not the King great in his power? doe not all regions feare to touch him?

29 Yet I sawe him and Apame, the Kings concubine, the daughter of the famous Barta-cus, sitting on the right hand of the King, 30 And she tooke the crowne off the Kings head, and put it vpon her owne, and stroke the King with her left hand.

31 Yet in the meane season the King gaped and gazed on her: and if shee laughed at him he laughed: and if she were angry with him, he did flatter her, that he might be reconciled with her.

32 How then, O yee men, are not women moze strong, seeing they doe thus?

33 ¶ Then the King and the Pzinces looked one vpon another, and he began to speake of the trueth.

34 O ye men, are not women stronger? great is the earth, and the heauen is high, and the sunne is swift in his course: for hee runneth round about heauen in one day, and runneth againe into his owne place.

35 Is not he great that maketh these things? therefore the trueth is greater and stronger then all.

36 All the earth calleth for trueth, and the heauen blesseth it: and all things are shaken and tremble, neither is there any vniust thing with it.

37 The wine is wicked, the King is wicked, women are wicked, and all the children of men are wicked, and all their wicked workes are such, and there is no trueth in them, and they perish in their iniquitie.

38 But trueth doeth abide, and is strong for euer, and liueth and reigneth for euer and euer.

39 With her there is no receiuing of persons nor difference: but shee doeth the things which are iust, and abstaineth from vniust and wicked things, and all men fauour her workes.

40 Neither is there any vniust thing in her iudgement, & she is the strength and the kingdome and the power, and maiestie of all ages. Blessed be the God of trueth.

41 So he ceased to speake, & then all the people cried and said, Trueth is great and strongest.

42 Then the King said vnto him, Aske what thou wilt besides that which is appointed, and we will giue it thee, because thou art found the wisest, and thou shalt haue liberty to sit by me, and shalt be called my cousin.

43 ¶ Then he said to the King, Remember the vowe that thou hast vowed to build Ierusalem, in the day that thou tookest þ kingdom, 44 And to send againe all the vessels that were taken out of Ierusalem, which Cyrus set apart when he made a vowe to cut off Babylon, and vowed to send them thither.

45 Thou also hast vowed to build the Temple, which the Idumeans burnt when Iudea was destroyed by the Chaldeans.

46 And nowe, O lord the King, this is that which I desire and require of thee, and this is the magnificence, which I require of thee: I require therefore that thou wouldest accomplish the vowe which thou hast vowed with thine owne mouth to doe to the King of heauen.

47 Then King Darius rising vp, kissed him, and wrote him letters to all the stewards and lieutenants, and captaines, and gouernours, that they should bring on the way both him, & all that were with him, which went vp to build Ierusalem.

48 And hee wrote letters to all the lieutenants in Coelosyria, and Phenice, and to them that were in Libanus, that they should bring cedar wood from Libanus to Ierusalem, and build the citie with him.

49 And hee wrote for all the Iewes, which went vp out of the kingdom vnto Iudea, concerning their libertie, that no prince nor lieutenant, nor gouernour, nor steward should enter into their doores,

50 And that all the region which they kept, should pay no tribute, and that the Idumeans should let goe the villages of the Iewes which they held,

51 And that euery yeere there should bee giuen for the building of the Temple twentie talents vntill it were built,

52 And to maintaine the burnt offrings vpon the altar euery day (as they had a commandement to offer seuenteene) other ten talents euery yeere.

53 And that all they which went from Babylon to build the citie, should haue libertie, as well they as their posteritie, and all the Priests that went away.

54 He wrote also touching the charges, and the Priests garment, wherein they should minister.

55 And hee wrote that they should giue the Leuites their charges vntill the house were finished, and Ierusalem built.

56 Also he wrote that they should giue pensions and wages to them that kept the citie.

57 And hee sent away all the vessels which Cyrus had set apart out of Babylon, & whatsoeuer Cyrus had commaunded to doe, he also commanded to do it, and to send to Ierusalem.

58 And when the ‖ yong man was gone foorth, hee lift vp his face to heauen towardes Ierusalem, and gaue thankes to the King of heauen,

‖ Or, Zorobabel.

59 Saying, Of thee is the victorie, & of thee is wisedome, and of thee is glory, and I am thy seruant.

60 Blessed bee thou which hast giuen mee wisedome: for vnto thee I acknowledge it, O Lord of our fathers.

61 ¶ So he tooke the letters, & went out and came to Babylon, and told all his brethren.

62 And they blessed the God of their fathers, because he had giuen them freedom and libertie.

63 To goe vp and to build Ierusalem, and the Temple, where his name is renowned, and they reioyced with instruments of musike and ioy seuen dayes.

Ezra 3.1.

48 Then Jesus the sonne of Josedec and his brethren the Priests, with Zorobabel the sonne of Salathiel and his brethren rising vp, made ready the altar of the God of Israel, 49 To offer burnt offerings vpon it according as it is written in the booke of Moyses the man of God.

50 Whither also there were gathered against them of all nations of the land: but they dressed the altar in his owne place, although all the nations of the land were their enemies and vexed them, and they offered sacrifices according to the season, and burnt offrings to the Lord, morning and euening.

51 They kept also the feast of tabernacles, as it is * ordeined in the Lawe, and offered sacrifices euery day, as was requisite, Leuit. 23.34.

52 And afterwarde, the continuall oblations and offerings of the Sabbaths and of the newe moneths and of all holy feastes, 53 ¶ And all * they which had made any vowe to God, began to offer sacrifice vnto God in the first day of the seuenth moneth, although the Temple of God was not yet built.

Ezra 3.6.

54 They gaue also money to the masons and to the workemen, and meate and drinke with gladnesse, 55 And charets to the Sidonians & to those of Tyrus to bring Cedar wood out of Libanus, which should be brought by flotes to the hauen of Joppe, according to the commandement giuen vnto them by Cyrus king of Persia.

56 And in the second yeere and seconde moneth came into the Temple of God in Jerusalem, Zorobabel the sonne of Salathiel, and Jesus the sonne of Josedec, and their brethren, and the Priests and Leuites, and all they that came out of the captiuitie into Jerusalem, 57 And * layd the foundation of the house of God in the first day of the second moneth of the second yeere, after their returne into Judea and Jerusalem.

Eccles. 49. 12.

58 And they appointed the Leuites from twentie yeere olde ouer the workes of the Lord, and Jesus and his sonne, and his brethren, and his brother Cadmiel, and the sonnes of ‖ Madiabon with the sonnes of Joda, the sonne of Aeliadun, with their sonnes and brethren, euen all the Leuites with one accord did follow after the worke, calling vpon the workes in the house of God: thus the workemen built the Temple of the Lord.

59 And the Priests stoode clothed with their long garments with musicall instruments and trumpets, and the Leuites the sonnes of Asaph with cymbals, 60 Singing and blessing the Lord, according to the ordinance of Dauid king of Israel.

61 And they sung with loude voyce songs to the praise of the Lorde, because his mercie and glory is for euer in all Israel.

62 Then all the people blewe trumpets, and cryed with loude voyce, praysing the Lorde for the raysing vp of the house of the Lord.

63 Also some of the Priests and Leuites, and chiefe men, to wit, the Ancients, which had seene the former house,

64 Came to see the building of this with weeping and great crying, & many with trumpets and ioy cried with loude voyce,

65 So that the people coulde not heare the trumpets, because of the weeping of the people: yet there was a great multitude that blewe trumpets, so that they were heard farre off.

66 ¶ Wherefore when the enemies of the tribes of Juda, and Beniamin heard it, they came to know what noyse of trumpets it was,

67 And they knewe that they of the captiuitie built the Temple to the Lord God of Israel.

68 Wherefore they comming to Zorobabel, and Jesus, and the chiefe of the families, saide vnto them, Let vs build also with you.

69 For we obey your Lord, as you doe, and sacrifice vnto him since the dayes of ‖ Asbalareth King of the Assyrians, which brought vs hither.

‖Or, Asararet, or, Assachadon.

70 Then Zorobabel, and Jesus, & the chiefe of the families of Israel said to them. It doeth not appertaine to vs, and to you to builde an house to the Lord our God.

71 For we alone will build it to the Lord God in Judea and Jerusalem diligently, as it is conteined in the Lawe of the Lord,

14 And carp the gifres to the Lord of Israel in Jerusalem, which I and my friendes haue vowed: also all the golde and siluer, which shall be found in the countrey of Babylon appertei-ning to the Lord in Jerusalem,

15 With that which is giuen of the people to the Temple of the Lorde their God, that it might be brought to Jerusalem, as well siluer as golde, for bulles, and rammes, and lambes, and things thereunto perteining, 16 That they may offer sacrifices to ꝑ Lord vpon the altar of the Lord their God, which is in Jerusalem.

17 And whatsoeuer thou and thy brethren will doe with the golde or siluer, accomplish it according to the will of thy God.

18 And the holy vessels of the Lorde, which are giuen thee for the vse of the Temple of thy God, which is in Jerusalem, thou shalt set before thy God in Jerusalem.

19 And what other things soeuer thou shalt remember for the vse of ꝑ Temple of thy God, thou shalt giue it out of the Kings treasure.

20 And I also King Artarerres haue commanded the treasurers of Syria and Phenice, that whatsoeuer Esdras, the Priest and reader of the Lawe of the highest God, shall send for, they thoulde giue it him with all speede, euen to the summe of an hundreth talents of siluer, 21 And likewise vnto an hundreth cores of corne, and an hundreth pieces of wine and other things in abundance.

22 Let all things be done to the highest God, according to the Lawe of God with diligence, that wrath come not vpon the kingdome of the King and of his sonnes.

23 Also to you it is commaunded, that of none of the Priests or Leuites, or holy singers or porters, or ministers of the Temple, or of the workemen of this Temple, no tribute nor tare be taken, nor that any haue power to tare them in any thing.

24 Thou also, Esdras, according to the wisedome of God, ordeine iudges and gouernours, that they may iudge in all Syria and Phenice all those which are well instructed in the Lawe of thy God, and teach those, which are not instructed.

25 And let all those which shall transgresse the Lawe of God and the King, be diligently punished, either with death, or other punishment, either with penaltie of money, or banishment.

26 ¶ Then Esdras the Scribe saide, Blessed be the onely Lorde God of my fathers, which hath put this in the heart of the King to glorifie his house which is in Jerusalem.

27 And hath honoured me before the King, and the counsellers, and all his friends and gouernours.

Ezra 8.1. 28 ¶ * Therefore I was incouraged by the helpe of the Lorde my God, and gathered men of Israel to goe with me.

41 ¶ And I gathered them together to the flood called * Theras, and pitched our tentes there three dayes, and numbred them. Ezra 8.15.

42 And when I had found there none of the Priests nor Leuites, 43 I sent to Eleazar, and behold, there came ‖ Maasman, and Ananthan, and Samaian, and ‖ Jozibon, and Nathan, Ennaian, Zacharian, and Mosollamon the chiefe, and best learned. ‖Or, Masma, Aluathan, ‖Or, Iorib, Elnathan, Zacharie, & Mosollam.

44 And I bade them to goe to Daddeus the captaine which was in the place of the treasurie, 45 With charge to bid Daddeus and his brethren, and the treasurers that were there, to send to vs them, which should offer sacrifice in the house of the Lord.

46 And they brought vnto vs by the mighty hand of our Lorde learned men of the sonnes of Moli, the sonne of Leui, the sonne of Jsrael, to wit, ‖ Sisebeian and his sonnes, and his brethren being eighteene. ‖Or, Seredia.

47 And Asebia, and ‖ Annon, and Osaian his brethren of the sonnes of ‖ Canaineus with their sonnes, twentie persons. ‖Or, Anom, Iesaas. ‖Or, Canaanen.

48 And of the ministers of the Temple, which Dauid gaue, and those which were rulers ouer the worke of the Leuites, to wit, ministers of the Temple, two hundreth & twenty, of whom all the names were registred.

49 ¶ And * there I proclaimed a fast for the yong men before the Lorde to aske of him a good iourney both for vs, and for them that were with vs, for our children, and for our cattell. Ezra 8.21.

50 For I was ashamed to aske the King footemen or horsemen, or conduct for safe-gard

gard against our enemies,

51 Because we had sayd to the king, that the power of our Lorde should be with them that sought him, to direct them in all things.

52 Wherefore wee prayed our Lorde against, according to these things, whom wee found fauourable.

53 Then I chose from among the chiefe of the tribes, and of the Priestes, twelue men, to wit, ‖ Esebrias and Asamias, and with them ten of their brethren.

‖ Or, Serabias.

54 And I weighed them the siluer and the golde, and the holy vessels of the House of our Lord, which the King and his counsellers, and his princes, and all Israel had giuen.

55 And I weighed them, fiue hundreth and fiftie talents of siluer, and siluer vessels of an hundreth talents, and an hundreth talents of golde.

56 And twentie golden basins, & twelue vessels of brasse, of fine brasse shining like golde.

57 And I sayd to them, You are also holy to the Lord, and the vessels are holy, and the golde, and the siluer is a vowe to the Lorde of our fathers.

58 Watch and keepe them, till that you giue them to the heads of the families of the Priests, and Leuites, and captaines of the families of Israel in Jerusalem in the chambers of the house of our God.

59 So the Priests and Leuites tooke the siluer and the golde, and the vessels, and carried them to Jerusalem to the Temple of the Lord.

60 And we departed from the flood Thera, in the twelfth day of the first moneth, and came to Jerusalem, according to the mightie power of our Lorde with vs: and the Lorde deliuered vs from the beginning of our iourney from all enemies. So wee came to Jerusalem.

61 And three dayes being past there, in the fourth day the siluer that was weighed, and the golde was deliuered in the house of our Lorde to ‖ Marmoth the Priest, the sonne of Joure.

‖ Or, Marimoth the sonne of Iori of Vrie.

62 And with him to Eleazar the sonne of Phinees: and there were with them, Josabad the sonne of Jesus, and ‖ Moeth sonne of Sabbanus, Leuites: all was deliuered them by number and weight.

‖ Or, Noedia, sonnes sonne of Bannus.

63 And all the weight of them was written that same houre.

64 Afterwards those that were come out of the captiuitie, offered sacrifices to the Lord God of Israel, euen twelue bulles for all Israel, rammes fourescore and sixteene.

65 Lambes threescore and twelue, twelue goates for saluation, all in sacrifice to the Lord.

66 And they presented the commandements of the King to the Kings stewards, and to the gouernours of Coelosyria and Phenice, who honoured the people, and the Temple of God.

67 ¶ * When these things were done, the gouernours came to me, saying, The people of Israel, the Princes and the Priestes, and the Leuites haue not separated frō them the strange people of the land,

Ezra.9.1.

68 Nor the pollutions of the Gentiles, to wit, of the Cananites, and Cheteites, and Pherezites, and Jebusites, and Moabites, and Egyptians, and Idumeans.

69 For they haue dwelt with their daughters, both they and their sonnes, and the holy seede is mixed with the strange people of the lande, and the gouernours and rulers haue bene partakers of this wickednesse from the beginning of the thing.

70 And as soone as I had heard these things, I rent my clothes, and the holy garment, and I pulled the haire off mine head, and off my beard, and sate me downe sorowfull, and very sad.

71 Then also all they that were moued with the word of the Lord God of Israel, came to me whiles I wept for the iniquitie, but I sate very sad till the euening sacrifice.

72 Then I rose from the fast with my clothes torne, and the holy garment, and bowed my knees, and stretched foorth mine handes to the Lord, 73 And sayd, * O Lord, I am ashamed, and confounded before thy face.

Ezra.9.6.

74 For our sinnes are increased aboue our heads, and our ignorances are lifted vp to heauen.

75 Yea, euen from the time of our fathers we are in great sinne vnto this day.

76 For our sinnes therefore, and our fathers, wee with our brethren, with our Kings and Priests haue bene giuen vp to the Kings of the earth, to the sword and to captiuitie, and for a pray with all shame vnto this day.

77 And nowe howe great hath thy mercie bene, O Lord, that there should be left vs a roote and name in the place of thine holinesse!

78 And that thou shouldest reuele to vs a light in the house of the Lord our God, and giue vs meate in the time of our seruitude!

79 For when we were in bondage, wee were not left of our God, but hee gaue vs fauour before the kings of the Persians, that they should giue vs meate, 80 And that they should honour the Temple of our Lorde, and raise vp Sion that is desolate, and giue vs assurance in Judea and Jerusalem.

81 And nowe, O Lorde, what shall wee say, hauing these things? for wee haue transgressed thy commaundements, which thou hast giuen by the handes of thy seruants the Prophets, saying,

82 * Because the land, which ye goe to inherite, is a land polluted by the pollutions of the strangers of the land, which haue filled it with their filthinesse,

Deut.7.1.

83 Therefore nowe yee shall not ioyne your daughters with your sonnes, neither giue your daughters to your sonnes, 84 Neither shall you desire to haue peace with the for euer, that ye may be made strong, and eate the good things of the land, and leaue it for an inheritance to your children for euer.

85 Therefore all that is come to passe, was done for our wicked workes, and for our great sinnes: yet, Lorde, thou hast forborne our sinnes.

86 And hast giuen vs such a roote: but wee againe haue turned backe to transgresse thy Law, and to mixe vs with the vncleannesse of the people of the land.

87 Mightest not thou bee angrie with vs to destroy vs, so that thou shouldest neither leaue vs roote, nor seede, nor name?

88 But, O Lord of Israel, thou art true: for there is a root left, euen vnto this day.

89 Beholde, wee are nowe before thee with our iniquities, neither can wee endure before thee for these things.

Ezra.10.1. 90 ¶ And as* Esdras prayed and confessed and wept, and lay vpon the ground before the Temple, a very great multitude was gathered vnto him out of Jerusalem of men & women, and yong children: for there was great lamentation among the multitude.

‖Or, Ieiel. 91 Then Iechonias the sonne of ‖ Jeel of the sonnes of Israel, cryed out, said, O Esdras, we haue sinned against the Lord God: we haue taken in mariage strange women of the nations of the land.

92 And now all Israel is doubtfull: therefore let vs make an othe concerning this to the Lorde to put away all our wiues, which are strangers, with their children.

93 If it seeme good to thee, and to all them that obey the Lawe of the Lorde, rise vp and put it in execution.

94 For to thee doeth it appertaine, and wee are with thee to make thee strong.

95 Then Esdras arose, and made all the chiefe of the families of the Priests and Leuites of all Israel to sweare, that they would doe thus: and they sware.

CHAP. IX.

7 After Esdras had read the law for the strange wiues,
10 they promise to put them away.

Ezra.10.6. THen * Esdras rose from the court of the Temple, and went to the chamber of Joannan the sonne of Eliasib,

2 And being lodged there, hee did eate no bread nor drinke water, but mourned for the great iniquities of the multitude.

3 And there was a proclamation in all Iudea and Jerusalem, to all them that were of the captiuitie, that they should be gathered to Jerusalem,

4 And that all they which should not meete there within two or three dayes, according to the ordinance of the Elders, which bare rule, should haue their cattell confiscate to the Temple, and hee cast out from among them of the captiuitie.

5 Then all they which were of the tribe of Iuda & Beniamin, came together within three dayes, into Jerusalem: this was the ninth moneth, and twentieth day of the moneth.

6 And all the multitude sate in the broade place of the Temple shaking, because of the extreme winter.

7 Then Esdras arose and said to them, Ye haue sinned: for yee haue married strange wiues, so that ye haue augmented the sinnes of Israel.

8 Nowe therefore confesse and glorifie the Lord God of our fathers, 9 And doe his will, and separate your selues from the people of the land, & from the strange wiues.

10 Then all the multitude cried out and said with a loud voyce, We will doe so as thou hast said.

11 But because the multitude is great, and the time is winter, so that wee cannot stande without, and the worke is not of one day nor of two, seeing that many of vs haue sinned in this matter,

12 Let the chiefe men of the multitude, and all they which haue strange wiues of our families, tarrie:

13 And let the Priestes and Judges come out of all places at the day appointed, till they haue appeased the wrath of the Lord against vs for this matter.

14 Then Jonathas Asaels sonne, and ‖ Ezechias sonne of ‖ Thecan were appointed concerning these things, and ‖ Mosollam and Sabbateus did helpe them. ‖Or, Iahazias. ‖Or, Thecua.

15 And they which were of the captiuitie, did after all these things.

16 Esdras the Priest also chose him certeine men, chiefe of the families, all by name: and they sate together in the first day of the tenth moneth to examine this matter.

17 And they made an end of the things pertaining to them þ had married strange wiues in the first day of the first moneth.

18 And there were founde of the Priestes, which had married strange wiues, ‖Or, Maasias ‖Or, Iedaliah. ‖Or, Anani, and Zabnah.

36 All these married strange wiues, and put them away with their children.

37 And the Priestes and the Leuites dwelt in Ierusalem, and in the countrey, the first day of the seuenth moneth, and the children of Israel in their owne houses.

Nehe.8.1. 38 ¶ * Then all the multitude assembled together with one consent into the broade place before the gate of the Temple toward the East, 39 And spake to Esdras the Priest, and reader, that hee should bring the Lawe of Moyses, which had bene giuen by þ Lord God of Israel.

40 Then brought Esdras the chiefe priest the Law to all the multitude, both man & woman, and to all the Priests, that they might heare the Law the first day of the seuenth moneth.

41 And hee read in the first broade place of the gate of the Temple, from morning to midday, before the men and the women, and all the multitude hearkened to the Law.

42 So Esdras the Priest and reader of the Lawe, stood vpon a pulpit of wood that was prepared.

‖Or, Matithias. 43 And there stoode by him ‖ Matgathias, Sammus, Ananias, Azarias, Urias, Ezecias, Balasamus, at his right hand,

‖Or, Pedaias. 44 And at his left hand ‖ Phaldaius, and Sail, Melchias, Nothasaphus, Nabarias.

45 Then Esdras tooke the booke of the Lawe before the multitude (for hee sate honourably before them all)

46 And they all stoode vpright when he expounded the Law, and Esdras blessed the Lord the most High God, the most mighty God of hostes.

47 And the whole multitude cried, Amen.

48 Then Iesus, and ‖ Anus, and Sarabias, and Adinus, and Iacobus, Sabataias, Autamas, Maiamas, and Calitas, Azarias, and Ioazabdus, and Ananias, and Biatas the Leuites lift vp their hands, and fell downe on the ground, and worshipped the Lord, ‖Or, Bani.

49 And taught the Lawe of the Lorde, and stood also earnestly vpon the reading.

50 Then sayde ‖ Aththarates to Esdras the chiefe Priest and Reader, and to the Leuites, that taught the multitude in all things, This day is holy vnto the Lord, and all haue wept in hearing of the Law.

‖Or, Nehemias.

51 Goe therefore and eate the fatte meates, and drinke the sweet drinkes, and send presents to them that haue not.

52 For this day is holy to the Lorde, and be not sorie: for the Lord God will glorifie you.

53 So the Leuites commaunded all these things to the people, saying, This day is holy to the Lord: be not sad.

54 Then they departed all to eat and drinke, and to reioyce, & to giue presents to them that had not, and to make good cheere.

55 For they were yet filled with the wordes wherewith they were instructed, when they were assembled together.

II. Esdras.

CHAP. I.

8 The people is reprooued for their vnfaithfulnesse.
30 God will haue another people, if these will not be reformed.

Ezra.7.1. THe second booke of the Prophet * Esdras, the sonne of Saraias, the sonne of Azarias, the sonne of Helcias, the sonne of Sadamias, the sonne of Sadoc, the sonne of Achitob,

2 The sonne of Achias, the sonne of Phinees, the sonne of Heli, the sonne of Amarias, the sonne of Alie, the sonne of Marimoth, the sonne of Arna, the sonne of Ozias, the sonne of Bozith, the sonne of Abisi, the sonne of Phinees, the sonne of Eleazar,

3 The sonne of Aaron (of the tribe of Leui) which Esdras was prisoner in the land of Medes, in the reigne of Artaxerres king of Persia.

Isa.58.1. 4 * And the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

5 Goe, and shewe my people their sinnes, and their children their wickednesse, which they haue committed against me, that they may tell their childrens children.

6 For the sinnes of their fathers are increased in them, because they haue forgotten mee, and haue offered vnto strange gods.

7 Haue not I brought them out of the land of Egypt from the house of bondage? but they haue prouoked me vnto wrath, and despised my counsels.

8 Pull thou off then the haire of thine head, and cast all euill vpon them: for they haue not beene obedient vnto my Lawe, but they are a rebellious people.

9 Howe long shall I forbeare them, vnto whom I haue done so much good?

10 * Many kings haue I destroyed for their sakes: Pharao with his seruants and all his armie haue I smitten downe. Exod.14.28.

11 All the nations haue I destroyed before them: * I haue destroyed the East, the people of the two countreys, Tyrus and Sidon, and haue slaine all their enemies. Num.21.24. iosh.8.12.

12 Speake thou therefore vnto them, saying, Thus sayth the Lord, 13 * I haue ledde you thorow the Sea, and haue giuen you a sure ‖way, since the beginning: * I gaue you Moyses for a guide, and Aaron for a Priest. Exod.14.29. ‖Or. street. Exod.3.10. and 4.14.

14 * I gaue you light in a pillar of fire, and great woonders haue I done among you: yet haue ye forgotten me, saith the Lord. Exod.13.21.

15 Thus sayeth the Almightie Lorde, The quailes * were a token vnto you: I gaue you tents for safegard, wherein ye murmured: Exod.16.13. psal.104.40.

16 And yee triumphed not in my Name for the destruction of your enemies, but yee yet murmure still.

17 Where are the benefites that I haue done for you? when yee were hungrie in the wildernesse, * did ye not crie vnto me? Num.14.3.

18 Saying, Why hast thou brought vs into this wildernesse, to kill vs? It had bene better for vs to haue serued the Egyptians, then to die in this wildernesse.

19 I had pitie vpon your mournings, and gaue you Manna to eate: * so yee did eate Wisd.16.20.

Angels food.

Num.20.11. wisd.11.4. 20 * When ye were thirstie, did not I cleane the stone, and waters did flowe out to satisfie you? from the heate I couered you with the leaues of the trees, 21 And I gaue you fatte countreys: I cast out the Cananites, the Pherezites, and Philistims before you: * What shall I doe more for you, sayth the Lord?

Isa.5.4.

Exod.15.23. 22 Thus sayth the Almightie Lord, * When ye were in the wildernesse at the bitter waters, being athirst, and blaspheming my Name, 23 I gaue you not fire for the blasphemies, but cast a tree into the water, and made the riuer sweet.

Exod.32.8. 24 What shall I doe vnto thee, O Jacob? thou * Juda wouldest not obey: I will turne me to other nations, and vnto those will I giue my Name, that they may keepe my lawes.

25 Seeing ye haue forsaken me, I will also forsake you: when ye aske mercie of me, I will not haue pitie vpon you.

Isa.1.15. 26 * When ye call vpon mee, I will not heare you: for ye haue defiled your hands with blood, and your feete are swift to commit murther, 27 Although ye haue not forsaken mee, but your owne selues, sayth the Lord.

28 Thus sayth the Almightie Lorde, Haue I not prayed you, as a father his sonnes, and as a mother her daughters, and as a nurse her yong babes, 29 That ye would be my people, as I am your God, and that ye would be my children, as I am your Father?

Mat.23.37. 30 * I gathered you together as an henne gathereth her chickens vnder her wings: but nowe what shall I doe vnto you? I will cast you out from my sight.

Isa.1.13. 31 * When you bring giftes vnto me, I will turne my face from you: for your solemne feast dayes, your newe moones, and your circumcisions haue I forsaken.

32 I sent vnto you my seruants the Prophets, whom ye haue taken & slaine, and torne their bodies in pieces, whose blood I will reuenge, sayth the Lord.

33 Thus sayth the Almighte Lorde, Your house shalbe desolate: I will cast you out as the winde doth the stubble.

34 Your children shall not haue generation: for they haue despised my commandement, and done the thing that I hate, before me.

35 Your houses will I giue vnto a people to come, who shall beleeue me though they heare me not, and they, vnto whom I neuer shewed miracle, shall doe the things that I command them.

36 Though they see no Prophets, yet shall they hate their iniquities.

37 ¶ I will declare the grace that I will doe for the people to come, whose children reioyce in gladnesse, and though they haue not seene me with bodily eyes, yet in heart they beleeue the things that I say.

38 Now therefore brother, behold what great glory, & see the people that come from the East.

39 Vnto whom I will giue for leaders, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Esaias, Amos, Micheas, Joel, Abdias, Jonas, 40 Nahum, Abacuc, Sophonias, Aggeus, Zacharias, and Malachias (which is called also the *messenger of the Lord.) Malac.3.1.

CHAP. II.

The Synagogue findeth fault with her owne children.
18 The Gentiles are called.

THus sayth the Lord, I brought this people out of bondage: I gaue them also my commaundements by my seruants the Prophets, whom they would not heare, but despised my counsels.

2 The mother that bare them, sayth vnto them, Goe you away, O children: for I am a widow and forsaken.

3 I brought you vp with gladnesse, but with sorrow and heauinesse haue I lost you: for ye haue sinned against the Lorde your God, and done the thing that displeaseth him.

4 But what shall I nowe doe vnto you? I am a widow and forsaken: goe ye, O my children, and aske mercie of the Lord.

5 And thee, O Father, I call for a witnesse for the mother of these children, which would not keepe my couenant,

6 That thou bring them to confusion, and their mother to a spoile, that their kindred be not continued.

7 Let their names bee scattered among the heathen: let them be put out of the earth, for they haue despised my couenant.

8 Woe vnto thee, Assur: for thou hidest the vnrighteous in thee: O wicked people, remember * what I did vnto Sodom and Gomezah, Gen.19.24.

9 Whose land is mixed with clouds of pitch and heapes of ashes: so will I doe vnto them, that heare me not, saith the Almightie Lord.

10 ¶ Thus saith the Lord vnto Esdras, Tell my people, that I will giue them the kingdome of Jerusalem, which I would haue giuen vnto Israel.

11 And I will get mee glory by them, & giue them the euerlasting tabernacles, which I had prepared for those.

12 They shall haue at will the tree of life, smelling of ointment: they shall neither labour nor be wearie.

13 Go ye, and ye shal receiue it: pray that the time, which is long, may be shortned: the kingdome is already prepared for you: watch.

14 Take heauen and earth to witnesse: for I haue abolished the euill, and created the good: for I liue, sayth the Lord.

15 Mother, embrace thy children, and bring them vp with gladnesse: make their feet as fast as a pillar: for I haue chosen thee, sayeth the Lord.

16 And those that be dead, will I raise vp from their places, & bring them out of the graues: for I haue knowen my name in Israel.

17 Feare not, thou mother of the children: for I haue chosen thee, sayth the Lord.

18 I will sende thee my seruants Esai and Jeremie to helpe thee, by whose counsel I haue sanctified and prepared for thee twelue trees laden with diuers fruits, 19 And as many fountaines, flowing with milke and honie, & seuen mightie mountaines, whereupon there grow roses and lilies, whereby I will fill thy children with ioy.

20 Execute iustice for the widow: iudge the cause of the fatherlesse: giue to the poore: defend the fatherlesse: clothe the naked,

21 Heale

21 Heale the wounded, and sicke: laugh not a lame man to scorne: defend the creeple, and let the blinde come into the light of my clearenesse.

22 Keepe the olde & the yong that are within thy walles.

Tobit 1.17. 23 * Wheresoeuer thou findest the dead, take them and burye them, and I will giue thee the first place in my resurrection.

24 Abide still, O my people, and rest: for thy quietnesse shall come.

25 Nourish thy children, O thou good nurse: stablish their feete.

26 None of the seruants that I haue giuen thee, shall perish: for I will seeke them from among thy number.

27 Be not wearie: for when the day of trouble and heauinesse commeth, other shall weepe and be sorowfull, but thou shalt be merie, and haue abundance.

28 The heathen shall enuie thee, and shal doe nothing against thee, saith the Lord.

29 Mine handes shall couer thee, so that thy children shall not see hell.

30 Be ioyfull, O thou mother, with thy children: for I will deliuer thee, saith the Lord.

31 Remember thy children that sleepe: for I will bring them out of the sides of the earth, and will shewe mercy vnto them: for I am mercifull saith the Lord Almightie.

32 Embrace thy children, vntill I come and shewe mercie vnto them: for my fountaines runne ouer, and my grace shall not faile.

33 I Esdras receiued a charge of the Lorde vpon the mount Horeb, that I should goe vnto them of Israel, but when I came to them, they cast me off, and despised the commaundement of the Lord.

34 And therefore I say vnto you, O ye heathen, that heare and vnderstand, Waite for your shepheard, who shall giue you euerlasting rest: for he is neere at hand, that shall come in the ende of the world.

35 Be ready to the reward of the kingdome: for the euerlasting light shall shine vpon you for euermore.

36 Flee the shadowe of this worlde: receiue the ioye of your glory: I testifie my sauiour openly.

37 Receiue the gift that is giuen you, and be glad, giuing thankes vnto him, that hath called you to the heauenly kingdome.

38 Arise and stand vp, and beholde the number of those that are sealed for the feast of the Lorde, 39 Which are departed from the shadow of the worlde, and haue receiued glorious garments of the Lord.

40 Take thy number, O Sion, and shut vp them that are clothed in white, which haue fulfilled the Lawe of the Lord.

41 The number of thy children whom thou longest for, is fulfilled: beseech the power of the Lorde, that thy people which haue bene called from the beginning, may be sanctified.

Reue.7.9. 42 * I Esdras sawe vpon mount Sion a great people whom I could not number, and they all praysed the Lord with songs.

43 And in the middes of them there was a yong man higher in stature then them all, and vpon euery one of their heads he set crownes, and was higher then the others, which I much marueiled at.

44 So I asked the Angel, and said, Who are these, my Lord?

45 Who answered, and said vnto me, These be they that haue put off the mortall clothing, and haue put on the immortall, and haue confessed the name of God: nowe are they crowned, and receiue the palmes.

46 Then said I vnto the Angel, What yong man is it, that setteth crownes on them, and giueth them the palmes in their handes?

47 And he answered, and said vnto me, It is the Sonne of God, whom they haue confessed in the world. Then beganne I greatly to commend them, that had stand so stronglye for the name of the Lord.

48 Then the Angel saide vnto me, Goe thy way, and tell my people, what, and howe great wonders of the Lord God thou hast seene.

CHAP. III.

4 The wonderous workes, which God did for the people, are recited. 31 Esdras marueileth that God suffereth the Babylonians to haue rule ouer his people, which yet are sinners also.

IN the thirtieth yeere after the fall of the citie, as I was at Babylon, I lay troubled vpon my bed, & my thoughts came vp to mine heart,

2 Because I saw the desolation of Sion, and the wealth of them that dwelt at Babylon.

3 So my spirit was sore moued, so that I began to speake fearefull wordes to the most High, and said,

4 O Lorde, Lorde, thou spakest at the beginning when thou alone plantedst the earth, and gauest commandement vnto the people,

5 * And a body vnto Adam, without soule, who was also thy workemanship of thine hands, and hast breathed in him the breath of life, so that he liued before thee,

Gene.2.7.

6 And broughtest him into Paradise, which thy right hand had planted, or euer the earth ‖ brought foorth.

‖ Or, went forward.

7 Euen then thou gauest him commaundement to loue thy way: but he transgressed it, and immediatly thou appointedst death to him and his generation, of whom came nations, tribes, people, and kinreds out of number.

8 * And euery people walked after their owne will, and did wonderfull things before thee, and despised thy commandements.

Gene.6.12.

9 * But at the time appointed thou broughtest the flood vpon those that dwelt in thy world, and destroyedst them,

Gene.7.10.

10 So that by the flood, that came to euery one of them, which came by death vnto Adam, 11 Yet thou leftest one, euen * Noe, with his houshold, of whom came all righteous men.

1. Tet 3.20.

12 And when they that dwelt vpon y earth, began to multiplie, and the number of the children, people, and many nations were increased, they began to be more vngodly then the first.

13 Nowe when they liued wickedly before thee, * thou diddest chuse thee a man from among them, whose name was * Abraham.

Gene.12.1. Gene.17.5.

14 Whom thou louedst, and vnto whom onely thou shewedst thy will,

15 And madest an euerlasting couenant with him, promising him that thou wouldest neuer forsake his seede.

Gen.21.2,3. Gen.25.25,26.

16 * And vnto him thou gauest Isaac, * vnto Isaac also thou gauest Jacob and Esau, * and Mal.1.2,3. rom.9.13.

diddest

biddest chuse Jacob, and cast off Esau, and so Jacob became a great multitude.

17 And when thou leddest his seede out of Egypt, * thou broughtest them vp to mount Sina, Exod.19.1. deut.4.10.

18 And inclinedst the heauens, and bowedst downe the earth, & didst moue the ground, and cause the depths to shake, and biddest astonish the world.

19 And thy glory went thorowe foure gates of fire, with earthquakes, winde and colde, that thou mightest giue the Lawe vnto the seede of Jacob, and that which the generation of Israel should diligently obserue.

20 Yet tookest thou not away from them the wicked heart, that thy Lawe might bring forth fruite in them.

Gene.3.6. 21 For * Adam first hauing a wicked heart, was ouercome and vanquished, and all they that are borne of him.

22 Thus remained weakenesse ioyned with the Lawe in the hearts of the people, with the wickednesse of the roote: so that the good departed away, and the euill abode still.

23 So the times passed away, and the yeres were brought to an ende, *till thou diddest raise thee vp a seruant called Dauid,

*1. Samuel 16.13. 2. Sam. 5.1. * and 7.5,13.*

24 * Whom thou commaundedst to builde a citie vnto thy Name, to call vpon thee therein with incense and sacrifice.

25 When this was done many yeeres, the inhabitants forsooke thee, 26 Following the wayes of Adam & all his generation: for they also had a wicked heart.

27 Therefore thou gauest thy citie ouer into the hands of thine enemies.

28 But doe they that dwel at Babylon, any better, that they should haue the dominion of Sion?

29 For when I came thither, and sawe their wicked deedes without number (for this is the thirtieth yeere that I see many trespassing) I was discouraged.

30 For I sawe, howe thou sufferedst them that sinne, & sparedst the wicked doers, whereas thou hast destroyed thine owne people, and preserued thine enemies, and thou hast not shewed it.

31 I cannot perceiue howe this commeth to passe. Are the deedes of Babylon better then they of Sion?

32 Or is there any other people that knoweth thee besides Israel? or what generation hath so beleeued thy testimonies, as Jacob?

33 And yet their reward appeareth not, and their labour hath no fruite: for I haue gone here and there thorowout the heathen, and I see them flourish, and thinke not vpon thy commandements.

34 Weigh thou therefore our wickednesse nowe in the ballance, and theirs also that dwell in the worlde, and no mention of thee shall be found but in Israel.

35 Or when is it that they that dwell on the earth haue not sinned in thy sight? or what people hath so kept thy commandements?

36 Thou shalt surely finde þ Israel by name hath kept thy precepts, but not the heathen.

CHAP. IIII.

2 The Angel reproueth Esdras, because he seemed to enter into the profound iudgements of God.

AND the Angel that was sent vnto me, whose name was Vriel, answered,

2 And saide, Thine heart hath taken too much vpon it in this worlde, and thou thinkest to comprehend the wayes of the Highest.

3 Then saide I, Yea, my Lorde. And he answered me, and saide, I am sent to shewe thee three wayes, and to set foorth three similitudes before thee,

4 Whereof if thou canst declare me one, I will shewe thee also the way that thou desirest to see, and I will shewe thee from whence the wicked heart commeth.

5 And I saide, Tell on, my Lord. Then saide he vnto me, Goe thy way, weigh me the weight of the fire, or measure me the blast of the winde, or call me againe the day that is past.

6 Then answered I, and saide, what man is borne, that can doe that, which thou requirest me, concerning these things?

7 And he saide vnto me, If I should aske thee howe deepe dwellings are in the middes of the sea, or howe great springs are in the beginning of the depth, or howe great springs are in the stretching out of the heauen, or which are the borders of Paradise,

8 Peraduenture thou wouldest say vnto me, I neuer went downe to the deepe, nor yet to the hell, neither did I euer clime vp to heauen.

9 But nowe haue I asked thee but of fire and winde, and of the day, whereby thou hast passed, and from the which things thou canst not be separated, and yet canst thou giue me none answere of them.

10 Ye saide moreouer vnto me, Thine owne things, and such as are growen vp with thee, canst thou not knowe:

11 Howe should thy vessell then be able to comprehende the wayes of the Highest, and nowe outwardly in the corrupt worlde, to vnderstand the corruption, that is euident in my sight?

12 Then saide I vnto him, It were better that we were not at al, then that we should liue in wickednesse, and to suffer, and not to knowe wherefore.

13 And he answered me, and saide, * I came to a forest in the plaine where the trees helde a counsell, Iudg.9.8. 2.chr.25.18.

14 And saide, Come, let vs goe fight against the sea, that it may giue place to vs, and that we may make vs more woods.

15 Likewise the floods of the sea tooke counsell and saide, Come, let vs goe vp and fight against the trees of the wood, that we may get another countrey for vs.

16 But the purpose of the wood was vaine: for the fire came and consumed it.

17 Likewise also the purpose of the floods of the sea: for the sand stood vp and stopped them.

18 If thou were iudge betweene these two, whom wouldest thou iustifie? or whom wouldest thou condemne?

19 I answered and saide, Verily it is a foolish purpose, that they both haue deuised: for the ground is appointed for the wood, and the sea hath his place to beare his floods.

20 Then answered he me, and saide, Thou hast giuen a right iudgement: but why iudgest thou not thy selfe also?

21 For like as the grounde is appointed for the Isa.55.8,9. Iohn 3.31. 1.cor.2.13, 14.

the wood, and the sea for his floods, so * they that dwell vpon earth,can vnderstand nothing, but that which is vpon earth:and they that are in the heauens, the things that are aboue the height of the heauens.

22 Then answered I, and saide, I beseeche thee,O Lord,let vnderstanding be giuen me.

23 For I did not purpose to enquire of thine high things, but of such as wee daily meddle withall, namely, wherefore Israel is made a reproche to the heathen, and for what cause the people whome thou hast loued,is giuen ouer to wicked nations, and why the lawe of our fathers is abolished, and the written ceremonies are come to none effect, 24 Why wee are tossed to and fro through the world as the grashoppers, and our life is a very feare, and wee are not thought worthy to obteine mercie.

25 But what will he do to his Name,which is called vpon ouer vs? Of these things haue I asked the question.

26 Then answered he me,and said,The more thou searchest, the more thou shalt marueile: for the world hasteth fast to passe away, 27 And cannot comprehende the things that are promised to the righteous in time to come: for this worlde is full of vnrighteousnesse and weakenesse.

28 But to declare thee the things whereof thou askest,the euil is sowen, but the destruction thereof is not yet come.

29 If the euill nowe that is sowen, bee not turned vpside downe,and if the place where the euill is sowen, passe not away, then cannot the thing come,that is sowen with good.

30 For the corne of euil seede hath bin sowen in the heart of Adam from the beginning, and how much vngodlinesse hath he brought vp vnto this time? And howe much shall hee bring foorth vntill the haruest come?

31 Ponder with thy selfe, howe much fruite of wickednesse the corne of euill seede bringeth foorth, 32 And when the stalkes shall be cut downe, which are without number,how great an harnest must be prepared.

33 Then I answered, and sayd, Howe, and when shall these things come to passe? wherefore are our peeres fewe and euill?

34 And he answered me,saying, Haste not to bee aboue the most High: for thou labourest in vaine to be aboue him, though thou endeuour neuer so much.

35 Did not the soules also of the righteous aske question of these things in their chambers, saying, Howe long shall I thus hope? and when commeth the fruite of my barne and our wages?

36 And vpon this Jeremiel the Archangel answered, and sayde, When the number of the seedes is filled in you: for hee hath weighed the world in the ballance.

37 The measure of the times is measured: the ages are counted by number, and they shall not be moued or shaken,til the measure thereof be fulfilled.

38 Then answered I,and said,O Lord,Lord, we are all euen full of sinne, 39 And for our sake peraduenture the harnest of the righteous is not fulfilled, because of the sinne of them that dwell vpon earth.

40 So he answered mee,and sayd, Goe,and aske a woman with childe, when shee hath fulfilled her nine moneths, if her wombe may keepe the birth any longer within her.

41 Then said I, No,Lorde, she cannot. And hee sayde vnto mee, In the graue the places of soules are like the wombe.

42 For as she that is with childe, hasteth to escape the necessitie of the trauell, so doe these places haste to deliuer those things that are committed vnto them.

43 That which thou desirest to see, shall bee shewed thee from the beginning.

44 Then answered I, and sayde, If I haue founde grace in thy sight, and if it bee possible, and if I be meete therefore, 45 Shewe mee whether there bee more to come then is past, or more things past,then are to come.

46 What is past, I knowe, but what is to come, I knowe not.

47 And he sayd vnto me, Stand on the right side, and I will expounde thee this by example.

48 So I stoode, and beholde, a hot burning ouen passed before me:and when the flame was gone by, I looked, and beholde, the smoke had the vpper hand.

49 After this there passed before me a watrie cloude, and sent downe much raine with a storme: and when the stormie raine was past, the drops came after.

50 Then said he vnto me,Consider with thy selfe,as the raine is more then the droppes, and as fire exceedeth the smoke, so the portion that is past,hath the vpper hand, and the drops and the smoke were much.

51 Then I prayed, and sayde, May I liue, thinkest thou, vntill that time? Or what shall come to passe in those dayes?

52 He answered me,and sayd, Of the tokens whereof thou askest mee, I can tell thee a part: but I am not sent to shewe thee of thy life: for I doe not know it.

CHAP. V.

1 In the latter times trueth shall bee hidde. 10 Vnrighteousnesse and wickednesse shall reigne in the worlde. 23 Israel is reiected,and God deliuereth them. 35 God doeth all things in season.

NEuertheless concerning the tokens,behold, the times shall come,that they which dwell vpon earth, shall bee taken in a great number, and the way of the trueth shall bee hid, and the land shalbe barren from faith,

2 And * iniquitie shall bee encreased more then thou hast seene nowe, or hast heard in time past. Mat.24.12.

3 And it shall come to passe that one shall set in foote, and thou shalt see the lande desolate, which now reigneth.

4 Yea, if God graunt thee to liue, thou shalt see after the thirde trumpet, that the sunne shall suddenly shine againe in the night, and the Moone three times a day.

5 Blood shall drop out of the wood, and the stone shall giue his voyce,and the people shalbe moued.

6 And he shall rule, of whom they hope not that dwell vpon earth,& the soules shall change place.

7 And

29 ¶ And when he talked with me, behold, I looked a little vpon him before whom I stood.

30 And these words said he vnto me, I am come to shew thee þ time of the night to come.

31 If thou wilt pray againe, and fast seuen dayes more, I will tel thee more things, & greater then these, which I haue heard in the day.

32 For thy voyce is heard before the highest: surely the mighty hath seene thy righteous dealing: he hath seene also thy chastitie, which thou hast kept since thy youth.

33 Therefore hath he sent me to shew thee all these things, and to say vnto thée, Be of good comfort, and feare not,

34 And haste not in the vaine consideration of the first times, nor make haste to the latter times, 35 And after this I wept againe and fasted seuen dayes in like maner, that I might fulfill the three weekes which he had appointed me.

36 And in the eight night was mine heart vered within me againe, and I began to speake before the most High.

37 For my spirit was greatly set on fire, and my soule was in distresse.

38 And I said, O Lord, thou spakest expressly in the first creation (euen the first day) and commandedst * that the heauen & the earth should be made, and the worke followed thy word. Gen.1.1.

39 And then was there the spirite, and the darknesse was on euery side with silence: there was no mans voyce as yet created of thee.

40 Then commaundedst thou a bright light to come foorth out of thy treasures, þ it might giue light to thy worke.

41 Vpon the second day thou createdst the heauenly aire, and commandedst it, that going betweene, it should make a diuision betweene the waters, that the one part might remaine aboue, and the other beneath.

42 Vpon the third day thou commandedst, that the waters should be gathered together in the seuenth part of the earth: fiue parres didst thou dry, and kept them to the intent that of these there should be that should serue thee, being sowen of God and tilled.

43 Assoone as thy worde went foorth, the worke was incontinently made.

44 For immediatly great and innumerable fruite did spring vp, and many and diuers pleasures for the taste, and flowers of vnchangeable colour, and odours of a most wonderfull smell, and these things were created the third day.

45 *Vpon the fourth day thou createdst the light of the Sunne, and of the Moone, and the order of the Starres, Gen.1.14.

46 And gauest them a charge, to do * seruice euen vnto man that was for to be made. Gen.1.14,15 deut.4.19.

47 And vpon the fift day thou saidest vnto the seuenth part * where the waters were gathered, that it should bring foorth beastes, as foules and fishes: and it was so. Gen.1.20.

48 For the dumme waters, and without life brought foorth liuing things at the commandement of God, that the nations might praise thy wonderous works.

49 Then biddest thou prepare two liuing things: the one thou calledst ‖Behemoth, and the other thou calledst Liuiathan, ‖Or, Enoch.

50 And biddest separate the one from the other: for the seuenth part, where the water was gathered, could not hold them.

51 Vnto Behemoth thou gauest one part, which was dried vp the third day, þ he should dwell in the same part, wherein are a thousand hils.

52 But vnto Liuiathan thou gauest the seuenth part, that is wet, and hast prepared him to deuour what thou wilt, & when thou wilt.

53 Vpon the first day thou gauest commandement vnto the earth, that before thée it should bring forth beasts, cattell and creeping things.

54 And besides this Adam, whom thou madest Lorde ouer all the workes which thou hast created, of him come we all, and the people also, whom thou hast chosen.

55 All this haue I spoken before thee, O Lord, because thou hast created the world for our sakes.

56 As for the other people, which also come of Adam, thou hast declared them that they are nothing before thee, but be like vnto spettle, and hast compared their riches vnto a droppe that falleth from a vessell.

57 And now, O Lorde, behold, these heathen which haue bene reputed as nothing, haue begun to be lordes ouer vs, and to deuoure vs.

58 And we thy people (whom thou hast called the first borne, the onely begotten, and thy feruent louer) are giuen into their hands.

59 If the worlde then bee created for our sakes, why haue we not the inheritance thereof in possession? or how long shall we suffer these things?

CHAP. VII.

5 Without tribulation none can come to felicitie. 12 God aduertiseth all in time. 28 The comming and death of Christ. 32 The resurrection and last iudgement. 43 After the which all corruption shall cease. 48 All fell in Adam. 59 The true life. 62 The mercies and goodnesse of God.

AND when I had made an ende of these wordes, there was sent vnto me an Angel, which had bene sent downe to me the nights afore.

2 And he said vnto mee, Vp, Esdras, and heare the words that I am come to tell thee.

3 And I said, Speake on, my God. Then said he vnto me, The sea is set in a wide place, that it might be deepe and great,

4 But presuppose that the entrance thereof were narow, and like the riuers,

5 Who could goe into the sea to looke vpon it, and to rule it? If he went not thorow the narow, how could he come into the broad?

6 There is also another thing: a citie is builded, and set vpon a broad field, and is full of all good things:

7 The entrance thereof is narrow, and in a dangerous place to fall, that there is fire at the right hand, and a deepe water at the left,

8 And there is but one path betwixt them, euen betwixt the fire & the water, so that there could but one man go there.

9 If this citie were giuen vnto a man for an inheritance, if he neuer went thorow the perill before it, howe could hee receiue his inheritance?

10 And

10 And I saide, It is so, Lord. Then saide he, So is the portion of Israel.

11 Surely for their sakes haue I made the worlde: and when Adam transgressed my statutes, then came this thing to passe.

12 Then were the entrances of the worlde made narrowe, full of sorowe and trauaile: they are but fewe and euill, and full of perils, and very painefull.

13 For the entrances of the forewoorlde were wide and sure, and brought immortall fruite.

14 If then they that are liuing, labour not to enter by these straite and brittle things, they cannot attaine to those things that are hid.

15 Why then disquietest thou thy selfe, seeing thou art corruptible? and why art thou moued, seeing thou art mortall?

16 And why hast thou not considered in thy minde the things to come, rather then them that are present?

Deut.8.1. 17 Then saide I, O Lorde, Lorde, *seeing thou hast ordeined in thy Lawe, that the righteous should inherite these things, and that the vngodly should perish, 18 Shoulde the righteous suffer straitnesse in hoping for large things? yet they that haue liued vngodly and suffered straitnes, shall not see the large things.

19 Then he saide vnto me, There is no iudge more iust then God, and there is none more wise then the most High.

20 For many perish in this life, because they despise the Law of God that is appointed.

21 For God hath diligently admonished such as came, so oft as they came, what they should doe to haue life, and what they should obserue, to auoide punishment.

22 Neuertheless, they were not obedient vnto him, but spake against him, and imagined vaine things, 23 And deceiued themselues by their wicked deedes, and deemed the power of the most High, and regarded not his wayes.

24 But they despised his Lawe, & refused his promises: they haue vnfaithfully broken his ordinances, & haue not performed his workes.

25 And therefore, Esdras, vnto the emptie are emptie things, and to the full, full things.

26 Beholde, the time shall come, that these tokens which I haue tolde thee, shall come to passe, and the bride shall appeare, and she shall come foorth, and be seene that now is vnder the earth.

27 And whosoeuer shall escape these euils, he shall see my wonders.

28 For my sonne Iesus shall appeare with those that be with him, and they that remaine, shall reioyce within foure hundreth yeeres.

29 After these same yeeres shall my sonne Christ die, and all men that haue life.

30 And the world shalbe turned into the olde silence for seuen dayes, as in the fore iudgements, so that no man shall remaine.

31 But after seuen dayes, the world that is yet asleepe, shall be raised vp: and that shall die, that is corrupt.

32 Then the earth shall restore those, that haue slept in her, and so shall the dust those that dwell therein in silence, and the secrete places shall deliuer the soules that were committed vnto them.

33 And the most High shall appeare vpon the seate of iudgement, and miseries shall vanish away, and long suffering shall haue an ende.

34 Iustice onely shall continue: the trueth shall remaine, and faith shall be strong.

35 The worke shall followe, and the reward shalbe shewed: the good deedes shall be of force, and vnrighteousnesse shall beare no more rule.

36 Then saide I, *Abraham prayed first for the Sodomites, and *Moyses for the fathers that sinned in the wildernesse, Gen.18.23. Exo.32.3,11

37 And they that came after him, for Israel in the time of Achaz and Samuel, 38 And *Dauid for the destruction, * and Salomon for them that came into the Sanctuarie, 2.Sa.24.17. 2.Chr.6.14.

39 * And Elias for those that receiued raine, and for the dead that he might liue, 1.King.17. 21.& 18.

40 And *Ezechias for the people in the time of Sennacherib, and diuers other for many. 42.45. 2.Kin.19.15

41 Euen so now, seeing vice is increased, and wickednesse aboundeth, and the righteous haue prayed for the vngodly, wherefore shall not the same effect followe also nowe?

42 Then he answered me, and saide, This present life is not the ende: oft times honour is reserued in it: therefore haue they prayed for the weake.

43 But the day of iudgement shall be the end of this worlde, and the beginning of the immortalitie to come, wherein all corruption shall cease.

44 Intemperancie shall passe away: infidelitie shall be cut off: righteousnesse shall growe vp, and the veritie shall spring vp.

45 Then shall no man be able to saue him that is destroyed, nor oppresse him that hath gotten the victorie.

46 I answered then, and saide, This is my first and last saying, that it had beene better not to haue giuen the earth vnto Adam, or when it was giuen him, to haue kept him that he should not haue sinned.

47 For what profite is it for men in this present life to be in heauinesse, and after death to feare punishment?

48 O Adam, what hast thou done? * for in that that thou hast sinned, thou art not fallen alone, but the fall also redoundeth vnto vs that come of thee. Rom.5.18.

49 For what profite is it vnto vs, if there be promised an immortall life, when we doe the workes that bring death?

50 And that an euerlasting hope shoulde be promised vs, seeing that we bestde our selues to deadly vanitie?

51 And that there shoulde be appointed vs dwellings of health and safetie, if we haue liued wickedly?

52 And that the glory of the most High should be kept to defend them which haue led a patient life, if wee haue walked in the wicked wayes?

53 And that an eternall paradise should be shewed, whose fruite remaineth incorruptible, wherein is safetie and health, if we will not enter into it?

54 (For we haue bene conuersant in vnpleasant places)

55 And that the faces of them, which haue abstained, should shine more then starres, if our faces be blacker then darkenesse?

56 For while we lived, we did not remember when we did unrighteously, that we should suffer after death.

57 Then answered he me, and saide, This is the maner of the battell, which man, that is borne in the earth, shall fight, 58 That if he be ouercome, he should suffer as thou hast said: but if he get the victorie, he should receiue the thing that I said.

59 For this is the life, whereof Moyses spake
Deut. 30. 19. unto the people, while he lived, saying, *Chuse thee life that thou mayest liue.

60 Neuertheless, they beleeued him not, neither the Prophets after him, nor me also which haue said unto them, 61 That heauinesse should not so be to their destruction, as ioy should come unto them, to whom saluation is perswaded.

62 I answered then and said, I know, Lord, that the most high is called mercifull, in that he hath mercy upon them, which are not yet come to that world,

63 And that hee hath pitie on those that walke in his lawe,

Rom. 2. 4. 64 And that * he is patient: for he long sufferreth those that haue sinned as his creatures,

65 And that he is liberall: for he will giue as much as needeth,

66 And that hee is of great mercy: for he ouercommeth in mercy those that are present, and that are past, and them which are to come.

67 For if he were not aboundant in his mercies, the world could not continue, nor they that haue the possession thereof.

68 He pardoneth also: for if hee gaue not of his goodnesse, that they which haue done euill might be relieued from their wickednes, the ten thousand part of men should not remaine alive.

69 And if he, being iudge, forgaue not those that he healed with his worde, and tooke away the multitude of sinnes, 70 There should peraduenture be very fewe left in an innumerable multitude.

CHAP. VIII.

1 The number of the godly is small. 6 The workes of God are excellent. 20 Esdras prayeth for him and for his people. 39 The promise of saluation to the iust. 55 The destruction of the vnjust.

AND he answered me, saying, The most high made this world for many, but the world to come for fewe.

2 I will tell thee a similitude, O Esdras. As when thou askest the earth, it shall say unto thee, that it giueth much earthy matter to make pots, but little dust that golde commeth of, so is it with the worke of this world.

Mat. 20. 16. 3 *There be many created, but fewe shall be saued.

4 Then answered I, and said, Then swallow vp the wit, O my soule, and deuoure vnderstanding.

5 For thou hast promised to heare, and thou wilt prophecie: for thou hast no longer space, but the life giuen thee.

6 O Lord, if thou suffer not thy seruant, that we may entreate thee, that thou mayest giue seede unto our heart, and prepare our vnderstanding, that there may come fruit of it, whereby euery one which is corrupt, may liue, who can set himselfe for man?

7 For thou art alone, & we all are one worke-manship of thine hands as thou hast said.

8 For when the body is fashioned nowe in the wombe, and thou hast giuen it members, thy creature is preserued by fire and water, and the worke created by thee, doeth suffer nine moneths the creature, which is fashioned in it.

9 But the thing that contemneth, and that which is contained, shall both be preserued, and when time is come, the wombe, being preserued, deliuereth the things that grewe in it.

10 For thou hast commanded the members, euen the breasts, to giue milke unto the fruite appointed to the breastes, 11 That the thing, which is created, may be nourished for a time, till thou disposest it to thy mercie.

12 Thou bringest it vp with thy righteousnesse, nurturest it in thy lawe, and reformest it with thy iudgement.

13 Thou slayest it as thy creature, and giuest it life as thy worke.

14 Seeing then that thou destroyest him, which with so great labours is facioned, it is an easie thing to appoint by thy commaundement, that the thing also which is made, might be preserued.

15 Nowe therefore, O Lorde, I will speake (as touching men in generall thou shalt rather pitie) but concerning thy people, for whose sake I am sory, 16 And for thine inheritance, for whose cause I mourne: for Israel, for whom I am wofull, and for Jacob, for whose sake I am grieued.

17 For them will I pray before thee, aswell for my selfe, as for them: for I see our faultes that dwell in the land.

18 ¶ But I haue heard the sudden comming of the iudge, which is to come.

19 Therefore heare my voyce, and vnderstand my wordes, which I will speake before thee. The beginning of the wordes of Esdras, before he was taken vp:

20 O Lorde, thou liuest for euer, which beholdest from aboue that which is aboue, and in the ayre,

21 Whose throne is inestimable, and his glory incomprehensible, before whom the hoste of the Angels stand with trembling,

22 Whose keeping is turned in winde and fire, whose worde is true, and sayings stedfast, whose commandement is strong, and gouernement terrible, 23 Whose looke dryeth vp the depthes, and wrath maketh the mountaines to melt away as the thing beareth witnesse.

24 Heare the prayer of thy seruant, and receiue into thine eares the petition of thy creature.

25 For while I liue, I will speake, and so long as I haue vnderstanding, I will answere.

26 Looke not vpon the sinnes of thy people, rather then thy faithfull seruants.

27 Haue not respect unto the wicked deedes of men, rather then to them that haue thy testimonies in afflictions.

28 Thinke not vpon those that haue walked fainedly before thee, but remember them that reuerence thy will.

29 Let it not bee thy will to destroy them, which haue lined like beastes, but looke vpon them that haue clerely taught thy law.

30 Take not displeasure with them, which appeare worse then beasts, but loue them, that alwap put their trust in thy righteousnesse and glorp.

31 For we and our fathers haue all the same sickenesse: but because of vs that are sinners, thou shalt be called mercifull.

32 If therefore thou wilt haue mercie vpon vs, thou shalt be called mercifull towards vs which haue no works of righteousnesse.

33 For the righteous, which haue layde vp many good works, let them receiue the reward of their owne deeds.

34 But what is man, that thou shouldest take displeasure at him? or what is this mortall generation, that thou shouldest bee so grieued towards it?

35 *For verely there is no man among them that be borne, but hee hath done wickedly, nor any that doeth confesse thee, which hath not done amisse. *1. King. 8. 46. 2 chro. 6. 36.

36 For in this, O Lorde, thy righteousnesse and thy goodnesse shall be praised, if thou bee mercifull vnto them, which haue not the substance of good works.

37 ¶ Then answered he me, and sayd, Some things hast thou spoken aright, and according vnto thy words it shalbe.

38 For I will not verely consider the works of them, before the death, before the iudgement, before destruction:

39 But* I will reioyce in the wayes of the righteous, & I will remember the pilgrimage, the saluation & the reward that they shall haue. *Gen. 4. 4.

40 Like as I haue spoken nowe, so shall it come to passe.

41 For as the husbandman soweth much seede vpon the ground, & planteth many trees, and yet alwap the thing that is sowen, commeth not vp in time, neither yet doeth all that is planted, take roote: so neither shall they all that are brought into the world, be saued.

42 I answered then and sayde, If I haue found grace, let me speake.

43 Like as the husbandmans seede perisheth, if it come not vp, and receiue not raine in due season, or if it bee destroyed with too much raine:

44 So perisheth man, which is created with thine handes, and thou art called his patterne, because he is created to thine image, for whose sake thou hast made all things, and likened him vnto the husbandmans seede.

45 Be not wroth with vs, O Lorde, but spare thy people, and haue mercie vpon thine inheritance: for thou wilt be mercifull vnto thy creature.

46 Then answered he me, & said, The things present are for the present, & the things to come for such as be to come.

47 For thou art farre off, that thou shouldest loue my creature aboue me: but I haue oft times drawen neere vnto thee and vnto it, but neuer to the vnrighteous.

48 In this also thou art marueilous before the Highest, 49 In that thou hast humbled thy selfe, as it becommeth thee, and hast not iudged thy selfe worthie to boast thy selfe greatly among the righteous.

50 For many miseries & calamities remaine for them, that shal liue in the latter time, because they shall walke in great pride.

51 But learne thou for thy selfe, and seeke out the glorp for such as be like thee.

52 For vnto you is paradise opened: the tree of life is planted: the time to come is prepared, plentousnesse made ready: the citie is builded, and rest is prepared, perfect goodnesse and absolute wisedome.

53 The roote of euill is sealed vp from you: the weaknesse and moth is destroyed from you, and into hell fleeth corruption to be forgotten.

54 Sorrowes are banished away, and in the end is shewed the treasure of immortalitie.

55 Therefore aske thou no more questions concerning the multitude of them that perish:

56 For when they had liberte, they despised the most High: they contemned his Lawe and forsooke his wayes.

57 Moreouer, they haue troden downe his righteous,

58 *Saying in their heart, that there was no God, though they knewe that they should die. *Psal. 14. 1. and 53. 1.

59 For as the thing that I haue spoken of, is made ready for you: so is thirst and paine prepared for them: for God woulde not that man should not perish.

60 But they, after that they were created, haue defiled the name of him that made them, and are vnthankfull vnto him, which prepared life for them.

61 Therefore my iudgement is now at hand.

62 These things haue I not shewed vnto all men, but vnto thee, and to a few like thee: then I answered, and said, 63 Beholde now, O Lord: thou hast shewed me the many woonders, which thou art determined to doe in the last time, but in what time, thou hast not shewed me.

CHAP. IX.

5 All things in this world haue a beginning and an end. 10 Torments for the wicked after this life. 15 The number of the wicked is more then of the good. 29 The Iewes ingratitude: 36 Therefore they perish. 38 The vision of a woman lamenting.

HE answered me then, and said, Measure the time with it selfe, and when thou seest that one part of the tokens come to passe, which I haue tolde thee before,

2 Then shalt thou vnderstand, that it is the time wherein the most High will begin to visite the world which he made.

3 Therefore when there shall bee seene an *earthquake in the world, and an vproze of the people, *Mat. 24. 7.

4 Then shalt thou vnderstand that the most High spake of those things, from the dayes that were before thee, euen from the beginning.

5 For as all that is made in the world, hath a beginning and an end, and the end is manifest:

6 So the times also of the most High haue plaine beginnings in wonders and signes, and end in effect and miracles.

7 And euery one that shall escape safe, and shalbe deliuered by his works, and by the faith wherein he haue beleeued

8 Shall be preserued from the said perils and shall see my saluation in my lande, and within my borders: for I haue kept me holy from the world.

9 Then shall they haue pitie of themselues, which nowe haue abused my wayes: and they that haue cast them out despitefully, shall dwell in paines.

10 For such as in their life haue receiued benefits, and haue not knowen me,

11 But haue abhorred my lawe, while they were yet in liberti, and when they had yet leasure of amendment, and would not vnderstand but despised it,

12 They must bee taught it after death by paine.

13 And therefore be thou no more carefull, to knowe howe the vngodly shall be punished, but inquire howe the righteous shall be saued, and whose the world is, & for whom it is, and when.

14 Then answered I, and said,

15 I haue afore saide that which I say nowe and will speake it hereafter, that there be many moe of them which perish, then of them that shalbe * saued, Chap. 8. 3. mat. 20, 16.

16 As the flood is greater then a drop.

17 And he answered me, saying, As the field is, so is also the seede: as the flowers be, so are the colours also: such as the workeman is, such is the worke: and as the husbandman is, so is his husbandrie: for it was the time of the world.

18 Surely when I prepared the world, which was not yet made for them to dwell in that now liue, no man spake against me.

19 For then euery one obeyed, but nowe the maners of them that are created in this world, that is made, are corrupted by a perpetuall seede, and by a lawe, whereout they cannot rid themselues.

20 So I considered the world, and beholde, there was perill, because of the deuices, that were sprung vp into it.

21 Yet when I sawe it, I spared it greatly, and haue kept me one grape of the cluster, and a plant out of a great people.

22 Let therefore the multitude perish, which are borne in vaine: and let my grape bee kept, and my plant, which I haue dressed with great labour.

23 Neuertheless, if thou wilt cease seuen dayes moe (but thou shalt not fast in them,

24 But shalt goe into a faire fielde, where no house is builded, and shalt eate onely of the flowers of the field, and eate no flesh, nor drinke wine, but the flowers onely,

25 And pray vnto the most High continually) then will I come, and talke with thee.

26 So I went my way, as hee had commanded mee, into the field, which is called Ardath, and there I sate among the flowers, and did eate of the herbes of the field, and the meat of the same satisfied me.

27 And after seuen dayes, as I sate vpon the grasse, and mine heart was vexed within me, as afore,

28 I opened my mouth, and began to talke before the most High, and to say,

29 O Lorde, when thou wouldest shew thy selfe vnto vs, * thou declaredst thy selfe vnto our fathers in the wildernesse, in a place where Exod. 19. 9. and 24. 3. deut. 4. 12.

no man dwelleth, in a barren place, when they came out of Egypt,

30 And expressely spakest vnto them, saying, Heare mee, O Israel, and marke my wordes, thou seed of Jacob.

31 For beholde, I sowe my law in you, that it may bring foorth fruite in you, and that ye may be honoured by it for euer.

32 But our fathers which receiued the Law, kept it not, neither obserued thine ordinances, neither did the fruite of the Lawe appeare, neither could it, for it was thine.

33 * For they that receiued it, perished be- Exod. 32. 28. cause they kept not the thing that was sowen in them.

34 And loe, it is a custome when the ground receiueth seed, or the sea a ship, or a vessell meat and drinke, if that perish wherein a thing is sowen, or wherein any thing is put,

35 Likewise the thing that is sowen, or is put therein, and the thinges that are receiued, must perish: so the things that are receiued, doe not remaine with vs: but in vs it commeth not so to passe.

36 For we that haue receiued the Lawe, perish in sinne, and our heart also which receiued it:

37 But the Lawe perisheth not, but remaineth in his force.

38 ¶ And when I spake these things in mine heart, I looked about me, and vpon the right side * I sawe a woman, which mourned sore, Chap. 10. 44 and lamented with a loud voice, and was grieued in heart, and rent her clothes, and she had ashes vpon her head.

39 Then I left my thoughts, wherin I was occupied, and turned me vnto her, 40 And said vnto her, Wherefore weepest thou? why art thou so sory in minde?

41 And she said vnto me, Sir, let me alone, that I may bewaile my selfe, and increase sorrowe: for I am sore vexed in my minde, and brought very lowe.

42 Then I said vnto her, What ayleth thee? tell me.

43 And she said vnto me, I thy seruant haue bene barren, and haue had no childe, hauing an husband thirtie yeres.

44 And euery houre, and euery day these thirtie yeeres I pray to the most High day and night.

45 And after thirtie yeeres God heard mee thine handmaide, and looked vpon my misery, considered my trouble, & gaue me a sonne, and I was glad of him: so was mine husband also, and all they of my countrey, and we gaue great honour vnto the Almightie.

46 And I nourished him with great trauell.

47 So when he grew vp, and came to take a wife, I made a feast.

CHAP. X.

Esdras and the woman that appeareth vnto him, commune together.

BVt when my sonne went into his chamber, he fell downe, and died.

2 Then we all ouerthrew the lights, and all my neighbours rose vp to comfort me: so I rested vntill the second day at night.

3 And when they had all left off to comfort me, that I should be quiet, then I rose vp by night, and fledde, and am come into this field

fielde as thou seest,

4 And am not purposed to returne into the citie, but to remaine here, and neither to eate nor drinke, but continually to mourne and fast, vntill I die.

5 Then left I my purpose wherein I was, and spake to her angerly, and said,

6 Thou foolish woman aboue all other, seest thou not our heauinesse, and what commeth vnto vs?

7 For Sion our mother is all wofull and is sore afflicted, and mourneth extremely.

8 Seeing we be all nowe in heauinesse, and make our mone (for wee be all sorowfull) art thou sory for one sonne?

9 Demaund the earth, and she shall tell thee that it is shee which ought to mourne for the fall of so many that growe vpon her.

10 For from the beginning all men are borne of her, and other shall come, and beholde, they walke almost all into destruction, and the multitude of them shalbe destroyed.

11 Who should then rather mourne, she that hath lost so great a multitude, or thou which art sory but for one?

12 But if thou wouldest say vnto me, My mourning is not like the mourning of the earth (for I haue lost the fruite of my wombe, which I brought foorth with heauinesse, and bare with sorowes, 13 But the earth is according to the maner of the earth, and the present multitude returneth into her as it came)

14 Then say I vnto thee, As thou hast borne with trauell, so the earth also from the beginning giueth her fruite vnto man, euen to him that laboured her.

15 Nowe therefore withholde thy sorowe in thy selfe, and beare constantly that which commeth vnto thee.

16 For if thou allowest Gods purpose, and receiuest his counsell in time, thou shalt be commended therein.

17 Goe thy way then into the citie to thine husband.

18 ¶ Then she saide vnto me, I will not, I will not goe into the citie, but here will I die.

19 So I continued to speake more with her, and said, 20 Doe not so, but be counselled: for how many salles hath Sion? Be of good comfort because of the sorowe of Jerusalem.

21 For thou seest that our sanctuarie is laide waste: our altar is broken downe: our Temple is destroyed:

22 Our Psalterion sauneth, and the song ceaseth, and our mirth is vanished away, and the light of our candlesticke is quenched, and the Arke of our couenant is taken away, and our holy things are defiled, and the name that is called vpon ouer vs, is almost dishonoured, and our children are put to shame, and our Priests are burnt, and our Leuites are caried into captiuitie, and our virgins are defiled, and our wiues rauished, and our righteous men hoysted, and our children destroyed, and our young men are brought in bondage, and our strong men are become weake,

23 And, which is the greatest of all, Sion the seale hath lost her worship: for she is deliuered into the hands of them that hate vs.

24 And therefore shake off thy great heauinesse, and put away the multitude of sorowes, that the Almighty may be mercifull vnto thee, and that the most High may giue thee rest and ease from thy labour.

25 And when I was talking with her, her face and beauty shined suddenly, and her countenance was bright, so that I was afraide of her, and mused what it might be.

26 And beholde, immediatly she cast out a great voyce, very fearefull, so that the earth shooke at the noyse of the woman.

27 And I looked, and beholde, the woman appeared vnto me no more: but there was a citie builded, and a place was shewed from the ground and foundation. Then was I afraide, and cryed with a loud voyce, and said, 28 Where is Vriel the Angel * which came to me at the first? for he hath caused me to come into many and deepe considerations, and mine ende is turned into corruption, and my prayer to rebuke. Chap.4.1.

29 And as I was speaking these wordes, beholde, he came vnto me, and looked vpon me.

30 And loe, I lay as one dead, and mine vnderstanding was altered, and he tooke me by the right hand and comforted me, and set me vpon my feete, and said vnto me, 31 What aylest thee? and why is thine vnderstanding vered? and the vnderstanding of thine heart? and wherefore art thou sory?

32 And I saide, Because thou hast forsaken me, and I haue done * according vnto thy wordes: I went into the fielde, and there haue I seene things, and see that I am not able to expresse. Chap.5.20.

33 Then saide he vnto me, Stand vp manly, and I will giue thee exhortation.

34 Then said I, Speake vnto me, my Lord, and forsake me not, lest I die through rashnes.

35 For I haue seene that I knewe not, and heare that I doe not know.

36 Or is mine vnderstanding deceiued, or doeth my mind, being hautie, erre?

37 Nowe therefore I beseech thee that thou wilt shewe thy seruant of this wonder.

38 Then he answered me, and saide, Heare me, and I wil enforme thee, and tell thee wherefore thou art afraide: for the most High hath reuealed many secret things vnto thee.

39 Hee hath seene thy good purpose, that thou art sory continually for thy people, and makest great lamentation for Sion.

40 This therefore is the vnderstanding of the vision, which appeared vnto thee a little while agoe.

41 Thou sawest a woman mourning, and thou begannest to comfort her:

42 But nowe seest thou the likenesse of the woman no more, but there appeared vnto thee a citie builded.

43 And whereas she tolde thee of the death of her sonne, this is the solution,

44 This woman, which thou sawest, she is Sion: and where as shee tolde thee (euen she which thou seest nowe as a citie builded)

45 And as touching that she said vnto thee, that she was barren thirtie yeeres, this was concerning that there was euen thirtie yeeres wherein there was no offering offered in her.

46 But after thirtie yeeres, Salomon built the citie, and offred offrings: then bare the barren a sonne.

47 And where as she told thee, that she nourished him with labour, that was the inhabiting of Jerusalem.

48 But where as shee tolde thee that her sonne, as his chance was, died when shee came into her chamber, that is the fall that is come to Jerusalem.

49 And when thou sawest her like one that mourned for her sonne, thou begannest to comfort her: of these things which haue chaunced, these are to be opened vnto thee.

50 For nowe the most High seeth, that thou art sory in thy mind, and because thou sufferest with all thine heart for her, hee shewed thee the clearenesse of her glory, and the fairenesse of her beautie.

51 And therefore I bade thee remaine in the field where no house was built.

52 For I knew that the most High would shew these things vnto thee.

53 Therefore I commaunded thee to goe into the field, where no foundation nor building is.

54 For the worke of mans building cannot stand in that place where the citie of the most High should be shewed.

55 And therefore feare not, neither let thine heart bee afrayd, but goe in, and see the beautie and greatnes of the building as much as thou art able to see with thine eyes.

56 And after this shalt thou heare, as much as thine eares may comprehend.

57 For thou art blessed aboue many, and art called with the most High among the few.

58 But to morrow at night thou shalt remaine here,

59 And the most High shal shew thee visions of high things, which the most High will doe vnto them that dwell vpon earth, in the last dayes. So I slept the same night and another, as he had commaunded me.

CHAP. XI.

1 The vision of an eagle comming forth of the sea, & of her feathers. 37 Of a lion comming out of the forest.

THen sawe I a dreame, and beholde, there came vp from the sea an eagle, which had twelue feathered wings, and three heads.

2 And I saw, & behold, she spread her wings ouer all the earth, and all the windes of the aire blew on her, and gathered themselues.

3 And I beheld, and out of her feathers grew out other contrary feathers, and they became little feathers and small.

4 But her heads remained still, and the head in the mids was greater then the other heads, yet rested it with them.

5 Moreouer, I saw that the eagle flew with his feathers, and reigned vpon earth, and ouer them that dwell therein.

6 And I saw that all things vnder heauen were subiect vnto her, & no man spake against her, no not one creature vpon earth.

7 I sawe also that the eagle stoode vp vpon her clawes, and spake to her feathers, saying,

8 Watch not all together: sleepe euery one in his owne place, and watch by course.

9 But let the heads be preserued for the last.

10 Neuertheless, I saw that the voyce went not out of her heads, but from the mids of her body.

11 Then I numbred her contrary feathers, and behold, there were eight of them.

12 And I looked, and behold, vpon the right side there arose one feather, and reigned ouer all the earth.

13 And when it had reigned, the ende of it came, and the place thereof appeared no more. So the next stood vp, and reigned: it continued a long time.

14 And when it had reigned, the ende of it came also, and as the first, so it appeared no more.

15 Then there came a voyce vnto it, & sayd,

16 Heare thou that hast kept the earth so long: this I say vnto thee, before thou beginnest to appeare no more,

17 There shall none after thee attaine vnto thy time, neither to the halfe thereof.

18 Then arose the third and reigned as the other afore, and it appeared no more also.

19 So came it to all the others one after an other, so that euery one reigned, & then appeared no more.

20 Then I looked, and behold, in processe of time the feathers that followed, stoode vp on the right side, that they might rule also. & some of them ruled, but within a while they appeared no more.

21 For some of them were set vp, but ruled not.

22 After this I looked, & behold, the twelue feathers appeared no more, nor the two wings.

23 And there was no more vpon the eagles body, but two heads that rested, & fiue wings.

24 Then sawe I also that two wings deuided themselues from the fiue, and remained vnder the head, that was vpon the right side: for the foure continued in their place.

25 So I looked, and behold, the vnderwings thought to set vp themselues, and to haue the rule.

26 Then was there one set vp, but shortly it appeared no more.

27 And the second were sooner gone then the first.

28 Then I beheld, and loe, the two that remained, thought also in themselues to reigne.

29 And when they so thought, behold, there awaked one of the heads that were at rest, which was in the mids: for that was greater then the two.

30 Then I sawe that the two heads were ioyned therewith.

31 And behold, the head was turned with them, that were with it, & did eate vp the two vnder wings that would haue reigned.

32 But this head put the whole earth in feare, & bare rule in it, ouer all those that dwelt vpon earth with much labour, and it had the gouernaunce of the world, more then all the wings that had bene.

33 After this I looked, and behold, the head that was in the middes, suddenly appeared no more, as did the wings.

34 But the two heads remained, which also ruled likewise vpon earth, and ouer those that dwelt therein.

35 And I beheld, and loe, the head vpon the right right side deuoured it that was vpon the left side.

36 ¶ Then I heard a voyce which said vnto me, Looke before thee, and consider the thing that thou seest.

37 So I sawe, and beholde, as it were a lyon that roareth, running hastily out of the wood: and I sawe that he sent out a mans voyce vnto the Eagle, and spake, and said,

38 Heare thou, I will talke with thee, and the most High shall say vnto thee,

39 Art not thou that that of þ foure beastes remained, whō I made to reigne in my world, that by them the end of times might come,

40 And the fourth is come, and hath ouercome al the beasts that were past, & hath power ouer the world with great fearefulnesse, & ouer the whole compasse of the earth with most wicked oppression, and that dwelleth so long time in all the world with deceite?

41 For thou hast not iudged the earth with trueth.

42 Seeing thou hast troubled þ meeke, thou hast hurt the peaceable, and thou hast loued lyars, and destroyed the dwellings of them that wrought fooyth fruite, and hast cast downe the walles of such as did thee no harme, 43 Therefore is thy wrongfull dealing come vp vnto the most High, and thy pride vnto the Mighty.

44 The most High also hath looked vpon the proud times, and beholde, they are ended, and their abominations are fulfilled.

45 Therefore appeare no more, thou Eagle, nor thine horrible wings, nor thy wicked feathers, nor thy malicious heads, and thy wicked clawes, nor all thy vaine body, 46 That all the earth may be refreshed, and come againe, as one deliuered from thy violence, and that she may hope for the iudgement and mercie of him that made her.

CHAP. XII.

The declaration of the former visions.

AND when the lion spake these wordes to the Eagle, I saw,

2 And beholde, the head that had the vpper hand appeared no more, neither did the foure wings appeare any more, that came to it, and set vp themselues to reigne, whose kingdome was small and full of vproares.

3 And I sawe, and beholde, they appeared no more, and the whole body of the Eagle was burnt, so that the earth was in great feare. Then I awaked out of the trouble and traunce of my minde, and from the great feare, and said vnto my spirite, 4 Loe, this hast thou done vnto me in that thou searchest out the wayes of the most High.

5 Loe, yet am I wearie in my minde, and very weake in my spirit, and little strength is there in me, for the great feare that I received this night.

6 Therefore now I will beseech the most High, that he will comfort me vnto the ende.

7 And I said, O Lord, Lord, if I haue found grace before thy sight, and if I am iustified with thee before many other, and if my prayer is verie be come vp before thy face, 8 Comfort me, and shew me thy seruant the interpretation and difference of this horrible sight, that thou mayest perfectly comfort my soule.

9 Seeing thou hast iudged me worthy to shewe me the last times.

10 ¶ Then he said vnto me, This is the interpretation of this vision, 11 The Eagle whom thou sawest come vp from the sea, is the *kingdome which was seene in the vision of thy brother Daniel. *Dan. 7. 7.

12 But it was not expounded vnto him: therefore now I declare it vnto thee.

13 Beholde, the dayes come, that there shall rise vp a kingdome vpon the earth, and it shall be feared aboue all kingdomes that were before it.

14 In it shall twelue kings reigne one after an other,

15 Whereof the second shall begin to reigne, and shall haue more time then the twelue.

16 And this doe the twelue wings signifie which thou sawest.

17 As for the voice that thou heardest speake, and that thou sawest not go out from the heads, but from the middes of the body thereof, this is the interpretation, 18 That after the time of that kingdome there shall arise great strife, and it shalbe in danger to fall, but it shall not then fall, but shall be restored againe to his beginning.

19 Concerning the eight vnder wings, which thou sawest hang vnto her wings, this is the interpretation, 20 In him, that arise eight kings, whose time shall be but small, and their yeeres swift, and two of them shall perish.

21 But when the mid time commeth, there shall be foure kept a time, whiles his time beginneth to come, that it may be ended, but two shall be kept vnto the ende.

22 And whereas thou sawest three heads resting, this is the interpretation,

23 In his last dayes shall the most High raise vp three kingdoms, and shall call against many things into them, and they shall haue the dominion of the earth,

24 And of them, that dwelt therein, with much griefe aboue all those that were before them: therefore are they called the heads of the Eagle.

25 For they shall accomplish his wickednes, and shall finish his last end.

26 And whereas thou sawest that the great head appeared no more, it signifieth that one of them shall die vpon his bed, and yet with paine.

27 For the two that remaine, the sworde shall deuoure them.

28 For the sword of the one shall deuoure the other: but at the last shall he fall by the sworde himselfe.

29 And whereas thou sawest two vnder wings, that went through the head, which was on the right side, this is the interpretation, 30 These are they whom the most High hath preserued for their ende, whose kingdome is little, and full of trouble as thou sawest.

31 And the lion whom thou sawest rising vp out of the wood and roaring, and speaking vnto the Eagle, and rebuking her for her vnrighteousnesse with all the wordes that thou hast heard,

32 This is the anoynted which the most High hath kept for them, & for their wickednesse vnto the end, and he shall reproue them, and cast before them their spoiles.

33 For hee shall set them alive in the iudgement, and shall rebuke them and correct them.

34 For he will deliuer the residue of my people by affliction, which are preserued vpon my borders, and hee shall make them ioyfull, vntill the comming of the day of iudgement, whereof I haue spoken vnto thee from the beginning.

35 This is the dreame that thou sawest, and these are the interpretations.

36 Thou only hast bene meete to know this secret of the most High.

37 Therefore write all these things that thou hast seene in a booke, and hide them, 38 And teach them the wise of the people, whose hearts thou knowest may comprehend and keepe these secrets.

39 But waite thou here yet seuen dayes mo, that it may be shewed thee whatsoeuer it pleaseth the most High to declare vnto thee: & with that he went his way.

40 And whē all the people perceiued, that the seuen dayes were past, and I not come againe into the citie, they gathered them all together, from the least vnto the most, and came vnto me, and spake vnto me, saying,

41 What haue we offended thee? or what euill haue we done against thee, that thou forsakest vs, and sittest in this place?

42 For of all the people thou only art left vs as a grape of the vine, and as a candle in a darke place, and as an hauen or ship preserued from the tempest.

43 Are not the euils which are come vnto vs, sufficient?

44 If thou then forsake vs, how much better had it bene for vs, that wee had bene burnt also as Sion was burnt?

45 For wee are no better then they that died there: and they wept with a loud voyce. Then answered I them, and said, 46 Be of good comfort, O Israel, and be not heauie thou house of Jacob.

47 For the most High hath you in remembrance, & the Almighty hath not forgotten you in temptation.

48 As for mee I haue not forsaken you, neither am I departed from you, but am come into this place to pray for the desolation of Sion, that I might seeke mercy for the lowe estate of your sanctuarie.

49 And now go your way home euery man, and after these dayes will I come vnto you.

50 So the people went their way into the citie, as I commanded them:

51 But I remayned still in the fielde seuen dayes, as he had commaunded me, and did eate onely of the flowers of the field, and had my meate of the herbes in those dayes.

CHAP. XIII.

2 The vision of a wind comming foorth of the sea, 3 Which became a man. 5 His properties & power against his enemies. 21 The declaration of this vision.

AND after the seuen dayes I dreamed a dreame by night.

2 And behold, there arose a wind from the sea, that it mooued all the waues thereof.

3 And I looked, & behold, there was a mightie man with the thousands of heauen: & when he turned his countenance to looke, all the things trembled that were seene vnder him.

4 And when the voyce went out of his mouth, all they burned that heard his voyce, as the earth faileth when it feeleth the fire.

5 After these things I saw, and behold, there was gathered together a multitude of men out of number, frō the foure winds of the heauen, to fight against the man that came out from the sea.

6 And I looked, and behold, he grauen himselfe a great mountaine, and flew vp vpon it.

7 But I would haue seene the countrey or place whereout the hill was grauen, and I could not.

8 I sawe after these things, and beholde, all they which came to fight against him, were sore afrayd, and yet they durst fight.

9 Neuertheless, when he saw the fiercenesse of the multitude that came, hee lifted not vp his hand: for he held no sword nor any instrument of warre,

10 But only, as I sawe, he sent out of his mouth, as it had bene a blast of fire, and out of his lippes the winde of the flame, and out of his tongue he cast out sparkes and stormes.

11 And they were all mixt together, euen this blast of fire, the winde of the flame, and the great storme, & fell with violence vpon the multitude which was prepared to fight, and burnt them vp all, so that of the innumerable multitude there was nothing seene, but only dust & smell of smoke. When I sawe this, I was afraid.

12 ¶ Afterward sawe I the same man come downe from the mountaine, and calling vnto him another peaceable multitude.

13 And there came many vnto him, some with ioyfull countenance, and some with sad: some of them were bound, and some brought of them that were offered: & I was sicke through great feare, and awaked, and said, 14 Thou hast shewed thy seruant these wonders from the beginning, and hast counted mee worthy to receiue my prayer.

15 Shew me now therefore the interpretation of this dreame.

16 For thus I consider in mine vnderstanding, Woe vnto them that shall bee left in those dayes, and much more wo vnto them that are not left behind.

17 For they that were not left, were in heauinesse.

18 Now vnderstand I the things that are laid vp in the latter daies, which shal come both vnto them and to those that are left behind.

19 Therefore are they come into great perils, and many necessities, as these dreames declare.

20 Yet is it easier, that he that is in danger, should fall into these, and forsee the things to come hereafter, then to passe away as a cloud out of the world.

21 ¶ Then answered he mee, and said, The interpretation of the vision will I shew thee, and I will open to thee the thing that thou hast required.

22 Whereas thou hast spoken of them that are left behind, this is the interpretation.

23 He that shal beare the danger in that time, hee shall keepe himselfe. They that bee fallen into daunger, are such as haue workes and faith faith toward the moſt mightie.

24 Know therefore, that they which bee left behind, are more bleſſed then they that be dead.

25 Theſe are the meanings of the viſion, Whereas thou ſaweſt a man coming vp from the midſt of the ſea, 26 The ſame is he whom the moſt High hath kept a great ſeaſon, who by his owne ſelfe ſhall deliuer his creature, and he ſhal order them that are left behind.

27 ¶ And where as thou ſaweſt, that out of his mouth there came a blaſt with fire and ſtorme,

28 And that he neither held ſword nor weapon, but that by his fierceneſſe he deſtroyed the whole multitude that came to fight againſt him, this is the interpretation,

29 Beholde, the dayes come that the moſt High will begin to deliuer them that are vpon the earth:

30 And he ſhall aſtoniſh the hearts of them that dwell vpon the earth:

31 And one ſhall prepare to fight againſt an other, citie againſt citie, and place againſt place,

Mat.24.7. *and nation againſt nation, and realme againſt realme.

32 When this commeth to paſſe, then ſhall the tokens come, that I ſhewed thee before, and then ſhal my ſonne be reueiled, whom thou ſaweſt goe vp as a man.

33 And when all the people heare his voyce, euery man ſhall in their owne land leaue the battell that they haue one againſt another.

34 And an innumerable multitude ſhall bee gathered as one, as they that bee willing to come, and to fight againſt him.

35 But he ſhal ſtand vpon the top of mount Sion.

36 And Sion ſhall come, and ſhall be ſhewed to all, being prepared & builded, as thou ſaweſt the hill grauen forth without any hands.

37 And this my ſonne ſhall rebuke the wicked inuentions of thoſe nations, which for their wicked life are fallen into the tempeſt, 38 And into torments like to flame, whereby they ſhall bee tormented: and without any labour will he deſtroy them, euen by the Lawe, which is compared vnto the fire.

39 And whereas thou ſaweſt that he gathered another peaceable people vnto him,

40 Thoſe are the ten tribes which were ca-

41 But they tooke this counſell to themſelues, that they would leaue the multitude of the heathen, and goe forth into a further countrey, where neuer mankind dwelt,

42 That they might there keepe their ſtatutes, which they neuer kept in their owne land.

43 And they entered in at the narow paſſages of the riuer Euphrates.

44 For the moſt High then ſhewed them

Exod.14.21. Ioſh.3.15,16. ſignes, * and ſtaied the ſprings of the flood till they were paſſed ouer.

45 For thorow the countrey there was a great iourney, euen of a peere and a halfe, and

Or, Arſareth. the ſame region is called ‖ Arſareth.

46 Then dwelt they there vntill the latter time: and when they come forth againe, 47 The moſt High ſhall hold ſtill the ſprings of the riuer againe, that they may goe thorow: therefore ſaweſt thou the multitude peaceable.

48 But they that bee left behind of thy people, are thoſe that be found within my borders.

49 Now when hee deſtroyeth the multitude of the nations that are gathered together, hee ſhall defend the people that remaine.

50 And then ſhall hee ſhew great wonders vnto them.

51 Then ſaid I, O Lord, Lord, ſhew me this, wherefore haue I ſeene the man comming vp from the midſt of the ſea?

52 And hee ſayd vnto me, As thou canſt neither ſeeke out, nor know theſe things, that are in the deepe of the ſea, ſo can no man vpon earth ſee my ſonne, or thoſe that bee with him, but in the time of that day.

53 This is the interpretation of the dreame which thou ſaweſt, and whereby thou onely art lightned.

54 For thou haſt forſaken thine owne lawe, and applied thy diligence vnto mine, and ſought it, 55 Thy life haſt thou ordered in wiſedom, and haſt called vnderſtanding thy mother.

56 Therefore haue I ſhewed thee þ rewards with the moſt High: and after three other daies I will ſpeake other things vnto thee, and will declare vnto thee great and wonderous things.

57 Then went I forth vnto the field, glorifying and praiſing the moſt High for the wonders which he did in time, 58 Which he gouerneth, and ſuch things as come in their ſeaſons: & there I ſate three daies.

CHAP. XIIII.

3 How God appeared to Moſes in the buſh. 10 All things decline to age. 15 The laſter times worſe then the former. 29 The ingratitude of Iſrael. 35 The reſurrection and iudgement.

VPon the third day I ſate vnder an oke, and beholde, there came forth a voyce vnto me out of the buſh, and ſayd, Eſdras, Eſdras.

2 And I ſaid, Here am I, Lord, and ſtood vp vpon my feete.

3 Then ſayd he vnto mee, *In the buſh I reueiled my ſelfe, and ſpake vnto Moyſes, when my people ſerued in Egypt. Exo.3.2,3.

4 And I ſent him, and led my people out of Egypt, and brought him vpon the mount Sinai, and I held him with me a long ſeaſon,

5 And I told him many wonders, & ſhewed him the ſecretes of the times and the ende, and commanded him, ſaying,

6 Theſe words ſhalt thou declare, and theſe ſhalt thou hide.

7 And now I ſay vnto thee, that thou lay vp in thine heart the ſignes that I haue ſhewed, and the dreames that thou haſt ſeene, and the interpretations which thou haſt heard.

8 For thou ſhalt bee taken away from all, and thou ſhalt remaine hencefoorth with my counſell, and with ſuch as be like thee, vntill the times be ended.

9 For the world hath loſt his youth, and the times

times begin to ware olde.

10 For the worlde is diuided into twelue partes, and tenne partes of it are gone already, and halfe of the tenth part.

11 And there remaineth that which is after the halfe of the tenth part.

12 Therefore set thine house in order, and reforme thy people, and comfort such of them as be in trouble, and now renounce the corruption.

13 Let goe from thee mortall thoughts: cast away from thee the burdens of men, and put off nowe the weake nature, 14 And set aside ꝑ most grieuous thoughts, and haste thee to depart from these times.

15 For greater euils then thole, which thou hast seene nowe, shall they commit.

16 For the weaker that the world is by reason of age, the more shall the euils be encreased vpon them that dwell therein.

17 For the truethis far from farre away, and lies are at hand: for now hasteth the vision to come, that thou hast seene.

18 ¶ Then answered I, and said before thee,

19 Behoulde, O Lord, I will goe as thou hast commanded me, and reforme the people, which are present: but they that shall be borne afterward, who shall admonish them?

20 Thus the world is set in darkenesse, and they that dwell therein, are without light.

21 For thy lawe is burnt, therefore no man knoweth the things that are done of thee, or the workes that shalbe done.

22 But if I haue found grace before thee, send the holy Ghost into me, and I will write all that hath bin done in the world since the beginning, which was written in thy Lawe, that men may finde the path, and that they which will liue in the latter dayes, may liue.

23 And he answered me, saying, Goe and gather the people, and say vnto them, that they seeke thee not for fourty dayes,

24 But prepare thee many bore tables, and take with thee these fiue, Sarea, Dabria, Selemia, Ecanus, and Asiel, which are ready to write swiftly, 25 And come hither, and I will light a candle of vnderstanding in thine heart, which shall not be put out, till the things be performed which thou shalt begin to write.

26 And then shalt thou declare some things openly vnto the perfite men, and some things shalt thou shewe secretly vnto the wise: to morowe this houre shalt thou begin to write.

27 Then went I forth, as he commanded me, and gathered all the people together, & said,

28 Heare these wordes, O Israel,

Gene. 47. 4. 29 * Our fathers at the beginning were strangers in Egypt, from whence they were deliuered, Acts 7. 53. 30 And receiued the Law of life, *which they kept not, which ye also haue transgressed after them.

31 Then was the land, euen the land of Sion parted among you by lot: but your fathers and ye also haue done vnrighteously, and haue not kept the wayes, which the most High commanded you.

32 And for so much as hee is a righteous iudge, he tooke from you in time the thing that he had giuen you.

33 And nowe are ye here, and your brethren among you.

34 Therefore if so be that ye will subdue your owne vnderstanding, and reforme your heart, ye shall be kept alme, and after death ye shall obteine mercie.

35 For after death shal the iudgement come, when we shall liue againe: and then shall the names of the righteous be manifest, and the workes of the vngodly shall be declared.

36 Let no man therefore come now vnto me, nor seeke me these fourtie dayes.

37 So I tooke the fiue men, as he commanded me, and we went into the fielde, and remained there.

38 The next day, behoulde, a voyce called me, saying, Esdras, * open thy mouth, and drinke that I giue thee to drinke. Ezek. 3. 2.

39 Then opened I my mouth, and behoulde, he reached me a full cuppe, which was full as it were with water: but the colour of it was like fire.

40 And I tooke it, and dranke, and when I had dronke it, mine heart had vnderstanding, and wisedome grew in my breast: for my spirite was strengthened in memorie.

41 And my mouth was opened, and shut no more.

42 The most High gaue vnderstanding vnto the fiue men, that they wrote the hie things of the night, which they vnderstood not.

43 But in the night they did eate bread, but I spake by day, and held not my tongue by night.

44 In fourtie dayes, they wrote two hundreth and foure bookes.

45 And when the fourtie dayes were fulfilled, the most High spake, saying, The first that thou hast written, publish openly, that the worthie and vnworthy may reade it.

46 But keepe ꝑ seuenty last, that thou maiest giue them to the wise among thy people.

47 For in them is the veine of vnderstanding, and the fountaine of wisedome, and the riuer of knowledge: and I did so.

CHAP. XV.

1 The prophecie of Esdras is certaine. 5 The euils that shall come on the worlde. 9 The Lord will auenge the innocent blood. 12 Egypt shall lament. 16 Sedition, 20 And punishment vpon the Kings of the earth. 24 Cursed are they that sinne. 29 Troubles and warres vpon the whole earth. 53 God is the reuenger of his elect.

BEholde, speake thou in the eares of my people the wordes of prophecie, which I will put in thy mouth, saith the Lord:

2 And cause them to be written in a letter: for they are faithfull and true.

3 Feare not the imaginations against thee: let not the vnfaithfulnesse of the speakers trouble thee, that spake against thee.

4 For euery vnfaithfull shall die in his vnfaithfulnesse.

5 Behoulde, saieth the Lorde, I will bring plagues vpon all the world, the sword, famine, death and destruction:

6 Because that iniquity hath fully polluted al the earth, & their wicked workes are fulfilled.

7 Therefore, saith the Lord, I will holde my tongue no more for their wickednesse, (they doe vngodly) neither will I suffer them in ꝑ things that they doe wickedly.

8 Behold,

Reuel.6.10. and 19.2.

8 Beholde, *the innocent and righteous blood cryeth vnto me, and the soules of the iust cry continually.

9 I will surely auenge them, saith the Lorde, and receiue vnto me all the innocent blood from among them.

10 Beholde, my people is ledde as a flocke to the slaughter: I will not suffer them nowe to dwell in the land of Egypt, 11 But I will bring them out with a mightie hande, and a stretched out arme, and smite it with plagues as afore, and will destroy all the land thereof.

12 Egypt shal mourne, and the foundations thereof shal be smitten with the plague and punishment, that God shall bring vpon it.

13 The plowmen that till the ground, shall mourne: for their seedes shall fayle through the blasting and haile, and by an horrible starre.

14 Wo to the world, and to them that dwell therein.

15 For the sworde, and their destruction draweth neere, and one people shall stande vp to fight against another with swordes in their handes.

16 For there shall bee sedition among men, and one shall inuade another: they shall not regard their King, and the princes shall measure their doings by their power.

17 A man shall desire to goe into a citie, and shall not be able.

18 Because of their pride the cities shall bee troubled, the houses shall bee afrayde, men shall feare.

19 A man shal haue no pitie vpon his neighbour, but shall destroy their houses with the sworde, and their goods shalbe spoyled for lacke of bread, and because of great trouble.

20 Behold, saith God, I call together all the Kings of the earth to reuerence mee, which are from the ‖ East, and from the South, from the East, and from Libanus, to turne vpon them, and to repay the things that they haue done to them.

‖ Or, West.

21 As they do yet this day vnto my chosen, so will I doe also, and recompense them in their bosome: thus saith the Lord God, 22 My right hand shal not spare the sinners, neither shall the sworde cease from them, that shead innocent blood vpon earth.

23 The fire is gone out from his wrath, and hath consumed the foundations of the earth, and the sinners like the strawe, that is kindled.

24 Woe to them that sinne, and keepe not my commandements, saith the Lord.

25 I will not spare them: depart, O children, from the power: defile not my Sanctuarie.

26 For the Lord knoweth all them that sinne against him, and therefore deliuereth hee them vnto death and destruction.

27 For now are the plagues come vpon the worlde, and yee shall remaine in them: for God will not deliuer you, because yee haue sinned against him.

28 Behold, an horrible vision commeth from the East, 29 Where generations of dragons of Arabia shall come out with many charets, and the multitude of them shall bee caried as the winde vpon the earth, that all they which heare them, may feare and tremble.

30 Euen the Carmanians raging in wrath, shall goe forth as the Boares of the forest, and shall come with great power, and stand against them in battel, and shall destroy a portion of the land of the Assyrians.

31 But after this shall the dragons haue the vpper hande, and remember their nature, and shal turne about, and conspire to consume them with a great power.

32 Then these shalbe troubled, and keepe silence by their power, and shall flee.

33 From the lande of the Assyrians shall the enemie besiege them, & consume some of them, and in their hoste shall bee feare and dread, and strife among their kings.

34 Beholde clouds from the East, and from the North vnto the South, and they are very horrible to looke vpon, full of wrath and stormes.

35 They shall smite one vpon another: and they shall smite downe a great multitude of starres vpon the earth, euen their owne starre, and the blood shall be from the sworde vnto the belly, 36 And the doung of man vnto the Camels litter.

37 And there shall bee great fearefulnesse and trembling vpon earth, and they that see the wrath, shall bee afraide, and a trembling shall come vpon them.

38 And then there shall come great stormes from the South, and from the North, and part from the West.

39 And from the East shal windes arise, and shall open it with the cloude, which hee rapsed vp in wrath, and the starre, rapsed to feare the East and West winde, shalbe destroyed.

40 And the great and mightie cloudes shall be lift vp, full of wrath, and the starre, that they may make all the earth afrayde, and them that dwell therein, and that they may powre out ouer euery hie place, and lifted vp, an horrible constellation, 41 As fire and haile, and flying swordes, and many waters, that all fieldes may bee full, and all riuers with the aboundance of great waters.

42 And they shall breake downe the cities, and walles, and mountaines, and hilles, and the trees of the wood, and the grasse of the medowes, and their corne.

43 And they shall goe with a straight course vnto Babylon, and make it afraide.

44 They shall come to her and besiege her, and shall powre forth the constellation, and all the wrath against her: then shall the dust and smoke goe vp vnto the heauen, and all they that be about her, shall bewaile her.

45 And they that remaine vnder her, shall do seruice vnto them, that haue put her in feare.

46 ¶ And thou Asia, that art partaker of the hope of Babylon, and the glory of her person, 47 Woe vnto thee, O wretch, because thou hast made thy selfe like vnto her, and hast deckt thy daughters in whoredome, that they might please and glory in thy louers, which haue alway desired to commit whoredome with thee.

48 Thou hast followed her that is hated in all her workes, and in her inuentions: therefore saith God,

49 I will

49 I will send plagues vpon thee, widowhood, pouertie, and famine, and the sword, and pestilence, to waste thine houses with destruction and death.

50 And the glory of thy power shall be dried vp, as a flower when the heate riseth, that is sent vpon thee.

51 Thou shalt be sicke as a poore wife that is plagued and beaten of women, so that the mightie and the loners shall not be able to receiue thee.

52 Would I thus hate thee, saieth the Lord,

53 If thou hadst not alway slaine my chosen, exalting the stroke of thine hands, and sayd ouer their death, when thou wast drunken,

54 Set forth ꝑ beautie of thy countenance:

55 The reward of thy whoredome shall be in thy bosome: therefore shalt thou receiue a reward.

56 As thou hast done vnto my chosen, saieth the Lord, so wil God doe vnto thee, and will deliuer thee vnto the plague.

57 And thy children shall die of hunger, and thou shalt fall by the sword, and thy cities shall be broken downe, and all thy men shall fall by the sword in the field.

58 And they that be in the mountains shall die of hunger, and eate their owne flesh, and drinke their owne blood for want of bread and thirst of water.

59 And thou, as vnhappy, shalt come thorow the sea, and receiue plagues againe.

60 In the passage they shall cast downe the flame citie, and shall roote out one part of thy land, and consume the portion of thy glory, and shall returne to her that was destroyed.

61 When thou shalt be cast downe, thou shalt be to them as stubble, and they shall be to thee as fire.

62 And they shall destroy thee, and thy cities, thy land, and thy mountaines: all thy woods & all thy fruitfull trees shall they burne with fire.

63 Thy children shall they carry away captiue, and shall spoyle thy substance, and marre the beautie of thy face.

CHAP. XVI.

1 Against Babylon, Asia, Egypt and Syria. 18. 38 Of the euils that shall come vpon the world, with admonition how to gouerne themselues in afflictions. 54 To acknowledge their sinnes, and to commit themselues to the Lord, 55 Whose mightie prouidence and iustice is to be reuerenced.

WOe to thee, Babylon, and Asia: woe to thee, Egypt and Syria.

2 Gird your selues with sacke and haire cloth, and mourne your children, and be sory: for your destruction is at hand.

3 A sword is sent vnto you, & who wil turne it backe? a fire is sent among you, and who wil quench it?

4 Plagues are sent vnto you, and who can driue them away?

5 May any man driue away an hungrie Lion in the wood? or quench the fire in stubble when it hath once begun to burne? may one turne againe the arrow, that is shot of a strong archer?

6 The mightie Lord sendeth the plagues, and who can driue them away? the fire is gone forth in his wrath, and who can quench it?

7 He shall cast lightnings, and who shal not feare? he shall thunder, and who shall not be afrayd?

8 The Lord shall threaten, and who shall not vtterly be broken in pieces at his presence? the earth quaketh, and the foundation thereof: the sea ariseth vp with wanes from the deepe, and the waues thereof are troubled, and the fishes thereof, before the Lord and the glory of his power.

9 For strong is his right hand, that bendeth the bowe: his arrowes that hee shooteth, are sharpe, and shall not misse, when they begin to be shot into the endes of the world.

10 Behold, the plagues are sent, and shall not turne againe till they come vpon earth.

11 The fire is kindled, and shall not bee put out till it consume the foundations of the earth.

12 As an arrow which is shot of a mightie archer, returneth not backward, so the plagues that shall bee sent vpon earth, shall not turne againe.

13 Woe is me, woe is me: who will deliuer me in those dayes?

14 The beginning of sorrowes and great mourning: the beginning of famine, and great death: the beginning of warres, and the powers shall feare: the beginning of euils, and all shall tremble. What shall I doe in these things, when the plagues come?

15 Behold, famine, and plague, and trouble, and anguish are sent as scourges for amendment.

16 But for al these things they wil not turne from their wickednesse, nor bee alway mindfull of the scourges.

17 Behold, vitailes shall bee so good cheape vpon earth, that they shall thinke themselues to be in good case: but then shall the euils bud forth vpon earth, euen the sword, the famine, and great confusion.

18 For many of them that dwel vpon earth, shall perish with famine, and the other that escape the famine, shall the sword destroy.

19 And the dead shall bee cast out as dounge, and there shall be no man to comfort them: for the earth shall be wasted, and the cities shall be cast downe.

20 There shal be no man left to till the earth, and to sowe it: the trees shall giue fruite, but who shall gather them?

21 The grapes shall bee ripe, but who shall tread them? for all places shall bee desolate, so that one man shall desire to see another, or to heare his voyce.

22 For of one citie there shalbe ten left, and two of the field which shall hide themselues in the thicke woods, and in the clefts of rockes.

23 As when there remayne three or foure oliues in the place where Oliues growe, or among other trees,

24 Or as when a vineyard is gathered, there are left some grapes of them ꝑ diligently sought through the vineyard:

25 So in those dayes there shall bee three or foure left by them that search their houses with the sword.

26 And the earth shalbe left waste, and the fields thereof shall ware olde, and her wayes and all her pathes shall growe full of thornes, because no man shall trauaile therethrough.

27 The virgins shall mourne, hauing no bridegromes: the women shall make lamentation, hauing no husbands: their daughters shall mourne, hauing no helpers.

28 In the warres shall their bridegromes be destroyed, and their husbands shall perish with famine.

29 But, ye seruants of the Lorde, heare these things, and marke them.

30 Beholde the word of the Lord, receiue it: beleeue not the gods of whome the Lorde speaketh: beholde, the plagues draw neere, and are not slacke.

31 As a trauelling woman which in the ninth moneth bringeth forth her sonne, when the houre of birth is come, two or three houres afore the pames come vpon her body, and when the childe commeth to the birth, they tarp not a whit:

32 So shal not the plagues be slacke to come vpon the earth, and the worlde shall mourne, and the sorrowes shall come vpon it on euery side.

33 O my people, heare my worde: make you ready to the battell, and in the troubles be euen as strangers vpon earth.

34 He that selleth, let him be as he that fleeeth his way: and he that byeth, as one that will lose.

35 Who so occupieth marchandise, as he that winneth not: and hee that buildeth, as he that shall not dwell therein:

36 Hee that soweth, as one that shall not reape: he that cutteth the vine, as he that shall not gather the grapes:

37 They that marrie, as they that shall get no children: and they that marrie not, so as the widowes.

38 Therefore they that labour, labour in vaine.

39 For strangers shall reape their fruites, and spoile their goods, and ouerthrowe their houses, and take their children captiue: for in captiuitie and famine shall they get their children.

40 And they that occupie their marchandise with couetousnesse, the more they decke their cities, their houses, their possessions, and their owne persons, 41 So much more will I bee angrie against them for their sinnes, saith the Lord.

42 As a whore enuieth an honest and vertuous woman,

43 So shall righteousnesse hate iniquitie, when shee decketh her selfe, and shall accuse her openly, when he shall come that shall bridle the author of all sinne vpon earth.

44 And therefore bee yee not like thereunto, nor to the works thereof: for or euer it be long, iniquitie shall bee taken away out of the earth, and righteousnesse shall reigne among you.

45 Let not the sinner say, that hee hath not sinned: for coales of fire shall burne vpon his head, which saith, I haue not sinned before the Lord God and his glory.

Luke 16. 16. 46 Beholde, the Lord* knoweth all the works of men, their imaginations, their thoughts and their hearts.

Gene. 1. 1. 47 * For assoone as he said, Let the earth be made, it was made: let the heauen be made, and it was created.

48 By his word were the starres established, and he* knoweth the number of them. Psal. 147. 4.

49 He searcheth the depth, and the treasures thereof: he hath measured the sea, and what it conteineth.

50 He hath shut the sea in the middes of the waters, and with his word hath he hanged the earth vpon the waters.

51 He spreadeth out the heauen like a vault: vpon the waters hath he founded it.

52 In the desert hath he made springs of water, and pooles vpon the top of the mountaines, to powre out floods from the high rocks to water the earth.

53 Hee made man, and put his heart in the middes of the body, and gaue him breath, life, and vnderstanding.

54 And the spirit of the almightie God, which made all things, and hath searched all the hidde things in the secrets of the earth, 55 He knoweth your inuentions, and what yee imagine in your heart when yee sinne and would hide your sinnes.

56 Therefore hath the Lorde searched and sought out all your works, and will put you all to shame.

57 And when your sinnes are brought forth before men, yee shall be confounded, and your owne sinnes shal stand as your accusers in that day.

58 What will yee doe, and how will ye hide your sinnes before God and his Angels?

59 Beholde, God himselfe is the Iudge: feare him: cease from your sinnes, and forget your iniquities, and meddle no more from henceforth with them: so shall God leade you forth, and deliuer you from all trouble.

60 For beholde, the heate of a great multitude is kindled against you, and they shall take away certeine of you, & shall slay you for meate to the idoles.

61 And they that consent vnto them, shall be had in derision, and in reproch, and troden vnder foot.

62 For in euery place & cities that are neere, there shalbe great insurrection against those that feare the Lord.

63 They shall be like madde men: they shall spare none: they shall spoile, and waste such as yet feare the Lord.

64 For they then shall waste and spoile their goods, and cast them out of their houses.

65 Then shal the triall of my chosen appeare, as the golde is tried by the fire.

66 Heare, O my beloued, saith the Lorde: Beholde, the dayes of trouble are at hande, but I will deliuer you from them: bee not yee afrayed: doubt not, for God is your captaine.

67 Who so keepeth my commandements and precepts, saith the Lord God, let not your sinnes weigh you downe, and let not your iniquities lift themselues vp.

68 Woe vnto them that are bounde with their sinnes, and couered with their iniquities, as a field is hedged in with bushes, & the path thereof couered with thornes, whereby no man may trauell: it is shutte vp, and is appointed to be deuoured with fire.

Tobit fleeth from the face of Sennacherib.

20 Then all mp goods were ſpoiled, neither was there anp thing left me beſides mp wife Anna, and mp ſonne Tobias.

21 Neuertheleſſe * within fiue & fiftie dapes, two of his ſonnes killed him, and thep fled into the mountaines of Ararath, and Sarchedonus his ſonne reigned in his ſtead, who appointed ouer his fathers accounts and ouer all his domeſticall affaires Achiacharus mp brother Anaels ſonne.

22 And when Achiacharus had made a requeſt for me, I came againe to Nineue: nowe Achiacharus was cupbearer and keeper of the ſigner, and ſteward, and ouerſaw the accounts: So Sarchedonus appointed him next vnto him, and he was mp brothers ſonne.

Tobit returneth.

CHAP. II.

2 Tobit calleth the faithfull to his table. 3 Hee leaueth the feaſt to burie the dead. 10 Howe hee became blinde. 13 His wife laboureth for her liuing. 14 Shee reprocheth him bitterly.

NOwe when I was come home againe, and mp wife Anna was reſtored vnto mee with mp ſonne Tobias, in the feaſt of Pentecoſt, which is the holp feaſt of the ſeuen weeks, there was a great dinner prepared me, in the which I ſate downe to eate.

2 And when I ſawe abundance of meate, I ſayd to mp ſonne, Goe, and bring what poore man ſoeuer thou ſhalt finde of our brethren, which doeth remember God, and loe I will tarie for thee.

Tobit doth bid to dinner thoſe which feare God.

3 But he came againe, and ſaid, Father, one of our nation is ſtrangled, and is caſt out in the market place.

4 Then before I had taſted anp meate, I ſtart vp, and brought him into mine houſe vntill the going downe of the ſunne.

Tobit leauing his gheſts, taketh vp the dead body into his houſe to burie it.

5 Then I returned and waſhed, and ate mp meate in heauineſſe,

6 Remembring that propheſie of * Amos which had ſayde, Pour ſolemne feaſtes ſhall be turned into mourning, and pour iopes into wayling.

Amos 8. 10. 1. mac. 1. 41.

7 Therefore I wept, and after the going downe of the ſunne I went and made a graue and buried him.

8 But mp neighbours mocked me, and ſaid, Doeth hee not feare to die for this cauſe, who * fledde awap, and pet loe, he burieth the dead againe?

Tobit is rebuked of his neighbours. Chap. 1. 19.

10 And I knew not that sparrowes were in the wall, and as mine eyes were open, the sparrowes cast downe warme doung into mine eyes, and a whitenesse came in mine eyes, and I went to the Physicions, but they helped me not. Moreouer Achiacharus did nourish me, vntill I went into Helemais.

The wife of Tobit laboureth for her liuing.

11 And my wife Anna did take womens workes to doe.

12 And when she had sent them home to the owners, they payed the wages, and gaue a kidde.

The innocencie of Tobit. Deut. 22.1.

13 Which when it was at mine house, and began to bleate, I saide vnto her, From whence is this kidde? is it not stollen? render it to the owners: *for it is not lawfull to eate any thing that is stolen.

Iob 2.9.

14 But she said, It was giuen for a gift more then the wages: but I did not beleeue, and bad her to render it to the owners, and I did blush because of her. Furthermore she saide, *Where are thine almes, and thy righteousnesse? behold, they all nowe appeare in thee.

CHAP. III.

3 The prayer of Tobit. 7 Sarra Raguels daughter, and the things that came vnto her. 12 Her prayer heard. 19 The Angel Raphael sent.

THen I, being sorowfull, did weepe, and in my sorowe prayed, saying,

2 O Lorde, thou art iust, and all thy workes, and all thy wayes are mercie and truely, and thou iudgest truely and iustly for euer.

3 Remember me, and looke on me, neither punish me according to my sinnes or mine ignorances, or my fathers, which haue sinned before thee.

Deut. 28. 25, 37.

4 For they haue not obeyed thy commaundements: wherefore thou hast deliuered vs *for a spoyle, and vnto captiuitie, and to death, and for a prouerbe of reproche to all them among whom wee are dispersed, and nowe ‖ thou hast many and iust causes

‖ Or, thy iudgements are many, and true.

5 To doe with me according to my sinnes, and my fathers, because we haue not kept thy commaundements, neither haue walked in trueth before thee.

6 Nowe therefore deale with me as seemeth best vnto thee, and commaund my spirit to be taken from me, that I may be dissolued, and become earth: for it is better for me to die then to liue, because I haue heard false reproches, and am very sorowfull: commaunde therefore that I may be dissolued out of this distresse, and goe into the euerlasting place: turne not thy face away from me.

Sarra is checked of her fathers maides.

7 ¶ It came to passe the same day that in Ecbatane a citie of Media, Sarra the daughter of Raguel was also reproched by her fathers maides,

8 Because shee had beene married to seuen husbands, whom Asmodeus the euill spirit had killed, before that they had lyen with her. Doest thou not knowe, saide they, that thou hast strangled thine husbands? thou hast had nowe seuen husbands, neither hast thou named after any of them.

‖ Or, when she beat them For their faults, they said.

9 Wherefore doest thou ‖ beate vs for them? if they be dead, goe thy wayes hence to them, that wee may neuer see of thee either sonne or daughter.

10 When shee heard these things, shee was very sorowfull, so that shee thought to haue strangled her selfe. And she said, I am the onely daughter of my father, and if I do this, I shall slander him, and shall bring his age to the graue with sorowe.

Sarra prayeth and fasteth, that she may be deliuered from shame.

11 Then shee prayed toward the windowe and saide, Blessed art thou, O Lorde my God, and thine holy & glorious name is blessed, and honourable for euer: let all thy workes praise thee for euer.

12 And nowe, O Lorde, I set mine eyes, and my face toward thee, 13 And say, Take me out of the earth, that I may heare no more any reproch.

14 Thou knowest, O Lorde, that I am pure from all sinne with man,

The innocencie of Sarra. Her chastitie.

15 And that I haue neuer polluted my name, nor the name of my father in the lande of my captiuitie: I am the onely daughter of my father, neither hath hee any man childe to be his heire, neither any ‡ neere kinseman or childe borne of him, to whom I may keepe my selfe for a wife: my seuen husbands are nowe dead, and why shoulde I liue? But if it please not thee that I should die, commaund to looke on me, and to pitie me that I doe no more heare reproche.

‡ Greeke, neere brother.

16 So the prayers of them both were heard before the maiestie of the great God.

The prayers of Tobit, and Sarra are heard both at a time.

17 And Raphael was sent to heale them both, that is, to take away the whitenesse of Tobits eyes, and to giue Sarra the daughter of Raguel for a wife to Tobias the sonne of Tobit, and to binde Asmodeus the euill spirit, because she belonged to Tobias by right. The selfe same time came Tobit home, and entred into his house, and Sarra the daughter of Raguel came downe from her chamber.

CHAP. IIII.

Precepts and exhortations of Tobit to his sonne.

IN that day Tobit remembred * the siluer, which he had deliuered to Gabael in Rages a citie of Media, Chap. 1.14.

2 And saide with himselfe, I haue wished for death: wherefore doe I not call for my sonne Tobias that I may admonish him before I dye?

Tobits exhortation to his sonne, when hee thought he should die.

3 And when he had called him, he saide, My sonne, after that I am dead, burie me, and despise not thy mother, but * honour her all the dayes of thy life, and doe that which shall please her, and anger her not.

The mother is to be reuerenced. Exod. 20.12. ecclus. 7.27.

4 Remember, my sonne, how many dangers she sustained when thou wast in her wombe,

5 And when she dyeth, burie her by me in the same graue.

God must be in our hearts.

6 My sonne, set our Lorde God alwayes before thine eyes, and let not thy will be set to sinne, or to transgresse the commaundements of God. Doe vprightly all thy life long, and followe not the wayes of vnrighteousnesse: for if thou deale truely, thy doings shall prosperously succeede to thee, and to all them which liue iustly,

CHAP. V.

1 Tobias sent to Rages: 4 He meeteth with the Angel Raphael, which did conduct him.

Tobias sent by his father to Rages, seeketh a companion, & meeteth with Raphael, whom he bringeth to his father. TObias then answered and saide, Father, I will doe all things which thou hast commaunded me.
2 But howe can I receiue the siluer, seeing
I knowe him not?
3 Then he gaue him the handwriting, and said vnto him, Seeke thee a man, which may goe with thee, whiles I pet liue, and I will giue him wages, and goe and receiue the money.
4 Therefore when hee was gone to seeke a man, he found Raphael the Angel.
5 But he knewe not, and saide vnto him,
May I goe with thee into the lande of Media?
and knowest thou those places well?
6 To whom the Angel saide, I will goe with thee: for I haue remained with our brother Gabael.
7 Then Tobias said to him, Tarp for me, till
I tell my father.
8 Then he said vnto him, Goe, and tarp not:
so he went in, and said to his father, Beholde, I haue found one, which will goe with me. Then he saide, Call him vnto me, that I may knowe of what tribe he is, and whether he be faithfull to goe with thee.
9 So he called him, and he came in, and they saluted one another.
10 Then Tobit saide vnto him, Brother, shewe me of what tribe and familie thou art.
11 To whom he said, Doest thou seeke a stocke or a hired man to goe with thp sonne? Then Tobit saide vnto him, I would knowe, brother, thy kinred and thy name.
12 Then he saide, I am of the kinred of Azarias and Ananias the great, and of thy brethren.
‖Or, thou commest happily. 13 Then Tobit saide, ‖Thou art welcome, brother: be not nowe angrie with me, because I haue enquired to knowe thy kinred and thy familie: for thou art my brother of an honest and good stocke: for I knowe Ananias and Jonathas, sonnes of that great Samaias: for we went together to Jerusalem to worship, and offered the first borne, and the tenthes of the fruites, and they were not deceiued with the errour of our brethren: my brother, thou art of a great stocke.
14 But tell me, what wages shall I giue thee? wilt thou a groat a day and things neces-sarie, as to mine owne sonne?
15 Yea, moreouer, if we returne safe, I will adde some thing to the wages.
16 So they agreed. Then said he to Tobias, Prepare thy selfe for the iourney, and goe on on Gods name. And when his sonne had prepared all things for the iourney, his father said, Go thou with this man, and God which dwelleth in heauen, prosper your iourney, and the Angel of God keepe you company. So they went forth both and departed, and the dogge of the young man with them.
Tobias goeth forth the Angel k p ping him company.
Chap.10.4.
His mother
weepeth. 17 But *Anna his mother wept, and saide to Tobit, Why hast thou sent away our sonne? is he not the staffe of our hand to minister vnto vs?
18 Woulde to God we had not laide money vpon money, but that it had bene cast away in respect of our sonne.
19 For that which God hath giuen vs to liue with, doeth suffice vs.
20 Then said Tobit, Be not carefull, My sister: he shall returne in safetie, and thine eyes shall see him.
21 For the good Angel doeth keepe him company, and his iourney shall be prosperous, and he shall returne safe.
22 Then she made an ende of weeping.

CHAP. VI.

2 Tobias deliuered from the fish. 7 Raphael sheweth him certaine medicines, 10 He conducteth him toward Sara.

And

AND as they went on their iourney, they came at night to the flood Tygris, and there abode.

Tobias inuaded of a fish, is deliuered by the Angel.

2 And when the yong man went to washe himselfe, a fish leaped out of the riuer, & would haue deuoured him.

3 Then the Angel sayd vnto him, Take the fish. And the yong man tooke the fish, and drew it to land.

4 To whom the Angel said, Cut the fish, and take the heart, and the liuer, and the gall, and put them vp surely.

5 So the yong man did as the Angel commanded him: and when they had rosted the fish, they ate it: then they both went on their way, till they came to Ecbatane.

6 ¶ Then the yong man sayde to the Angel, Brother Azarias, what auaileth the heart, and the liuer, and the gall of the fish?

7 And he said vnto him, Touching the heart and the liuer, if a deuill or an euill spirite trouble any, we must make a perfume of this before the man or the woman, and he shall be no more vexed.

8 As for the gall, anoynt a man that hath whitenesse in his eyes, and he shalbe healed.

9 ¶ And when they were come neere to Rages,

10 The Angel sayd to the yong man, Brother, to day we shall lodge with Raguel, who is thy cousin: he also hath one onely daughter named Sarra: I wil speake for her that thee may be giuen thee for a wife.

11 For to thee doeth d*right of her pertaine, seeing thou alone art the remnant of her kinred,

*Num. 27. 8. and 36. 8.

12 And the mayde is faire and wise: nowe therefore heare me, and I wil speake to her father, that we may make the mariage when wee are returned from Rages: for I know that Raguel cannot marry her to another, according to the law of Moses: else he should deserue death, because the right doeth rather appertain to thee then to any other man.

13 Then the yong man answered the Angel, I haue heard, brother Azarias, that this mayd hath bene giuen to seuen men, who all dyed in the mariage chamber:

14 And I am the only begotten sonne of my father, and I am afraid, least I go in to her, and die as the other before: for a wicked spirit loueth her, which hurteth no body, but those which come in to her: wherefore I also feare least I die, and bring my fathers and my mothers life because of me to the graue with sorow: for they haue no other sonne to bury them.

15 Then the Angel said vnto him, Doest thou not remember the precepts which thy father gaue thee, that thou shouldest marry a wife of thine owne kinred? wherefore, heare me, O my brother: for she shall be thy wife, neither be thou carefull of the euill spirite: for this same night shall she be giuen thee in mariage.

16 And when thou shalt goe into the mariage chamber, thou shalt take of the hote coales for perfumes, & make a perfume of the heart, and of the liuer of the fish, 17 Which if the spirit doe smell, hee will flee away, and neuer come againe any more: but when thou shalt come to her, rise vp both of you, and pray to God which is mercifull, who will haue pitie on you, and saue you: feare not, for she is appointed vnto thee from the beginning, and thou shalt keepe her, and she shall goe with thee: moreouer, I suppose that thee shall beare thee children: nowe when Tobias had heard these things, hee loued her, and his heart was effectually ioyned to her.

CHAP. VII.

Tobias marrieth Sarra Raguels daughter.

AND when they were come to Ecbatane, they came to the house of Raguel, & Sarra met them, and after they had saluted one another, she brought them into the house. Raphael and Tobias come to Raguel,

2 Then said Raguel to Edna his wife, How like is this yong man to Tobit my cousin?

3 And Raguel asked, Whence are you, my brethren? To whom they sayd, that they were of the tribe of Nephthalim, and of the captiues that dwelt at Nineue.

4 Then he said to them, Doe ye know Tobit our kinsman? And they sayd, Wee know him. Then sayd he, Is he in good health?

5 And they sayd, He is both aliue, & in good health: and Tobias sayd, He is my father.

6 Then Raguel leaped, & kissed him, & wept,

7 And blessed him, and sayd vnto him, Thou art the sonne of an honest and good man: but when hee had heard that Tobit was blinde, hee was sorowfull and wept.

8 And likewise Edna his wife, and Sarra his daughter wept. Moreouer they receiued the with a ready mind, and after that they had killed a ramme of the flocke, they set much meate on the table. Then sayd Tobias to Raphael, Brother Azarias, put forth those things whereof thou spakest in the way, that this businesse may be dispatched. Tobias asketh Raguels daughter to wife.

9 So he communicated the matter with Raguel, & Raguel said to Tobias, Eate, & drinke, and make merry.

10 For it is meet that thou shouldest marry my daughter: neuertheless, I will declare vnto thee the trueth.

11 I haue giuen my daughter in mariage to seuen men, who died that night which they came in vnto her: neuertheless, bee thou of a good courage and merry. But Tobias said I will eate nothing here, vntill pe bring her hither, and betroth her to me.

12 Raguel sayd then, Marry her then according to the custome: for thou art her cousin, and she is thine. God which is mercifull, make this prosperous to you in all good things.

13 Then he called his daughter Sarra, and she came to her father, and hee tooke her by the hand, and gaue her for wife to Tobias, saying, Behold, take her after the *lawe of Moyses, and leade her away to thy father: and he blessed them, Raguel giueth his daughter Sarra to Tobias. Num. 3. 66.

14 And called his wife Edna, and he tooke a booke, and wrote a contract, and sealed it.

15 Then they began to eate.

16 After, Raguel called his wife Edna, and sayd vnto her, Sister, prepare another chamber, and bring her in thither.

17 Which when she had done, as he had bidden her, shee brought her in thither: then Sarra wept, and her mother wiped away her daughters teares,

18 And sayd vnto her, Be of good comfort, my daughter: the Lorde of heauen and earth giue giue thée ioy for this thy sonne: be of good comfort, my daughter.

CHAP. VIII.

Tobias driueth away the euill spirit. 4 He prayeth to God with his wife. 11 Raguel prepareth a graue for his sonne in law. 16 Raguel blesseth the Lord.

AND when they had supped, they brought Tobias in vnto her.

Tobias followeth Raphaels counsell, as Chap. 6.7.

2 And as he went, he remembred the words of Raphael, and tooke coles for perfumes, and put the heart & liuer of the fish thereupon, and made a perfume.

3 The which smell when the euil spirit had smelled, hee fled into the ‖ vtmost parts of Egypt, whom the Angel bound. ‖ Or, vpmost.

4 And after that they were both shut in, Tobias rose out of the bed, and said, Sister, arise and let vs pray, that God would haue pitie on vs.

Tobias prayer.

5 Then began Tobias to say, Blessed art thou, O God of our fathers, and blessed is thine holy and glorious Name for euer: let the heauens blesse thee, and all thy creatures.

Gen. 2.7, 18, 22.

6 Thou madest Adam, & gauest him * Eua his wife for an helpe, and stay: of them came mankind: thou hast said, It is not good, that a man should be alone: let vs make vnto him an aide like vnto himselfe.

7 And nowe, O Lorde, I take not this my sister for fornication, but vprightly: therefore graunt me mercy, that wee may become aged together.

8 And she said with him, Amen.

9 So they slept both that night, and Raguel arose, and went and made a graue,

Raguel thinking Tobias was dead, made a graue for him.

10 Saying, Is not he dead also?

11 But when Raguel was come into his house,

12 He said to his wife Edna, Send one of the maydes, and let them see whether he bee aliue: if not, that I may burie him, and none know it.

13 So the mayd opened the doore, and went in, and found them both asleepe, 14 And came foorth, and told them that hee was aliue.

Raguel praiseth God for Tobias.

15 Then Raguel praysed God, and said, O God, thou art worthy to bee praised with all pure, and holy prayse: therefore let thy saintes prayse thee with all thy creatures, and let all thine Angels & thine elect prayse thee for euer.

16 Thou art to be praysed, O Lord: for thou hast made me ioyfull, and that is not come to me which I suspected: but thou hast dealt with vs according to great mercy.

17 Thou art to be praysed because thou hast had mercy of two that were the onely begotten children of their fathers: graunt them mercy, O Lord, & finish their life in health with ioy and mercy.

18 Then Raguel bade his seruants to fill the graue.

19 And he kept the wedding feast foureteene dayes.

Raguel giueth halfe of his goods toward the mariage of his daughter to Tobias.

20 For Raguel had sayde vnto him by an othe, that hee should not depart before that the foureteene dayes of the mariage were expired, 21 And then he should take the halfe of his goods and returne in safetie to his father, and should haue the rest, when hee and his wife were dead.

CHAP. IX.

Raphael leadeth Gabael to Tobias mariage.

THen Tobias called Raphael, and said vnto him,

2 Brother Azarias, Take with thee a seruant and two camels, and goe to Rages of the Medes to Gabael, and bring me the money, and bring him to the wedding.

3 For Raguel hath sworne that I shall not depart.

4 But my father counteth the dayes: and if I tarry long, he will be very sory.

Tobits care for his sonne.

5 So Raphael went out & came to Gabael, and gaue him the hand writing, who brought forth bags which were sealed vp, & gaue them to him.

The Angel goeth on Tobias message.

6 And in the morning they went forth both together, and came to the wedding. And Tobias begate his wife with child.

CHAP. X.

1 Tobit and his wife thinke long for their sonne. 10 Raguel sendeth away Tobias and Sarra.

NOwe Tobit his father counted euery day, and when the daies of the iourney were expired, and they came not,

2 Tobit said, Are they not mocked? or is not Gabael dead, and there is no man to giue him the money?

The father & mother are in heauinesse for Tobias tarying.

3 Therefore he was very sory.

4 Then his wife said to him, My sonne is dead, seeing he tarieth: & she began to * bewaile him, and said, Chap. 5.17.

5 Now I care for nothing, my sonne, since I haue lost thee the light of mine eyes.

6 To whom Tobit said, Hold thy peace: be not carefull, for he is safe.

7 But she said, Hold thy peace, and deceiue me not: my sonne is dead: and shee went out euery day, by the way which they went, neither did she eate meate on the day time, and did consume whole nights in bewayling her sonne Tobias, vntill the foureteene dayes of the wedding were expired, which Raguel had sworne, that he should tary there. Then Tobias said to Raguel, Let me goe: for my father and my mother looke no more to see me.

8 But his father in law said vnto him, Tary with me, & I wil send to thy father, and they shall declare him thine affaires.

9 But Tobias said, No, but let mee goe to my father.

Raguel giueth Tobias and his wife leaue to depart.

10 Then Raguel arose, and gaue him Sarra his wife, and halfe his goods, as seruants, and cattell, and money.

11 And he blessed them, and sent them away, saying, The God of heauen make you, my children, to prosper before I die.

12 And he said to his daughter, Honour thy father, and thy mother in lawe, which are now thy parents, that I may heare good report of thee: and he kissed them. Edna also said to Tobias, The Lord of heauen restore thee, my deare brother, and grant that I may see thy children of my daughter Sarra, that I may reioyce before the Lord. Behold now, I commit to thee my daughter, as a pledge: doe not entreat her euill.

Sarra is instructed by her parents.

CHAP. XI.

1 The returne of Tobias to his father. 9 How he was receiued. 10 His father hath his sight restored, and prayseth the Lord.

After

AFter these things Tobias went his way, praysing God that he had giuen him a prosperous iourney, and blessed Raguel and Edna his wife, and went on his way till he drew neere to Nineue.

2 Then Raphael sayde to Tobias, Thou knowest brother, howe thou diddest leaue thy father.

The Angels counsell to Tobias.

3 Let vs haste before thy wife, and prepare the house,

4 And take in thine hande the gall of the fish. So they went their way, and the dogge followed them.

5 Now Anna sate in the way looking for her sonne,

6 Whom when she sawe comming, she sayd to his father, Beholde, thy sonne commeth, and the man that went with him.

7 Then said Raphael, I knowe, Tobias, that thy father shall receiue his sight.

8 Therefore anoynt his eyes with the gall, and being pricked therewith, hee shall rubbe and make the whitenesse to fall away, and shall see thee.

9 ¶ Then Anna ranne foorth, and fell on the necke of her sonne, and sayde vnto him, Seeing I haue seene thee, my sonne, from hence-foorth I am content to die, and they wept both.

10 Tobit also went foorth toward the doore, and stumbled, but his sonne ranne vnto him.

11 And tooke holde of his father, and sprinkled of the gall on his fathers eyes, saying, Be of good hope, my father.

12 And when his eyes beganne to pricke, hee rubbed them.

13 And the whitenesse pilled away from the corners of his eyes, and when he saw his sonne, he fell vpon his necke, 14 And he wept, and said, Blessed art thou, O Lorde, and blessed be thy name for euer, and blessed be all thine holy Angels.

15 For thou hast scourged mee, and hast had pitie on mee: for beholde, I see my sonne Tobias: and his sonne, being glad, went in and tolde his father the great things that had come to passe in Media.

16 Then Tobit went out to meete his daughter in lawe, reioycing and praysing God to the gate of Nineue: and they which sawe him goe, marueiled, because he had receiued his sight.

17 But Tobit testified before them all, that God had had pitie on him. And when he came neere to Sarra his daughter in lawe, hee blessed her, saying, Thou art welcome, daughter: God bee blessed, which hath brought thee vnto vs, and blessed bee thy father: and there was great ioye among all his brethren, which were at Nineue.

18 And Achiacharus and Nasbas his brothers sonne came.

19 And Tobias marriage was kept seuen dayes with great ioy.

CHAP. XII.

2 Tobias declareth to his father the pleasures that Raphael had done him. 5 The which he would recompense. 11. 15 Raphael declareth that hee is an Angel sent of God.

THen Tobit called his sonne Tobias, and sayde vnto him, Prouide, my sonne, wages for the man, which went with thee, and thou must giue him more.

2 And he said vnto him, O father, it shall not grieue mee to giue him halfe of those things which I haue brought.

3 For hee hath brought me againe to thee in safetie, and hath made whole my wife, & hath brought mee the money, and hath likewise healed thee.

4 Then the olde man sayde, It is due vnto him.

5 So he called the Angell, and said vnto him, Take halfe of all that pee haue brought, and goe away in safetie.

6 But hee tooke them both apart, and sayde vnto them, Praise God, and confesse him, and giue him the glory, & praise him for the things which hee hath done vnto you before all them that liue. It is good to praise God, and to exalt his Name, and to shewe foorth his eudent workes with honour: therefore bee not wearie to confesse him.

7 It is good to keepe close the secretes of a king, but it is honourable to reueale the workes of God: do that which is good, and no euil shall touch you.

8 Prayer is good with fasting, and almes, and righteousnesse. A little with righteousnesse is better then much with vnrighteousnesse: it is better to giue almes, then to lay vp golde.

9 For almes doeth deliuer from death, and doth purge all sinne. Those which exercise almes and righteousnesse, shalbe filled with life.

10 But they that sinne, are enemies to their owne life.

11 Surely I will keepe close nothing from you: neuertheless, I saide it was good to keepe close the secret of a king, but that it was honourable to reueale the workes of God.

12 Nowe therefore when thou diddest pray, and Sarra thy daughter in lawe, I did bring to memorie your prayer before the holy one: And when thou diddest burie the dead, I was with thee likewise.

13 And when thou wast not grieued to rise vp, and leaue thy dinner to burie the dead, thy good deede was not hidde from me: but I was with thee.

He that will be acceptable to God, must be proued with tentation.

14 And now God hath sent me to heale thee, and Sarra thy daughter in lawe.

15 I am Raphael one of the seuen holy Angels, which present the prayers of the Saintes, and which goe forth before his holy Maiestie.

16 Then they were both troubled, and fell vpon their face: for they feared.

17 But he saide vnto them, Feare not, for it shall goe well with you: praise God therefore.

18 For I came not of mine owne pleasure, but by the good will of your God: wherefore praise him in all ages.

19 * All these dayes I did appeare vnto you, but I did neither eate nor drinke, but you sawe it in vision. Gen.18.8 & 19.3. Iudges 13.16.

20 Nowe therefore giue God thankes: for I goe vp to him that sent me: but write all things which are done, in a booke.

21 And when they rose, they sawe him no more.

22 Then they confessed the great and wonderfull workes of God, and howe the Angel of the Lord had appeared to them.

CHAP. XIII.

A thanksgiuing of Tobit, who exhorteth all to praise the Lord.

THen Tobit wrote a prayer of reioycing, and said, Blessed be God that liueth for euer, and blessed be his kingdome.

2 *For hee doeth scourge and hath pitie: hee leadeth to hell, and bringeth vp, neither is there any that can auoyd his hand. Deut.32.39. 1.sam.2.6. wisd.16.13.

3 Confesse him before the Gentiles, yee children of Israel: for he hath scattered you among them.

4 There declare his greatnesse, and extol him before all the liuing: for hee is our Lord and our God, and our father for euer.

5 Hee hath scourged vs for our iniquities, and will haue mercie againe, and will gather vs out of all nations, among whome wee are scattered.

6 If you turne to him with your whole heart, and with your whole minde, and deale vprightly before him, then will hee turne vnto you, and will not hide his face from you, but yee shall see what hee will doe with you: therefore confesse him with your whole mouth, and praise the Lorde of righteousnesse, and extoll the euerlasting King. I wil confesse him in the land of my captiuitie, and will declare his power, and greatnesse to a sinfull nation. O ye sinners, turne and doe iustice before him: who can tell if hee will receiue you to mercie, and haue pitie on you?

7 I will extoll my God, and my soule shall praise the King of heauen, and shal reioyce in his greatnesse.

8 Let all men speake, and let all prayse him for his righteousnes.

9 O Jerusalem the holy citie, he will scourge thee for thy childrens workes, but hee will haue pitie againe on the sonnes of righteous men.

10 Giue praise to the Lorde duely, and prayse the euerlasting King, that his tabernacle may bee builded in thee againe with ioy: and let him make ioyfull there in thee those that are captiues, and loue in thee for euer those that bee miserable.

11 Many nations shall come from farre to the Name of the Lord God, with gifts in their handes, euen gifts to the King of heauen: all generations shall praise thee, and giue signes of ioy.

12 Cursed are all they which hate thee: but blessed are they for euer which loue thee.

13 Reioyce, and be glad for the children of the iust: for they shalbe gathered, and shall blesse the Lord of the iust.

14 Blessed are they which loue thee: for they shal reioyce in thy peace. Blessed are they which haue bene sorowfull for all thy scourges: for they shall reioyce for thee, when they shall see all thy glory, and shall reioyce for euer.

15 Let my soule blesse God the great King.

16 For Jerusalem shalbe built vp with Saphirs, and Emeraudes, and thy walles with precious stones, and thy towres, and thy bulwarkes with pure golde.

17 And the streetes of Jerusalem shall be paued with Berall, and carbuncle, and stones of ‖Ophir. ‖Or, Souphir.

18 And all her streetes shall say, ‖Hallelniah, and they shall prayse him, saying, Blessed bee God which hath extolled ‖ it for euer. ‖ Or, praise ye the Lord. ‖ That is, Ierusalem.

CHAP. XIIII.

4 Lessons of Tobit to his sonne. 4 He prophecieth the destruction of Nineue, 5 And the restoring of Ierusalem and the Temple. 13 The death of Tobit, and his wife 14 Tobias age and death.

SO Tobit made an ende of praysing God.

2 And he was eight and fiftie peere olde, when hee lost his sight, which was restored to him after eight peere, and he gaue almes, and hee continued to feare the Lorde God, and to praise him.

3 And when he was very aged, he called his sonne, and sire of his sonnes sonnes, and said to him, My sonne, take thy children (for behold, I am aged, and am ready to depart out of this life)

4 Goe into Media, my sonne: for I surely beleeue those things which Jonas the Prophet spake of Nineue, that it shall bee destroyed, and for a time peace shall rather bee in Media, and that our brethren shall bee scattered in the earth from that good lande, and Jerusalem shall bee desolate, and the house of God in it shall bee burned, and shall bee desolate for a time.

5 Yet againe God *wil haue pitie on them, and bring them againe into the lande where they shall builde a Temple, but not like to the first, vntill the times of that age bee fulfilled, which being finished, they shall returne from euery place out of captiuitie, and builde vp Jerusalem gloriously, and the house of God shalbe built in it for euer with a glorious building, as the Prophets haue spoken thereof. Ezra.3.8. and 6.14.

6 And all nations shall turne, and feare the Lord God truely, and shall bury their idoles.

7 So shall all nations praise the Lorde, and his people shall confesse God, and the Lord shall exalt his people, & all those which loue the Lord in trueth and iustice, shall reioyce, and those also which shewe mercie to our brethren.

8 And now my sonne, depart out of Nineue, because that those things which the Prophete Jonas spake, shall surely come to passe.

9 But keepe thou the Lawe, and the commandements, and shewe thy selfe mercifull and iust, that it may goe well with thee.

10 And burie mee honestly, and thy mother with mee: but tarie no longer at Nineue. Remember, my sonne, howe Aman handled Achiacharus that brought him vp, howe out of light he brought him into darkenesse, and howe hee rewarded him againe: yet Achiacharus was saued, but the other had his reward: for he went downe into darkenesse. Manasses gaue almes, & escaped the snare of death, which they had set for him, but Aman fel into the snare and perished.

11 Wherefore now, my sonne, consider what almes doeth, and howe righteousnesse doeth deliuer. When hee had said these things, ‖ he gaue vp the ghost in his bed, being an hundreth and eight and fiftie peere olde, and he buried him honorably. ‖ Or, his soule fauled him in the bed.

12 And when Anna was dead, hee buried her with his father: but Tobias went with his wife and children to Ecbatane to Raguel guel his father in lawe.

13 Where he became olde with honour, and he buried his father and mother in law honourably, and hee inherited their substance and Tobits his father.

14 And hee dyed at Ecbatane in Media, being an hundreth and seuen and twentie yeere olde.

15 But before hee dyed, hee heard of the destruction of Nineue, which was taken by Nabuchodonosor and Assuerus, and before his death he reioyced for Nineue.

Iudeth.

CHAP. I.

2 The building of Ecbatane. 5 Nabuchodonosor made warre against Arphaxad, and ouercame him. 12 Hee threatneth them that would not helpe him.

IN the twelfth yeere of the reigne of Nabuchodonosor, who reigned in Nineue the great citie (in the dayes of Arpharad, which reigned ouer the Medes in Ecbatane,

2 And built in Ecbatane the walles round about of hewed stone, three cubites broade, and fiue cubites long, and made the height of the wall seuentie cubites, and the breadth thereof fiftie cubites,

3 And made the towres thereof in the gates of it of an hundreth cubites, and the breadth thereof in the foundation threescore cubites,

4 And made the gates thereof, euen gates that were lifted vp on hie, seuentie cubites, and the breadth of them fourtie cubites, for the going foorth of his mighty armies, and for the setting in arap of his footemen)

5 Euen in those dayes, King Nabuchodonosor made warre with King Arpharad in the great fielde, which is the fielde in the coastes of Ragau.

6 Then came vnto him all they that dwelt in the mountaines, and all that dwelt by Euphrates, and Tygris, and Hydaspes, and the countrey of Arioch the king of the Elymeans, and very many nations assembled themselues to the battell of the sonnes of Chelod.

7 And Nabuchodonosor king of the Assyrians sent vnto all that dwelt in Persia, and to all that dwelt in the West, and to those that dwelt in Cilicia, and Damascus, and Libanus, and Antilibanus, and to all that dwelt vpon the sea coast,

8 And to the people, that are in Carmel, and Galaad, and the hier Galile, and the great fielde of Esdrelam,

9 And to all that were in Samaria, and the cities thereof, and beyond Jorden vnto Jerusalem, and Betane, and Chellus, and Cades, and the riuer of Egypt, & Taphnes, and Rameste, and all the land of Gesem, 10 Vntill one come to Tanis, and Memphis, and to all the inhabitants of Egypt, and till one come to the mountaines of Ethiopia.

11 But all the inhabitants of this countrey did not passe for the commaundement of Nabuchodonosor King of the Assyrians, neither would they come with him to the battell: for they did not feare him: yea, he was before them as one man: therefore they sent away his ambassadours from them without effect, and with dishonour.

12 Therefore Nabuchodonosor was very angry with all this countrey, and sware by his throne and kingdome, that hee would surely bee auenged vpon all those coastes of Cilicia and Damascus, and Syria, and that hee would slay with the sworde all the inhabitants of the lande of Moab, and the children of Ammon, and all Judea, and all that were in Egypt, till one come to the borders of the two seas.

13 Then he marched in battell arap with his power against king Arpharad in the seuenteenth yeere, and he preuailed in his battel: for he ouerthrewe all the power of Arpharad, and all his horsemen, and all his charets.

14 And he waune his cities, and came vnto Ecbatane, and tooke the towers, and spoyled the streetes thereof, & turned the beautie thereof into shame.

15 He tooke also Arpharad in the mountaines of Ragau, & smote him thorow with his darts, and destroyed him vtterly that day.

16 So hee returned afterward to Nineue, both he, and all his company with a very great multitude of men of warre, and there he passed the time, and banketted, both he and his armie, an hundreth and twenty dayes.

CHAP. II.

5 Nabuchodonosor commaunded presumptuously that all people should be brought into subiection. 6 And to destroy those that disobeyed him. 15 The preparation of Holofernes armie. 23 The conquest of his enemies.

AND in the eighteenth yeere, the two and twentieth day of the first moneth, there was talke in the house of Nabuchodonosor King of the Assyrians, that hee should auenge himselfe on all the earth, as hee had spoken.

2 So he called vnto him all his officers and all his nobles, and communicated with them his secret counsell, and set before them with his owne mouth all the malice of the earth.

3 Then they decreed to destroy all flesh, that had not obeyed the commaundement of his mouth.

4 And when he had ended his counsel, Nabuchodonosor King of the Assyrians called Holofernes his chiefe captaine, and which was next vnto him, and said vnto him,

5 Thus sayeth the great King, the Lord of the whole earth, Beholde, thou shalt goe forth from my presence, and take with thee men that trust in their owne strength, of footemen, an hundreth and twentie thousand, and the number of horses with their riders, twelue thousand,

6 And thou shalt goe against all the West countrey, because they disobeyed my commandement.

7 And thou shalt declare vnto them, that they prepare for me the land and the water: for I will goe forth in my wrath against them, and will couer the whole face of the earth with the feete of mine armie, and I will giue them as a spoyle vnto them,

8 So that their wounded shal fill their valleys, and their riuers, and the flood shall ouerflowe, being filled with their dead.

9 And I will bring their captiuitie to the vtmost partes of all the earth.

10 Thou therefore shalt depart hence, and take vp for me all their countrey: and if they yeelde vnto thee, thou shalt reserue them for me vntill the day that I rebuke them.

11 But concerning them that rebell, let not thine eie spare them, but put them to death, and spoyle them wheresoeuer thou goest.

12 For as I liue, and the power of my kingdome, whatsoeuer I haue spoken, that will I doe by mine hand.

13 And take thou heede that thou transgresse not any of the commaundements of thy lord, but accomplish them fully, as I haue commaunded thee, and deferre not to doe them.

14 ¶ Then Holofernes went forth from the presence of his lorde, and called all the gouernours, and captaines, and officers of the armie of Assur,

15 And hee mustered the chosen men for the battell, as his lord had commaunded him, vnto an hundreth and twentie thousand, and twelue thousand archers on horsebacke.

16 And hee set them in aray according to the maner of setting a great armie in aray.

17 And hee tooke camels and asses for their burdens, a verie great number, and sheepe, and oxen, and goates without number for their prouision, 18 And vitaile for euery man of the armie, and very much gold and siluer out of the kings house.

19 Then he went forth and all his power, to go before in the voyage of king Nabuchodonosor, and to couer all the face of the earth Westwarde, with their charets, and horsemen, and chosen footemen.

20 A great multitude also of sundry sortes came with them like grashoppers, and like the grauell of the earth: for the multitude was without number.

21 And they went forth of Ninene three dayes iourney toward the countrey of Bectileth, and pitched from Bectileth, neere the mountaine which is at the left hand of the vpper Cilicia.

22 Then hee tooke all his armie, his footemen and horsemen, and charets, and went from thence into the mountaines, 23 And he destroyed Phud & Lud, and spoyled all the children of Rasses, and the children of Ismael, which were toward the wildernesse at the South of the Chelians.

24 Then hee went ouer Enphrates, & went thorowe Mesopotamia, and destroyed all the hie cities that were vpon the riuer of Arbonai, vntill one come to the sea.

25 And hee tooke the borders of Cilicia, and destroyed all that resisted him, and came to the borders of Japheth, which were towarde the South, and ouer against Arabia.

26 He compassed also all the children of Madian, and burnt vp their tabernacles, and spoyled their lodges.

27 Then hee went downe into the countrey of Damascus, in the time of wheate harueste, and burnt vp all their fieldes, & destroyed their flockes and the heards: hee robbed their cities, and spoyled their countrey, and smote all their young men with the edge of the sword.

28 Therefore feare and trembling fell vpon all the inhabitants of the sea coast, which were in Sidon and Tyrus, and them that dwelt in Sur and Ocina, & all that dwelt in Jemnaan: and they that dwelt in Azotus and Ascalon feared him greatly.

CHAP. III.

The people subiect to Holofernes. 8 He destroyed their gods that Nabuchodonosor might onely be worshipped.

SO they sent ambassadours to him with messages of peace, saying,

2 Behold, we are the seruants of Nabuchodonosor the great king: wee lye downe before thee: vse vs as shall be good in thy sight.

3 Behold, our houses and all our places, and all our fieldes of wheate, and our flockes and our heards, and all our lodges and tabernacles lie before thy face: vse them as it pleaseth thee.

4 Behold, euen our cities and the inhabitants thereof are thy seruants: come, and take them, as seemeth good to thee.

5 ¶ So the men came to Holofernes, and declared vnto them after this maner.

6 Then came he downe toward the sea coast, both hee and his armie, and set garisons in the hie cities, and tooke out of them chosen men for the warre.

7 So they and al the countrey round about receiued them with crownes, with dances, and with timbrels.

8 Yet he brake downe all their borders, and cut downe their woods: for it was inioyned him to destroy all the gods of the land, that all nations should worship Nabuchodonosor onely, and that all tongues and tribes should call vpon him as God.

9 And he came against Esdraelon, neere vnto Judea, ouer against the great straite of Judea, 10 And he pitched betweene Geba, and a citie of the Scythians, and there hee taried a moneth, that hee might assemble all the baggage of his armie.

CHAP. IIII.

The Israelites were afraide and defended their countrey. 6 Ioacim the Priest writeth to Bethulia, that they should fortifie themselues. 9 They cryed to the Lord, and humbled themselues before him.

NOwe the children of Israel that dwelt in Judea, heard all that Holofernes the chiefe captaine of Nabuchodonosor king of the Assyrians had done to the nations, and howe hee had spoiled all their temples, and brought them to nought.

2 Therefore they feared greatly his presence, and were troubled for Jerusalem, and for the Temple of the Lord their God.

3 For they were newly returned from the captiuitie, and of late all the people was assembled assembled in Judea, and the vessels and the altar of the house had beene sanctified because of the pollution.

4 Therefore they sent into all coasts of Samaria, and the villages, and to Bethoza, and Belmen, and Jericho, and to Choba, and Esora, and to the valley of Salem,

5 And tooke all the toppes of the hie mountaines, and walled the villages that were in them, and put in bralles for the provision of warre: for their fields were of late reaped.

6 Also Joacim the high Priest which was in those dayes in Jerusalem, wrote to them that dwelt in Bethulia and Betomesthaim, which is over against Esdraelon, towarde the open countrey neere to Dothaim,

7 Exhorting them to keepe the passages of the mountaines: for by them there was an entry into Judea, and it was easie to let them that would come up, because the passage was straite for two men at the most.

8 And the children of Israel did as Joacim the high Priest had commanded them with the ancients of al the people of Israel, which dwelt in Jerusalem.

9 Then cried every man of Israel to God with great fervency, and their soules with great affection.

10 Both they & their wives, and their children, and their cattell, and every stranger, and hireling, and their bought servants put sackecloth upon their loynes.

11 Thus every man and woman, and the children, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem fell before the Temple, and sprinkled ashes upon their heads, and spred out their sackecloth before the face of the Lord: also they put sackecloth about the altar, 12 And cried to the God of Israel, all with one consent most earnestly, that hee would not give their children for a praye, and their wives for a spoyle, and the cities of their inheritance to destruction, and the Sanctuarie to pollution and reproch, and unto derision to the heathen.

13 So God heard their prayers, and looked upon their affliction: for the people fasted many dayes in al Judea and Jerusalem before the Sanctuarie of the Lord Almightie.

14 And Joacim the high Priest, and all the Priestes, that stood before the Lorde, and ministred unto the Lorde, had their loynes girt with sackecloth, and offered the continuall burnt offering, with prayers, and the free giftes of the people,

15 And had ashes on their mitres, and cried unto the Lorde with all their power for grace, and that hee would looke upon all the house of Israel.

CHAP. V.

Achior the Ammonite doeth declare to Holofernes of the manner of the Israelites.

THen was it declared to Holofernes the chiefe captaine of the armie of Assur, that the children of Israel had prepared for warre, and had shut the passages of the mountaines, and had walled all the tops of the hie hilles, and had laid impediments in the champion countrey.

2 Wherwith he was very angry, and called all the princes of Moab, and the captaines of Ammon, and all the governors of the sea coast.

3 And hee saide unto them, Shew mee, O ye sonnes of Chanaan, Who is this people that dwelleth in the mountaines? and what are the cities that they inhabite? and what is the multitude of their armie? and wherein is their strength and their power? and what King or captaine is ruled among them over their armie?

4 And why have they determined not to come to meet me, more then all the inhabitants of the West?

5 ¶ Then * said Achior the captaine of all the sonnes of Ammon, Let my lord heare the word of the mouth of his servant, and I will declare unto thee the trueth concerning this people, that dwell in these mountaines, neere where thou remainest: and there shall no lie come out of the mouth of thy servant. Chap. 11. 7, 9

6 This people come out of the stocke of the Chaldeans.

7 And * they dwelt before in Mesopotamia, because they would not followe the gods of their fathers, which were in the land of Chaldea. Gene. 11. 31.

8 But they went out of the way of their ancestors, and worshipped the God of heaven, the God whome they knewe: so they cast them out from the face of their gods, and they fledde into Mesopotamia, and sojourned there many dayes.

9 Then * their God commaunded them to depart from the place where they sojourned, and to go into the land of Chanaan, where they dwelt, and were increased with gold and silver, and with very much cattell. Gene. 12. 1.

10 But when a famine covered all the lande of Chanaan, they went downe into Egypt, and dwelt there till they returned, and became there a great multitude, so that one could not number their linage.

11 * Therefore the king of Egypt rose up against them, and used deceite against them, and brought them low with labouring in bricke, and made them slaves. Exod. 1. 8.

12 Then they cryed unto their God, and he smote all the lande of Egypt with incurable plagues: so the * Egyptians cast them out of their sight, Exod. 12. 37, 33.

13 And * God dried the redde sea in their presence, Exod. 14. 21.

14 And * brought them into mount Sina and Cades barnea, and cast fourth all that dwelt in the wildernesse. Exod. 19. 1.

15 So they dwelt in the land of the Amorites, and they destroyed by their strength all them of Esebon, and passing over Jordan, they inherited all the mountaines.

16 And they * cast fourth before them the Chanaanites, and the Pherezites, and the Jebusites, and them of Sichem, and all the Gergesites, and they dwelt in that countrey many dayes. Josh. 12. 8.

17 And whiles they sinned not before their God, they prospered, because the God that hated iniquitie was with them.

18 But * when they departed from the way which hee appointed them, they were destroyed in many battels after a woonderfull sort, * and were ledde captives into a lande that was not theirs: and the Temple of Judg. 2. 11. and 3. 8. 2. King. 25. 1, 11.

their God was cast to the ground, and their cities were taken by the enemies.

Ezra.1.1,3. 19 But *nowe they are turned to their God, and are come vp from the scattering wherein they were scattered, and haue possessed Ierusalem, where their temple is, and dwell in the mountaines which were desolate.

20 Nowe therefore, my lord and gouernour, if there be any fault in this people, so that they haue sinned against their God, let vs consider that this shall be their ruine, and let vs goe vp, and we shall ouercome them.

21 But if there be none iniquitie in this people, let my lord passe vp, least their Lord defend them, and their God bee for them, and we become a reproch before all the world.

22 ¶ And when Achior had finished these sayings, all the people, standing rounde about the tent, murmured: and the chiefe men of Holofernes, and all that dwelt by the sea side, and in Moab, spake that he should kill him.

23 For, say they, wee feare not to meete the children of Israel: for loe, it is a people that haue no strength nor power against a mightie armie.

24 Let vs therefore goe vp, O lord Holofernes, and they shalbe meate for thy whole armie.

CHAP. VI.

Holofernes blasphemeth God whome Achior confessed. 14 Achior is deliuered into the hands of them of Bethulia. 18 The Bethulians crie vnto the Lord.

AND when the tumult of the men that were about the counsell was ceassed, Holofernes, the chiefe captaine of the armie of Assur, sayde vnto Achior before all the people of the straungers, and before all the children of Moab, and of them that were hired of Ephraim,

2 Because thou hast prophesied among vs to day, and hast said that the people of Ierusa-
Chap.5.5,21 lem is able to fight,* because their God will defend them: and who is god but Nabuchodonosor?

3 Hee will send his power, and will destroy them from the face of the earth, and their God shall not deliuer them: but we his seruants will destroy them as one man: for they are not able to sustaine the power of our horses.

4 For we will treade them vnder feete with them, and their mountaines shall be drunken with their blood, and their fieldes shall be filled with their dead bodies, and their footesteps shall not be able to stand before vs: but they shall vtterly perish.

5 The king Nabuchodonosor, lord of all the earth hath said, euen he hath said, None of my words shalbe in vaine.

6 And thou Achior an hireling of Ammon, because thou hast spoken these words, in the day of thine iniquitie, thou shalt see my face no more from this day, vntill I take vengeance of that people that is come out of Egypt.

7 And then shall the yron of mine armie, and the multitude of them that serue me, passe through thy sides, and thou shalt fall among their slaine, when I shall put them to flight.

8 And my seruants shall carie thee into the mountaines, and they shall leaue thee at one of the hie cities: but thou shalt not perish, till thou be destroyed with them.

9 And if thou perswade thy selfe in thy minde, that they shall not be taken, let not thy countenance fall: I haue spoken it, and none of my words shalbe in vaine.

10 Then commaunded Holofernes them concerning Achior, that they shoulde bring him to Bethulia, and deliuer him into the hands of the children of Israel.

11 So his seruants tooke him, and brought him out of the campe into the plaine: and they went out from the middes of the plaine into the mountaines, and came vnto the fountaines that were vnder Bethulia.

12 And when the men of the citie sawe them from the top of the mountaine, they tooke their armour, and went forth of the citie vnto the top of the mountaine, euen all the throwers with slings, and kept them from comming vp, by casting stones against them.

13 But they went priuily vnder the hill, and bound Achior, and left him lying at the foote of the hill, and returned to their lord.

14 Then the Israelites came downe from their citie, and stood about him, and loosed him and brought him into Bethulia, and presented him to the gouernours of their citie, 15 Which were in those dayes, Ozias the sonne of Micha, of the tribe of Simeon, and Chabris the sonne of Gothoniel, and Charmis the sonne of Melchiel.

16 And they called together all the ancients of the citie, and all their youth ran together, and their women to the assembly: and they set Achior in the middes of all their people. Then Ozias asked him of that which was done.

17 And he answered and declared vnto them the wordes of the counsell of Holofernes, and all the wordes that he had spoken in the middes of the princes of Assur, and whatsoeuer Holofernes had spoken proudly against the house of Israel.

18 Then the people fell downe and worshipped God, and cried vnto God, saying, 19 O Lorde God of heauen, beholde their pride, and haue mercie on the baseneſſe of our people, and beholde this day the face of those that are sanctified vnto thee.

20 Then they comforted Achior, and praised him greatly.

21 And Ozias tooke him out of the assembly into his house, and made a feast to the Elders, and they called on the God of Israel all that night for helpe.

CHAP. VII.

1 Holofernes doeth besiege Bethulia. 8 The counsell of the Idumeans and other against the Israelites. 23 The Bethulians murmure against their gouernours for lacke of water.

THE next day Holofernes commanded all his armie and all his people, which were come to take his part, that they should remoone their campes against Bethulia, and that they should take all the streits of the hill, and to make warre against the children of Israel.

2 Then their strong men remooued their campes in that day, and the armie of the men of warre was an hundreth thousande and seuentie footemen, and twelue thousand horsemen, beside the baggage and other men that were were afoote among them, a very great multitude.

3 And they camped in the plaine neere vnto Bethulia, by the fountaine, and they spread abroad toward Dothaim vnto Belbaim, and in length from Bethulia vnto Ciamon, which is ouer against Esdrelon.

4 Nowe the children of Israel, when they sawe the multitude, were greatly troubled, and sayd euery one to his neighbour, Nowe will they shut vp all the whole earth: for neither the hie mountaines, nor the valleys, nor the hilles are able to abide their burden.

5 Then euery one tooke his weapons of warre, and burning fires in their towres, they remained and watched all that night.

6 But in the second day, Holofernes brought forth all his horsemen in the sight of the children of Israel, which were in Bethulia,

7 And viewed the passages vp to their citie, and came to the fountaines of their waters, and tooke them and set garisons of men of warre ouer them, and remooued toward his people.

8 Then came vnto him all the chiefe of the children of Esau, and all the gouernours of the people of Moab, and all the captaines of the sea coast, and said, 9 Let our captaine nowe heare a worde, least an inconuenience come in thine armie.

10 For this people of the children of Israel doe not trust in their speares, but in the height of the mountaines, wherein they dwell, because it is not easie to come vp to the toppes of their mountaines.

11 Now therefore my lord, fight not against them in battell array, and there shall not so much as one man of thy people perish.

12 Remaine in thy campe, and keepe all the men of thine armie, and let thy men keepe still the water of the countrey, that commeth forth at the foot of the mountaine.

13 For all the inhabitants of Bethulia haue their water thereof: so shall thirst kill them, and they shall giue vp their citie: and wee and our people will goe vp to the toppes of the mountaines that are neere, and will campe vpon them, and watch that none goe out of the citie.

14 So they and their wiues, and their children shall be consumed with famine, and before the worde come against them, they shall bee ouerthrowen in the streetes where they dwell.

15 Thus shalt thou render them an euill reward, because they rebelled and obeyed not thy person peaceably.

16 And these wordes pleased Holofernes and all his souldiers, and hee appointed to doe as they had spoken.

17 So the campe of the children of Ammon departed, and with them fiue thousande of the Assyrians, and they pitched in the valley, and tooke the waters, and the fountaines of the waters of the children of Israel.

18 Then the children of Esau went vp with the children of Ammon and camped in the mountaines ouer against Dothaim, and they sent some of themselues towarde the South, and towarde the East, ouer against Kebel, which is neere vnto Chusi, that is vpon the riuer Mochmur: and the rest of the armie of the Assyrians camped in the fielde, and couered the whole lande: for their tentes and their baggage were pitched in a woonderfull great place.

19 Then the children of Israel cried vnto the Lord their God, because their heart failed: for all their enemies had compassed them about, and there was no way to escape out from among them.

20 Thus all the companie of Assur remained about them, both their footmen, chariots and horsemen, foure and thirtie dayes: so that euen all the places of their waters failed all the inhabitants of Bethulia.

21 And the cisternes were emptie, and they had not water enough to drinke for one day: for they gaue them to drinke by measure.

22 Therefore their children swooned, and their wiues and young men failed for thirst, and fell downe in the streetes of the citie, and by the passages of the gates, & there was no strength in them.

23 Then all the people assembled to Ozias, and to the chiefe of the citie, both yong men and women, and children, and cried with a loude voice, and said before all the Elders, 24 The * Lorde bee iudge betweene vs and you: for you haue done vs great iniurie, in that yee haue not required peace of the children of Assur. *Exod. 5. 21.

25 For nowe wee haue no helper: but God hath solde vs into their handes that wee should be throwen downe before them with thirst and great destruction.

26 Nowe therefore call them together, and deliuer the whole citie for a spoile to the people of Holofernes, and to all his armie.

27 For it is better for vs to be made a spoile vnto them, then to die for thirst: for we will be his seruants that wee may liue, and not see the death of our infants before our eyes, nor our wiues, nor our children to die.

28 We take to witnesse against you the heauen and the earth, and our God and Lord of our fathers which punisheth vs according to our sinnes, and the sinnes of our fathers, that he lay not these things to our charge.

29 Then there was a great crie of all with one consent in the middes of the assemblie, and they cryed vnto the Lorde God with a loud voice.

30 Then said Ozias to them, Bzethien, be of good courage: let vs wait yet fiue dayes, in the which space the Lorde our God may turne his mercie toward vs: for he will not forsake vs in the end.

31 And if these dayes passe, and there come not helpe vnto vs, I will doe according to your word.

32 So he separated the people, euery one vnto their charge, and they went vnto the walles and towres of their citie, and sent their wiues and their children into their houses, and they were very lowe brought in the citie.

CHAP. VIII.

The parentage, life and conuersation of Iudeth. 11 She rebuketh the faintnesse of the gouernours. 12 She sheweth that they should not tempt God, but waite vpon him for succour. 33 Her enterprise against the enemies.

Nowe

NOwe at that time, Judeth heard thereof, which was the daughter of Merari, the sonne of Dr, the sonne of Joseph, the sonne of Oziel, the sonne of Elcia, the sonne of Ananias, the sonne of Gedeon, the sonne of Raphaim, the sonne of Acito, the sonne of Elim, the sonne of Ehab, the sonne of Nathanael, the sonne of Samael, the sonne of Salasadai, the sonne of Israel.

2 And Manasses was her husband, of her stocke and kinred, who died in the barley harueſt.

3 For as hee was diligent ouer them that bound sheaues in the fielde, the heate came vpon his head, and he fell vpon his bed, and died in the citie of Bethulia, and they buried him with his fathers in the fielde betweene Dothaim and Balamo.

4 So Judeth was in her house a widowe three peres and foure moneths.

5 And shee made her a tent vpon her house, and put on sackcloth on her loynes, and ware her widowes apparell.

6 And she fasted all the dayes of her widowhood, saue the day before the Sabbath, and the Sabbaths, and the day before the new moones, and in the feasts and solemne dayes of the house of Israel.

7 Shee was also of a goodly countenance, and very beautifull to beholde: and her husband Manasses had left her gold and siluer, and men seruants, and maide seruants, and cattell, and possessions where she remained.

8 And there was none that could bring an euill report of her: for she feared God greatly.

9 Now when shee heard the euill wordes of the people against the gouernour, because they fainted for lacke of waters (for Judeth had heard all the words that Ozias had spoken vnto them, and that he had *swome vnto them to deliuer the citie vnto the Assyrians within fiue dayes) Chap.7.26, 31.

10 Then shee sent her maide that had the gouernement of all things that she had, to call Ozias and Chabris and Charmis the ancients of the citie.

11 And they came vnto her, and shee sayde vnto them, Heare me, O ye gouernours of the inhabitants of Bethulia: for your wordes that ye haue spoken before the people this day, are not right, touching this othe which ye made and pronounced betweene God and you, and haue promised to deliuer the citie to the enemies, vnlesse within these dayes the Lord turne to helpe you.

12 And nowe who are you that haue tempted God this day, & set your selues in the place of God among the children of men?

13 So now ye seeke the Lord Almightie, but you shall neuer know any thing.

14 For you cannot finde out the depth of the heart of man, neither can ye perceiue the things that he thinketh: then howe can you search out God, that hath made all these thinges, and knowe his minde, or comprehend his purpose? Nay my brethren, prouoke not the Lorde our God to anger.

15 For if hee will not helpe vs within these fiue dayes, he hath power to defend vs when he will, euen euery day, or to destroy vs before our enemies.

16 Doe not you therefore binde the counsels of the Lorde our God: for God is not as man that he may be threatned, neither as the sonne of man to be brought to mdgement.

17 Therefore let vs waite for saluation of him, and call vpon him to helpe vs, and he will heare our voice if it please him.

18 For there appeareth none in our age, neither is there any nowe in these dayes, neither tribe nor familie, nor people, nor citie among vs, which worship the gods made with hands, as hath bene afore time.

19 For *the which cause our fathers were giuen to the sworde, and for a spoyle, and had a great fall before our enemies. Judg.2.11. and 4.1. and 6.1.

20 But we know none other God: therefore we trust that hee will not despise vs, nor any of our linage.

21 Neither when we shalbe taken, shall Iudea be so famous: for our Sanctuarie shall be spoyled, and hee will require the prophanation thereof at our mouth.

22 And the feare of our brethren and the captiuitie of the countrey, and the desolation of our inheritance will hee turne vpon our heads among the Gentiles, wheresoeuer we shall be in bondage, and we shalbe an offence and reproch to all them that possesse vs.

23 For our seruitude shall not be directed by fauour, but the Lorde our God shall turne it to dishonour.

24 Now therefore, O brethren, let vs shewe an example to our brethren, because their hearts depend vpon vs, and the Sanctuarie, and the house, and the Altar rest vpon vs.

25 Moreouer, let vs giue thankes to the Lord our God, which trieth vs euen as hee did our fathers.

26 Remember what things hee did to *Abraham, and how hee tried Isaac, and all that hee did to *Jacob in Mesopotamia of Syria when he kept the sheepe of Laban his mothers brother. Gene.22.1. Gene.28.7.

27 For hee hath not tried vs as he did them to the examination of their hearts, neither doth hee take vengeance on vs, but the Lorde punisheth for instruction them that come neere to him.

28 ¶ Then saide Ozias to her, All that thou hast spoken, hast thou spoken with a good heart, and there is none that is able to resist thy words.

29 For it is not to day that thy wisedome is knowen, but from the beginning of thy life all the people haue knowen thy wisedome: for the deuise of thine heart is good.

30 But the people were very thirstie, and compelled vs to do vnto them as we haue spoken, and haue brought vs to an othe which we may not transgresse.

31 Therefore nowe pray for vs, because thou art an holy woman, that the Lord may send vs raine to fill our cisternes, and that we may faint no more.

32 Then saide Judeth vnto them, Heare me, and I will doe a thing which shalbe declared in all generations, to the children of our nation.

33 You shall stande this night in the gate, and I will goe forth with mine handmaide: and within the dayes that yee haue promised to

to deliuer the citie to our enemies, the Lord will visite Israel by mine hand.

34 But inquire not you of mine acte: for I will not declare it vnto you, till the things be finished that I doe.

35 Then saide Ozias and the princes vnto her, Goe in peace, and the Lord God be before thee, to take vengeance on our enemies.

36 So they returned from the tent, and went to their wardes.

CHAP. IX.

1 Iudeth humbleth her selfe before the Lord, and maketh her prayers for the deliuerance of her people & against the pride of the Assyrians. 11 God is the helpe of the humble.

THen Iudeth fell vpon her face, & put ashes vpon her head, and put off the sackecloth wherewith shee was clothed. And about the time that the incense of that euening was offered in Ierusalem in the house of the Lord, Iudeth cryed with a loude voyce, and said,

Gen.34.2,25 2 O Lord God of my father * Simeon, to whom thou gauest a sworde to take vengeance of the strangers which opened the wombe of the maide, and defiled her, and discouered the thigh with shame, and polluted the wombe to reproch (for thou hadest commaunded that it should not so be,

3 Yet they did things for þ which thou gauest their princes to the slaughter, for they were deceiued and washed their beddes with blood) and hast striken the seruants with the gouernours, and the gouernours vpon their thrones,

4 And hast giuē their wiues for a pray, and their daughters to bee captiues, and all their spoyles for a bootie to the children that thou louedst: which were moued with thy zeale, and abhorred the pollution of their blood, and called vpon thee for ayde, O God, O my God, heare me also a widow.

5 For thou hast wrought the things afore, and these, and the things that shall be after, and thou considerest the things that are present, and the things that are to come.

6 For the things which thou doest purpose, are present, and say, Behold, we are here: for all thy wayes are ready, and thy iudgements are foreknowen.

7 Behold, the Assyrians are multiplied by their power: they haue exalted themselues with horses and horsemen: they glory in the strength of their footemen, thy trust in shielde, speare, and bowe, and sling, and doe not knowe that thou art the Lord that breakest the battels: the Lord is thy Name.

8 Breake thou their strength by thy power, and breake their force by thy wrath: for they haue purposed to defile thy Sanctuarie, and to pollute the Tabernacle where thy glorious Name resteth, and to cast downe with weapons the homes of the Altar.

9 Behold their pride, and send thy wrath vpon their heads: giue into mine hand which am a widowe, the strength that I haue conceiued.

Iudg.4.21. and 5.26. Iudg.7.2. 2.chro.14. 11.& 16.8. and 20.6. 10 * Smite by the deceite of my lippes the seruant with the prince, and the prince with the seruant: abate their height by the hand of a woman.

11 * For thy power standeth not in the multitude, nor thy might in strong men: but thou, O Lorde art the helpe of the humble and little ones, the defender of the weake, and the protector of them that are forsaken, and the Sauiour of them that are without hope.

12 Surely, surely thou art the God of my father, and the God of the inheritance of Israel, the Lorde of heauen and earth, the creator of the waters, the king of all creatures: heare thou my prayer, 13 And graunt me wordes and craft, and a wound, and a stroke against them that enterprise cruell things against thy couenant, and against thine holy house, and against the top of Sion, and against the house of the possession of thy children.

14 Shewe euidently among all thy people, and all the tribes, that they may knowe that thou art the God of all power & strength, and that there is none other that defendeth the people of Israel, but thou.

CHAP. X.

1 Iudeth decketh her selfe, and goeth forth of the citie. 11 She is taken of the watch of the Assyrians and brought to Olofernes.

NOwe after shee had ceased to crye vnto the God of Israel, and had made an ende of all these wordes,

2 She rose where she had fallen downe, and called her maide, and went downe into the house, in the which shee abode in the Sabbath dayes and in the feast dayes,

3 And putting away the sackecloth wherewith shee was clad, and putting off the garments of her widowhood, shee washed her body with water, and anointed it with much ointment, and dressed the haire of her head, and put attire vpon it, and put on her garments of gladnesse, wherewith shee was cladde, during the life of Manasses her husband.

4 And she put slippers on her feete, and put on bracelets, and sleeues, and rings, and earerings, and all her ornaments, and thee decked her selfe brauely to allure the eyes of all men that should see her.

5 Then she gaue her maid a bottell of wine, and a pot of oyle, and filled a scrippe with flowre, and with drye figges, and with fine bread: so she lapped vp all these things together, and layd them vpon her.

6 Thus they went forth to the gate of the citie of Bethulia, and founde standing there Ozias, and the Ancients of the citie, Chabris and Charmis.

7 And when they saw her, that her face was changed, and that her garment was changed, they marueiled greatly at her wonderfull beautie, and said vnto her,

8 The God, the God of our fathers giue thee fauour, and accomplish thine enterprises to the glory of the children of Israel, and to the exaltation of Ierusalem. Then they worshipped God.

9 And shee saide vnto them, Commaunde the gates of the citie to be opened vnto me, that I may goe forth to accomplish the things which you haue spoken to me. So they commaunded the young men to open vnto her, as she had spoken.

10 And

10 And when they had done so, Judeth went out, she, and her maid with her, and the men of the citie looked after her, vntill shee was gone downe the mountaine, and till shee had passed the valley, and could see her no more.

11 Thus they went straight forth in the valley, and the first watch of the Assyrians met her,

12 And tooke her, and asked her, Of what people art thou? and whence commest thou? and whither goest thou? and she saide, I am a woman of the Hebrewes, and am fled from them: for they shall be giuen you to be consumed.

13 And I come before Holofernes the chiefe captaine of your armie, to declare him true things, and I will shewe before him the way whereby hee shall goe and winne all the mountaines, without losing the body or life of any of his men.

14 Nowe when the men heard her wordes, and beheld her countenance, they wondered greatly at her beautie, and said vnto her,

15 Thou hast saued thy life, in that thou hast hasted to come downe to the presence of our lord: nowe therefore come to his tent, and some of vs shall conduct thee vntill they haue deliuered thee into his hands.

16 And when thou standest before him, bee not afraide in thine heart, but shewe vnto him according as thou hast to say, and hee will intreate thee well.

17 Then they chose out of them an hundreth men, and prepared a charet for her and her maide, and brought her to the tent of Holofernes.

18 Then there was a running to and fro throughout the campe: for her comming was bruited among the tents: and they came and stoode rounde about her: for shee stoode without the tent of Holofernes vntill they had declared vnto him concerning her.

19 And they marueiled at her beautie, and wondered at the children of Israel, because of her, and euery one saide vnto his neighbour, Who would despise this people, that haue among them such women? surely it is not good that one man of them be left: for if they should remaine, they might deceiue the whole earth.

20 Then Holofernes garde went out, and all his seruants, & they brought her into the tent.

21 Nowe Holofernes rested vpon his bed vnder a canopie, which was wouen with purple and golde and emerandes, and precious stones.

22 So they shewed him of her, and hee came forth vnto the entrie of his tent, and they carried lamps of siluer before him.

23 And when Judeth was come before him and his seruants, they all marueiled at the beautie of her countenance, and she fell downe vpon her face, and did reuerence vnto him, and his seruants tooke her vp.

CHAP. XI.

1 Holofernes comforteth Iudeth, 3 And asketh the cause of her comming. 5 Shee deceiueth him by her faire wordes.

Then saide Holofernes vnto her, Woman, be of good comfort: feare not in thine heart: for I neuer hurt any that would serue Nabuchodonosor the king of all the earth.

2 Nowe therefore, if thy people that dwelleth in the mountaines, had not despised me, I would not haue lifted vp my speare against them: but they haue procured these things to themselues.

3 But nowe tell me wherefore thou art fled from them, and art come vnto vs: for thou art come for safegard: be of good comfort, thou shalt liue from this night, and hereafter.

4 For none shall hurt thee, but intreate thee well, as they doe the seruants of king Nabuchodonosor my lord.

5 Then Judeth saide vnto him, Receiue the wordes of thy seruant, and suffer thine handmaide to speake in thy presence, and I will declare no lie to my lord this night.

6 And if thou wilt followe the wordes of thine handmaide, God will bring the thing perfectly to passe by thee, and my lord shall not faile of his purpose.

7 As Nabuchodonosor king of all the earth liueth, and as his power is of force, who hath sent thee to reforme all persons, not onely men shall be made subiect to him by thee, but also the beastes of the fieldes, and the cattell, and the foules of the heauen shall liue by thy power vnder Nabuchodonosor and all his house.

8 For wee haue heard of thy wisedome and of thy prudent spirite, and it is declared throughout the whole earth, that thou onely art excellent in all the kingdome, and of a wonderfull knowledge, and in feates of warre marueilous.

9 Nowe* as concerning the matter which Achior did speake in the counsell, wee haue heard his wordes, for the men of Bethulia did take him, and hee declared vnto them all that he had spoken vnto thee. *Chap 5.5.

10 Therefore, O lorde and gouernour, reiect not his worde, but set it in thine heart, for it is true: for there is no punishment against our people, neither can the sworde preuaile against them, except they sinne against their God.

11 Nowe therefore least my lorde shoulde be frustrate, and voide of his purpose, and that death may fall vpon them, and that they may be taken in their sinne whiles they prouoke their God to anger, which is so oft times as they doe that which is not beseeming,

12 (For because their victuales faile, and all their water is wasted, they haue determined to take their cattel, and haue purposed to consume all things that God had forbidden them to eate by his lawes:

13 Yea, they haue purposed to consume the first fruites of the wheate, and the tithes of the wine, and of the oyle which they had reserued and sanctified for the Priestes that serue in Jerusalem before the face of our God: the which things it is not lawfull for any of the people to touch with their hands.

14 Moreouer they haue sent to Jerusalem, because they also that dwell there, haue done the like, such as should bring them licence from the Senate)

15 Now when they shall bring them worde, they will doe it, and they shall be giuen thee to be be destroyed the same day.

16 Wherefore I thine handmayd, knowing all this, am fledde from their presence, and God hath sent me to worke a thing with thee, whereof all the earth shall wonder, and whosoeuer shall heare it.

17 For thy seruaunt feareth God, and worshippeth the God of heauen day and night, and nowe let me remaine with thee, my lord, and let thy seruant goe out in the night into the valley, and I will pray vnto God, that hee may reueile vnto me when they shall commit their sinnes, 18 And I will come and shewe it vnto thee: then thou shalt goe forth with all thine armie, and there shall bee none of them that shall resist thee.

19 And I will leade thee through the middes of Iudea, vntill thou come before Ierusalem, and I will set thy throne in the middes thereof, and thou shalt driue them as sheepe that haue no shepheard, and a dogge shall not barke with his mouth against thee: for these things haue bene spoken vnto me, and declared vnto me according vnto my foreknowledge, and I am sent to shewe thee.

20 ¶ Then her wordes pleased Olofernes, and all his seruants, and they marueled at her wisedome, and said, 21 There is not such a woman in all the world, both for beautie of face, and wisedome of wordes.

22 Likewise Olofernes saide vnto her, God ‖hath done this, to sende thee before the people, that strength might be in our handes, and destruction vpon them that despise my lord.

‖Or, hath done well.

23 And nowe thou art both beautiful in thy countenance, and wittie in thy wordes: surely if thou doe as thou hast spoken, thy God shalbe my God, and thou shalt dwell in the house of Nabuchodonosor, and shalt bee renowmed throughout the whole earth.

CHAP. XII.

2 Iudeth woulde not pollute her selfe with the meate of the Gentiles. 5 Shee maketh her request that shee might goe out by night to pray. 11 Olofernes causeth her to come to the banquet.

THen he commaunded to bring her in where his treasures were layd, and bade that they should prepare for her of his owne meates, and that she should drinke of his owne wine.

Gene. 43. 32. dan. 1, 8. tobit 1, 11.

2 But Iudeth saide, *I may not eate of them, least there should bee an offence, but I can suffice my selfe with the things that I haue brought.

3 Then Olofernes sayde vnto her, If the things that thou hast, should faile, howe should we giue thee the like? for there is none with vs of thy nation.

4 Then said Iudeth vnto him, As thy soule liueth, my lorde, thine handmayde shall not spend those things that I haue, before the Lord worke by mine hande the things that hee hath determined.

5 Then the seruants of Olofernes brought her into the tent, and shee slept vntill midnight, and arose at the morning watch.

6 And sent to Olofernes, saying, Let my Lord commaund that thy handmayd may go forth vnto prayer.

7 Then Olofernes commaunded his garde that they shoulde not stay her: thus shee abode in the campe three dayes, and went out in the night into the valley of Bethulia, and washed her selfe in a fountaine, euen in the water by the campe.

8 And when she came out, shee prayed vnto the Lorde God of Israel, that hee would direct her way to the exaltation of the children of her people.

9 So she returned, and remained pure in the tent, vntill she ate her meate at euening.

10 ¶ And in the fourth day, Olofernes made a feast to his owne seruaunts onely, and called none of them to the banquet, that had the affaires in hand.

11 Then said he to Bagoas the eunuch who had charge ouer all that hee had, Goe and perswade this Hebrewe woman, which is with thee, that she come vnto vs and eate, and drinke with vs.

12 For it were a shame for vs, if wee should let such a woman alone, and not talke with her, and if wee do not allure her, she will mocke vs.

13 Then went Bagoas from the presence of Olofernes, and came to her, and sayde, Let not this faire maide make difficultie to goe into my lorde, and to be honoured in his presence, and to drinke wine with vs ioyfully, and to bee intreated as one of the daughters of the children of Assur, which remaine in the house of Nabuchodonosor.

14 Then said Iudeth vnto him, Who am I nowe, that I should gainesay my lord? Surely whatsoeuer pleaseth him, I will doe speedily, and it shall bee my ioy vnto the day of my death.

15 So shee arose and trimmed her with garments, and with all the ornaments of women, and her mayde went, and spredde forth her skinnes on the grounde ouer against Olofernes, which she had receiued of Bagoas for her daily vse, that shee might sit and eate vpon them.

16 Nowe when Iudeth came and sate downe, Olofernes heart was rauished with her, and his spirite was moued, and he desired greatly her company: for he had waited for the time to deceiue her from the day that hee had seene her.

17 Then sayde Olofernes vnto her, Drinke nowe and be merry with vs.

18 So Iudeth said, I drinke nowe, my lord, because my state is exalted this day more then euer it was since I was borne.

19 Then she tooke, and ate and dranke before him the things, that her mayde had prepared.

20 And Olofernes reioyced because of her, & dranke much more wine then hee had drunke at any time in one day since he was borne.

CHAP. XIII.

4 Iudeth prayeth for strength. 8 She smiteth off Olofernes necke. 10 She returneth to Bethulia and reioyceth her people.

NOwe when the euening was come, his seruants made haste to depart, and Bagoas shut his tent without, and dimissed those that were present, from the presence of his lorde, and they went to their beds: for they were all wearie, because the feast had bene long.

2 And

2 And Judeth was left alone in the tent, and Holofernes was stretched along upon his bed: for he was filled with *wine.

*Eccles. 31. 20, 25.

3 ¶ Nowe Judeth had commaunded her mayde to stande without her chamber, and to waite for her comming forth as she did daily: for she said, she would go forth to her prayers, and she spake to Bagoas according to the same purpose.

4 So all went forth of her presence, and none was left in the chamber, neither little nor great: then Judeth standing by his bed, sayde in her heart, O Lord God of all power, beholde at this present the workes of mine handes for the exaltation of Jerusalem.

5 For nowe is the time to helpe thine inheritance, and to execute mine enterprises, to the destruction of the enemies which are risen against vs.

6 Then she came to the post of the bed which was at Holofernes head, and tooke downe his fauchyn from thence,

7 And approched to the bed, and tooke holde of the haire of his head, and sayde, Strengthen me, O Lord God of Israel this day.

8 And thee smote twise vpon his necke with al her might, and she tooke away his head from him,

9 And rolled his body downe from the bed, and pulled downe the canopie from the pillars, and anon after shee went forth, and gaue Holofernes head to her mayde,

10 And shee put it in her scrippe of meate: so they twaine went together according to their custome vnto prayer, and passing through the tents, went about by that valley, and went vp the mountaine of Bethulia, and came to the gates thereof.

11 ¶ Then sayde Judeth a farre off to the watchmen at the gates, Open nowe the gate: God, euen our God is with vs to shewe his power yet in Jerusalem, and his force against his enemies, as he hath euen done this day.

12 Nowe when the men of her citie heard her voyce, they made haste to goe downe to the gate of their citie, and they called the Elders of the citie.

13 And they ranne al together both smal and great: for it was alsone their expectation, that shee should come. So they opened the gate and receiued her, & made a fire for a light, and stoode round about them twaine.

14 Then she sayde to them with a loud voyce, Praise God, praise God: for hee hath not taken away his mercie from the house of Israel, but hath destroyed our enemies by mine handes this night.

15 So shee tooke the head out of the scrippe and shewed it, and sayde vnto them, Beholde the head of Holofernes, the chiefe captaine of the armie of Assur, and beholde the canopie, wherein hee did lie in his drunkennesse, and the Lorde hath smitten him by the handes of a woman.

16 As the Lord liueth, who hath kept mee in my way that I went, my countenance hath deceiued him to his destruction, and he hath not committed sinne with mee by any pollution or villanie.

17 Then all the people were wonderfully astonished, and bowed themselues, and worshipped God, and sayde with one accord, Blessed bee thou, O our God, which hast this day brought to nought the enemies of thy people.

18 Then sayde Ozias vnto her, O daughter, blessed art thou of the most high God aboue all the women of the earth, and blessed bee the Lorde God, which hath created the heauens and the earth, which hath directed thee to the cutting off of the head of the chiefe of our enemies.

19 Surely this thine hope shall neuer depart out of the hearts of men: for they shall remember the power of God for euer.

20 And God turne these things to thee for a perpetuall prayse, and visite thee with good things, because thou hast not spared thy life, because of the affliction of our nation, but thou hast holpen our ruine, walking a streight way before our God. And all the people sayde, So bee it, so be it.

CHAP. XIIII.

1 Judeth causeth to hang vp the head of Holofernes. 10 Achior ioyneth himselfe to the people of God, 11 The Israelites goe out against the Assyrians.

THen said Judeth vnto them, Heare me also, my brethren, and * take this head, and hang it vpon the hiest place of your walles. 2. Mac. 15. 35.

2 And so soone as the morning shall appeare, and the sunne shall come forth vpon the earth, take you euery one his weapons, and goe forth euery valiant man out of the citie, and set you a captaine ouer them, as though you would goe downe into the fielde, towarde the watch of the Assyrians, but goe not downe.

3 Then they shal take their armour, and shal goe into their campe, and raise vp the captaines of the armie of Assur, and they shal runne to the tent of Holofernes, but shall not finde him: then feare shall fall vpon them, and they shall flee before your face.

4 So you and all that inhabite the coastes of Israel shall pursue them, and ouerthrowe them as they goe.

5 But before you doe these things, call mee Achior the Ammonite, that he may see, & know him that despised the house of Israel, and that sent him to vs as to death.

6 Then they called Achior out of the house of Ozias, and when hee was come and sawe the head of Holofernes in a certaine mans handes in the assemblie of the people, he fell downe on his face, and his spirit failed.

7 But when they had taken him vp, hee fell at Judeths feete, and reuerenced her, and sayde, Blessed art thou in all the tabernacle of Juda, and in all nations, which, hearing thy name, shall be astonished.

8 Nowe therefore tell mee all the things, that thou hast done in these dayes. Then Judeth declared vnto him in the midst of the people all that shee had done from the day that shee went forth, vntill that houre she spake vnto them.

9 And when shee had left off speaking, the people rejoyced with a great voyce, and made a noyse of gladnesse through their citie.

10 And Achior, seeing all things that God had done for Israel, beleeued in God vnfainedly, nedly, and circumcised the foreskin of his flesh, and was ioyned vnto the house of Israel vnto this day.

11 ¶ Assoone as the morning arose, they hanged the head of Holofernes out at the wall, and euery man tooke his weapons, and they went forth by bands vnto the straites of the mountaine.

12 But when the Assyrians saw them, they sent to their captaines, which went to the gouernours and chiefe captaines, and to all their rulers.

13 So they came to Holofernes tent, and said to him that had the charge of all his things, Waken our lord: for the slaues haue bene bold to come downe against vs to battell, that they may be destroyed for euer.

14 Then went in Bagoas, and knocked at the doore of the tent: for he thought that he had slept with Judeth.

15 But because none answered, he opened it, and went into the chamber, and found him cast vpon the floore, and his head was taken from him.

16 Therfore he cried with a loud voice, with weeping and mourning, and a mighty cry, and rent his garments.

17 After, he went into the tent of Judeth where she vsed to remayne, and found her not: then he leaped out to the people and cried, 18 These slaues haue committed wickednes: one woman of the Hebrewes hath brought shame vpon the house of King Nabuchodonosor: for behold, Holofernes lieth vpon the ground without an head.

19 When the captains of the Assyrians armie heard these words, they rent their coates, and their heart was wonderfully troubled, and there was a cry & a very great noyse throughout the campe.

CHAP. XV.

1 The Assyrians are afrayd and flee. 3 The Israelites pursue them. 8 Ioacim the hie Priest commeth to Bethulia to see Iudeth and to prayse God for her.

AND whē they that were in the tents, heard, they were astonished at the thing that was done.

2 And feare and trembling fell vpon them, so that there was no man that durst abide in the sight of his neighbour: but altogether amassed, they fled by euery way of the plaine and of the mountaines.

3 They also that had camped in the mountaines round about Bethulia, were put to flight: then the children of Israel, euery one that was a warriour among them rushed out vpon them.

4 Then sent Ozias to Bethomasthem, and to Bebai, and Chobai, and Chola, and to all the coastes of Israel, such as should declare vnto them the things that were done, and that all should rush forth vpon their enemies to destroy them.

5 Nowe when the children of Israel heard it, they all fell vpon them together vnto Choba: likewise also they that came from Jerusalem and from all the mountaines: for men had told them what things were done in the campe of their enemies, and they that were in Galaad and in Galile chased them with a great slaughter, vntill they came to Damascus and to the coastes thereof.

6 And the residue that dwelt at Bethulia, fell vpon the campe of Assur and spoyled them, and were greatly enriched.

7 And the children of Israel that returned from the slaughter, had the rest: & the villages and the cities that were in the mountaines and in the playne, had a great bootie, for the abundance was very great.

8 Then Joacim the hie Priest, and the ancients of the children of Israel that dwelt in Jerusalem, came to confirme the benefites that God had shewed to Israel, and to see Judeth, and to salute her.

9 And when they came vnto her, they blessed her with one accord, & sayd vnto her, Thou art the exaltation of Jerusalem: thou art the great glory of Israel: thou art the great reioycing of our nation.

10 Thou hast done all these things by thine hand: thou hast done much good to Israel, and God is pleased therewith: blessed be thou of the almightie Lord for euermore: and all the people sayd, So be it.

11 And the people spoiled the campe the space of thirtie dayes, and they gaue vnto Judeth Holofernes tent, and all his siluer, and beds, and bassins, and all his stuffe, and she tooke it & laied it on her mules, and made ready her charets, and laied them therron.

12 Then all the women of Israel came together to see her, & blessed her, and made a dance among them for her, and she tooke branches in her hand, & gaue also to the women that were with her.

13 They also crowned her with olives, & her that was with her, & she went before the people in the dance, leading all the women: and all the men of Israel followed in their armour, with crownes, and with songs in their mouthes.

CHAP. XVI.

Iudeth prayseth God with a song. 19 She offereth to the Lord Holofernes stuffe. 23 Her continence, life and death. 25 All Israel lamenteth her.

THen Judeth began this confession in all Israel, and all the people sang this song with a loud voyce.

2 And Judeth sayd, Begin vnto my God with tymbrels: sing to my Lorde with cymbals: tune vnto him a Psalme: exalt his prayse, and call vpon his Name.

3 For God breaketh the battels, and pitched his campe in the mids of the people, and deliuered me out of the hand of the persecuters.

4 Assur came from the mountaines forth of the North: he came with thousands in his armie, *whose multitude hath shut vp the riuers, and their horsemen haue couered the valleys. Chap. 2, 11, 15.

5 He sayd that he would burne vp my borders, and kill my young men with the sword, and dashe the sucking children against the ground, and make mine infants as a praie, and my virgins a spoyle.

6 But the Almightie Lorde hath brought them to nought by the hand of a woman.

7 For the mightie did not fall by the young men, neither did the sonnes of Titan smite him, nor the hie giants inuade him, but

Judeth

Judeth the daughter of Merari did discomfite him by the beautie of her countenance.

8 For she put off the garment of her widowhood, for the exaltation of those that were oppressed in Israel, and annointed her face with ointment, & bound up her haire in a coife, and tooke a linnen garment to deceiue him.

9 Her slippers rauished his eyes: her beautie tooke his mind prisoner, & the faulchion passed through his necke.

10 The Persians were astonished at her boldnesse, and the Medes were troubled with her hardinesse.

11 But mine afflicted reioyced, and my feeble ones shouted: then they feared, they lifted vp their voyce, and turned backe.

12 The children of maides pearced them, and wounded them as they fled away like children: they perished by the battell of the Lord.

13 I will sing vnto the Lord a song & praise, O Lord, thou art great & glorious, marueilous and mumcible in power.

Gen.1.24. Psal.33.9. 14 Let all thy creatures serue thee: *for thou hast spoken and they were made: thou hast sent thy spirit, and he made them vp: and there is none that can resist thy voyce.

15 For the mountaines leape vp from their foundations with the waters: the rockes melt at thy presence like wax: yet thou art merciful to them that feare thee.

16 For all sacrifice is too little for a sweete sauour, and all the fat is too little for thy burnt offering: but he that feareth the Lord, is great at all times.

17 Woe to the nations that rise vp against my kinred: the Lord almighty will take vengeance of them in the day of iudgement, in sending fire and wormes vpon their flesh, and they shall feele them and weepe for euer.

18 ¶ After, when they went vp to Jerusalem, they worshipped the Lord, and as soone as the people were purified, they offered their burnt offerings, & their free offerings, and their gifts.

19 Judeth also offered all the stuffe of Holofernes, which the people had giuen her, and gaue the canopie which she had taken off his bed, for an oblation to the Lord.

20 So the people reioyced in Jerusalem by the Sanctuarie for the space of three moneths, and Judeth remained with them.

21 After this time, euery one returned to his owne inheritance, and Judeth went to Bethulia, and remained in her owne possession, and was for her time honourable in all the countrey.

22 And many desired her, but none had her compasse all the dayes of her life, after that Manasses her husband was dead, and was gathered to ‖his people. ‖Or, her people.

23 But she increased more and more in honour, and waxed olde in her husbands house, being an hundreth and fiue yeere old, and made her maide free: so she died in Bethulia, and they buried her in the graue of her husband Manasses.

24 And *the house of Israel lamented her seuen dayes, and before she died, she did distribute her goods to all them that were neerest of kinred to Manasses her husband, and to them that were the neerest of her kinred. Gen.50.10.

25 And there was none that made the children of Israel any more afrayd in the dayes of Judeth, nor a long time after her death.

Esther.

Certaine portions of the storie of Esther, which are found in some Greeke and Latine translations: which follow in the tenth Chapter.

THen Mardocheus sayd, God hath done these things.

5 For I remember a dreame, which I sawe concerning these matters, and there was nothing thereof omitted.

6 A little fountaine which became a flood, and was a light, and as the sunne, and as much water, this flood was Esther whom the King maried, and made Queene.

7 And the two dragons are I and Aman.

8 And the people are they that are assembled to destroy the name of the Iewes.

9 And my people is Israel, which cryed to God, and are saued: for the Lord hath saued his people, and the Lord hath deliuered vs from all these euils, and God hath wrought signes and great wonders, which haue not bene done among the Gentiles.

10 Therefore hath he made two lottes, one for the people of God, and another for all the Gentiles.

11 And these two lots came before God for all nations, at the houre and time appointed, and in the day of iudgement.

12 So God remembred his owne people, and iustified his inheritance.

13 Therefore those dayes shall be vnto them in the moneth of Adar the fourteenth & fifteenth day of the same moneth, with an assemblie and ioy, and with gladnesse before God, accoording to the generations for euer among his people.

CHAP. XI.

IN the fourth yeere of the reigne of Ptolomeus and Cleopatra, Dositheus, who sayd hee was a Priest and Leuite, and Ptolomeus his sonne, that brought the former letters of Phurim, ‖Or, lottes.

2 In the second yeere of the reigne of great Artaxerxes, in the first day of the moneth Nisan, Mardocheus the sonne of Jarus, the sonne of Semei, the sonne of Cis of the tribe of Beniamin had a dreame,

3 A Iewe dwelling in the citie of Susis, a noble man, that bare office in the kings court.

4 He was also one of the captiuitie which Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon brought from from Jerusalem with Jechonias.

5 And this was his dreame, Beholde a noyse of a tempest with thunders and earthquakes, and uproze in the land.

6 Beholde, two great Dragons came foozth ready to fight one against another.

7 Their crie was great, whereby all the heathen were ready to fight against the righteous people.

8 And the same day was full of darkenesse and obscuritie, and trouble, and anguish: yea, aduersitie, and great affliction was upon the earth.

9 For then the righteous fearing their afflictions, were amazed, and being ready to die, cried unto God.

10 And while they were crying, the litle well grew into a great riuer, and flowed ouer with great waters.

11 The light and the sunne rose up, and the lowly were exalted, and deuoured the glorious.

12 Now when Mardocheus had seene this dreame, he awoke and rose up, and thought in his heart untill the night, what God would do, and so he desired to know all the matter.

CHAP. XII.

AT the same time dwelt Mardocheus in the Kings Court with Bagathas and Thara, the Kings eunuches and keepers of the palace.

Esther 2. 21. and 6. 2.

2 * But when he heard their purpose, & their imaginations, hee perceiued that they went about to lay their handes upon the King Artaxerres, and so he certified the King thereof.

3 Then caused the King to examine the two eunuches with torments, and when they had confessed it, they were put to death.

4 This the King caused to be put in the Chronicles, Mardocheus also wrote the same thing.

5 So the King commanded that Mardocheus should remaine in the Court, and for the aduertisement, he gaue him a reward.

6 But Aman the sonne of Amadathus the Agagite, which was in great honour and reputation with the King, went about to hurt Mardocheus & his people, because of the two eunuches of the King that were put to death.

CHAP. XIII.

1 The copie of the letters of Artaxerxes against the Iewes. 8 The prayer of Mardocheus.

Ioseph. antiq. lib. 11. cap. 6.

THe copie of the letters was this. The great King Artaxerxes writeth these thinges to the princes and gouernours that are under him from India unto Ethiopia in an hundred and seuen and twentie prouinces.

2 When I was made Lord ouer many people, and had subdued the whole earth unto my dominion, I woulde not exalt my selfe by the reason of my power, but purposed with equitie alway and gentlenesse to gouerne my subiects, and wholly to set them in a peaceable life, and thereby to bring my kingdome unto tranquillitie, that men might safely goe thorow on euery side, and to renew peace againe, which all men desire.

3 Now when I asked my counsellers how these thinges might be brought to passe, one that was conuersant with us of excellent wisdome, and constant in good will, and shewed himselfe to be of sure vdelitie, which had the second place in the kingdome, euen Aman,

4 Declared unto us, that in all nations there was scattered abroade a rebellious people, that had lawes contrary to all people, and haue alway despised the commandements of Kings, and so that this generall empire, that we haue begun, can not be gouerned without offence.

5 Seeing now we perceiue that this people alone are altogether contrary unto euerie man, using strange and other maner of lawes, and hauing an euill opinion of our doinges, and goe about to stablish wicked matters, that our kingdome shoulde not come to good estate,

6 Therefore haue we commaunded that all they that are appointed in writing unto you by Aman (which is ordeined ouer the affaires, and is as our second father) shall all with their wiues and children bee destroyed and rooted out with the swoide of their enemies without all mercie, and that none bee spared the foureteenth day of the twelft moneth Adar of this yere,

7 That they which of olde, and nowe also haue euer bene rebellious, may in one day with violence be thrust downe into the hell, to the intent that after this time our affaires may be without troubles and well gouerned in all points.

8 Then Mardocheus thought upon all the workes and of the Lorde, and made his prayer unto him, 9 Saying, O Lord, Lord, the king almightie (for all thinges are in thy power) and if thou hast appointed to saue Israel, there is no man that can withstand thee.

10 For thou hast made heauen & earth, and all the wonderous things under the heauen.

11 Thou art Lord of all things, and there is no man that can resist thee, which art the Lord.

12 Thou knowest all thinges, and thou knowest, Lorde, that it was neither of malice, nor presumption, nor for any desire of glorie, that I did this, and not bowe downe to proud Aman.

13 For I would haue bin content with good will for the saluation of Israel to haue kissed the sole of his feet.

14 But I did it, because I woulde not prefer the honor of a man aboue the glory of God, and would not worship any but onely thee, my Lord, and this haue I not done of pride.

15 And therefore, O Lorde God and King, haue mercy upon thy people: for they imagine howe they may bring us to nought, yea, they woulde destroy the inheritance, that hath bene thine from the beginning.

16 Despise not the portion which thou hast deliuered out of Egypt for thine owne selfe.

17 Heare my prayer, and bee mercifull unto thy portion: turne our sorowe into ioye, that we may liue, O Lorde, and praise thy Name: shutte not the mouthes of them that praise thee.

18 All Israel in like maner cried most earnestly unto the Lorde, because that death was before their eyes.

CHAP. XIIII.

The prayer of Esther for the deliuerance of her, and her people.

QVeene Esther also, being in daunger of death, resorted vnto the Lord,

2 And layed away her glorious apparell, and put on the garments of lighing, and mourning. In the stead of precious ointment, shee scattered ashes and dong vpon her head: and she humbled her body greatly with fasting, and all the places of her ioy filled she with the haire that she pluckt off.

3 And she prayed vnto the Lord God of Israel, saying, O my Lord, thou only art our king: helpe me desolate woman, which haue no helper but thee.

4 For my danger is at hand.

5 From my youth vp I haue heard in the kindred of my father, that thou, O Lord, tookest Israel from among all people, and our fathers from their predecessours for a perpetuall inheritance, and thou hast performed that which thou didst promise them.

6 Now Lorde, wee haue sinned before thee: therefore hast thou giuen vs into the handes of our enemies,

7 Because wee worshipped their gods: O Lord, thou art righteous.

8 Neuertheless, it satisfieth them not, that we are in bitter captiuitie, but they haue stroken hands with their idoles,

9 That they will abolish the thing that thou with thy mouth hast ordeined, & destroy thine inheritance, to shut vp the mouth of them that praise thee, & to quench the glory of thy Temple, and of thine altar,

10 And to open the mouthes of the heathen, that they may praise the power of the idoles, and to magnifie a fleshly king for euer.

11 O Lorde, giue not thy scepter vnto them that be nothing, least they laugh vs to scorne in our miserie: but turne their deuice vpon themselues, and make him an example, that hath begun the same against vs.

12 Thinke vpon vs, O Lorde, and shew thy selfe vnto vs in the time of our distresse, and strengthen me, O King of gods, and Lord of all power.

13 Giue me an eloquent speech in my mouth before the lion: turne his heart to hate our enemie, to destroy him, and all such as consent vnto him.

14 But deliuer vs with thine hande, & helpe me that am solitarie, which haue no defence but onely thee.

15 Thou knowest all thinges, O Lord: thou knowest, that I hate the glory of the vnrighteous, and that I abhorre the bed of the vncircumcised, and of all the heathen.

16 Thou knowest my necessitie: for I hate this token of my preeminence, which I beare vpon mine head, what time as I must shew my selfe, & that I abhorre it as a menstruous cloth, and that I weare it not when I am alone by my selfe,

17 And that I thine handmaid haue not eaten at Amans table, & that I haue had no pleasure in the Kings feast, nor drunke the wine of the drinke offerings,

18 And that I thine handmayd haue no ioy since the day that I was brought hither vntill this day, but in thee, O Lord God of Abraham.

19 O thou mightie God aboue all, heare the voice of them, that haue none other hope, and deliuer vs out of the hand of the wicked, and deliuer me out of my feare.

CHAP. XV.

1 Mardocheus moueth Esther to goe in to the King, and make intercession for her people. 9 And she performeth his request.

MArdocheus also bade Esther to goe in vnto the King, and pray for her people, and for her countrey.

2 Remember, saith he, the dayes of thy lowe estate, howe thou wast nourished vnder mine hand: for Aman which is next vnto the King, hath giuen sentence of death against vs.

3 Call thou therefore vpon the Lorde, and speake for vs vnto the King, & deliuer vs from death.

4 And vpon the third day when she had ended her prayer, shee layed away the mourning garments, and put on her glorious apparell,

5 And decked her selfe goodly, after that shee had called vpon God, which is the beholder and Sauiour of all thinges, and tooke two handmaids with her.

6 Vpon the one shee leaned her selfe, as one that was tender:

7 And the other followed her, and bare the traine of her vesture.

8 The shine of her beautie made her face rose coloured: and her face was cheerefull and amiable, but her heart was sorrowfull for great feare.

9 Then shee went in thorow all the doores, and stood before the king, and the king sate vpon his royall throne, and was clothed in his goodly arap, all glittering with golde and precious stones, and he was very terrible.

10 Then hee lift vp his face that shone with maiestie, and looked fiercely vpon her: therefore the Queene fell downe, and was pale and faint, and leaned her selfe vpon the head of the maid that went with her.

11 Neuertheless, God turned the Kinges minde that he was gentle, who being carefull, leaped out of his throne, and tooke her in his armes, till shee came to her selfe againe: and comforted her with louing words, and said,

12 Esther, what is the matter? I am thy brother, be of good cheere, 13 Thou shalt not die: for our commaundement toucheth the commons, & not thee. Come neere.

14 And so he held vp his golden scepter, and layd it vpon her necke, 15 And kissed her, and said, Talke with me.

16 Then sayd shee, I saw thee, O lorde, as an angell of God, and mine heart was troubled for feare of thy maiestie.

17 For wonderfull art thou, O lord, and thy face is full of grace.

18 And as she was thus speaking vnto him, she fell downe againe for faintnesse.

19 Then the king was troubled, and all his seruants comforted her.

CHAP. XVI.

The copie of the letters of Artaxerxes, whereby he reuoketh those which he first sent forth.

The

Ioseph. Ant. 11. cap. 6.

THe great King Artarerres, which reigneth from India vnto Ethiopia, ouer an hundreth and seuen and twentie prouinces, sendeth vnto the princes & rulers that haue the charge of our affaires, Salutation.

2 There be many that through the goodnes of Princes and honour giuen vnto them, become very proud,

3 And indeuour not onely to hurt our subiects, but not content to liue in wealth, doe also imagine destruction against those that do them good,

4 And take not onely all thankefulnesse away from men, but in pride and presumption, as they that bee vnmyndefull of benefites, they thinke to escape the vengeance of God, that seeth all things, and is contrary to euill.

5 And oft times many, which bee set in office, and vnto whome their friendes causes are committed, by vaine inuisements doe wrappe them in calamities, that can not bee remedied: for they make them partakers of innocent blood,

6 And deceitfully abuse the simplicitie and gentlenesse of Princes with lying tales.

7 This may bee prooued not onely by olde histories, but also by those things that are before our eyes, and are wickedly committed of such pestilences as are not worthie to beare rule.

8 Therefore wee must take heede hereafter that we may make the kingdome peaceable for all men, what change soeuer shall come,

9 And discerne the things that are before our eyes, to withstand them with gentlenesse.

10 For Aman, a Macedonian, the sonne of Amadathus, being in deed a stranger from the Persians blood, and farre from our goodnesse, was receiued of vs, 11 And hath prooued the friendship that we beare toward all nations, so that he was called our father, and was honoured of euery man, as the next person vnto the king.

12 But he couldo not vse himselfe soberly in this great dignitie, but went about to depriue vs of the kingdome, and of our life.

13 With manifolde deceite also hath he desired to destroy Mardochens our preseruer, which hath done vs good in all things, and innocent Esther the partaker of our kingdome, with all her nation.

14 For his minde was (when he had taken them out of the way) to take waste for vs, and by this meanes to translate the kingdome of the Persians vnto them of Macedonia.

15 But wee finde that the Iewes (which were accused of this most wicked man that they might be destroyed) are no euill doers, but vse most iust Lawes, 16 And that they be the children of the most high & almighty and euerliuing God, by whom the kingdome hath bene preserued vnto vs, and our progenitours in very good order.

17 Wherefore ye shall doe well, if ye doe not put in execution those letters that Aman the sonne of Amadathus did write vnto you.

18 For hee that inuented them, hangeth at Susis before the gates with all his familie, and God (which hath all things in his power) hath speedily rewarded him after his deseruing.

19 Therefore yee shall publish the copie of this letter in all places, that the Iewes may freely liue after their owne Lawes.

20 And yee shall ayde them, that vpon the thirteenth day of the twelfth moneth Adar they may bee auenged of them, which in the time of their trouble would haue oppressed them.

21 For Almightie God hath turned to ioye the day, wherein the chosen people should haue perished.

22 Moreouer, among other solemne dayes, ye shall keepe this day with all gladnesse, 23 That both now and in time to come, this day may bee a remembrance of deliuerance for vs and all such as loue the prosperitie of the Persians, but a remembrance of destruction to those that be seditious vnto vs.

24 Therefore all cities and countreyes that doe not this, shall horribly bee destroyed with sword and fire, and shall not onely not be inhabited of men, but be abhorred also of the wilde beastes and foules for euer.

The Wisdome of Salomon.

CHAP. I.

1 How wee ought to search and enquire after God. 2 Who bee those that finde him. 5 The holy Ghost. 8. 11 Wee ought to flee from backbiting and murmuring. 12 Whereof Death commeth. 15 Righteousnesse and vnrighteousnesse.

1. King. 3. 3. Isa. 56. 1.

LOue * righteousnesse, ye that bee Iudges of the earth: thinke reuerently of the Lord, and seeke him in simplicitie of heart.

Deut. 4. 29. 2. chro. 15. 4.

2 * For he will be found of them that tempt him not, and appeareth vnto such as be not vnfaithfull vnto him.

3 For wicked thoughts separate from God: and his power when it is tryed, reproueth the vnwise,

4 Because wisedome can not enter into a wicked heart, nor dwell in the body that is subiect vnto sinne.

5 For the holy * Spirit of discipline fleeth from deceite, and withdraweth himselfe from the thoughts that are without vnderstanding, and is rebuked when wickednesse commeth. Iere. 4. 22.

6 For the Spirite of wisdome * is louing, and will not absolue him, that blaspheameth with his lippes: for God is a witnesse of his reines, and a true beholder of his heart, and an hearer of the tongue. Gala. 5. 22.

7 For the Spirite of the Lord filleth all the world: and the same that maintaineth all things, hath knowledge of the voyce.

8 Therefore hee that speaketh vnrighteous things, cannot be hid: neither shall the iudgement of reproch let him escape.

9 For inquisition shall bee made for the thoughts of the vngodly, and the sounde of his wordes shall come vnto God for the correction of his iniquities.

10 For the care of iealousie heareth al things, and the noyse of the grudgings that not be hid.

11 Therefore beware of murmuring, which profiteth nothing, and refraine your tongue from slaunder: for there is no word so secrete, that shall goe for nought, and the mouth that speaketh lies, slayeth the soule.

12 Seeke not death in the errour of your life: * destroy not your selues through the workes of your owne hands. Deut.4.23.

13 * For God hath not made death, neither hath hee pleasure in the destruction of the liuing. Ezek.18.23. and 33.11.

14 For he created all things, that they might haue their being: and the generations of the worlde are preserued, and there is no poyson of destruction in them, and the kingdome of hel is not vpon earth.

15 For righteousnesse is immortall, but vnrighteousnesse bringeth death.

16 And the vngodly call [a] it vnto them both with hands and words: and while they thinke to haue a friend of it, they come to nought: for they are confederate with it: therefore are they worthy to be partakers thereof. a To wit, death.

CHAP. II.

The imagination and desires of the wicked, and their counsell against the faithfull.

FOr the vngodly say, as they falsly imagine with themselues, * Our life is short and tedious: and in the death of a man there is no couerte, neither was any knowen that hath returned from the graue. Iob.7.1. and 14.1. matt. 22.23. 1. cor. 15.32.

2 For wee are borne at all aduenture, and we shall be hereafter as though wee had neuer bene: for the breath is a smoke in our nostrels, and the worde as a sparke raysed out of our heart,

3 Which being extinguished, the body is turned into ashes, and the spirite vanisheth as the soft ayre.

4 Our life shall passe away as the trace of a cloude, and come to nought as the mist that is driuen away with the beames of the sunne, and cast downe with the heate thereof. Our name also shall be forgotten in time, and no man shall haue our workes in remembrance.

5 * For our time is as a shadowe that passeth away, and after our ende there is no returning: for it is fast sealed, so that no man commeth againe. 1. Chr. 29.15. chap. 5.9.

6 * Come therefore, & let vs enioy the pleasures that are present, and let vs cheerefully vse the creatures as in youth. Isa. 22.13. & 56.12. 1. cor. 15.32.

7 Let vs fill our selues with costly wine and oyntments, and let not the floure of life passe by vs.

8 Let vs crowne our selues with rose buds afore they be withered.

9 Let vs all bee partakers of our wantonnesse: let vs leaue some token of our pleasure in euery place: for that is our portion and this is our lotte.

10 Let vs oppresse the poore that is righteous: let vs not spare the widow, nor reuerence the white haires of the aged, that haue liued many yeeres.

11 Let our strength be the lawe of vnrighteousnesse: for the thing that is feeble, is reproued as vnprofitable.

12 Therefore let vs defraude the righteous, for he is not for our profite, and hee is contrary to our doings: hee checketh vs for offending against the lawe, and blameth vs as transgressours of discipline.

13 Hee maketh his boast to haue the knowledge of God: and he calleth himselfe the sonne of the Lord.

14 Hee is made * to reproone our thoughts. Iohn 7.7.

15 It grieueth vs also to looke * vpon him: for his life is not like other mens: his wayes are of another fashion. Ephes. 5.13. Isa. 53.3.

16 Hee counteth vs as bastardes, and hee withdraweth him selfe from our wayes as from filthinesse: hee commendeth greatly the latter ende of the iust, and boasteth that God is his Father.

17 Let vs see then if his wordes be true: let vs proone what ende he shall haue.

18 For if the righteous man bee the * sonne of God, he will helpe him, and deliuer him from the hands of his enemies. Psal. 22.8.9. matt. 27.43.

19 Let vs * examine him with rebukes and torments, that we may knowe his meekenesse, and proone his patience. Iere. 11.19.

20 Let vs condemne him vnto a shamefull death: for he shall be preserued as hee himselfe saith.

21 Such things doe they imagine, and goe astray: for their owne wickednesse hath blinded them.

22 And they doe not vnderstand the mysteries of God, neither hope for the reward of righteousnesse, nor can discerne the honour of the soules that are faultlesse.

23 For God created man without corruption, and made him after the * image of his owne likenesse. Gen. 1.27. & 2.7. and 5.1.

24 * Neuertheless, through enuie of the deuill came death into the world: and they that holde of his side, proone it. ecclus. 17. 2,3. Gen. 3.1,2.

CHAP. III.

1 The conuersation and assurance of the righteous. 7 The reward of the faithfull. 11 Who are miserable.

BVt the * soules of the righteous are in the hand of God, and no torment shall touch them. Deut. 33.3.

2 * In the sight of the vnwise they appeared to die, and their ende was thought grieuous. Chap. 5.4.

3 And their departing from vs, destruction, but they are in peace.

4 And though they suffer paine before men, yet is * their hope full of immortalitie. Rom. 8.24.

5 They are punished but in fewe things, yet in many things shall they bee well rewarded: * For God prooueth them, and findeth them meete for himselfe. 2. cor. 5.1. 1. pet. 1.13. Exod. 16.4. deut. 8.2.

6 He trieth them as the gold in the furnace, and receiueth them as a perfite fruite offering.

7 * And in the time of their vision they shall shine, and runne thorow as the sparkes among the stubble. Mat. 13.43.

8 They * shall iudge the nations, and haue dominion ouer the people, and their Lord shall reigne for euer. Mat. 19.28. 1. cor. 6.2.

9 They that trust in him, shall vnderstand the trueth, and the faithfull shall remaine with him in loue: for grace and mercy is among his Saints, and he regardeth his elect.

10 * But the vngodly shall be punished according to their imaginations: for they haue despised Matt. 25.41.

despised the righteous, and forsaken the Lord.

11 Who so despiseth wisedom, and discipline, is miserable, and their hope is vaine, and their labours are foolish, and their workes unprofitable.

12 Their wiues are undiscreete, & their children wicked: their offering is cursed.

13 Therefore the barren is blessed which is undefiled, and knoweth not the sinfull bed: *she shall haue fruit in the visitation of the soules. Isa.56.5.

14 And the Eunuch, which with his hands hath not wrought iniquitie, nor imagined wicked things against God: for vnto him shall bee giuen the speciall gift of faith, and an acceptable portion in the Temple of the Lord.

15 For glorious is the fruite of good labours, and the roote of wisedom shal neuer fade away.

16 But the children of adulterers shal not be partakers of the holy things, and the seed of the wicked bed shalbe rooted out.

17 And though they liue long, yet shall they be nothing regarded, and their last age shall bee without honour.

18 If they die hastily, they haue no hope, neither comfort in the day of triall.

19 For horrible is the end of the wicked generation.

CHAP. IIII.

Of vertue and the commoditie thereof. 10 The death of the righteous and condemnation of the vnfaithfull.

BEtter is barrennesse with vertue: for the memorial thereof is immortal: for it is knowen with God and with men.

2 When it is present, men take example thereat, and if it goe away, yet they desire it: it is alway crowned & triumpheth, and winneth the battell and the undefiled rewards.

3 But the multitude of the vngodly which abound in children is vnprofitable: and the bastard plantes shall take no deepe roote, nor lay any fast foundation.

4 For though they bud forth in the branches for a time, * yet they shall bee shaken with the winde: for they stand not fast, and through the vehemencie of the winde they shalbe rooted out. Mat.7.19.

5 For the vnperfect branches shalbe broken, and their fruite shall be vnprofitable and sowre to eate, and meete for nothing.

6 For all the children that are borne of the wicked bed, shall be witnesse of the wickednesse against their parents when they be asked.

7 But though the righteous bee preuented with death, yet shall he be in rest.

8 For the honourable age is not that which is of long time, neither that which is measured by the number of yeeres.

9 But wisedome is the grap haire, and an undefiled life is the old age.

10 * Hee pleased God, and was beloued of him, so that where as he liued amog sinners, he translated him. Gen.5.24. Hebr.11.5.

11 Hee was taken away, least wickednesse should alter his vnderstanding, or deceit begvile his mind.

12 For wickednesse by bewitching obscureth the things that are good, & the vnstedfastnesse of concupiscence peruerteth the simple mind.

13 Though hee was soone dead, yet fulfilled he much time.

14 For his soule pleased God: therefore hasted he to take him away from wickednesse.

15 Yet the people see and vnderstand it not, and consider no such things in their hearts, how that grace and mercy is vpon his saints, and his prouidence ouer the elect.

16 Thus the righteous that is dead, condemneth the vngodly which are liuing: & the youth that is soone brought to an end, the long life of the vnrighteous.

17 For they see the ende of the wise, but they vnderstand not what God hath deuised for him, and wherefore the Lord hath preserued him in safetie.

18 They see him & despise him, but the Lord will laugh them to scorne, 19 So that they shall fall hereafter without honour, and shall haue a shame among the dead for euermore: for without any voyce shall hee burst them, and cast them downe, & shake them from the foundations, so that they shall bee vtterly wasted, and they shalbe in sorow, and their memoriall shall perish.

20 So they being afrayd, shall remember their sinnes, and their owne wickednesse shall come before them to conuince them.

CHAP. V.

1 The constantnesse of the righteous before their persecutours. 14 The hope of the vnfaithfull is vaine. 15 The blessednes of the Saints and godly.

THen shall the righteous stand in great boldnesse before the face of such as haue tormented him, and taken away his labours.

2 When they see him, they shalbe vexed with horrible feare, and shall be amased for his wonderfull deliuerance,

3 And shall change their mindes, and sigh for griefe of minde, and say within themselues, This is he whom wee sometime had in derision, and in a parable of reproch.

4 *We fooles thought his life madnesse, and his end without honour. Chap.3.2.

5 How is hee counted among the children of God, and his portion is among the Saints!

6 Therefore we haue erred from the way of trueth, and the light of righteousnesse hath not shined vnto vs, and the sunne of vnderstanding rose not vpon vs.

7 We haue wearied our selues in the way of wickednesse and destruction, and we haue gone through dangerous wayes: but wee haue not knowen the way of the Lord.

8 What hath pride profited vs? or what profite hath the pompe of riches brought vs?

9 All those things are *passed away like a shadow, and as a poste that passeth by: 1.Chro.29.15.chap.2.5.

10 As a ship that passeth ouer the waues of the water, which when it is gone by, the trace thereof cannot be found, neither the path of it in the floods:

11 Or * as a bird that flieth through in the aire, and no man can see any token of her passage, but onely heare the noyse of her wings, beating the light winde, parting the ayre through the vehemencie of her going, and flieth on shaking her wings, whereas afterward no token of her way can be found: Pro.30.19.

12 Or as when an arrow is shot at a marke, it parteth the ayre, which immediately commeth together againe, so that a man cannot know where it went thorow.

13 Euen so we, as soone as wee were borne we began to draw to our end, and haue shewed no token of vertue, but are consumed in our owne wickednesse.

Iob 8.9.psal. 14.4.& 143. 4.pro.10.25. & 11.7. ier. 8.10,11.

14 For * the hope of the vngodly is like the dust that is blowen away with the winde, and like a thin some that is scattered abroad with the storme, and as the smoke which is dispersed with the wind, and as the remembrance of him passeth, that tarieth but for a day.

15 But the righteous shal liue for euer: their reward also is with the Lord, & the most High hath care of them.

16 Therefore they shall receiue a glorious kingdom, and a beautifull crowne of the Lords hand: for with his right hand shall hee couer them, and with his arme shall he defend them.

17 He shall take his iealousie for armour, and shall arme the creatures to bee reuenged of the enemies.

18 He shall put on righteousnes for a breastplate, and take true iudgement in stead of an helmet.

19 Hee will take holinesse for an inuincible shield.

20 Hee will sharpen his fierce wrath for a sword, & the world shall fight with him against the vnwise.

21 Then shall the thunderbolts goe straight out of the lightnings, and shall flie to the marke as out of the bent bowe of the cloudes, and out of his anger that throweth stones, shall thicke haile bee cast, and the water of the sea shall bee wroth against them, and the floods shall mightily ouerflow.

22 And a mighty wind shal stand vp against them, and like a storme shall scatter thē abroad. Thus iniquitie shal bring all the earth to a wildernesse, and wickednesse shall ouerthrow the thrones of the mighty.

CHAP. VI.

The calling of Kings, Princes, & Iudges, which are also exhorted to search wisdome.

HEare therefore, O ye Kings, & vnderstand: learne ye that be Iudges of the ends of the earth.

2 Giue eare, ye that rule the multitudes and glory in the multitude of people.

Rom.13.2. 3 For the* rule is giuen you of the Lord, and power by the most High, which will try your workes, and search out your imaginations.

4 Because that ye being Officers of his kingdom haue not iudged aright, nor kept the Law, nor walked after the will of God,

5 Horribly and suddenly will he appeare vnto you: for an hard iudgement shall they haue that beare rule.

6 For he that is most lowe, is worthy mercie, but the mightie shall bee mightily tormented.

Deut.10.17. 2.chro.19.7. Iob 34.19. eccli. 35.12, 26.acts 10. 34.rom.2.11 gal.2.6.ephe. 6.9.colos.3. 25.1.pet.1. 17.

7 For he that is Lord ouer all, will spare no * person, neither shall hee feare any greatnesse: for he hath made the small and great, and careth for all alike,

8 But for the mighty abideth the surer triall.

9 Vnto you therefore, O tyrants, do I speake, that ye may learne wisedome, & not goe amisse.

10 For they that keepe holinesse holily, shall bee holy, and they that are learned there, shall finde a defence.

11 Wherefore set your delight vpō my words and desire them, and ye shalbe instructed.

12 Wisedome shineth & neuer fadeth away, and is easily seene of them that loue her, and found of such as seeke her, 13 She preuenteth them that desire her, that she may first shew her selfe vnto them.

14 Who so awaketh vnto her betimes, shall haue no great trauaile: for he shall find her sitting at his doores.

15 To thinke vpon her then is perfite vnderstanding: and who so watcheth for her, shall be soone without care.

16 For she goeth about, seeking such as are meete for her, and sheweth her selfe cheerefully vnto them in the wayes, and meeteth them in euery thought.

17 For the most true desire of discipline is her beginning: and the care of discipline is loue:

18 And loue is the keeping of her lawes: and the keeping of the lawes is the assurance of immortalitie:

19 And immortalitie maketh vs neere vnto God.

20 Therefore the desire of wisedome leadeth to the kingdome.

21 If your delight be then in thrones, & scepters, O kings of the people, honour wisedome, that ye may reigne for euer.

22 Now I will tell you what wisedome is, and whence it commeth, and will not hide the mysteries from you, but will seeke her out from the beginning of her nativitie, and bring the knowledge of her into light, and will not keepe backe the trueth.

23 Neither will I haue to doe with consuming enuie: for such a man shall not be partaker of wisedome.

24 But the multitude of the wise is the preservation of the world, and a wise King is the stay of the people.

25 Bee therefore instructed by my words, and ye shall haue profite.

CHAP. VII.

Wisedome ought to be preferred aboue all things.

I My selfe am also mortall and a man like all other, and am come of him that was first made of the earth.

2 And in my mothers wombe was I fashioned to be flesh in ten moneths: I was* brought together into blood of the seed of man, & by the pleasure that commeth with sleepe.

Iob 10.10, 11.

3 And when I was borne, I receiued the common aire, and fell vpon the earth, which is of like nature, crying and weeping at the first as all other doe.

4 I was nourished in swadling clothes, and with cares.

5 For there is no King that had any other beginning of birth.

6 All *men then haue one entrance vnto life, and a like going out.

Iob 1.21. 1.tim.6.7.

7 Wherefore I praied, and vnderstanding was giuen me: I called, and the spirite of wisedome came vnto me.

8 I preferred her to scepters & thrones, and counted riches nothing in comparison of her.

9 * Neither did I compare precious stones vnto her: for all gold is but a little grauell in respect of her, and siluer shall bee counted Iob 28.15.

but

but clap before her.

10 I loued her aboue health and beautie, and purposed to take her for my light: for her light cannot be quenched.

1. Kin. 3. 13. matth. 6. 33. 11 All *good things therefore came to me together with her, and innumerable riches thorow her hands.

12 So I was glad in all: for wisedome was the author thereof, and I knewe not that shee was the mother of these things.

13 And I learned vnfainedly, and communicated without enuie, and I doe not hide her riches.

14 For shee is an infinite treasure vnto men, which who so vse, become partakers of the loue of God, and are accepted for the gifts of knowledge.

15 God hath graunted mee to speake according to my minde, and to iudge worthily of the things, that are giuen mee: for hee is the leader vnto wisedome, and the directer of the wise.

16 For in his hande are both wee and our wordes, and all wisedome, and the knowledge of the workes.

17 For he hath giuen me the true knowledge of the things that are, so that I knowe how the worlde was made, and the powers of the elements.

18 The beginning and the ende, and the mids of the times: howe the times alter, & the change of the seasons,

19 The course of the peere, the situation of the starres,

20 The nature of liuing things, and the furiousnesse of beastes, the power of the windes, and the imaginations of men, the diuersities of plants, and the vertues of rootes.

21 And all things both secret and knowen do I knowe: for wisedome the worker of all things hath taught me it.

22 For in her is the spirite of vnderstanding, which is holy, the only begotten, manifolde, subtil, moueable, cleare, vndefiled, euident, not hurtfull, louing the good, sharpe, which cannot bee be letted, doing good,

23 Courteous, stable, sure, without care, hauing all power, circumspect in all things, and passing through all intellectuall, pure, and subtil spirits.

24 For wisedome is nimbler then all nimble things: shee goeth throwe and atteineth to all things, because of her pureneſſe.

25 For she is the breath of the power of God, and a pure influence that floweth from the glorie of the Almightie: therefore can no defiled thing come vnto her.

Hebr. 1, 3. 26 For * she is the brightneſſe of the euerlasting light, the vndefiled mirrour of the Maiestie of God, and the image of his goodneſſe.

27 And being one, shee can doe all things, and remayning in her selfe, renueth all, and according to the ages she entreth into the holy soules, and maketh them the friendes of God and Prophets.

28 For God loueth none, if he dwel not with wisedome.

29 For she is more beautifull then the sunne, and is aboue all the order of the starres, and the light is not to be compared vnto her.

30 For night commeth vpon it, but wickednesse cannot ouercome wisedome.

CHAP. VIII.

The effects of wisedome.

SHee also reacheth from one ende to another mightily, and comely doeth shee order all things.

2 I haue loued her, and sought her from my youth: I desired to marrie her, such loue had I vnto her beautie.

3 In that she is conuersant with God, it commendeth her nobilitie: yea, the Lord of al things loueth her.

4 For shee is the Schoolemistresse of the knowledge of God, and the chooser out of his workes.

5 If riches be a possession to be desired in this life, what is richer then wisedome, that worketh all things?

6 For if prudencie worketh, what is it among all things that worketh better then she?

7 If a man loue righteousnesse, her labours are vertuous: for shee teacheth soberneſſe and prudencie, righteousnes and strength, which are the most profitable things that men can haue in this life.

8 If a man desire great experience, shee can tell the things that are past, and discerne things to come: shee knoweth the subtilties of wordes, and the solutions of darke sentences: shee foreseeth the signes and wonders, or euer they come to passe, and the successe of seasons and times.

9 Therefore I purposed to take her vnto my companie, knowing that shee would counsell mee good things, and comfort me in cares and griefes.

10 For her sake shall I haue glorie among the multitude, and honour among the Elders though I be yong.

11 I shall bee founde of sharpe iudgement, so that I shall be marueilous in the sight of great men.

12 When I hold my tongue, they shall abide my leasure: when I speake, they shall heare diligently, and if I talke much, they shall lay their hands vpon their mouth.

13 Moreouer, by her I shall obteine immortalitie, and leaue an euerlasting memoriall among them that come after me.

14 I shall gouerne the people, and the nations shalbe subdued vnto me.

15 Horrible tyrants shalbe afraide when they heare me: among the multitude I shalbe counted good, and mightie in battell.

16 When I come home I shal rest with her: for her companie hath no bitternesse, and her fellowship hath no tediousnesse, but mirth and ioy.

17 Nowe when I considered these things by my selfe, and pondered them in mine heart, howe that to bee ioyned vnto wisedome is immortalitie, 18 And great pleasure is in her friendship, and that in the workes of her hands are infinite riches, and that in the exercise of talking with her is prudencie, & glorie by communing with her, I went about, seeking howe I might take her vnto me.

19 For I was a wittie childe, and was of a good spirit.

20 Yea, rather being good, I came to an vndefiled body.

21 Neuertheleſſe, when I perceiued that I could not enioy her, except God gaue her (and that was a point of wisedome also, to knowe whose gift it was) I went vnto the Lorde, and besought him, and with my whole heart I saide,

CHAP. IX.

A prayer of Salomon to obtaine wisedome.

O God of fathers, and Lord of mercie, which hast made all things with thy word,

2 And ordained man through thy wisdome, that hee should haue * dominion ouer the creatures which thou hast made,

Gen. 1.1,28.

3 And gouerne the world according to equitie and righteousnesse, and execute iudgement with an vpright heart:

4 Giue me * that wisedome, which sitteth by thy throne, and put me not out from among thy children.

1.*Kin.*3.9.

*Psal.*116.16.

5 For I * thy seruaunt, and sonne of thine handmaide, am a feeble person, and of a short time, & yet lesse in the vnderstanding of iudgement and the lawes.

6 And though a man bee neuer so perfite among the children of men, yet if thy wisedome be not with him, he shalbe nothing regarded.

1.*Chro.*28.5. 2.*chro.*1.9.

7 * Thou hast chosen me to be a King of thy people, and the iudge of thy sonnes and daughters.

8 Thou hast commaunded mee to builde a Temple vpon thine holy Mount, and an altar in the citie, wherein thou dwellest, a likeneste of thine holy Tabernacle, which thou hast prepared from the beginning,

*Prou.*8.22. Iohn 1.1,2, 3,10.

9 And thy * wisedome with thee, which knoweth thy workes, which also was when thou madest the world, and which knewe what was acceptable in thy sight, and right in thy commandements.

10 Send her out of thine holy heauens, and sende her from the throne of thy Maiestie, that shee may bee with mee, and labour, that I may know what is acceptable in thy sight.

11 For shee knoweth and vnderstandeth all things, and shee shall leade mee soberly in my workes, and preserue me in her glory.

12 So shall my workes bee acceptable, and then shall I gouerne thy people righteously, and be meete for my fathers throne.

*Esa.*40.13. *rom.*11.34. 1.*cor.*2.16.

13 For * what man is he that can know the counsell of God? or who can thinke what the will of God is?

14 For the thoughtes of mortall men are fearefull, and our forecastes are vncertaine,

15 Because a corruptible body is heauie vnto the soule, and the earthly mansion keepeth downe the minde that is full of cares:

16 And hardly can wee discerne the things that are vpon earth, and with great labour finde wee out the things which are before vs: who can then seeke out the things that are in heauen?

17 Who can know thy counsell, except thou giue him wisedome, and send thy holy Spirite from aboue?

18 For so the wayes of them which are vpon earth, are reformed, and men are taught the things that are pleasant vnto thee, and are preserued through wisedome.

CHAP. X.

The deliuerance of the righteous, and the destruction of the enemies commeth through wisedome.

SHe preserued the first father of the worlde, that was formed, and kept him when hee was created alone, and brought him out of his offence,

2 And * gaue him power to rule all things, *Gen.*2.20.

3 * But the vnrighteous in his wrath departed from her, and perished by killing his brother in his furie. *Gen.*4.8.

4 For whose cause the * earth was ouerflowen, but wisedome preserued it againe, gouerning the iust man by a litle wood. *Gen.*7.21.

5 Moreouer, * when the nations were ioyned in their malicious confederacies, she knewe the righteous, and preserued him faultlesse vnto God, and ‖ kept him sure, because she loued him tenderly as a sonne. *Gen.*11.1,3 and 12.1. ‖Or, kept him strong in his tender loue toward his sonne.

6 Shee preserued the righteous, * when the vngodly perished when he fled from the fire that fell downe vpon the fiue cities. *Gen.*19.16.

7 Of whose wickednesse the waste lande that smoketh, yet giueth testimonie, and the trees that beare fruite that neuer commeth to ripenesse: and for a remembrance of the vnfaithfull soule, there standeth a pillar of salt.

8 For all such as regarded not wisedome, had not onely this hurt, that they knew not the things which were good, but also left behinde them vnto men a memorial of their foolishnesse, so that in the things wherein they sinned, they cannot lie hid.

9 But wisedome deliuered them þ serued her.

10 * When the righteous fled because of his brothers wrath, shee ledde him the right way, shewed him the kingdome of God, gaue him knowledge of holy things, made him rich in his labours, and made his paines profitable. *Gen.*28.5.

11 Against the couetousnes of such as defrauded him, shee stood by him and made him rich.

12 She saued him from the enemies, and defended him from them that lay in waite, and shee gaue him the price in mightie battell, that he might knowe that the feare of God is stronger then all things.

13 * When the righteous was solde, shee forsooke him not, but deliuered him from sinne: she went downe with him into the dungeon, *Gen.*37.28. and 39.7. *actes*7.10.

14 And failed him not in the bandes, till shee had brought him the sceptre of the realme, and power against those that oppressed him, & them that had accused him, shee declared to be liars, and gaue him perpetuall glorie.

15 * Shee deliuered the righteous people and faultlesse seede from the nations that oppressed them. *Exod.*1.10. and 12.42.

16 She entred into the soule of the seruant of the Lorde, and stoode * by him in wonders and signes against the terrible kings. *Exod.*5.1.

17 She gaue the Saints the reward of their labours, and ledde them foorth a marueilous way: on the day time shee was a shadowe vnto them, and a light of starres in the night.

18 * Shee brought them through the red sea, and caried them thorow the great water, *Exod.*14.21, 22.*psal.*78. 13.

19 But shee drowned their enemies, and brought them out of the bottome of the deepe.

20 So the righteous tooke the spoyles of the vngodly, * and praysed thine holy Name, O Lorde, and magnified thy victorious hand with one accord. *Exod.*15.1.

21 For wisedome openeth the mouth of the dumbe, & maketh þ tongues of babes eloquent.

CHAP. XI.

1 The miracles done for Israel. 13 The vengeance of sinners. 28 The great power and mercie of God.

SHe prospered their workes in the handes of thyne holy Prophet.

Exod.16.1. 2 *They went through the wildernesse that was not inhabited, and pitched their tentes in places where there lay no way.

Exod.17.10, 11. 3 *They stoode against their enemies, and were auenged of their aduersaries.

Num.20.11. 4 *When they were thirstie they called vpon thee, and water was giuen them out of the hie rocke, and their thirst was quenched out of the hard stone.

5 For by the things whereby their enemies were punished, by the same were the Israelites helped in their neede.

6 For in stead of a fountaine of running water, the enemies were troubled at the corrupt blood, which was to rebuke the commaundement of the killing of the children, but thou gauest vnto thine owne, abundance of water vnlooked for,

Exod.7.20. 7 Declaring by the thirst that was at that time, *how thou haddest punished thine aduersaries.

8 For when they were tried and chastised with mercy, they knewe how the vngodly were iudged and punished in wrath.

9 For these hast thou exhorted as a father, and prooued them: but thou hast condemned the other as a righteous King, when thou diddest examine them.

10 Whether they were absent or present, their punishment was alike: for their griefe was double with mourning, and the remembrance of things past.

11 For when they perceiued that through their torments good came vnto them, they felt the Lord.

12 And seeing the things that came to passe, at the last they wondred at him, whome afore they had cast out, denied and derided: for they had another thirst then was meet.

Chap.12.24, rom.1.23. 13 Because of the foolish deuices of their wickednes wherewith they were deceiued, and worshipped *serpents, that had not the vse of reason, and vile beastes, thou sendedst a multitude of vnreasonable beastes vpon them for a vengeance, that they might knowe, that wherewith a man sinneth, by the same also shall he be punished.

Gene.1.1. hebr.11.3. Leuit.26.22. ier.8.16,17. chap.16.1. 14 For vnto thine almightie hand, that made the worlde of *nought, it was not impossible to sende among them a multitude of *Beares, or fierce Lions, 15 Or furious beastes newly created and vnknowen, which should breathe out blastes of fire, and cast out smoke as a tempest, or shoote horrible sparkes like lightnings out of their eyes.

16 Which might not only destroy them with hurting, but also kill them with their horrible sight.

17 Yea, without these might they haue bene cast downe with one winde, being persecuted by thy vengeance, and scattered abroade through the power of thy Spirite: but thou hast ordered all things in measure, number, and weight.

18 For thou hast euer had great strength and might, and who can withstande the power of thine arme?

19 For as the small thing that the ballance weigheth, so is the worlde before thee, and as a drop of the morning dewe, that falleth downe vpon the earth.

20 But thou hast mercie vpon all: for thou hast power of all things, and makest as though thou sawest not the sinnes of men, because they should amend.

21 For thou louest al the things that are, and hatest none of them whom thou hast made: for thou wouldest haue created nothing that thou haddest hated.

22 And howe might any thing endure, if it were not thy will? or howe could any thing be preserued, except it were called of thee?

23 But thou sparest all: for they are thine, O Lord, which art the louer of soules.

CHAP. XII.

2 The mercie of God towarde sinners. 14 The workes of God are vnreproueable. 19 God giueth leasure to repent.

FOr thine incorruptible Spirite is in all things.

2 Therefore thou chastenest them measurably that goe wrong, and warnest them by putting them in remembrance of the things wherein they haue offended, that leauing wickednes, they may beleeue in thee, O Lord.

Deut.9.3. and 12.31. and 18.9,12. 3 *As for those olde inhabitants of thy holy land, thou diddest hate them.

4 For they committed abominable workes, as sorceries and wicked sacrifices,

5 And slaying of their owne children without mercie, and eating of the bowels of mans flesh in banketting, where the raging Priestes shed abominable blood.

6 And the fathers were the chiefe murtherers of the soules, destitute of all helpe, whome thou wouldest destroy by the handes of our fathers,

7 That the land which thou louest aboue all other, might bee a meete dwelling for the children of God.

Exod.33.2. deut.2.22. 8 *Neuertheless, thou sparedst them also, as men, and sendedst the forerunners of thine hoste, euen hornets to destroy them by litle and litle,

9 Not that thou wast vnable to subdue the vngodly vnto the righteous in battell, or with cruell beastes, or with one rough worde to destroy them together:

10 But in punishing them by litle and litle, thou gauest them space to repent, knowing well, that it was an vnrighteous nation and wicked of nature, and that their thought could neuer be altered.

11 For it was a cursed seede from the beginning: per haps thou not spared them when they sinned, because thou feardest any man.

Rom.9.20. 12 For who dare say, *What hast thou done? or who dare stande against thy iudgement? or who dare accuse thee for the nations that perish, whome thou hast made? or who dare stande against thee to reuenge the wicked men?

1.Pet.5.7. 13 For there is none other God but thou, *that carest for all things, that thou mayest declare howe that thy iudgement is not vnright.

14 There

14 There dare neither king nor tyrant in thy sight require accomptes of them whome thou hast punished.

15 For so much then as thou art righteous thy selfe, thou ordrest all things righteously, *thinking it not agreeable to thy power to condemne him, that hath not deserued to bee punished. Iob 10.2,3.

16 For thy power is the beginning of righteousnesse, and because thou art Lord of al things, it causeth thee to spare all things.

17 When men thinke thee not to be of a perfite power, thou declarest thy power, and reprouest the boldnesse of the wise.

18 But thou ruling the power, iudgest with equitie, and gouernest vs with great fauour: for thou mayest shewe thy power when thou wilt.

19 By such workes nowe hast thou taught thy people, that a man should be iust and louing, and hast made thy children to be of a good hope: for thou giuest repentance to sinners.

20 For if thou hast punished the enemies of thy children that had deserued death with so great consideration, and requesting vnto them, giuing them time and place that they might change from their wickednesse,

21 With how great circumspection iudgest thou thine owne children, vnto whose fathers thou hast sworne and made couenants of good promises?

22 So when thou doest chasten vs, thou punishest our enemies a thousande times more, to the intent that when we iudge, wee should diligently consider thy goodnesse, and when we are iudged, we should hope for mercie.

23 Wherefore thou hast tormented the wicked that haue liued a dissolute life by their owne imaginations.

Chap.11.15. Rom.1.23. 24 *For they went astray very farre in the wayes of errour, and esteemed the beasts, which their enemies despised, for gods, being abused after the maner of children, that haue none vnderstanding.

25 Therefore hast thou sent this punishment that they should be in derision as children without reason.

26 But they that will not bee reformed by those scornefull rebukes, shall feele the worthy punishment of God.

27 For in those things when they suffered, they disdained: but in these whom they counted godly, when they sawe themselues punished by them, they all acknowledged the true God whom afore they had denied to know: therefore came extreme damnation vpon them.

CHAP. XIII.

1 All things bee vaine except the knowledge of God. 10 Idolaters and idoles are mocked.

Rom.1.19. SVrely all men are vaine by nature, and are ignorant of God, *and could not knowe him that is, by the good things that are seene, neither consider by the workes, the workemaister.

Deut.4.19. and 17.3. 2 *But they thought the fire or the winde, or the swift ayre, or the course of the starres, or the raging water, or the lightes of heauen to be gouernours of the world, and gods.

3 Though they had such pleasure in their beautie ℣ they thought them gods, yet shoulde they haue knowen, howe much more excellent hee is that made them: for the first author of beautie hath created these things.

4 Or if they marueiled at the power, and operation of them, yet should they haue perceiued thereby, howe much he that made these things, is mightier.

5 For by the greatnesse of their beautie, and of the creatures, the Creator being compared with them, may be considered.

6 But yet the blame is lesse in these, that seeke God and would finde him, and yet peraduenture doe erre.

7 For they *go about by his workes to seeke him, and are perswaded by the sight, because the things are beautifull that are seene. Rom.1.21.

8 Howbeit they are not to be excused.

9 For if they can knowe so much, that they can discerne the world, why doe they not rather finde out the Lord thereof?

10 But miserable are they, and among the dead is their hope, that call them gods, which are the workes of mens hands, gold, and siluer, and the thing that is inuented by arte, and the similitude of beasts, or any vaine stone that hath bene made by the hand of antiquitie.

Isa.44.13. Iere.10.3. 11 *Or as when a carpenter cutteth downe a tree meete for the worke, and pareth off all the barke thereof cunningly, and by arte maketh a vessell profitable for the vse of life.

12 And the things that are cut off from his worke, hee bestoweth to dresse his meate to fill himselfe,

13 And that which is left of these things, which is profitable for nothing (for it is a crooked piece of wood and full of knobs) he carueth it diligently at his leasure, and according as hee is expert in cunning, hee gineth it a proportion, and fashioneth it after the similitude of a man, 14 Or maketh it like some vile beast, and straketh it ouer with red, and painteth it, and couereth euery spot that is in it.

15 And when he hath made a conuenient tabernacle for it, hee setteth it in a wall, and maketh it fast with yron, 16 Prouiding so for it, least it fall: for hee knoweth that it cannot helpe it selfe, because it is an image, which hath neede of helpe.

17 Then he prayeth for his goods, and for his mariage, and for children: hee is not ashamed to speake vnto it, that hath no life.

18 Hee calleth on him that is weake, for health: he prayeth vnto him that is dead for life: hee requireth him of helpe that hath no experience at all,

19 And for his iourney, him that is not able to goe, and for gaine, and worke, and successe of his affaires, hee requireth furtherance of him, that hath no maner of power.

CHAP. XIIII.

1 The detestation and abomination of images. 8 A curse of them, and of him that maketh them. 14 Whereof idolatrie proceeded. 23 What euils come of idolatrie.

AGaine, another man purposing to saile, and intending to passe thorow ℣ raging waues, calleth vpon a stocke more rotten then the ship that carieth him.

by cunning.

3 But thy prouidence, O father, gouerneth
Exod.14.22. it: *for thou hast made a way, euen in the sea, and a sure path among the waues,

4 Declaring thereby that thou hast power to helpe in all things, yea, though a man went to the sea without meanes.

5 Neuertheleſſe, thou wouldest not, that the workes of thy wisedome should be vayne, and therefore doe men commit their liues to a small piece of wood, and passe ouer the stormie sea in a ship and are saued.

Gen.6.4.and 7.10. 6 *For in the old time also when the proud giants perished, the hope of the world went into a shippe which was gouerned by thine hand, and so left seede of generation vnto the world.

7 For blessed is the tree whereby righteouſ-neſſe commeth.

8 But that is cursed that is made with Pſal.115.8. baruch 6.3. hands, *both it, and he that made it: he because he made it, and it being a corruptible thing, because it was called god.

Pſal.5.5. 9 * For the vngodly and his vngodlines are both like hated of God: so truely the worke and he that made it, shalbe punished together.

10 Therefore shall there bee a visitation for Iere.10.8. habac.2.18. the idoles of the nations: for of the creatures of God they are become abomination, *and stumbling blockes vnto the soules of men, & a snare for the feete of the vnwise.

11 For the inuenting of idoles was the beginning of whoredome, and the finding of them is the corruption of life.

12 For they were not from the beginning, neither shall they continue for euer.

13 The vaine glory of men brought them into the world: therefore shal they come shortly to an end.

14 When a father mourned grieuously for his sonne that was taken away suddenly, hee made an image for him that was once dead, whom now hee worshipped as a god, and ordeined to his seruaunts ceremonies and sacrifices.

15 Thus by processe of time this wicked custome preuailed, and was kept as a lawe, and idols were worshipped by the commandement of tyrants.

16 As for those that were so farre off that men might not worship them presently, they did counterfeit the visage that was farre off, and made a gorgeous image of a King, whom they would honour, that they might by all meanes flatter him that was absent, as though he had bene present.

17 Againe the ambition of the craftesman thrust forward the ignorant to increase the superstition.

18 For he peradventure willing to please a noble man, laboured with all his cunning to make the image of the best fashion.

19 And so through the beautie of the worke the multitude was allured, and so tooke him now for a god, which a little afore was but honoured as a man.

20 And this was the deceiuing of mans life, when men, being in seruitude through calamitie & tyrannie ascribed vnto stones, and stockes the name, which ought not to be communicate vnto any.

21 Moreouer, this was not enough for them that they erred in the knowledge of God: but whereas they liued in great warres of ignorance, those so great plagues called they peace.

22 For either *they slew their owne children Deut.18.10 in sacrifice, or vsed secret ceremonies, or raging ierem.7.9.and 19.4.
dissolutenesse by strange trees,

23 And so keepe neither life nor marriage cleane: but either one slew another by treason, or els vexed him by adultery.

24 So were all mixt together, blood, and slaughter, theft and deceit, corruption, vnfaith-fulnesse, tumults, periurie,

25 Disquieting of good men, vnthankfulnes, defiling of soules, changing of birth, disorder in marriage, adulterie and vncleannesse.

26 For the worshipping of idoles, that ought not to be named, is the beginning and the cause, and the end of all euil.

27 For either they bee mad when they bee merie, or prophecie lies, or liue vngodly, or els lightly forsweare themselues.

28 For in so much as their trust is in the idoles, which haue no life, though they sweare falsly, yet they thinke to haue no hurt.

29 Therefore for two causes shall they iustly be punished, because they haue an euil opinion of God, addicting themselues vnto idoles, and because they sweare vniustly to deceiue, and despise holinesse.

30 For it is not the power of them by whom they sweare, but the vengeance of them that sinne, which punisheth alwayes the offence of the vngodly.

CHAP. XV.

The voyce of the faithfull, praysing the mercy of God, by whose grace they serue not idoles.

BVt thou, O our God, art gracious and true, long suffering, and gouernest all things by mercie.

2 Though we sinne, yet are we thine: for we know thy power: but wee sinne not, knowing that we are counted thine.

3 For to know thee, is perfect righteousnes, and to know thy power is the roote of immor-talitie.

4 For neither hath the wicked inuention of men deceiued vs, nor the vnprofitable labour of the painters, nor an image spotted with diuers colours.

5 Whose sight stirreth vp the desire of the ignorant: so that he coueteth the forme, that hath no life, of a dead image.

6 They that loue such wicked things, are worthie to haue such things to trust to, and they that make thē, and they that desire them, and they that worship them.

7 The potter *also tempereth soft earth, and Rom.9.21.
fashioneth euery vessel with labour to our vse:
but of the same clay he maketh both the vessels that serue to cleane vses, and the contrary likewise: but whereto euery vessell serueth, the potter is the iudge.

8 So by his wicked labour hee maketh a vayne god of the same clay: euen hee, which a little afore was made of earth himselfe, & within a litle while after goeth thither againe where he was taken, * when he shall make a count for Luke.12.20.
the lone of his life.

9 Notwithstanding he careth not for the labour

bowre hee taketh, not that his life is short, but hee striketh with the goldsmithes, and siluersmithes, and counterfeiteth the coppersmithes, and taketh it for an honour to make deceiueable things.

10 His heart is ashes, and his hope is more vile then earth, and his life is lesse worthy of honour then clay.

11 For he knoweth not his owne maker, that gaue him his soule, that had power and breathed in him the breath of life.

12 But they count our life to bee but a passime, and our conuersation as a market, where there is gaine: for they say we ought to bee getting on euery side, though it be by euil meanes.

13 Now he that of earth maketh fraile vessels and images, knoweth himselfe to offend aboue all other.

14 All the enemies of thy people, that hold them in subiection, are most vnwise, and more miserable then the very fooles.

15 For they iudge all the idoles of the nations to be gods, which neither haue eye sight to see, nor noses to smel, nor eares to heare, nor fingers of hands to grope, and their feete are slow to goe.

16 For man made them, & he that hath but a borowed spirite, fashioned them: but no man can make a god like to himselfe.

17 For seeing hee is but mortall himselfe, it is but mortall that hee maketh with vnrighteous handes: hee himselfe is better then they whom he worshippeth: for he liued, but they neuer liued.

18 Yea, they worshipped beasts also, which are their most enemies, & which are the worst, if they be compared vnto others, because they haue none vnderstanding.

19 Neither haue they any beautie to be desired in respect of other beasts, for they are destitute of Gods prayse, and of his blessing.

CHAP. XVI.

The punishment of Idolaters. 20 The benefites done vnto the faithfull.

THerefore by such things they are worthily punished and * tormented by the multitude of beasts. Chap.11.13, 14.num.21, 6.

2 In stead of the which punishment thou hast bene fauourable to thy people, and to satisfie their appetite, hast prepared a meate of a strange taste, euen * quailes, Num.11.31.

3 To the intent that they that desired meate, by the things which were shewed and sent among them, might turne away their necessarie desire, and that they, which had suffered penurie for a space, should also feele a new taste.

4 For it was requisite, that they which vsed tyrannie, should fall into extreme pouertie, & that to these onely it should bee shewed, how their enemies were tormented.

5 *For when the cruel fiercenes of the beasts came vpon them, and they were hurt with the stings of cruel serpents, Num.21.6. 2.chro.10.9.

6 Thy wrath endured not perpetually, but they were troubled for a litle season, that they might be reformed, hauing a ‖ * signe of saluation to remember the commaundement of thy Lawe. ‖The signe of the brasen serpent. Num.21.9.

7 For he that turned toward it, was not healed by the thing that he saw, but by thee, O Sauiour of all.

8 So in this thou shewedst our enemies, that it is thou, which deliuerest from all euill.

9 * For the biting of grashoppers and flies killed them, and there was no remedy found for their life: for they were worthy to be punished by such. Exod.8.24. and 10.4. reuel.9.7.

10 But the teeth of the venemous dragons could not ouercome thy children: for thy mercy came to helpe them, and healed them.

11 For they were pricked, because they should remember thy wordes, and were speedily healed, least they should fall into so deepe forgetfulnesse, that they could not be called backe by thy benefite.

12 For neither herbe nor plaister healed them, but thy word, O Lord, which healeth all things.

13 For thou hast the power of life and death, *and leadest downe vnto the gates of hell, and bringest vp againe. Deut.32. 39. 1.sam.2.6. tob.13.2.

14 A man in deede by his wickednesse may slay another: but when the spirit is gone forth, it turneth not againe, neither can he call againe the soule that is taken away.

15 But it is not possible to escape thine hand.

16 * For the vngodly that would not know thee, were punished by the strength of thine arme, with strange rayne and with hayle, and were pursued with tempest, that they could not auoyd, and were consumed with fire. Exod.9.23.

17 For it was a wonderous thing that fire might doe more then water, which quencheth all things: but the world is the auenger of the righteous.

18 For sometime was the fire so tame, that the beasts, which were sent against the vngodly, burnt not: and that, because they should see, and know, that they were persecuted with the punishment of God.

19 And sometime burnt the fire in the mids of the water aboue the power of fire, ℘ it might destroy the generation of the vniust land.

20 *In the stead whereof thou hast fed thine owne people with Angels foode, and sent them bread ready from heauen without their labour, which had abundance of all pleasures in it, and was meet for all tastes. Exod.16. 14. num.11.7. psal.71.25. iohn 6.31.

21 For thy sustenance declared thy sweetnes vnto thy children, which serued to the appetite of him that tooke it, and was meet to that that euery man would.

22 Moreouer the *snow and yce abode ℘ fire and melted not, that they might know, that the fire burning in the hayle, and sparkling in the raine, destroyed the fruite of the enemies. Exod.9.23.

23 Againe it forgate his owne strength, that the righteous might be nourished.

24 For the creature that serueth thee which art the maker, is fierce in punishing the vnrighteous: but it is easie to doe good vnto such as put their trust in thee.

25 Therefore was it changed at ℘ same time vnto all fashions to serue thy grace, which nourisheth all things, according to the desire of them that had need thereof.

26 That thy children whom thou louest, O Lord, might knowe, * that it is not the increase of fruites that feedeth men, but that it is thy word, Deut.8.3. matth.4.4.

word,which preserueth them that trust in thee.

27 For that which could not bee destroyed with the fire,being onely warmed a little with the sunne beames,melted, 28 That it might be knowen that we ought to preuent the sunne rising to giue thankes vnto thee,and to salute thee before the day spring.

29 For the hope of the vnthankfull shal melt as the winter yce,and flowe away as vnprofitable waters.

CHAP. XVII.

The iudgements of God against the wicked.

FOr thy iudgements are great,and cannot be expressed: therefore men do erre,that will not be reformed.

2 For when the vnrighteous thought to haue thine holy people in subiection, they were bound with the bands of darkenesse, and long night,and being shut vp vnder the roofe did lie there to escape the euerlasting prouidence.

3 And while they thought to bee hid in their darke sinnes,they were scattered abroad in the darke couering of forgetfulnesse, fearing horrible and troubled with visions.

4 For the denne that hidde them,kept them not from feare: but the sounds that were about them troubled them, and terrible visions and lowrowfull sights did appeare.

5 No power of the fire might giue light,neither might the cleare flames of the starres lighten the horrible night.

6 For there appeared vnto them only a sudden fire,very dreadfull: so that being afrayd of this vision, ‖ which they could not see, they thought the things, which they sawe, to bee worse.

‖ That is,the mightie vision.

7 * And the illusions of the Magicall artes were brought downe,& it was a most shamefull reproche for the boasting of their knowledge. * Exod.7.12. and 8.7,19.

8 For they that promised to driue away feare and trouble from the sicke person, were sicke for feare,and worthy to be laughed at.

9 And though no fearefull thing did feare them,yet were they afrayd at the beasts which passed by them, and at the hissing of the serpents: so that they died for feare, and sayd they sawe not the aire,which by no meanes can bee auoyded.

10 For it is a fearefull thing when malice is condemned by her owne testimonie: and a conscience that is touched,doeth euer forecast cruell things.

11 For feare is nothing else, but a betraying of the succours,which reason offereth.

12 And the lesse that the hope is within, the more doth he esteeme the ignorance of the thing, that tormenteth him,great.

13 But they that did endure the night that was intollerable, & that came out of the dungeon of hell,which is vnsupportable, slept the same sleepe, 14 And sometimes were troubled with monstrous visions,and sometime they swooned, as though their owne soule should betray them: for a sudden feare not looked for, came vpon them.

15 And thus,whosoeuer fell downe, he was kept and shut in prison,but without chaines.

16 For whether he was an husbandman, or a sheepeherd,or one that was set to worke alone,if he were taken,he must suffer this necessitie,that he could not auoyde:

17 (For with one chaine of darkenesse were they al bound)whether it were an hissing wind, or a sweete song of the birdes among the thicke branches of the trees,or the vehemency of hastie running water,

18 Or a great noyse of the falling downe of stones,or the running of skipping beasts, that could not be seene,or the noyse of cruell beastes, that roared, or the ‖ sounde that answereth againe in the hollow mountaines:these fearefull things made them to swoone. ‖ Or, Echo.

19 For all the world shined with cleare light, and no man was hindred in his labour.

20 Onely vpon them there fell an heauie night an image of that darkenesse that was to come vpon them: yea, they were vnto themselues more grieuous then darkenesse.

CHAP. XVIII.

3 The fierie pillar that the Israelites had in Egypt. 8 The deliuerance of the faithfull. 10 The Lorde smote the Egyptians. 20 The sinne of the people in the wildernesse. 21 Aaron stood betweene the liuing and the dead with his censer.

BVt thy saints had a very great*light,whose voyce because ‖ they heard, and sawe not the figure of them,they thought them blessed, because they also had not suffered the like. * Exod.10.23. ‖ Or, the Egyptians,

2 And because they did not hurt them,which did hurt them afore, they thanked them, and asked pardon for their enmitie.

3 * Therefore thou gauest them a burning pillar of fire to leade them in the vnknowen way, and madest the sunne that it hurted not them in their honourable iourney. * Exod.13.21. and 14.24. psal.78.14. and 105.39.

4 But they were worthy to bee deprriued of the light,and to bee kept in darkenesse, which had kept thy children shutte vp, by whome the vncorrupt light of the lawe should be giuen to the world.

5 * Whereas they thought to slay the babes of the Saints,by one childe that was cast out, and preserued to reproue them, thou hast taken away the multitude of their children, and destroyed them all together in the mightie water. * Exod.1.16.

6 Of that night were our fathers certified afore,that they,knowing vnto what othes they had giuen credite,might be of good cheere.

7 Thus thy * people receiued the health of the righteous,but the enemies were destroyed. * Exod.14.24, 25.

8 For as thou hast punished the enemies,so hast thou glorified vs whom thou hast called.

9 For the righteous children of the good men offered secretly,and made a lawe of rightrousnesse by one consent,that the Saints should receiue good and euill in like maner, and that the fathers should first sing praises.

10 But a disagreeing cry was heard of the enemies,and there was a lamentable noyse for the children that were bewayled.

11 For the*master and the seruant were punished with like punishment,and the common people suffered alike with the king. * Exod.11.5. and 12.29.

12 So they altogether had innumerable that died with one kinde of death: neither were the liuing sufficient to bury them:for in þ twinckling of an eye the noblest offspring of them was destroyed.

13 So they that could beleeue nothing,because cause of the enchantments, confessed this people to be the children of God, in the destruction of the first borne:

14 For while all things were in quiet silence, and the night was in the middes of her swift course,

15 Thine almightie word lept downe from heauen out of thy royall throne, as a fierce man of warre in the middes of the land that was destroyed,

16 And brought thine vnfained commandement, as a sharpe swoorde, and stood vp, and filled all things with death, & being come downe to the earth, it reached vnto the heauens.

17 Then the sight of the fearefull dreames vexed them suddenly, and fearefulnes came vpon them vnawares.

18 Then lay there one here, another there halfe dead, and shewed the cause of his death.

19 For the visions that vexed them, shewed them these things afore: so that they were not ignorant, wherefore they perished.

20 Howe tentation of death toucheth the righteous also, and* among the multitude in Num.16.46. the wildernesse there was a plague, but the wrath endured not long.

21 For the blamelesse man made haste, and defended them, and tooke the weapons of his ministration, euen prayer, and the reconciliation by the perfume, and set himselfe against the wrath, and so brought the miserie to an ende, declaring that he was thy seruant.

22 For he ouercame not the multitude with bodily power, nor with force of weapons, but with the woorde he subdued him that punished, alleaging the othes and couenant made vnto the fathers.

23 For when the dead were fallen downe by heapes one vpon another, he stood in the mids, and cut off the wrath, and parted it from coming to the liuing.

Exod.28.6, 11. 24 *For the long garment was all the ornament, and in the foure rowes of the stones was the glory of the fathers grauen with thy maiestie in the diademe of his head.

25 Vnto these the destroyer gaue place, and was afraide of them: for it was sufficient, that they had tasted the wrath.

CHAP. XIX.

1 The death of the Egyptians, and the great ioy of the Hebrewes. 11 The meat that was giuen at the desire of the people. 17 All the elements serue to the will of God.

AS for the vngodly, the wrath came vpon them without mercy vnto the ende: for hee knew what should come vnto them,

2 That they (when they had consented to let them goe, and had sent them out with diligence) would repent and pursue them.

3 For while yet sorow was before them, and they lamented by the graues of the dead, they deuised another foolishnesse, so that they persecuted them in their fleeing, whome they had a cast out afore with prayer.

a That is, the children of Israel whom they before had desired and prayed to go their way.

4 For the destinie, whereof they were worthy, brought them to this end, and caused them to forget the things that had come to passe, that they might accomplish the punishment, which remained by torments,

5 Both that thy people might trie a marueilous passage, and that these might finde a strange death.

6 For euery creature in his kinde was fashioned of new, and serued in their owne offices inioyned them, that thy children might be kept without hurt.

7 For the cloude ouershadowed their tents, and the dry earth appeared, where afore was water: so that in the red Sea there was a way without impediment, and the great deepe became a greene field,

8 Through the which all the people went that were defended with thine hand, seeing thy wonderous marueiles.

9 For they fueied like horses, and leaped like lambes, praysing thee, O Lorde, which haddest deliuered them. ‖Or, were fed.

10 For they were yet mindefull of those things which were done in the land where they dwelt, howe the ground brought foorth flies in steade of cattell, and howe the riuer scrauled with the multitude of frogs in stead of fishes.

11 *But at the last they sawe a new generation of birds, when they were entised with lust, and desired delicate meates. Exod.16.13 num.11.31

12 * For the quailes came foorth of the sea vnto them for comfort, but punishmentes came vpon the ‖ sinners not without signes that were giuen by great thundrings: for they suffered worthily according to their wickednesse, because they shewed a cruell hatred towarde strangers. Chap.16.2. ‖Or, Egyptians.

13 For the one sort would not receiue them when they were present, because they knewe them not: the other sort brought the strangers vnto bondage that had done them good.

14 Beside all these things some would not suffer, that any regarde should be had of them: for they handled the strangers despitefully.

15 Others that had receiued them with great banketting, and admitted them to be partakers of the same lawes, did afflict them with great labours.

16 Therefore they were striken with blindnes, as in olde time certaine were at the doores of the *righteous, so that euery one being com- Gen.19.11. passed with darknes, sought the entrance of his doore.

17 Thus the elements agreed among themselues in this chaunge, as when one tune is changed vpon an instrument of musicke, and the melodie still remaineth, which may easily bee perceiued by the sight of the things that are come to passe.

18 For the things of the earth were chaunged into things of the water, and the thing that did swimme, went vpon the ground.

19 The fire had power in the water contrary vnto his owne vertue, and the water forgate his owne kind to quench.

20 Againe, the flames did not hurt the flesh of the corruptible beastes that walked therein, neyther melted they that which seemed to bee b pee, and was of a nature that woulde melt, and yet was an immortall meate.

The wisedome of Iesus the sonne of Sirach, called Ecclesiasticus.

This Argument was found in a certaine Greeke copie.

THis Iesus was the sonne of Sirach, and Sirachs father was also called Iesus, and hee liued in the latter times, after the people had bene led away captiue, and brought home againe, and almost after all the Prophets. Now his grandfather, as hee himselfe witnesseth, was a man of great diligence, and wisedome among the Hebrewes, who did not onely gather the graue sentences of wise men, that had bene before him, but hee himselfe also spake many full of great knowledge and wisedome. So this first Iesus died, and left this which hee had gathered, and Sirach afterward left it to Iesus his sonne, who tooke it and put it in order in a booke, and called it WISDOME, intituling it both by his owne name, his fathers name, and his grandfathers: thinking by this title of WISDOME to allure the Reader to reade this booke with more great desire, and to consider it more diligently. Therefore this booke conteineth wise sayings, and darke sentences, and similitudes, with certaine diuine histories which are notable and ancient, euen of men that were approued of God, and certaine prayers, and songs of the authour himselfe: moreouer, what benefits the Lord had bestowed vpon his people, & what plagues he had heaped vpon their enemies. This Iesus did imitate Salomon, and was no lesse famous in wisedome and doctrine, who was therefore called a man of great knowledge, as he was indeed.

The Prologue of the Wisedome of Iesus the sonne of Sirach.

WHereas many and great things haue bene giuen vs by the Law, and the Prophets, and by others that haue followed them, (for the which things Israel ought to be commended by the reason of doctrine and wisedome, whereby the readers ought not onely to become learned themselues, but also may bee able by the diligent studie thereof to be profitable vnto strangers, both by speaking and writing) after that my grandfather Iesus had giuen himselfe to the reading of the Law and the Prophets, and other bookes of our fathers, and had gotten therein sufficient iudgement, he purposed also to write some thing pertaining to learning and wisedome, to the intent that they which were desirous to learne, and would giue themselues to these things, might profit much more in liuing according to the Lawe. Wherefore I exhort you to receiue it louingly, and to reade it with diligence, and to take it in good worthy, though we seeme in some things not able to attaine to the interpretation of such words as are hard to be expressed: for the things that are spoken in the Hebrew tongue, haue another force in themselues then when they are translated into another tongue: and not onely these things, but other things also, as the Law it selfe, and the Prophets, and other bookes haue no small difference when they are spoken in their owne language. Therefore in the eight and thirtieth yeere, when I came into Egypt vnder king Euergetes, and continued there, I found a copie full of great learning, and I thought it necessary to bestow my diligence and trauell to interpret this booke. So for a certaine time with great watching and studie I gaue my selfe to the finishing of this booke, that it might bee published, that they which remaine in banishment, and are desirous to learne, might apply themselues vnto good maners, and liue according to the Law.

CHAP. I.

1 Wisedome commeth of God. 11 A prayse for the feare of God. 29 The meanes to come by wisedome.

ALl wisdome * commeth of the Lord, [and hath bene euer with him] and is with him for euer.

2 Who can number the sand of the sea, and the drops of the raine, and the dayes of the world? [who can measure] the height of heauen, the breadth of the earth, and the depth?

3 Who can finde the wisedome [of God which hath bene before all things?]

4 Wisedome hath bene created before all things, and the vnderstanding of prudence from euerlasting.

5 [The word of God most high is the fountaine of wisedome, & the euerlasting commandements are the entrance vnto her.]

6 *Vnto whom hath the roote of wisedome bene declared? or who hath knowen her wise counsels?

7 [Vnto whome hath the doctrine of wisedome bene discouered and shewed? and who hath vnderstood the manifolde entrance vnto her?]

8 There is one wise, [euen the most High Creator of all things, the Almightie, the King of power] and very terrible, which sitteth vpon his throne.

9 He is the Lord that hath created her [through the holy Ghost:] he hath seene her, numbred her, [and measured her.]

10 Hee hath powred her out vpon all his works, and vpon all flesh, according to his gift, and giueth her abundantly vnto them that loue him.

11 The feare of the Lord is glory, and gladnesse, and reioycing, and a ioyfull crowne.

12 The feare of the Lorde maketh a merrie heart, and giueth gladnesse, and ioy, & long life.

13 Who so feareth the Lord, it shall goe well with him at the last, and he shall finde fauour in the day of his death.

14 [The loue of God is honourable wisedome, and vnto whom it appeareth in a vision, they loue it for the vision, & for the knowledge of the great workes thereof.]

15 *The feare of the Lorde is the beginning of wisedome, and was made with the faithfull in the wombe: [she goeth with the chosen women, and is knowen with the righteous & faithfull.

16 The feare of the Lorde is an holy knowledge.

17 Holinesse shall preserue, and iustifie the heart, and giueth mirth and gladnesse.

18 Who so feareth the Lord, shal prosper, and in the day of his end, he shalbe blessed.]

19 She hath built her everlasting foundations with men, and is given to bee with their seede.

20 To feare God is the fulnes of wisdome, and filleth men with her fruits.

21 Shee filleth their whole house with [all] things desireable, and the garners with the things that she bringeth forth, and both swarme are gifts of God.

22 The feare of the Lorde is the crowne of wisedome, and giueth peace and perfect healthe: he hath seene her and numbred her.

‖ or, wisdome. 23 ‖ She raineth downe knowledge, and understanding of wisdome, and hath brought vnto honour them that possessed her.

24 The feare of the Lorde is the roote of wisdome, and her branches are long life.

25 [In the treasures of wisdome is understanding, and holy knowledge, but wildome is abhorred of sinners.]

26 The feare of the Lord driueth out sinne: & when she is present, she driueth away anger.

27 ¶ For wicked anger can not be iustified: for his rashnesse in his anger shall bee his destruction.

28 A patient man will suffer for a time, and then shall he haue the reward of ioy.

29 He will hide his words for a time, & many mens lips shall speake of his wisedome.

30 In the treasures of wisedome, are the secrets of knowledge, but the sinner abhorreth the worship of God.

31 If thou desire wisedome, keepe the commandements, and the Lorde shall giue her vnto thee, [and will fill her treasures.]

32 For the feare of the Lord is wisdome and discipline: he hath pleasure in faith and meekenesse.

33 Be not disobedient to the feare of the Lord, and come not vnto him with a double heart.

34 ¶ Be not an hypocrite that men should speake of thee, but take heede what thou speakest.

35 Exalt not thy selfe, least thou fall and bring thy soule to dishonour, and so God discouer thy secrets, and cast thee downe in the midst of the congregation, because thou wouldest not receiue the true feare of God, and thine heart is full of deceit.

CHAP. II.

1 He exhorteth the seruants of God to righteousnesse, loue, vnderstanding, and patience. 11 To trust in the Lord. 13 A curse vpon them that are faint hearted & impatient.

MY sonne, if thou wilt come into the seruice of God, [stand fast in righteousnesse and feare, and] prepare thy soule to tentation.

2 Settle thine heart, and be patient: [bowe downe thine eare, and receiue the wordes of vnderstanding] and thinke not alway, when thou art assailed, [but waite vpon God patiently.]

3 Ioyne thy selfe vnto him, and depart not away, that thou mayest be increased at thy last end.

4 Whatsoeuer commeth vnto thee, receiue it patiently, and bee patient in the change of thine affliction.

5 *For as gold [and siluer are] tried in the fire, euen so are men acceptable in the fornace of aduersitie. Wisd. 3.6. prou. 17.3.

5 Beleeue in God, and hee will helpe thee: order thy way aright, and trust in him: [holde fast his feare, and growe olde therein.]

7 Ye that feare the Lord, wait for his mercy: thinke not away from him that ye fall not.

8 Ye that feare the Lord, beleeue him, & your reward shall not faile.

9 O yee that feare the Lorde, trust in good things, and in the euerlasting ioy and mercy.

10 [For that feare the Lorde, loue him, and your hearts shalbe lightned.]

11 Consider the olde generations [of men, ye children,] and marke them well: *was there euer any confounded, that put his trust in the Lord? or who hath continued in his feare, and was forsaken? or whome did hee euer despise, that called vpon him. Psal. 37.25.

12 For God is gracious and mercifull, and forgiueth sinnes, and saueth in the time of trouble, [and is a defender for all them that seeke him in the truth.]

13 Woe vnto them that haue a ‖ fearefull heart, [and to the wicked lippes] and to the faint handes, and to the sinner that goeth two *maner of wayes. ‖ Or, double. 1. Kin. 18.21.

14 Woe vnto him that is faint hearted, for he beleeueth not: therefore shall hee not be defended.

15 Woe vnto you that haue lost patience, [and haue forsaken the right wayes, & are turned backe into froward wayes:] for what will ye doe when the Lord shall visit you?

16 They that feare the Lord, will not disobey his worde: and they that *loue him, will keepe his wayes. Iohn 14.23, 24.

17 They that feare the Lorde, will seeke out the things that are pleasant vnto him: and they that loue him, shalbe fulfilled with his law.

18 They that feare the Lorde, will prepare their hearts, & humble their soules in his sight.

19 [They that feare the Lord, keepe his commandements, & will be patient till he see them, 20 Saying, If we doe not repent] we shall fall into the hands of the Lord, and not into the hands of men.

21 For as his greatnesse is, so is his mercy.

CHAP. III.

2 To our father and mother ought wee to giue double honour. 10 Of the blessing and curse of the father and mother. 22 No man ought ouer curiously to search out the secrets of God.

[THe children of wisedome are the Church of the righteous, and their offspring is obedience and loue.]

2 Heare your fathers iudgement, O children, and doe thereafter, that ye may be safe.

3 For the Lord will haue the father honoured of the children, and hath confirmed the authoritie of the mother ouer the children.

4 Who so honoureth his father, his sinnes shalbe forgiuen him, [and he shall abstaine from them, and shall haue his daily desires.]

5 And he that honoureth his mother, is like one that gathereth treasure.

6 Who so honoureth his father, shall haue ioy of his owne children, and when he maketh his prayer, he shalbe heard.

7 He that honoureth his father, shall haue a long long life, and he that is obedient vnto the Lord, shall comfort his mother.

8 Hee that feareth the Lord, honoureth his parents, and doeth serue vnto his parents, as vnto lordes.

9 * Honour thy father and mother in deed and in worde, [and in all patience,] that thou mayest haue ‖Gods blessing, [and that his blessing may abide with thee in the end.]

10 For the blessing of the father establisheth the houses of the children, & the mothers curse rooteth out the foundations.

11 Reioyce not at the dishonor of thy father: for it is not honour vnto thee, but shame, 12 Seeing that mans glory commeth by his fathers honour, and the reproch of the mother is dishonour to the children.

13 My sonne, helpe thy father in his age, and grieue him not, as long as he liueth.

14 And if his vnderstanding faile, haue patience with him, and despise him not when thou art in thy full strength.

15 For the good intreatie of thy father shall not bee forgotten, but it shall bee a fortresse for thee against sinnes, [and for thy mothers offence thou shalt be recompensed with good, and it shalbe founded for thee in righteousnesse.]

16 And in the day of trouble thou shalt be remembred: thy sinnes also shall melt away as the yce in the faire weather.

17 He that forsaketh his father, shall come to shame, and he that angreth his mother, is cursed of God.

18 ¶ My sonne, performe thy doings with meekenes, so shalt thou be beloued of them that are approoued.

Phil.2.3. 19 The *greater thou art, the more humble thy selfe [in all things,] and thou shalt find fauour before the Lord.

24 Bee not curious in superfluous things: for many things are shewed vnto thee aboue the capacitie of men.

25 The medling with such hath beguiled many, & an euil opinion hath deceiued their iudgement.

26 Thou canst not see without eyes: professe not the knowledge therefore that thou hast not.

27 A stubberne heart shall fare euill at the last: & he that loueth danger, shal perish therein.

28 An heart that goeth two wayes, shal not prosper: and he that is froward of heart, shall stumble therein.

29 An obstinate heart shall bee laden with sorowes: and the wicked man shall heape sinne vpon sinne.

30 The perswasion of the proud is without remedy, and his steps shall bee plucked vp: for the plant of sinne hath taken roote in him, [and he shall not be esteemed.]

31 The heart of him that hath vnderstanding, shall perceiue secret things, and an attentiue eare is the desire of a wise man.

32 [An heart that is wise & vnderstanding, will absteine from sinne, and shall prosper in the workes of righteousnesse.]

33 Water quencheth burning fire, *& almes taketh away sinnes. Dan.4.24. psal.41.1.

34 And he that rewardeth good deeds, will remember it afterward, and in the time of the fall, he shall find a stay.

CHAP. IIII.

1 Almes must bee done with gentlenesse. 12 The fruite of wisedome and her fruit. 20 An exhortation to eschew euil, and to doe good.

My sonne, defraud not the * poore of his liuing, and make not the needy eies to waite long. Deut.15.7.

2 Make not an hungry soule sorowfull, neither vexe a man in his necessitie.

3 Trouble not the heart that is grieued, and deferre not the gift of the needy.

4 Refuse not the praier of one that is in trouble: *turne not away thy face from the poore. Tobit 4.7.

5 Turne not thine eyes aside [in anger] from the poore, and giue him none occasion to speake euil of thee.

6 For if he curse thee in the bitternesse of his soule, his prayer shalbe heard of him that made him.

7 Be curteous vnto the company [of poore, and humble thy soule vnto the Elder,] & bowe downe thy head to a man of worship.

8 Let it not grieue thee to bowne down thine eare vnto the poore, [but pay thy det] and giue him a friendly answere.

9 ¶ Deliuer him that suffereth wrong, from the hand of the oppressor, & be not faint hearted ‖when thou iudgest. ‖Or, to defend him.

10 Be as a father vnto the fatherlesse, and as an husband vnto their mother: so shalt thou be as the sonne of the most High: and he shal loue thee more then thy mother doeth.

11 Wisedome exalteth her children, and receiueth them that seeke her, [and will goe before them in the way of righteousnesse.]

12 Hee that loueth her, loueth life, and they that seeke life in the morning, shall haue great ioy.

13 Hee that keepeth her, shall inherite glory: for vnto whom she entreth, him the Lord will blesse.

14 They that honour her, shalbe ϸ seruants of the holy one, and them that loue her, the Lord doeth loue.

15 Who so giueth eare vnto her, shall iudge the nations, and hee that goeth vnto her, shall dwell safely.

16 Hee that is faithfull vnto her, shall haue her in possession, & his generation shall possesse her.

17 For first she will walke with him by crooked wayes, and bring him vnto feare, & dread, and torment him with her discipline vntill shee haue tried his soule, and haue proued him by her iudgements.

18 Then will shee returne the straight way vnto him and comfort him, and shew him her secretes, [and heape vpon him the treasures of knowledge, and vnderstanding of righteousnesse.]

19 But if he goe wrong, she will forsake him, and giue him ouer into the handes of his destruction.

20 [¶ My sonne,] make much of time, and *eschewe the thing that is euill, Rom. 12. 9. 1. Thes. 5. 22.

21 And bee not ashamed [to say the trueth] for thy life: for there is a [a] shame that bringeth sinne, and a shame that bringeth worship and fauour.

[a] To be ashamed to confesse thy God, thy faith, to testifie the trueth, and to reproue sinne, doeth bring sinne vnto thee: the contrary shame bringeth worship.

22 Accept no person against thine owne conscience, that thou bee not confounded to thine owne decay, [and forbeare not thy neighbour in his fault.]

23 And keepe not backe counsel when it may doe good, neither hide thy wisedome when it may be famous.

24 For by the talke is wisedome knowen, and learning by the wordes of the tongue, [and counsell, wisedome and learning by the talking of the wise, and stedfastnesse in the workes of righteousnesse.]

25 In no wise speake against the worde of trueth, but be ashamed of the lies of thine owne ignorance.

26 Bee not ashamed to confesse thy sinnes, and resist not the course of the riuer.

27 Submit not thy selfe vnto a foolish man, neither accept the person of the mightie.

28 Striue for the trueth vnto death, [and defend iustice for thy life,] and the Lord God shall fight for thee [against thine enemies.]

29 Be not hastie in thy tongue, neither slacke and negligent in thy workes.

30 Bee not as a lyon in thine owne house, neither beate thy seruants for thy fantasie, [nor oppresse them that are vnder thee.]

Acts 20, 35. 31 *Let not thine hand be stretched out to receiue, and shut when thou shouldest giue.

CHAP. V.

1 In riches may wee not put any confidence. 7 The vengeance of God ought to be feared, and repentance may not be deferred.

Luke 12. 15, 19, 20. chap. 11. 18, 19. prou. 10. 2. Ezek. 7. 19. Zeph. 1. 18.

TRust not vnto thy *riches, and say not, I haue enough for my life: [for it shall not helpe in the time of vengeance & indignation.]

2 Followe not thine owne minde and thy strength to walke in the waies of thine heart:

3 Neither say thou, [How haue I had strength?] or who will bring mee vnder for my workes? For God the auenger will reuenge the wrong done by thee.

4 And say not, I haue sinned, and what euil hath come vnto mee? for the almightie is a patient rewarder, but hee will not leaue thee vnpunished.

5 Because thy sinne is forgiuen, be not without feare, to heape sinne vpon sinne.

6 And say not, The mercie of God is great: he will forgiue my manifolde sinnes: for mercie and wrath come from him, and his indignation commeth downe vpon sinners.

7 Make no tarying to turne vnto the Lorde, and put not off from day to day: for suddenly shall the wrath of the Lord breake forth, and in thy securitie thou shalt bee destroyed, and thou shalt perish in time of vengeance.

8 Trust not in wicked riches: for they shall not helpe thee in the day of punishment [and vengeance.]

9 Be not caried about with euery wind, and goe not into euery way: for so doeth the sinner that hath a double tongue.

10 Stand fast in thy sure vnderstanding [and in the way and knowledge of the Lorde] and haue but one maner of worde, [and follow the word of peace and righteousnesse.

11 Be humble to heare the word of God, that thou hapest vnderstand it, and make a true answere with wisedome.]

12 *Be swift to heare good things, and let thy life be pure, and giue a patient answere. Iames 1, 19.

13 If thou hast vnderstanding, answere thy neighbour: if not, lay thine hand vpon thy mouth, [least thou be trapped in an vndiscreet word, and so be blamed.]

14 Honour and shame is in the talke, and the tongue of a man causeth him to fall.

15 Be not counted a *talebearer, and lie not in waite with thy tongue: for shame [and repentance] follow the theefe, and an euil condemnation is ouer him that is double tongued: [but he that is a backbiter shall be hated, enuied and confounded.] Leui. 19. 16.

16 Do not rashly, neither in small things nor in great.

CHAP. VI.

1 It is the propertie of a sinner to be euil tongued. 6 Of friendship. 33 Desire to be taught.

BE not of a friend [thy neighbours] [a] enemy: for such shall haue an euill name, shame and reproch, and he shall bee in infamie as the wicked that hath a double tongue.

[a] For that is against the rule of charitie, which loueth all, and hateth nothing but onely sinne.

2 Bee not proud in the deuice of thine owne mind, least thy soule rent thee as [b] a bull, [b] As a bull teareth in pieces a yong tree with his hornes, so thou trusting in thine own wisedome, & standing in thine owne conceit, because of thy wit, thy power, or riches, shouldest destroy thy selfe. Chap. 37. 5.

3 And eate vp thy leaues, and destroy thy fruite, and so thou bee left as a dry tree [in the wildernesse.]

4 For a wicked soule destroyeth him that hath it, and maketh him to be laughed to scorne of his enemies, [and bringeth him to the portion of the vngodly.]

5 A sweet talke multiplieth the friends [and pacifieth them that be at variance,] and a sweet tongue increaseth much good talke.

6 Hold friendship with many, neuertheless, haue but one counseller of a thousand.

7 If thou getteſt a friend, proue him first, and be not hastie to credite him.

8 For some man is a friend for his owne occasion, & will not abide in the day of thy trouble.

9 And there is some friend that turneth to enmitie, & taketh part against thee, and in contention he will declare thy shame.

10 Againe some *friend is but a companion at the table, and in the day of thine affliction he continueth not.

11 But in thy prosperitie he will be as thou thy selfe, and will vse libertie ouer thy seruants.

12 If thou be brought lowe, he will be against thee, and will hide himselfe from thy face.

13 Depart from thine enemies, and beware of thy friends.

14 A faithfull friend is a strong defence, and he that findeth such a one, findeth a treasure.

15 A faithfull friend ought not to be changed for any thing, and the weight [of gold and siluer] is not to be compared to the goodnesse [of his faith.]

16 A faith-

16 A faithfull friende is the medicine of life [and immortalitie,] and they that feare the Lord, shall finde him.

17 Who so feareth the Lorde, shall direct his friendship aright, and as his owne selfe, so shall his friend be.

18 ¶ My sonne, receiue doctrine from thy youth vp: so shalt thou finde wisedome [which shall endure] till thine olde age.

19 Goe to her as one that ploweth, and soweth, and waite for her good fruits: for thou shalt haue but litle labour in her worke: but thou shalt eate of her fruits right soone.

20 Howe exceeding sharpe is she to the vnlearned? hee that is without iudgement, will not remaine with her.

21 Vnto such one she is as a fine touchstone, and he casteth her from him without delay.

22 For they haue the name of wisedome, but there be but few that haue ꝑ knowledge of her.

23 [For with them that knowe her, she abideth vnto the appearing of God.]

24 Giue eare, my sonne: receiue my doctrine, and refuse not my counsell.

25 And put thy feete into her linkes, and thy necke into her chaine.

26 Bowe downe thy shoulder vnto her, and beare her, and be not weary of her bands.

27 Come vnto her with thy whole heart, and keepe her wayes with all thy power.

28 Seeke after her, and search her, and she shalbe shewed thee: and when thou hast gotten her, forsake her not.

29 For at the last thou shalt finde rest in her, and that shall be turned to thy ioy.

30 Then shall her fetters be a strong defence for thee, [and a sure foundation] & her chaines a glorious raiment.

31 For there is a golden ornament in her, and her bands are the laces of purple colour.

32 Thou shalt put her on as a robe of honour, and shalt put her vpon thee, as a crowne of ioy.

33 My sonne, if thou wilt, thou shalt bee taught, and if thou wilt apply thy minde, thou shalt be wittie.

34 If thou loue to heare, thou shalt receiue [doctrine,] and if thou delight in hearing, thou shalt be wise.

35 Stand with the multitude of the elders, which are wise, and ioyne with him that is wise.

36 * Desire to heare all godly talke, and let not the graue sentences of knowledge escape thee. Chap.8.9.

37 And if thou seest a man of vnderstanding, get thee soone vnto him, and let thy foote weare the steppes of his doores.

38 Let thy minde be vpon the ordinances of the Lorde, and bee ‖continually * occupied in his commaundements: so shall hee establish thine heart, and giue thee wisedome at thine owne desire. ‖Or, earnestly. Psal.1.2,3.

CHAP. VII.

1 We must forsake euil, and yet not iustifie our selues.
23 The behauiour of the wife toward his wife, his friend, his children, his seruants, his father and mother.

DO no euill: so shall no harme come vnto thee.

2 Depart from the thing that is wicked, and sinne shall turne away from thee.

3 My sonne, sowe not vpon the furrowes of vnrighteousnesse, least that thou reape them seuen folde.

4 Aske not of the Lorde preeminence, neither of the King the seate of honour.

5 * Iustifie not thy selfe before the Lord: [for he knoweth thine heart,] and boast not thy wisedome in the presence of the King. Iob 9.2. psal.143.2. eccles. 7. 18.

6 Seeke not to bee made a Iudge, least thou bee not able to take away iniquitie, and least thou, fearing the person of the mightie, shouldest commit an offence against thine vprightnesse. luke 18.11.

7 Offende not against the multitude of a citie, and cast not thy selfe among the people.

8 * Binde not two sinnes together: for in one sinne shalt thou not be vnpunished. Chap.5.5.

9 Say not, God will looke vpon the multitude of mine oblations, and when I offer to the most High God, he will accept it.

10 Bee not faint hearted, when thou makest thy prayer, neither slacke in giuing of almes.

11 Laugh no man to scorne in the heauinesse of his soule: for [God which seeth all things] is hee * that can bring downe, and set vp againe. 1.Sam.1.7.

12 Sowe not a lie against thy brother, neither doe the same against thy friend.

13 Vse not to make any maner of lie: for the custome thereof is not good.

14 Make not many wordes when thou art among the Elders, neither * repeate a thing in thy prayer. Mat.6.5,7.

15 Hate not laborious * worke, neither the husbandrie, which the most High hath created. Rom.12.11.

16 Number not thy selfe in the multitude of the wicked, but remember that vengeance will not slacke.

17 Humble thy minde greatly: for the vengeance of the wicked is fire and wormes.

18 Giue not ouer thy friend for any good, nor thy true brother for the golde of Ophir.

19 Depart not from a wise and good woman, [that is fallen vnto thee for thy portion in the feare of the Lord:] for her grace is aboue golde.

20 ¶ * Whereas thy seruant worketh truely, intreate him not euill, nor the hireling that beestoweth himselfe wholy for thee. Leuit.19.13. chap.33.29. and 34.23.

21 Let thy soule loue a good seruant, and defraude him not of libertie, [neither leaue him a poore man.]

22 * If thou haue cattell, looke well to them, and if they bee for thy profite, keepe them with thee. Deut.25.4.

23 * If thou haue sonnes, instruct them, and bow their necke from their youth. Chap.30.12.

24 If thou haue daughters, keepe their body, and shewe not thy face cheerefull towarde them.

25 Marrie thy daughter, and so shalt thou performe a weightie matter: but giue her to a man of vnderstanding.

26 If thou haue a wife after thy minde, forsake her not, but commit not thy selfe to the hatefull.

27 * Honour thy father from thy whole heart, and forget not the sorowes of thy mother. Chap.3.9. tobit.4.3.

28 Remember that thou wast borne of them, and how canst thou recompense them þ things that they haue done for thee?

29 ¶ Feare the Lorde with all thy soule, and honour his ministers.

30 Loue him that made thee, with all thy strength,* and forsake not his seruants.

*Deu.*12.18, 19.

31 Feare the Lord with all thy soule, and honour the Priestes, * and giue them their portion, as it is commaunded thee, the first fruites, [and purification] and sacrifices for sinne, and the offerings of the shoulders, and the sacrifices of sanctification, and the first fruites of the holy things.

*Leuit.*2.3. *numb.*18.15.

32 Stretch thine hande vnto the poore, that thy ‖ blessing, [and reconciliation] may bee accomplished.

‖ Or, liberalitie.

33 Liberalitie pleaseth all men liuing, & *from the dead restraine it not.

Tobit 2.4,7. and 4.17.

34 * Let not them that weepe, bee without [comfort:] but mourne with such as mourne.

*Rom.*12.15.

35 * Bee not slowe to visite the sicke: for that shall make thee to be beloued.

*Mat.*25.36.

36 Whatsoeuer thou takest in hand, remember the end, and thou shalt neuer doe amisse.

CHAP. VIII.

We must take heede with whom we haue to doe.

STrine not with a mightie man, least thou fal into his hands.

2 *Make not variance with a rich man, least hee on the other side weigh downe thy weight: *Chap.*31.6. * for golde [and siluer] hath destroyed many, and hath subuerted the hearts of kings.

*Mat.*5.25.

3 Strine not with a man þ is full of wordes, and lay no stickes vpon his fire.

4 Play not with a man that is vntaught, lest thy kindred be dishonoured.

*Gala.*6.1.

5 * Despise not a man that turneth himselfe away from sinne, nor cast him not in the teeth withall, but remember that wee are all worthy blame.

*Leui.*19.32.

6 * Dishonour not a man in his olde age: for they were as we which are not olde.

7 Bee not glad of the death of thine enemie, but remember that wee must die all, [and so enter into ioy.]

*Chap.*6.35.

8 * Despise not the exhortation of the [Elders] that bee wise, but acquaint thy selfe with their wise sentences: for of them thou shalt learne wisedome, [and the doctrine of vnderstanding,] and howe to serue great men [without complaint.]

9 Goe not from the doctrine of the Elders: for they haue learned it of their fathers, and of them thou shalt learne vnderstanding, and to make answere in the time of neede.

10 Kindle not the coales of sinners, [when thou rebukest them,] least thou be burnt in the fierie flames [of their sinnes.]

11 Rise not vp against him that doth wrong, that he lay not waite as a spie for thy mouth.

*Chap.*29.4.

12 * Lend not vnto him that is mightier then thy selfe: for if thou lendest him, count it but lost.

13 Bee not suertie aboue thy power: for if thou be suertie, thinke to pay it.

14 Goe not to lawe with the Iudge: for they will giue sentence according to his owne honour.

15 * Transgresse not by the way with him that is rash, lest hee doe thee iniurie: for he followeth his owne wilfulnesse, and so shalt thou perish through his folly.

*Gene.*4.8.

16 * Striue not with him that is angrie, and goe not with him into the wildernesse: for blood is as nothing in his sight, and where there is no helpe, he will ouerthrow thee.

*Prou.*22.24.

17 Take no counsell at a foole: for he cannot keepe a thing close.

18 Doe no secret thing before a stranger: for thou canst not tell what he goeth about.

19 Open not thine heart vnto euery man, lest hee bee vnthankefull vnto thee, [and put thee to reproofe.]

CHAP. IX.

Of Iealousie. 12 An olde friend is to be preferred before a newe. 18 Righteous men should be bidden to thy table.

BE not iealous ouer thy wife of thy bosome, neither a teache her by thy meanes an euill lesson.

a Let her not haue rule ouer thee, for then will she be contrary vnto thee, take away thy heart & strength, and bring thee to confusion among thine enemies, as did Heuah to Adam, Delilah to Samson, and strange women to Salomon.

2 Giue not thy life vnto a woman, least shee ouercome thy strength, [and so thou bee confounded.]

3 Meete not an harlot, least thou fall into her snares.

4 Vse not the companie of a woman that is a singer, [and a dancer, neither heare her,] least thou be taken by her craftinesse.

5 Gaze not on a * mayde, that thou fall not by that that is precious in her.

*Gene.*6.1,2. and 34.2.

6 * Cast not thy minde vpon harlots [in any maner of thing,] least thou destroy [both thy selfe and] thine heritage.

*Prou.*5.2.

7 Goe not about gazing in the streetes of the citie, neither wander thou in the secrete places thereof.

*Mat.*5.28.

8 * Turne away thine eye from a beautifull woman, and looke not vpon others beautie: for many *haue perished by the beautie of women: for through it loue is kindled as a fire.

*Gen.*34.1,2. 2.*sam.*11.2.

9 [Euery woman that is an harlot, shall be trodden vnder foote as doung, of euery one that goeth by the way.

*indeu.*10.17, 19. and 12. 16,20.

10 ‖ Many wondering at the beautie of a strange woman, haue bin cast out: for her words burne as a fire.]

11 Sit not at all with another mans wife, [neither lie with her vpon the bed,] nor banket with her: least thine heart incline vnto her, and so through thy desire fall into destruction.

12 ¶ Forsake not an olde friende: for the newe shall not be like him: a newe friende is as newe wine: when it is olde, thou shalt drinke it with pleasure.

13 * Desire not the honour [and riches] of a sinner: for thou knowest not what shall bee his ende.

*Iudg.*9.3. 2.*sam.*15.12.

14 Delight not in the thing that the vngodly haue pleasure in, but remember that they shall not be found iust vnto their graue.

15 Keepe thee from the man that hath power to slay: so shalt thou not doubt þ feare of death: and if thou come vnto him, make no fault, least hee take away thy life: remember that thou goest in the middes of snares, and that thou walkest vpon the towres of the citie.

16 Try thy neighbour as neere as thou canst, *and aske counsell of the wise.

communication in the Lawe of the moſt High.

18 Let iuſt men eate & drinke with thee, and let thy reioycing be in the feare of the Lord.

For the workeman is prayſed according to the worke.

19 In ‖ the hands of the craftesmen ſhall the woꝛkes be commended, and the wiſe prince of the people by his woꝛde, [and the woꝛde by the wiſedome of the Elders.]

20 A man full of woꝛds is dangerous in his citie, and he that is rath in his talking, ſhall be hated.

CHAP. X.

1 Of Kings and Iudges. 7 Pride and couetouſneſſe are to be abhorred. 28 Labour is prayſed.

A Wiſe iudge will inſtruct his people with diſcretion: the gouernance of a prudent man is well ordered.

2 As the Iudge of the people is himſelfe, ſo are his officers, and what maner of man the ruler of the citie is, ſuch are all they that dwell therein.

1.*King.*12, 1,13,14. 3 *An vnwiſe King deſtroyeth his people, but where they that be in authoritie, are men of vnderſtanding, there the citie proſpereth.

4 The gouernement of the earth is in the hand of the Lord, [and all iniquitie of the nations is to be abhoꝛred,] and when time is, hee will ſet vp a profitable ruler ouer it.

5 In the hand of God is the proſperitie of man, and vpon the ſcribes will he lay his honour.

*Leuit.*19.17. 6 *Be not angry for any wꝛong, with thy neighbour, and doe nothing by inurious practiſes.

7 Pride is hateful before God and man, and by both doeth one commit iniquitie.

*Iere.*27.6, *dan.*4.14. 8 *Becauſe of vnrighteous dealing, and wꝛongs and riches gotten by deceit, the kingdome is tranſlated from one people to another.

9 There is nothing woꝛſe then a couetous man: [why art thou proude, O earth and aſhes? there is not a moꝛe wicked thing, then to loue money:] for ſuch one would euen ſell his ſoule, and for his life euery one is compelled to pull out his owne bowels.

10 [All tyrannie is of ſmall indurance, and the diſeaſe that is hard to heale is grieuous to the Phiſition.]

11 The Phiſition cutteth off the ſoꝛe diſeaſe, and he that is to day a King, to moꝛrowe is dead.

12 Why is earth and aſhes proude, ſeeing that when a man dyeth, hee is the heire of ſerpents, beaſtes, and woꝛmes?

13 The beginning of mans pride, is to fall away from God, and to turne away his heart from his maker.

14 For pride is the originall of ſinne, and hee that hath it, ſhall powꝛe out abomination, till at laſt he be ouerthꝛowen: therefoꝛe the Lorde bringeth the perſwaſions [of the wicked] to diſhonour, and deſtroyeth them in the ende.

Luke 1.52. & 14.11.& 18.14.1.ſam. 2.7,8. 15 The Lorde hath * caſt downe the thꝛones of the [proude] princes, and ſet vp the meeke in their ſtead.

16 The Lorde pluckeſth vp the rootes of the [proud] nations, and planteth the lowly with glory among them.

17 The Lord ouerthꝛoweth the lands of the heathen, and deſtroyeth them vnto the foundations of the earth: hee cauſeth them to wither away, and deſtroyeth them, and maketh their memoriall to ceaſe out of the earth.

18 [God] deſtroyeth the memoriall of the proude, and leaueth the remembrance of the humble.]

19 Pride was not created in men, neither wꝛath in the generation of women.

20 There is a ſeede of man, which is an honourable ſeede: the honourable ſeede are they that feare the Lorde: there is a ſeede of man, which is without honour: the ſeede without honour, are they that tranſgreſſe the commandements of the Lorde: it is a ſeede that remaineth, which feareth the Lorde, and a faire plant, that loue him: but they are a ſeede without honour, that deſpiſe the lawe, & a deceiueable ſeede that breake the commandements.

21 He that is the chiefe among bꝛethꝛen, is honourable: ſo are they that feare the Lorde in his ſight.

22 The feare of the Lorde cauſeth that the kingdome faileth not, but the kingdome is loſt by cruelties and pride.

23 The feare of the Lorde is the glory as well of the rich and the noble, as of the poore.

24 It is not meete to deſpiſe the poore man that hath vnderſtanding, neither is it conuenient to magnifie the rich that is a wicked man.

25 The great man and the iudge, and the man of authoritie, are honourable, yet is there none of them greater, then hee that feareth the Lorde.

26 * Vnto the ſeruant that is wiſe, ſhall they that are free, doe ſeruice: * he that hath knowledge, will not grudge when hee is reꝛoꝛmed, [and the ignoꝛant ſhall not come to honour.] *Prou.*17.2. 2.*Sa.*12,13.

27 Seeke not excuſes when thou ſhouldeſt doe thy woꝛke, neither bee aſhamed thereof thꝛough pride in the time of aduerſitie.

28 * Better is hee that laboureth and hath plenteouſneſſe of all things, then he that is goꝛgeous, and wanteth bꝛead. *Pro.*12.9,11

29 My ſonne, get thy ſelfe prayſe by meekeneſſe, and eſteeme thy ſelfe as thou deſerueſt.

30 Who will count him iuſt that ſinneth againſt himſelfe? oꝛ honour him, that diſhonoureth his owne ſoule?

31 The poore is honoured for his knowledge [and his feare,] but the rich is had in reputation becauſe of his goods.

32 He that is honourable in pouerty, howe much moꝛe ſhall he be when he is rich? and he that is vnhoneſt being riche, howe much moꝛe will he be ſo, when he is in pouerty?

Iob 42.10. * hath neede of helpe: for he wanteth strength, and hath great pouertie, yet the eye of the Lorde looketh vpon him to good, and setteth him vp from his lowe estate,

13 And hee lifteth vp his head: so that many men maruelle at him, [and giue honour vnto God.]

Iob 1 21. 14 * Prosperitie and aduersitie, life & death, Eccl. 28.4. pouertie and riches, come of the Lord.

15 Wisedome and knowledge, and vnderstanding of the Lawe are of the Lorde: loue and good workes come of him.

16 Errour and darkenesse are appointed for sinners, and they that exalt themselues in euill, ware olde in euill.

17 The gift of the Lorde remaineth for the godly, and his good will giueth prosperitie for euer.

18 ¶ Some man is rich by his care and nigardship, and this is the portion of his wages,

Luke 12.19. 19 In that he sayth, * I haue gotten rest, and nowe will I eate continually of my goods, yet he considereth not that the time draweth neere, that hee must leaue all these things vnto other men, and die himselfe.

20 Stand thou in thy state, and exercise thy selfe therein, and remaine in thy worke vnto thine age.

21 Maruelle not at the workes of sinners, but trust in the Lorde, and abide in thy labour: for it is an easie thing in the sight of the Lorde, suddenly to make a poore man rich.

22 The blessing of the Lorde is in the wages of the godly, and hee maketh his prosperitie soone to florish.

23 ¶ Say not, What profite and pleasure shall I haue? and what good things shall I haue hereafter?

24 Againe say not, I haue enough, and possesse many things, and what euill can come to me hereafter?

Chap.18.24. 25 * In thy good state remember aduersitie, and in aduersitie forget not prosperitie.

26 For it is an easie thing vnto the Lorde in the day of death to rewarde a man according to his wayes.

27 The aduersitie of an houre maketh one to forget pleasure: and in a mans ende, his workes are discouered.

28 Iudge none blessed before his death: for a man shalbe knowen by his children.

29 Bring not euery man into thine house: for the deceitfull haue many trames, [and are like stomackes that belche stinkingly.]

30 As a partrich is taken vnder a basket, [and the hinde is taken in the snare,] so is the heart of the proude man, which like a spie watcheth for thy fall.

31 For hee lieth in waite and turneth good into euill, and in things worthy prayse he will finde some fault.

32 Of one litle sparke is made a great fire, [and of one deceitfull man is blood increased:] for a sinfull man layeth waite for blood.

33 Beware of a wicked man: for he imagineth wicked things to bring thee into a perpetuall shame.

34 Lodge a stranger, and he will destroy thee with vnquietnesse, and drive thee from thine owne.

CHAP. XII.

1 Vnto whom wee ought to doe good. 10 Enemies ought not to be trusted.

WHen thou wilt doe good, know to whom thou doest it, so shalt thou be thanked for thy benefites.

Gal.6.10. 2 * Doe good vnto the righteous, and thou
1.tim.5.8. shalt finde [great] reward, though not of him, yet of the most High.

3 He cannot haue good that continueth in euill, and giueth no almes: [for the most High hateth the sinners, and hath mercy vpon them that repent.]

4 Giue vnto such as feare God, and receiue not a sinner.

5 Doe well vnto him that is lowly, but giue not to the vngodly: holde backe thy bread, and giue it not vnto him, least hee ouercome thee thereby: else thou shalt receiue twise as much euill for all the good that thou doest vnto him.

6 For the most High hateth the wicked, and will repay vengeance vnto the vngodly, and keepeth them against the day of horrible vengeance.

7 Giue vnto the good, and receiue not the sinner.

8 A friend cannot be knowen in prosperitie, neither can an enemie be vnknowen in aduersitie.

9 When a man is in wealth, it grieueth his enemies, but in heauinesse and trouble a mans very friend will depart from him.

10 Trust neuer thine enemie: for like as an yron rusteth, so doeth his wickednesse.

11 And though he make much crouching and kneeling, yet aduise thy selfe, & beware of him, and thou shalt be to him, as hee that wipeth a glasse, and thou shalt knowe that all his rust hath not bene well wiped away.

12 Set him not by thee, lest hee destroy thee, and stand in thy place.

13 Neither set him at thy right hand, least hee seeke thy rowme, and thou at the last remember my wordes, and be pricked with my sayings.

Chap.7.8. and 21.1. 14 * Binde not two sinnes together: for there shall not one be vnpunished.

15 Who

15 Who will haue pitie of the charmer, that is stinged of the serpent? or of all such as come neere the beasts? so is it with him that keepeth companie with a wicked man, and wrappeth himselfe in his sinnes.

16 For a season will he bide with thee: but if thou stumble, he tarieth not.

Iere.41.6. 17 * An enemie is sweete in his lips: he can make many good words, & speake many good things: yea, he can weepe with his eyes, but in his heart he imagineth how to throw thee into the pit: and if hee may finde opportunitie, hee will not be satisfied with blood.

18 If aduersitie come vpon thee, thou shalt finde him there first, and though hee pretend to helpe thee, yet shall he undermine thee: he will shake his head, and clap his hands, & will make many words, and disguise his countenance.

CHAP. XIII.

1 The companie of the proud and of the rich are to be eschewed. 15 The loue of God. 17 Like doe companie with their like.

Deut.7.2. HE * that toucheth pitch, shall be defiled with it: and he that is familiar with the proude, shalbe like vnto him.

2 Burthen not thy selfe aboue thy power, whilest thou liuest, and companie not with one that is mightier, and richer then thy selfe: for howe agree the kettle and the earthen pot together? for if the one be smitten against the other, it shalbe broken.

3 The rich dealeth vnrighteously, & threatneth withall: but the poore being oppressed must intreat: if the rich haue done wrong, he must yet be intreated: but if the poore haue done it, he shall straightwayes be threatned.

4 If thou be for his profit, he vseth thee: but if thou haue nothing, he will forsake thee.

5 If thou haue any thing, hee will liue with thee: yea, he will make thee a bare man, & will not care for it.

6 If hee haue need of thee, hee will defraud thee, and will laugh at thee, & put thee in hope, and giue thee all good words, and say, What wantest thou?

7 Thus will hee shame thee in his meat, vntill hee haue supt thee cleane vp twise or thrise, and at the last he will laugh thee to scorne: afterward when hee seeth thee, hee will forsake thee, and shake his head at thee.

8 [Submit thy selfe vnto God, and wait vpon his hand.]

9 Beware that thou bee not deceiued in thine owne conceite, and brought downe by thy simplenesse: [be not too humble in thy wisdome.]

10 ¶ If thou be called of a mightie man, absent thy selfe: so shall he call thee the more oft.

11 Presse not thou vnto him, that thou bee not shut out, but goe not thou farre off, least he forget thee.

12 Withdrawe not thy selfe from his speech, but beleeue not his many words: for with much communication will hee tempt thee, and laughingly will he grope thee.

13 He is vnmercifull, and keepeth not promise: he will not spare to doe thee hurt, and to put thee in prison.

14 Beware, & take good heed: for thou walkest in perill of thine ouerthrowing: when thou hearest this, awake in thy sleepe.

15 Loue the Lord all thy life, & call vpon him for thy saluation.

16 ¶ Euery beast loueth his like, and euery man loueth his neighbour.

17 All flesh will resort to their like, and euery man will keepe companie with such as hee is himselfe.

18 How can the wolfe agree with the lambe? no more can the vngodly with the righteous.

19 What felowship hath ‖ hyena with a dog? and what peace is betweene the rich and the poore?

‖ Which is a wilde beast that counterfeiteth the voyce of men, and so entiseth the out of their houses and deuoureth them.

20 As the wilde asse is the Lions praye in the wildernesse, so are poore men the meate of the rich.

21 As the proud hate humilitie, so do the rich abhorre the poore.

22 If a rich man fall, his friends set him vp againe: but when the poore falleth, his friends driue him away.

23 If a rich man offend, hee hath many helpers: hee speaketh proud wordes, and yet men iustifie him: but if a poore man faile, they rebuke him, and though he speake wisely, yet can it haue no place.

24 When the rich man speaketh, euery man holdeth his tongue: and looke what he saieth, they praise it vnto the cloudes: but if the poore man speake, they say, What fellow is this? and if he do amisse, they will destroy him.

25 Riches are good vnto him that hath no sinne [in his conscience,] and pouertie is euill in the mouth of the vngodly.

26 The heart of a man changeth his countenance, whether it be in good or euill.

27 A cheerefull countenance is a token of a good heart: for it is an hard thing to know the secrets of the thought.

CHAP. XIIII.

1 The offence of the tongue. 17 Man is but a vaine thing. 21 Happie is he that continueth in wisedome.

BLessed is the man * that hath not fallen by [the worde of] his mouth, and is not tormented with the sorrow of sinne. Chap.19.6, 16, Iam.3.2.

2 Blessed is he that is not condemned in his conscience, and is not fallen from his hope in the Lord.

3 Riches are not comely for a nigarde, and what should an enuious man do with money?

4 He that gathereth together from his owne soule, heapeth together for others, & will make good cheare with his goods.

5 He that is wicked vnto himselfe, to whom will he be good? for such one can haue no pleasure of his goods.

6 There is nothing worse, then when one enuieth himselfe: and this is a reward of his wickednesse.

7 And if hee doe any good, hee doeth it not knowing thereof, and against his will, and at the last he declareth his wickednesse.

8 The enuious man hath a wicked looke: he turneth away his face, and despiseth men.

9 A couetous mans eye hath neuer enough of a portion, and his wicked malice withereth his owne soule.

10 A * wicked eye enuieth the bread, & there is scarsenesse vpon his table. Prou.27.20.

11 My sonne, doe good to thy selfe of that thou hast, and giue the Lord his due offerings.

12 Remember that death tarrieth not, and that the a couenant of the graue is not shewed vnto thee.

a That is, the day of death. Chap. 41. Iob. 4.7. Luke 14.13.

13 * Doe good vnto thy friend before thou die, and according to thine habilitie stretch out thine hand, and giue him.

14 Defraud not thy selfe of the good day, and let not the portion of the good desires ouerpasse thee.

15 Shalt thou not leaue thy trauailes vnto another, and thy labours for the diuiding of the heritage?

16 Giue & take & sanctifie thy soule: [worke thou righteousnes before thy death:] for in the hell there is no meate to finde.

17 ¶ * All flesh waxeth olde, as a garment, and this is the condition of all times, Thou shalt die the death. Isa 40.6. 1. pet. 1.24. Iam. 1.10.

18 As the greene leaues on a thicke tree, some fall, and some growe, so is the generation of flesh and blood: one commeth to an end, and another is borne.

19 All corruptible things shall faile, and the worker thereof shall go withall.

20 [Euery excellent worke shall be iustified, and hee that worketh it, shall haue honour thereby.]

21 * Blessed is the man that doeth meditate honest things by wisedome, [and exerciseth himselfe in iustice,] and he that reasoneth of holy things by his vnderstanding. Psal. 1,2.

22 Which considereth in his heart her waies, and vnderstandeth her secrets.

23 Goe thou after her as one that seeketh her out, and lie in wait in her wayes.

24 Hee shall looke in at her windowes, and hearken at her doores.

25 He shall abide beside her house, and fasten a stake in her walles: he shall pitch his tent besides her.

26 And hee shall remaine in the lodging of good men, and shall set his children vnder her couering, and shall dwell vnder her branches.

27 By her he shalbe couered from the heate, and in her glory shall he dwell.

CHAP. XV.

1 The goodnesse that followeth him which feareth God. 8 God reiecteth and casteth off the sinner. 11 God is not the author of euill.

HE that feareth the Law, will doe good: and he that hath the knowledge of the Law, will keepe it sure.

2 As an [honourable] mother shall she meet him, and she, a as his wife married of a virgin, will receiue him.

a As a pure virgin newly married, doth friendly intreate her husband: so shall iustice pure & vndefiled gently entertaine her louers. Iohn 4.10.

3 With the bread [of life] and vnderstanding shall shee feed him, and giue him the * water of [wholesome] wisedome to drinke.

4 Hee shall assure himselfe in her, and shall not be mooued, and shall holde himselfe fast by her, and shall not be confounded.

5 She shall exalt him aboue his neighbours, and in the middes of the congregation shall she open his mouth: [with the spirit of wisedome, and vnderstanding shall she fill him, and clothe him with the garment of glory.]

6 Shee shall cause him to inherite ioy, and the crowne of gladnesse, and an euerlasting name.

7 But foolish men will not take holde vpon her: [but such as haue vnderstanding will meet her:] the sinners shall not see her.

8 For shee is farre from pride [and deceit,] and men that lie, cannot remember her: [but men of trueth shall haunt her, and shall prosper euen vnto the beholding of God.]

9 Praise is not seemely in the mouth of the sinner: for that is not sent of the Lord.

10 But if praise come of wisedome, [and be plentious in a faithfull mouth] then the Lorde will prosper it.

11 Say not thou, It is through the Lorde that I turne backe: for thou oughtest not to doe the things that he hateth.

12 Say not thou, He hath caused me to erre: for he hath no need of the sinfull man.

13 The Lorde hateth all abomination [of error:] and they that feare God, loue it not.

14 * He made man from the beginning, and left him in the hand of his counsell [and gaue him his commandements and precepts.] Gene. 1,27.

15 If thou wilt, thou shalt obserue the commandements, and testifie thy good will.

16 Hee hath set water and fire before thee: stretch out thine hand vnto which thou wilt.

17 * Before man is life and death, [good and euill:] what him liketh, shalbe giuen him. Iere. 21,8.

18 For the wisdome of the Lord is great, and he is mightie in power, and beholdeth al things [continually.]

19 * And the eyes [of the Lorde] are vpon them that feare him, and hee knoweth all the workes of man. Psal. 34.15, 16. heb. 4.13.

20 He hath commanded no man to doe vngodly, neither hath he giuen any man licence to sinne: [for hee desireth not a multitude of misdeeds, and vnprofitable children.]

CHAP. XVI.

1 Of vnhappie and wicked children. 17 No man can hide himselfe from God. 24 An exhortation to the receiuing of instruction.

DEsire not the multitude of vnprofitable children, neither delight in vngodly children: though they be many, reioyce not in them, except the feare of the Lord be with them.

2 Trust not thou to their life, neither rest vpon their multitude.

3 For one that is iust, is better then a thousand such, and better it is to die without children, then to leaue behinde him vngodly children.

4 For by one that hath vnderstanding, shall the citie be inhabited: but the stocke of the wicked shalbe wasted incontinently.

5 Many such things haue I seene with mine eyes, and mine eare hath heard greater things then these.

6 * In the congregation of the vngodly shall a fire be kindled, and among vnfaithfull people shall the wrath be set on fire. Chap. 21,9, 10.

7 * He spared not the olde giants which were rebellious, trusting to their owne strength, Gene. 6,4.

8 * Neither spared hee whereas Lot dwelt, those whom he abhorred for their pride. Gen. 19,21, 25.

9 He had no pitie vpon the people that were destroyed, and puffed vp in their sinnes.

10 * And so hee preserued the fiue hundreth thousand footemen, that were gathered in the hardnesse of their heart, in afflicting them Num. 14.15, 16,20. and 26,51.

and

and pitying them, in smiting them and healing them, with mercie, and with chastisement.

11 Therfore if there be one stifnecked among the people, it is marueil if hee scape vnpunished: for mercie and wrath are with him: he is mightie to forgiue, and to powre out displeasure.

12 *As his mercie is great, so is his punishment also: *he iudgeth a man according to his workes. Chap.5.6. Rom.2.6.

13 The vngodly shall not escape with his sporle, and the patience of the godly shall not be delayed.

14 He will giue place to all good deedes, and euery one shall finde according to his workes, [and after the vnderstanding of his pilgrimage.]

15 The Lorde hardened Pharao, that he shoulde not knowe him, and that his workes shoulde be knowen vpon the earth vnder the heauen.

16 His mercie is knowen to all creatures: he hath separate his light from the darkenes with an adamant.

17 Say not thou, I will hide my selfe from the Lord: for who will thinke vpon me from aboue? I shal not be knowen in so great an heape of people: for what is my soule among such an infinite number of creatures?

18 Behoulde, the heauen, and the *heauen of heauens, which are for God, the depth, and the earth, and all that therein is, shall be mooued when he shall visite. 2.Pet.3.10. 1.king.8.27. 2.chro.6.18.

19 All the world which is created and made by his will, the mountaines also, and the foundations of the earth shall shake for feare, when the Lord looketh vpon them.

20 These things doeth no heart vnderstande wooethily, [but hee vnderstandeth euerie heart.]

21 And who vnderstandeth his wayes? and the stormie that no man can see? for the most part of his workes are hid.

22 Who can declare the workes of his righteousnesse? or who can abide them? for his ordinance is farre off, and the trying out of all things faileth.

23 He that is humble of heart, will consider these things: but an vnwise and erronious man casteth his minde vpon foolish things.

24 My sonne, hearken vnto me, and learne knowledge, and marke my wordes with thine heart.

25 I will declare thee weightie doctrine, and I will instruct thee exactly in knowledge.

26 The Lord hath set his workes in good order from the beginning, and part of them hath hee sundred from the other when hee first made them.

27 He hath garnished his workes for euer, and their beginnings so long as they shall endure, they are not hungrie nor wearied in their labours, nor cease from their offices.

28 None of them hindereth another, neither was any of them disobedient vnto his wordes.

29 After this þ Lord looked vpon the earth, and filled it with his good things.

30 With all maner of liuing beasts hath hee couered the face thereof, and they returne into it againe.

CHAP. XVII.

1 The creation of man, and the goodnesse that God hath done vnto him. 20 Of almes, 22 and repentance.

THe* Lord hath created man of the earth, and turned him vnto it againe. Gen.1.27.& 5.2. wisd.2.

2 He gaue him the number of dayes and certeine times, and gaue him power of the things that are vpon earth. 23.& 7.1,6. 1.cor.11.7. col.3.10.

3 Hee clothed them with strength, as they had needs, and made them according to his image.

4 He made all flesh to feare him, so that hee had the dominion ouer the beasts, and fowles.

5 [*He created out of him an helper like vnto himselfe,] and gaue them discretion, and tongue, and eyes, eares, and an heart to vnderstand, and sirlp hee gaue them a spirit, and seuenthly hee gaue them speech to declare his workes, Gene.3.22. 1.cor.11.9.

6 And he filled them with knowledge of vnderstanding, and shewed them good and euill.

7 He set his eye vpon their hearts, declaring vnto them his noble workes,

8 And gaue them occasion to reioyce perpetually in his miracles, that they shoulde prudently declare his workes, and that the elect should praise his holy name together.

9 Beside this, hee gaue them knowledge, and gaue them the Lawe of life for an heritage, that they might nowe knowe that they were a mortall.

10 Hee made an euerlasting couenant with them, and shewed them his iudgements.

11 Their eyes sawe the maiestie of his glory, and their eares heard his glorious voice.

12 And hee saide vnto them, Beware of all vnrighteous things. *Hee gaue euery man also a commaundement concerning his neighbour. Exod.20.16, 17.& 22.23.

13 Their wayes are euer before him, and are not hid from his eyes.

14 Euery man from his youth is giuen to euill, and their stone heartes cannot become b flesh.

15 Hee appointed a ruler vpon euery people, when hee diuided the nations of the whole earth.

16 *And hee did chuse Israel, as a peculiar people to himselfe, whom hee nourisheth with discipline as his first borne, and giueth him most louing light, and doth not forsake him. Deut.4.20. and 10.15.

17 All their workes are as the sunne before him, and his eyes are continually vpon their wayes.

18 None of their vnrighteousnesse is hidde from him, but all their sinnes are before the Lord.

19 And as he is mercifull, and knoweth his worke, he doth not leaue them nor forsake them, but spareth them.

20 *The almes of a man, is as a thing sealed vp before him, and hee keepeth the good deedes of man as the apple of the eye, and giueth repentance to their sonnes and daughters. Chap.29.13.

21 *At the last shall hee arise, and rewarde them, and shall repay their reward vpon their heads. Mat.25.35.

22 *But vnto them that will repent, hee giueth them grace to returne, and exhorteth Act.3.19.

such as faile, with patience, [and sendeth them the portion of the veritie.]

Iere.3.12. 23 * Returne then vnto the Lord, and forsake thy sinnes: make thy prayer before his face, and take away the offence.

24 Turne againe vnto the most High: for he will bring thee from darkenesse to wholesome light: forsake thine vnrighteousnesse, and hate greatly all abomination.

25 [Know the righteousnesse & iudgements of God: stand in the portion that is set forth for thee, and in the prayer of the most Hie God, and goe in the parts of the holy world with such as be liuing, and confesse God.]

Psal.6.5.isa.38.18,19. 26 * Who can prayse the most High in the hell, as doe all they that liue and confesse him?

27 [Abide not thou in the errour of the vngodly, but praise the Lord before death.]

28 Thankefulnesse perisheth from the dead, as though he were not: but the liuing, and he that is sound of heart, praiseth the Lorde, [and reioyceth in his mercy.]

29 How great is the louing kindenesse of the Lord our God, and his compassion vnto such as turne vnto him in holinesse?

30 For all things cannot bee in men, because the sonne of man is not immortall, [and they take pleasure in the vanitie of wickednesse.]

31 What is more cleere then the sunne? yet shall it faile.

32 So flesh and blood that thinketh euill, [shalbe reproued.]

33 Hee seeth the power of the high heauen, and all men are but earth and ashes.

CHAP. XVIII.

1 The marueilous works of God. 6, 7 The miserie and wretchednesse of man. 9 Against God ought we not to complaine. 21 The performing of vowes.

Gene.1,1. HE that liueth for euer, * made all things together: the Lord who only is iust, and there is none other but he, [and he remaineth a victorious king for euer,]

2 He ordereth the worlde with the power of his hand, and all things obey his will: for he gouerneth all things by his power, and diuideth the holy things from the prophane.

3 To whom hath hee giuen power to expresse his workes? who will seeke out the ground of his noble acts?

4 Who shall declare the power of his greatnesse? or who will take vpon him to tell out his mercie?

5 As for the woonderous workes of the Lorde, there may nothing be taken from them, neither can any thing bee put vnto them, neither may the ground of them be found out.

6 But when a man hath done his best, hee must beginne againe, and when hee thinketh to come to an ende, hee must goe againe to his labour.

7 ¶ What is man? whereto serueth hee? what good or euill can he doe?

Psal.90.10. 8 * If the number of a mans dayes bee an hundreth peeres, it is much: and no man hath certeine knowledge of his death.

9 As droppes of raine are vnto the sea, and as a grauell stone is in comparison of the sand, so are a * thousand peeres to the dayes eternitie. 2.Pet.3.8.

10 Therefore is [God] patient with them, and powreth out his mercie vpon them.

11 Hee sawe and perceiued, that [the arrogancie of their heart, and their ruine was euill: therefore heaped hee vp his mercie vpon them, and shewed them the way of righteousnesse.]

12 The mercie that a man hath, reacheth to his neighbour: but the mercie of the Lorde is vpon all flesh: he chasteneth, and nurtereth, and teacheth, and bringeth backe, as a shepheard his flocke.

13 He hath mercie on them that receiue discipline, and that diligently seeke after his iudgements.

14 ¶ My sonne, when thou doest good, reproue not: and whatsoeuer thou giuest, vse no discomfortable words.

15 Shall not the dewe asswage the heate? so is a word better then a gift.

16 Lo, is not a word better then a good gift? but a gracious man giueth them both.

17 A foole will reproch churlishly, and a gift of the enuious putteth out the eyes.

18 [Get thee righteousnes before thou come to iudgement:] learne before thou speake, and vse physicke or euer thou be sicke.

19 * Examine thy selfe before thou bee iudged, and in the day of the visitation thou shalt finde mercie. 1.Cor.11.31

20 Humble thy selfe before thou be sicke, and whiles thou mayest yet sinne, shewe thy conuersion.

21 Let nothing let thee to pay thy vowe in time, and deferre not vnto death to bee reformed: [for the reward of God endureth for euer.]

22 Before thou prayest, prepare thy selfe, and be not as one that tempteth the Lord.

23 Thinke vpon the * wrath, that shall be at the ende, and the houre of vengeance, when he shall turne away his face. Chap.7.17, 36.

24 * When thou hast enough, remember the time of hunger: and when thou art rich, thinke vpon pouertie and need. Chap.11.25.

25 From the morning vntill the euening the time is changed, and all such things are soone done before the Lord.

26 A wise man feareth in all things, and in the dayes of transgression hee keepeth himselfe from sinne: but the foole doth not obserue the time.

27 ¶ Euery wise man knoweth wisedome, and knowledge, and prayseth him that findeth her.

28 They that haue vnderstanding, deale wisely in wordes: [they vnderstand the trueth and righteousnesse,] and powre out wise sentences for mans life.

29 The chiefe authoritie of speaking is of the Lord alone: for a mortall man hath but a dead heart.

30 ¶ * Follow not thy lustes, but turne thee from thine owne appetites. Rom.6.6, and 13.14.

31 For if thou giuest thy soule her desires, it shall make thine enemies that enuie thee, to laugh thee to scorne.

32 Take not thy pleasure in great voluptuousnesse, ouſneſſe, and intangle not thy ſelfe with ſuch company.

33 Become not a begger by making bankets of that that thou haſt borowed, and ſo leaue nothing in thy purſe: elſe thou ſhouldeſt ſlanderouſly ſpe in waite for thine owne life.

CHAP. XIX.

1 Wine and whordome bring men to penurtie. 6 In thy wordes vſe diſcretion. 22 The difference of the wiſedome of God and man. 27 Whereby thou mayeſt knowe what is in man.

A labouring man that is giuen to drunkenneſſe, ſhall not be rich: and he that contemneth ſmall things, ſhall fall by little and little.

Gen.19.33. 3.Eſd.3.1, 3,4. 2 *Wine and women leade wiſe men out of the way, [and put men of vnderſtanding to reproofe.]

3 And he that companieth adulterers, ſhall become impudent: rottenneſſe and wormes ſhall haue him to heritage, and hee that is too bolde, ſhall be taken away, and be made a publike example.

Ioſh.22,11, 12. 4 *He that is haſtie to giue credite, is light minded, and hee that erreth, ſinneth againſt his owne ſoule.

5 Who ſo reioyceth in wickedneſſe, ſhall be puniſhed: [he that hateth to be reproued, his life ſhall be ſhortened, and hee that abhorreth babbling of wordes, quencheth wickednes:] but hee that reſiſteth pleaſures, crowneth his owne ſoule.

6 He that refraineth his tongue, may liue with a troubleſome man, and hee that hateth babbling, ſhall haue leſſe euill.

7 Rehearſe not to an other, that which is tolde vnto thee: ſo thou ſhalt not be hindred.

8 Declare not other mens maners, neither to friend nor foe: and if the ſinne appertaine not vnto thee, reueile it not.

9 For he will hearken vnto thee, and marke thee, and when he findeth opportunitie, he will hate thee.

Chap.22.22. and 27.17. 10 *If thou haſt heard a worde [againſt thy neighbour,] let it dye with thee, and be ſure, it will not burſt thee.

11 A foole trauaileth when hee hath heard a thing, as a woman that is about to bring forth a childe.

12 As an arrowe that ſticketh in ones thigh, ſo is a word in a fooles heart.

Leuit.19.17. matth.18.15 13 *Reproue a friend leaſt he doe euill, and if he haue done it, that he doe it no more.

14 Reproue a friende that he may keepe his tongue: and if he haue ſpoken, that he ſay it no more.

15 Tell thy friend his fault: for oft times a ſlaunder is raiſed, and giue no credence to euery word.

Iam.3,2. 16 A man falleth with his tongue, but not with his will: *and who is hee, that hath not offended in his tongue?

17 Reproue thy neighbour before thou threaten him, and bring without anger, giue place vnto the Lawe of the moſt High.

18 The feare of the Lorde is the firſt degree to be receiued of him, and wiſedome obteineth his loue.

19 The knowledge of the commaundements of the Lorde is the doctrine of life, and they that obey him, ſhall receiue the fruite of immortalitie.

20 The feare of the Lorde is all wiſedome, and the performing of the Law is perfite wiſdome, & the knowledge of his almighty power.

21 If a ſeruant ſay vnto his maiſter, I will not doe as it pleaſeth thee, though afterward he doe it, he ſhall diſpleaſe him that nourtſheth him.

22 The knowledge of wickednes is not wiſdome, neither is there prudence where as the counſell of ſinners is: but it is euen execrable malice: and the foole is voide of wiſedome.

23 Hee that hath ſmall vnderſtanding, and feareth God, is better then one that hath much wiſedome, and tranſgreſſeth the Lawe of the moſt High.

24 There is a certaine ſubtiltie that is fine, but it is vnrighteous: & there is that wreſteth the open and manifeſt lawe: yet there is that is wiſe and iudgeth righteouſly.

25 There is ſome that being about wicked purpoſes, doe bowe downe themſelues, and are ſadde, whoſe inwarde partes burne altogether with deceite: hee looketh downe with his face, and faineth himſelfe deafe: yet before thou perceiue, he will be vpon thee to hurt thee.

26 And though hee be ſo weake that hee can doe thee no harme, yet when hee may finde opportunitie, he will doe euill.

27 ¶ A man may be knowen by his looke, and one that hath vnderſtanding, may be perceiued by the marking of his countenance.

28 * A mans garment, and his exceſſiue laughter, and going, declare what perſon he is. Chap.21,30. 23.

CHAP. XX.

Of correction and repentance. 6 To ſpeake and keepe ſilence in time. 17 The fall of the wicked. 23 Of lying. 24 The thiefe and the murtherer. 28 Giftes blinde the eyes of the wiſe.

There is ſome rebuke that is not comely: againe, ſome man holdeth his tongue, and he is wiſe.

2 It is much better to reproue, then to beare euill will: and he that acknowledgeth his fault, ſhalbe preſerued from hurt.

3 As * when a gelded man through luſt would defile a maide, ſo is hee that vſeth violence in iudgement. Chap.30.20.

4 Howe good a thing is it, when thou are reproued, to ſhewe repentance! for ſo ſhalt thou eſcape wilfull ſinne.

5 Some man keepeth ſilence, and is founde wiſe, and ſome by much babbling becommeth hatefull.

6 Some man holdeth his tongue, becauſe he hath not to anſwere: and ſome keepeth ſilence, wayting a conuenient * time. Eccle.3.7.

7 *A wiſe man will holde his tongue till hee ſee opportunitie: but a triſler and a foole will regard no time. Chap.32.4.

8 He that vſeth many words, ſhall be abhorred, and hee that taketh authoritie to himſelfe, ſhalbe hated.

9 Some man hath oft times proſperitie in wicked things, and ſometime a thing that is found, bringeth loſſe.

10 There is ſome gift that is not profitable for thee, and there is ſome gift, whoſe reward is double.

11 Some

11 Some man humbleth himselfe for glories sake, and some by humblenes lifteth vp the head.

12 Some man bupeth much for a litle price: for the which he papeth seuen times moze.

Chap.6.5. 13 *A wise man with his wozdes maketh himselfe to be loued, but the merp tales of fooles shall be powred out.

14 The gift receiued of a foole, shall doe thee no good, neither pet of the enimies for his importunitie: for hee looketh to receiue manp things for one: hee giueth little, and he vpbrapdeth much: he openeth his mouth like a towne crier: to dap hee lendeth, to mozowe asketh hee agame, and such one is to be hated of God and man.

15 The foole sapth, I haue no friend: I haue no thanke for all my good deedes: and they that eate my bread, speake euill of me.

16 Howe oft, and of howe manp shall he be laughed to scorne? for he comprehendeth not by right iudgement that which hee hath: and it is all one as though he had it not.

17 The fall on a pauement is very sudden: so shall the fall of the wicked come hastily.

18 A man without grace is as a foolish tale which is oft tolde by the mouth of the ignozant.

19 A wise sentence loseth grace when it commeth out of a fooles mouth: for he speaketh not in due season.

20 Some man sinneth not because of pouertie, and pet is not grieued when he is alone.

21 Some man there is that destropeth his owne soule, because hee is ashamed, and for the regard of persons looseth it.

22 Some man promiseth vnto his friende for shame, and getteth an enemie of him for nought.

Chap.25.2. 23 *A lie is a wicked shame in a man: pet is it oft in the mouth of the vnwise.

24 A theefe is better, then a man that is accustomed to lie: but they both shall haue destruction to heritage.

25 The conditions of liars are vnhoneft, and their shame is euer with them.

26 A wise man shall bring himselfe to honour with his wozdes, and he that hath vnderstanding, shall please great men.

Pro.12.11. and 28.19. 27 *He that tilleth his land, shall increase his heape: [he that wozketh righteousnesse, shall be exalted,] and he that pleaseth great men, shall haue pardon of his iniquitie.

Exod.23.8. deut.16.19. 28 *Rewards and giftes blinde the eyes of the wise, and make them dumme, that they can not repioue faultes.

29 Wisedome that is hid, and treasure that is hoarded vp, what profite is in them both?

30 Better is hee that keepeth his ignozance secrete, then a man that hideth his wisedome.

31 The necessarie patience of him that followeth the Lozde, is better then he that gouerneth his life without the Lozd.

CHAP. XXI.

1 Not to continue in sinne. 5 The prayer of the afflicted. 6 To hate to be reproued. 17 The mouth of the wise man. 26 The thought of the foole.

Chap.5.5. psal.41.4. luke 15.21. MY sonne, hast thou sinned? doe so no more, *but pray for the foresinnes [that they may be forgiuen thee.]

2 Flee from sinne, as from a serpent: for if thou commest too neere it, it will bite thee: the teeth thereof are as the teeth of a Lyon, to slap the soules of men.

3 All iniquitie is as a two edged swozd, the wounds whereof cannot be healed.

4 Strife and iniuries waste riches: so the house of the proude shall be desolate.

Exod.3.9. and 22.23. 5 *The prayer of the poore going out of the mouth commeth vnto the eares of the Lord, and iustice is done him incontinently.

6 Who so hateth to be reformed, is in the way of sinners: but hee that feareth the Lozde conuerteth in heart.

7 An eloquent talker is knowen afarre off: but he that is wise, perceiueth when he falleth.

8 Who so buildeth his house with other mens money, is like one that gathereth stones to make his graue.

Chap.16.6. 9 *The congregation of the wicked is like towe wrapped together: their ende is a flame of fire to destrop them.

10 The way of sinners is made plaine with stones, but at the ende thereof is hell, [darknesse and paines.]

‖ Or, keepeth the vnderstanding thereof. 11 He that keepeth the law of the Lozd, ‖ruleth his owne affections thereby: and the increase of wisedome is the ende of the feare of God.

12 He that is not wise, will not suffer himselfe to be taught: but there is some wit that increaseth bitternesse.

13 The knowledge of the wise shall abound like water that runneth ouer, and his counsell is like a pure fountaine of life.

Chap.33.5. 14 *The inner parts of a foole are like a broken vessell: hee can keepe no knowledge whiles he liueth.

15 When a man of vnderstanding heareth a wise wozde, he will commend it, and increase it: but if an ignozant man heare it, he will disallow it, and cast it behinde his backe.

16 The talking of a foole is like a burden in the way, but there is comelines in the talke of a wise man.

17 They inquire at the mouth of the wise man in the congregation, and they shall ponder his wozdes in their heart.

18 As is an house that is destroyed, so is wisdome vnto a foole, and the knowledge of the vnwise is as wozdes without oder.

19 Doctrine vnto fooles, is as fetters on the feete, and like manicles vpon the right hand.

Chap.19. 27,28. 20 *A foole lifteth vp his voyce with laughter, but a wise man doeth scarce smile secretly.

21 Learning is vnto a wise man a iewell of gold, and like a bracelet vpon his right arme.

22 A foolish mans foote is soone in his [neighbours] house: but a man of experience is ashamed to looke in.

23 A foole will peepe in at the doore into the house: but he that is well nourtured, will stand without.

24 It is the point of a foolish man to harken at the doore: for he that is wise, will be grieued with such dishonour.

25 The lippes of talkers will be telling such things as pertaine not vnto them, but the wozds of such as haue vnderstanding are weighed in the ballance.

26 The heart of fooles is in their mouth: but the mouth of the wise is in their heart.

27 When

27 When the vngodly curseth Satan, he curseth his owne soule.

Chap.28.13. 28 *A backbiter defileth his owne soule, and is hated where soeuer he is: [but he that keepeth his tongue, and is discreete, shall come to honour.]

CHAP. XXII.

1 Of the staggard. 12 Not to speake much to a foole. 16 A good conscience feareth not.

a.b. That is like as the idle stone gathereth mosse and filth: so doth the slouthful both sicknes of body, and corruption of minde. And as euery man doeth auoyd the filthinesse of doung, and shaketh it off: so doth he auoyd the company of idle loiterers, lest he be accounted like vnto them.

A Slouthfull man is like a a filthie stone, which euery man mocketh at for his shame.

2 A slouthfull man is to bee compared to the b dung of oxen, and euery one that taketh it vp, will shake it out of his hand.

3 An euill nurtured sonne is the dishonour of the father: and the daughter is least to bee esteemed.

4 A wise daughter is an heritage vnto her husband: but shee that liueth dishonestly, is her fathers heauinesse.

5 Shee that is bolde, dishonoureth both her father and her husbande, [and is not inferiour to the vngodly,] but they both shall despise her.

6 A tale out of time is as musicke in mourning: but wisedome knoweth the seasons of correction and doctrine.

7 Who so teacheth a foole, is as one that gleweth a potshearde together, and as hee that waketh one that sleepeth, from a sounde sleepe.

8 If children liue honestly, and haue wherewith, they shall put away the shame of their parents.

9 But if children be proude, with hautinesse and foolishnesse they defile the nobilitie of their kinred.

10 Who so telleth a foole of wisedome, is as a man which speaketh to one that is asleepe: when he hath told his tale, he saieth, What is the matter?

Chap.38.16. 11 *Weepe for the dead, for hee hath lost the light: so weepe for the foole, for he wanteth vnderstanding: make small weeping for the dead, for hee is at rest: but the life of the foole is worse then the death.

12 Seuen dayes doe men mourne for him that is dead: but the lamentation for the foole and vngodly [should endure] all the dayes of their life.

13 Talke not much with a foole, and goe not Chap.12.12. to him that hath no vnderstanding: *beware of him least it turne thee to paine, and lest thou bee defiled when he shaketh himselfe. Depart from him, and thou shalt finde rest, and shalt not receiue sorowe by his foolishnesse.

14 What is heauier then leade? and what other name should a foole haue?

Prou.27.3. 15 *Sand and salt, and a lumpe of yron is easier to beare, then an vnwise, [foolish and vngodly man.]

16 As a frame of wood ioyned together in a building cannot bee loosed with shaking, so the heart that is stablished by aduised counsell, shall feare at no time.

17 The heart that is confirmed by discreete wisedome, is as a faire playstring on a plaine wall.

18 As reedes that are set vp on hie, cannot abide the winde, so the fearefull heart with foolish imagination can endure no feare.

19 Hee that hurteth the eye bringeth foorth teares, and hee that hurteth the heart, bringeth foorth the affection.

20 Who so casteth a stone at the birds, fraieth them away: and he that vpbraideth his friend, breaketh friendship.

21 Though thou drewest a sworde at thy friend, yet despaire not: for there may bee a returning to fauour.

22 If thou haue opened thy mouth against thy friend, feare not: for there may be a reconciliation, so that vpbraiding or pride or disclosing of secrets, or a trapterous wound doe not let: for by these things euery friend will depart.

23 Be faithfull vnto thy friend in his pouertie, that thou mayest reioyce in his prosperitie. Abide stedfast vnto him in the time of his trouble, that thou mayest bee heire with him in his heritage: for pouertie is not alwayes to be contemned, nor the riche that is foolish, to be had in admiration.

24 As the vapour, and smoke of the chimney goeth before the fire, so euill words, [rebukes and threatnings] goe before bloodshedding.

25 I will not be ashamed to defend a friend: neither will I hide my selfe from him, though he should do me harme: whosoeuer heareth it, shall beware of him.

26 Who shal set *a watch before my mouth, Psal.141.3. and a seale of wisedome vpon my lippes, that I fall not suddenly by them, and that my tongue destroy me not?

CHAP. XXIII.

1 A prayer of the author. 13 Of other, blasphemie and vnwise communication. 16 Of three kinds of sinnes. 23 Many sinnes proceede of adulterie. 27 Of the feare of God.

O Lorde, Father and gouernour of all my whole life, leaue mee not to their counsell, and let me not fall by ‖ them. ‖ Or, my lips.

2 Who will correct my thought, and put the doctrine of wisedome in mine heart, that they may not spare me in mine ignorance, neither let ‖ their faults passe? ‖ That is, of the tongue and lips.

3 Lest mine ignorances increase, and my sinnes abounde to my destruction, and least I fall before mine aduersarie, and mine enemies reioyce ouer mee, whose hope is farre from thy mercie.

4 O Lord, Father and God of my life, [leaue me not in their imagination] neither giue me a proud looke, but turne away from thy seruants a stout minde.

5 Take from mee vaine hope, and concupiscence, and retaine him in obedience, that desireth continually to serue thee.

6 Let not the greedinesse of the belly, nor lust of the flesh holde mee, and giue not mee thy seruant ouer into an impudent minde.

7 ¶ Heare, O yee children, the instruction of a mouth that shall speake trueth: who so keepeth it, shall not perish through his lips, [nor be hurt by wicked workes.]

8 The sinner shalbe taken by his owne lips: for the euill speaker and the proud doe offend by them.

9 *Accustome not thy mouth to swearing: Exod.20.7. chap.27.15. matth.5.33. [for in it there are many falles,] neither take vp for a custome the naming of the Holy one. 34.

one: [for thou shalt not bee vnpunished for such things.]

10 For as a seruaunt which is oft punished, cannot be without some skarre, so he that sweareth, and nameth God continually, shall not bee faultlesse.

11 A man that vseth much swearing shall bee filled with wickednesse, & the plague shall neuer goe from his house: when hee shall offende, his fault shalbe vpon him, and if he knowledge not his sinne, he maketh a double offence: and if hee sweare in vaine, he shall not be innocent, but his house shall be full of plagues.

12 There is a worde which is clothed with death: God graunt that it bee not found in the heritage of Iacob: but they that feare God, eschewe all such, and are not wrapped in sinne.

13 Vse not thy mouth to [ignorant rashnesse: for therein is the occasion of sinne.

[Or, inordinate swearing.

14 ¶ Remember thy father and thy mother when thou art set among great men, lest thou bee forgotten in their sight, and so thorough thy custome become a foole, and wish that thou haddest not bene borne, and curse the day of thy nativitie.

2. Sam. 16.7.

15 * The man that is accustomed to opprobrious wordes, will neuer bee reformed all the dayes of his life.

16 There are two sorts [of men] that abound in sinne, and the thirde bringeth wrath [and destruction:] a minde hote as fire that cannot be quenched, till it bee consumed: an adulterous man that glueth his body no rest, till hee haue kindled a fire.

17 (All bread is sweete to a whoremonger: he will not leaue off till he perish)

Isa. 29.15.

18 A man that breaketh wedlocke, and thinketh thus in his heart, * Who seeth mee? I am compassed about with darknesse: the walles couer me: no body seeth mee: whom needs I to feare? the most High will not remember my sinnes.

19 Such a man onely feareth the eyes of men, and knoweth not that the eyes of the Lord are ten thousand times brighter then the sunne, beholding al the waies of men, [and the ground of the deepe,] and considereth the most secrete partes.

20 Yee knewe all things or euer they were made, and after they be brought to passe also, he looketh vpon them all.

Leuit. 20.10. deut. 22.22.

21 * The same man shall bee punished in the streetes of the citie, [and shall bee chased like a young horse foale,] and when hee thinketh not vpon it, hee shalbe taken: [thus shall he be put to shame of euery man, because hee wouldst not vnderstand the feare of the Lord]

22 And thus shall it goe also with euery wife that leaueth her husbande, and getteth inheritance by another.

Exod. 20.14.

23 * For first she hath disobeyed the Lawe of the most High, and secondly, she hath trespassed against her owne husband, and thirdly, she hath played the whore in adulterie, and gotten her children by another man.

24 She shalbe brought out into the Congregation, and examination shall bee made of her children.

25 Her children shall not take roote, and her branches shall bring forth no fruite.

26 A shamefull reproit shall shee leaue, and her reproch shall not be put out.

27 And they that remaine, shall knowe that there is nothing better then the feare of the Lord, and that there is nothing sweeter then to take heed vnto the commandements of the Lord.

28 It is great glory to followe the Lord, and to be receiued of him is long life.

CHAP. XXIIII.

1 A praise of wisdome proceeding foorth of the mouth of God. 6 Of her workes and place where shee resteth. 20 Shee giuen to the children of God.

WIsedome shal praise her selfe, [and be honoured in God,] and reioyce in the mids of her people.

2 In the congregation of the most High shall shee open her mouth, and triumph before his power.

3 [In the middest of her people shall she bee exalted, and wondred at in the holy assembly.

4 In the multitude of the chosen she shall be commended, and among such as be blessed, shee shall be praised, and shall say,]

5 I am come out of the mouth of the most High, [first borne before all creatures.

6 I caused the light that faileth not, to arise in the heauen,] and couered the earth as a cloude.

7 My dwelling is aboue in the height, and my throne is in the pillar of the cloude.

8 I alone haue gone rounde about the compasse of heauen, and haue walked in the bottome of the depth.

Prou. 8.23. Exod. 31.3. Psal. 132.8.

9 I possessed the waues of the sea, and all the earth, and all people, and nation, [and with my power haue I troden downe the hearts of all, both high and lowe.]

10 In all these things I sought rest, and a dwelling in some inheritance.

11 So the creatour of all things gaue mee a commandement, and he that made me, appointed me a tabernacle, and saide, Let thy dwelling be in Iacob, and take thine inheritance in Israel, and roote thy selfe among my chosen.

12 * Hee created mee from the beginning, and before the world, and I shall neuer faile: * In the holy habitation haue I serued before him, and so was I stablished in Sion.

13 * In the welbeloued citie gaue he me rest, and in Ierusalem was my power.

14 I tooke roote in an honourable people, euen in the portion of the Lords inheritance.

15 I am set vpon hie like a cedar in Libanus, and as a Cypres tree vpon the mountaines of Hermon.

16 I am exalted like a palme tree [about the bankes, and as a rose plant in Iericho, as a faire olive tree in a pleasant fielde, and am exalted as a plane tree by the water.

17 I smelled as the cinamom, and as a bagge of spices: I gaue a sweete odour as the best myrre, as galbanum, and onyx, and sweete storax, and perfume of incense in an house.

18 As the [a terebinth, haue I stretched out my branches, and my branches are the branches of honour and grace.

19 * As the vine haue I brought forth [fruit] of sweete sauour, and my flowres are the fruite of honour and riches.

20 I am the mother of beautifull loue, and hunger, and they that drinke me, shall thirst the more.

25 Who so hearkeneth vnto mee, shall not ditch became a flood, and my flood became a sea.

36 For I make doctrine to shine as the light of the morning, and I lighten it for euer.

37 [I will pearce thorowe all the lower partes of the earth: I will looke vpon all such as be asleepe, and lighten all them that trust in the Lord.]

38 I will yet powre out doctrine, as prophecie, and leaue it vnto all ages for euer.

Chap.33.16. 39 *Beholde that I haue not laboured for my selfe onely, but for all them that seeke wise-dome.

CHAP. XXV.

1 Of three things which please God, & of three which he hateth. 7 Of nine things that he not to bee suspected. 14 Of the malice of a woman.

THree things reioyce me, and by them am I beautified before God and men: *the vnitie Gen.13.2,8. rom.12.10.
of brethren, the loue of neighbours, a man and wife that agree together.

2 ¶ Three sortes of men my soule hateth, and I vtterly abhorre the life of them: a poore man that is proud, a riche man that is a liar, and an old adulterer that doteth.

3 ¶ If thou hast gathered nothing in thy youth, what canst thou find in thine age?

4 ¶ Oh how pleasant a thing is it when gray headed men minister iudgement, and when the Elders can giue good counsell!

5 Oh, how comely a thing is wisedome vnto aged men, and vnderstanding and prudencie to men of honour!

6 The crowne of olde men is to haue much experience, and the feare of God is their glory.

7 ¶ There be nine things, which I haue mu-ged in mine heart to bee happy, and the tenth will I pronounce with my tongue: a man that while he liueth, hath ioy of his children, and seeth the fall of his enemies.

8 ¶ Well is him that dwelleth with a wife of vnderstanding, * & that hath not fallen with Chap.14.1. and 19.16. iames 3.2.
his tongue, and that hath not serued such as are vnworthy of him.

9 Well is him that findeth prudencie, and he that speaketh in the eares of the that wil heare.

10 ¶ Oh, how great is hee that findeth wise-dome! yet is there none aboue him that feareth
the Lord.

11 The feare of the Lord passeth all things in clearenesse.

12 [Blessed is the man vnto whom it is granted to haue the feare of God,] Vnto whom shall he be likened that hath attained it?

13 The feare of the Lord is the beginning of his loue, and faith is the beginning to be ioined to him.

14 [¶ The greatest heauinesse is the heau-nesse of the heart, and the greatest malice is the malice of a woman.]

15 Giue me any plague, saue only the plague of the heart, and any malice, saue the malice of a woman:

16 Or any assault saue the assault of the that hate, or any vengeance, saue the vengeance of the enemie.

17 There is not a more wicked head then the head of the serpent, & there is no wrath aboue the wrath of an enemie. [Or, woman, Pro.21.19.

18 *I had rather dwell with a lion and dragon, then to keepe house with a wicked wife.

19 The wickednesse of a woman changeth her face, and maketh her countenance blacke as a sacke. [Or, a beare.

20 Her husband is sitting among his neighbours: because of her he sigheth sore & bee beware.

21 All wickednesse is but litle to the wickednesse of a woman: let the portion of the sinner fall vpon her.

22 As the climing vp of a sandie way, is to the feete of the aged, so is a wife full of words to a quiet man.

23 *Stumble not at the beautie of a woman, Chap.42.12. 2 sam.11.2.
and desire her not for thy pleasure.

24 If a woman nourish her husband, shee is and 13.2.
angry and impudent and full of reproch.

25 A wicked wife maketh a sory heart, an heauie

me countenance, and a wounded mind, weake hands and feeble knees, and cannot comfort her husband in heauinesse.

Gen.3.6. 1 Tim.2,14. 26 Of the * woman came the beginning of sinne, and through her we all die.

27 Giue the water no passage, [no not a little,] neither giue a wicked woman libertie to goe out.

28 If she walke not in thine obedience, [shee shall confound thee in the sight of thine enemies.] Cut her off then from thy flesh: * Giue her, and forsake her.

* To wit, the bill of diuorcement.

CHAP. XXVI.

1 The prayse of a good woman. 5 Of the feare of three things, and of the fourth. 6 Of the iealous and drunken woman. 29 Of two things that cause sorow, and of the third which mooueth wrath.

BLessed is the man that hath a vertuous wife: for the number of his peeres shall be double.

2 An honest woman reioyceth her husband, and she shal fill the peeres of his life with peace.

3 A vertuous woman is a good portion, which shalbe giuen for a gift vnto such as feare the Lord.

4 Whether a man be rich or poore, he hath a good heart toward the Lord, and they shall at all times haue a cheerefull countenance.

5 ¶There bee three things that mine heart feareth, and my face is afrayd of the fourth: treason in a citie: the assemblie of the people, and false accusation: all these are heauier then death.

6 ¶But the sorow and griefe of the heart is a woman that is ielous ouer another: and the that communeth with all, is a scourge of the tongue.

7 An euil wife is as a yoke of oxen that draw diuers wayes: hee that hath her, is as though he held a scorpion.

8 A drunken woman and such as cannot be tamed, is a great plague: for she cannot couer her owne shame.

9 The whoredome of a woman may bee knowen in the pride of her eies, and eie lids.

Chap.42.11. 10 ¶* If thy daughter be not shamefast, hold her straitly, least she abuse her selfe through ouermuch libertie.

11 Take heed of her that hath an vnshamefast eye: & marueil not if shee trespasse against thee.

12 As one that goeth by the way, and is thirstie, so shall she open her mouth, and drinke of euery next water: by euery hedge shall shee sit downe, and open her quiuer against euery arrow.

13 The grace of a wife reioiceth her husband, and feedeth his bones with her vnderstanding.

14 A peaceable woman and of a good heart is a gift of the Lord, & there is nothing so much worth as a woman well instructed.

15 A shamefast & faithfull woman is a double grace, and there is no weight to bee compared vnto her continent mind.

16 As the sunne when it ariseth in the high places of the Lorde, so is the beautie of a good wife the ornament of her house.

17 As the cleare light is vpon the holy candlesticks, so is the beautie of the face in a ripe age.

18 As the golden pillars are vpon the sockets of siluer: so are faire feete with a constant mind.

19 [Perpetuall are the foundations that be layed vpon a strong rocke: so are the commandements of God in the heart of an holy woman.]

20 My sonne, keepe the strength of thine age stable, and giue not thy strength to strangers.

21 When thou hast gotten a fruitfull possession through all the fielde, sowe it with thine owne seed, trusting in thy nobilitie.

22 So thy stocke that shall liue after thee, shall growe, trusting in the great liberalitie of their nobilitie.

23 An harlot is compared to a sowe: but the wife that is married, is counted as a towze against death to her husband.

24 A wicked woman is giuen as a reward to a wicked man: but a godly woman is giuen to him that feareth the Lord.

25 A shameleese woman contemneth shame: but a shamefast woman wil reuerence her husband.

26 A shameleese woman is compared to a dog: but she that is shamefast, reuerenceth the Lord.

27 A woman that honoureth her husband, shall be iudged wise of all: but she that despiseth him, shalbe blazed for her pride.

28 A lowde crying woman and a babler, let her bee sought out to driue away the enemies: the mind of euery man that liueth with such, shall be conuersant among the troubles of warre.

29 There bee two things that grieue mine heart, and the third maketh me angry: a man of warre that suffreth pouertie: and men of vnderstanding that are not set by: and when one departeth from righteousnesse vnto sinne: the Lord appointeth such to the sword.

30 [There be two things, which me thinke to bee hard and perilous,] a merchant cannot lightly keepe him from wrong, and a vitailer is not without sinne.

CHAP. XXVII.

1 Of the poore that would be rich. 5 The probation of the man that feareth God. 13 The vnconstantnesse of a foole. 16 The secrets of friends are not to be vttered. 26 The wicked imagineth euil which turneth vpon himselfe.

BEcause of pouertie haue many sinned: and *he that seeketh to be rich, turneth his eyes aside. Pro.23.4. 1.Tim.6.9.

2 As a naile in the wall sticketh fast betweene the ioints of the stones, so doeth sinne sticke betweene the selling and the buying.

3 If he hold him not diligently in the feare of the Lorde, his house shall soone be ouerthrowen.

4 As when one sifteth, the filthinesse remaineth in the sieue, so the filth of man remaineth in his thought.

5 The fornace prooueth the potters vessell: *so doeth [temptation] trye mens thoughts. Pro.27.21. Mat.7.17.

6 *The fruite declareth if the tree haue bene trimmed: so the worde [declareth] what man hath in his heart.

7 Praise no man except thou haue heard his talke: for this is the triall of men.

8 ¶ If thou followest righteousnesse, thou shalt get her, & put her on as a faire garment, and shalt dwell with her, [and she shall defend thee for euer: and in the day of knowledge thou shalt finde stedfastnesse.]

9 The birdes resort vnto their like: so doeth the trueth turne vnto them, that are practised in her.

10 As the lion waiteth for the beast, so doeth sinne vpon them that doe euill.

11 The talking of him that feareth God, is all wisedome: as for a foole, he changeth as the moone.

12 If thou be among the vndiscreet, obserue the time, but haunt still the assembly of them that are wise.

13 The talking of fooles is grieuous, & their sport is in the pleasure of sinne.

Chap.13.9, 10. 14 *The talke of him that sweareth much, maketh the haire to stand vp: & to strine with such, stoppeth the eares.

15 The strife of the proud is bloodshedding, and their scoldings are grieuous to heare.

Chap.19.10. and 22,22. 16 *Who so discouereth secretes, looseth his credite, and findeth no friend, after his will.

17 Loue thy friend, & be faithfull vnto him: but if thou bewrayest his secrets, thou shalt not get him againe.

18 For as a man destroyeth his enemie, so doest thou destroy the friendship of thy neighbour.

19 As one that letteth a bird goe out of his hand, so if thou giue ouer thy friend, thou canst not get him againe.

20 Follow after him no more, for hee is too farre off: he is as a roe escaped out of the snare: [for his soule is wounded.]

21 As for woundes, they may bee bound vp againe, and an euil word may be reconciled: but who so bewrayeth the secrets of a friend, hath lost all his credite.

Pro.10.10. 22 *He that winketh with the eyes, imagineth euil: and he that knoweth him, will let him alone.

23 When thou art present, hee will speake sweetly, and praise thy wordes: but at the last he will turne his tale, and slander thy saying.

24 Many things haue I hated, but nothing so euil as such one: for the Lord also hateth him.

25 Who so casteth a stone on hie, casteth it vpon his owne head: and he that smiteth with guile, maketh a great wound.

Pſal.7.15. pro.26.27. eccles.10,8. 26 Who so *diggeth a pit, shall fall therein, [and hee that laieth a stone in his neighbours way, shall stumble thereon,] and he that laieth a snare for another, shalbe taken in it himselfe.

27 He that worketh euill, shall be wrapped in euil, and shal not know from whence they come vnto him.

28 Mockerie and reproch follow the proude, and vengeance lurketh for them as a lion.

29 They that reioyce at the fall of the righteous, shalbe taken in the snare, and anguish shall consume them before they die.

30 Despite & anger are abominable things, and the sinfull man is subiect to them both.

CHAP. XXVIII.

1 We ought not to desire vengeance, but to forgiue the offence. 13 Of the vices of the tongue, and of the dangers thereof.

HE * that seeketh vengeance, shall finde vengeance of the Lord, and he will surely keepe his sinnes. Deut.32.35. rom.12.19.

2 † Forgiue thy neighbour the hurt that he hath done to thee, so shall thy sinnes be forgiuen thee also when thou prayest. †Man ought not to seeke vengeance.

3 Should a man beare hatred against man, and *desire forgiuenesse of the Lord? Mat.6.14.

4 He wil shew no mercy to a man, which is like himselfe: and will he aske forgiuenesse of his owne sinnes?

5 If he that is but flesh, nourish hatred, [and aske pardon of God,] who will intreat for his sinnes?

6 Remember the end and let enimitie passe: imagine not death and destruction to another through anger, but perseuere in the commaundements.

7 Remember the commandements: so shalt thou not bee rigorous against thy neighbour: [consider diligently] the couenaunt of the most High, and forgiue his ignorance.

8 *Beware of strife, and thou shalt make thy sinnes fewer: for an angry man kindleth strife. Chap.8.1.

9 And the sinfull man disquieteth friends, and bringeth in false accusations among them that be at peace.

10 *As the matter of the fire is, so it burneth, and mans anger is according to his power: and according to his riches his anger increaseth, and the more behement the anger is, the more is he inflamed. Pro.26.21.

11 An hastie brawling kindleth a fire, and an hastie fighting sheadeth blood: [a tongue that beareth false witnesse, bringeth death.]

12 If thou blowe the sparke, it shall burne: if thou spit vpon it, it shall be quenched, and both these come out of the mouth.

13 †*Abhorre the slanderer and double tongued: for such haue destroyed many that were at peace. † The tõgue. Chap.21,28.

14 The [a] double tongue hath disquieted many, and driuen them from nation to nation: strong cities hath it broken downe, and ouerthrowen the houses of great men: [the strength of the people hath it brought downe, and bene the decay of mightie nations.] a That is, the tongue which saith, and vnsaith, or speaketh one thing, & thinketh an other. Or & tongue which speaketh neither out of the new or old Testament, but of their owne braine.

15 The double tongue hath cast out many vertuous women, and robbed them of their labours.

16 Who so harkeneth vnto it, shal neuer find rest, and neuer dwell quietly.

17 The stroke of the rod maketh markes in the flesh, but the stroke of the tongue breaketh the bones.

18 There be many that haue perished by the edge of the sword, but not so many as haue fallen by the tongue.

19 Well is him that is kept from an euill tongue, and commeth not in the anger thereof, which hath not drawen in that yoke, neither hath bene bound in the bands thereof.

20 For the yoke thereof is a yoke of iron, and the bands thereof are bands of brasse.

21 The death thereof is an euill death: hell were better then such one.

22 It shal not haue rule ouer them that feare God, neither shall they be burnt with the flame thereof.

23 Such as forsake the Lord, shal fal therein:

and it shall burne them, and no man shall be able to quench it: it shall fall vpon them as a lion, and deuour them as a leopard.

24 Hedge thy possession with thornes, and make doores and barres for thy mouth.

25 Bind vp thy siluer and gold, and weigh thy words in a balance, and make a doore and a barre, [and a sure bridle] for thy mouth.

26 Beware that thou slide not by it, and so fall before him that lieth in waite, [and thy fall be incurable, euen vnto death.]

CHAP. XXIX.

1 Doe lend money, & do almes. 15 Of a faithfull man answering for his friend. 24 The poore mans life.

†Of well doing.

HE that will shewe mercie, † lendeth to his neighbour: and hee that hath power ouer himselfe, keepeth the commandements.

Deut.15.7,8 mat.5.42. luke 6.35.

2 * Lend to thy neighbour in time of his need, and pay thou thy neighbour againe in due season.

3 Keepe thy word, and deale faithfully with him, and thou shalt alway find the thing that is necessary for thee.

4 Many when a thing was lent them, reckoned it to be found, and grieued them that had helped them.

5 Till they receiue, they kisse his hands, and for their neighbours good they humble their bodie: but when they should pay againe, they prolong the terme, and giue a carelesse answere, and make excuses by reason of the time.

6 And though he be able, yet giueth he scarce the halfe agapne, and reckoneth the other as a thing found: else hee deceiueth him of his money, & maketh him an enemy without a cause: he payeth him with cursing and rebuke, and giueth him euil words for his good deed.

7 There bee many which refuse to lend because of this inconuenience, fearing to bee defrauded without cause.

8 Yet haue thou patience with him that humbleth himselfe, and deferre not mercy from him.

9 Helpe the poore for the commandements sake, and turne him not away, because of his pouertie.

10 Lose thy money for thy brothers & neighbours sake, & let it not rust vnder a stone to thy destruction.

Dan.4.24. mat.6.20. luke 11.41. and 12.33. acts 10.4. 1.tim.6.18, 19.

11 *Bestow thy treasure after the commandement of the most High, and it shall bring thee more profite then gold.

12 ‖Lay vp thine *almes in thy secrete chambers, and it shall keepe thee from all affliction.

‖Or, giue thine almes secretly. Tob.4.8,9, 10,11.

13 [A mans almes is as a purse with him, and shall keepe a mans fauour as the apple of the eye, and afterward shall it arise, and pay euery man his reward vpon his head.]

14 It shall fight for thee against thine enemies, better then the shield of a strong man, or speare of the mightie.

15 An honest man is † suertie for his neighbour: but he that is impudent, forsaketh him.

†Of suertiship.

16 Forget not the friendship of thy suertie: for he hath laied his life for thee.

17 The a wicked despiseth the good deed of his suertie.

18 The wicked will not become suertie: and he that is of an vnthankfull mind, forsaketh him that deliuered him.

A she is a foole that is suertie for euery man: so is he vngodly that in no wise will be suertie for any man.

19 [Some man promiseth for his neighbor: and when he hath lost his honestie, he will forsake him.]

20 Suertieship hath destroyed many a rich mã, & remooued them as the waues of the sea: mightie men hath it driuen away from their houses, & caried them to wander among strange nations.

21 A wicked man transgressing the commandements of the Lord, shall fall into suertiship: and hee that medleth much with other mens businesse, is intangled in controuersies.

22 ¶ Helpe thy neighbour according to thy power, and beware that thou thy selfe fall not.

23 *The chiefe thing of life is water, & bread, and clothing, and lodging to couer thy shame. Chap.39.26

24 † The poore mans life in his owne lodge, is better then delicate fare in another mans. †Sober liuing.

25 Be it little or much, hold thee contented, that the house speake not euil of thee.

26 For it is a miserable life to go from house to house: for where thou art a stranger, thou darest not open thy mouth.

27 Thou shalt lodge and feede vnthankfull men, and after shalt haue bitter words for the same, saying, 28 Come, thou stranger, & prepare the table, and feed me of that thou hast ready.

29 Giue place, thou stranger, to an honourable manship brother commeth to be lodged, and I haue need of mine house.

30 These things are heauie to a man that hath vnderstanding, for vpbraiding of the house, and the reproch of the lender.

CHAP. XXX.

1 Of the correction of children. 14 Of the commoditie of health. 17 Death is better then a sorowfull life. 22 Of the ioy and sorow of the heart.

HE that loueth his sonne, *causeth him oft to feele the rod, that he may haue ioy of him in the end. Pro.13.24. and 23.13.

2 He that chastiseth his sonne, shall haue ioy in him, and shall reioyce of him among his acquaintance.

3 He that *teacheth his sonne, grieueth the enemie, and before his friends he shall reioyce of him. Deut.6.7.

4 Though his father die, yet is he as though hee were not dead: for hee hath left one behind him that is like him.

5 In his life he saw him, and had ioy in him, and was not sory in his death, [neither was he ashamed before his enemies.]

6 He left behind him an auenger against his enemies, and one that should shew fauour vnto his friends.

7 Hee that flattereth his sonne, bindeth vp his wounds, and his heart is grieued at euery crie.

8 An vntamed horse will be stubburne, and a wanton child will be wilfull.

9 If thou bring vp thy sonne delicately, hee shall make thee afrayd: and if thou play with him, he shall bring thee to heauinesse.

10 Laugh not with him, least thou bee sorie with him, and least thou gnash thy teeth in the ende.

11 * Giue him no libertie in his youth, and Chap.7.23. winke not his follie.

12 Bowe downe his necke while he is yong, and beat him on the sides, whiles he is a childe, least he waxe stubburne, and be disobedient vnto thee, and so bring sorow to thine heart.

13 Chastise thy childe, and bee diligent therein, least his shame grieue thee.

14 ¶ † Better is the poore being whole and strong, then a riche man that is afflicted in his body.

15 Health and strength is aboue all gold, and a whole body aboue infinite treasure.

16 There is no riches aboue a sounde body, and no ioy aboue the ioy of the heart.

17 Death is better then a bitter life, [and long rest] then continuall sickenesse.

18 [a] The good things that are powred on a mouth shut vp, are as measses of meate set vpon a graue.

19 What good doeth the offering vnto an idole? for he can neither eate, nor smell: so is hee that is persecuted of the Lord, [and beareth the reward of iniquitie.]

20 Hee seeth with his eyes, and groneth like *a gelded man, that lyeth with a virgine and sighеth.

21 * Giue not ouer thy minde to heauinesse, and vexe not thy selfe in thine owne counsell.

22 The ioy of the heart is the life of man, and a mans gladnesse is the prolonging of his daies.

23 Loue thine owne soule, and comfort thine heart: driue sorrowe farre from thee: for sorrowe hath slaine many, and there is no profite therein.

24 Enuie & wrath shorten the life, and carefulnesse bringeth age before the time.

25 A noble and good heart will haue consideration of his meate and diet.

CHAP. XXXI.

Of couetousnesse. 2 Of them that take paine to gather riches. 8 The praise of a rich man without a fault. 12 We ought to flee drunkennesse and follow soberneſſe.

WAking † after *richesse pineth away the body, and the care thereof driueth away sleepe.

2 This waking care breaketh the sleepe, as a great sickenesse breaketh the sleepe.

3 The riche hath great labour in gathering riches together, and in his rest hee is filled with pleasures.

4 The poore laboureth in liuing poorely, and when he leaueth off, he is still poore.

5 Hee that loueth golde, shall not be iustified, and hee that followeth corruption, shall haue enough thereof.

6 *Many are destroyed by the reason of gold, and haue found their destruction before them.

7 It is as a stumbling block vnto them that sacrifice vnto it, and euery foole is taken therewith.

8 Blessed is the *riche which is found without blemish, and hath not gone after golde, [nor hoped in money and treasures.]

9 Who is hee, and wee will commend him? for wonderfull things hath hee done among his people.

10 Who hath bene tried thereby, and founde perfite? let him bee an example of glorie, who might offend, and hath not offended, or doe euil, and hath not done it.

11 Therefore shal his goods be stablished, and the congregation shall declare his almes.

12 If thou sit at a costly table, † open not thy mouth wide vpon it, and say not, Behold much meate. † Temperancie.

13 Remember that an euill eye is a shrewe: and what thing created is worse then a wicked eye? for it weepeth for euery cause.

14 Stretch not thine hande whereſoeuer it looketh, and thrust it not with it into the dish.

15 Consider by thy selfe him that is by thee, and marke euery thing.

16 Eate modestly that which is set before thee, and deuoure not, least thou be hated.

17 Leaue thou off first for nourtures sake, and be not insatiable least thou offend.

18 When thou sittest among many, reach not thine hand out first of all.

19 * Howe little is sufficient for a man well taught? and therby he belcheth not in his chamber, [nor feeleth any paine.] Chap.37.29.

20 A wholesome sleepe commeth of a temperate belly: he riseth vp in the morning, and is well at ease in himselfe: but paine in watching and cholericke diseases, and pangs of the belly are with an insatiable man.

21 If thou hast bene forced to eate, arise, goe foorth, [a] vomite, and then take thy rest: [so thou shalt bring no sickenesse vnto thy body.] [a] This counsel only concerning the health of the body, is here alleaged, rather for a remedie to helpe digestion vnto a weake stomake, then for an instruction to tolerate intemperancie: for forsetting is forbidden vs. Luke 21.34.

22 Thy sonne, heare mee, and despise me not, and at the last thou shalt finde as I haue tolde thee: in all thy workes bee quicke, so shall there no sickenesse come vnto thee.

23 * Who so is † liberall in his meate, men shall blesse him: and the testimonie of his honestie shalbe beleeued. Prou.22.9. † Liberalitie.

24 But against him that is a nigarde of his meate, the whole citie shall murmure: the testimonies of his nigardnesse shall bee sure.

25 Shewe not thy valiantnesse in wine: for *wine hath destroyed many. Iudeth 13.2,8.

26 The fornace proueth the edge in the tempering: so doeth wine the hearts of the proud by drunkennesse.

27 * Wine soberly drunken, is profitable for the life of man: what is his life that is ouercome with wine? Psal.104.15.

28 Wine was made [from the beginning] to make men glad, [and not for drunkennesse.] Wine measurably drunken and in time, bringeth gladnesse and chearefulnesse of the minde. Prou.31.4,5, 6,7.

29 But wine drunken with excesse, maketh bitternesse of minde with brawlings and scouldings.

30 Drunkennesse encreaseth the courage of a foole, till he offende: it diminisheth his strength and maketh wounds.

31 * Rebuke not thy neighbour at the wine, and despise him not in his mirth: giue him no despiteful words, and presse not vpon him with contrary workes. Chap.20.1.

CHAP. XXXII.

1 An exhortation to modestie. 3 Let the auncient speake. 14 To giue thankes after the repast. 15 Of the feare, faith and confidence in God.

Chap.8,2.

Luke 6.24.

downe, that thou mayest bee merie with them, and receiue a crowne for thy good behauiour.

3 Speake thou that art the elder: for it becommeth thee, but with sound iudgement, and hinder not musicke.

4 Powre not out wordes, where there is no audience, * and shewe not foorth wisedome out of time.

Eccles. 3.7. chap. 20.7.

5 The consent of musicians at a banket is as a signet of carbuncle set in golde.

6 And as the signet of an Emerauld well trimmed with gold, so is the melodie of musicke in a pleasant banquet.

7 [Giue eare, and be still, and for thy good behauiour thou shalt be loued.]

8 Thou that art yong, speake if neede be, and yet scarcely when thou art twise asked.

9 Comprehende much in fewe wordes: [in many things be as one that is ignorant:] be as one that vnderstandeth, and yet holde thy tongue.

10 If thou be among * great men, compare not thy selfe vnto them: and when an elder speaketh, babble not much.

Iob 32.6.

11 Before the thunder goeth lightning, and before a shamefast man goeth fauour.

12 Stand vp betimes, and be not the last: but get thee home without delay, 13 And there take thy pastime, and do what thou wilt, so that thou doe none euill, or vse proud wordes.

14 But aboue all things giue thankes vnto him that hath made thee, and replenished thee with his goods.

15 ¶ Who so feareth the Lorde, will receiue his doctrine, and they that rise early, shall finde fauour.

16 Hee that seeketh the Lawe, shall bee filled therewith: but the hypocrite will bee offended thereat.

17 They that feare the Lorde, shall finde that which is righteous, and shall kindle iustice as a light.

18 An vngodly man will not bee reformed, but findeth out excuses according to his will.

19 A man of vnderstanding despiseth not counsell: but a lewde and proude man is not touched with feare, euen when he hath done rashly.

20 [My sonne] doe nothing without aduisement: so shall it not repent thee after the deede.

21 Goe not in the way where thou mayest fall, nor where thou mayest stumble among the stones, neither trust thou in the way that is plaine.

22 And beware of thine owne children, [and take heede of them, that bee thine owne housholde.]

23 In euery good worke bee of a faithfull heart: for this is the keeping of the commaundements.

24 Who so beleeueth in ‖ the Lorde, keepeth the commaundements: and he that trusteth in the Lord, shall take no hurt.

‖ Or, the Law.

CHAP. XXXIII.

1 The deliuerance of him that feareth God. 4 The answere of the wise. 12 Man is in the hand of God, as the clay is in the hand of the potter. 23 Of euill seruants.

† The feare of God.

THere shall no euill come vnto him that † feareth the Lorde: but when he is in tentation, he will deliuer him againe.

2 A wise man hateth not the Lawe: but hee that is an hypocrite therein, is as a shippe in a storme.

3 A man of vnderstanding walketh faithfully in the Lawe, and the Lawe is faithfull vnto him.

4 As the question is made, prepare the answere, and so shalt thou bee heard: be sure of the matter, and so answere.

5 The heart of the * foolish is like a cart wheele: and his thoughtes are like a rolling axeltree.

Chap. 21.16

6 As a wilde horse nepeth vnder euery one that sitteth vpon him, so is a scornefull friend.

7 Why doeth one day excell another, seeing that the light of the dayes of the yeere come of the sunne?

8 The knowledge of the Lorde hath parted them asunder, and he hath by them disposed the times and solemne feastes.

9 Some of them hath hee chosen and sanctified, and some of them hath hee put among the dayes to number.

10 And all men are of the * ground, and Adam was created out of the earth: but the Lord hath deuided them by great knowledge, and made their wayes diuers.

Gene. 1.27. and 2.7.

11 Some of them hath he blessed and exalted, and some of them hath he sanctified, and appropriate to himselfe: but some of them hath he cursed, and brought them lowe, and put them out of their estate.

12 *As the clay is in the potters hand, to order it at his pleasure, so are men also in the hand of their Creator, so that hee may reward them as liketh him best.

Isai. 45.9. rom. 9.20,21

13 Against euill is good, and against death is life: so is the godly against the sinner, and the vngodly against the faithfull.

14 So in all the workes of the most High thou mayest see that there are euer two, one against another.

15 ¶ I am awaked vp last of all, as one that gathereth after them in the vintage. In the blessing of the Lorde I am increased, and haue filled vp winepresse, like a grape gatherer.

16 *Behold, howe I haue not laboured only for my selfe, but for all them that seeke knowledge.

Chap. 24. 39.

17 Heare mee, O ye great men of the people, and hearken with your eares, yee rulers of the congregation.

18 Giue not thy sonne and wife, thy brother and friend, power ouer thee while thou liuest, and giue not away thy substance to another, lest it repent thee, and thou intreate for the same againe.

19 As long as thou liuest, and hast breath, a giue not thy selfe ouer to any person.

a That is, let no man vse thee as his seruant, when thou hast committed all thy goods into his hand.

20 For better it is that thy children should pray vnto thee, then that thou shouldest looke vp to the handes of thy children.

21 In all thy workes bee excellent, that thy honour be neuer stained.

22 At the time when thou shalt ende thy dayes, and finish thy life, distribute thine inheritance.

23 ¶ The fodder, the whippe and the burden belong vnto the asse, and meate, correction and worke vnto thy seruant.

24 If thou set thy seruant to labour, thou shalt shalt find rest: but if thou let him go idle, he shal seeke libertie.

25 The yoke and the whip bowe downe the hard necke: so tame thine euil seruant with the whips and correction.

26 Send him to labour, that he goe not idle: for idlenesse bringeth much euil.

27 Set him to worke, for that belongeth vnto him: if he be not obedient, †put on more heauie fetters.

How slaues ere ordred in old time,

28 But bee not excessiue toward any, and without discretion doe nothing.

29 *If thou haue a faithfull seruaunt, let him be vnto thee as thine owne soule: for in blood hast thou gotten him. If thou haue a seruant, intreat him as thy brother: for thou hast need of him, as of thy selfe. If thou intreat him euil, and he runne away, wilt thou seeke him?

*Chap.7.20.

CHAP. XXXIIII.

Of dreames. 13 The prayse of them that feare God. 18 The offerings of the wicked. 22 The bread of the needy. 27 God doeth not allow the workes of an vnfaithfull man.

THe hope of a foolish man is vaine and false, †and dreames make fooles to haue wings.

†Dreames.

2 Who so regardeth dreames, is like him that will take hold of a shadow, and follow after the wind.

3 Euen so is it with the appearings of dreames, as the likenesse of a face is before another face.

4 Who can be cleansed by the vncleane? or what trueth can be spoken of a liar?

5 Soothsayings, witchcraft, and dreaming is but vanitie, & a minde that is occupied with fantasies, is as a woman that trauaileth.

6 Whereas such visions come not of the most High to thy hee, set not thine heart vpon them.

7 For dreames haue deceiued many, & they haue failed that put their trust therein.

8 The law shalbe fulfilled without lies, and wisedome is sufficient to a faithfull mouth: [what knowledge hath he that is not tried?]

9 A man that is instructed, vnderstandeth much, & he that hath good experience, can talke of wisedome.

10 Hee that hath no experience, knoweth litle, and he that erreth, is full of craft.

11 When I wandred to and fro, I sawe many things, and mine vnderstanding is greater then I can expresse.

12 I was oft times in danger of death, yet I was deliuered by these things.

13 ¶The spirite of those that feare the Lorde, shall liue: for their hope is in him that can helpe them.

†The feare of the Lord.

14 Who so †feareth the Lord, feareth no mã, neither is afraid: for he is his hope.

15 Blessed is the soule of him that feareth the Lord: in whom putteth hee his trust? who is his strength?

*Psal.*33.18. *Psal.*91.1,2.

16 * For the eyes of the Lord haue respect vnto them, that loue him: he is their * mightie protection, and strong ground, a defence from the heate, and a shadowe for the noone day, a succour from stumbling and an helpe from falling.

17 He setteth vp the soule, and lighteneth the eyes: he giueth health, life and blessing.

18 ¶Hee that * giueth an offering of vnrighteous goods, offereth a mocking sacrifice, and the gifts of the vnrighteous, please not him. *Pro.*21.27.

19 [But the Lord is theirs onely, that patiently abide him in the way of trueth and righteousnesse.]

20 The most High doeth not allowe the †offrings of the wicked, *neither is hee pacified for sinne by the multitude of sacrifice. †The offerings of the wicked and their prayer.

21 Who so bringeth an offering of the goods of the poore, doeth as one that sacrificeth the sonne before the fathers eyes. *Pro.*15.8.

22 The bread of the needfull is the life of the poore: he that defraudeth him thereof, is a murtherer.

23 He that taketh away his neighbours liuing, slayeth him, * and he that defraudeth the labourer of his hire, is a bloodheader. *Deut.*24.14, 15. *chap.*7.20 24 ¶When one buildeth, & another breaketh downe, what profit haue they then but labour?

25 When one prayeth, and another curseth, whose voyce will the Lord heare?

26 * Hee that washeth himselfe because of a dead body, and toucheth it againe, what auaileth his washing? *Num.*19.11, 12.

27 *So is it with a man that fasteth for his sinnes, and committeth them againe: who will heare his prayer? or what doeth his fasting helpe him? 2.*Pet.*2.20, 21,22.

CHAP. XXXV.

1 Of true sacrifices. 14 The prayer of the fatherlesse, and of the widow, and him that humbleth himselfe.

WHo so keepeth the Lawe, * bringeth offerings enowe, hee that holdeth fast the commaundements, †offreth an offring of saluation. 1.*Sam.*15. 22.*Ierc.*7.3, 5,6,7. †True sacrifices.

2 Hee that is thankfull to them that haue well deserued, offereth fine flowre: *and he that giueth almes, sacrificeth prayse. *Phil.*4.18.

3 To depart from euil is a thankfull thing to the Lord, and to forsake vnrighteousnesse, is a reconciling vnto him.

4 * Thou shalt not appeare emptie before the Lord. *Exod.*23.15, and 34.20.

5 For all these things are done because of the commaundement. *deut.*16.16.

6 *The offering of the righteous maketh the altar fat, and the smell thereof is sweete before the most High. *Gen.*4.4,5.

7 The sacrifice of the righteous is acceptable, and the remembrance thereof shall neuer be forgotten.

8 Giue the Lord his honour with a good and liberall eie, and diminish not the first fruites of thine hands.

9 * In all thy gifts shew a iopfull countenance, and dedicate thy tithes with gladnesse. 2.*Cor.*9.7.

10 Giue vnto the most High according as he hath enriched thee, *and looke what thine hand is able, giue with a cheerefull eye. *Tob.*4.8. *Leuit.*22.28, 22.*deut.*15.

11 For the Lord recompenceth, and will giue thee seuen times as much. 21. *Deut.*10.17.

12 * Diminish nothing of thine offering: for he will not receiue it, and abstaine from wrongfull sacrifices: for the Lord is the iudge and regardeth no * mans person. 2.chro. 19.7. iob 34.19. *wisd.*6.7. acts 10.34.

13 Hee accepteth not the person of the poore, but he heareth the prayer of the oppressed. *rom.*2.11. *galat.*2.6.

14 Hee despiseth not the desire of the fatherlesse nor the widow, when she powreth out her prayer. *ephes.*6.9. *colos.*3.25. 1.*pet.*1.17.

15 Doeth not the teares run downe the widowes cheekes? and her cry is against him that caused them: [for from her cheekes doe they goe vp vnto heauen, and the Lord which heareth them, doeth accept them.]

16 He that serueth the Lord shall be accepted with fauour, and his prayer shal reach vnto the cloudes.

17 The prayer of him that humbleth himselfe, goeth thorow the cloudes, and ceaseth not till it come neere, & will not depart till the most High haue respect thereunto to iudge righteously, and to execute iudgement.

18 And the Lord will not bee slacke, nor the Almighty will tarie long from them, till hee hath smitten in sunder the loines of the vnmercifull, and auenged himselfe of the heathen, til he haue taken away the multitude of the cruel, and broken the scepter of the vnrighteous, till hee giue euery man after his workes, and reward them after their deuises, till he haue iudged the cause of his people, and comforted them with his mercy.

19 Oh, how faire a thing is mercy in þ time of anguish & trouble! It is like a cloud of raine, that commeth in the time of a draught.

CHAP. XXXVI.

1 A prayer to God in the person of all faithfull men, against those that persecute his Church. 22 The prayse of a good woman.

HAue mercy vpon vs, O Lorde God of all things, and behold vs, and [shew vs the light of thy mercies,] †Against the wicked.

2 And send thy feare † among the nations, which seeke not after thee, [that they may know that there is no God but thou, and that they may shew thy wonderous workes.]

Exo.10.25.

3 Lift vp thine *hand vpon the strange nations, that they may see thy power.

4 As thou art sanctified in vs before them, so be thou magnified among them before vs.

5 That they may know thee, as wee know thee: for there is none other God but onely thou, O Lord.

6 Renew the signes, and change the wonders: shewe the glory of thine hand, and thy right arme, that they may shew forth thy wonderous acts.

7 Rayse vp thine indignation, and powre out wrath: take away the aduersarie, and smite the enemie.

8 Make the time short: remember thine oth, that thy wonderous workes may be praysed.

9 Let the wrath of the fire consume them that escape, and let them perish that oppresse the people.

10 Smite in sunder the heads of the princes that be our enemies, and say, There is none other but we.

†A prayer for the godly.

11 †Gather all the tribes of Iacob together, [that they may know that there is none other God but onely thou, and that they may shewe thy wonderous workes,] & inherite thou them as from the beginning.

Exod.4.22.

12 O Lord, haue mercy vpon the people, that is called by thy Name, and vpō Israel *whom thou hast likened to a first borne sonne.

13 Oh, be mercifull vnto Ierusalem the citie of thy sanctuarie, the citie of thy rest.

14 Fil Sion, that it may magnifie thine oracles, and fill thy people with thy glory.

15 Giue witnesse vnto those that thou hast possessed from the beginning, and rayse vp the prophecies þ haue bene shewed in thy Name.

16 Reward them that waite for thee, that thy Prophets may be found faithfull.

17 O Lord, heare the prayer of thy seruants according to the * blessing of Aaron ouer thy people, [and guide thou vs in the way of righteousnesse,] that all they which dwell vpon the earth, may know that thou art the Lord the eternall God.

Num.6.23.

18 ¶ The belly deuoureth all meates, yet is one meate better then another.

19 As the throte tasteth venison, so doeth a wise mind discerne false words.

20 A froward heart bringeth griefe, but a man of experience will resist it.

21 A woman is apt to receiue euery man: yet is one daughter better then another.

22 The beautie of a woman cheareth þ face, and a man loueth nothing better.

23 If there bee in her tongue gentlenesse, meekenesse, and wholesome talke, then is not her husband like other men.

24 He that hath † gotten a [vertuous] woman, hath begun to get a possession: shee is an helpe like vnto himselfe, & a pillar to rest vpon.

†The prayse of a good woman.

25 Where no hedge is, there the possession is spoiled: and he that hath no wife, wandereth to and fro, mourning.

26 Who will trust a thiefe that is allway ready and wandereth from towne to towne? and likewise him, that hath no rest, and lodgeth where soeuer the night taketh him?

CHAP. XXXVII.

1 Howe a man should know friends and counsellers. 12 To keepe his company that feareth God.

EVery friend saith, † I am a friend vnto him also: but there is some friend, which is onely a friend in name.

†Of friendship.

2 Remaineth there not heauines vnto death, when a companion and friend is turned to an enemie?

3 O wicked presumption, from whence art thou sprong vp to couer the earth with deceit?

4 *There is some companion which in prosperitie reioyceth with his friend: but in þ time of trouble he is against him.

Chap.6.10.

5 There is some companion that helpeth his friend for the bellies sake, and taketh vp the buckler against the enemie.

6 Forget not thy friend in thy minde, and thinke vpon him in thy riches.

7 Seeke † no counsell at him of whom thou art suspected, and disclose not thy counsell vnto such as hate thee.

†Of whom we should take counsell.

8 *Euery counseller praiseth his owne counsell: but there is some that counselleth for himselfe.

Chap.8.19. and 9.16.

9 Beware of the counseller, and be aduised afore ‖ where thou wilt vse him: for hee will counsell for himselfe, least hee cast the lot vpon thee,

‖Or, what need he hath.

10 And say vnto thee, Thy way is good, and afterward he stand against thée, and looke what shall become of thee.

11 [Aske no counsell for religion of him, that is without religion, nor of iustice, of him that hath no iustice,] nor of a woman touching ching her of whome thee is ielous, nor of a coward in matters of warre, nor of a marchant concerning exchange, nor of a buyer for the salt, nor of an enuious man touching thankfulnesse, nor of the vnmercifull touching kindnesse, [nor of an vnhoneſt man of honeſtie] nor of a ſlouthfull for any labour, nor of an hireling for the finishing of a worke, nor of an idle ſeruaunt for much buſineſſe: hearken not vnto theſe in any matter of counſell.

12 But bee continuall with a godly man whom thou knowest to keepe the commaundements of the Lorde, whoſe minde is according to thy minde, and is ſorie for thee when thou ſtumbleſt.

13 Take counſell of thine owne heart: for there is no man more faithfull vnto thee, then it.

14 For mans minde is ſometimes more accuſtomed to ſhewe more then ſeuen watchmen that ſit aboue in an hie towre.

15 And aboue all this pray to the moſt High, that he will direct thy way in truth.

16 Let reaſon goe before euery enterpriſe, and counſell before euery action.

17 ¶ The [changing] of the countenance is a ſigne of the changing of the heart: foure things appeare, good and euill, life and death, but the tongue hath euermore the gouernement ouer them.

18 ¶ Some man is wittie, and hath inſtructed many, & yet is vnprofitable vnto himſelfe.

19 Some man will bee wiſe in wordes, and ‖Or, wiſdome. is hated, yea, he is deſtitute of all ‖ foode, 20 Becauſe grace is not giuen him of the Lord: for he is deſtitute of all wiſedome.

21 Another is wiſe for himſelfe, and the fruites of vnderſtanding are faithfull in his mouth.

22 A wiſe man inſtructeth his people, and the fruites of his wiſedome faile not.

23 A wiſe man ſhalbe plenteouſly bleſſed, and all they that ſee him, ſhall thinke him bleſſed.

24 The life of man ſtandeth in the number of dayes: but the dayes of Iſrael are innumerable.

25 A wiſe man ſhall obteine credite among his people, and his name ſhalbe perpetuall.

26 My ſonne, powre thy ſoule in thy life, and ſee what is euill for it, & permit it not to doe it.

27 For all things are not profitable for all men, neither hath euery ſoule pleaſure in euery thing.

† Of temperancie. 28 Bee not † greedy in all delights, and be not too haſtie vpon all meates.

Chap.31.19, 20. 29 * For exceſſe of meates bringeth ſickneſs, and gluttonie commeth into cholericke diſeaſes.

‖Or, taketh heede. 30 By ſurfet haue many periſhed: but hee that ‖ dieteth himſelfe, prolongeth his life.

CHAP. XXXVIII.

1 A Phyſicion is commendable. 16 To burie the dead. 24 The wiſedome of him that is learned.

† Of Phyſicions and phyſicke. HOnour the † Phyſicion with that honour that is due vnto him, becauſe of neceſſitie: for the Lord hath created him.

2 For of the moſt High commeth healing, and he ſhall receiue gifts of the king.

3 The knowledge of the Phyſicion lifteth vp his head, and in the ſight of great men hee ſhalbe in admiration.

4 The Lorde hath created medicines of the earth, and hee that is wiſe, will not abhorre them.

5 * Was not the water made ſweete with wood, that men might knowe the vertue thereof? Exod.15.23.

6 So hee hath giuen men knowledge, that hee might bee glorified in his wonderous workes.

7 With ſuch doeth hee heale men, and taketh away their paines.

8 Of ſuch doeth the apothecarie make a confection, & yet he cannot finiſh his owne workes: for of the Lord commeth proſperitie and wealth ouer all the earth.

9 My ſonne, faile not in thy ſickeneſſe, but * pray vnto the Lorde, and hee will make thee whole. Iſa.38.2,5.

10 Leaue off from ſinne, & order thine hands aright, and cleanſe thine heart from all wickedneſſe.

11 Offer ſweete incenſe, and fine flowre for a remembrance: make the offering fatte, for thou art not the † firſt giuer.

† God beſtoweth firſt his benefits, and we muſt render a portion thereof, to ſuch vſes as he appointeth.

12 Then giue place to the Phyſicion: for the Lorde hath created him: let him not goe from thee, for thou haſt neede of him.

13 The houre may come, that their enterpriſes may haue good ſucceſſe.

14 For they alſo ſhall pray vnto the Lorde, that hee would proſper that, which is giuen for eaſe, and their phyſicke for the prolonging of life.

15 Hee that ſinneth before his maker, let him fall into the hands of the phyſicion.

16 My ſonne, * powre ſoorth teares ouer the dead, † and begin to mourne, as if thou haddeſt ſuffered great harme thy ſelfe, and then couer his body according to ‖ his appointment, and neglect not his buriall. Chap.22.11. † Of mourning. ‖ Or, the ſtate thereof.

17 Make a grieuous lamentation, and be earneſt in mourning, and vſe lamentation as hee is worthy, and that a day or two, leaſt thou bee euill ſpoken of, and then comfort thy ſelfe for thine heauineſſe.

18 * For of heauineſſe commeth death, and the heauines of the heart breaketh the ſtrength. Pro.15.13. and 17.22.

19 Of the affection of the heart commeth ſorowe, and the life of him that is afflicted, is according to his heart.

20 Take no heauines to heart: driue it away and remember the laſt ende.

21 Forget it not: for there is no turning againe: thou ſhalt doe him no good, but hurt thy ſelfe.

22 Remember his iudgement: thine alſo ſhal bee likewiſe, vnto mee yeſterday, and vnto thee to day.

23 * Seeing the dead is at reſt, let his remembrance reſt, & comfort thy ſelfe againe for him, when his ſpirit is departed from him. 2.Sam.12. 20.

24 ¶ The wiſedome of a learned man commeth by vſing wel his vacant time: and he that ceaſeth from his owne matters and labour, may come by wiſedome.

25 Howe can hee get wiſedome that holdeth the plough, and hee that hath pleaſure in the goade, and in driuing oxen, and is occupied in their labours, and talketh but of the breede of bullocks?

26 Yee gineth his minde to make furrowes, and is diligent to giue the kine fodder.

27 So is it of euery carpenter, and worke-master that laboureth night and day: and they that cut and graue seales, and make sundry diuersities, and giue themselues to counterfaite imagerie, and watch to perfourme the worke.

28 The smith in like maner abideth by his anuill, and doeth his diligence to labour the yron: the vapour of the fire dryeth his flesh: and yee must fight with the heate of the fornace: the noyse of the hammer is euer in his eares, and his eyes looke still vpon the thing that yee maketh: yee setteth his minde to make vp his workes: therefore he watcheth to polish it perfitly.

29 So doeth the potter sit by his worke: yee turneth the wheele about with his feete: yee is carefull alway at his worke, and maketh his worke by number.

30 He fashioneth the clay with his arme, and with his feete yee tempereth the hardnes thereof: his heart imagineth howe to couer it with lead, and his diligence is to clense the ouen.

31 All these hope in their handes, and euery one is stowed his wisedome in his worke.

32 Without these cannot the cities be maintained, nor inhabited, nor occupied.

33 And yet they are not asked their iudgement in the counsell of the people, neither are they hie in the congregation, neither sit they vpon the iudgement seates, nor vnderstand the order of iustice: they cannot declare matters according to the fourme of the Lawe, and they are not meete for hard matters.

34 But they maintaine the state of the world, and their desire is concerning their worke and occupation.

CHAP. XXXIX.

2 A wise man. 16 The workes of God. 24 Vnto the good, good things prosite, but vnto the euill, euen good things are euill.

HE onely that applieth his minde to the Law of the most High, and is occupied in the meditation thereof, seeketh out the †wisedome of all the auncient, and exerciseth himselfe in the prophecies.

† Of true wisdome.

2 Yee keepeth the sayings of famous men, and entreth in also to the secrets of darke sentences.

3 Yee seeketh out the mysterie of graue sentences, and exerciseth himselfe in darke parables.

4 Yee shall serue among great men, and appeare before the prince: he shal trauaile through strange countreys: for yee hath tried the good and the euill among men.

5 Yee will giue his heart to resort early vnto the Lorde that made him, and to pray before the most High, and will open his mouth in prayer, and pray for his sinnes.

6 When the great Lord will, he shall be filled with the Spirit of vnderstanding, that hee may powre out wise sentences, and giue thankes vnto the Lord in his prayer.

Or, the Lord 7 ‖ Yee shall direct his counsell and knowledge: so shall he meditate in his secrets.

8 He shall shewe sooth his science and learning, and reioyce in the Lawe and couenant of the Lord.

9 Many shall commend his vnderstanding, and his memorie shall neuer be put out, nor depart away: but his name shall continue from generation to generation.

10 *The congregation shall declare his wisdome, and shewe it. Chap.44.15.

11 Though hee be dead, he shall leaue a greater fame then a thousande: and if he liue still, hee shall get the same.

12 Yet will I speake of moe things: for I am full as the moone.

13 Hearken vnto me, yee holy children, and bring sooth frute as the rose that is planted by the brookes of the fielde.

14 And giue ye a sweete smel as ‖incense, and bring sooth flowers as the lillie: giue a smell, and sing a song of praise: blesse the Lord in all his workes. ‖Or, Libanus

15 Giue honour vnto his Name, and shewe sooth his praise with the songs of your lippes, and with harpes, and yee shall say after this maner, 16 *All the workes of the Lord are exceeding good, and all his commaundements are done in due season. Gene.1.31. mar.7.37.

17 And none may say, What is this? wherefore is that? for at time conuenient, they shall all bee sought out: at his commaundement the water stood as an heape, and at the word of his mouth the waters gathered themselues.

18 His whole fauour appeared by his commaundement, and none can diminish that which he will saue.

19 The workes of all flesh are before him, and nothing can be hid from his eyes.

20 Yee seeth from euerlasting to euerlasting, and there is nothing wonderfull vnto him.

21 A man neede not to say, What is this? wherefore is this? for yee hath made all things for their owne vse.

22 His blessing shal runne ouer as a streame, and moysten the earth like a flood.

23 As yee hath turned the waters into saltnesse, so shall the heathen feele his wrath.

24 As his wayes are plaine and right vnto the iust, so are they stumbling blockes to the wicked.

25 ¶ For the good are good things created from the beginning, and euill things for the sinners.

26 *The principal things for the whole vse of mans life is water, fire, and yron, and salt, and meale, wheate and hony, and milke, the blood of the grape, and oyle, and clothing. Chap.29.23.

27 All these things are for good to the godly: but to the sinners they are turned vnto euill.

28 There be spirits that are created for vengeance, which in their rigor lay on sure strokes: in the time of destruction they shewe forth their power, and accomplish the wrath of him that made them.

29 *Fire, and haile, and famine, and death: all these are created for vengeance. Chap.40.9, 10.

30 The teeth of wild beasts, & the scorpions, and the serpents, and the swoorde execute vengeance for the destruction of the wicked.

31 They shall be glad to doe his commandements: and when neede is, they shall bee ready vpon earth: and when their houre is come, they shall not ouerpasse the commandement.

32 There-

32 Therefore haue I taken a good courage vnto me from the beginning, and haue thought on these things, and haue put them in writing.

Gene.1.31. 33 *All the workes of the Lord are good, and hee giueth euery one in due season, and when neede is:

34 So that a man neede not to say, This is worse then that: for in due season they are all worthy praise.

35 And therefore praise the Lord with whole heart and mouth, and blesse the Name of the Lord.

CHAP. XL.

1 Many miseries in mans life. 14 Of the blessing of the righteous and prerogatiue of the feare of God.

†The miseries of mans life.

GReat † trauaile is created for all men, and an heauie yoke vpon the sonnes of Adam from the day that they goe out of their mothers wombe, til the day that they returne to the mother of all things,

2 Namely their thoughtes, and feare of the heart, and their imagination of the things they waite for, and the day of death,

3 From him that sitteth vpon the glorious throne, vnto him that is beneath in the earth and ashes:

4 From him that is clothed in blewe silke, and weareth a crowne, euen vnto him that is clothed in simple linnen.

5 Wrath and enuie, trouble, and vnquietnes, and feare of death, and rigour, and strife, and in the time of rest, the sleepe in the night vpon his bed, change his knowledge.

6 A little or nothing is his rest, and afterward in sleeping he is as in a watch towre in the day: he is troubled with the visions of his heart, as one that runneth out of a battell.

7 And when all is safe, he awaketh, and marueileth that the feare was nothing.

8 Such things come vnto all flesh, both man and beast, but seuen fold to the vngodly:

Chap.39.29, 30. 9 Moreouer, * death and blood, and strife, and swoorde, oppression, famine, destruction, and punishment.

10 These things are all created for the wicked, and for their sakes came the * flood also.

Gene.7.11. Gene.3.19. chap.41.10. Eccles.1.7. 11 *All things that are of the earth, shall turne to earth againe: and they that are of the * waters, shall returne into the sea.

†Faithfulnes.

12 ¶ All bribes and vnrighteousnesse shall be put away: but † faithfulnesse shall endure for euer.

13 The substance of the vngodly shalbe dried vp like a riuer, and they shall make a sound like a great thunder in the raine.

14 When he openeth his hand, he reioyceth: but all the transgressours shall come to nought.

15 The children of the vngodly shall not obteine many branches: for the vncleane rootes are as vpon the hie rockes.

16 Their tender stalke vp what water so euer it bee or water banke, it shall be pulled vp before all other herbes.

17 ¶ Friendlines is as a most plentifull garden of pleasure, and mercie endureth for euer.

Phil.4.12. 1.sam.6.6. 18 *To labour and to bee content with that a man hath, is a sweete life: but hee that findeth a treasure, is aboue them both.

19 Children, and the building of the citie maketh a perpetuall name: but an honest woman is counted aboue them both.

20 Wine and musicke reioyce the heart: but the loue of wisedome is aboue them both.

21 The pipe & the psalterion make a sweete noyse: but a pleasant tongue is aboue them both.

22 Thine eye desireth fauour and beautie: but a greene seede time, rather then them both.

23 A friende, and companion come together at opportunitie: but aboue them both is a wife with her husband.

24 Friends and helpe are good in the time of trouble: but almes shall deliuer more then them both.

25 Gold and siluer fasten the feete: but counsell is esteemed aboue them both.

26 Riches and strength lift vp the minde: but the feare of the Lorde is aboue them both: there is no want in the feare of the Lorde, and it needeth no helpe.

27 The feare of the Lorde is a pleasant garden of blessing, and there is nothing so beautiful as it is.

28 ¶ My sonne, leade not a beggers life: for better it were to die then to begge.

29 The life of him that dependeth on another mans table, is not to be counted for a life: for he tormenteth himselfe after other mens meate: but a wise man and well nourtured will beware thereof.

30 Begging is sweete in the mouth of the vnshamefast, & in his belly there burneth a fire.

CHAP. XLI.

1 Of the remembrance of death. 3 Death is not to be feared. 8 A curse vpon them that forsake the Lawe of God. 12 Good name and fame. 14 An exhortation to giue heede vnto wisedome. 17 Of what things a man ought to be ashamed.

†Of death.

O † Death, howe bitter is the remembrance of thee to a man that liueth at rest in his possessions, vnto the man that hath nothing to vexe him, and that hath prosperitie in al things: yea, vnto him that yet is able to receiue meate!

2 O death, how acceptable is thy iudgement vnto the needefull, vnto him whose strength faileth, and that is now in the last age, and is vexed with all things, and to him that despaireth, and hath lost patience!

3 Feare not the iudgement of death: remember them that haue bene before ther, and that come after: this is the ordinance of the Lorde ouer all flesh.

4 And why wouldest thou bee against the pleasure of the most High? whether it be tenne, or an hundreth, or a thousande yeres, there is no defence for life against the grane.

5 ¶ The children of the vngodly are abominable children, and so are they that keepe companie with the vngodly.

6 The inheritance of vngodly children shall perish, and their posteritie shall haue a perpetuall shame.

7 The children complaine of an vngodly father, because they are reproched for his sake.

8 Woe bee vnto you, O yee vngodly, which haue forsaken the Lawe of the most High God: for though you increase, yet shall you perish.

9 If ye be borne, ye shall be borne to cursing: if ye die, the curse shall be your portion.

10 *All that is of the earth, shall turne to earth Chap.40.11. againe:

againe: so the vngodly goe from the curse to destruction.

11 Though men mourne for their body, yet the wicked name of the vngodly shalbe put out.

12 Haue regarde to thy name: for that shall continue with thee aboue a thousand treasures of golde.

13 A good life hath the dayes numbred: but † a good name endureth euer.

† A good name.

14 Thy children, keepe wisdome in peace: *for wisdome that is hid, and a treasure that is not seene, what profite is in them both? Chap.20.29.

15 A man that hideth his foolishnesse, is better then a man that hideth his wisdome.

16 Therfore beare reuerence vnto my wordes: † Of shamefastnesse. for it is not good in all things to bee † ashamed: neither are all things allowed as faithfull in all men.

17 Bee ashamed of whoredome before father and mother: be ashamed of lies before the prince and men of authoritie:

18 Of sinne before the iudge and ruler: of offence before the congregation and people: of vnrighteousnesse before a companion and friend:

19 And of theft before the place where thou dwellest, and before the trueth of God and his couenant, and to leane with thine elbowes vpon the ‖ bread, or to bee reproued for giuing or taking, ‖ Or, table.

20 And of silence vnto them that salute thee, and to looke vpon an harlot,

21 And to turne away thy face from thy kinseman: or to take away a portion or a gift, or to be euill minded toward another mans wife,

22 Or to solicite any mans mayd, or to stand by her bedde, or to reprooche thy friendes with words, 23 Or to vpbraide when thou giuest any thing, or to report a matter that thou hast heard, or to reueile secret words.

24 Thus mayest thou wel be shamefast, and shalt finde fauour with all men.

CHAP. XLII.

1 The Lawe of God must be taught. 9 A daughter. 14 A woman. 18 God knoweth all things, yea, euen the secrets of thine heart.

† In what things we ought not to be ashamed.

OF these things be not thou † ashamed, neither haue regard to offende for any person:

2 Of the Lawe of the most High & his couenant, and of iudgement to iustifie the godly:

3 Of the cause of thy companion, & of strangers, or of distributing the heritage among friendes:

4 To bee diligent to keepe true balance, and weight, whether thou haue much or litle:

5 To sell marchandise at an indifferent price, and to correct thy children diligently, and to beate an euil seruant to the blood:

6 To set a good locke where an euill wife is, and to locke where many hands are:

7 If thou giue any thing by number, and weight, to put al in writing, both that that is giuen out, and that that is receiued againe:

8 To teach the vnlearned, and the vnwise, and the aged, that contende against the yong: thus shalt thou be well instructed, and approoued of all men liuing.

‖ Or, a secret watcher of the father.

9 ¶ The daughter ‖ maketh the father to watch secretly, and the carefulnesse that hee hath for her, taketh away his sleepe in the youth, least she should passe the flower of her age: and when shee hath an husband, least she should bee hated:

10 In her virginitie, least shee should be defiled, or gotten with childe in her fathers house, and, when shee is with her husband, least shee misbehaue her selfe: and when shee is married, least she continue vnfruitfull.

11 * If thy daughter bee vnshamefast, keepe her straitly, least she cause thine enemie to laugh thee to scorne, and make thee a common talke in the citie, and diffame thee among the people, and bring thee to publike shame. Chap.26.10.

12 * Beholde not euery bodies beautie, and companie not among women. Chap.25.23.

13 For as the mothe commeth out of garments: * so doeth wickednesse of the woman. Gene.3.6.

14 The wickednesse of a man is better then the good intreatie of a woman, to wit, of a woman that is in shame, and reproche.

15 ¶ I will remember the workes of the Lord, and declare the thing that I haue seene: by the word of the Lord are his workes.

16 The sunne that shineth, looketh vpon all things, and all the worke thereof is full of the glory of the Lord.

17 Hath not the Lorde appointed that his Saintes shoulde declare all his wonderous workes, which the almighty Lorde hath stablished to confirme all things by in his Maiestie?

18 Hee seeketh out the depth, and the heart, and hee knoweth their practises: for the Lorde knoweth all science, and beholdeth the signes of the world.

19 He declareth the things that are past, and for to come, and discloseth the pathes of things that are secret.

20 * No thought may escape him, neither may any word be hid from him. Iob 41.4. Isa.29.15.

21 He hath garnished the excellent workes of his wisdome, and he is from euerlasting to euerlasting, and for euer: vnto him may nothing bee added, neither can hee be minished: hee hath no neede of any counseller.

22 Oh, how delectable are all his works, and to be considered euen vnto the sparkes of fire!

23 They liue all and endure for euer: and whensoeuer neede is, they are all obedient.

24 They are all double, one against another: he hath made nothing that hath any fault.

25 The one ‖ commendeth the goodnesse of the other, and who can bee satisfied with beholding Gods glory? ‖ Or, stablisheth.

CHAP. XLIII.

The summe of the creation of the works of God.

† The wonderful works of God.

THis high ornament † the cleare firmament, the beautie of the heauen so glorious to beholde,

2 The sunne also, a marueilous instrument when it appeareth, declareth at his going out, the worke of the most High.

3 At noone it burneth the countrey, and who may abide for the heate thereof?

4 The sunne burneth the mountaines three times more then hee that keepeth a furnace with continuall heate: it casteth out the fierie vapours, and with the shining beames blindeth the eyes.

5 Great is the Lord that made it, and by his commandement he casteth it to runne hastily.

6 *The

Gen.1.16. 6 * The moone also hath hee made to appeare according to her season, that it should be a declaration of the time, & a signe for the world.

Exod,12.2. 7 * The feasts are appointed by the moone: the light thereof diminisheth vnto the end.

8 The moneth is called after the name thereof, and groweth wonderously in her changing.

9 It is a campe pitched on high, shining in the firmament of heauen: the beautie of heauen are the glorious starres, and the ornament that shineth in the high places of the Lord.

10 By the commandement of the Holy one they continue in their order, & fayle not in their watch.

Gen.9.13,14 11 ¶ *Looke vpon the raine-bow, and praise him that made it: very beautifull is it in the brightnesse thereof.

Isa.40.12. 12 * It compasseth the heauen about with a glorious citie, and the hands of the most High haue bended it.

13 ¶ Through his commandement hee maketh the snow to hasse, and sendeth swiftly the lightning of his iudgement.

14 Therefore hee openeth his treasures, and the cloudes flie foorth as the foules.

15 In his power hath hee strengthened the clouds, and broken the haile stones.

16 The mountains leape at the sight of him: the Southwind bloweth according to his will.

17 The sound of his thunder beateth the earth: so doeth the storme of the North: the whirlewind also, as birds that flie, scattereth the snow, and the falling downe thereof is as the grasshoppers that light downe.

18 The eye marueileth at the beautie of the whitenesse thereof, and the heart is astonished at the same of it.

19 Hee also powreth out the frost vpon the earth like salt, and when it is frosen, it sticketh on the tops of pales.

20 When the cold Northwind bloweth, and yce is frosen of the water, it abideth vpon al the gatherings together of water, and clotheth the waters as with a brestplate.

21 It deuoureth the mountaines, and burneth the wildernesse, and destroyeth that, that is greene, like fire.

22 The remedie of all these is when a cloude commeth hastily, and when a dewe commeth vpon the heate, it refresheth it.

23 [By his word he stilleth the wind:] by his counsell he appeaseth the deepe, and planteth ilands therein.

24 They that saile ouer the sea, tell of the perils thereof, & when we heare it with our eares, we marueil thereat.

25 For there bee strange, and wonderous workes, diuers maners of beasts, and the creation of Whales.

26 Through him are all things directed to a good end, and are stablished by his word.

27 And when we haue spoken much, we can not attaine vnto them: but this is the summe of all, that he is all.

28 What power haue we to praise him? for he is aboue all his workes.

Psal,96.4. 29 The Lord is terrible, and very *great, and marueilous is his power.

30 Praise the Lorde, and magnifie him as much as ye can, yet doeth he farre exceed: exalt him with all your power, and bee not wearie, yet can ye not attaine vnto it.

31 *Who hath seene him, that hee might tell vs? and who can magnifie him as he is? John 1.18. psal.106,2.

32 For there are hid yet greater things then these bee, and wee haue seene but a fewe of his workes.

33 For the Lord hath made all things, and giuen wisedome to such as feare God.

CHAP. XLIIII.

The prayse of certaine holy men, Enoch, Noe, Abraham, Isaac and Iacob.

LEt vs now commend the famous men, and our fathers, of whom we are begotten.

2 The Lord hath gotte great glory by them, and that through his great power from the beginning.

3 They haue borne rule in their kingdomes, and were renowmed for their power, and were wise in counsell, and declared prophecies.

4 * They gouerned the people by counsell, Exo,18.25 and by the knowledge of learning meete for the people, in whose doctrine were wise sentences.

5 They inuented the melodie of musike, and expounded the verses that were written.

6 They were rich & mighty in power, and liued quietly at home.

7 All these were honourable men in their generations, and were well reported of in their times.

8 There are of them that haue left a name behind them, so that their prayse shall be spoken of.

9 There are some also which haue no memoriall, *and are perished as though they had Gen.7.22. neuer bene, and are become as though they had neuer bene borne, and their children after them.

10 But the former were merciful men, whose righteousnesse hath not bene forgotten.

11 For whose posteritie a good inheritaunce is reserued, and their seed is conteined in the couenant.

12 Their stocke is conteined in the couenant, and their posteritie after them.

13 Their seed shall remaine for euer, & their prayse shall neuer be taken away.

14 Their bodies are buried in peace, but their name liueth for euermore.

15 *The people speake of their wisdome, and Chap.39. 10 the congregation talke of their prayse.

16 †*Enoch pleased the Lord God: therfore †Enoch. was he translated for an ensample of repentance Gen.5.24. to the generations. hebr.11.5.

The prayse of Moyses, Aaron and Phinees.

†Moses. Exod.11.3. actes 7.22. AND † Moyses the * beloued of God & men, brought hee foorth, whose remembraunce is blessed.

2 He made him like to the glorious Saints, and magnified him by the feare of his enemies.

3 By his wordes he caused the wonders to cease, and he made him * glorious in the sight of Kings, and gaue him commandements for his people, and shewed him his glory.

Exod.6.7.8. 9.chapters. Num.12,3. 4 * He sanctified him with faithfulnesse, and meekenesse, and chose him out of all men.

Exod.19.7. 5 Hee caused him to heare his voyce, and brought him into the darke cloude, * and there hee gaue him the commaundements before his face, euen the Lawe of life and knowledge, that he might teach Iacob the couenant, and Israel his iudgements.

†Aaron. Exod.4.28. 6 He exalted † Aaron an holy man like vnto him, euen his * brother of the tribe of Leui.

7 An euerlasting couenaunt made hee with him, and gaue him the Priesthood among the people, & made him blessed through his comely ornament, and clothed him with the garment of honour.

8 Hee put perfection vpon him, and girded him with ornaments of strength, as with breeches, and a tunicle, and an ephod.

Exod.28.35. 9 Hee compassed him about with bels of gold, and with many bels round about, * that when he went in, he sound might be heard, and might make a noyse in the sanctuarie, for a remembrance to the children of Israel his people, 13 Before him were there no such faire ornaments: there might no stranger put them on, but onely his children, & his childrens children perpetually.

14 Their sacrifices were wholy consumed euery day twise continually.

15 Moyses filled a his hands, * and anointed him with holy oyle: this was appointed vnto him by an euerlasting couenant, and to his seed, so long as the heauens should remaine, that he should minister before him, and also to execute the office of the Priesthood, and bless his people in his name.

16 Before all men liuing the Lord chose him that he should present offerings before him, & a sweete sauour for a remembraunce to make reconciliation for his people.

Deut.17.10. and 21.5. 17 * He gaue him also his commandements and authoritie according to the Lawes appointed, that he should teach Iacob the testimonies, and giue light vnto Israel by his Lawe.

Num.16.1,2 18 * Strangers stoode vp against him and enuied him in the wildernes, euen the men that tooke Dathans & Abirams part, and the companp of Core in furie and rage.

19 This the Lord saw, and it displeased him, and in his wrathful indignation were they consumed: he did wonders vpon them, and consumed them with the fierie flame.

Num.17,8. 20 * But he made Aaron more honourable, and gaue him an heritage, and parted the first fruites of the first borne vnto him: vnto him specially he appointed bread in abundance.

21 For the Priestes did eate of the sacrifices of the Lord, which he gaue vnto him and to his seed.

Deut.12.12. and 18.1. 22 * Els had he none heritage in the land of his people, neither had hee any portion among the people: for the Lord is the portion of his inheritance.

24 Therefore was there a couenant of peace made with him, that he should bee the chiefe of the Sanctuarie and of his people, and that hee and his posteritie should haue the dignitie of the priesthood for euer.

25 And according to the couenant made with Dauid, that the inheritaunce of the kingdome should remaine to his sonne of the tribe of Iuda: so the heritage of Aaron should bee to the onely sonne of his sonne, & to his seed. God giue vs wisedome in our heart to iudge his people in righteousnesse, that the good things that they haue, be not abolished, and that their glory may endure for their posteritie.

1.Sam.12,3.

19 *And before his long sleepe hee made protestation, in the sight of the Lorde, and his anoynted, that he tooke no substance of any man, no not so much as a shooe, and no man could accuse him.

1.Sam. 28. 18,19.

20 *After his sleepe also he tolde of the kings death, and from the earth lift hee vp his voyce, and prophecied that the wickednesse of the people should perish.

CHAP. XLVII.

The praise of Nathan, Dauid, and Salomon.

† Nathan. 2.Sam.12.1.

AFter him rose vp † * Nathan to prophecie in the time of Dauid.

† Dauid.

2 For as the fatte is taken away from the peace offering, so was † Dauid chosen out of the children of Israel.

1.Sam.17. 34.

3 *Hee played with the lions, as with kids, and with beares, as with lambes.

1.Sam.17. 49,50,51.

4 *Slew he not a giant when he was yet but yong, & tooke away the rebuke from the people, when hee lift vp his hand with the stone in the sling, to beate downe the pride of Goliah?

1.Sam.18.7.

‖ Or, the people.

5 For hee called vpon the most High Lorde, which gaue him strength in his right hande, to slay that mightie warriour, and that hee might set vp the horne of his people againe.

‖ Or, with blessings of the Lord.

6 *So ‖ hee gaue him the praise of ten thousande, and honoured him with ‖ great prayses, and gaue him a crowne of glorie.

2.Sam.5.7.

7 * For hee destroyed the enemies on euery side, and rooted out the Philistims his aduersaries, and brake their horne in sunder vnto this day.

8 In all his workes he praised the Holy one, and the most High with honourable wordes, and with his whole heart hee sung songes, and loued him that made him.

1.Chro.15

9 * Hee set singers also before the altar, and accoyding to their time hee made sweete songes, that they might prayse God daily with their songs.

10 Hee ordained to keepe the feast dayes comely, and appointed the times perfectly, that they might praise the holy Name of God, and make the Temple to sound in the morning.

2.Sam.12. 13.

11 * The Lorde tooke away his sinnes, and exalted his horne for euer: hee gaue him the couenant of the kingdome, and the throne of glorie in Israel.

12 After him rose vp a wise sonne, who by him dwelt in a large possession.

† Salomon. 1.King.4. 21,24.

13 † * Salomon reigned in a peaceable time, and was glorious: for God made all quiet round about, that hee might builde an house in his Name, & prepare the Sanctuarie for euer.

1.King.4. 29,30.

14 * Howe wise wast thou in thy youth, and wast filled with vnderstanding as with a flood!

15 Thy minde couered the whole earth, and hath filled it with graue and darke sentences.

16 Thy name went abroade in the yles, and for thy peace thou wast beloued.

1.King.10. 31,32.

17 *The countreys marueiled at thee for thy songs, and prouerbes, and similitudes, and interpretations.

1.King.10. 27.

18 By the Name of the Lorde God, which is called the God of Israel, thou hast * gathered golde as tinne, and hast had as much siluer as lead.

1.King.11. 1.

19 * Thou diddest bowe thy lopnes to women, and wast ouercome by thy body.

20 Thou diddest staine thine honour, and hast defiled thy posteritie, and hast brought wrath vpon thy children, and hast felt sorrowe for thy follp.

1.King.12. 15,16,17.

21 *So the kingdome was deuided, and Ephraim began to be a rebellious kingdome.

2.Sam.7.15.

22 * Neuertheleſſe the Lorde left not off his mercy, neither was he destroyed for his works, neither did hee abolish the posteritie of his elect, nor tooke away the seed of him that loued him, but hee left a remnant vnto Jacob, and a roote of him vnto Dauid.

† Roboam.

‖ Or, a most euident foole.

23 Thus rested Salomon with his fathers, and of his seede hee left behinde him † Roboam, euen ‖ the foolishnesse of the people, and one that had no vnderstanding, * who turned away the people through his counsell, and † Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat, * which caused Israel to sinne, and shewed Ephraim the way of sinne,

1.King.12. 10,11,13, 14.

† Ieroboam.

1.King.12. 28,30.

24 So that their sinnes were so much increased, that they were driuen out of the land.

25 For they sought out all wickednesse, till the vengeance came vpon them.

CHAP. XLVIII.

The praise of Elias, Eliseus, Ezekias and Isaias.

† Elias.

THen stoode vp † * Elias the Prophete as a fire, and his word burnt like a lampe.

1.Kin. 17.1.

2 Hee brought a famine vpon them, and by his zeale hee diminished them: [for they might not awap with the commaundements of the Lord.]

3 By the worde of the Lorde he shut the heauen, * and three times brought he the fire from heauen.

4 O Elias, how honourable art thou by thy wonderous deedes! who may make his boast to be like thee!

5 *Which hast raised vp the dead frō death, and by the worde of the most High out of the graue:

6 Which hast brought Kings vnto destruction, and the honourable from their seate:

7 Which heardest the rebuke of the Lorde in Sina, *and in Horeb the iudgement of the vengeance:

8 *Which diddest anoynt Kings that they might † recompense, and Prophetes to bee thy successours:

9 *Which wast taken vp in a whirlewinde of fire, and in a charet of fierie horses:

10 Which wast appointed * to reproone in due season, and to pacifie the wrath of the Lords iudgement before it kindled, and to turne the hearres of the fathers vnto the children, and to set vp the tribes of Jacob.

11 Blessed were they that sawe thee, and slept in loue: for a we shall liue.

12 * When Elias was couered with the storme, † Eliseus was filled wt his spirit: while he liued, he was not moued for any prince, neither could any bring him into subiection.

13 Nothing could ouercome him, * and after his death his body prophecied.

14 Hee did wonders in his life, and in death were his workes marueilous.

15 For all this the people repented not, neither departed they from their sinnes: * till they were caried awap prisoners out of their lande, and were scattered through all the earth, so that there remained but a very fewe people with the prince vnto the house of Dauid.

16 Howbeit some of them did right, and some heaped vp sinnes.

17 †*Ezekias made his citie strong, and conueyed water into the middes thereof: he digged thorowe the rocke with yron, and made fountaines for waters.

18 *In his time came Sennacherib vp, and sent Rabsaces, and lift vp his hand against Sion, and boasted proudly.

19 Then trembled their heartes and hands, so that they sorowed like a woman in trauell.

20 But they called vpon the Lord, which is mercifull, and lift vp their hands vnto him, and immediatly the Holy one heard them out of heauen.

21 [Hee thought no more vpon their sinnes, nor gaue them ouer to their enemies,] but deliuered them by the hand of Esai.

22 *He smote the hoste of the Assyrians, and his Angel destroyed them.

23 For Ezekias had done the thing that pleased the Lorde, and remained stedfastly in the wayes of Dauid his father, as † Esai the great Prophete, and faithfull in his vision had commaunded him.

24 *In his time the sunne went backward, and he lengthened the kings life.

25 He saw by an excellent spirit what should come to passe at the last, and he comforted them that were sorowfull in Sion.

26 He shewed what should come to passe for euer, & secret things, or euer they came to passe.

CHAP. XLIX.

Of Iosias, Hezekiah, Dauid, Ieremie, Ezechiel, Zorobabel, Iesu, Nehemias, Enoch, Ioseph, Sem, and Seth.

THe remembrance of † * Iosias is like the composition of the perfume that is made by the arte of the Apothecarie: it is sweete as honie in all mouthes, and as musicke at a banquet of wine.

2 Hee behaued himselfe vprightly in the reformation of the people, and tooke awap all abominations of iniquitie.

3 He *directed his heart vnto the Lorde, and in the time of ꝑ vngodly he established religion.

4 All, except Dauid and Ezekias, and Iosias, committed wickednesse: for euen the Kings of Juda forsooke the Lawe of the most High, and failed.

5 Therefore he gaue their ‖ horne vnto other, and their honour to a strange nation.

6 Hee burnt the elect citie of the Sanctuarie, *and destroyed the stretes thereof according to the ‖prophecie of † Ieremias.

7 For they *intreated him euil, which neuertheless was a Prophet, * sanctified from his mothers wombe, that hee might roote out and afflict, and destroy, and that he might also build vp, and plant.

8 † *Ezechiel sawe the glorious vision, which was shewed him vpon the charet of the Cherubims.

9 *For hee made mention of the enemies vnder the figure of the raine, and directed them that went right.

10 ¶ * And let the bones of the twelue Prophetes flourish out of their place, and let their memorie bee blessed: for they comforted Jacob, and deliuered them by assured hope.

11 ¶ How shal we praise † Zorobabel, which was as a ring on the right hand!

12 So was † * Jesus also the sonne of Josedec: these men in their time builded the house, and set vp the Sanctuarie of the Lorde againe, which was prepared for an euerlasting worship.

13 ¶ *And among the elect was † Neemias, whose renowme is great, which set vp for vs the walles that were fallen, and set vp the gates and the barres, and layde the foundations of our houses.

14 ¶ But vpon the earth was no man created like † * Enoch: for he was taken vp from the earth.

15 Neither was there a like man vnto † * Joseph the gouernour of his brethren, and the vpholder of his people, whose bones were kept.

16 † * Sem and † Seth were in great honour among men: and so was † Adam aboue euerp liuing thing in the creation.

3 In his dayes the places to receiue water, that were decaied, were restored, and the brasse was about in measure as the a sea.

a Which Salomon made, 1. King. 7. 23.

4 Hee tooke care for his people, that they should not fall, and fortified the citie against the siege.

5 How honourable was his conuersation among the people, and when he came out of the house couered with the vaile!

6 He was as the morning starre in the mids of a cloud, and as the moone when it is full,

7 And as the sunne shining vpon the Temple of the most High, and as the rainebow that is bright in the faire cloudes,

8 And as the floure of the roses in the spring of the yeere, and as lilies by the springs of waters, and as the branches of the frankincense tree in the time of sommer,

9 As a fire and incense in the censer, and as a vessell of massie gold, set with all maner of precious stones,

10 And as a faire olive tree that is fruitfull, and as a cypresse tree, which groweth vp to the cloudes.

11 When hee put on the garment of honour and was clothed with all beautie, he went vp to the holy altar, and made the garment of holinesse honourable.

12 When hee tooke the portions out of the Priests hands, he himselfe stood by the herth of the altar compassed with his brethren round about, as the branches do the cedar tree in Libanus, and they compassed him as the branches of the palme trees.

13 So were all the sonnes of Aaron in their glory, and their oblations of the Lord in their hands before all the congregation of Israel.

14 And that he might accomplish his ministerie vpon the altar, and garnish the offering of the most High, and almightie, 15 Hee stretched out his hand to the drinke offering, and powred of the blood of the grape, & he powred at the foote of the altar a perfume of good sauour vnto the most high King of all.

16 Then shouted the sonnes of Aaron, and blowed with brasen trumpets, & made a great noyse to be heard, for a remembrance before the most High.

17 Then all the people together hasted, and fell downe to the earth vpon their faces to worship their Lord God almightie, and most high.

18 The singers also sang with their voices, so that the sound was great, & the melodie sweet.

19 And the people prayed vnto the Lord most high with prayer before him that is mercifull, till the honour of the Lord were performed, and they had accomplished his service.

20 Then went he downe, and stretched out his hands ouer the whole congregation of the children of Israel, that they should giue praise with their lips vnto the Lord, and reioyce in his name.

21 He began againe to worship, that he might receiue the blessing of the most High.

22 Now therfore giue praise all ye vnto God, that worketh great things euery where, which hath increased our dayes from the wombe, and dealt with vs according to his mercy,

23 That hee would giue vs ioyfulnesse of heart, and peace in our dayes in Israel, as in old time, 24 That he would confirme his mercy with vs, and deliuer vs at his time.

25 ¶ There be two maner of people, that my heart abhorreth, and the third is no people:

26 They that sit vpon the mountaine of Samaria, the Philistims, & the foolish people that dwell in ‖ Sicimus.

‖ Or, Sichem.

27 ¶ Iesus the sonne of Sirach, the sonne of Eleazarus of Ierusalem, hath written the doctrine of vnderstanding and knowledge in this booke, and hath powred out the wisedom of his heart.

28 Blessed is he that exerciseth himself therein: and he that laieth vp these in his heart, shall be wise.

29 For if he do these things, he shalbe strong in all things: for he setteth his steps in the light of the Lord, which giueth wisedome to the godly. The Lord be praysed for euermore. So be it, so be it.

CHAP. LI.

A prayer of Iesus the sonne of Sirach.

I Will confesse thee, O Lord & King, and praise thee, O God my sauiour: I will giue thanks vnto thy name.

2 For thou art my defender and helper, and hast preserued my body from destruction, and from the snare of the slanderous tongue, and from the lips that are occupied with lies: thou hast holpen me against mine aduersaries,

3 And hast deliuered me according to the multitude of thy mercy, & for thy Names sake, from the roaring of them that were ready to deuour me, and out of the hands of such as sought after my life, and from the manifold afflictions which I had,

4 And from the fire that choked me round about, and from the mids of the fire that I burned not,

5 And from the bottome of the belly of hell, from an vncleane tongue, from lying words, from false accusation to the King, and from the slander of an vnrighteous tongue.

6 [My soule shal praise þ Lord vnto death:] for my soule drew neere vnto death: my life was neere to the hell beneath.

7 They compassed me on euery side, & there was no man to helpe me: I looked for the succour of men, but there was none.

8 Then thought I vpon thy mercy, O Lord, and vpon thine acts of old, how thou deliuerest such as waite for thee, and sauest them out of the hands of the ‖ enemies.

‖ Or, nations.

9 Then lifted I vp my prayer from þ earth, and prayed for deliuerance from death.

10 I called vpon the Lord the Father of my Lord, that hee would not leaue me in the day of my trouble, and in the time of the proud without helpe.

11 I will praise thy name continually, & will sing praise with thanksgiuing: and my prayer was heard.

12 Thou sauedst me from destruction, & deliueredst me from the euil time: therefore will I giue thanks, and praise thee, & blesse the Name of the Lord.

13 When I was yet yong, or euer I went abroad, abroad, I desired wisedom openly in my prayer.

14 I prayed for her before the Temple, and sought after her unto farre countries, & she was as a grape that wareth ripe out of the flower.
15 Mine heart reioyced in her: my foote walked in the right way, and from my youth up sought I after her.
16 I bowed somewhat downe mine eare, and receiued her, and gate me much wisedome:
17 And I profited by her: therefore will I ascribe the glory unto him, that giueth me wisedome.
18 For I am aduised to doe thereafter: I will be ielous of that that is good: so shall I not be confounded.
19 My soule hath wrestled with her, and I haue examined my workes: I lifted up mine hands on hie, and considered the ignorances thereof.
20 I directed my soule unto her, & I found her in pureneſſe: I haue had mine heart ioyned with her from the beginning: therefore shall I not be forsaken.
21 My bowels are troubled in seeking her: therefore haue I gotten a good possession.
22 The Lord hath giuen me a tongue for my reward, wherewith I will prayse him.
23 Draw neere unto mee, ye unlearned, and dwell in the house of learning.
24 Wherefore are you slowe? and what say you of these things, seeing your soules are very thirstie?
25 I opened my mouth, and said, *Buy her for you without money. *Isa.55.1.
26 Bow downe your necke under the yoke, and your soule shall receiue instruction: shee is ready that ye may find her.
27 Behold with your eyes, *how that I haue had but litle labour, and haue gotten unto me much rest. *Chap.6.18.
28 Get learning with a great summe of money: for by her ye shall possesse much gold.
29 Let your soule reioyce in the mercy of the Lord, and be not ashamed of his prayse.
30 Doe your duetie betimes, and he will giue you a reward at his time.

Baruch.

CHAP. I.

1 Baruch wrote a booke during the captiuitie of Babylon, which he read before Iechoniah and all the people.
10 The Iewes sent the booke with money unto Ierusalem to their other brethren, to the intent that they should pray for them.

AND these are the wordes of the booke, which Baruch the sonne of Nerias, the sonne of Maasias, the sonne of Sedecias, the sonne of ‖ Asadias, the sonne of Helcias wrote in at Babylon, ‖Or, Sedeim.
2 In the fift peere, and in the seuenth day of the moneth, what time as the Chaldeans tooke Ierusalem, and burnt it with fire.
3 And Baruch did reade the wordes of this booke, that Iechonias the sonne of Joacim king of Juda might heare, & all the people that were come to heare the booke,
4 And in the audience of the gouernour, and of the kings sonnes, and before the Elders, and before the whole people, from the lowest unto the highest, before all them that dwelt at Babylon by the riuer ‖ Sud. ‖Or, Sodi.
5 Which when they heard it, wept, fasted, and made prayers before the Lord.
6 They made a collection also of money, according to euery mans power,
7 And sent it to Ierusalem unto Joacim the sonne of Helcias the sonne of Salom Priest, and unto the other priests, and to all the people, which were with him at Ierusalem,
8 When hee had receiued the vessels of the Temple of the Lord, that were taken away out of the Temple, to bring them againe into the land of Juda, the tenth day of the moneth ‖ Siuan, to wit, siluer vessels, which Sedecias the sonne of Josias king of Juda had made. ‖Or, Sihan.
9 After that Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon had led away Iechonias from Ierusalem, and his princes, and his nobles, prisoners, and the people, and caried them to Babylon.
10 And they said, Behold, we haue sent you money, wherewith yee shall buy burnt offerings for sinne, and incense, and prepare a ‖meat offering, and offer upon the altar of the Lorde our God, ‖Or, Manna, for Minhah, which was the euening and morning sacrifice.
11 And pray for the life of Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon, & for the life of Baltasar his sonne, that their dayes may bee upon earth, as the dayes of heauen, 12 And that God would giue us strength and lighten our eyes, that we may liue under the shadow of Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon, and under the shadowe of Baltasar his sonne, that we may long doe him seruice, & find fauour in their sight.
13 Pray for us also unto the Lorde our God, (for we haue sinned against the Lord our God, and unto this day the furp of the Lord, and his wrath is not turned from us.)
14 And reade this booke (which wee haue sent to you to be rehearsed in the Temple of the Lord) upon the feast dayes, and at time conuenient.
15 Thus shall ye say, *To the Lord our God belongeth righteousnesse, but unto us the confusion of our faces, as it is come to passe this day unto them of Juda, and to the inhabitants of Ierusalem, *Chap.2.6.
16 And to our kings, and to our princes, and to our priests, and to our prophets, and to our fathers, 17 Because we haue *sinned before the Lord our God, *Dan.9.5.
18 And haue not obeied him, neither harkened unto the voyce of the Lorde our God, to walke in the commandements that he gaue us openly.
19 From the day that the Lord brought our fathers out of the land of Egypt, euen unto this day, wee haue bene disobedient unto the Lorde our God, and we haue bene negligent to heare his voyce.
20 *Where-

Deu.28.15. 20 * Wherefore these plagues are come vpon vs, and the curse which the Lord appointed by Moyses his seruant at the time þ he brought our fathers out of the land of Egypt to giue vs a land that floweth with milke and hony, as appeareth this day.

21 Neuerthelesse, wee haue not hearkened vnto the voyce of the Lord our God, according to all the woordes of the Prophets, whom hee sent vnto vs.

22 But euery one of vs followed the wicked imagination of his owne heart, to serue strange gods, and to doe euill in the sight of the Lord our God.

CHAP. II.

1 The Iewes confesse that they suffer iustly for their sinnes. The true confession of the Christians. 11 The Iewes desire to haue the wrath of God turned from them. 32 Hee promiseth that hee will call againe the people from captiuitie, and giue them a newe and euerlasting Testament.

THerefore the Lorde our God hath perfourmed his woorde, which hee pronounced against vs, and against our iudges that gouerned Israel, and against our Kings, and against our Princes, and against the men of Israel and Iuda,

2 To bring vpon vs great plagues, such as neuer came to passe vnder the whole heauen, as they that were done in Ierusalem, according to things, that were written in the Lawe of Moyses, Deu.28.53. 3 That some among vs should * eate þ flesh of his owne sonne, and some the flesh of his owne daughter.

4 Moreouer, he hath deliuered them to be in subiection to all the kingdomes, that are round about vs, to be as a reproch and desolation among all the people rounde about where the Lord hath scattered them.

5 Thus they are brought beneath and not aboue, because we haue sinned against the Lord our God, and haue not heard his voyce.

Chap.1.15. 6 *To the Lord our God appertaineth righteousnesse, but vnto vs and to our fathers open shame, as appeareth this day.

7 For all these plagues are come vpon vs, which the Lord hath pronounced against vs.

8 Yet haue we not prayed before the Lorde, that wee might turne euery one from the imaginations of his owne wicked heart.

9 So þ Lord hath watched ouer þ plagues, and the Lord hath brought them vpon vs: for the Lord is righteous in all his workes, which he hath commanded vs.

10 Yet wee haue not hearkened vnto his voyce, to walke in the commandements of the Lord that he hath giuen vnto vs.

Dan.9.15. 11 *And nowe, O Lord God of Israel, that hast brought thy people out of the lande of Egypt with a mighty hand, and an hie arme, and with signes, and with wonders, and with great power, and hast gotten thy selfe a Name, as appeareth this day, 12 O Lorde our God, wee haue sinned: wee haue done wickedly: we haue offended in all thine ordinances.

13 Let thy wrath turne from vs: for wee are but a fewe left among the heathen, where thou hast scattered vs.

14 Heare our prayers, O Lord, and our petitions, and deliuer vs for thine owne sake, and giue vs fauour in the sight of them, which haue led vs away, 15 That all the earth may knowe that thou art the Lorde our God, and that thy Name is called vpon Israel, and vpon their posteritie.

16 Therefore looke downe from thine holy Temple, and thinke vpon vs: encline thine eare, O Lord, and heare vs.

17 * Open thine eyes, and beholde: for the dead that are in the graues, and whose soules are out of their bodies, * giue vnto the Lorde, neither ‖ prayse, nor righteousnesse. Deut.26.15. isa.63.15. Psal 6.5,6. and 115.17, 18.isa.38. 18,19. ‖Or, glory, nor prayse of righteousnes.

18 But the soule that is vexed for the greatnesse of sinne, and hee that goeth crookedly, and weake, and the eyes that faile, and the hungrie soule will giue thee prayse and righteousnesse, O Lord.

19 For we do not require mercy in thy sight, O Lord our God, for the righteousnesse of our fathers, or of our Kings, 20 But because thou hast sent out thy wrath and indignation vpon vs, as thou hast spoken by ‖ thy seruants the Prophets, saying, ‖Or, by the hand of thy seruants. Iere.27.7.

21 *Thus sayth the Lord, Bow downe your shoulders, and serue the King of Babylon: so shall ye remaine in the land, that I gaue vnto your fathers.

22 But if ye will not heare the voyce of the Lord, to serue the King of Babylon, 23 I will cause to cease in the cities of Iuda, and in Ierusalem, I will cause to cease the voyce of mirth, and the voyce of ioy, and the voyce of the bridegroome, and the voyce of the bride, and the land shall be desolate of inhabitants.

24 But wee woulde not hearken vnto thy voyce, to serue the King of Babylon: therefore hast thou performed the woordes that thou spakest by thy seruants the Prophets: namely, that the bones of our Kings, and the bones of our fathers shoulde be caried out of their places.

25 And loe, they are cast out to the heate of the day, and to the colde of the night, and are dead in great miserie with famine, and with the sword, and in banishment.

26 And the Temple wherein thy Name was called vpon, thou hast brought to the state, as appeareth this day, for the wickednesse of the house of Israel, and the house of Iuda.

27 O Lorde our God, thou hast intreated vs according to equitie, and according to all thy great mercy,

28 As thou spakest by thy seruant Moyses, in the day when thou diddest commaund him to write thy Lawe before the children of Israel, saying,

29 *If ye will not obey my voyce, then shall this great swarme and multitude be turned into a very fewe among the nations where I will scatter them. Leui. 26.14. deut. 28.15.

30 For I knowe that they will not heare me: for it is a stiffnecked people: but in the land of their captiuitie they shall remember themselues.

31 And know that I am the Lord their God: then will I giue them an heart to vnderstand, and eares.

32 And they shall heare, and prayse me in the land of their captiuitie, and thinke vpon my Name.

33 Then shall they turne them from their hard backes, and from their euill workes: for they shall remember the way of their fathers, which sinned before the Lord.

34 And I will bring them againe into the land, which I promised with an othe vnto their fathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and they shall be lords of it: and I will increase them, and they shall not be diminished.

35 And I wil make an euerlasting couenant with them, that I will be their God, and they shall be my people: and I will no more driue my people of Israel out of the land that I haue giuen them.

CHAP. III.

1 The people continueth in their prayer begunne for their deliuerance. 9 He prayseth wisedome vnto the people, shewing that so great aduersities came vnto them for the despising thereof. 36 Onely God was the finder of wisedome. 37 Of the incarnation of Christ.

O Lorde Almighty, God of Israel, the soule that is in trouble, and the spirite that is vexed, crieth vnto thee.

2 Heare, O Lord, and haue mercy: for thou art mercifull, and haue pitie vpon vs, because we haue sinned before thee.

3 For thou endurest for euer, and we vtterly perish.

4 O Lorde Almighty, the God of Israel, heare nowe the prayer of the dead Israelites, and of their children, which haue sinned before thee, and not hearkened vnto the voyce of thee their God, wherefore these plagues hang vpon vs.

5 Remember not the wickednesse of our fathers, but thinke vpon thy power, and thy Name at this time.

6 For thou art the Lord our God, and thee, O Lord, will we praise.

7 And for this cause hast thou put thy feare in our hearts, that wee should call vpon thy Name, and praise thee in our captiuitie: for we haue considered in our mindes all the wickednesse of our fathers, that sinned before thee.

8 Behold, we are yet this day in our captiuitie, where thou hast scattered vs, to be a reproch and a curse, and subiect to payments, according to all the iniquities of our fathers, which are departed from the Lorde their God.

9 O Israel, heare the commaundements of life: hearken vnto them, that thou mayest learne wisedome.

10 What is the cause, O Israel, that thou art in thine enemies lande, and art waxen olde in a strange countrey?

11 And art defiled with the dead? and art counted with them, that goe downe to the graues?

12 Thou hast forsaken the fountaine of wisdome.

13 For if thou haddest walked in the way of God, thou shouldest haue remained safe for euer.

14 Learne where is wisedome, where is strength, where is vnderstanding, that thou mayest knowe also from whence commeth long continuance, and life, and where the light of the eyes, and peace is.

15 Who hath found out her place? or who hath come into her treasures?

16 Where are the princes of the heathen, and such as ruled the beastes vpon the earth?

17 They that had their pastime with the foules of the heauen, that hoarded vp siluer and golde, wherein men trust, and made none ende of their gathering?

18 For they that coyned siluer, and were so carefull of their worke, and whose inuention had none ende, 19 Are come to nought, and gone downe to hell, and other men are come vp in their steades.

20 When they were young, they sawe the light, and dwelt vpon the earth: but they vnderstood not the way of knowledge, 21 Neither perceiued the pathes thereof, neither haue their children receiued it: but they were farre off from that way.

22 It hath not beene heard of in the lande of Chanaan, neither hath it beene seene in Theman, 23 Nor the Agarites that sought after wisedome vpon the earth, nor the merchants of Merran, and of Theman, nor the expounders of fables, nor the searchers out of wisedome haue knowen the way of wisedome, neither doe they thinke vpon the pathes thereof.

24 O Israel, howe great is the house of God! and howe large is the place of his possession!

25 It is great, and hath none ende: it is hie, and vnmeasurable.

26 There were the giants, famous from the beginning, that were of so great stature, and so expert in warre.

27 Those did not the Lorde chuse, neither gaue he the way of knowledge vnto them.

28 But they were destroyed, because they had no wisedome, and perished through their owne foolishnesse.

29 Who hath gone vp into heauen, to take her, and brought her downe from the cloudes?

30 Who hath gone ouer the sea to finde her, and hath brought her, rather then fine golde?

31 No man knoweth her wayes, neither considereth her paths.

32 But he that knoweth al things, knoweth her, and he hath found her out with his vnderstanding: this same is hee which hath prepared the earth for euermore, and hath filled it with foure footed beastes.

33 When hee sendeth out the light, it goeth: and when hee calleth it againe, it obeyeth him with feare.

34 And the starres shine in their watch, and reioyce. When hee calleth them, they say, Here we be: and so with cheerefulnesse they shewe light vnto him that made them.

35 This is our God, and there shall none other be compared vnto him.

36 He hath founde out all the way of knowledge, and hath giuen it vnto Jacob his seruant, and to Israel his beloued.

37 Afterward he was seene vpon earth, and dwelt among men.

CHAP. IIII.

1 The reward of them that keepe the Law, and the punishment of them that despise it. 12 A comforting of the people being in captiuitie. 19 A complaint of Ierusalem, and vnder the figure thereof the Church. 25 A consolation and comforting of the same.

THis is the booke of the commandements of God, and the Law that endureth for euer: all they that keepe it, shall come to life: but such as forsake it, shall die.

2 Turne thee, O Iacob, and take holde of it: walke by this brightnesse before the light thereof.

3 Giue not thine honour to another, nor the things that are profitable vnto thee, to a strange nation.

4 O Israel wee are blessed: for the things that are acceptable vnto God, are declared vnto vs.

5 Be of good comfort, O my people, which art the memorial of Israel.

6 Yee are solde to the nations, not for your destruction: but because yee prouoked God to wrath, ye were deliuered vnto the enemies.

7 For ye haue displeased him that made you, offering vnto deuils and not to God.

8 Ye haue forgotten him that created you, euen the euerlasting God, and ye haue grieued Ierusalem, that nourished you.

9 When thee saw the wrath comming vpon you from God, she said, Hearken, ye that dwell about Sion: for God hath brought mee into great heauinesse.

10 I see the captiuitie of my sonnes and daughters, which the Euerlasting will bring vpon them.

11 With ioy did I nourish them, but I must leaue them with weeping and mourning.

12 Let no man reioyce ouer me a widow, and forsaken of many, which for the sinnes of my children am desolate, because they departed from the Law of God.

13 They would not know his righteousnesse, nor walke in the wayes of his commaundements: neither did they enter into the paths of discipline, through his righteousnesse.

14 Come, ye that dwell about Sion, and call to remembrance the captiuitie of my sonnes and daughters, which the Euerlasting hath brought vpon them.

15 For hee hath brought vpon them a nation from farre, an impudent nation, & of a strange language, 16 Which neither reuerence the aged, nor pitie the yong: these haue carried away the deare beloued of the widowes, leauing me alone, and destitute of my daughters.

17 But what can I helpe you?

18 Surely hee þ hath brought these plagues vpon you, can deliuer you from the handes of your enemies.

19 Goe your way, O children, goe your way: for I am left desolate.

20 I haue put off the clothing of peace, and put vpon me the sackecloth of prayer, & so long as I liue, I will call vpon the Euerlasting.

21 Be of good comfort, O children: cry vnto God, and he will deliuer you from the power, and hand of the enemies.

22 For I haue hope of your saluation through the Euerlasting, and ioy is come vpon me from the Holy one, because of the mercie which shall quickly come vnto you from our euerlasting Sauiour.

23 For I sent you away with weeping, and mourning: but with ioy and perpetuall gladnesse will God bring you againe vnto me.

24 Like as nowe the neighbours of Sion sawe your captiuitie, so shall they also see shortly your saluation from God, which shall come vnto you with great glory, and brightnes from the Euerlasting.

25 My children, suffer patiently the wrath that is come vpon you from God: for thine enemie hath persecuted thee, but shortly thou shalt see his destruction, and shalt treade vpon his necke.

26 My darlings haue gone by rough waies, and were led away as a flocke that is scattered by the enemies.

27 Be of good comfort, my children, and cry vnto God: for he that led you away, hath you in remembrance.

28 And as it came into your minde to go astray from your God: so endeuour your selues tenne times more, to turne againe and to seeke him.

29 For hee that hath brought these plagues vpon you, will bring you euerlasting ioy againe, with your saluation.

30 Take a good heart, O Ierusalem: for he which gaue thee that name, will comfort thee.

31 They are miserable that afflict thee, and such as reioyce at thy fall.

32 The cities are miserable whom thy children serue: miserable is she that hath taken thy sonnes.

33 For as shee reioyced at thy decay, and was glad of thy fall, so shall she be sory for her owne desolation.

34 For I will take away the reioycing of her great multitude, and her ioy shalbe turned into mourning.

35 For a fire shall come vpon her from the Euerlasting, long to endure, and she shall be inhabited of deuils for a great season.

36 O Ierusalem looke toward the East, and beholde the ioy that commeth vnto thee from thy God.

37 Loe, thy sonnes (whom thou hast let goe) come gathered together from the East vnto the West, reioycing in the worde of the Holy one vnto the honour of God.

CHAP. V.

1 Ierusalem is mooued vnto gladnesse for the returne of her people, and vnder the figure thereof the Church.

PVt off thy mourning clothes, O Ierusalem, and thine affliction, and decke thee with the worship and honour, that commeth vnto thee from God, for euermore.

2 Put on the garment of righteousnesse, that commeth from GOD, and set a crowne vpon thine head of the glorie of the Euerlasting.

3 For God will declare thy brightnesse to euery countrey vnder the heauen.

4 And God will name thee by this name for euer, The peace of righteousnesse, and the glory of the worship of God.

5 Arise, O Jerusalem, and stand vp on hie, and looke about thee toward the East, and beholde thy children gathered from the East vnto the West by the word of the Holy one, reioycing in the remembrance of God.

6 For they departed from thee on foote, and were led away of their enemies: but God will bring them againe vnto thee, exalted in glory, as children of the kingdome.

7 For God hath determined to bring downe euery high mountaine, and the long endurying rocks, and to fill the vallies, to make the ground plaine, that Israel may walke safely vnto the honour of God.

8 The woods and all sweete smelling trees shall ouershadowe Israel at the commaundement of God.

9 For God shall bring Israel with ioy in the light of his maiestie, with the mercie and righteousnesse that commeth of him.

CHAP. VI.

A COPIE OF THE EPISTLE THAT Jeremias sent vnto them that were led away captiues into Babylon by the king of the Babylonians, to certifie them of the thing that was commanded him of God.

In this chapter are the makers and maintainers of images mightily confuted.

BEcause of the sinnes, that ye haue committed against God, yee shall be led away captiues vnto Babylon, by Nabuchodonosor, king of the Babylonians.

2 So when yee be come into Babylon, yee shall remaine there many yeres, and a long season, euen [a] seuen generations, and after that wil I bring you away peaceably from thence.

3 * Now shall ye see in Babylon gods of siluer, and of gold, and of wood, borne vpon mens shoulders, to cause the people to feare.

4 Beware therefore that yee in no wise bee like the strangers, neither be ye afraid of them, when ye see the multitude before them and behinde them worshipping them,

5 But say yee in your hearts, O Lorde, we must worship thee.

6 For mine Angel shall be with you, and shall care for your soules.

7 As for their tongue, it is polished by the carpenter, and they themselues are guided, and laid ouer with siluer: yet are they but lies, and cannot speake.

8 And as they take golde for a maid that loueth to be deckt,

9 So make they crownes for the heads of their gods: sometimes also the Priests themselues conuey away the golde and siluer from their gods, and bestowe it vpon themselues.

10 Yea, they giue of the same vnto the harlots, that are in their houses: againe, they decke these gods of siluer, and gods of golde, and of wood, with garments like men,

11 Yet cannot they bee preserued from rust and wormes,

12 Though they haue couered them with clothing of purple, and wipe their faces because of the dust of the Temple, whereof there is much vpon them.

13 One holdeth a sceptre, as though he were a certeine iudge of the countrey: yet can he not slay such as offend him.

14 An other hath a dagger or an axe in his right hand: yet is hee not able to defend himselfe from battell, nor from theeues: so then it is euident that they be no gods.

15 Therefore feare them not: for as a vessell that a man bleth, is nothing worth when it is broken,

16 Such are their gods: when they be set vp in their temples, their eyes be full of dust by reason of the feet of those that come in:

17 And as the ‖ gates are shutte in round about vpon him that hath offended the King: or as one that should be led to be put to death, so the Priestes keepe their temples with doores, and with lockes, and with barres, least their gods should be spoyled by robbers.

‖ Or, courts.

18 They light vp candles before them: yea, more then for themselues, whereof they cannot see one: for they are but as one of the postes of the temple.

19 They confesse, that euen their hearts are gnawen vpon: but when the things that creepe out of the earth, eate them and their clothes, they feele it not.

20 Their faces are blacke through the smoke that is in the temple.

21 The owles, swallowes & birdes flie vpon their bodies, and vpon their heads, yea, and the cattes also.

22 By this ye may be sure, that they are not gods: therefore feare them not.

23 Notwithstanding the golde, that is about them to make them beautifull, except one wipe off the rust, they cannot shine: neither when they were molten, did they feele it.

24 The things wherein is no breath, are bought for a most high price.

25 * They are borne vpon mens shoulders, because they haue no feet, whereby they declare vnto men, that they be nothing worth: yea, and they that worship them, are ashamed. Isa. 46.7.

26 For if they fall to the ground at any time, they cannot rise vp againe of themselues, neither if one set them vpright, can they moone of themselues, neither if they be bowed downe can they make themselues straight: but they set gifts before them, as vnto dead men.

27 As for the things that are offered vnto them, their priestes sell them, and abuse them: likewise also the women lay vp of the same: but vnto the poore and sicke they giue nothing.

28 The menstruous women, and they that are in childebed, touch their sacrifices: by these things yee may knowe that they are no gods: feare them not.

29 From whence commeth it then, that they are called gods? because the women bring gifts to the gods of siluer, and gold, and wood.

30 And the priestes sit in their Temples, hauing their clothes rent, whose heads & beardes are shauen, and being bare headed, 31 They roare and crie before their gods, as men doe at the feast of one that is dead.

32 The priestes also take away of their garments, and clothe their wiues and children.

33 Whether it bee euill that one doeth vnto them, or good, they are not able to recompense it: they can neither set vp a king, nor put him downe.

34 In like maner they can neither giue riches, nor money: though a man make a vowe vnto them and keepe it not, they will not require it.

35 They

[a] That is, seuentie yeeres. Isa. 44.8, 9, 10. & 46.5, 7. Psal. 115. 4. Wis. 13.10.

35 They can saue no man from death, neither deliuer the weake from the mighty.

36 They cannot restore a blinde man to his sight, no; helpe any man at his needs.

37 They can shew no mercy to the widowe, no; doe good to the fatherlesse.

38 Their gods of wood, gold, and siluer, are as stones that be hewen out of the mountaine, and they that worship them, shall be confounded.

39 Howe should a man then thinke or say, that they are gods?

40 Moreouer the Chaldeans themselues dishonour them: for when they see a dumme man, that cannot speake, they present him to Bel, 41 And desire that hee would make him to speake, as though he had any feeling: yet they that understande these things, cannot leaue them: for they also haue no sense.

42 Furthermore the women, girded with coardes, sit in the streetes, and burne ‖ strawe. Or. braune.

43 And if one of them bee drawen away, and lie with any such as come by, thee casteth her neighbour in the teeth, because shee was not so worthily reputed, nor her coarde broken.

44 Whatsoeuer is done among them, is lies: howe may it then be thought or saide, that they are gods?

45 Carpenters and goldsmiths make them, neither be they any other thing, but euen what the workeman will make them.

46 Yea, they that make them, are of no long continuance: howe should then the things that are made of them, be gods?

47 Therefore they leaue lyes, and shame for their posteritie.

48 For when there commeth any warre or plague vpon them, the Priestes imagine with themselues, where they may hide themselues with them.

49 Howe then can men not perceiue, that they be no gods, which can neither defend themselues from warre, nor from plagues?

50 For * seeing they be but of wood, and of siluer, and of golde, men shall knowe hereafter that they are but lyes, and it shall be manifest to all nations and kings, that they be no gods, but the workes of mens hands, and that there is no worke of God in them. Psal.115.4. Isai.13.10.

51 Whereby it may be knowen, that they are no gods.

52 They can set vp no king in the land, nor giue raine vnto men.

53 They can giue no sentence of a matter, neither preserue from iniurie: they haue no power, but are as crowes betweene the heauen and the earth.

54 When there falleth a fire vpon the house of those gods of wood, and of siluer, and of golde, the Priestes will escape and saue themselues, but they burne as the balkes thereof.

55 They cannot withstand any king or enemies: howe can it then be thought or saide that they be gods?

56 Moreouer, these gods of wood, of golde, and of siluer can neither defend themselues from theeues nor robbers.

57 For they that are strongest, take away their golde and siluer, and apparell, wherewith they be clothed: and when they haue it, they get them away: yet can they not helpe themselues.

58 Therefore it is better to be a king, and so to shewe his power, or else a profitable vessell in an house, wherewith he that oweth it, might haue profite, then such false gods: or to be a doore in an house, to keepe such things safe as be therein, then such false gods: or a pillar of wood in a palace, then such false gods.

59 For the sunne, and the moone, and the starres that shine, when they are sent downe for necessary vses, obey.

60 Likewise also the lightning when it shineth, it is euident: and the winde bloweth in euery countrey.

61 And when God commandeth the cloudes to goe about the whole world, they doe as they are bidden.

62 When the fire is sent downe from aboue to destroy hils and woods, it doeth that which is commaunded: but these are not like any of these things, neither in forme nor power.

63 Wherefore men shoulde not thinke, nor say that they be gods, seeing they can neither giue sentence in iudgement, nor doe men good.

64 For so much nowe as ye are sure, that that be no gods, feare them not.

65 For they can neither curse, nor blesse kings:

66 Neither can they shewe signes in the heauen among the heathen, neither shine as the moone.

67 The beastes are better then they: for they can get them vnder a couert, and do themselues good.

68 So ye may be certified that by no maner of meanes they are gods: therefore feare them not.

69 For as a scarcrowe in a garden of cucumers keepeth nothing, so are their goddes of wood, and of siluer, and of golde:

70 And likewise their gods of wood, and gold, and siluer, are like to a white thorne in an orchard, that euery bird sitteth vpon, and as a dead body that is cast in the darke.

71 By the purple also and brightnesse which fadeth vpon them, ye may vnderstande, that they be no gods: yea, they themselues shall be consumed at the last, and they shall be a shame to the countrey.

72 Better therefore is the iust man, that hath none idoles: for he shall be farre from reproofe.

The

The ſong of the three holy children, which followeth in the third Chapter of Daniel after this place, They fell downe bound into the middes of the hote fierie fornace.

25 The prayer of Azarias. 46 The cruelties of the King. 48 The flame deuoureth the Caldeans. 49 The Angel of the Lorde was in the fornace. 51 The three children prayſe the Lorde and prouoke all creatures to the ſame.

24 AND they walked in the middes of the flame, prayſing God, and magnified the Lord.

25 Then Azarias ſtoode vp, and prayed on this maner, and opening his mouth in the middes of the fire, ſaid, 26 Bleſſed be thou, O Lorde God of our fathers: thy Name is worthy to be prayſed and honoured for euermore.

27 For thou art righteous in all the things, that thou haſt done vnto vs, and all thy workes are true, and thy wayes are right, and all thy iudgements certaine.

28 In all the things that thou haſt brought vpon vs, and vpon Ieruſalem, the holy citie of our fathers, thou haſt executed true iudgements: for by right and equitie haſt thou brought all theſe things vpon vs, becauſe of our ſinnes.

29 For wee haue ſinned and done wickedly, departing from thee: in all things haue wee treſpaſſed, 30 And not obeyed thy commaundements, nor kept them, neither done as thou haddſt commaunded vs, that we might proſper.

31 Wherefore in all that thou haſt brought vpon vs, and in euery thing that thou haſt done to vs, thou haſt done them in true iudgement:

32 As in deliuering vs into the hands of our wicked enemies, and moſt hatefull traitors, and to an vnrighteous king, and the moſt wicked in all the world.

33 And now we may not open our mouthes: we are become a ſhame and reproofe vnto thy ſeruants, and to them that worſhip thee.

34 Yet for thy Names ſake we beſeech thee, giue vs not vp for euer, neither breake thy couenant,

35 Neither take away thy mercy from vs, for thy beloued Abrahams ſake, and for thy ſeruant Iſaacs ſake, & for thy holy Iſraels ſake, 36 To whom thou haſt ſpoken and promiſed, that thou wouldeſt multiplie their ſeede as the ſtarres of heauen, and as the ſand, that is vpon the ſea ſhore.

37 For we, O Lord, are become leſſe then any nation, and be kept vnder this day in all the world, becauſe of our ſinnes:

38 So that nowe wee haue neither prince, nor prophet, nor gouernour, nor burnt offering, nor ſacrifice, nor oblation, nor incenſe, nor place to offer the firſt fruites before thee, that wee might finde mercie.

39 Neuertheleſſe in a contrite heart, and an humble ſpirit, let vs be receiued.

40 As in the burnt offering of rammes and bullocks, and as in ten thouſand of fat lambes, ſo let our offering be in thy ſight this day, that it may pleaſe thee: for there is no confuſion vnto them, that put their truſt in thee.

41 And nowe we followe thee with all our heart, and feare thee, and ſeeke thy face.

42 Put vs not to ſhame, but deale with vs after thy louing kindneſſe, and according to the multitude of thy mercies.

43 Deliuer vs alſo by thy myracles, and giue thy Name the glory, O Lord, 44 That all they that doe thy ſeruants euill, may be confounded: euen let them be confounded by thy great force and power, and let their ſtrength be broken,

45 That they may know, that thou only art the Lord God, & glorious ouer the whole world.

46 ¶ Now the kings ſeruants that had caſt them in, ceaſſed not to make the ouen hote with [a] naphtha, and with pitch, and with towe, and with fagots,

47 So that the flame went out of the fornace fourtie and nine cubites, 48 And it brake forth, and burnt thoſe Chaldeans, that it found by the fornace.

49 But the Angel of the Lord went downe into the fornace with them that were with Azarias, and ſmote the flame of the fire out of the fornace, 50 And made in the middes of the fornace like a moyſt whiſſing winde, ſo that the fire touched them not at all, neither grieued, nor troubled them.

51 Then theſe three (as out of one mouth) praiſed, and glorified, and bleſſed God in the fornace, ſaying, 52 Bleſſed be thou, O Lorde God of our fathers, and prayſed, and exalted aboue all things for euer, and bleſſed be thy glorious and holy name, and prayſed aboue all things, and magnified for euer.

53 Bleſſed be thou in the Temple of thine holy glory, and prayſed aboue all things, and exalted for euer.

54 Bleſſed be thou, that beholdeſt þ depths, and ſitteſt vpon the Cherubims, and prayſed aboue all things, and exalted for euer.

55 Bleſſed be thou in the glorious throne of thy kingdome, and prayſed aboue all things, and exalted for euer.

56 Bleſſed be thou in the firmament of heauen, and prayſed aboue all things, and glorified for euer.

57 All ye workes of the Lorde, bleſſe ye the Lorde: prayſe him, and exalt him aboue all things for euer.

58 O *heauens, bleſſe ye þ Lord: praiſe him, and exalt him aboue all things for euer. Pſal. 148. 4.

59 O Angels of þ Lord, bleſſe ye þ Lord: praiſe him, and exalt him aboue all things for euer.

60 All ye waters that be aboue the heauen, bleſſe ye the Lord: prayſe him, and exalt him aboue all things for euer.

61 All ye powers of the Lorde, bleſſe ye the Lorde: prayſe him, and exalt him aboue all things things for euer.

62 O Sunne and Moone, bleſſe yee the Lord: praiſe him, and exalt him aboue all things for euer.

63 O Starres of heauen, bleſſe yee the Lord: praiſe him, and exalt him aboue all things for euer.

64 Euery ſhowre and dewe, bleſſe yee the Lord: praiſe him, and exalt him aboue al things for euer.

65 All yee windes, bleſſe ye the Lord: praiſe him, and exalt him aboue all things for euer.

66 O fire and heate, bleſſe ye the Lord: praiſe him, and exalt him aboue all things for euer.

‖Or, colde. 67 O ‖ Winter and Summer, bleſſe yee the Lord: praiſe him, and exalt him aboue all things for euer.

‖Or, froſts. 68 O dewes and ‖ ſtormes of ſnowe, bleſſe ye the Lorde: praiſe him, and exalt him aboue all things for euer.

69 O froſt and colde, bleſſe ye the Lord: praiſe him, and exalt him aboue all things for euer.

70 O yce and ſnowe, bleſſe yee the Lorde: praiſe him, and exalt him aboue all things for euer.

71 O nightes and dayes, bleſſe ye the Lord: praiſe him, and exalt him aboue all things for euer.

72 O light and darkneſſe, bleſſe ye the Lord: praiſe him, and exalt him aboue all things for euer.

73 O lightnings and cloudes, bleſſe yee the Lord: praiſe him, and exalt him aboue all things for euer.

74 Let the earth bleſſe the Lorde: let it praiſe him, and exalt him aboue all things for euer.

75 O mountaines and hilles, bleſſe yee the Lord: praiſe him, and exalt him aboue all things for euer.

76 All things that growe on the earth, bleſſe ye the Lord: praiſe him, and exalt him aboue all things for euer.

77 O fountaines, bleſſe ye the Lord: praiſe him, and exalt him aboue all things for euer.

78 O ſea, and floods, bleſſe ye the Lord: praiſe him, and exalt him aboue all things for euer.

79 O whales, and all that moone in the waters, bleſſe ye the Lord: praiſe him, and exalt him aboue all things for euer.

80 All yee fowles of heauen, bleſſe yee the Lord: praiſe him, and exalt him aboue all things for euer.

81 All yee beaſtes and cattell, bleſſe yee the Lord: praiſe him, and exalt him aboue all things for euer.

82 O children of men, bleſſe yee the Lorde: praiſe him, and exalt him aboue all things for euer.

83 Let Iſrael bleſſe the Lorde, praiſe him, and exalt him aboue all things for euer.

84 O Prieſts of the Lord, bleſſe ye the Lord: praiſe him, and exalt him aboue all things for euer.

85 O ſeruants of the Lord, bleſſe ye the Lord: praiſe him, and exalt him aboue all things for euer.

86 O ſpirites and ſoules of the righteous, bleſſe ye the Lorde: praiſe him, and exalt him aboue all things for euer.

87 O Saints and humble of heart, bleſſe yee the Lorde: praiſe him, and exalt him aboue all things for euer.

88 O Ananias, Azarias, and Miſael, bleſſe yee the Lord: praiſe him, and exalt him aboue all thinges for euer: for hee hath deliuered vs from the hell, and ſaued vs from the hand of death, and deliuered vs out of the middes of the furnace, and burning flame: euen out of the middes of the fire hath hee deliuered vs.

89 Confeſſe vnto the Lorde, that he is gracious: for his mercie endureth for euer.

90 All yee that worſhip the Lord, bleſſe the God of gods: praiſe him, and acknowledge him: for his mercie endureth worlde without end.

The hiſtorie of ‖ Suſanna, which ſome ioyne to the end of Daniel, and make it the thirteenth chapter.

‖Or, Soſanna.

8 The two gouernours are taken with the loue of Suſanna. 19 They take her alone in the garden. 20 They ſolicite her to wickednes. 23 Shee chuſeth rather to obey God, though it be to the danger of her life. 34 She is accuſed. 45 Daniel doth deliuer her. 62 The gouernors are put to death.

THere dwelt a man in Babylon called Ioacim,

2 And hee tooke a wife, whoſe name was Suſanna, the daughter of Helcias, a verie faire woman, and one that feared God.

3 Her father and mother alſo were godly people, and taught their daughter according to the Law of Moſes.

4 Nowe Joacim was a great rich man, and had a faire garden ioyning vnto his houſe, and to him reſorted the Iewes, becauſe hee was more honourable then all others.

5 The ſame yeere were appointed two of the ancients of the people to be iudges, ſuch as the Lorde ſpeaketh of, that the iniquitie came from Babylon, and from the ancient iudges, which ſeemed to rule the people.

6 Theſe haunted Joacims houſe, and all ſuch as had any thing to doe in the lawe, came thither vnto them.

7 Nowe when the people departed away at noone, Suſanna went into her husbands garden to walke.

8 And the two elders ſaw her that ſhe went in daily and walked, ſo that their luſt was inflamed toward her.

9 Therefore they turned away their [a] mind, and caſt downe their eyes, that they ſhoulde not ſee heauen, nor remember iuſt iudgements.

[a] To wit, from God.

10 And albeit they were both wounded with her lone, yet durst not one shewe another his griefe.

11 For they were ashamed to declare their lust, that they desired to have to do with her:

12 Yet they watched diligently from day to day to see her.

13 And the one said to the other, Let us goe now home, for it is dinner time.

14 So they went their way, and departed one from another: yet they returned againe, and came into the same place, and after that they had asked one another the cause, they acknowledged their lust: then appointed they a time both together when they might finde her alone.

15 Nowe when they had spied out a conuenient time, that shee went in, as her maner was, with two maides onely, and thought to wash her selfe in the garden, (for it was an hote season)

16 And there was no body there, saue ye two Elders that had hid themselues, and watched for her:

17 Shee said to her maydes, Bring me oyle and sope, and shut the garden doores, that I may wash me.

18 And they did as shee bade them, and shut the garden doores, and went out themselues at a backe doore, to fet the thing that she had commaunded them: but they sawe not the Elders, because they were hid.

19 Now when the maides were gone foorth, the two Elders rose vp and ranne vnto her, saying, 20 Beholde, the garden doores are shut, that no man can see vs, and wee burne in loue with thee: therefore consent vnto vs, and lie with vs.

21 If thou wilt not, we will beare witnesse against thee, that a young man was with thee, and therefore thou didst send away thy maides from thee.

22 Then Susanna sighed, and saide, I am in trouble on euery side: for if I doe this thing, it is death vnto me: and if I doe it not, I cannot escape your hands.

23 It is better for me to fal into your hands, and not doe it, then to sinne in the sight of the Lord.

24 With that Susanna cryed with a loude voyce, & the two Elders cryed out against her.

25 Then ranne the one, and opened the garden doore.

26 ¶ So when ye seruants of the house heard the crie in the garden, they rushed in at the backe doore, to see what was done vnto her.

27 But when the Elders had declared their matter, the seruaunts were greatly ashamed: for there was neuer such a report made of Susanna.

28 On the morrow after, came the people to Joacim her husband, and the two Elders came also, full of mischieuous imagination against Susanna, to put her to death, 29 And said before the people, Send for Susanna the daughter of Helcias Joacims wife. And immediatly they sent.

30 So she came with her father and mother, her children and all her kinred.

31 Nowe Susanna was very tender, and faire of face.

32 And these wicked men commaunded to vncouer her face, (for she was couered) that they might so be satisfied with her beautie.

33 Therefore they that were about her, and all they that knew her, wept.

34 Then the two Elders stoode vp in the middes of the people, and laid their hands vpon her head, 35 Which wept, and looked vp toward heauen: for her heart trusted in the Lord.

36 And the Elders saide, As wee walked in the garden alone, she came in with two maids, whom she sent away from her, and shut the garden doores.

37 Then a young man, which there was hid, came vnto her, and lay with her.

38 Then wee which stoode in a corner of the garden, seeing this wickednesse, ran vnto them, and we saw them as they were together.

39 But we could not holde him: for he was stronger then we, and opened the doore and leaped out.

40 Nowe when we had taken this woman, we asked her what young man this was, but she would not tell vs: of these things are wee witnesses.

41 Then the assembly beleeued them, as those that were the Elders & Judges of the people: so they condemned her to death.

42 Then Susanna cryed out with a loude voyce, and said, O euerlasting God, that knowest the secrets, and knowest all things afore they come to passe, 43 Thou knowest, that they haue borne false witnesse against me, and beholde, I must die, whereas I neuer did such things as these men haue maliciously inuented against me.

44 And the Lord heard her voyce.

45 ¶ Therefore when shee was led to be put to death, the Lord raysed vp the holy spirite of a young childe, whose name was Daniel, 46 Who cried with a loud voice, I am cleane from the blood of this woman.

47 Then all the people turned them toward him, and said, What meane these wordes, that thou hast spoken?

48 Then Daniel stoode in the middes of them, and said, Are yee such fooles, O Israelites, that without examination, or knowledge of the trueth, ye haue condemned a daughter of Israel?

49 Returne againe to iudgement: for they haue borne false witnesse against her.

50 Wherefore the people turned againe in all haste, and the Elders said vnto him, Come, sit downe among vs, and shewe it vs, seeing God hath giuen thee the office of an Elder.

51 Then saide Daniel vnto them, Put these two aside, one farre from another, and I will examine them.

52 So when they were put asunder one from another, hee called one of them and saide vnto him, O thou that art olde in a wicked life, nowe thy sinnes which thou hast committed afore time, are come to light.

53 For thou hast pronounced false iudgements, and hast condemned the innocent, and hast let the guiltie goe free, albeit the Lorde sayth, * The innocent and righteous shalt thou not slay. *Exod. 23.7.

54 Nowe then, if thou hast seene her, tell me, Vnder what tree sawest thou them companying

panping together? Who answered, Under a lentike tree.

55 Then saide Daniel, Verely thou hast lied against thyne owne ‖ head: for loe, the Angel of God hath receiued the sentence of God, to cut thee in two. ‖ Or, like.

56 So put hee him aside, and commaunded to bring the other, and saide vnto him, O thou seede of Chanaan, and not of Juda, beautie hath deceiued thee, & lust hath subuerted thyne heart.

57 Thus haue yee dealt with the daughters of Israel, and they for feare companied with you: but the daughter of Juda would not abide your wickednesse.

58 Nowe therefore tell me, Vnder what tree diddest thou take them companying together? Who answered, Vnder a ‖ prune tree. ‖ Or, mirtle tree.

59 Then saide Daniel vnto him, Verely thou hast also lyed against thyne head: for the Angel of God waiteth with the sworde to cut thee in two, and so to destroy you both.

60 ¶ With that all the whole assembly cried with a loude voyce, and praised God, which saueth them that trust in him.

61 And they arose against the two Elders, (for Daniel had conuicted them of false witnesse by their owne mouth)

62 * And according to the Lawe of Moyses they dealt with them, as they dealt wickedly against their neighbour, and put them to death. Thus the innocent blood was saued the same day. Deut. 19. 19. prou. 19. 5.

63 Therefore Helcias, and his wife praysed God for their daughter Susanna, with Joacim her husband, and all the kinred, that there was no dishonestie found in her.

64 From that day forth was Daniel had in great reputation in the sight of the people.

65 And King Astyages was laide with his fathers, and Cyrus of Persia reigned in his stead.

The historie of Bel and of the Dragon, which is the fourteenth chapter of Daniel after the Latine.

NOwe when King Astyages was laide with his fathers, Cyrus the Persian receiued his kingdome.

2 And Daniel did eate at the Kings table, and was honoured aboue all his friends.

3 Now the Babylonians had an idole, called Bel, and there were spent vpon him euery day, twelue [a] great measures of fine flowre, and fortie sheepe, and sixe great [b] pots of wine.

4 And the King worshipped it, and went daily to honour it: but Daniel worshipped his owne God. And the King said vnto him, Why doest not thou worship Bel?

5 Who answered, and said, Because I may not worship idoles made with handes, but the liuing God, which hath created the heauen and the earth, and hath power vpon all flesh.

6 Then saide the King vnto him, Thinkest thou not that Bel is a liuing God? seest thou not howe much hee eateth and drinketh euery day?

7 Then Daniel smiled and sayde, O King, be not deceiued: for this is but clay within, and brasse without, and did neuer eate any thing.

8 So the king was wroth, and called for his Priests, and said vnto them, If ye tell mee not who this is that eateth vp these expenses, yee shall die:

9 But if yee can certifie me that Bel eateth them, then Daniel shall die: for hee hath spoken blasphemie against Bel. And Daniel said vnto the King, Let it bee according to thy word.

10 (Nowe the Priestes of Bel were threescore and ten, beside their wiues and children:) and the King went with Daniel into the Temple of Bel.

11 So Bels Priests sayd, Beholde, wee will goe out, and set thou the meate there, O King, and let the wine be filled: then shut the doore fast, and seale it with thine owne signet:

12 And to morrow when thou commest in, if thou findest not that Bel hath eaten vp all, we will suffer death, or else Daniel that hath lyed vpon vs.

13 Nowe they thought themselues sure enough: for vnder the table they had made a priue entrance, and there went they in euer, and tooke away the things.

14 So when they were gone foorth, the King set meates before Bel. Nowe Daniel had commaunded his seruants to bring ashes, and these they strewed throughout all the Temple, in the presence of the King alone: then went they out, and shut the doore, and sealed it with the Kings signet, and so departed.

15 Nowe in the night came the Priests with their wiues and children, (as they were woont to doe) and did eate and drinke vp all.

16 In the morning betimes, the King arose and Daniel with him.

17 And the King said, Daniel, are the seales whole? who answered, Yea, O King, they be whole.

18 And assoone as hee had opened the doore, the King looked vpon the table, and cryed with a loud voyce, Great art thou, O Bel, and with thee is no deceit.

19 Then laughed Daniel, and held the King that hee should not goe in, and saide, Beholde nowe the pauement, and marke well whose footesteps are these.

20 And the King saide, I see the footesteps of men, women, and children: therefore the king was angrie.

21 And tooke the Priests, with their wiues, and children, and they shewed him the priue doores, where they came in, and consumed such things as were vpon the table.

22 There-

[a] Called Artaba, whereof euery one conteined somewhat more then nine gallons, which make in al an hundreth and eight gallons at the least.

[b] Called Metreta, and euery one of these measures conteined about ten gallons, which in all make threescore.

22 Therefore the King slewe them, and deliuered Bel into Daniels power, who destroyed him and his temple.

23 ¶ Moreouer in that same place there was a great Dragon, which the Babylonians worshipped.

24 And the King sayde vnto Daniel, Sayest thou that this is of brasse also? loe, hee liueth, and eateth and drinketh, so that thou canst not say, that he is no liuing God: therefore worship him.

25 Then saide Daniel vnto the King, I will worship the Lord my God: for hee is the liuing God.

26 But giue me leaue, O King, and I will slay this Dragon without sword or staffe. And the King said, I giue thee leaue.

27 Then Daniel tooke pitch, and fatte, and haire, and did seethe them together, and made lumpes thereof: this hee put in the Dragons mouth, and so the Dragon burst in sunder. And Daniel said, Beholde, whom ye worship.

28 When the Babylonians heard it, they were wonderfull wroth, and gathered them together against the King, saying, The King is become a Iewe: for he hath destroyed Bel, and hath slaine the Dragon, and put the Priestes to death.

29 So they came to the King, and said, Deliuer vs Daniel, or else we will destroy thee and thine house.

30 Nowe when the King sawe, that they pressed sore vpon him, and that necessitie constrained him, hee deliuered Daniel vnto them:

31 Who cast him into the Lions den, where he was sixe dayes.

32 In the denne there were seuen Lyons, and they had giuen them euery day two bodies and two sheepe, which then were not giuen them, to the intent that they might deuoure Daniel.

33 ¶ Now there was in Iewrie a Prophet called Abbacuc, which had made pottage, and broken bread into a bowle, and was going into the field, for to bring it to the reapers.

34 But the Angel of the Lord saide vnto Abbacuc, Goe, carie the meate that thou hast, into Babylon vnto Daniel, which is in the Lyons denne.

35 And Abbacuc saide, Lorde, I neuer sawe Babylon, neither doe I know where the denne is 36 Then the Angel tooke him by the crowne of the head, and bare him by the haire of the head, and through a mightie winde set him in Babylon vpon the denne.

37 And Abbacuc cryed, saying, O Daniel, Daniel, take the dinner that God hath sent thee.

38 Then saide Daniel, O God, thou hast thought vpon me, and thou neuer failest them that seeke thee and loue thee.

39 So Daniel arose, and did eate, and the Angel of the Lorde set Abbacuc in his owne place againe immediatly.

40 Vpon the seuenth day, the King went to bewaile Daniel: and when hee came to the denne, he looked in, and beholde, Daniel sate in the mids of the Lyons.

41 Then cryed the King with a loud voyce, saying, Great art thou, O Lord God of Daniel, and there is none other besides thee.

42 And hee drewe him out of the denne, and cast them that were the cause of his destruction into the denne, and they were deuoured in a moment before his face.

The first booke of the Maccabees.

CHAP. I.

8 The death of Alexander the King of Macedonia. 11 Antiochus taketh the kingdome. 12 Many of the children of Israel make couenant with the Gentiles. 21 Antiochus subdueth Egypt and Ierusalem vnto his dominion. 50 Antiochus setteth vp idoles.

AFter that Alexander the Macedonian, the sonne of Philip, went foorth of the land of Chettim, and slewe Darius King of the Persians and Medes, and reigned for him, as he had before in Grecia, a The first battell with the Carthaginenses, was fought at this time.

2 Hee tooke great warres in hand, and wanne strong holdes, and slew the Kings of the earth,

3 So hee went thorow to the endes of the worlde, and tooke spoiles of many nations, in so much that the worlde stoode in awe of him: therefore his heart was puffed vp and was hautie.

b The beginning of the kingdome of Egypt.

4 [b] Nowe when hee had gathered a mightie strong hoste,

5 And had reigned ouer regions, nations and kingdomes, they became tributaries vnto him.

6 After these things he fell sicke, and knewe that he should die.

7 Then he called for his chiefe of his seruants, which had beene brought vp with him of children, and parted his kingdome among them, while he was yet aliue.

8 So Alexander had reigned twelue yeeres when he died.

9 [c] And his seruants reigned euery one in his roome.

c The beginning of the kingdome of Syria.

10 And they all caused themselues to bee crowned after his death, and so did their children after them many yeres, and much wickednesse increased in the world.

11 For out of these came the wicked roote, euen Antiochus ‖ Epiphanes, the sonne of King Antiochus, which had bin an hostage at Rome, and hee reigned in the hundreth and seuen and thirtieth yeere of the kingdome of the Grecians.

‖ Or, noble.

d The beginning of the kingdome of the Parthians. Ioseph. Anti. 12. cap. 6.

12 [d] In those dayes went there out of Israel wicked men, which entised many, saying, Let vs goe, and make a couenant with the the heathen that are rounde about vs: for since we departed from them, we haue had much sorowe.

13 So this deuice pleased them well.

14 And certaine of the people were ready, and went to the King, which gaue them licence to doe after the ordinances of the heathen.

15 e Then set they vp a place of exercise at Jerusalem, according to the facions of the heathen, e The wicked fal head long into mischiefe.

16 And made themselues f uncircumcised, and forsooke the holy couenant, and ioyned themselues to the heathen, and were solde to do mischiefe.

f By drawing the skin ouer the part that was circumcised, as Cels. 7. cap. 25. Epiph. lib. de ponderib. & mensuris.

17 So when Antiochus kingdome was set in order, hee went about to reigne ouer Egypt, that hee might haue the dominion of two Realmes.

18 Therefore hee entred into Egypt with a mighty companp, with charets and Elephants, and with horsemen, and with a great name, 19 g And moued warre against Ptolemeus King of Egypt: but Ptolomeus was afraide of him, and fledde, and many were wounded to death.

g The second battell with h Carthaginenses.

20 Thus Antiochus wanne many strong cities in the land of Egypt, and tooke awap the spoiles of the land of Egypt.

21 And after that Antiochus had smitten Egypt, he turned againe in the hundreth fourtie and three peere,

22 And went vp toward Israel and Jerusalem with a mightp people,

23 And entred proudly into the Sanctuarie, and tooke awap the golden altar, and the candlesticke for the light, and all the instruments thereof, and the table of the shewbread, and the powring vessels, and the bowles, and the golden basons, and the vaile, and the crownes, and the golden apparell, which was before the Temple, and brake all in pieces.

24 He tooke also the siluer and golde, and the precious iewels, and hee tooke the secrete treasures that hee founde, and when hee had taken awap all, hee departed into his owne land, 25 After he had murthered many men, and spoken verp proudly.

26 Therefore there was a great lamentation in euerp place of Israel.

27 For the Princes and the Elders mourned: the pong women, and the pong men were made feeble, and the beautie of the women was changed.

28 Euerp bridegrome tooke him to mourning, and she that sate in the marriage chamber was in heauinesse.

29 The land also was moued for the inhabitants thereof: for all the house of Jacob was couered with confusion.

30 h After two peres the King sent his chiefe taxe master into the cities of Juda, which came to Jerusalem with a great multitude, h The battell of Macedonia,

31 Who spake peaceable wordes vnto them in deceit, and they gaue credit vnto him.

32 Then he fell suddenly vpon the citie, and smote it with a great plague, and destroyed much people of Israel.

33 And when he had spoyled the citie, he set fire on it, casting downe the houses thereof, and walles thereof on euerp side.

34 The women and their children tooke they captiue, and led awap the cattell.

35 Then fortified they the city of Dauid with a great & thicke wall, and with mightp towres, and made it a strong hold for them.

36 Moreouer they set wicked people there, and vngodly persons, and fortified themselues therein.

37 And they stored it with weapons and vitailes, and gathered the spoile of Jerusalem, and laide it vp there.

38 Thus became they a sore snare and were in ambushment for the Sanctuarie, and were wicked enemies euermore vnto Israel.

39 For they shed innocent blood on euerp side of the Sanctuarie, and defiled the Sanctuarie, 40 In so much that the citizens of Jerusalem fled awap because of them, and it became an habitation of strangers, being desolate of them whom she had borne: for her owne children did leaue her.

41 Her Sanctuarie was left waste as a wilderneſſe: her holp daies were turned into mourning, her Sabbaths into reproch, and her honour brought to nought.

42 As her glorp had bene great, so was her dishonour, and her excellencie was turned into sorowe.

43 Also the King wrote vnto all his kingdome, that all the people should be as one, and that euerp man should leaue his lawes. Ioseph. Antiq. 12. cap. 6, & 7.

44 And all the heathen agreed to the commaundement of the King.

45 Yea, many of the Israelites consented to his religion, offering vnto idoles, and defiling the Sabbath.

46 So the King sent letters bp the messengers vnto Jerusalem, and to the cities of Juda, that they should followe the strange lawes of the countrep, 47 And that they should forbid the burnt offerings and sacrifices, and the ‖ offerings in the Sanctuarie, ‖ Or, drinke offerings.

48 And that they should defile i Sabbaths and the feastes,

49 And pollute the Sanctuarie and the holp men,

50 And to set vp altars and groues, & chappels of idoles, and offer vp swines flesh, and vncleane beasts,

51 And that they should leaue their children vncircumcised, and defile their soules with vncleannesse, and pollute themselues, that they might forget the lawe, and change all the ordinances,

52 And that whosoeuer would not doe according to the commaundement of the King, should suffer death.

53 In like maner wrote hee throughout all his kingdomes, and set ouerseers ouer all the people, for to compell them to doe these things.

54 And hee commaunded the cities of Juda to doe sacrifice, citie bp citie.

55 Then went many of the people vnto them bp heapes, euerp one that forsooke the law, and so they committed euill in the land.

56 And

56 And they drowe the Israelites into secret places, euen whereſoeuer they could flee for ſuccour.

57 The fifteenth day of Caſleu, in the hundreth and fiue and fourtieth yeere, they ſet vp the abommination of deſolation vpon the altar, and they builded altars throughout the cities of Juda on euery ſide.

58 And before the doores of the houſes, and in the ſtreetes they burnt incenſe.

59 And the bookes of the lawe, which they found, they [i] burnt in the fire, and cut in pieces.

60 Whoſoeuer had a booke of the Teſtament founde by him, or whoſoeuer conſented vnto the Lawe, the Kings commaundement was, that they ſhould put him to death by their authority.

61 And they executed theſe things euery moneth vpon the people of Iſrael that were found in the cities.

62 And in the fiue and twentieth day of the moneth, they did ſacrifice vpon the altar, which was in the ſtead of the altar of ſacrifices.

63 And according to the commaundement, they put certaine women to death, which had cauſed their children to be circumciſed, 64 And they hanged vp the children at their neckes, and they ſpoyled their houſes, and ſlewe the circumciſers of them.

65 Yet were there many in Iſrael, which were of courage, and determined in themſelues, that they would not eate vncleane things, 66 But chooſe rather to ſuffer death, then to be defiled with thoſe meates: ſo becauſe they would not breake the holy couenant, they were put to death.

67 And this ‖ tyrannie was very ſore vpon the people of Iſrael.

[i] It is a manifeſt note of the enemies of God to burne the bookes of the Lawe, Hiſt. eccleſ. lib. 8. cap. 2.

‖ Or, rage.

CHAP. II.

1 The mourning of Mattathias and his ſonnes for the deſtruction of the holy citie. 19 They refuſe to doe ſacrifice vnto idoles. 24 The zeale of Mattathias for the Lawe of God. 33 They are ſlaine and will not fight againe becauſe of the Sabbath day. 49 Mattathias dying commaundeth his ſonnes to ſticke by the words of God, after the example of the fathers.

Ioſeph. Antiq. 12, cap. 7.

IN thoſe dayes ſtoode vp Mattathias the Prieſt, the ſonne of Joannes, the ſonne of Simeon, of the ſonnes of Joarib of Jeruſalem, and dwelt in Modin.

2 And hee had fiue ſonnes, Joanan called Gaddis,

3 Simon called Thaſſi,

4 Judas which was called Maccabeus,

‖ Or, Anaran.

5 Eleazar called ‖ Abaron, and Jonathan, whoſe name was Apphus.

6 Nowe hee ſawe the blaſphemies, which were committed in Juda and Jeruſalem:

7 And he ſaid, Woe is me: wherefore was I borne, to ſee the deſtruction of my people, and the deſtruction of the holy citie, and thus to ſit ſtill? it is deliuered into the handes of the enemies,

8 And the Sanctuarie is in the handes of ſtrangers: her temple is as a man that hath no renowme.

9 Her glorious veſſels are caried away into captiuitie: her infants are ſlaine in the ſtreetes, and her young men are fallen by the ſwoorde of the enemies.

10 What people is it, that hath not ſome poſſeſſion in her kingdome, or hath not gotten of her ſpoyles?

11 All her glory is taken away: of a free woman, ſhe is become an handmaid.

12 Behold, our ſanctuarie, and our beautie, and honour is deſolate, and the Gentiles haue defiled it.

13 What helpeth it vs then to liue any longer?

14 And Mattathias rent his clothes, he, and his ſonnes, and put ſackcloth vpon them, and mourned very ſore.

15 ¶ Then came men from the King to the citie of Modin, to compell them to forſake God, and to ſacrifice.

16 So many of the Iſraelites conſented vnto them: but Mattathias and his ſonnes aſſembled together.

17 Then ſpake [b] commiſſioners of the king, and ſaide vnto Mattathias, Thou art the chiefe and an honourable man, and great in this citie, and haſt many children and brethren.

18 Come thou therefore firſt and fulfill the kings commandement, as all the heathen haue done, and alſo the men of Juda, and ſuch as remaine at Jeruſalem: ſo ſhalt thou and thy familie be in the Kings fauour, and thou and thy children ſhall be enriched with ſiluer and golde, and with many rewards.

19 Then Mattathias anſwered and ſaide with a lond voyce, Though all nations that are vnder the Kings dominion, obey him, and fall away euery man from the religion of their fathers, and conſent to his commandements, 20 [a] Yet will I and my ſonnes, and my brethren, walke in the couenant of our fathers.

21 God be mercifull vnto vs, that we forſake not the lawe and the ordinances.

22 Wee will not hearken vnto the Kings woordes to tranſgreſſe our religion, neither on the right ſide, nor on the left.

23 And when hee had left off ſpeaking theſe woordes, there came one of the Iewes, in the ſight of al, to ſacrifice vpon the altar which was at Modin, according to the Kings commaundement.

24 Now when Mattathias ſawe it, he was ſo [b] inflamed with zeale, that his reines ſhooke, and his wrath was kindled according to the ordinance of the law: therefore he ranne vnto him, and killed him by the altar:

25 And at the ſame time he ſlewe the Kings commiſſioner, that compelled him to do ſacrifice, and deſtroyed the altar.

26 Thus bare he a zeale to the lawe of God, *doing as Phinees did vnto Zambri the ſonne of Salom.

Num. 25. 7.

27 ¶ Then cryed Mattathias with a loude voyce in the citie, ſaying, Whoſoeuer is zealous of the lawe, and will ſtand by the couenant, let him come forth after me.

28 So he, and his ſonnes fled into the mountaines, and left all that they had in the citie.

29 Then many that ‖ ſought after iuſtice and iudgement,

‖ Or, that ſued iuſtly and vprightly.

30 Went downe into the wilderneſſe to dwell there, both they, and their children, and their wiues, and their cattell: for the afflictions increaſed ſore vpon them.

31 ¶ Now when it was told vnto the Kings ſeruants, a The father promiſeth for his children, that they ſhall ſerue God: ſo doeth Ioſhua for his houſhold, Ioſh. 24. 15.

b It is a griefe to the godly to ſee the people offend.

ſeruants, and to the garſions, which were in Jeruſalem in the citie of Dauid, that men had broken the Kings commaundement, and were gone downe into the ſecret places in the wilderneſſe,

32 Then many purſued after them: and hauing ouertake them, they camped againſt them and ſet the battell in arap againſt them on the Sabbath day, 33 And ſayd vnto them, Let this now be ſufficient: come forth and doe according to the commandement of the king, and ye ſhall liue.

34 But they anſwered, Wee will not goe forth, neither will we doe the kings commaundement, to defile the Sabbath day.

35 Then they gaue them the battell.

36 But the other anſwered them nothing, neither caſt any one ſtone at them, nor ſtopped the priuie places, 37 But ſayd, Wee will die all in our innocencie: the heauen and earth ſhall teſtifie for vs, that ye deſtroy vs wrongfully.

38 Thus they gaue them the battel vpon the Sabbath, and ſlewe both men and cattell, their wiues and their children to the number of a thouſand people.

39 ¶ When Mattathias and his friends vnderſtood this, they mourned for them greatly,

40 And ſaid one to another, If we all do as our brethren haue done, and fight not againſt the heathen for our liues, and for our lawes, then ſhall they incontinently deſtroy vs out of the earth.

41 Therefore they concluded at the ſame time, ſaying, Whoſoeuer ſhall come to make battell with vs vpon the Sabbath day, we will fight againſt him, that wee die not all, as our brethren that were murthered in the ſecret places.

42 Then came vnto them the aſſemblie of the Aſideans, which were of the ſtrongeſt men of Iſrael, all ſuch as were well minded toward the Lawe.

43 And all they that were fled for perſecution, ioyned themſelues vnto them, and were an helpe vnto them.

44 So they gathered a power, and ſmote the wicked men in their wrath, and the vngodly in their anger: but the reſt fled vnto the heathen, and eſcaped.

45 Then Mattathias and his friends went about, and deſtroyed the altars, 46 And circumciſed the children by force that were vncircumciſed, as many as they found within the coaſts of Iſrael.

47 And they purſued after the proud men: and this act proſpered in their hands.

48 So they recouered the Lawe out of the hand of the Gentiles, and out of the hand of kings, and gaue not place to the wicked.

49 Nowe when the time drewe neere, that Mattathias ſhould die, he ſaid vnto his ſonnes, Nowe is pride and perſecution increaſed, and the time of deſtruction, and the wrath of indignation.

50 Now therefore, my ſonnes, be ye zealous of the law, and giue your liues for the couenant of our fathers.

51 Call to remembrance what actes our fathers did in their time: ſo ſhall ye receiue great honour and an euerlaſting name.

52 * Was not Abraham founde faithfull in tentation, and it was imputed vnto him for righteouſneſſe? Gene.22.9, 10, rom.4.3.

53 * Joſeph in the time of his trouble kept the commandement, and was made the lord of Egypt. Gene.41.40.

54 * Phinees our father, becauſe he was zealous and feruent, obteined the couenant of the euerlaſting Prieſthood. Num.25.13. eccluſ.45. 23,24.

55 * Jeſus for fulfilling the word, was made the gouernour of Iſrael. Joſh.1.2.

56 * Caleb, becauſe he bare witneſſe before the congregation, recriued the heritage of the land. Num.14.6,7. Joſh.14.13.

57 * Dauid, becauſe of his mercie, obteined the throne of the kingdome for euermore 2. Sam.2.4.

58 * Elias, becauſe hee was zealous and feruent in the Law, was taken vp euen vnto heauen. 2. Kin.2,11.

59 * Ananias, Azarias, and Miſael by their faith were deliuered out of the flam. Dan.3.16, 17,18,26.

60 * Daniel, becauſe of his innocencie, was deliuered from the mouth of the lions. Dan.6.22.

61 And thus ye may conſider throughout all ages, that whoſoeuer put their truſt in him, ſhal not want ſtrength.

62 * Feare not ye then the words of a ſinfull man: for his glory is but dong and wormes. Mat.10.26, 28,31. Iſa. 40.6,7,8.

63 To day is he ſet vp, and to morow he ſhal * not be found: for hee is turned into his duſt, and his purpoſe periſheth. & 51.7,8. Jam.1.10.

64 Wherefore my ſonnes, take good hearts, and ſhew your ſelues men for the Lawe: for by it ſhall you obteine glory. 1. Pet.1.24. eccluſ.14.18.

65 And beholde, I know that your brother Simon is a man of counſell: giue eare vnto him alway: he ſhalbe a father vnto you.

66 And Judas Maccabeus hath bene mightie and ſtrong, euen from his youth vp: let him be your captaine, and fight you the battell for the people.

67 Thus ſhal ye bring vnto you al thoſe that obſerue the lawe, and ſhall auenge the iniuries of your people.

68 Recompenſe fully the heathen, and giue your ſelues to the commandement of the Law.

69 So he bleſſed them, and was laide with his fathers,

70 And died in the hundreth fourtie and ſixt yeere, and his ſonnes buried him in his fathers ſepulchre at Modin, and all Iſrael made great lamentation for him.

CHAP. III.

1 Judas is made ruler ouer the Iewes. 11 Hee killeth Apollonius and Seron the prince of Syria. 44 The confidence of Judas toward God. 55 Judas determineth to fight againſt Lyſias, whom Antiochus had made captaine ouer his hoſte.

THen Judas his ſonne, called Maccabeus, roſe vp in his place.

2 And all his brethren helped him, and all they that held with his father, and fought with courage the battell of Iſrael.

3 So he gate his people great honor: he put on a breſt plate as a gyant, and armed himſelfe, and ſet the battell in arap, & defended the campe with the ſword.

4 In his actes he was like a lyon, and as a lyons whelpe roaring after the pray.

5 For hee purſued the wicked, and ſought them out, and burnt vp thoſe that vexed his people,

6 So

6 So that the wicked fledde for feare of him, and all the workers of iniquitie were put to trouble: and saluation prospered in his hand.

7 And he grieued diuers kings, but Jacob reioyced by his acts, and his memoriall is blessed for euer.

8 Yee went also thorow the cities of Juda, and destroyed the wicked out of them, and turned away the wrath from Israel.

9 So was hee renowmed vnto the endes of the earth, and hee assembled together those that were ready to perish.

10 ¶ But a Apollonius gathered the Gentiles, and a great hoste out of Samaria, to fight against Israel.

a Who was gouernour of Syria, Ioseph. Antiq. 12. cap. 9.

11 Which when Judas perceiued, hee went foorth to meete him, and smote him, and slewe him, so that many fell downe slaine, and the rest fled.

12 So Judas tooke their spoyles, and tooke also Apollonius sworde, and fought with it all his life long.

13 ¶ Nowe when Seron a prince of the armie of Syria, heard that Judas had gathered vnto him the congregation, and Church of the faithfull, and went foorth to the warre, 14 Hee said, I will get me a name, and will be glorious in the realme: for I will go fight with Judas, & them that are with him, which haue despised the Kings commandement.

15 So he made him ready to go vp, and there went with him a mighty hoste of the vngodly to helpe him, and to be auenged of the children of Israel.

16 And when hee came neere to the going vp of Beth-horon, Judas went foorth to meet him with a small companie.

17 But when they sawe the armie comming against them, they said to Judas, How are we able, being so few, to fight against so great a multitude, and so strong, seeing we be so wearie, and haue fasted all this day?

18 Then said Judas, It is an easie thing for many to be shut vp in the handes of fewe, and there is no difference before the God of heauen, to deliuer by a great multitude, or by a small companie.

19 For the victorie of the battell standeth not in the multitude of the hoste, but the strength commeth from heauen.

20 They come against vs with a cruell and proud multitude, to destroy vs, and our wiues, and our children, and to rob vs.

21 But we do fight for our liues, and for our Lawes.

22 And God himselfe wil destroy them before our face: therefore be ye not afraid of them.

23 And when hee had left off speaking, hee leapt suddenly vpon them: so was Seron and his hoste destroyed before him.

24 And they pursued them from the going downe of Beth horon vnto the plaine: where there were slaine eight hundred men of them, & the residue fled into the land of the Philistims.

25 Then the feare and terrour of Judas and his brethren fell vpon the nations round about.

26 So that his fame came vnto the King: for all the Gentiles could tell of the warres of Judas.

27 ¶ But when king Antiochus heard these tidings, hee was angrie in his minde: wherefore he sent forth, and gathered all the power of his Realme, a very strong armie, 28 And opened his treasurie, and gaue his hoste a peeres wages in hand, commanding them to be ready for a yere for all occasions.

29 Neuertheleſſe, when hee sawe that the money of his treasures failed, and that the tributes in the countrey were small, because of the dissention, and plagues that he had brought vpon the lande, in taking away the Lawes which had bene of olde time,

30 He feared least he should not haue now at the second time, as at the first, for the charges and gifts that he had giuen with a liberall hand afore: for in liberalitie he farre passed the other Kings that were before him.

31 Wherefore hee was heauie in his minde, and thought to goe into Persia, for to take tributes of the countreys, and to gather much money.

32 So he left Lysias a noble man and of the Kings blood to ouersee the kings busines, from the riuer of Euphrates vnto the borders of Egypt, 33 And to bring vp his sonne Antiochus, till he came againe.

34 Moreouer, he gaue him halfe of his hoste and elephants, and gaue him the charge of all things that he would haue done,

35 And concerning those which dwelt in Juda and Jerusalem, that he should send an armie against them, to destroy & roote out the power of Israel and the remnant of Jerusalem, and to put out their memoriall from that place, 36 And to set strangers for to inhabit all their quarters, and part their land among them.

37 And the king tooke halfe of the hoste that remained, and departed from Antiochia his royall citie, in the yeere an hundreth fourtie and seuen, & passed the riuer Euphrates, and went thorow the hie countreys.

38 Then Lysias chose Ptolemeus the sonne of Dorymmes, and Nicanor, and Gorgias, mighty men and the kings friends, 39 And sent with them fourtie thousand footemen, and seuen thousand horsemen, to goe into the land of Juda, and to destroy it, as the king commanded.

40 So they went forth with all their power, and came and pitched by † Emmaus in the plaine countrey.

† Emmaus.

41 Nowe when the marchants of the countrey heard the rumour of them, they tooke very much siluer and golde, and seruants, and came into the campe to buy the children of Israel for slaues, and the strength of Syria and of strange nations ioyned with them.

42 ¶ Nowe when Judas and his brethren sawe that trouble increased, and that the hoste drewe neere vnto their borders, considering the kings words, whereby hee had commanded to destroy the people, and vtterly abolish them, 43 They saide one to another, Let vs redresse the decay of our people, and let vs fight for our people, and for our Sanctuarie.

44 Then the congregation were soone ready gathered to fight, and to pray, and to desire mercie and compassion.

45 As for Jerusalem, it was not inhabited, but was as a wildernesse. There went none that was borne in it, in or out at it, and the

Sanctuarie

Sanctuarie was troden downe, and the strangers kept the fortresse, and it was the habitation of the heathen: and the mirth of Jacob was taken away: the pipe and the harpe ceased.

46 So they gathered themselues together, and came to Maspha before Jerusalem: for in Maspha was the place where they prayed afortime in Israel.

47 And they fasted that day, and put sackecloth vpon them, & cast ashes vpon their heads, and rent their clothes,

48 And opened the booke of the law, wherein the heathen sought to paint the likenesse of their idoles, 49 And brought the Priests garments, and the first fruites, and the tithes, and set there the Nazarites, which accomplished their dayes.

50 And they cryed with a loude voyce toward heauen, saying, What shall we doe with these? and whither shall we carry them away?

51 For thy Sanctuary is troden downe and defiled, and thy Priests are in heauinesse, and brought downe.

52 And behold, the heathen are come against vs, to destroy vs: thou knowest what things they imagine against vs.

53 Howe can wee stand before them, except thou helpe vs?

54 Then they blewe the trumpets, and cryed with a loude voyce.

55 And after this Judas ordeined captaines ouer the people, euen captaines ouer thousands, and captaines ouer hundreths, and captaines ouer fifties, and captaines ouer tenne.

56 And they commanded them that builded houses, or married wiues, or planted vineyards, or were fearefull, that they should returne euery one to his owne house, according to the Lawe.

Deut. 20. 5. Iudg. 7. 3.

57 So the hoste remoued, and pitched vpon the Southside of Emmaus.

58 And Judas saide, Arme your selues and be valiant men, and be ready against the morning to fight with these nations, which are gathered together against vs, to destroy vs and our Sanctuarie.

59 For it is better for vs to die in battell, then to see the calamities of our people and of our Sanctuarie.

60 Neuertheless, as the will of God is in heauen, so be it.

CHAP. IIII.

1 Iudas goeth against Gorgias which lyeth in waite. 14 He putteth Gorgias and his hoste to flight. 28 Lysias inuadeth Iudea. 29 But Iudas driueth him out. 43 Iudas purifieth the Temple and dedicateth the altar.

Ioseph. lib. 12. cap. 10.

THen tooke Gorgias fiue thousand foote men, and a thousand of the best horsemen, and departed out of the campe by night,

2 To inuade the campe of the Iewes, and to slay them suddenly: and the men of the fortresse were his guides.

3 Now when Judas heard it, he remoued, and they that were valiant men, to smite the kings armie which was at Emmaus,

4 Whiles yet the armie was dispersed from the campe.

5 In the meane season came Gorgias by night into Judas campe: and when he found no man there, hee sought them in the mountaines: for said he, they flee from vs.

6 But assoone as it was day, Judas shewed himselfe in the fielde with three thousande men, which had neither harneste nor swordes to their mindes.

7 And they saw that the armies of the heathen were strong and well armed, and their horsemen about them, and that these were expert men of warre.

8 Then saide Judas to the men that were with him, Feare ye not their multitude, neither be afraide of their assault.

9 Remember how our fathers were deliuered * in the red sea, when Pharaoh pursued them with an armie. Exod. 14. 9, 29.

10 Therefore nowe let vs cry vnto heauen, and the Lorde will haue mercie vpon vs, and remember the Couenant of our fathers, and will destroy this hoste before our face this day:

11 So shall all the heathen knowe, that there is one, which deliuereth and saueth Israel.

12 Then the strangers lift vp their eyes, and sawe them comming against them, 13 And they went out of their tents into the battell, and they that were with Judas blewe the trumpets.

14 So they ioyned together, and the heathen were discomfited and fled by the plaine.

15 But the hindmost of them fell by the sword, and they pursued them vnto ‖ Gazeron, and into the plaines of Idumea, and of Azotus, and of Jamnia, so that there were slaine of them about three thousand men. ‖ Or, Asseremoth.

16 So Judas turned againe with his hoste from pursuing them,

17 And said vnto the people, Be not greedy of the spoples: for there is a battell before vs.

18 And Gorgias and the armie is here by vs in the mountaine: but stand ye now fast against your enemies, and ouercome them; then may ye safely take the spoples.

19 As Judas was speaking these wordes, there appeared one part which looked from the mountaines.

20 But when Gorgias sawe that his were fled, and that Judas souldiers burnt the tents: (for the smoke that was seene, declared what was done.)

21 When they sawe these things, they were sore afraide, and when they sawe also that Judas and his hoste were in the fielde ready to set themselues in aray, 22 They fledde euery one into the lande of strangers.

23 So Judas turned againe to spoyle the tents, where he gate much golde and siluer, and precious stones, and purple of the sea, and great riches.

24 Then they went home, & sung psalmes, and praysed toward the heauen: for he is gracious, and his mercy endureth for euer.

25 And so Israel had a great deliuerie in that day.

26 ¶ Now all the strangers that escaped, came, and tolde Lysias all the things that were done.

27 Who when he heard these things, was sore afraid and discouraged, because such things came not vpon Israel as hee would, neither such things as the king had commanded him, came to passe.

28 Therefore the next yeere following, gathered Lysias threescore thousand chosen foote men, men, and fiue thousand horsemen to fight against Jerusalem.

29 So they came into ‖Idumea, and pitched their tents at ‖ Beth-sura, where Judas came against them with ten thousand men.

30 And when he sawe that mighty armie, he prayed, and saide, Blessed be thou, O Sauiour of Israel, * which diddest destroy the assault of the mighty man by the hand of thy seruant Dauid, * and gauest the hoste of the strangers into the hand of Jonathan, the sonne of Saul, and of his armour bearer:

31 Shut vp this armie in the hand of thy people of Israel, and let them be confounded with their power, and with their horsemen.

32 Make them afraide, and consume their boldnesse and strength, that they may be astonished at their destruction.

33 Cast them downe by the swoorde of them that loue thee: then shall all they that know thy Name, prayse thee with songs.

34 So they ioyned together, and there were slaine of Lysias hoste, fiue thousand men, & they fell before them.

35 Then Lysias, seeing his armie put to flight, and the manlinesse of Judas souldiers, and that they were ready, either to liue or die valiantly, hee went into Antiochia, and gathered strangers, and when hee had furnished his armie, hee thought againe (being prepared) to come against Judea.

36 Then saide Judas and his brethren, Behold, our enemies are discomfited: let vs nowe goe vp to cleanse, and to prepare the Sanctuarie.

37 So all the hoste gathered them together, and went vp into the mountaine of Sion.

38 Now when they sawe the sanctuary laid waste, and the altar defiled, and the doores burnt vp, and the shrubbes growing in the courtes, as in a forest, or as on one of the mountaines, and that the Priestes chambers were broken downe,

39 They rent their clothes, and made great lamentation, and cast ashes vpon their heads, 40 And fell downe to the ground on their faces, and blewe an alarme with the trumpets, and cryed toward heauen.

41 Then Judas commanded certaine of the men to fight against those which were in the castle, till he had cleansed the Sanctuarie.

42 So hee chose Priests that were vndefiled, such as delighted in the lawe,

43 And they cleansed the Sanctuarie, & bare out the defiled stones into an vncleane place, 44 And consulted what to doe with the altar of burnt offerings which was polluted.

45 So they thought it was best to destroy it, least it should be a reproch vnto them, because the heathen had defiled it: therefore they destroyed the altar, 46 And laide vp the stones vpon the mountaine of the Temple in a conuenient place, till there should come a Prophet, to shewe what should be done with them.

47 So they tooke whole stones according to the Law, and builded a newe altar according to the former,

48 And made vp the Sanctuarie, and the things that were within the Temple, and the courts, and all things.

49 They made also newe holy vessels, and brought into the Temple the candlestick, and the altar of burnt offerings, and of incense, and the table.

50 And they burnt incense vpon the altar, and lighted the lampes which were vpon the candlestick, that they might burne in the Temple.

51 They set also the shewbread vpon the table, and hanged vp the vailes, and finished all the workes that they had begun to make.

52 And vpon the fiue and twentieth day of the ninth moneth, which is called the moneth of Chasleu, in the hundreth and eight and fourtieth yere they rose vp betimes in the morning, 53 And offered sacrifice according to the Lawe, vpon the newe altar of burnt offerings, that they had made.

54 According to the time, and according to the day, that the heathen had defiled it, in the same day, was it made newe with songs, and harpes, and lutes, and cymbals.

55 And all the people fell vpon their faces, worshipping and praysing toward the heauen him that had giuen them good successe.

56 So they kept the dedication of the altar eight dayes, offering burnt offrings with gladnes, & offered sacrifices of deliuerance & prayse, 57 And deckt the forefront of the Temple with crownes of golde and shieldes, and dedicated the gates and chambers, and hanged doores vpon them.

58 Thus there was very great gladnesse among the people, and the reproch of the heathen was put away.

59 So Judas and his brethren with the whole congregation of Israel ordeyned that the dayes of dedication of the altar should be kept in their season from yeere to yeere, by the space of eight dayes, from the fiue and twentieth day of the moneth Chasleu, with mirth and gladnesse.

60 And at the same time builded they vp mount Sion with hie walles & strong towres rounde about, least the Gentiles should come, and treade it downe, as they had done afore.

61 Therefore they set a garison there to keepe it, and fortified Beth-sura to keepe it, that the people might haue a defence against Idumea.

CHAP. V.

3 Judas vanquisheth the heathen that goe about to destroy Israel, and is holpen of his brother Simon and Ionathan. 50 Hee ouerthroweth the citie of Ephron, because they denied him passage throughit.

NOw when the nations round about heard, that the altar was builded, and the Sanctuarie renewed as afore, they were sore grieued. Ioseph. lib. 13 cap. 12.

2 Therefore they thought to destroy the generation of Jacob that was among them, and began to slay and destroy the people.

3 Then Judas fought against the children of Esau in Idumea at ‖Arrabathene, because they besieged the Israelites, and he smote them with a great plague, and drone them to straites, and tooke their spoyles. ‖Or, Arabathane.

4 Hee thought also vpon the malice of the children of Bean, which had beene a snare and an hinderance vnto the people, when they lay in waite for them in the hie way.

5 Wherefore he shut them vp in towres, and besieged beſieged them, and deſtroyed them vtterly, and burnt their towers with fire, with all that were in them.

6 Afterward, went hee againſt the children of Ammon, where he found a mightie power, and a great multitude with Timotheus their captaine.

7 So hee had many battels with them, but they were deſtroyed before him, and ſo hee diſcomfited them,

8 And tooke Gazer with the townes thereof, and ſo turned againe into Judea.

9 ¶ Then the heathen that were in Galaad, gathered them together againſt the Iſraelites that were in their quarters, to ſlay them: but they fled to the caſtle of Dathema,

10 And ſent letters to Judas, and to his brethren, ſaying, The heathen that are about vs, are gathered againſt vs, to deſtroy vs.

11 And they make them ready for to come, and to take the fortreſſe, whereinto wee are fled, and Timotheus is captaine of their hoſte.

12 Come nowe therefore, and deliuer vs out of their hands: for many of vs are ſlaine:

13 And all our brethren that were at Tubin, are ſlaine, & they haue taken away their wiues and their children, and their goods, and deſtroyed there almoſt a thouſand men.

14 While theſe letters were yet a reading, behold, there came other meſſengers from Galile, with their clothes rent, which told the ſame tidings, 15 And ſayd, that they of Ptolemais, and of Tyrus, and of Sidon, and of all Galile of the Gentiles were gathered, againſt them to deſtroy them.

16 When Judas and the people heard theſe wordes, a great congregation came together, to conſult what they might doe for their brethren that were in trouble, and whom they beſieged.

17 Then ſayd Judas to Simon his brother, Chuſe thee out men, and goe & deliuer thy brethren in Galile, and I and my brother Jonathan will goe into the countrey of Galaad.

18 ¶ So hee left Joſephus the ſonne of Zacharias, and Azarias to bee captaines of the people, and to keepe the remnant of the hoſte in Judea, 19 And commanded them, ſaying, Take the ouerſight of this people, and make no warre againſt the heathen, vntil we come againe.

20 And vnto Simon were giuen three thouſand men, to goe into Galile, & to Judas eight thouſand men for the countrey of Galaad.

21 Then went Simon into Galile, and gaue diuers battels to the heathen, and the heathen were diſcomfited by him.

22 And hee purſued them vnto the gates of Ptolemais: and there were ſlaine of the heathen almoſt three thouſand men: ſo hee tooke their ſpoiles.

23 Thus they reſcued them that were in Galile and in Arbattis with their wiues, and their children, and all that they had, and brought them into Judea with great ioy.

24 ¶ Judas Maccabeus alſo, & his brother Jonathan went ouer Jorden, & trauelled three dayes iourney in the wilderneſſe,

25 Where they met with the Nabathites, who receiued them louingly, & told them euery thing that was done vnto their brethren in the countrey of Galaad, 26 And how that many of them were beſieged in Boſora, and Boſor, in Alemis, ‖ Chaſbon, Maged and Carnaim (all theſe cities are ſtrong, and great) ‖ Or, Chaſor.

27 And that they were kept in other cities of Galaad, and to morow they are appointed to bring their hoſte vnto theſe fortes, and to take them, and to deſtroy them all in one day.

28 So Judas & his hoſte turned in all haſte by the way of the wilderneſſe toward Boſora, and wanne the citie, and ſlew all the males with the edge of the ſword, and tooke all their ſpoile, and ſet fire vpon the citie.

29 And in the night he remoued from thence, and went toward the fortreſſe.

30 And betimes in the morning when they looked vp, behold, there was an innumerable people bearing ladders, and inſtruments of warre, to take the forte, and had aſſaulted them.

31 When Judas ſawe that the battell was begun, and that the crie of the citie went vp to heauen with trumpets, and a great ſound, 32 Then he ſayd vnto the armie, Fight this day for your brethren.

33 So he went forth behind them with three companies, and they blew the trumpets, and cried with prayer.

34 Then the hoſte of Timotheus knew, that it was Maccabeus, and they fled from him, and he ſmote them with a great ſlaughter, ſo that there was killed of them the ſame day, almoſt eight thouſand men.

35 ¶ Then departed Judas vnto Maſpha, and layd ſiege vnto it, and wanne it, and ſlewe all the males thereof, and ſpoyled it, and ſet fire vpon it.

36 From thence went hee and tooke Chaſbon, Maged, and Boſor, and the other cities in Galaad.

37 After theſe things gathered Timotheus another hoſte, and hee camped before Raphon beyond the flood.

38 Nowe Judas had ſent to eſpie the hoſte, and they brought him word againe, ſaying, All the heathen that be round about vs, are gathered vnto him, and the hoſte is very great,

39 And he hath hired the Arabians to helpe them, and they haue pitched their tents beyond the flood, and are ready to come & fight againſt thee. So Judas went to meete them.

40 Then Timotheus ſaid vnto the captains of his hoſte, When Judas and his hoſte come neere the flood, if he paſſe ouer firſt vnto vs, we ſhall not be able to withſtand him: for he will be too ſtrong for vs.

41 But if he be afraid, and campe beyond the flood, we will goe ouer vnto him, and ſhall preuaile againſt him.

42 Now when Judas came nere to ꝑ flood, hee cauſed the gouernours of the people to remaine by the flood, and commanded them, ſaying, Suffer none to pitch a tent, but let euery man come to the battell.

43 So he went firſt ouer toward them, and all the people after him: and all the heathen were diſcomfited before him, & caſt away their weapons, and fled into the temple that was at Carnaim.

44 Which citie Judas wanne, and burnt the Temple with all that were in it: so was Carnaim subdued, and might not withstand Judas.

45 ¶ Then Judas gathered all the Israelites that were in the countrey of Galaad, from the least unto the most, with their wiues and their children, and their baggage a very great hoste, to come into the land of Juda.

46 So they came unto Ephron, which was a great citie by the way, and strongly defenced: they could not passe, neither at the right hand nor at the left, but must goe thorow it.

47 But they that were in the citie, shut them selues in, & stopped up the gates with stones: and Judas sent unto them with peaceable words, saying,

48 Let us passe thorow your land, that wee may goe into our owne countrey, & none shall hurt you: wee will but onely goe thorow on foote: but they would not open unto him.

49 Wherefore Judas commanded a proclamation to be made thorowout the hoste, that euery man should assault it according to his standing.

50 So the valiant men set upon it, & assaulted the citie all that day, and all that night, and the citie was giuen ouer into his hands:

51 Who slew all the males with the edge of the sword, and destroyed it, and tooke the spoyle thereof, and went thorow the citie ouer them that were slaine.

52 Then went they ouer Jorden into the great plaine before Bethsan.

53 And Judas gathered together them that were behind, and gaue the people good exhortation all the way thorow, till they were come into the land of Juda.

54 Thus they went up with ioy, and gladnes unto mount Sion, where they offred burnt offrings, because there were none of them slain, but came home againe in safetie.

55 ¶ Now whiles Judas & Jonathan were in the land of Galaad, and Simō their brother in Galile before Ptolemais, 56 Joseph the sonne of Zacharias, & Azarias the captaines, hearing of the valiant actes, and battels which they had atchieued, said, 57 Let us get us a name also, and goe fight against the heathen that are round about us.

58 So they gaue their hoste a cōmandement, and went toward Jamnia.

59 But Gorgias and his men came out of the citie to come against them.

60 And Joseph and Azarias were put to flight, and pursued unto the borders of Judea: and there were slaine that day of the people of Israel about two thousand men: so that there was a great ouerthrowe among the people of Israel, 61 Because they were not obedient unto Judas and his brethren, but thought to doe some valiant thing.

62 Also they came not of the stocke of these men, by whose hands deliuerance was giuen to Israel.

63 But the man Judas, and his brethren were greatly commended in the sight of all Israel, and of all the heathen, wheresoeuer their name was heard of.

64 And the people came unto them, bidding them welcome.

65 Afterward went Judas forth with his brethren, & fought against the children of Esau in the land toward the South, where he wanne Hebron, and the townes thereof, & he destroyed the castle thereof, and burnt the towers thereof round about. Ioseph. Antiq. 12. cap. 11. & 12.

66 Then remoued he to goe into the land of the ‖ strangers, and went thorow Samaria. ‖ Or, Philistims.

67 At the same time were the Priests of the cities slaine in the battell, which would shewe their valiantnesse, & went forth to battell without counsell: and when Judas came to Azotus in the strangers land, hee brake downe their altars, and burnt with fire the ymages of their gods, and tooke away the spoyles of the cities, and came into the land of Juda.

CHAP. VI.

1 Antiochus, willing to take the citie of Elimais, is driuen away of the citizens. 8 He falleth into sickenesse, & dieth. 17 His sonne Antiochus is made king. 34 The manner to prouoke elephants to fight. 43 Eleazarus valiant act. 48 The siege of Sion.

NOwe when king Antiochus trauelled thorow the hie countreys, hee heard that Elimais in the countrey of Persia was a city great ly renowmed for riches, siluer and gold, Ioseph. Antiq. 12. cap. 13.

2 And that there was in it a very rich temple, whereas were couerings of gold, coate armours, and harnesse, which Alexander king of Macedonia the sonne of Philip (that reigned first in Grecia) had left there.

3 Wherefore he went about to take the citie, and to spoyle it, but he was not able: for the citizens were warned of the matter,

4 And rose up against him in battell, and hee fled and departed thence with great heauinesse, and came againe into Babylon.

5 Moreouer, there came one which brought him tidings in the countrey of Persia, that the armies that went against the land of Juda, were driuen away,

6 And that Lysias, which went forth first with a great power, was driuen away of the Iewes, and that they were made strong by the armour, and power, and diuers spoyles which they had gotten of the armies whom they had destroyed,

7 And that they had pulled downe the abomination, which hee had set up upon the altar at Jerusalem, and fensed the Sanctuarie with high walles, as it was afore, and Beth-sura his citie.

8 So when the king had heard these words, he was astonished, and sore moued: therefore he layd him downe upon his bed, and fell sicke for very sorow, because it was not come to passe as he had thought.

9 And there continued he many dayes: for his griefe was euer more and more, so that hee saw he must needs die.

10 Therefore he sent for all his friends, and said unto them, The sleepe is gone from mine eyes, and mine heart faileth for very care.

11 And I thinke with my selfe, Into what aduersitie am I come? and into what floods of misere am I fallen now, whereas afore time I was in prosperitie, and greatly set by, by reason of my power?

12 And now doe I remember the euils, that I

I haue done at Ierusalem: for I tooke all the vessels of gold and of siluer that were in it, and sent to destroy the inhabitants of Iuda without cause.

13 I know that these troubles are come vpon mee for the same cause, and beholde, I must die with great sorow in a strange land.

14 Then called hee for Philippe, one of his friends, whom he made ruler of all his realme, 15 And gaue him the crowne, and his robe, and the ring, that hee shoulde instruct his sonne Antiochus, and bring him vp, till hee might reigne himselfe.

16 So king Antiochus died there in the hundreth fourtie and ninth yeere.

Ioseph. Ant. 12. cap. 14.

17 ¶ When Lysias knewe that the king was dead, he ordeined Antiochus his sonne (whome he had brought vp) to reigne in his fathers stead, and called him Eupator.

18 Nowe they that were in the castle at Ierusalem, kept in the Israelites rounde about the Sanctuarie, and sought alwayes their hurt, and the strengthening of the heathen.

19 Therefore Iudas thought to destroy them, and called all the people together to besiege them.

20 So they came together, & besieged them in the hundreth & fiftie yeere, and made instruments to shoote, and other engins of warre.

21 But certaine of them that were besieged, gate foorth, (vnto whom some vngodly men of Israel ioyned themselues)

22 And they went vnto the King, saying, How long wilt thou cease frō executing iudgement, and auenge our brethren?

23 Wee haue bene readie to serue thy father, and to goe forward in those things, that hee appointed, and to obey his commandements.

24 Therefore they of our nation fell from vs for this cause, and wheresoeuer they founde any of vs, they slewe them, and spoyled our inheritance.

25 And they haue not onely layd hand vpon vs, but vpon all about their borders.

26 And beholde, this day are they besieging the castle of Ierusalem to take it, and haue fortified the Sanctuarie, and Beth-sura.

27 And if thou doest not preuent them quickly, they will doe greater things then these, and thou shalt not be able to ouercome them.

28 When the King heard this, hee was very angry, and called all his friends, the captaines of his armie, and his horsemen, 29 And bandes that were hired, came vnto him from the kings, that were confederate, and from the yles of the sea.

30 So the number of his armie was an hundreth thousand footemen, and twentie thousand horsemen, and two and thirtie Elephants exercised in battell.

31 These came through Idumea, and drewe neere to Beth-sura, and besieged it a long season, and made engins of warre, but they came out, and burnt them with fire, and fought valiantly.

32 Then departed Iudas from the castle, and remoued the hoste toward Beth-zacarias, ouer against the Kings campe.

33 So the king arose very early, and brought the armie and his power towarde the way of Beth-zacarias, where the armie set themselues in arap to the battell, and blew the trumpets.

34 And to prouoke the Elephants for to fight, they shewed them the blood of grapes and mulberies,

35 And they set the beastes according to the ranges: so that by euery Elephant there stoode a thousande men armed with coates of maile and helmets of brasse vpon their heads, and vnto euery beast were ordeined fiue hundreth horsemen of the best,

36 Which were ready at all times wheresoeuer the beast was: and whithersoeuer the beast went, they went also, & departed not from him.

37 And vpon them were strong towres of wood that couered euery beast, which were fastened thereon with instruments, and vpon euery one were two and thirtie men, that fought in them, and the Indian that ruled him.

38 They set also the remnant of the horsemen vpon both the sides in two wings of the hoste, to stirre them vp, and to keepe them in the valleys.

39 And when the sunne shone vpon the golden shields, the mountaines glistred therewith, and gaue light as lampes of fire.

40 Thus part of ꝑ kings armie was spread vpon the hie mountaines, and part beneath: so they marched forward warily, and in order.

41 And all they that heard the noyse of their multitude, and the marching of the companie, and the rating of the harnesse, were astonished: for the armie was very great and mightie.

42 Then Iudas and his hoste entred into the battell, and they slewe sixe hundreth men of the kings armie.

43 ¶ Nowe when Eleazar, the sonne of ‖ Saraban, sawe one of the Elephants armed with ropall harnesse, and was more excellent then all the other beasts, he thought that the king should be vpon him.

‖ Or, Saura.

44 Wherefore he ieopарded himselfe to deliuer his people, & to get him a perpetuall name.

45 And ranne boldly vnto him through the middes of the hoste, slaying on the right hande, and on the left, so that they departed away on both sides.

46 So went hee to the Elephants feete, and gate him vnder him, [a] and slewe him: then fell the Elephant downe vpon him, & there he died.

[a] This example is not to be followed, because it is contrary to the cōmandement.

47 But the other, seeing the power of the king and the fiercenesse of his armie, departed from them.

48 ¶ And the kings armie went vp to meete them towarde Ierusalem, and the king pitched his tents in Iudea toward mount Sion.

49 Moreouer, the King tooke truce with them that were in Beth-sura: but when they came out of the citie, because they had no victailes there, and were shut vp therein, and the land had rested,

50 The king tooke Beth-sura, and set there a garison to keepe it, 51 And besieged the Sanctuary many daies, and made instruments to shoote, and other engins of warre, and instruments to cast fire and stones, and pieces to cast dartes and slings.

52 ‖ They also made engins against their engins, and fought a long season.

‖ Or, the Iewes.

53 But in the garners there were no vitails: for it was the seuenth yeere, and then they that were in Iudea, and were deliuered from the Gentiles, had eaten vp the residue of the store,

54 So that in the Sanctuarie were few men left: for the famine came so vpon them, that they were scattered euery man to his owne place.

55 ¶ Nowe when Lysias heard that Philip, (whome Antiochus the King, whiles he liued, had ordeined to bring vp Antiochus his sonne, that he might be king)

56 Was come againe out of Persia, & Media, and the Kings hoste with him, and thought to take vnto him the rule of things, 57 Hee and his hasted, & were stirred forward vp them in the castle to goe and tell the King, and the captaines of the hoste, and to others, saying, We decrease daylie, and our vitailes are but small: and the place that wee lay siege vnto, is strong, and the affaires of the realme depend vpon vs.

58 Nowe therefore let vs ‖agree with these men, and take truce with them, and with all their nation, 59 And graunt them to liue after their Law, as they did afore: for they bee grieued, and doe all these things, because wee haue broken their lawes.

60 So the King and the princes were content, and sent vnto them to make peace, & they receiued it.

61 When the King and the princes had made an othe vnto them, they came vpon this out of the fortresse.

62 And the king went vp to mount Sion: but when hee sawe that the place was well defensed, hee brake his othe that he had made, and commaunded to breake downe the wall rounde about.

63 Then departed hee in all haste, and returned vnto Antiochia, where hee founde Philip hauing dominion of the citie: so hee fought against him, and tooke the citie vp force.

‖ Or, giue hands.

CHAP. VII.

1 Demetrius reigned, after hee had killed Antiochus and Lysias. 5 He troubleth the children of Israel through the counsell of certaine wicked persons. 37 The prayer of the Priestes against Nicanor. 41 Iudas killeth Nicanor, after he had made his prayer.

Ioseph. Ant. 12. cap. 5.

IN the hundreth, and one and fiftieth yere, departed Demetrius the sonne of Seleucus from Rome, and came vp with a fewe men vnto a citie of the sea coast, and reigned there.

2 And when he came into ‖ possession of his fathers kingdome, his souldiers tooke Antiochus and Lysias, and brought them vnto him.

3 But when it was tolde him, he said, Shewe me not their faces.

4 So they put them to death. Nowe when Demetrius was set vpō the throne of his kingdome,

5 There came vnto him all the wicked and vngodly men of Israel, whose captaine was Alcimus, that would haue bene the hie Priest.

6 These men accused the people vnto the king, saying, Iudas & his brethren haue slaine all thy frendes, and driuen vs out of our owne lande.

7 Wherefore sende nowe some man, whome thou trustest, that he may goe and see all the destruction, which hee hath done vnto vs, and to the kings lande, and let him punish them with all their partakers.

8 Then the king chose Bacchides a friend of his, which was a great man in the realme, and ruled beyond the flood, and was faithfull vnto the king, and sent him, 9 And that wicked Alcimus, whom he made hie Priest, and commaunded him to be auenged of the children of Israel.

10 So they departed, and came with a great host vnto the land of Juda, and sent messengers to Judas and his brethren, deceitfully with peaceable words.

11 But they beleeued not their saying: for they sawe that they were come ‖ a great hoste.

12 Then a company of the gouernours assembled vnto Alcimus and Bacchides to intreate of reasonable points.

13 And the ‖ Assideans were the first that required peace among the children of Israel.

‖ Or, Hasidims.

14 For saide they, Hee that is a Priest of the seede of Aaron, is come with this armie: therefore he will not hurt vs.

15 Then he spake vnto them peaceably, and swore vnto them, and said, We will doe you no harme: neither your friends:

16 And they beleeued him: but hee tooke of them threescore men, and slewe them in one day, according to the wordes that were written,

17 They haue cast the bodies of thy Saints, and their blood rounde about Jerusalem, and there was no man that would burie them. Psalm. 79. 2.

18 So there came a feare and a trembling among all the people: for they said, There is neither trueth nor righteousnesse in them: for they haue broken the appointment and othe that they made.

19 Then Bacchides remooued from Jerusalem, and pitched his tent at ‖ Beth-zecha, where he sent forth & tooke many of the men that had forsaken him, and certaine of the people whome he slew and cast into the great pit.

‖ Or, Bethseth, or, Bezeth.

20 Then committed hee the countrey vnto Alcimus, and left men of warre with him to helpe him: so Bacchides went vnto the king.

21 Thus Alcimus strone for the Priesthood.

22 And all such as troubled the people, resorted vnto him: in so much that they obtained the lande of Juda, and did much hurt in Israel.

23 Now when Judas sawe all the mischiefe that Alcimus and his companie had done among the Israelites more then the heathen, 24 Hee went forth round about all the borders of Judea, and punished those that were fallen away, so that they came no more abroade in the countrey.

25 But when Alcimus saw that Judas and his people had gotten the vpper hande, & knewe that he was not able to abide them, hee went againe to the king, and accused them of wicked things.

26 Then the King sent Nicanor one of his chiefe princes, which hated Israel deadly, and commaunded him, that hee should destroy the people.

Ioseph. Ant. 12. cap. 16.

27 ¶ So Nicanor came to Jerusalem with a great hoste, and sent vnto Judas, and his brethren deceitfully with friendly wordes, saying, 28 Let there be no warre betweene mee, and you: I will come with fewe men, to see how ye doe, friendly.

29 So

29 So he came vnto Judas, and they saluted one another peaceably: but the enemies were prepared to take away Judas.

30 Neuertheleſſe, it was told Judas, that hee came vnto him vnder deceit: therefore hee feared him, and would see his face no more.

31 When Nicanor perceiued that his counsell was bewrayed, he went out to fight against Judas, beside ‖Carpha-salama, ‖Or, Caphar-ſarama.

32 Where there were slayne of Nicanors hoste about fiue thousand men: so they fled vnto the citie of Dauid.

33 After this came Nicanor vp vnto mount Sion, & some of the Priests with the Elders of the people went foorth of the Sanctuarie to salute him peaceably, and to shew him the burnt offring that was offred for the King.

34 But he laughed at them, & mocked them, and counted them prophane, & spake proudly, 35 And swore in his wrath, saying, If Judas & his hoste be not deliuered now into mine hands, if euer I come againe in safetie, I will burne vp this house. With that, went he out in a great anger.

36 Then the Priests came in, and stoode before the altar in the Temple, weeping & saying,

37 For so much as thou, O Lord, hast chosen this * House, that thy Name might bee called vpon therein, and that it should be an house of prayer, and petition for thy people,

Iſa. 56. 5, 7.

38 Bee auenged of this man and his hoste, and let them be slaine by the sword: remember their blasphemies, and suffer them not to continue.

39 ¶ When Nicanor was gone from Jerusalem, he pitched his tent at Beth-horon, and there an hoste met him out of Syria.

40 And Judas pitched in ‖Adasa, with three thousand men, where Judas prayed, saying,

‖Or, Adaſa.

41 O Lorde, * because the messengers of King Sennacherib blasphemed thee, thine Angel went forth, and slew an hundreth, fourescore and fiue thousand of them.

2. Kin. 19. 35 tob. 1. 18. eccles 48. 22. iſa. 37. 36. 2. mac. 8. 19.

42 So destroy thou this hoste before vs to day, that all other may know that he hath spoken wickedly against thy Sanctuarie, and punish him according to his malice.

43 So the armies ioyned together in battel, the thirteenth day of the moneth Adar: but Nicanors hoste was discomfited, and hee himselfe was first slaine in the battel.

44 Nowe when his army sawe that Nicanor was slaine, they cast away their weapons and fled.

45 But they pursued after the a dayes iourney from Adasa, vnto Gasera, blowing an alarme with the trumpets after them.

46 So they came forth of all the townes of Judea round about, & rushed vpon them, and threw them from one to another, so that they all fell by the sword, and there was not one of them left.

47 Then they tooke the spoyles, & the praie, and smote off Nicanors head, & his right hand, which hee held vp so proudly, and brought it with them, and hanged them vp afore Jerusalem.

48 So the people reioyced greatly, and kept that day as a day of great gladnesse.

49 And they ordained to keepe yeerely that day on the thirteenth day of the moneth Adar.

50 Thus the land of Juda was in rest a little while.

CHAP. VIII.

1 Judas considering the power and policie of the Romanes, maketh peace with them. 22 The conditions of mutuall friendship sent to the Iewes.

IUdas heard also the fame of the Romanes, that they were mightie, and valiaunt, and agreeable to all things, that were required of them, and made peace with all that came vnto them, Ioſeph. Antiq. 12. cap. 18.

2 And that they were men of great power, and they tolde him of their battels, and their worthy acts, which they did among the ‖Galatians whom they had conquered, and made to pay tribute,

‖Or, Frenchmen.

3 And what they had done in the countrey of Spaine: how that they had wonne there the mines of siluer and gold,

4 And that by their counsell and gentle behauior they were rulers in euery place, though the place was farre from them, and that they had discomfited, and giuen great ouerthrowes to the Kings that came against them, from the vttermost partes of the earth, and that others gaue them tribute euery yeere,

5 How they had also discomfited by battell Philip and Perses kings of the ‖Macedonians, and others, that rose against them, and how they ouercame them,

‖Or, Citims.

6 And how great Antiochus king of Asia that came against them in battell, hauing an hundreth and twentie Elephants, with horsemen and charets, and a very great army, was discomfited by them,

7 And how they tooke him aliue, and ordeined him, with such as should reigne after him, to pay a great tribute, and to giue hostages, and a separate portion,

8 Euen the countrey of India, and Media, and Lydia, and of his best countreys, which they tooke of him and gaue them to King Eumenes.

9 Againe when it was told them that the Grecians were comming to destroy them,

10 They sent against them a captaine, which gaue them battell, and slewe many of them, and tooke many prisoners with their wiues, and children, and spoyled them, and conquered their land, and destroyed their strong holdes, and subdued them to bee their bondmen vnto this day:

11 Moreouer, how they destroyed & brought into subiection other kingdomes & Iles, whosoeuer had withstand them:

12 But that they kept amitie with their own friends, and those that stayed vpon them: finally, that they conquered kingdomes, both farre and neere, in so much that whosoeuer heard of their renoume, was afrayd of them.

13 For whome they would helpe to their kingdoms, those reigned: & whom they would, they put downe: thus were they in most high authoritie.

14 Yet for all this that none of them ware a crowne, neither was clothed in purple, to bee magnified thereby,

15 But that they had ordained themselues a counsell, wherein three hundreth and twentie ment consulted daily, and prouided for the common affaires, to gouerne them well, 16 And that they committed their gouernment to one man euery peere, who did rule ouer all their countrey, to whom euery man was obedient: and there was neither hatred nor enuy among them.

17 ¶ Then Judas chose Eupolemus the sonne of John, the sonne of Accus, and Jason the sonne of Eleazar, & sent them vnto Rome, to make friendship, & mutuall fellowship with them,

18 That they might take from them the yoke (for they sawe that the kingdome of the Grecians would keepe Israel in bondage.)

19 So they went vnto Rome, which was a very great iournep, and came into the ‖Senate where they spake and said,

‖Or, councell.

20 Judas Maccabeus with his brethren, and the people of the Jewes hath sent vs vnto you, to make a bond of friendship & peace with you, and vee to register vs as your partakers and friends.

21 And the matter pleased them.

22 And this is the copie of the Epistle that they wrote in tables of brasse and sent to Jerusalem, that they might haue by them a memoriall of the peace, and mutuall fellowship.

23 Good successe bee to the Romanes, and to the people of the Jewes, by sea, and by land for euer, and the sword, and enemie be from them.

24 If there come first any warre vpon the Romanes, or any of their friends throughout all their dominion, 25 The people of the Jewes shal help them, as the time shall bee appointed, with all their heart.

26 Also ‖they shal giue nothing to them that come to fight for them, nor serue them with wheate nor weapons, nor money, nor ships, as it pleaseth the Romanes, but ‖they shall keepe their couenaunts without taking any thing of them.

‖Or, the Romans.

‖Or, the Iewes.

27 Likewise also if warre come first against the nation of the Jewes, the Romanes shal helpe them with a good will, according as the time shalbe appointed them.

28 Neither shal wheate be giuen vnto them, that take their part, nor weapons, nor money, nor ships, as it pleaseth the Romanes, who wil keepe these couenants without deceit.

29 According to these articles the Romanes made the bond with the people of the Jewes.

30 If after these points the one partie, or the other will adde or diminish, they may doe it at their pleasures, and whatsoeuer they shall adde or take away, shalbe ratified.

31 And as touching the euill that Demetrius hath done vnto the Jewes, we haue written vnto him, saying, Wherefore laiest thou thine heauie yoke vpon our friends, and confederates the Jewes?

32 If therefore they complaine any more against thee, we will doe them iustice, and fight with thee by sea and by land.

CHAP. IX.

1 After the death of Nicanor, Demetrius sendeth his army against Iudas. 18 Iudas is slaine. 31 Jonathan is put in the stead of his brother. 47 The battel betweene Ionathan and Bacchides. 55 Alcimus is smitten with the palsie, and dieth. 68 He commeth vpon Ionathan by the counsell of certaine wicked persons, and is ouercome. 70 The truce of Ionathan with Bacchides.

IN the meane season when Demetrius had heard how Nicanor, and his hoste had giuen the battell, hee sent Bacchides, and Alcimus againe into Judea, and his ‖chiefe strength with them.

Ioseph. Antiq. 12. ca. 18.

‖Or, the right horne.

2 So they went forth by the way that is toward Galgala, and pitched their tents before Mesaloth which is in Arbelis, and wan it, and slew much people.

3 And in the first moneth of the hundreth, fifty and two peere, they laied their siege against Jerusalem.

4 But they raised their campe, and came to Berea, with twentie thousand foote men, and two thousand horsemen.

5 Now Judas had pitched his tent at ‖Eleasa, and three thousand chosen men with him.

‖Or, Laisa.

6 And when they saw that the multitude of the army was great, they were sore afrayd, and many conueied themselues out of the hoste, so that there abode no moe of them, but eight hundreth men.

7 When Judas sawe that his hoste fayled him, and that he must needs fight, hee was sore troubled in mind that he had no time to gather them together, and was discouraged.

8 Neuertheless, he said vnto them that remained, Let vs rise, and goe vp against our enemies, if peraduenture we may bee able to fight with them.

9 But they would haue staied him, saying, Wee are not able: but let vs rather saue our liues: turne backe now, seeing our brethren are departed: for shall wee fight against them, that are so few?

10 Then Judas said, [a] God forbid, that we should doe this thing, to flee from them: if our time bee come, let vs die manfully for our brethren, and let vs not staine our honour.

a He that was wont to pray and ouercome, is ouercome when he trusteth in his strength, and omitteth prayer.

11 Then the hoste remoued out of the tents, and stood against them, who had deuided their horsmen into two troupes, and they that threw with slings, and the archers marched in the foreward, and they that fought in the foreward, were all valiant men.

12 And Bacchides was in the right wing. So the armie drewe neere on both sides, and blew the trumpets.

13 They of Judas side blewe the trumpets also, and the earth shooke at the noise of the armies, and the battell continued from morning to night.

14 And when Judas sawe that Bacchides and the strength of his armie was on the right side, he tooke with him all the hardy men, 15 And brake the right wing, and followed vpon them vnto mount Azotus.

16 Now when they which were of the left wing, sawe that the right wing was discomfited, they folowed Judas behind, and them that were with him hard at the heeles.

17 Then was there a sore battell: for many were slaine of both the parties.

18 Judas also himselfe was killed, and the remnant fled.

19 So Jonathan and Simon tooke Judas their brother, and buried him in his fathers sepulchre sepulchre in the citie of Modin.

20 And all the Israelites wept for him, and mourned greatly for him, and lamented many dayes, saying, 21 How is the valiant man fallen which deliuered Israel!

22 Concerning the other things of Judas, both the battels and the valiant actes that hee did, and of his worthinesse, they are not written: for they were very many.

Ioseph. Ant. 13. chap. 1, and 3.

23 ¶ Now after the death of Judas, wicked men came up in all the coasts of Israel, and there arose all such as gaue themselues to iniquitie.

24 In those dayes was there a very great famine in the land, and all the countrey gaue ouer themselues with them.

25 And Bacchides did chuse wicked men, and made them lords in the land.

26 These sought out, and made search for Judas friendes, and brought them vnto Bacchides, which auenged himselfe vpon them, and mocked them.

27 And there came so great trouble in Israel, as was not since the time that no Prophete was seene among them.

28 Then came all Judas friendes together, and said vnto Jonathan,

29 Seeing thy brother Judas is dead, and there is none like him to goe forth against our enemies, euen against Bacchides, and ‖ against them of our nation that are enemies vnto vs,

‖ Or, against the enemies of our nation.

30 Therefore, this day wee chuse thee that thou mayest bee our prince and captaine in his place to order our battell.

31 So Jonathan tooke the gouernance vpon him at the same time, and ruled in stead of his brother Judas.

32 But when Bacchides knew it, he sought for to slay him.

33 Then Jonathan and Simon his brother, perceiuing that, fled into the wildernes of Thecua with all their company, and pitched their tents by the water poole of Asphar.

34 Which when Bacchides vnderstood, hee came ouer Jordan with all his hoste vpon the Sabbath day.

35 (Now had Jonathan sent his brother John a captaine of the people, to pray his friends, the Nabathites, that they would keepe their baggage which was much.

‖ Or, Iambri.

36 But the children of ‖ Ambri came out of Medaba, and tooke John, and all that hee had, and when they had taken it, went their way.

37 After this came worde vnto Jonathan, and to Simon his brother, that the children of Ambri made a great marriage, and brought the bride from ‖ Medaba with great pompe: for she was daughter to one of the noblest princes of Canaan.

‖ Or, Nadabath.

38 Therefore they remembred John their brother, and went vp, and hid themselues vnder the couert of the mountaine.

39 So they lift vp their eyes, and looked, and beholde, there was a great noyse, & much preparation: then the bridegroome came forth, and his friends and his brethren mette them with timbrels, and instruments of musicke, and many weapons.

40 Then Jonathans men that lay in ambush, rose vp against them, and slewe many of them, and the remnant fledde into the mountaines, so that they tooke all their spoyles.

41 Thus the marriage was turned to mourning, and the noyse of their melodie into lamentation.

42 And so when they had auenged the blood of their brother, they turned againe vnto Jorden.

43 When Bacchides heard this, hee came vnto the border of Jorden with a great power vpon the Sabbath day.)

44 Then Jonathan said vnto his company, Let vs rise now, and fight against our enemies: for it is not to day as in time past.

45 Beholde, the battell is before vs, and behinde vs, and the water of Jorden on this side and that side, and the marise and forest, so that there is no place for vs to turne aside.

46 Wherefore cry nowe vnto heauen, that ye may be deliuered from the power of your enemies: so they ioyned battell.

47 Then Jonathan stretched out his hand to smite Bacchides: but he turned aside from him and reculed.

48 Then Jonathan, & they that were with him, lept into Jorden, and swimmed ouer vnto the further banke: but the other would not passe through Jorden after them.

49 So in that day were slaine of Bacchides side about a thousand men.

50 Then he turned againe to Jerusalem, and built vp the strong cities in Jude, as the castle of Jericho, and Emmaus, & Bethhoron, and Bethel, and Thamnatha, ‖ Parathoni, and ‖ Tepho, with hie walles, with gates, and with barres, ‖ Or, Phara. ‖ Or, Thopo.

51 And set garrisons in them, that they might vse their malice vpon Israel.

52 Hee fortified also the citie Beth-sura, and Gazara, and the castle, and set a garison in them with prouision of victailes.

53 He tooke also the chiefest mens sonnes in the countrey for hostages, and put them in the castle at Jerusalem to be kept.

54 ¶ Afterwarde in the hundreth, fiftie and three yere, in the second moneth, Alcimus commaunded that the walles of the inner court of the Sanctuarie should be destroyed, and he pulled downe the monuments of the Prophetes, and began to destroy them.

55 But at the same time Alcimus was plagued, and his enterprises were hindered, and his mouth was stopped: for hee was smitten with a palsie, and could no more speake, nor giue order concerning his house.

56 Thus died Alcimus with great torment at the same time.

57 And when Bacchides sawe, that Alcimus was dead, hee turned againe to the King, and so the lande of Juda was in rest two yeeres.

58 Then all the vngodly men held a counsel, saying, Beholde, Jonathan and his company dwell at ease, and without care: wherefore let vs bring Bacchides hither, and hee will take them all in one night.

59 So they went and consulted with him,

60 Who arose and came with a great hoste, and sent letters priuily to his adherents, which were in Judea, to take Jonathan, and those that were with him: but they could not, for their counsell was knowen vnto them.

‖Or, Ionathan. 61 And ‖ they tooke fiftie men of the countrey, which were the chiefe workers of this wickednesse, and slewe them.

‖Or, Bethbessen. 62 ¶ Then Jonathan and Simon with their company departed vnto ‖ Beth-basin which is in the wildernes, and repayred the decay thereof, and made it strong.

63 When Bacchides knew this, he gathered all his hoste, and sent woorde to them that were of Judea.

64 Then came hee and layde siege to Beth-basin, and fought against it a long season, and made instruments of warre.

65 But Jonathan had left his brother Simon in the citie, and went foorth into the countrey, and came with a certaine number,

‖Or, Odares. 66 And slewe ‖ Odomeras and his brethren, and the children of Phasiron in their tents: so he began to slay, and increased in power.

67 Simon also & his company went out of the citie, & burnt vp the instruments of warre, 68 And fought against Bacchides, and discomfited him, and vexed him sore, so that his counsell and journey was in vaine.

b Wicked counsell falleth on the counsellers. 69 Wherefore he was very wroth at the wicked men, b that gaue him counsell to come into the countrey, and slew many of them, and purposed to returne into his owne countrey.

70 Whereof when Jonathan had knowledge, hee sent ambassadours vnto him, to intreate of peace with him, and that the prisoners should be deliuered.

71 Which thing hee accepted, & did according to his desire, and made an othe, that hee would neuer doe him harme all the dayes of his life.

72 So hee restored vnto him the prisoners that hee had taken afore time out of the lande of Juda, and so returned and went into his owne lande, neither did hee come any more into their borders.

73 Thus the sworde ceased from Israel, and Jonathan dwelt at Machmas, and began there to gouerne the people, and destroyed the vngodly men out of Israel.

CHAP. X.

4 Demetrius desireth to haue peace with Ionathan. 18 Alexander also desireth peace with the Iewes. 48 Alexander maketh warre against Demetrius. 50 Demetrius is slaine. 51 The friendship of Ptolemeus and Alexander.

Ioseph. Ant. 13. cap. 3. IN the hundreth and threescore yeere came Alexander the sonne of Antiochus Epiphanes, and tooke Ptolemais, and they receiued him, and there he reigned.

2 Nowe when Demetrius the king heard it, hee gathered an exceeding great hoste, and went foorth against him to fight.

3 Also Demetrius sent letters vnto Jonathan, with louing woordes, as though he would preferre him.

4 For hee saide, Wee must first make peace with him, before hee ioyne with Alexander against vs.

5 Els he will remember all the euill that wee haue done against him, and against his brethren and his nation.

6 And so hee gaue Jonathan leaue to gather an hoste, and to prepare weapons, and to bee confederate with him, and commaunded the hostages that were in the castle, to bee deliuered vnto him.

7 ¶ Then came Jonathan to Jerusalem, and read the letters in the audience of all the people, and of them that were in the castle.

8 Therefore they were sore afraide, because they heard that the king had giuen him licence to gather an armie.

9 So they that were of the castle, deliuered the hostages vnto Jonathan, who restored them to their parents.

10 Jonathan also dwelt at Jerusalem, and began to build, and repaire the citie.

11 And hee commaunded the workemen to builde the walles, and the mount Sion rounde about with hewen stone, to fortifie it: and so they did.

12 Then the strangers that were in the castels which Bacchides had made, fled, 13 So that euery man left his place, and went into his owne countrey.

14 Onely at Beth-sura remained certaine which had forsaken the law, and the commaundements: for it was their refuge.

15 ¶ Nowe when King Alexander had heard of the promises that Demetrius had made vnto Jonathan: and when it was tolde him of the battels and noble acts, which hee and his brethren had done, and of the paines that they had endured, 16 Hee sayde, Might wee finde such a man? nowe therefore wee will make him our friende and confederate.

17 Vpon this hee wrote a letter, and sent it vnto him with these woords, saying, 18 KING ALEXANDER to his brother Jonathan sendeth salutation.

19 We haue heard of thee, that thou art a very valiant man, and worthy to be our friend.

20 Wherefore this day we ordeine thee to be the hie Priest of thy nation, and to bee called the Kings friend: (and hee sent him a purple robe, and a ‖ crowne of gold,) that thou mayest ‖ consider what is for our profite, and keepe friendship toward vs.

‖Or, mitre. ‖Or, take our part.

21 So in the seuenth moneth of the hundreth and threescore yeere, vpon the feast day of the tabernacles, Jonathan put on the holy garment, and gathered an hoste, and prepared many weapons.

22 ¶ Which when Demetrius heard, he was marueilously sory, and said, Iosephus Antiq. 13. chap. 3. 23 What haue wee done, that Alexander hath preuented vs in getting the friendship of the Jewes for his strength?

24 Yet will I write and exhort them, and promise them dignities and rewards, that they may helpe me.

25 Whereupon hee wrote vnto them these woords, KING DEMETRIVS vnto the nation of the Jewes sendeth greeting.

26 Wee haue heard that yee haue kept your couenant toward vs, & continued in our friendship, and haue not ioyned with our enemies, whereof we are glad.

27 Now therefore remaine still, and keepe fidelitie toward vs, and we will recompense you for the good things that ye haue done for vs, 28 And will release you of many charges, and giue you rewards.

29 And now I discharge for your sake all the Jewes from tributes, and free you from the customes

customes of salt, and the crowne taxes, & from the thirde part of the seede.

30 And from the halfe of the fruit of the trees which is mine owne duetie, I so release them, that from this day forth, none shall take any thing of the land of Juda, or of the three governments, which are added thereunto, as of Samaria and of Galile, from this day forth for euermore.

a And of the countrey beyond Iorde, as Iosephus writeth.

31 Jerusalem also with all things belonging thereto, shall bee holy and free from the tenthes and tributes.

32 Also I release the power of the castle which is at Jerusalem, and giue it vnto the hie Priest, that he may set in it such men, as he shall chuse to keepe it.

33 Moreouer I freely deliuer euery one of the Jewes that were taken away prisoners out of the land of Juda throughout all my realme, and euery one of them shall bee free from tributes, pea, euen their cattel,

34 And all the feastes, and Sabbaths, and new moones, and the dayes appointed, and the three dayes before the feast, and the three dayes after the feast, shall be dayes of freedome and libertie for all the Jewes in my Realme, 35 So that in them no man shall haue power to doe any thing, or to vexe any of them in any maner of cause.

36 Also thirtie thousande of the Jewes shall be written vp in the kings hoste, and haue their wages paied them as apperteineth to all them that are of the kings armie: and of them shall bee ordeined certaine to keepe the kings strong holdes.

37 And some of them shall bee set ouer the kings most secrete affaires, and their gouernours and their princes shall be of themselues, and they shall liue after their owne lawes, as the king hath commanded in the land of Juda.

38 And the three governments that are added vnto Judea from the countrey of Samaria, shall be ioyned vnto Judea, and they shal be as vnder one, and obey none other power, but the hie Priest.

39 And I giue Ptolemais and the borders thereof vnto the Sanctuarie at Jerusalem, for the necessarie expenses of the holy things.

40 Moreouer, I will giue euery yere fifteene thousande sicles of siluer of the kings reuenues out of the places appertaining vnto me.

41 And all the ouerplus which they haue not paied for the things due, as they did in the former yeeres, from hencefoorth they shall giue it toward the workes of the Temple.

42 And besides this, the fiue thousand sicles of siluer which they receiued yeerely of the account appointed for the entertainement of the Sanctuarie, these yeeres passed, euen these things shall be released because they apperteine to the Priestes that minister.

43 Item, Whosoeuer they bee that flee vnto the Temple at Jerusalem, or within the liberties thereof, and are indetted to the king for any maner of thing, they shall bee pardoned, and all that they haue in my Realme.

44 For the building also and repayring of the workes of the Sanctuarie, expenses shall be giuen of the kings reuenues.

45 And for the making of the walles of Jerusalem, and fortifying it round about, that the holdes of Judea may bee built vp, shall also the costes be giuen out of the kings reuenues.

46 ¶ But when Jonathan and the people heard these wordes, they gaue no credite vnto them, neither receiued them: for they remembred the great wickednesse that hee had done in Israel, and how sore he had vexed them.

47 Wherefore they agreed vnto Alexander: for hee was the first that had intreated of true peace with them, and so were confederate with him alway.

48 Then gathered King Alexander a great hoste, and camped ouer against Demetrius.

49 So the two kings ioyned battell, but Demetrius hoste fled, and Alexander pursued him, and preuailed against them.

50 So that sore battel continued til the sunne went downe, and Demetrius was slaine the same day.

51 ¶ Then Alexander sent Ambassadours vnto Ptolemeus the King of Egypt with these wordes, saying, Iosephus Antiq. 1. chap. 5.

52 For so much as I am come againe to my realme, and am set in the throne of my fathers, and haue gotten the dominion, and haue destroyed Demetrius, and enioy my countrey,

53 Seeing that I haue euen giuen him the battell, and hee and his armie is discomfited by me, and I sit in the throne of his kingdome, 54 Let vs now make friendship together, and giue mee nowe thy daughter to wife: so shall I bee thy sonne in lawe, and giue thee rewards, and vnto her things according to thy dignitie.

55 Then Ptolemeus the king gaue answere, saying, Happie bee the day, wherein thou art come againe vnto the lande of thy fathers, and sittest in the throne of their kingdome.

56 Now therefore will I fulfill thy writing: but meete mee at Ptolemais that wee may see one another, & that I may make thee my sonne in lawe, according to thy desire.

57 So Ptolemeus went out of Egypt with his daughter Cleopatra, and came vnto Ptolemais in the hundreth threescore and two yeere, 58 Where king Alexander mette him, and he gaue vnto him his daughter Cleopatra, and married them at Ptolemais with great glorie, as the maner of kings is.

59 ¶ Then wrote king Alexander vnto Jonathan, that he should come and meete him.

60 So he went honourably vnto Ptolemais, and there hee mette the two kings, and gaue them great presents of siluer and golde, and to their friends, and found fauour in their sight.

61 And there assembled certaine pestilent fellowes of Israel, and wicked men to accuse him: but the king would not heare them.

62 And the king commaunded that they should take off the garments of Jonathan, and clothe him in purple: and so they did: and the king appointed him to sit by him,

63 And saide vnto his princes, Go with him into the middes of the citie, and make a proclamation, that no man complaine against him of any matter, and that no man trouble him for any maner of cause.

64 So when his accusers sawe his honour according as it was proclaimed, and that hee was clothed in purple, they fled all away.

65 And the king preferred him to honour, and wrote wrote him among his chiefe friends, and made him a duke, and partaker of his dominion.

66 Thus Jonathan returned to Jerusalem with peace and gladnesse.

67 ¶ In the hundreth, threescore and fine yere came Demetrius the sonne of Demetrius, from Creta unto his fathers land.

68 Whereof when King Alexander heard, he was very sore, and returned unto Antiochia.

69 Then Demetrius appointed Apollonius the gouernour of Coelosyria, who gathered a great hoste, and camped in Jamnia, and sent unto Jonathan the hie Priest, saying, 70 Darest thou, being but alone, lift up thy selfe against us? and I am laughed at, and reproched, because of thee: nowe therefore why doest thou vaunt thy selfe against us in the mountaines?

71 Nowe then if thou trust in thine owne strength, come downe to us into the plaine field, and there let us trie the matter together: for I haue the strength of cities.

72 Aske and learne who I am, and they shall take my part: and they shall tell thee that your foote is not able to stand before our face: for thy fathers haue bene twise chased in their owne land.

73 And nowe howe wilt thou bee able to abide so great an hoste of horsemen and footemen in the plaine, where is neither stone, nor rocke, nor place to flee unto?

74 When Jonathan heard the wordes of Apollonius, he was moued in his mind: wherefore he chose tenne thousand men, and went out of Jerusalem, and Simon his brother met him for to helpe him.

75 And hee pitched his tents at Joppe: but they shut him out of the citie: for Apollonius garison was in Joppe.

76 Then they fought against it, and they that were in the citie, for very feare let him in: so Jonathan wanne Joppe.

77 Apollonius hearing of this, tooke three thousande horsemen with a great hoste of foote men, and went towarde Azotus, as though hee would goe forward, and came immediatly into the plaine fielde, because hee had so many horsemen, and put his trust in them.

78 So Jonathan followed upon him to Azotus, and the armie skirmished with his arriere band.

79 For Apollonius had left a thousand horsmen behinde them in ambush.

80 And Jonathan knewe that there was an ambushment behinde him, and though they had compassed in his hoste, and shotte dartes at the people from the morning to the euening, 81 Yet the people stood still, as Jonathan had commanded them, til their horses were weary.

82 Then brought Simon forth his hoste, and set them against the bande: but the horses were weary, and he discomfited them, and they fled:

so the horsemen were scattered in the field,

83 And they fled to Azotus, & came into the temple of Dagon their idole, that they might there saue themselues.

84 But Jonathan set fire upon Azotus and all the cities roumbe about it, and tooke their spoples, and burnt with fire the temple of Dagon with all them that were fled into it.

85 Thus were slaine and burnt about eight thousand men.

86 So Jonathan remoued the hoste from thence, and camped by Ascalon, where the men of the citie came forth, and met him with great honour.

87 After this went Jonathan and his hoste againe to Jerusalem with great spoples.

88 And when King Alexander heard these things, he began to do Jonathan more honour, 89 And sent him a collar of golde, as the use is to bee giuen unto such as are of the Kings blood: he gaue him also Accaron, with the borders thereof in possession.

CHAP. XI.

1 The dissention betweene Ptolemeus and Alexander his sonne in lawe. 17 The death of Alexander. 19 Demetrius reigneth after the death of Ptolemeus. 22 Sion is besieged of Ionathan. 42 Demetrius seeing that no man resisted him, sendeth his armie againe. 54 Typhon moueth Antiochus against Demetrius.

AND the King of Egypt gathered a great hoste, like the sande that lyeth upon the sea shore, and many ships, & went about through deceite to obteine the kingdome of Alexander, and to ioyne it unto his owne Realme. Ioseph. Ant. 13. cap. 7.

2 Upon this he went into Syria with friendly wordes, and was let into the cities, and men came forth to meete him: for King Alexander had commanded them to meete him, because he was his father in lawe.

3 Nowe when hee entred into the citie of Ptolemais, he left bands and garisons in euery citie.

4 And when hee came neere to Azotus, they shewed him the temple of Dagon that was burnt, and Azotus, and the suburbes thereof that were destroied, and the bodies cast abroad, and them that hee had burnt in the battell: for they had made heapes of them by the way where he should passe.

5 And they tolde the King what Jonathan had done, to the intent they might get him euill will: but the King held his peace.

6 And Jonathan mette the king with great honour at Joppe, where they saluted one another, and lay there.

7 So when Jonathan had gone with the King unto the water that was called Eleutherus, he turned againe to Jerusalem.

8 So King Ptolemeus gate the dominion of the cities by the sea unto Seleucia upon the sea coast, imagining wicked counsels against Alexander, 9 ¶ And sent Ambassadours unto King Demetrius, saying, Come, let us make a league betweene us, and I will giue thee my daughter, which Alexander hath, and thou shalt reigne in thy fathers kingdome.

10 For I repent that I gaue Alexander my daughter: for he goeth about to slay me.

11 Thus he slandered Alexander, as one that should desire his Realme.

12 And he tooke his daughter from him, and gaue her unto Demetrius, and forsooke Alexander, so that their hatred was openly knowen.

13 Then Ptolemeus came to Antiochia, where he set two crownes upon his owne head, of Asia and of Egypt.

14 In the meane season was King Alexander in Cilicia: for they that dwelt in those places, had rebelled against him:

15 But when Alexander heard it, he came to warre against him, and Ptolemeus brought forth his hoste, and met him with a mighty power, and put him to flight.

16 Then fled Alexander into Arabia, there to be defended: so Ptolemeus was exalted.

17 And Zabdiel the Arabian smote off Alexanders head, and sent it vnto Ptolemeus.

18 But the third day after, king Ptolemeus died, & they that were in the holds, were slaine one of another.

19 And Demetrius reigned in the hundreth, threescore and seuenth yeere.

20 ¶ At the same time gathered Jonathan them that were in Judea, to lay siege vnto the castle, which was at Jerusalem, and they made many instruments of warre against it.

21 Then went there certaine vngodly persons (which hated their owne people) vnto king Demetrius, and told him that Jonathan besieged the castle.

22 So when he heard it, he was angry, and immediately came vnto Ptolemais, and wrote vnto Jonathan, that he should lay no more siege vnto it, but that he should meete him, and speake with him at Ptolemais in all haste.

23 Neuertheles when Jonathan heard this, he commaunded to besiege it: he chose also certaine of the Elders of Israel, and the Priests, and put himselfe in danger, 24 And tooke with him siluer and gold, and apparell, and diuers presents, & went to Ptolemais vnto the king, and found fauour in his sight.

25 And though certaine vngodly men of his owne nation had made complaints vpon him,

26 Yet the king intreated him as his predecessour had done, and promoted him in the sight of all his friends, 27 And confirmed him in the hie priesthood with all the honourable things, that he had afore, and made him his chiefe friend.

28 Jonathan also desired the king, that he would make Judea free with the three gouernments, and the countrey of Samaria, and Jonathan promised him three hundreth talents.

29 Whereunto the king consented, & gaue Jonathan writing of the same, conteining these words, 30 KING DEMETRIVS vnto his brother Jonathan, and to the nation of the Jewes sendeth greeting.

31 Wee send you here a copie of the letter, which we did write vnto our cousin Lasthenes concerning you, that ye should see it.

32 King Demetrius vnto Lasthenes his father, sendeth greeting.

33 For the faithfulnes that our friends the nation of the Jewes keepe vnto vs, & for their good will toward vs, we are determined to doe them good.

34 Wherefore we assigne to them the coasts of Judea, with the three gouernements, Apherema, and Lydda, and Ramathe (which are added vnto Judea from the country of Samaria) and all that appertaineth to all them that sacrifice in Jerusalem: both concerning the paiments which the king tooke yeerely afore time, both for the fruites of the earth, & for the fruites of the trees.

35 As for the other things appertaining vnto vs of the tenthes and tributes, which were due vnto vs, and the customes of salt, & crowne taxes, which were paied vnto vs, wee discharge them of all from henceforth.

36 And nothing hereof shal be reuoked from this time forth and for euer.

37 Therefore see that yee make a copie of these things, & deliuer it vnto Jonathan, that it may bee set vp vpon the holy mount in an open place.

38 After this when Demetrius the king saw that his land was in rest, and that no resistance was made against him, hee sent away all his hoste, euery man to his owne place, except certaine bandes of strangers, whom hee brought from the iles of the heathen: wherefore all his fathers hoste hated him.

39 Now was there one Tryphon, that had bene of Alexanders part afore, which when hee sawe that all the hoste murmured against Demetrius, he went to ‖Simalcue ♭ Arabian, that brought vp Antiochus the sonne of Alexander, ‖Or, Emalcuel.

40 And lay fore vpon him, to deliuer him this yong Antiochus, that hee might reigne in his fathers stead: he told him also what great euil Demetrius had done, and how his men of warre hated him, and he remained there a long season.

41 Also Jonathan sent vnto king Demetrius to driue them out which were in the castle at Jerusalem, and those that were in the fortresses: for they fought against Israel.

42 So Demetrius sent vnto Jonathan, saying, I will not onely doe these things for thee and thy nation, but if opportunitie serue, I will honour thee and thy nation.

43 Now therefore shalt thou doe mee a pleasure, if thou wilt send me men to helpe me: for all mine armie is gone from me.

44 So Jonathan sent him three thousand strong men vnto Antiochia, and they came vnto the king: wherefore the king was very glad at their comming.

45 ¶ But they that were of the citie, euen an hundreth and twentie thousand men, gathered them together in the mids of the citie, & would haue slaine the king.

46 But the king fled to the palace, and the citizens kept the streetes of the citie, and began to fight.

47 Then the king called to the Jewes for helpe, which came to him altogether, and went abroad through the citie, 48 And slew the same day an hundreth thousand, and set fire vpon the citie, and tooke many spoiles in that day, and deliuered the king.

49 So when the Citizens sawe that the Jewes had gotten the vpper hand of the citie, and that they themselues were disappointed of their purpose, they made their supplication vnto the king, saying,

50 ‖Graunt vs peace, and let the Jewes cease from vexing vs and the citie. ‖Or, giue vs the right hand.

51 So they cast away their weapons, and made peace, and the Jewes were greatly honoured before the king, and before all that were in his Realme, and they came againe to Jerusalem with great praie.

52 Then king Demetrius sate in the throne of his kingdom, and had peace in his land.

53 Neuertheles he dissembled in all that euer he hee ſhake, and withdrew himſelfe from Jonathan, neither did hee reward him according to the benefites which hee had done for him, but troubled him very ſore.

54 ¶ After this returned Tryphon with the yong child Antiochus, which reigned, and was crowned.

55 Then there gathered vnto him al the men of warre, whom Demetrius had ſcattered, and they fought againſt him, who fled, and turned his backe.

56 So Tryphon tooke the ‖ beaſts, and wan Antiochia. ‖Or, Elephants.

57 And yong Antiochus wrote vnto Jonathan, ſaying, I appoint thee to bee the chiefe Prieſt, and make thee ruler ouer the foure gouernments, that thou maieſt be a friend of the Kings.

58 Vpon this hee ſent him golden veſſels to bee ſerued in, and gaue him leaue to drinke in gold, and to weare purple, and to haue a collar of gold.

59 Hee made his brother Simon alſo captaine from the coaſtes of Tyrus vnto the borders of Egypt.

60 Then Jonathan went forth, and paſſed thorow the cities beyond the flood, and all the men of warre of Syria gathered vnto him for to helpe him: ſo he came vnto Aſcalon, and they of the citie receiued him honourably.

61 And from thence went he vnto Gaza: but they of Gaza ſhut him out: wherefore hee laied ſiege vnto it, and burned the ſuburbes thereof with fire, and ſpoyled them.

62 Then they of Gaza made ſupplication vnto Jonathan, and he made peace with them, and tooke of the ſonnes of the chiefe men for hoſtages, & ſent them to Jeruſalem, and went thorow the countrey vnto Damaſcus.

63 And when Jonathan heard that Demetrius Princes were come into Cades, which is in Galile, with a great hoſte, purpoſing to driue him out of the countrey, 64 Hee came againſt them, and left Simon his brother in the countrey.

65 And Simon beſieged Beth-ſura, and fought againſt it a long ſeaſon, and ſhut it vp.

66 So they deſired to haue peace with him, which he granted them, & afterward put them out from thence, and tooke the citie, and ſet a garriſon in it.

67 Then Jonathan with his hoſte, came to the water of Geneſar, and betimes in the morning came to the plaine of Azor.

68 And behold, the hoſtes of the ‖ ſtrangers met him in the plaine and had laied ambuſhments for him in the mountaines. ‖Or, heathen.

69 So that when they came againſt them, the ambuſhment roſe out of their places & skirmiſhed.

70 So that all that were on Jonathans ſide, fled: and there was not one of them left, except Mattathias the ſonne of ‖ Abſalomus, and Judas the ſonne of Calphi the Captains of the hoſte. ‖Or, Abeſſalomus.

71 Then Jonathan rent his clothes, & caſt earth vpon his head, and prayed.

72 And turned againe to them to fight, and put them to flight, ſo that they fled away.

73 Nowe when his owne men that were fled, ſaw this, they turned againe vnto him, and helped him to follow after all vnto their tentes at Cades, and there they camped.

74 So there were ſlaine of the ſtrangers the ſame day about three thouſand men, and Jonathan turned againe to Jeruſalem.

CHAP. XII.

1 Jonathan ſendeth ambaſſadours to Rome, 2 And to the people of Sparta, to renew their couenant of friendſhip. 24 Jonathan putteth to flight the Princes of Demetrius. 40 Tryphon taketh Jonathan by deceit.

IOnathan now ſeeing that the time was méete for him, choſe certaine men, and ſent them vnto Rome, to ſtabliſh and renew the friendſhip with them. Joſeph. Antiq. 13. cap. 8

2 Hee ſent letters alſo vnto the ‖ Spartians and to other places, for the ſame purpoſe. ‖Or, Lacedæmonians.

3 So they went vnto Rome, and entred into the Senate, & ſayd, Jonathan the hie Prieſt and the nation of the Jewes ſent vs vnto you, for to renew friendſhip with you, and the bond of loue, as in times paſt.

4 So the Romanes gaue them free paſſports, that men ſhould lead them home into the land of Juda peaceably.

5 ¶ AND THIS is the copy of the letters that Jonathan wrote vnto the Spartians, 6 Jonathan the hie Prieſt with the Elders of the nation, and the Prieſts, and the reſt of the people of the Jewes, ſend greeting vnto the Spartians their brethren.

7 Heretofore were letters ſent vnto Onias the hie Prieſt, from ‖ Arius, which then reigned among you, that you would be our brethren, as the copy here vnder written ſpecifieth. Joſeph. Antiq. 12. cap. 5 ‖Or, Darius.

8 And Onias intreated the Ambaſſadour honourably, and receiued the letters: wherein there was mention made of the bond of loue and friendſhip.

9 But as for vs, we need no ſuch writings: for we haue the holy bookes in our handes for comfort.

10 Neuertheleſſe we thought it good to ſend vnto you, for the renewing of the brotherhood and friendſhip, leaſt we ſhould bee ſtrange vnto you: for it is long ſince the time that ye ſent vnto vs.

11 Wherefore wee remember you at all ſeaſons continually, & in the feaſts and other daies appointed, when we offer ſacrifices & prayers, as it is méete and conuenient to thinke vpon our brethren.

12 And we reioice at your proſperous eſtate.

13 And though we haue bene enuironed with great troubles and warres, ſo that the kings round about vs haue fought againſt vs, 14 Yet would we not be grieuous vnto you, nor to other of our confederates and friends in theſe warres.

15 For we haue had helpe from heauen, that hath ſuccoured vs, and wee are deliuered from our enemies, and our enemies are ſubdued.

16 Yet haue we choſen Numenius the ſonne of Antiochus, and Antipater the ſonne of Jaſon, and ſent them vnto the Romanes, for to renew the former friendſhip with them, and league.

17 Wee commaunded them alſo to goe vnto you, and to ſalute you, and to deliuer you our letters, concerning the renewing of our brotherhood.

18 And

18 And nowe yee shall doe vs a pleasure to giue vs an answere of these things.

19 ¶ And this was the copie of the letters, which Arius the King of Sparta sent vnto Onias.

20 THE KING of the Spartians vnto Onias the hie Priest sendeth greeting.

21 It is founde in writing, that the Spartians and Iewes are brethren, and come out of the generation of Abraham.

22 And nowe for so much as this is come to our knowledge, yee shall doe well to write vnto vs of your prosperitie.

23 As for vs, we haue written vnto you, that your cattell and goods are ours, and ours are yours: these things haue wee commaunded to be shewed vnto you.

24 ¶ Nowe when Ionathan heard that Demetrius Princes were come to fight against him, with a greater hoste then afore, 25 He went from Ierusalem, and met them in the lande of Hamath: for hee gaue them not space to come into his owne countrey.

26 And he sent spies vnto their tents, which came againe, and tolde him, that they were appointed to come vpon him in the night.

27 Wherefore, when the sunne was gone downe, Ionathan commaunded his men to watch, and to bee in armes ready to fight all the night, and set watchmen rounde about the hoste.

28 But when the aduersaries heard that Ionathan was ready with his men to the battell, they feared, and trembled in their heartes, and kindled fires in their tents, and fled away.

29 Neuertheless Ionathan and his companie knewe it not till the morning: for they sawe the fires burning.

30 Then Ionathan followed vpon them, but he could not ouertake them: for they were gone ouer the flood Eleutherus.

31 So Ionathan turned to the Arabians, which were called Zabedei, and slew them, and tooke their spoyle.

32 Hee proceeded further also, and came vnto Damascus, and went thorowe all the countrey.

33 But Simon his brother went forth, and came to Ascalon and to the next holdes, departing vnto Ioppe, and wanne it.

34 For he heard that they would deliuer the holde to them that tooke Demetrius part: wherefore he set a garison there to keepe it.

35 ¶ After this came Ionathan home, and called the Elders of the people together, and deuised with them for to builde vp the strong holdes in Iudea, 36 And to make the walles of Ierusalem hier, and to make a great mount betwixt the castle and the citie, for to separate it from the citie, that it might bee alone, and that men should neither buy, nor sell in it.

37 So they came together to build vp the citie: for part of the wall vpon the brooke of the East side was fallen downe, and they repaired it, and called it Caphenatha.

38 Simon also set vp Adida in Sephela, and made it strong with gates and barres.

Ioseph. Anti. 13. cap. 9.

39 ¶ In the meane time Tryphon purposed to reigne in Asia, and to bee crowned when hee had slaine the King Antiochus.

40 But hee was afraide that Ionathan would not suffer him, but fight against him: wherefore hee went about to take Ionathan, and to kill him: so hee departed and came vnto Bethsan.

41 Then went Ionathan forth against him to the battel with fourty thousand chosen men, and came vnto Bethsan.

42 But when Tryphon saw that Ionathan came with so great an hoste, hee durst not lay hand vpon him, 43 But receiued him honourably, and commended him vnto all his friends, and gaue him rewardes, and commaunded his men of warre to be as obedient vnto him, as to himselfe.

44 And said vnto Ionathan, Why hast thou caused this people to take such trauaile, seeing there is no warre betweene vs?

45 Therefore sende them nowe home againe, and chuse certaine men to waite vpon thee, and come thou with mee to Ptolemais: For I will giue it thee, with the other strong holdes, and the other garisons, and all them that haue the charge of the common affaires: so will I returne, and depart: for this is the cause of my comming.

46 Ionathan beleeued him, and did as hee saide, and sent away his hoste, which went into the land of Iuda, 47 And reteined but three thousande with him, whereof he sent two thousand into Galile, and one thousand went with himselfe.

48 Nowe assoone as Ionathan entred into Ptolemais, they of Ptolemais shut the gates, and tooke him, and slewe all them with the sword, that came in with him.

49 Then sent Tryphon an hoste of footemen and horsemen into Galile, and into the great plaine, to destroy all Ionathans company.

50 But when they knewe that Ionathan was taken, and slaine, and those that were with him, they encouraged one another, and came forth against them ready to the battell.

51 But when they which followed vpon them, saw that it was a matter of life, they turned backe againe.

52 By this meanes all they came into the land of Iuda peaceably, and bewailed Ionathan, and them that were with him, and feared greatly, and all Israel made great lamentation.

53 For all the heathen that were rounde about them, sought to destroy them.

54 For they saide, Nowe haue they no captaine, nor any man to helpe them: therefore let vs now fight against them, and roote out their memorie from among men.

CHAP. XIII.

CHAP. XIII.

1 After Ionathan was taken, Simon is chosen captaine. 17 Tryphon, taking his children and money for the redemption of Ionathan, killeth him and his children. 31 Tryphon killeth Antiochus, and possesseth the Realme. 36 Demetrius taketh truce with Simon. 43 Simon winneth Gaza. 50 He possesseth the tower of Sion. 53 Hee maketh his sonne Iohn captaine.

NOwe when Simon heard that Tryphon gathered a great hoste to come into the land of Iuda, and to destroy it, Ioseph. Anti. 13. cap. 9.

2 And sawe that the people was in great trembling and feare, he came vp to Ierusalem, and gathered the people together,

3 And gaue them exhortation, saying, Yee know knowe what great things I, and my brethren, and my fathers house haue done for the Lawe, and the Sanctuarie, and the battels, and troubles that we haue seene.

4 By reason whereof all my brethren are slaine for Israels sake, and I am left alone.

5 Nowe therefore God forbid, that I should spare mine owne life in any time of trouble: for I am not better then my brethren.

6 But I will auenge my nation, and the Sanctuarie, and our wiues, and our children: for all the heathen are gathered together to destroy vs of very malice.

7 In hearing these words the hearts of the people were kindled,

8 So that they cried with a loud voyce, saying, Thou shalt bee our captaine in stead of Iudas and Jonathan thy brethren.

9 Fight thou our battels, and whatsoeuer thou commandest vs, we will doe it.

10 ¶ So hee gathered all the men of warre, making haste to finish the walles of Jerusalem, and fortified it round about.

11 Then sent hee Jonathan the sonne of Absalomus with a great hoste vnto Joppe, which droue them out that were therein, and remained there himselfe.

12 Tryphon also remooued from Ptolemais with a great armie, to come into the land of Iuda, and Jonathan was with him as prisoner.

‖Or, Addus. 13 And Simon pitched his tents at ‖ Addis vpon the open plaine.

14 But when Tryphon knewe that Simon stood vp in stead of his brother Jonathan, and that hee would fight against him, hee sent messengers vnto him, saying,

15 Whereas wee haue kept Jonathan thy brother, it is for money that he is owing in the kings account concerning the businesse that hee had in hand.

16 Wherefore send now an hundreth talents of siluer, and his two sonnes for hostages, that when he is let from thence, he will not turne from vs, and we will send him againe.

17 Neuertheless Simon knewe that he dissembled in his words, yet commaunded he the money and children to bee deliuered vnto him, least hee should be in greater hatred of the people of Israel:

18 Who might haue saide, Because hee sent him not the money and the children, therefore is Jonathan dead.

19 So hee sent the children and an hundreth talents: but hee dissembled, and would not let Jonathan goe.

20 ¶ Afterward came Tryphon into the land to destroy it, & went round about by the way, that leadeth vnto Adora: but whersoeuer they went, thither went Simon and his hoste.

21 Nowe they that were in the castle, sent messengers vnto Tryphon, that he should make haste to come by the wildernesse, and to sende them vitailes.

22 So Tryphon made ready all his horsemen: but the same night fell a very great snow, so that he came not, because of the snow: but he remooued & went into the countrey of Galaad.

23 And when he came neere to Bascama, he slew Jonathan, and he was buried there.

24 So Tryphon returned, and went into his owne land.

25 ¶ Then sent Simon to take the bones of Jonathan his brother, and they buried him in Modin his fathers citie.

26 And all Israel bewailed him with great lamentation, and mourned for him very long.

27 And Simon made vpon the sepulchre of his father and his brethren, a building high to looke vnto, of hewen stone behinde and before,

28 And set vp seuen pillars vpon it, one against another, for his father, his mother, and foure brethren, 29 And set great pillars round about them, and set armes vpon the pillars for a perpetuall memorie, and carued shippes beside the armes, that they might be seene of men sayling in the Sea.

30 This sepulchre which hee made at Modin, standeth yet vnto this day.

31 ¶ Nowe as Tryphon went fourth with the yong King Antiochus, hee slewe him traiterously, Ioseph. Antiq. 13. cap. 10.

32 And reigned in his steade, and crowned himselfe King of Asia, and brought a great plague vpon the land.

33 Simon also built vp the castles of Judea, and compassed them about with high towres, and great walles, euen with towres, and gates, and barres, and laied vp vitailes in the strong holdes.

34 Moreouer Simon chose certaine men and sent them to King Demetrius, that hee would discharge the lande: for all Tryphons doings were robberies.

35 Whereupon Demetrius the King answered him, and wrote vnto him after this maner.

36 DEMETRIVS the King vnto Simon the hie Priest, and the friende of Kings, and to the Elders, and to the nation of the Jewes sendeth greeting.

37 The golden crowne, and ‖ precious stone that ye sent vnto vs, haue wee receiued, and are ready to make a stedfast peace with you, and to write vnto the officers, to release you of the things wherein we made you free. ‖Or, collar, or baudricke: in Greeke Baienen, or baiein.

38 So the things that we haue granted you, shall be stable: the strong holdes which ye haue builded, shalbe your owne.

39 Also wee forgiue the ouersights, and faults committed vnto this day, & the crowne tare that yee ought vs: and whereas was any other tribute in Jerusalem, it shall bee nowe no tribute.

40 And they that are meete among you to be written with our men, let them bee written vp, that there may be peace betweene vs.

41 Thus the yoke of the heathen was taken from Israel in the hundreth and eleuentie yeere.

42 And the people of Israel began to write in their letters, and publike instruments, IN THE FIRST yeere of Simon, the hie and chiefe Priest, gouernour and prince of the Jewes.

43 In those dayes Simon camped against Gaza, and besieged it rounde about, where hee set vp an engine of warre, and approched neere the citie, and beat a towre, and tooke it.

44 So they that were in the engine, lept into the citie, and there was great trouble in the city,

45 In so much that the people of ꝑ city rent their clothes, and climed vp vpon the walles with with their wiues, and children, and cried with a loude voyce, beseeching Simon to grant them peace, saying, 46 Deale not with vs according to our wickednesse, but according to thy mercy.

47 Then Simon pitied them, & would fight no more against them, but put them out of the citie, and cleansed the houses, wherein the idoles were, & so entred thereunto with Psalmes and thanksgiuing.

48 So when he had cast all the filthines out, he set such men in it as kept the Lawe, and fortified it, and builded there a dwelling place for himselfe.

49 Now, when they in the castle at Ierusalem were kept, that they could not come forth nor goe into the countrey, neither buy nor sell, they were very hungry, & many of them were famished to death,

50 In so much that they besought Simon to make peace with them: which he granted them, and put them out from thence, and cleansed the castle from filthinesse.

51 And vpon þ three and twenty day of the second moneth, in the hundreth seuentie and one yeere, they entered into it with thanksgiuing, & branches of palme trees, and with harpes, and with cymbals, and with violes, & with psalms, and songs, because the great enemie of Israel was ouercome.

52 And he ordeined that the same day should be kept euery yeere with gladnesse.

53 And hee fortified the mount of the Temple that was beside the castle where hee dwelt himselfe with his company.

54 Simon also seeing that John his sonne was now a man, hee made him captaine of all the hostes, and caused him to dwel in ‖Gazaris.

CHAP. XIIII.

1 Demetrius is ouercome of Arsaces. 11 Simon being captaine, there is great quietnesse in Israel. 18 The couenant of friendship with the Romanes, & with the people of Sparta is renued.

IN the hundreth, seuentie and two yere gathered king Demetrius his hoste, and departed vnto Media, to get him helpe to fight against Tryphon.

2 But when Arsaces the king of Persia and Media heard, þ Demetrius was entred within his borders, hee sent one of his princes to take him aliue.

3 So he went & ouercame the armie of Demetrius, and tooke him, & brought him to Arsaces, which kept him in ward.

4 Thus all the land of Iuda was in rest, so long as Simon liued: for he sought the wealth of his nation: therefore were they glad to haue him for their ruler, and to doe him worship alway.

5 Simon also wan the citie of Ioppe to his great honour to be an hauen towne, & made it an entrance vnto the yles of the sea.

6 Yee enlarged also the borders of his people, and conquered the countreys.

7 He gathered vp many of their people that were prisoners, & he had the dominion of Gazaris, and Beth-sura, and the castle, which hee cleansed from filthinesse, and there was no man that resisted him,

8 So that euery man tilled his ground in peace, and the land gaue her fruites, and the trees gaue their fruite.

9 The Elders sate in the open places, and consulted altogether for the common wealth, and the young men were honorably clothed and armed.

10 He prouided victailes for the cities, and all kind of munitiõ, so that his glorious fame was renoumed vnto the end of the world.

11 He made peace throughout the land, and Israel had perfite mirth and ioy.

12 For euery man sate vnder his vine, & the fig trees, and there was no man to fray them.

13 There was none in the land to fight against them: for then the kings were ouercome.

14 He helped all those that were in aduersitie among his people: hee was diligent to see the Law kept, and he tooke away the vngodly, and wicked.

15 He beautified the Sanctuarie, & increased the vessels of the Temple.

16 When the Romanes heard, & the Spartians had knowledge that Ionathan was dead, they were very sory.

17 But when they heard, that Simon his brother was made his Priest in his stead, and how hee had wonne the land agayne with the cities in it, 18 They wrote vnto him in tables of brasse, to renew the friendship & bond of loue, which they had made with Iudas and Ionathan his brethren.

19 Which writings were read before the congregation at Ierusalem, and this is the copy of the letters that the Spartians sent, 20 THE SENATORS and citie of Sparta vnto Simon the great Priest, and to the Elders, and to the Priestes, and to the residue of the people of the Iewes their brethren send greeting.

21 When your ambassadours that were sent vnto our people, certified vs of your glory and honour, we were glad of their comming, 22 And haue registred their ambassage in the publike records in this maner, NVMENIVS the sonne of Antiochus, and Antipater the sonne of Iason the Iewes ambassadours came vnto vs, to renew amitie with vs.

23 And it pleased the people, that the men should bee honourably intreated, and that the copie of their ambassage should bee registred in the publike records, that it might bee for a memoriall vnto the people of Sparta: and a copie of the same was sent to Simon the chiefe Priest.

24 After this, Simon sent Numenius to Rome, with a great shield of gold of a thousand pound weight, to confirme the friendship with them.

25 Which when the people vnderstood, they said, What thanks shall we recompence againe vnto Simon and his children?

26 For he and his brethren, and the house of his father haue stablished Israel, and ouercome their enemies, and haue confirmed the libertie thereof: therefore they wrote this in tables of brasse, and set it vpon pillars in mount Sion.

27 The copie of the writing is this, In the eight and twentie day of the moneth † Elul, in the hundreth seuentie and two yere, in the third yeere of Simon the high Priest, † August.

28 In

28 In ‖ Sarainel in the great congregation of the Priests, and of the people, and of the gouernours of the nation, and of the elders of the countrey, we would signifie vnto you, that many battels haue bene fought in our countrey.

‖Or, Ierusalem.

29 Wherein Simon the sonne of Mattathias (come of the children of Iarib) and his brethren put themselues in danger, and resisted the enemies of their nation, that their Sanctuarie, and Lawe might bee maintained, and did their nation great honour.

30 For Ionathan gathered his nation together, and became their high Priest, and is laied with his people.

31 After that would their enemies haue inuaded their countrey, and destroyed their land, and lay their hands on their Sanctuarie.

32 Then Simon resisted them, and fought for his nation, & spent much of his owne substance, and armed the valiant men of his nation, and gaue them wages.

33 Yea fortified also the cities of Iudea, and Bethsura that lyeth vpon the borders of Iudea (where the ordinance of their enemies lay sometime) and set there a garison of the Iewes.

34 And he fortified Ioppe, which lieth vpon the sea, and ‖ Gazara that bordereth vpon Azotus (where the enemies dwelt afore) and there he placed Iewes, & furnished them with things necessarie for the reparation thereof.

‖Or, Gaza, or Gazara.

35 Now when the people sawe the faithfulnesse of Simon, and to what glory hee thought to bring his nation vnto, they made him their gouernour, and the chiefe Priest because he had done all these things, and for the vprightnesse, and fidelitie that hee had kept to his nation, and that sought by all meanes to exalt his people.

36 For in his time they prospered well by him, so that the heathen were taken out of their countrey, and they also which were in the citie of Dauid at Ierusalem, where they had made them a castle, out of the which they went, and defiled all things that were about the Sanctuarie, and did great hurt vnto religion.

37 And he set Iewes in it, and fortified it, for the assurance of the land, and citie, and raised vp the wals of Ierusalem.

38 And King Demetrius confirmed him in his high Priesthood for these causes, 39 And made him one of his friends, & gaue him great honour.

40 For it was reported that the Romanes called the Iewes their friends & confederates, and that they honourably receiued Simons ambassadours,

41 And that the Iewes and Priests consented that Simon should be their prince, and high Priest perpetually, till God raised vp the true Prophet,

42 And that he should be their captaine, and haue the charge of the Sanctuarie, and so set men ouer the workes, and ouer the countrey, and ouer the weapons, and ouer the fortresses, and that should make prouision for the holy things,

43 And that hee should bee obeyed of euery man, and that all the writings in the countrey should be made in his name, and that he should be clothed in purple, and weare gold,

44 And that it should not be lawfull for any of the people, or Priests to breake any of these things, or to withstand his words, or to cal any congregation in the countrey without him, or be clothed in purple, or weare a collar of gold:

45 And if any did contrary to these things, or brake any of them, he should be punished.

46 So it pleased all the people to agree that it should bee done to Simon according vnto these words.

47 Simon also accepted it, and was content to be the high Priest, and the captaine, and the Prince of the Iewes and of the Priests, and to be the chiefe of all.

48 And they commanded to set vp this writing in tables of brasse, and to fasten it to the wall that compassed the Sanctuarie in an open place, 49 And that a copie of the same should bee laied vp in the treasurie, that Simon and his sonnes might haue it.

CHAP. XV.

1 Antiochus maketh a couenant of friendship with Simon. 11 Tryphon is pursued. 15 The Romanes write letters vnto Kings & nations in the defence of the Iewes. 27 Antiochus refusing the helpe that Simon sent him, breaketh his couenant.

MOreouer King Antiochus the sonne of Demetrius sent letters from the yles of the sea, vnto Simon the Priest, and prince of the Iewes, and to all the nation,

2 Conteining these words, ANTIOCHVS the King vnto Simon the great Priest, and to the nation of the Iewes sendeth greeting.

3 For so much as certaine pestilent men haue vsurped the kingdome of our fathers, I am purposed to chalenge the Realme againe, and to restore it to the old estate: wherefore I haue gathered a great hoste, and prepared shippes of warre,

4 That I may go thorow the countrey, and bee auenged of them, which haue destroyed our countrey, and wasted many cities in the Realme.

5 Now therefore I doe confirme vnto thee all the liberties, whereof all the Kings my progenitours haue discharged thee, and all the paiments, whereof they haue released thee.

6 And I giue thee leaue to coyne money of thine owne stampe within thy countrey,

7 And that Ierusalem and the Sanctuarie be free, and that all the weapons, that thou hast prepared, and the fortresses, which thou hast builded, and keepest in thine handes, shall bee thine.

8 And all that is due vnto the King, and all that shalbe due vnto the King, I forgiue it thee, from this time forth for euermore.

9 And when wee haue obteined our kingdome, we will giue thee and thy nation, and the temple great honour, so that your honour shall be knowen throughout the world.

10 ¶ In the hundreth, seuentie & foure yeere, went Antiochus into his fathers land, and all the bands came together vnto him, so that few were left with Tryphon. Ioseph. Antiq. 13. chap. 11.

11 So the king Antiochus pursued him, but he fled and came to Dora, which lieth by the sea side.

12 For hee sawe that troubles were toward him, him, and that the armie had forsaken him.

13 Then camped Antiochus against Dora with an hundreth & twenty thousand fighting men, and eight thousand horsemen.

14 So he compassed the citie about, and the shippes came by the sea. Thus they pressed the citie by lande, and by sea, in so much that they suffered no man to goe in nor out.

15 In the meane season came Numenius, and his company from Rome, having letters written unto the Kings and countreys, wherein were contained these words, 16 LVCIVS the Consul of Rome unto King Ptolemeus sendeth greeting.

17 The ambassadors of the Iewes are come unto us as our friends and confederates from Simon the hie Priest, and from the people of the Iewes, to renewe friendship, and the bond of loue, 18 Who haue brought a shield of gold weying a thousand pound.

19 Wherefore wee thought it good to write unto the kings and countreys, that they should not goe about to hurt them, nor to fight against them, nor their cities, nor their countrey, neither to maintaine their enemies against them.

20 And wee were content to receiue of them the shielde.

21 If therefore there bee any pestilent fellowes fled from their countrey unto you, deliuer them unto Simon the hie Priest, that hee may punish them according to their owne law.

22 The same things were written to Demetrius the king, and to Attalus, and to Ariathes, and to Arsaces, 23 And to all the countreys, as ‖ Samsames, and to them of Sparta, & to ‖ Delus, & to ‖ Pindus, & to Sycion, & to Caria, & to Samos, and to Pamphylia, and to Lycia, & to Halicarnassus, and to Rhodus, and to Phaselis, and to Cos, and to Siden, and to Coztina, and to Gnidon, and to Cyprus, and to Cyrene.

24 And they sent a copie of them to Simon the hie Priest.

25 ¶ So Antiochus the king camped against Dora the second time euer readie to take it, and made diuers engins of warre, and kept Tryphon in, that he could neither goe in nor out.

26 Then Simon sent him two thousand chosen men to helpe him with siluer and golde, and much furniture.

27 Neuertheless, he would not receiue them, but brake all the couenant, which he had made with him afore, and withdrewe himselfe from him,

28 And sent unto him Athenobius one of his friends, to commune with him, saying, Ye withhold Joppe, & Gazara, with the castle that is at Jerusalem, the citie of my realme, 29 Whose borders ye haue destroyed & done great hurt in the lande, and haue the gouernement of many places of my kingdome.

30 Wherefore nowe deliuer the cities, which ye haue taken, with the tributes of the places, that pee haue rule ouer without the borders of Judea, 31 Or els giue me for them fiue hundreth talents of siluer, and for the harme that pee haue done, and for the tributes of the places other fiue hundreth talents: if not, we will come, and fight against you.

32 So Athenobius the kings friend came to Jerusalem, and when hee sawe the honour of Simon, and the cupboorde of golde and siluer plate, and so great preparation, he was astonished, and told him the kings message.

33 Then answered Simon, and saide unto him, Wee haue neither taken other mens lands, nor withholden that which appertaineth to others: but our fathers heritage, which our enemies had unrighteously in possession a certaine time.

34 But when we had occasion, we recouered the inheritance of our fathers.

35 And whereas thou ‖ requirest Joppe and Gazara, they did great harme to our people, and thorowe our countrey, yet will we giue an hundreth talents for them. But Athenobius answered him not one word, 36 But turned againe angry unto the king, and tolde him all these wordes, and the dignitie of Simon, with all that hee had seene: and the king was very angry.

37 ¶ In the meane time fledde Tryphon by ship unto Dithosias.

38 Then the king made Cendebeus captaine of the sea coast, and gaue him bands of footemen and horsemen, 39 And commanded him to remoue the hoste toward Judea, and to builde up Cedron, and to fortifie the gates, and to warre against the people: but the king pursued Tryphon.

40 So Cendebeus came unto Jamnia, and began to vexe the people, and to inuade Judea, and to take the people prisoners, & to slay them.

41 And hee built up Cedron, where hee set horsemen and garisons, that they might make outrodes by the wayes of Judea, as the king had commaunded him.

CHAP. XVI.

1 Cendebeus the captaine of Antiochus hoste is put to flight by the sonnes of Simon. 11 Ptolemeus the sonne of Abubus killeth Simon and his two sonnes at a banket. 23 Iohn killeth them that lie in waite for his life.

THen came John up from Gazara, and tolde Simon his father, what Cendebeus had done.

2 So Simon called two of his eldest sonnes, Judas and John, and saide unto them, I, my brethren, and my fathers house, haue euer from our youth unto this day fought against the enemies of Israel, and the matters haue had good successe under our hands, and wee haue deliuered Israel oftentimes.

3 But I am nowe olde, and ye by Gods mercie are of a sufficient age: be ye therefore in stead of me, and my brother, & go foorth and fight for our nation, & the helpe of heauen be with you.

4 So hee chose twentie thousand fighting men of the countrey with the horsemen, which went foorth against Cendebeus, and rested at Modin.

5 In the morning they arose, and went into the plaine field: and behold, a mighty great hoste came against them both of footemen, and horsemen: but there was a riuer betwixt them.

6 And John ranged his armie ouer against him, and when hee sawe that the people was afraide to goe ouer the riuer, hee went ouer first himselfe, & the men seeing him, passed through after him.

7 Then hee deuided his men, & set the horsemen in the midst of the footemen.

8 For mine enemies horsemen were very many: but when they blewe the trumpets, Cendebeus fled with his hoste, whereof many were slaine, and the remnant gate them to the fortresse.

9 Then was Judas Johns brother wounded: but John followed after them, till he came to Cedron, which Cendebeus had built.

10 Also they fled unto the towres, that were in the fieldes of Azotus, & those did Ionn burne with fire: thus were there slaine two thousand men of them, so he returned peaceably into the land of Juda.

11 ¶ Now in the fielde of Jericho was Ptolemeus the sonne of Abubus made captaine, and he had abundance of silver and gold.

12 (For he had married the daughter of the hie Priest)

13 Therefore he wared proude in his minde, and thought to rule the land, & thought to slay Simon and his sonnes by deceit.

14 Now as Simon went about through the cities of the countrey, and studied carefully for them, he came downe to Jericho with Mattathias, and Judas his sonnes in the hundreth, seuentie and seuen yere, in the eleuenth moneth, which is the moneth Sabat.

15 Then the sonne of Abubus receiued them by treason into a litle holde, called Dochus, which he had built, where he made them a great banket, and hid men there.

16 So when Simon & his sonnes had made good cheere, Ptolemeus stoode up with his men, and tooke their weapons, and entred in to Simon in the banket house, and slew him with his two sonnes and certaine of his seruants.

17 Whereby he committed a great villeine, and recompensed euill for good.

18 Then wrote Ptolemeus these things and sent to the King, that he might send him an host to helpe him, & so would deliuer him the countrey with the cities.

19 He sent other men also unto Gazara, to take John, and sent letters unto the captaines to come to him, and he would giue them siluer, and golde, and rewardes.

20 And to Jerusalem, he sent other to take it, and the mountaine of the Temple.

21 But one ranne before, and tolde John in Gazara, that his father, and his brethren were slaine, and that Ptolemeus had sent to slay him.

22 When he heard this, he was sore astonished, and laide handes of them that were come to slay him, and slewe them: for he knewe that they went about to kill him.

23 Concerning other things of John, both of his warres, and of his noble actes (wherein he behaued himselfe manfully) of the building of walles which he made, and other of his deedes, 24 Beholde, they are written in the Chronicles of the Priesthood, from the time, that he was made high Priest after his father.

The second booke of the Maccabees.

CHAP. I.

1 An Epistle of the Iewes that dwelt at Ierusalem, sent vnto them that dwelt in Egypt, wherein they exhort them to giue thankes for the death of Antiochus. 19 Of the fire that was hid in the pit. 24 The prayer of Neemias.

THe brethren the Iewes, which be at Jerusalem, and they that are in the countrey of Judea, unto the brethren the Iewes that are throughout Egypt, send salutation, & prosperitie.

2 God be gracious unto you and remember his couenant made with Abraham, and Isaac, & Jacob his faithfull seruants,

3 And giue you all an heart, to worship him, and to doe his will with a whole heart & with a willing minde,

4 And open your hearts in his Lawe, and commandements, and send you peace,

5 And heare your prayers, & be reconciled vnto you, and neuer forsake you in time of trouble.

6 Thus nowe we pray here for you.

7 When Demetrius reigned, in the hundreth, threescore and ninth yeere, we Iewes wrote unto you in the trouble, and violence that came unto us in those yeeres, after that Jason, and his company departed out of the holy land and kingdome,

8 And burnt the porch, and shed innocent blood. Then we prayed unto the Lord, and were heard: we offered sacrifices and fine floure, and lighted the lampes, and set foorth the bread.

9 Nowe therefore keepe ye the dayes of the feast of the tabernacles in the moneth Chasleu.

10 ¶ In the hundreth, fourescore and eight yere, the people that was at Jerusalem, and in Judea, and the counsell, and Judas, unto Aristobulus king Ptolemeus master, which is of the stocke of the anoynted Priestes, and to the Iewes that are in Egypt, sendeth greeting and health.

11 Insomuch as God hath deliuered vs from great perils, we thanke him highly, as though we had ouercome the king.

12 For he brought them into Persia by heapes, that fought against the holy citie.

13 For albeit the captaine & the army, that was with him, seemed inuincible, yet they were slaine in the Temple of Nanea, by the deceite of Nanea Priests.

14 For Antiochus, as though he would dwel with her, came thither, he, and his friends with him, to receiue money vnder the title of a dowrie.

15 But when the Priests of Nanea had laid it foorth, and he was entred with a small company within the Temple, they shut the Temple, when Antiochus was come in,

16 And by opening a priuie doore of the vaut, they cast stones, as it were thunder, upon the captaine and his, and hauing bruised them in pieces, they cut off their heads and threw them to those that were without.

17 God be blessed in all things, which hath deliuered up the wicked.

18 Whereas we are nowe purposed to keepe the the purification of the Temple vpon the fine & twentie day of the moneth Chasleu, we thought it necessarie to certifie you thereof, that yee also might keepe the feast of the Tabernacles, and of the fire which was giuen vs when Neemias offered sacrifice, after that he had built the Temple, and the altar.

19 For when as our fathers were led away vnto Persia, the Priests, which sought the honour of God, tooke the *fire of the altar priuily, and hid it in an hollow pitte, which was drie in the bottome, and therein they kept it, so that the place was vnknowen vnto euery man.

Leuit.6.13. and 10.2. and 16.12.

20 Nowe after many yeeres when it pleased God that Neemias should be sent from the king of Persia, he sent of the posteritie of those Priestes, which had hid it, to fetch the fire, and as they tolde vs, they found no fire, but thicke water.

21 Then commaunded hee them to drawe it vp, and to bring it: and when the things appertaining to the sacrifices were brought, Neemias commaunded the Priestes to sprinkle the wood, and the things layde thereupon with water.

22 When this was done, and the time came that the Sunne shone, which afore was hid in the cloud, there was a great fire kindled, so that euery man marueiled.

23 Now the Priestes, and all prayed, while the sacrifice was consuming: Jonothan began, and the other answered thereunto.

24 And the prayer of Neemias was after this maner, O Lorde, Lorde God maker of all things, which art fearefull and strong, and righteous, and mercifull, and the onely and gracious king,

25 Onely liberall, onely iust and almightie and euerlasting, thou that deliuerest Israel from all trouble, and hast chosen the fathers, and sanctified them, 26 Receiue the sacrifice for thy whole people of Israel, and preserue thine owne portion, and sanctifie it.

27 Gather those together, that are scattered from vs: deliuer them that serue among the heathen: looke vpon them that are despised, and abhorred, that the heathen may knowe that thou art our God.

28 Punish them that oppresse vs, and with pride doe vs wrong.

29 Plant thy people againe in thine holy place, * as Moyses hath spoken.

Deut.30.3.

30 And the Priests sang psalmes thereunto.

31 Now when the sacrifice was consumed, Neemias commaunded the great stones to bee sprinkled with the residue of the water.

32 Which when it was done, there was kindled a flame, which was consumed by the light, that shined from the altar.

33 ¶ So when this matter was knowen, it was tolde the king of Persia, that in the place where the Priestes, which were led away, had hid fire, there appeared water, wherewith Neemias and his company had purified the sacrifices.

34 The king tried out the thing, and closed the place about, and made it holy.

35 And to them that the king fauoured, hee gaue and bestowed many gifts.

36 And Neemias called þ same place [a]Ephthar, which is to say, purification: but many men call it Nephthar.

[a] That is to say, a shining, it is also called Nephi, or Nephthar, which is a clensing.

CHAP. II.

4 How Ieremie hid the Tabernacle, the Arke and the Altar in the hill. 23 Of the fiue bookes of Iason conteined in one.

IT is founde also in the writings of Jeremias the Prophet, that he commaunded thē, which were caried away, to take fire, as was declared, and as the Prophet commaunded them that were led into captiuitie,

2 * Giuing them a law, that they should not forget the commaundements of the Lorde, and that they should not erre in their mindes, when they saw images of golde and siluer, with their ornaments. Baruch.6.

3 These and such other things commaunded hee them, and exhorted them that they should not let the Law go out of their hearts.

4 It is written also, howe the Prophet, by an oracle that hee had, charged them to take the Tabernacle and the Arke, and follow him: and when hee came vp into the mountaine where Moyses went vp, * and sawe the heritage of God, Deut.34.1.

5 Jeremias went foorth, and found an hollowe caue, wherein he laide the Tabernacle, and the Arke, and the Altar of incense, and so stopped the doore.

6 And there came certeine of those that followed him, to marke the place: but they could not finde it.

7 Which when Jeremias perceiued, hee reprooued them, saying, As for that place, it shall be vnknowen, vntill the time that God gather his people together againe, and that mercie be shewed.

8 Then shall þ Lord shew them these things, and the maiestie of the Lorde shall appeare and the cloude also, as it was shewed vnder Moyses, and as * when Salomon desired, that the place might be honourably sanctified. 1.King.8. 14,23,30.

9 For it is manifest that hee, being a wise man, offered the * sacrifice of dedication, and consecration of the Temple. 2.chro.6.23. 1.Kin.8.62. 65.2.chron. 7.4.5.

10 * And as when Moyses prayed vnto the Lord, the fire came downe from heauen, & consumed the sacrifice: so when Salomon prayed, * the fire came downe from heauen, and consumed the burnt offering. Leuit.9.24. and 10.16. 2.Chro.7.1.

11 And Moyses said, Because the same offering was not eaten, therefore is it consumed.

12 So Salomon kept those eight dayes.

13 These things also are declared in the writings and registers of ‖ Neemias, and how hee made a librarie, and how hee gathered the actes of the Kings, and of the Prophets, & the actes of Dauid, and the epistles of the Kings concerning the holy gifts. ‖ Some reade Ieremie.

14 Euen so Judas also gathered all things that came to passe by the warres that were among vs, which things we haue.

15 Wherefore if ye haue neede thereof, send some to fetch them vnto you.

16 Whereas wee then are about to celebrate the purification, we haue written vnto you, and ye shall do well, if ye keepe the same dayes.

17 We hope also that the God, which deliuered all his people, and gaue an heritage to them all and the kingdome, and the Priesthood, and the Sanctuarie,

Deut. 30. 5. 18 * As he promised in the Lawe, will shortly haue mercie vpon vs, and gather vs together from vnder the heauen into his holy place: for hee hath saued vs from great perils, and hath cleansed the place.

19 As concerning Iudas Maccabeus and his brethren, the purification of the great Temple, and the dedication of the altar,

20 And the warres against Antiochus Epiphanes, and Eupator his sonne,

21 And the manifest signes that came from heauen vnto those, which manfully stoode for the Iewes religion: (for though they were but few, yet they ran ouer whole countreys, and pursued the barbarous armies, 22 And repaired the Temple that was renowmed throughout all the worlde, and deliuered the citie, and established the Lawes, that were like to be abolished, because the Lord was mercifull vnto them with all lenitie)

23 Wee will assay to abridge in one volume those things that Iason the Cyrenian hath declared in fiue bookes.

24 For considering the wonderfull number, and the difficultie that they haue that would be occupied in the rehearsall of stories, because of the diuersitie of the matters,

25 Wee haue endeuoured, that they that would reade, might haue pleasure, and that they which are studious, might easily keepe them in memory, and that whosoeuer reade them, might haue profite.

26 Therefore to vs that haue taken in hand this great labour, it was no easie thing to make this abridgement, but required both sweat, and watching.

27 Like as he that maketh a feast, and seeketh other mens commoditie, hath no small labour: so wee also for many mens sakes are very well content to vndertake this great labour.

28 Leauing to the authour the exact diligence of euery particular, wee will labour to goe forward according to the prescript order of an abridgement.

29 For as hee that will builde a newe house, must prouide for the whole building, but he that setteth out the platte or goeth about to paint it, seeketh but onely what is comely for the decking thereof:

30 Euen so I thinke for vs, that it appertaineth to the first writer of a storie to enter deepely into it, and to make mention of all things, and to be curious in euery part.

31 But it is permitted to him that will shorten it, to vse fewe wordes, and to auoide those things that are curious therein.

32 Here then will we beginne the storie, adding thus much to our former wordes, that it is but a foolish thing to abound in wordes before the storie, and to be short in the storie.

CHAP. III.

1 Of the honour done to the Temple by the Kings of the Gentiles. 6 Simon vttereth what treasure is in the Temple. 7 Heliodorus is sent to take them away. 26 He is stricken of God, and healed at the prayer of Onias.

WHat time as the holy citie was inhabited with all peace, and when the lawes were very well kept, because of the godlines of Onias the hie Priest, and hatred of wickednesse,

2 It came to passe that euen the Kinges did honour the place, and garnished the Temple with great gifts,

3 In so much that Seleucus King of Asia of his owne rents, bare all the costes belonging to the seruice of the sacrifices.

4 But one Simon of the tribe of Beniamin being appointed ruler of the Temple, contended with the high Priest concerning ‖ the iniquitie committed in the citie.

‖ Or, the state & prouision.

5 And when he could not ouercome Onias, he gate him to Apollonius the sonne of Thraseas, which then was gouernour of Coelosyria, and Phenice,

6 And tolde him that the treasurie in Ierusalem was full of immeasurable money, which did not belong to the prouision of the sacrifices, and that it were possible that these things might come into the kings hands.

7 Now when Apollonius came to the king, and had shewed him of the money, as it was tolde him, the King chose out Heliodorus his treasurer, and sent him with a commandement, to bring him the foresaid money.

8 Immediatly Heliodorus tooke his iourney as though he would visit the cities of Coelosyria and Phenice, but in effect to fulfill the kings purpose.

9 So when he came to Ierusalem, and was courteously receiued of the high Priest into the citie, hee declared what was determined concerning the money, and shewed the cause of his comming, and asked if these things were so in deed.

10 Then the hie Priest tolde him that there were such things layde vp by the widowes and fatherlesse,

11 And that a certeine of it belonged vnto Hircanus the sonne of Tobias a noble man, and not as that wicked Simon had reported, and that in all, there were but foure hundred talents of siluer, and two hundred of golde, 12 And that it were altogether vnpossible to doe this wrong to them that had committed it of trust to the holines of the place and Temple, which is honoured throughout the whole world for holinesse and integritie.

13 But Heliodorus because of þ kings commandement giuen him, saide that in any wise it must be brought into the kings treasurie.

14 So hee appointed a day, and went in to take order for these thinges: then there was no small griefe throughout the whole citie.

15 For the Priests fell downe before the altar in the Priests garments, and called vnto heauen vpon him which had made a Law concerning things giuen to be kept, that they should be safely preserued for such as had committed them to be kept.

16 Then they that looked the hie Priest in the face, were wounded in their heart: for his countenance, and the changing of his colour declared the sorrow of his minde.

17 The man was so wrapped in feare and trembling of the body, that it was manifest to them that looked vpon him, what sorrowe hee had in his heart.

18 Others also came out of their houses by heapes vnto the common prayer, because the place was like to come vnto contempt.

19 And

19 And the women, girt with sackcloth under their breasts, filled the streetes, and the virgins that were kept in, ranne some to the gates, and some to the walles, and others looked out of the windowes.

20 And all held up their handes towarde heauen, and made prayer.

21 It was a lamentable thing to see the multitude, that fell downe of all sortes, and the expectation of the hie Priest being in such anguish.

22 Therefore they called upon the Almightie Lorde, that hee would keepe safe and sure the things, which were laide up for those that had deliuered them.

23 Neuertheless, the thing that Heliodorus was determined to doe, that did he perfourme.

24 And as hee and his souldiers were nowe there present by the treasurie, he that is the Lord of the spirits, and of all power, shewed a great vision, so that all they which presumed to come with him, were astonished at the power of God, and fell into feare and trembling.

25 For there appeared unto them an horse with a terrible man sitting upon him, most richly barbed, and hee ranne fiercely and smote at Heliodorus with his forefeete, and it seemed that he that sate upon the horse, had harneste of golde.

26 Moreouer, there appeared two young men, notable in strength, excellent in beauty, and comely in apparell, which stoode by him on either side, & scourged him continually, and gaue him many sore stripes.

27 And Heliodorus fell suddenly unto the ground, and was couered with great darknesse: but they that were with him, tooke him up, and put him in a litter.

28 Thus hee that came with so great compasse, and many souldiers into the saide treasurie, was borne out: for he coulde not helpe himselfe with his weapons.

29 So they did know the power of God manifestly, but hee was dumme by the power of God, and lay destitute of all hope and health.

30 And they praysed the Lorde that had honoured his owne place: for the Temple which a litle afore was full of feare and trouble, when the Almightie Lord appeared, was filled with ioy and gladnesse.

31 Then straightwayes certaine of Heliodorus friends prayed Onias, that hee would call upon the most High to graunt him his life, which lay ready to giue up the ghost.

32 So the high Priest, considering that the King might suspect that the Jewes had done Heliodorus some [a] euill, he offered a sacrifice for the health of the man.

33 Nowe when the hie Priest had made his prayer, the same young men in the same clothing appeared, and stoode beside Heliodorus, saying, Giue Onias the hie Priest great thanks: for, for his sake hath the Lord graunted thee thy life:

34 And seeing that thou hast beene scourged from heauen, declare unto all men the mightie power of God: and when they had spoken these wordes, they appeared no more.

35 So Heliodorus offered unto the Lorde sacrifice, and made great vowes unto him which had graunted him his life, & thanked Onias, and went againe with his hoste to the king.

36 Then testified hee unto euery man of the great workes of God that hee had seene with his eyes.

37 And when the King asked Heliodorus, who were meete to be sent yet once againe to Jerusalem, he said, 38 If thou hast any enemie or traitour, send him thither, and thou shalt receiue him well scourged, if hee escape with his life: for in that place, no doubt, there is a speciall power of God.

39 For he that dwelleth in heauen, hath his eye on that place, and defendeth it, and he beateth and destroyeth them that come to hurt it.

40 This came to passe concerning Heliodorus, and the keeping of the treasurie.

CHAP. IIII.

1 Simon reporteth euill of Onias. 7 Jason obteineth the office of the hie Priest by corrupting the king, 27 And was by Menel us defrauded by like bribing. 34 Onias is slaine traiterously by Andronicus.

THis Simon nowe, of whom wee spake afore, being a bewraper of the money, and of his owne naturall countrey, reported euill of Onias, as though hee had moued Heliodorus unto this, and had beene the inuenter of the euill.

2 Thus was he bolde to call him a traitour that was so beneficiall to the citie, & a defender of his nation, and so zealous of the lawes.

3 But when his malice encreased so farre, that through one that belonged to Simon, murders were committed,

4 Onias considering the danger of this contention, and that Apollonius, as hee that was the gouernour of Coelosyria, and Phenice, did rage, and increased Simons malice,

5 He went to the king not as an accuser of the citizens, but as one that intended the common wealth both priuately and publikely.

6 For he sawe it was not possible, except the king tooke order, to quiet the matters, and that Simon would not leaue off his folly.

7 But after the death of Seleucus, when Antiochus called Epiphanes, tooke the kingdome, Jason the brother of Onias laboured by unlawfull meanes to be hie Priest.

8 For he came unto the King, and promised him three hundreth and threescore talents of siluer, and of another rent fourescore talents.

9 Besides this he promised him an hundred and fiftie, if hee might haue licence to set up a place for exercise, and a place for the youth, and that they would ‖ name them of Jerusalem Antiochians.

10 The which thing when the King had graunted, and he had gotten the superiority, he began immediatly to drawe his kinsmen to the customes of the Gentiles,

11 And abolished the friendly priuiledges of the kings, that the Jewes had set up by John the father of Eupolemus, which was sent ambassadour unto Rome, to become friendes and confederates: hee put downe their lawes and policies, and brought up newe statutes, and contrary to the lawe.

12 For he presumed to builde a place of exercise under the castle, & brought the chiefe young men under his subiection, and made them weare ‖ hattes.

[a] In working some trecherie or sorcerie against him,

‖ Or, that he would write the Antiochians that were at Ierusalem, among them.

‖ Or, huskins in token of wantonnesse as the Gentiles did.

13 So there began a great desire to followe the maners of the Gentiles, and they tooke vp the fashions of strange nations by the exceeding wickednesse of Jason, not the hie Priest, but the vngodly person, 14 So that the Priestes were nowe no more diligent about the seruice of the altar, but despised the Temple, and regarded not the sacrifices, but made haste to be partakers of the wicked expenses at the play a After the casting of the stone.

a This game was to trie strength by casting a stone that had an hole in the mids, or a piece of metall.

15 For they did not set by the honour of their fathers, but liked the glory of the Gentiles best of all.

16 By reason whereof great calamitie came vpon them: for they had them to be their enemies and punishers, whose custome they followed so earnestly, and desired to be like them in all things.

17 For it is not a light thing to transgresse against the Lawes of God, but the time following shall declare these things.

18 ¶ Nowe when the ‖ games that were vsed euery fift peere, were played at Tyrus, the King being present,

‖ Or, Olympian sportes, which were games kept euery fift peere,

19 This wicked Jason sent from Jerusalem men to looke vpon them, as though they had bene Antiochians, which brought three hundreth drachmes of siluer for a sacrifice to Hercules: albeit they that caried them, desired they might not be bestowed on the sacrifice (because it was not comely) but to be bestowed for other expenses.

20 So hee that sent them, sent them for the sacrifice of Hercules: but because of those that brought them, they were giuen to the making of gallies.

21 ¶ Now Apollonius the sonne of Menesthens was sent into Egypt because of the coronation of King Ptolemeus Philometor: but when Antiochus perceiued that he was euil affectioned towarde his affaires, hee sought his owne assurance, and departed from thence to Joppe, and so came to Jerusalem, 22 Where hee was honourably receiued of Jason, and of the city, and was brought in with torchlight, and with great shoutings, and so he went with his hoste vnto Phenice.

23 Three peere afterward Jason sent Menelaus, the foresaid Simons brother, to beare the money vnto the King, and to bring to passe certaine necessary affaires, whereof hee had giuen him a memoriall.

24 But hee, being commended to the King, magnified him for the appearance of his power, and turned the Priesthood vnto himselfe: for he gaue three hundreth talents of siluer more then Jason.

25 So hee gate the Kings ‖ letters patents, albeit he had nothing in himselfe worthie of the hie Priesthood, but bare the stomake of a cruell tyrant, and the wrath of a wilde beast.

‖ Or, commandements.

26 Then Jason which had deceiued his owne brother, being deceiued by another, was compelled to flee into the countrey of the Ammonites.

27 So Menelaus gate the dominion: but as for the money that hee had promised vnto the king, hee tooke none order for it, albeit Sostratus the ruler of the castle required it.

28 For vnto him appertained the gathering of the customes: wherefore they were both called before the King.

29 Nowe Menelaus left his brother Lysimachus in his stead in the Priesthood, and Sostratus left Crates which was gouernour of the b Cyprians.

b That is, of them that meafured the come.

30 ¶ Whiles these things were in doing, the Tharsians and they of Mallot made insurrection, because they were giuen to the Kings concubine called Antiochis.

31 Then came the king in all haste, to appease the businesse, leauing Andronicus a man of authority to be his lieutenant.

32 Nowe Menelaus, supposing that hee had gotten a conuenient time, stole certaine vessels of golde out of the Temple, and gaue certaine of them to Andronicus: and some he solde at Tyrus and in the cities thereby.

33 Which when Onias knew of a suretie, he reproued him, and withdrewe himselfe into a Sanctuarie at Daphne by Antiochia.

34 Wherefore Menelaus, taking Andronicus apart, prayed him to slay Onias: so when he came to Onias, hee counselled him craftily, giuing him his right hande with an othe: (howbeit he suspect him, and perswaded him to come out of the Sanctuarie) so he slewe him incontinently without any regarde of righteousnesse.

35 For the which cause not only the Jewes, but many other nations also were grieued, and tooke it heauily for the vnrighteous death of this man.

36 ¶ And when the King was come againe from the places about Cilicia, the Jewes that were in the citie, and certaine of the Greekes that abhorred the fact also, complained because Onias was slaine without cause.

37 Therefore Antiochus was sorie in his minde, and hee had compassion, and wept because of the modestie and great discretion of him that was dead.

38 Wherefore being kindled with anger, hee tooke away Andronicus garment of purple, and rent his clothes, and commaunded him to be led through the citie, and in the same place where hee had committed the wickednesse against Onias, hee was slaine as a murtherer. Thus the Lord rewarded him his punishment, as he had deserued.

39 ¶ Now when Lysimachus had done many wicked deedes in the city through the counsell of Menelaus, and the bruite was spred abroade, the multitude gathered them together against Lysimachus: for he had caried out now much vessell of gold.

40 And when the people arose, and were full of anger, Lysimachus armed about three thousand, and began to vse vnlawfull power, a certaine tyrant being their captaine, who was no lesse decaied in wit then in age.

41 But when they vnderstood the purpose of Lysimachus, some gate stones, some great clubs, and some cast handfuls of dust which lay by, vpon Lysimachus men, and those that inuaded them.

42 Whereby many of them were wounded, some were slaine, and all the other chased away: but the wicked Churchrobber himselfe, they killed beside the treasurie.

34 For these causes an accusation was laide against againſt Menelaus.

44 And when the king came to Tyrus, three men ſent from the Senate pleaded the cauſe before him.

45 But Menelaus being nowe convinced, promiſed to Ptolemeus the ſonne of Dorimenes much money, if hee woulde perſwade the king.

46 So Ptolemeus went to the king into a court, where as hee was to coole himſelfe, and turned the kings minde.

47 In ſo much that he diſcharged Menelaus from the accuſations (notwithſtanding he was the cauſe of all miſchiefe) and condemned thoſe poore men to death, which if they had tolde their cauſe, yea, before the Scythians, they ſhoulde haue bene heard as innocent.

48 Thus were they ſoone punniſhed vniuſtly, which followed vpon the matter for the citie, and for the people, and for the holy veſſels.

49 Wherefore they of Tyrus hated that wickedneſſe, and miniſtred all things liberally for their buriall.

50 And ſo through the couetouſneſſe of them that were in power, Menelaus remained in authoritie, increaſing in malice, and declared himſelfe a great traitor to the citizens.

CHAP. V.

1 Of the ſignes and tokens ſeene in Ieruſalem. 6 Of the end and wickedneſſe of Iaſon. 11 The purſuite of Antiochus againſt the Iewes. 15 The ſpoyling of the Temple. 27 Maccabeus fleeth into the wilderneſſe.

ABout the ſame time Antiochus vndertooke his ſecond voyage into Egypt.

2 And then were there ſeene throughout all the citie of Ieruſalem fourtie dayes long, horſemen running in the ayre, with robes of golde, and as bands of ſpeare men.

3 And as troupes of horſemen ſet in arap, incountering and courſing one againſt another with ſhaking of ſhields and multitude of darts, and drawing of ſwordes, and ſhooting of arrowes, and the glittering of the golden armour ſeene, and harneſſe of all ſorts.

4 Therefore euery man praied, that thoſe tokens might turne to good.

5 Nowe when there was gone forth a falſe rumour, as though Antiochus had bene dead, Iaſon tooke at the leaſt a thouſand men, and came ſuddenly vpon the citie, & they that were vpon the walles, being put backe, and the citie at length taken,

6 Menelaus fled into the caſtle, but Iaſon ſlew his owne citizens without mercy, not conſidering, that to haue the aduantage againſt his kinſmen is greateſt diſaduantage, but thought that hee had gotten the victorie of his enemies, and not of his owne nation.

7 Yet he gate not the ſuperioritie, but at the laſt receiued ſhame for the reward of his treaſon, and went againe like a vagabond into the countrey of the Ammonites.

8 Finally hee had this ende of his wicked conuerſation, that hee was ‖accuſed before Areta the king of the Arabians, & fled from citie to citie, being purſued of euery man, and hated as a forſaker of the lawes, and was in abomination, as an enemie of his countrey and citizens, and was driuen into Egypt.

‖Or, ſhut vp.

9 Thus hee that had chaſed many out of their owne countrey, periſhed as a baniſhed man, after that he was gone to the Lacedemonians, thinking there to haue gotten ſuccour by reaſon of kinred.

10 And hee that had caſt many out vnburied, was thrown out himſelfe, no man mourning for him, nor putting him in his graue: neither was hee partaker of his fathers ſepulchre.

11 ¶ Nowe when theſe things that were done, were declared to the king, he thought that Iudea would haue fallen from him: wherefore he came with a furious minde out of Egypt, and tooke the city by violence.

12 Hee commaunded his men of warre alſo, that they ſhould kill and not ſpare ſuch as they met, and to ſlay ſuch as went into their houſes.

13 Thus was there a ſlaughter of young men, and olde men, and a deſtruction of men and women and children, and virgins & infants were murthered:

14 So that within three dayes were ſlaine foureſcore thouſand, and fortie thouſand taken priſoners, and there were as many ſolde as were ſlaine.

15 Yet was hee not content with this, but durſt goe into the moſt holy temple of all the world, hauing Menelaus that traitour to the lawes, & to his owne countrey, to be his guide,

16 And with his wicked hands tooke the holy veſſels, which other kings had giuen for the garniſhing, glory, and honour of that place, and handled them with his wicked hands.

17 So hautie in his minde was Antiochus, that he conſidered not, that God was not a little wroth for the ſinnes of them that dwelt in the citie, for the which ſuch contempt came vpon that place.

18 For if they had not bene wrapped in many ſinnes, he, aſſoone as he had come, had ſuddenly beene puniſhed, and put backe from his preſumption, as Heliodorus was, whom Seleucus the king ſent to view the treaſurie.

19 But God hath not choſen the nation for the places ſake, but the place for the nations ſake.

20 And therefore is the place become partaker of the peoples trouble, but afterward ſhall it be partaker of the benefits of the Lord, and as it is now forſaken in the wrath of the Almightie, ſo when the great Lorde ſhall be reconciled, it ſhalbe ſet vp in great worſhip againe.

21 ¶ So when Antiochus had taken eighteene hundred talents out of the Temple, hee gate him to Antiochia in all haſte, thinking in his pride to make men ſaile vpon the drie land, and to walke vpon the ſea: ſuch an high minde had he.

22 But hee left deputies to vexe the people: at Ieruſalem Philip a Phrygian by birth, in maners more cruell then he that ſet him there:

23 And at Garizim Andronicus, and with them Menelaus, which was more grieuous to the citizens then the other, and was deſpiteful againſt the Iewes his citizens.

24 Hee ſent alſo Apollonius a cruell prince, with an armie of two and twentie thouſand, whom hee commaunded to ſlay thoſe that were toward mans age, and to ſell the women, and the ponger ſort.

25 So when he came to Ieruſalem, he fained peace, and kept him still until the holy day of Sabbath: and then finding the Iewes keeping the feast, he commaunded his men to take their weapons.

26 And so hee slewe all them that were gone forth to the shewe, and running thorow the citie with his men armed, hee murthered a great number.

27 But Iudas Maccabeus, being as it were the tenth, fled into the wildernes, & lived there in the mountaines with his company among the beastes, dwelling there, and eating grasse, lest they should be partakers of the filthymesse.

CHAP. VI.

1 The Iewes are compelled to leaue the lawe of God. 4 The Temple is defiled. 10 The women cruelly punished. 28 The grieuous paine of Eleazarus.

NOt long after this, sent the King an olde man of ‖ Athens, for to compell the Iewes to transgresse the lawes of the fathers, and not to be governed by the Law of God,

‖ Or, Antiochia,

2 And to defile the Temple that was at Ierusalem, and to call it the Temple of Iupiter Olympius, and that of Garizim, according as they did that dwelt at that place, Iupiter that keepeth hospitalitie.

3 This wicked gouernement was sore and grieuous vnto the people.

4 For the Temple was full of dissolution, and gluttonie of the Gentiles, which dalied with harlots, & had to do with women within the circuite of the holy places, and brought in such things as were not lawfull.

5 The altar also was full of such things, as were abominable and forbidden by the Law.

6 Neither was it lawfull to keepe the Sabbaths, nor to obserue their auncient feastes, nor plainly to confesse himselfe to be a Iew.

7 In the day of the kings birth they were grieuously compelled perforce euery moneth to banket, and when the feast of Bacchus was kept, they were constremed to goe in the procession of Bacchus with garlands of Iuie.

8 Moreouer there went out a commaundement vnto the next cities of the heathen against the Iewes, that the like customs, and ‖ banketting should be kept.

‖ Or eating of the flesh that was sacrificed.

9 And who so would not conforme themselues to the maners of the Gentiles, should be put to death: then might a man haue seene the present miserie.

10 For there were two women brought forth, that had circumcised their sonnes, whom when they had led round about the citie (the babes hanging at their breasts) they cast them downe headlong ouer the walles.

11 Some that were runne together into dennes to keepe the Sabbath day secretly, were discouered vnto Philip, and were burnt together, because that for the reuerence of the honourable day they were afraid to helpe themselues.

12 ¶ Now I beseech those which reade this booke, that they be not discouraged for these calamities, but that they iudge these afflictions, not be for destruction, but for a chastening of our nation.

13 For it is a token of his great goodnesse, not to suffer sinners long to continue, but straight wayes to punish them.

14 For the Lord doeth not long waite for vs, as for other nations, whom he punisheth when they are come to the fulnesse of their sinnes:

15 But thus hee dealeth with vs, that our sinnes should not bee heaped vp to the full, so that afterward he should punish vs.

16 And therefore hee neuer withdraweth his mercie from vs: & though he punish with aduersitie, yet doth he neuer forsake his people.

17 But let this be spoken nowe for a warning vnto vs: and now will wee come to the declaring of the matter in few words.

18 ¶ Eleazar then one of ỳ principall scribes, an aged man, & of a well fauoured countenance, was constremed to open his mouth, and to eate swines flesh.

19 But hee desiring rather to die gloriously then to liue with hatred, offered himselfe willingly to the torment, and spit it out:

20 As they ought to goe to death which suffer punishment for such things, as it is not lawfull to taste of for the desire to liue.

21 But they that had the charge of this wicked banket, for that olde friendship of the man, tooke him aside priuily, and prayed him that he would take such flesh, as was lawfull for him to vse, and as hee would prepare for himselfe, and dissemble as though hee had eaten of the thing appointed by the king, euen the flesh of the sacrifice,

22 That in so doing hee might bee deliuered from death, & that for the old friendship ỳ was among them, he would receiue this fauour.

23 But hee began to consider discreetly, and as became his age, and the excellencie of his ancient peeres, and the honour of his grap haires, whereunto he was come, and his most honest conuersation from his childehood, but chiefly the holy Law made and giuen by God: therefore he answered consequently, and willed them straightwayes to send him to the graue.

24 For it becommeth not our age, sayd he, to dissemble, whereby many yong persons might thinke, that Eleazar being fourescore yeere olde and ten, were now gone to ‖ another religion.

‖ Or, to another maner of life.

25 And so through mine hypocrisie (for a little time of a transitorie life) they might be deceiued by me, and I should procure malediction, and reproch to mine olde age.

26 For though I were nowe deliuered from the torments of men, yet could I not escape the hand of the Almightie, neither aliue nor dead.

27 Wherefore I will nowe change this life manfully, and will shewe my selfe such as mine age requireth, 28 And so will leaue a notable example for such as be yong to die willingly and courageously for the honourable and holy lawes. And when he had said these words, immediatly hee went to torment.

29 Now they that led him, changed the loue which they bare him before, into hatred, because of the words that he had spoken: for they thought it had bene a rage.

30 And as hee was ready to giue the ghost because of the strokes, hee sighed and sayd, The Lorde that hath the holy knowledge, knoweth manifestly, that whereas I might haue beene deliuered from death, I am scourged, and suffer these

these sore paines of my body: but in my minde I suffer them gladly for his religion.

31 Euen now after this maner ended he his life, leaning his death for an example of a noble courage, and a memoriall of vertue, not onely vnto yoong men, but vnto all his nation.

CHAP. VII.

The punishment of the seuen brethren and of their mother.

IT came to passe also that seuen brethren, with their mother, were taken to bee compelled by the king against the lawe, to taste swines flesh, and were tormented with scourges and whips.

2 But one of them which spake first, sayde thus, What seekest thou? and what wouldest thou knowe of vs? we are readie to die, rather then to transgresse the lawes of our fathers.

3 Then was the king angrie, and commanded to heate pannes and caudrons, which were incontinently made hot.

4 And he commanded the tongue of him that spake first, to be cut out, and to flay him, and to cut off the vtmost parts of his body in the sight of his other brethren and his mother.

5 Nowe when hee was thus mangled in all his members, he commanded him to be brought aline to the fire and to fry him in the panne: and while the smoke for a long time smoked out of the panne, the other brethren with their mother exhorted one another to die courageously, saying in this maner,

6 The Lord God doth regard vs, and indeed Deut. 32. 36. taketh pleasure in vs, as Moyses * declared in the song wherein hee testified openly, saying, That God will take pleasure in his seruants.

7 ¶ So when the first was dead after this maner, they brought the second to make him a mocking stocke: and when they had pulled the skinne with the haire ouer his head, they asked him, if he would eate or he were punished in all the members of the body.

8 But hee answered in his owne language, and sayd, No. Wherefore hee was tormented forthwith like the first.

9 And when hee was at the last breath, hee sayde, Thou murtherer takest this present life from vs, but the King of the world will raise vs vp, which die for his lawes, in the resurrection of euerlasting life.

10 ¶ After him was the third had in derision, and when they demanded his tongue, hee put it out incontinently, and stretched forth his hands boldly, 11 And spake manfully, These haue I had from the heauen, but nowe for the lawe of God I despise them, and trust that I shall receiue them of him againe.

12 Insomuch that the king and they which were with him, marueiled at the yoong mans courage, as at one that nothing regarded the paines.

13 ¶ Now when he was dead also, they vexed and tormented the fourth in like maner.

14 And when hee was now readie to die, hee said thus, It is better that wee should change this which wee might hope for of men, and waite for our hope from God, that we may be raised vp againe by him: as for thee, thou shalt haue no resurrection to life.

15 ¶ Afterwarde they brought the fift also and tormented him,

16 Who looked vpon the King, and saide, Thou hast power among men, and though thou be a mortall man, thou doest what thou wilt: but thinke not, that God hath forsaken our nation.

17 But abide a while, and thou shalt see his great power, how he will torment thee and thy seede.

18 After him also they brought the sixt, who being at the point of death, said, Deceiue not thy selfe foolishly: for we suffer these things, which are woorthie to bee woondred at for our owne sakes, because we haue offended our God.

19 But thinke not thou, which vndertakest to fight against God, that thou shalt be vnpunished.

20 But the mother was marueilous aboue all other, and worthy of honorable memory: for when she saw her seuen sonnes slaine within the space of one day, she suffered it with a good wil, because of the hope that she had in the Lord.

21 Yea, she exhorted euery one of them in her owne language, and being full of courage and wisedome, stirred vp her womanly affections with a manly stomacke, and said vnto them,

22 I cannot tell howe you came into my woombe: for I neither gaue you breath nor life: it is not I that set in order the members of your body,

23 But doubtlesse the Creator of the world, which formed the birth of man, and found out the beginning of all things, will also of his owne mercie giue you breath, and life againe, as yee nowe regarde not your owne selues, for his lawes sake.

24 Nowe Antiochus thinking himselfe despised, and considering the iniurious woordes, while the youngest was yet aline, he did exhort him not onely with woordes, but swore also vnto him by an othe that he would make him rich and wealthie, if hee would forsake the lawes of his fathers, and that hee would take him as a friend, and giue him offices.

25 But when the yoong man woulde in no case hearken vnto him, the king called his mother, and exhorted that shee woulde counsell the yoong man to saue his life.

26 And when he had exhorted her with many woordes, shee promised him that shee would counsell her sonne.

27 So shee turned her vnto him, laughing the cruell tyrant to scorne, & spake in her owne language, O my sonne, haue pitie vpon mee, that bare thee nine moneths in my woombe, and gaue thee sucke three yeres, and nourished thee, and tooke care for thee vnto this age, & brought thee vp.

28 I beseech thee, my sonne, looke vpon the heauen & the earth, and all that is therein, and consider that God made them of things that were not, and so was mankinde made likewise.

29 Feare not this hangman, but shewe thy selfe woorthie such brethren by suffering death, that I may receiue thee in mercy with thy brethren.

30 While she was yet speaking these woordes, the yoong man said, Whom wait ye for? I will not obey the kings commandement: but I will obey the commandement of the Law that was giuen vnto our fathers by Moyses.

31 And

31 And thou that imagineſt all miſchiefe againſt the Hebrewes, ſhalt not eſcape the hand of God.

32 For we ſuffer theſe things, becauſe of our ſinnes.

33 But though the liuing Lorde be angrie with vs a litle while for our chaſtening and correction, yet will he be reconciled with his owne ſeruants.

34 But thou, O man without religion and moſt wicked of all men, lift not thy ſelfe vp in vaine, which art puffed vp with vncertaine hope, and liftest thine handes againſt the ſeruants of God.

35 For thou haſt not yet eſcaped the iudgement of Almightie God, which ſeeth all things.

36 My brethren that haue ſuffered a litle paine, are nowe vnder the diuine couenant of euerlaſting life: but thou through the iudgement of God, ſhalt ſuffer iuſt punishments for thy pride.

37 Therefore I, as my brethren haue done, offer my body and life for the lawes of our fathers, beſeeching God, that hee will ſoone be mercifull vnto our nation, and that thou by torment and punishment mayeſt confeſſe, that he is the onely God,

38 And that in me & my brethren the wrath of the Almightie, which is righteouſly fallen vpon all our nation, may ceaſe, 39 Then the king being kindled with anger, raged more cruelly againſt him then the others, and tooke it grieuouſly, that he was mocked.

40 So he alſo died holily, and put his whole truſt in the Lord.

41 Laſt of all after the ſonnes, was the mother put to death.

42 Let this now be enough ſpoken concerning the bankets, and extreme cruelties.

CHAP. VIII.

1 Iudas gathereth together his hoſt. 9 Nicanor is ſent againſt Iudas. 16 Iudas exhorteth his ſouldiers to confidence. 20 Nicanor is ouercome. 27 The Iewes giue thankes, after they haue put their enemies to flight, diuiding part of the ſpoiles vnto the fatherleſſe and vnto the widowes. 30 Timotheus and Bacchides are diſcomfited. 35 Nicanor fleeth vnto Antiochus.

THen Iudas Maccabeus, & they that were with him, went priuily into the townes, and called their kinſefolkes and friends together, and tooke vnto them all ſuch as continued in the Iewes religion, and aſſembled ſixe thouſand men.

2 So they called vpon the Lorde, that hee would haue an eye vnto his people, which was vexed of euery man, and haue pitie vpon the Temple that was defiled by wicked men,

3 And that he would haue compaſſion vpon the city that was deſt oyed, and almoſt brought to the ground, & that he would heare the voice of the blood that cried vnto him,

4 And that he would remember the wicked ſlaughter of the innocent children, and the blaſphemies committed againſt his Name, and that hee woulde ſhewe his hatred againſt the wicked.

5 Now when Maccabeus had gathered this multitude, hee could not be withſtoode by the heathen: for the wrath of the Lord was turned into mercie.

6 Therefore he came at vnwares, and burnt vp the townes and cities: yet he tooke the moſt commodious places, and ſlew many of the enemies.

7 But ſpecially hee vſed the nights to make ſuch aſſaults, in ſo much that the bruit of his manlineſſe was ſpread euery where.

8 ¶ So when Philip ſaw that this man increaſed by litle and litle, and that things proſpered with him for the moſt part, he wrote vnto Ptolemeus the gouernour of Coeloſyria and Phœnice to helpe him in the kings buſineſſe.

9 Then ſent he ſpeedily Nicanor the ſonne of Patrocles, a ſpeciall friend of his, and gaue him of all nations of the heathen no leſſe then twentie thouſand men, to roote out the whole generation of the Iewes, and ioyned with him Gorgias a captaine, which in matters of warre had great experience.

10 Nicanor ordeined alſo a tribute for the king of two thouſand talents, which the Romanes ſhould haue, to be taken of the Iewes that were taken priſoners.

11 Therefore immediatly he ſent to the cities on the ſea coaſt, prouoking them to buy Iewes to be their ſeruants, promiſing to ſell foureſcore and ten for one talent: but he conſidered not the vengeance of Almightie God, that ſhould come vpon him.

12 When Iudas then knew of Nicanors comming, he tolde them that were with him, of the comming of the armie.

13 Nowe were there ſome of them fearefull, which truſted not vnto the righteouſneſſe of God, but fled away, & abode not in that place.

14 But the other ſolde all that they had left, and beſought the Lord together to deliuer them from that wicked Nicanor, which had ſolde them, or euer he came nere them.

15 And though hee would not doe it for their ſakes, yet for the couenant made with their fathers, and becauſe they called vpon his holy and glorious Name.

16 And ſo Maccabeus called his men together, about ſixe thouſand, exhorting them not to be afraide of their enemies, neither to feare the great multitude of the Gentiles, which came againſt them vnrighteouſly, but to fight manly,

17 Setting before their eyes the iniurie that they had vnluſtly done to the holy place, and the cruelty done to the citie by deriſion, and the deſtruction of the order eſtabliſhed by their fathers.

18 For they, ſaid hee, truſt in their weapons and boldneſſe: but our confidence is in the Almighty God, which at a becke can both deſtroy them that come againſt vs, and all the world.

19 Moreouer he admoniſhed them of the helpe that God ſhewed vnto their fathers, as when there periſhed an hundreth and foureſcore and fiue thouſand vnder * Sennacherib. 2.King.19.35.iſa.37.36.

20 And of the battell that they had in Babylon, againſt the Galathians, howe they came in all to the battell ‖ eight thouſand, with foure thouſand Macedonians: and when the Macedonians were aſtonied, the eight thouſand ſlew an hundred and twentie thouſand through the helpe that was giuen them frō heauen, whereby they had receiued many benefits. rob.1.18. eccliu.48.22. 1.mac.7.41. ‖ Some reade ſixe thouſand.

21 Thus when he had made them bold with theſe woordes, and readie to die for the lawes and and the countrey, hee deuided his armie into foure partes,

22 And made his owne brethren captaines ouer the armie, to wit, Simon, and Joseph, and Jonathan, giuing ech one fifteene hundred men.

23 And when Eleazarus had read the holy booke, and giuen them a token of the helpe of God, Iudas which led the forewarde, ioyned with Nicanor,

24 And because the Almightie helped them, they slew aboue nine thousand men, and wounded and maimed the most part of Nicanors hoste, and so put all to flight,

25 And tooke the money from those that came to buy them, and pursued them farre: but lacking time, they returned.

26 For it was the day before the Sabbath, & therefore they would no longer pursue them.

27 So they tooke their weapons, and spoyled the enemies, and kept the Sabbath, giuing thankes, and praysing the Lorde wonderfully, which had deliuered them that day, and powred vpon them the beginning of his mercie.

Num. 31.27 1. sam. 30.24

28 And after the Sabbath, * they distributed the spoyles to the sicke, and to the fatherles, and to the widowes, and diuided the residue among themselues and their children.

29 When this was done, and they all had made a generall prayer, they besought the mercifull Lorde to be reconciled at the length with his seruants.

30 Afterward with one consent they fell vpon Timotheus and Bacchides, and slew aboue twentie thousand, & wanne hie & strong holdes, and diuided great spoyles, and gaue an equall portion vnto the sicke, and to the fatherlesse, and to the widowes, and to aged persons also.

31 Moreouer they gathered their weapons together, and laid them vp diligently in conuenient places, and brought the remnant of the spoyles to Jerusalem.

32 They slewe also Philarches a most wicked person which was with Timotheus, and had vexed the Jewes many wayes.

33 And when they kept the feast of Victorie in their countrey, they burnt Callisthenes that had set fire vpon the holy gates, which was fled into a litle house: so hee receiued a reward meete for his wickednesse.

34 And that most wicked Nicanor, which had brought a thousand merchants to buy the Jewes, 35 Hee was through the helpe of the Lorde brought downe of them whom hee thought as nothing, insomuch that he put off his glorious raiment, and fled ouerthwart the countrey like a fugitiue seruant, and came alone to Antiochia, with great dishonour through the destruction of his hoste.

36 Thus hee that promised to pay tribute to the Romanes, by meanes of the prisoners of Jerusalem, brought newes, that the Jewes had a ‖ defender, and for this cause none could hurt the Jewes, because they followed the Lawes appointed by him.

‖ Or, God their defender.

CHAP. IX.

1 Antiochus willing to spoile Persepolis, is put to flight. 5 As hee persecuteth the Iewes, he is stricken of the Lorde. 13 The fained repentance of Antiochus. 28 He dieth miserably.

AT the same time came Antiochus againe with dishonour out of the countrey of Persia.

2 For when hee came to Persepolis, and went about to robbe the Temple, and to subdue the citie, the people ran in a rage to defend them selues with their weapons, and put them to flight, and Antiochus was put to flight by the inhabitants, and returned with shame.

3 Now when he came to Ecbatane, he vnderstood the things that had come vnto Nicanor, and Timotheus.

4 And then being chafed in his mynde, hee thought to impute to the Jewes their fault, which had put him to flight, and therefore commaunded his charetman to drive continually, and to dispatch the iourney: for Gods iudgement compelled him: for hee had saide thus in his pride, I will make Jerusalem a common burying place of the Jewes, when I come thither.

5 But the Lord Almightie and God of Israel smote him with an incurable and inuincible plague: for as soone as hee had spoken these wordes, a paine of the bowels that was remediesse, came vpon him, and sore tormentes of the inner partes,

6 And that most iustly: for he had tormented other mens bowels with diuers and strange torments.

7 Howbeit hee would in no wise cease from his arrogancie, but swelled the more with pride, breathing out fire in his rage against the Jewes, and commaunded to haste the iourney: but it came to passe that hee fell downe from the charet that ranne swiftly, so that all the members of his body were bruised with the great fall.

8 And thus hee that a litle afore thought hee might commaund the floods of the Sea (so proude was he beyonde the condition of man) and to weigh the hie mountaines in the balance, was nowe cast on the ground, and caried in an horseliter, declaring vnto all the manifest power of God,

9 *So that the wormes came out of the body of this wicked man in abundance: & whiles hee was aliue, his flesh fell off for paine and torment: and all his armie was grieued at his ‖ smell.

Act. 12.23.

‖ Or, rottenesse.

10 Thus no man could beare because of his stinke, him that a litle afore thought hee might reach to the starres of heauen.

11 Then hee began to leaue off his great pride, and selfewill, when he was plagued and came to the knowledge of himselfe by the scourge of God, and by his paine which increased euery moment.

12 And when hee himselfe might not abide his owne stinke, hee saide these wordes, It is meete to be subiect vnto God, and that a man which is mortall, should not thinke himselfe equall vnto God through pride.

13 This wicked person prayed also vnto the Lorde, who would nowe haue no mercie on him, 14 And saide thus, that he would set at libertie the holy citie vnto the which hee made haste to destroy it, and to make it a burying place.

15 And as touching the Jewes (whom hee had iudged not worthy to bee buried, but would haue cast them out with their children to bee deuoured of the foules and wilde beastes) hee would make them all like the citizens of Athens.

dren

16 And whereas hee had spoyled the holy Temple afore, hee would garnish it with great giftes, and increase the holy vessels, and of his owne rentes beare the charges belonging to the sacrifices.

17 Yea, and that hee would also become a Iewe himselfe, & goe thorow all the world that was inhabited, and preach the power of God.

18 But for all this, his paines would not cease: for the iust iudgement of God was come vpon him: therefore despairing of his health, he wrote vnto the Iewes this letter vnder written, contayning the forme of a supplication.

19 ¶ THE KING, and prince Antiochus vnto the Iewes his louing citizens, wisheth much ioy and health and prosperitie.

20 If ye and your children fare well, and if all things goe after your minde, I giue great thankes vnto God hauing hope in the heauen.

21 Though I lie sicke, yet I am mindfull of your honour, and good will for the loue I beare you: therefore when I returned from the countrey of Persia, and fell into a sore disease, I thought it necessary to care for the common safetie of all,

22 Not distrusting mine health, but hauing great hope to escape this sickenesse.

23 Therefore considering that when my father led an hoste against the hie countries, hee appointed who should succeede him:

24 That if any controuersie happened contrary to his expectation, or if that any tidings were brought that were grieuous, they in the land might knowe to whom the affaires were committed, that they should not be troubled.

25 Againe, when I ponder howe that the gouernours, that are borderers and neighbours vnto my kingdome, waite for all occasions, and looke but for opportunitie, I haue ordeined that my sonne Antiochus shall be King, whom I oft commended and committed to many of you, when I went into the hie prouinces, & haue written vnto him as followeth hereafter.

26 Therefore, I pray you, and require you to remember the benefites that I haue done vnto you generally, and particularly, and that euery man wilbe faithfull vnto me & my sonne.

27 For I trust that he will be gentle and louing vnto you according to my minde.

28 ¶ Thus the murtherer and blasphemer suffered most grieuously, and as he had intreated other men, so he dyed a miserable death in a strange countrey among the mountaines.

29 And Philip that was brought vp with him, caried away his body, who fearing the sonne of Antiochus, went into Egypt to Ptolemeus Philometor.

CHAP. X.

1 Iudas Maccabeus taketh the citie and the Temple, 10 The actes of Eupator. 16 The Iewes fight against the Idumeans. 24 Timotheus inuadeth Iudea, with whom Iudas ioyneth battell. 29 Fiue men appeare in the ayre to the helpe of the Iewes, 37 Timotheus is slaine.

MAccabeus now and his company, through the helpe of the Lord, wanne the Temple and the citie againe,

2 And destroyed the altars, & chappels that the heathen had builded in the open places,

3 And cleansed the Temple, and made another altar, and burned stones, and tooke fire of them, and offered sacrifices, and incense two yeeres, and fire moneths after, and set forth the lampes, and the shew bread.

4 When that was done, they fel downe flat vpon the ground, and besought the Lorde, that they might come no more into such troubles: but if they sinned any more against him, that he himselfe would chasten them with mercy, and that they might not be deliuered to the blasphemous, and barbarous nations.

5 Now vpon the same day, that the strangers polluted the Temple, on the very same day it was cleansed againe, euen the fiue & twentieth day of the same moneth, which is ‖Chasleu.

‖Or, November.

6 They kept eight dayes with gladnesse as in the feast of the Tabernacles, remembring, that not long afore they held the feast of the Tabernacles when they liued in the mountaines and dennes like beastes.

7 And for the same cause they bare greene boughes, and faire branches and palmes, and sang Psalmes vnto him that had giuen them good successe in cleansing his place.

8 They ordeined also by a common statute and decree, that euery yeere those dayes should be kept of the whole nation of the Iewes.

9 And this was the ende of Antiochus called Epiphanes.

10 ¶ Now will we declare the acts of Antiochus Eupator, which was the sonne of this wicked man, gathering briefly the calamities of the warres, that followed.

11 For when he had taken the kingdome, he made one Lysias, which had beene captaine of the hoste in Phenice, and Coelosyria, ruler ouer the affaires of the Realme.

12 For Ptolemeus that was called Macron, purposed to do iustice vnto the Iewes for the wrong that had beene done vnto them, and went about to behaue himselfe peaceably with them.

13 For the which cause, hee was accused of his friends before Eupator, and was called oft times traitour, because he had left Cyprus that Philometor had committed vnto him, and came to Antiochus Epiphanes: therefore seeing that hee was no more in estimation, he was discouraged, and poysoned himselfe, and dyed.

14 ¶ But when Gorgias was gouernour of the same places, hee entertemed strangers, and made warre oft times against the Iewes.

15 Moreouer the Idumeans that held the strong holdes which were meete for their purpose, troubled the Iewes, & by receiuing them that were driuen from Ierusalem, tooke in hand to continue warre.

16 Then they that were with Maccabeus made prayers, & besought God that he would be their helper, and so they fell vpon the strong holdes of the Idumeans, 17 And assaulted them sore, that they wanne the places, & slewe all that fought against them on the wall, and killed all that they met with, and slew no lesse then twenty thousand.

18 And because certaine (which were no lesse then then nine thousand) were fledde into two strong castles, hauing all maner of things conuenient to susteine the siege, 19 Maccabeus left Simon, and Joseph, and Zaccheus also, and those that were with them, which were enowe to besiege them, and departed to those places which were more necessarie.

20 Nowe they that were with Simon, being led with couetousnesse, were intreated for money (through certeine of those that were in the castle) & tooke seuentie thousand drachmes, and let some of them escape.

a A drachme is the eight part of an ounce, which is about three pence.

21 But when it was told Maccabeus what was done, he called the gouernours of the people together, and accused those men, that they had solde their brethren for money, and let their enemies goe.

22 So hee slewe them when they were conuict of treason, and immediatly wanne the two castles:

23 And hauing good successe, as in all the warres that hee tooke in hand, hee slewe in the two castles moe then twentie thousand.

24 Now Timotheus whom the Iewes had ouercome afore, gathered an armie of strangers of all sorts, and brought a great troupe of horsemen out of Asia, to winne Jewrie by strength.

25 But when he drew nere, Maccabeus, and they that were with him, turned to pray vnto God, and sprinkled earth vpon their heads, and girded their reines with sackcloth, 26 And fell downe at the foote of the altar, and besought the Lorde to be mercifull to them, and to be an enemie to their enemies, and to be an aduersarie to their aduersaries,* as the lawe declareth.

*Exod. 23.20. Deut. 20.4.

27 So after the prayer, they tooke their weapons, and went on further from the citie, and when they came nere to the enemies, they tooke heed to themselues.

28 And when the morning appeared, they both vpnoch together: the one part had the Lord for their refuge, and pledge of prosperitie, and noble victorie, and the other tooke courage as a guide of the warre.

29 But when the battell waxed strong, there appeared vnto the enemies from heauen fiue comely men vpon horses with bridles of golde, and two of them led the Iewes,

30 And tooke Maccabeus betwixt them, and couered him on euery side with their weapons, and kept him safe, but shot darts, & lightnings against the enemies, so that they were confounded with blindnesse, and beaten downe and full of trouble.

31 There were slaine of foote men twentie thousand and fiue hundred, and fiue hundred horsemen.

32 As for Timotheus himselfe, hee fled vnto Gazara, which was called a verie strong holde, wherein Chereas was captaine.

33 But Maccabeus and his company layde siege against the fortresses with courage for foure dayes.

34 And they that were within, trusting to the height of the place, blasphemed exceedingly, and spake horrible words.

‖ Or, the fifte and twentieth day.

35 Neuertheless, vpon the ‖ fifth day in the morning, twentie young men of Maccabeus company, whose hearts were inflamed, because of the blasphemies, came vnto the wall, and with bolde stomackes smote downe those that they met.

36 Others also that climed vp vpon the engins of warre against them that were within, set fire vpon the towres, and burnt those blasphemers quicke with the fires that they had made, and others brake vp the gates, and receiued the rest of the armie, and tooke the citie.

37 And hauing found Timotheus, that was crept into a caue, they killed him, and Chereas his brother with Apollophanes.

38 When this was done, they prayed the Lord with Psalmes, and thankesgiuing, which had done so great things for Israel, and giuen them the victorie.

CHAP. XI.

1 Lysias goeth about to ouercome the Iewes. 8 Succour is sent from heauen vnto the Iewes. 16 The letter of Lysias vnto the Iewes. 20 The letter of King Antiochus vnto Lysias. 27 A letter of the same vnto the Iewes. 34 A letter of the Romanes to the Iewes.

VEry shortly after this, Lysias the Kinges stewarde, and a kinsman of his, which had the gouernance of the affaires, tooke sore displeasure for the things that were done.

2 And when hee had gathered about foure score thousand, with all the horsemen, he came against the Iewes, thinking to make the citie an habitation of the Gentiles.

3 And the Temple woulde hee haue to get money by, like the other temples of the heathen: for hee would sell the Priests office euery yeere.

4 And thus being puffed vp in his minde, because of the great number of footmen, and thousands of horsemen, and in his fourescore Elephants,

5 He came into Judea, and drewe neere to Beth-sura, which was a castle of defence, fiue a furlongs from Jerusalem, and layd sore siege vnto it.

a Whereof eight make a mile.

6 But when Maccabeus and his company knewe that he besieged the holdes, they, and all the people made prayers with weeping, and teares before the Lorde, that hee would send a good Angel to deliuer Israel.

7 And Maccabeus himselfe first of all tooke weapons, exhorting the other that they would ieopard themselues together with him to helpe their brethren: so they went foorth together with a couragious minde.

8 And as they were there besides Jerusalem, there appeared before them vpon horsebacke a man in white clothing, shaking his harnesse of golde.

9 Then they prayed the mercifull God all together, and tooke heart, insomuch that they were ready, not onely to fight with men, but with the most cruell beasts, & to breake downe walles of yron.

10 Thus they marched forward in aray, hauing an helper from heauen: for the Lord was mercifull vnto them.

11 And running vpon their enemies like lyons, they slew eleuen thousand footmen, and sixteene hundred horsemen, and put all the other to flight.

12 Many of them also being wounded, escaped naked, & Lysias himselfe fled away shamefully, fully, and so escaped.

13 Who as he was a man of vnderstanding, considering what losse hee had had, and knowing that the Iehewes coulde not be ouercome because the Almightie God helped them, sent vnto them,

14 And promised, that hee would consent to all things which were reasonable, and persuade the king to be their friend.

15 Maccabeus agreed to Lysias requestes, hauing respect in all things to the common wealth, and whatsoeuer Maccabeus wrote vnto Lysias concerning the Iewes, the king granted it.

16 For there were letters written vnto the Iewes from Lysias conteining these wordes, LYSIAS vnto the people of the Iewes sendeth greeting.

17 Iohn and ‖ Abesalom, which were sent from you, deliuered me the things that you demaund by writing, and required mee to fulfill the things that they had declared.

18 Therefore what things soeuer were meet to be reported to the king himselfe, I haue declared them, and hee graunted that that was possible.

19 Therefore if yee behaue your selues as friends toward his affaires, hereafter also I will endeuour my selfe to do you good.

20 As concerning these things, I haue giuen commandement to these men, and to those whom I sent vnto you, to commune with you of the same particularly.

21 Fare ye well, the hundred and eight and fourtie yeere, the foure and twentieth day of the moneth Dioscorinthius.

22 ¶ Nowe the Kings letter conteined these wordes, KING ANTIOCHVS vnto his brother Lysias sendeth greeting.

23 Since our father is translated vnto the gods, our will is, that they which are in our Realme, liue quietly, that euery man may appite his owne affaires.

24 Wee vnderstand also that the Iewes woulde not consent to our father, for to bee brought vnto the custome of the Gentiles, but would keepe their owne maner of liuing: for the which cause they require of vs, that we would suffer them to liue after their owne lawes.

25 Wherefore our minde is that this nation shall be in rest, and haue determined to restore them their Temple, that they may be gouerned according to the custome of their fathers.

26 Thou shalt doe well therefore to send vnto them, and grant them peace, that when they are certified of our minde, they may be of good comfort, and cheerefully goe about their owne affaires.

27 And this was the Kings letter vnto the nation, KING ANTIOCHVS vnto the Elders of the Iewes, and to the rest of the Iewes sendeth greeting.

28 If ye fare well, wee haue our desire: wee are also in good health.

29 Menelaus declared vnto vs that your desire was to returne home, and to apply your owne businesse.

30 Wherefore, those that will depart, wee giue them free libertie, vnto the thirtie day of the moneth of ‖ Panthicus, 31 That the Iewes may vse their owne maner of liuing and lawes, like as afore, and none of them by any maner of wayes to haue harme for things done by ignorance.

32 I haue sent also Menelaus to comfort you.

33 Fare yee well: the hundreth and eight and fortie yeere, the fifteenth day of the moneth of Panthicus.

34 ¶ The Romanes also sent a letter conteining these words, QVINTVS MEMMIVS and Titus ‖ Manilius ambassadours of the Romanes, vnto the people of the Iewes send greeting.

35 The things that Lysias the kings kinseman hath granted you, we grant the same also.

36 But concerning that which hee shall report vnto the king, send hither some with speed, when ye haue considered the matter diligently, that we may consult thereupon, as shall be best for you: for we must goe vnto Antiochia.

37 And therefore make haste and sende some men, that we may know your minde.

38 Farewell: this hundreth and eight and fourtie yeere, the fifteenth day of the moneth of Panthicus.

CHAP. XII.

1 Timotheus troubleth the Iewes. 3 The wicked deed of them of Ioppe against the Iewes. 6 Iudas is auenged of them. 9 He setteth fire in the hauen of Iamnia. 20 The pursute of the Iewes against Timotheus. 24 Timotheus is taken and let go vnhurt. 32 Iudas pursueth Gorgias.

WHen these couenants were made, Lysias went vnto the king, and the Iewes tilled their ground.

2 But the gouernours of the places, as Timotheus, and Apollonius the sonne of Gennæus, and Hieronymus, & also Demophon, and besides them Nicanor the gouernour of Cyprus, would not let them liue in rest and peace.

3 ¶ They of Ioppe also did such a vile acte: they prayed the Iewes that dwelt among them, to goe with their wiues and children into the ships, which they had prepared as though they had ought them none euill will.

4 And so by the common aduice of the citie, they obeyed them, and suspected nothing: but when they were gone foorth into the deepe, they drowned no lesse then two hundreth of them.

5 Nowe when Iudas knew of their cruelty shewed against his nation, he commanded those men that were with him, to make them ready.

6 And hauing called vpon God the righteous Iudge, he went foorth against the murtherers of his brethren, and set fire in the hauen by night, and burnt the shippes, and those that fled thence, he slew.

7 ¶ And when the citie was shut vp, he departed as though hee would come againe, and root out all them of the citie of Ioppe.

8 ¶ But when hee perceiued that the Iamnites were minded to do in like maner vnto the Iewes, which dwelt among them, 9 He came vnto the Iamnites by night, and set fire in the hauen with the nauie, so that the light of the fire was seene at Ierusalem, vpon a two hundreth and fourtie furlongs.

10 Now when they were gone from thence nine furlongs, in their iourney towarde Timotheus, about fiue thousande men of foote, and and fiue hundreth horsemen of the Arabians set vpon him.

‖ Or, April, some reade Xanticus, and some Lanticus.

11 So the battell was sharpe, but it prospered with Iudas through the helpe of God: the [a] Nomades of Arabia, being ouercome, besought Iudas to make peace with them, and promised to giue him certaine ‖cattell, and to helpe him in other things.

12 And Iudas thinking that they should in deede be profitable concerning many things, graunted them peace: whereupon they shooke hands, and so they departed to their tents.

13 ¶ Iudas also assaulted a citie called Caspis, which was strong by reason of a bridge, and fenced rounde about with walles, and had diuers kindes of people dwelling therein.

14 So they that were within it, put such trust in the strength of the walles, and in store of victuales, that they were the slacker in their doings, reuiling them that were with Iudas, and reproching them: yea, they blasphemed and spake such wordes as were not lawfull.

15 But Maccabeus souldiers, calling vpon the great prince of the worlde (which without any ‖ instruments, or engins of warre, did * cast downe the walles of Iericho, in the time of Iesus) gaue a fierce assault against the walles, 16 And tooke the citie by the will of God, and made an exceeding great slaughter, insomuch that a lake of two furlongs broade, which lay thereby, seemed to flowe with blood.

17 ¶ Then departed they from thence, seuen hundreth and fiftie furlongs, and came to Characa vnto the Iewes, that are called Tubieni.

18 But they founde not Timotheus there: for, he was departed from thence, and had done nothing, and had left a garison in a very strong holde.

19 But Dositheus, and Sosipater, which were captaines with Maccabeus, went forth, and slewe those that Timotheus had left in the fortresse, more then ten thousand men.

20 And Maccabeus prepared, and ranged his armie by bandes, and went courageously against Timotheus, which had with him an hundreth and twentie thousand men of foote, and two thousand and fiue hundreth horsemen.

21 When Timotheus had knowledge of Iudas comming, he sent the women, and children, and the other baggage afore vnto a fortresse called Carnion (for it was hard to besiege, and vneasie to come vnto because of the straites on all sides.)

22 But when Iudas first bande came in sight, the enemies were smitten with feare, and a trembling was among them through the presence of him that seeth all things, in so much that they fleeing one here, another there, were oft times hurt by their owne people, & wounded with the points of their owne swords.

23 But Iudas was very earnest in pursuing, and slewe those wicked men: yea, hee slewe thirtie thousand men of them.

24 Timotheus also him selfe fell into the hands of Dositheus, and Sosipater, whom he besought with much craft to let him goe with his life, because he had many of the Iewes parents and the brethren of some of them, which if they put him to death, should be despised.

25 So when hee had assured them with many wordes, and promised that he would restore them without hurt, they let him goe for the health of their brethren.

26 ¶ Then went ‖Maccabeus toward Carnion, and Atargation, and slew fiue and twentie thousand persons.

27 And after that hee had chased away and slaine them, Iudas remooued the hoste toward Ephron a strong citie, wherein was Lysias and a great multitude of all nations, and the strong young men kept the walles, defending them mightily: there was also a great preparation of engins of warre, and dartes.

28 But when they had called vpon the Lord, which with his power breaketh the strength of the enemies, they wanne the citie, and slewe fiue and twentie thousand of them that were within.

29 ¶ From thence went they to Scythopolis, which lieth sixe hundreth furlongs from Ierusalem.

30 But when the Iewes which dwelt there, testified, that the ‖Scythopolitans dealt louingly with them, and intreated them kindly in the time of their aduersitie, 31 They gaue them thankes, desiring them to be friendly still vnto them, and so they came to Ierusalem, as the feast of the weekes approched.

32 ¶ And after the feast called Pentecost, they went forth against Gorgias the gouernour of Idumea:

33 Who came out with three thousand men of foote, and foure hundreth horsemen.

34 And when they ioyned together, a fewe of the Iewes were slaine, 35 And Dositheus one of the Baccenors, which was on horseback and a mighty man, tooke Gorgias, and layd holde of his garment, and drewe him by force, because hee would haue taken the wicked man aliue: but an horseman of Thracia fell vpon him, and smote off his shoulder, so that Gorgias fledde into ‖Marisa.

36 And when they that were ‖with Esdrin, had fought long, and were weary, Iudas called vpon the Lord, that he would shewe himselfe to bee their helper, and captaine of the fielde.

37 And then hee began in his owne language, and sung Psalmes with a loude voyce, insomuch that straightwayes hee made them that were about Gorgias, to take their flight.

38 ¶ So Iudas gathered his hoste, and came into the citie of Odolla. And when the seuenth day came, they cleansed themselues (as the custome was) and kept the Sabbath in the same place.

39 And vpon the day following, as necessitie required, Iudas and his company came to take vp the bodies of them that were slaine, and to burie them with their kinsemen in their fathers graues.

40 Now vnder the coates of euery one that was slaine, they founde reliques that had beene consecrate to the idoles of the * Iamnites, which thing is forbidden the Iewes by the lawe. Then euery man sawe that this was the cause wherefore they were slaine.

a From this verse to the ende of this Chapter, the Greeke text is corrupt, so that no good sense, much lesse certaine doctrine can be gathered thereby: Also it is euident that this place was not written by the holy Ghost, both because it disenteth from the rest of the holy Scriptures, and also the authour of this booke acknowledging his owne infirmitie, desireth pardon, if hee haue not attained that hee should. And it seemeth, that this Iason the Cyrenian, out of whom he tooke this abridgement, is Ioseph Ben-gorion, who hath written in Ebrewe fiue bookes of these matters, and intreating this place, maketh no mention of this prayer for the dead, lib. 3. Cap. 19. For it is contrary to the custome of the Iewes, euen to this day, to pray for the dead. And though Iudas had so done, yet this particular example is not sufficient to establish a doctrine, no more then Zipporahs was to proue that women might minister the Sacraments, Exod. 4. 25. or the example of Razis that one might kill himselfe, whom this authour so much commendeth, Chap. 14 41.

42 And they gaue themselues to prayer, and besought him, that they thoulde not vtterly be destroyed for the fault committed. Besides that, noble Iudas exhorted the people to keepe them selues from sinne, for so much as they sawe before their eyes the things which came to passe by the sinne of these that were slaine, 43 And hauing made a gathering through the company, sent to Ierusalem about two thousand drachmes of siluer, to offer a sinne offering, doing very well, and honestly that he thought of the resurrection.

44 For if he had not hoped, that they which were slaine, should rise againe, it had bene superfluous, and vaine, to a pray for the dead.

45 And therefore hee perceiued, that there was great fauour laide vp for those that died godly. (It was an holy and good thought.) So he made a reconciliation for the dead that they might be deliuered from sinne.

CHAP. XIII.

1 The comming of Eupator into Iudea. 4 The death of Menelaus. 10 Maccabeus going to fight against Eupator, moueth his souldiers vnto prayer. 15 He killeth fourteene thousand men in the tents of Antiochus. 21 Rhodocus the betrayer of the Iewes is taken.

IN the hundreth fourty and nine yeere, it was tolde Iudas that Antiochus Eupator was comming with a great power into Iudea,

2 And Lysias the steward and ruler of his affaires with him, hauing both in their armie an hundreth and tenne thousand men of foote of the Grecians, and fiue thousand horsemen, and two and twentie Elephants, and three hundreth charets set with hookes.

3 Menelaus also ioyned himselfe with them, and with great deceite incouraged Antiochus, not for the safegarde of the countrey, but because he thought to haue bene made the gouernour.

4 But the King of kings moued Antiochus minde against this wicked man, and Lysias informed the King that this man was the cause of all mischiefe, so that the King commanded to bring him to Berea to put him vnto death as the maner was in that place.

5 Now there was in that place a towre of fiftie cubites high, full of ashes, and it had an instrument that turned rounde, and on euery side it rouled downe into the ashes:

6 And there whosoeuer was condemned of sacriledge, or of any other grieuous crime, was cast of all men to the death.

7 And so it came to passe that this wicked man should die such a death, and it was a most iust thing that Menelaus should want buriall.

8 For because he had committed many sinnes by the altar, whose fire and ashes were holy: he himselfe also died in the ashes.

9 ¶ Now the King raged in his minde, and came to shewe himselfe more cruell vnto the Iewes then his father.

10 Which things when Iudas perceiued, he commaunded the people to call vpon the Lorde night and day, that if euer he had holpen them, he would now helpe them, when they shoulde be put from their Lawe, from their countrey, and from the holy Temple:

11 And that hee would not suffer the people which a litle afore began to recouer, to be subdued vnto the blasphemous nations.

12 So when they had done this all together, and besought the Lord for mercy with weeping and fasting, and falling downe three dayes together, Iudas exhorted them to make themselues readie.

13 And he being apart with the Elders, tooke counsel to goe forth, afore the King brought his hoste into Iudea, and should take the citie, and commit the matter to the helpe of the Lord.

14 So committing the charge to the Lord of the worlde, hee exhorted his souldiers to fight manfully, euen vnto death for the Lawes, the Temple, the city, their countrey, and the common wealth, and camped by Modin.

15 And so giuing his souldiers for a watch worde, The victorie of God, he picked out the manliest young men, and went by night into the Kings campe, and slewe of the hoste fourteene thousand men, and the greatest Elephant with all that sate vpon him.

16 Thus when they had brought a great feare, and trouble in the campe, and all things went prosperously with them, they departed.

17 This was done in the breake of the day, because the protection of the Lorde did helpe them.

18 ¶ Now when the King had tasted the manlinesse of the Iewes, he went about to take the holdes by policie, 19 And marched toward Beth-sura, which was a strong holde of the Iewes: but hee was chased away, hurt, and lost of his men.

20 For Iudas had sent vnto them that were in it, such things as were necessary.

21 But Rhodocus which was in the Iewes hoste, disclosed the secrets to the enemies: therefore he was sought out, and when they had gotten him, they put him in prison.

22 After this did the king commune with them that were in Beth-sura, and ‖ tooke truce with them, departed, and ioyned battell with Iudas, who ouercame him. ‖ or, gaue and tooke the right hand.

23 But when hee vnderstood, that Philip (whom he had left to be ouerseer of his busines at Antiochia) did rebell against him, he was astonished, so that hee yeelded himselfe to the Iewes, and made them an oth to doe all things that were right, and was appeased towarde them, and offered sacrifice and adorned the Temple, and shewed great gentlenesse to the place, 24 And embraced Maccabeus, and made him captaine and gouernour from Ptolemais vnto the Gerrenians.

25 Neuertheless,

Neuertheleſſe, when hee came to Ptolemais, the people of the citie were not content with this agreement: and becauſe they were grieued, they would that hee ſhould breake the couenants.

26 Then went Lyſias vp vnto the iudgement ſeate, and excuſed the fact as well as hee could, and perſwaded them, and pacified them, and made them well affectioned, and came againe vnto Antiochia. This is the matter concerning the Kings iourney, and his returne.

CHAP. XIIII.

1 Demetrius moued by Alcimus ſendeth Nicanor to kill the Iewes. 18 Nicanor maketh a compact with the Iewes, 29 Which he yet breaketh through the motion of the King. 37 Nicanor commandeth Razis to be taken, who ſlayeth himſelfe.

AFter three yeeres was Iudas informed that Demetrius the ſonne of Seleucus was come vp with a great power and nauie by the hauen of Tripolis,

2 When he had wonne the countrey, and ſlaine Antiochus and his lieutenant Lyſias.

3 Nowe Alcimus, which had beene the high Prieſt, and wilfully defiled himſelfe in the time that all things were confounded, ſeeing that by no meanes he could ſaue himſelfe, nor haue any more entrance to the holy altar,

4 Hee came to king Demetrius in the hundreth fiftie and one yeere, preſenting vnto him a crowne of golde, and a palme, & of the boughes, which were vſed ſolemnely in the Temple, and that day he held his tongue.

5 But when he had gotten opportunitie, and occaſion for his rage, Demetrius called him to counſell, and aſked him what deuices or counſels the Iewes leaned vnto.

6 To the which he anſwered, The Iewes that be called Aſideans, whoſe captaine is Iudas Maccabeus, maintaine warres, and make inſurrections, and will not let the Realme be in peace.

7 Therefore I, being depriued of my fathers honour (I meane the hie Prieſthood) am nowe come hither,

8 Partly becauſe I was well affectioned vnto the Kings affaires, and ſecondly becauſe I ſought the profite of mine owne citizens: for all our people, through their raſhneſſe, are not a litle troubled.

9 Wherefore, O King, ſeeing thou knoweſt all theſe things, make prouiſion for the countrey, and our nation which is abuſed, according to thine owne humanitie, that is ready to helpe all men.

10 For as long as Iudas liueth, it is not poſſible that the matter ſhould be well.

11 When he had ſpoken theſe woordes, other friends alſo hauing euill will at Iudas, ſet Demetrius on fire.

12 Who immediatly called for Nicanor the ruler of the Elephantes, and made him captaine ouer Iudea, 13 And ſent him forth, commanding him to ſlay Iudas, and to ſcatter them that were with him, and to make Alcimus high Prieſt of the great Temple.

14 Then the Heathen which fled out of Iudea from Iudas, came to Nicanor by flockes, thinking the hatred & calamities of the Iewes to be their welfare.

15 Nowe when the Iewes heard of Nicanors comming, and the gathering together of the heathen, they ſprinckled themſelues with earth, and prayed vnto him which had appointed himſelfe a people for euer, and did alwayes defend his owne portion with euident tokens.

16 So at the commaundement of the captaine, they remoued straightwaies from thence, and came to the towne of Deſſau, 17 Where Simon Iudas brother had ioyned battell with Nicanor, and was ſomewhat aſtoniſhed through the ſudden ſilence of the enemies.

18 Neuertheleſſe Nicanor hearing the manlineſſe of them that were with Iudas, and the bolde ſtomackes that they had for their countrey, durſt not prooue the matter with bloodſheading.

19 Therefore he ſent Polidonius, ‖ Theodotus, and ‖ Matthias before to make peace. ‖ Or, Theodotus.

20 So when they had taken long aduiſement thereupon, and the captaine ſhewed it vnto the multitude, they were agreed in one minde, and conſented to the couenants. ‖ Or, Mattathias.

21 And they appointed a day when they ſhould particularly come together: ſo when the day was come, they ſet for euery man his ſtoole.

22 Neuertheleſſe Iudas commaunded certayne men of armes to waite in conuenient places, leſt there ſhould ſuddenly ariſe any euill through the enemies: and ſo they communed together of the things wherepon they had agreed.

23 Nicanor, while hee abode at Ieruſalem, did none hurt, but ſent away the people that were gathered together.

24 Hee ‖ loued Iudas, and fauoured him in his heart. ‖ Or, had Iudas before his eyes.

25 Hee prayed him alſo to take a wife, and to beget children: ſo hee married, and they liued together.

26 But Alcimus perceiuing the loue that was betweene them, and vnderſtanding the couenants that were made, came to Demetrius, & told him, that Nicanor had taken ſtrange matters in hand, and ordeyned Iudas a traytour to the Reamle, to be his ſucceſſour.

27 Then the King was diſpleaſed, and by the reportes of this wicked man, hee wrote to Nicanor, ſaying, that he was very angry for the couenants, commanding him that he ſhoulde ſend Maccabeus in all haſte priſoner vnto Antiochia.

28 When theſe things came to Nicanor, hee was aſtoniſhed and ſore grieued, that he ſhould breake the things wherein they had agreed, ſeeing that that man had committed no wickedneſſe.

29 But becauſe it was not commodious to him to withſtand the King, hee ſought craftily to accompliſh it.

30 Notwithſtanding when Maccabeus perceiued that Nicanor beganne to be rough vnto him, and that he intreated him more rudely then hee was wont, hee perceiued that ſuch rigour came not of good, and therefore hee gathered a fewe of his men, and withdrewe himſelfe from Nicanor.

31 But the other perceiuing that hee was preuenprouented by Maccabeus worthie pollicie, came into the great and holy Temple, and commanded the Priests, which were offering their vsual sacrifices, to deliuer him the man.

32 And when they ware that they could not tell where the man was, whom he sought,

33 He stretched out his right hand towarde the Temple, and made an othe in this maner,

If yee will not deliuer me Iudas as a prisoner, I will make this Temple of God a plaine field, and will breake downe the altar, and will erect a notable temple vnto Bacchus.

34 After these wordes he departed: then the Priestes lift vp their handes towarde heauen, and besought him that was euer the defender of their nation, saying in this maner, 35 Thou, O Lorde of all things, which hast neede of nothing, wouldest that the Temple of thine habitation should be among vs.

36 Therefore now, O most holy Lord, keepe this house euer vndefiled, which lately was cleansed, and stoppe all the mouthes of the vnrighteous.

37 Nowe was there accused vnto Nicanor, Razis one of the Elders of Ierusalem, a louer of the citie, & a man of very good report, which for his loue was called a father of the Iewes.

38 For this man afore times when the Iewes were minded to keepe themselues vndefiled and pure, being accused to bee of the religion of the Iewes, did offer to spend his body and life with all constancie for the religion of the Iewes.

39 So Nicanor willing to declare the hatred that he bare to the Iewes, sent about fiue hundreth men of warre to take him.

40 For hee thought by taking him to doe the Iewes much hurt.

41 But when this company would haue taken his castell, and would haue broken the gates by violence, & commanded to bring fire to burne the gates, so that he was ready to be taken on euery side, he fell on his sword,

42 Willing rather to die manfully, then to giue himselfe into the handes of wicked men, and to suffer reproche vnworthie for his noble stocke.

43 Notwithstanding what time as hee missed of his stroke for haste, and the multitude rushed in violently betweene the doores, hee ranne boldly to the wall, and cast himselfe down manfully among the multitude:

44 Which conueyed themselues lightly away, and gaue place, so that hee fell vpon his belly.

45 Neuertheles while there was yet breath in him, being kindled in his minde, hee rose vp, and though his blood gushed out like a fountain, and he was very sore wounded, yet hee ranne thorow the middes of the people,

46 And gate him to the top of an hie rocke: so when his blood was vtterly gone, he tooke out his owne bowels with both his handes, and threw them vpon the people, calling vpon the Lorde of life and Spirite, that hee would restore them againe vnto him, and thus he dyed.

a As this priuate example ought not to be followed of the godly, because it is contrary to the worde of God, although the authorseeme here to approue it: so that place as touching prayer, Chap. 12. 44. though Iudas had appointed it, yet were it not sufficient to prooue a doctrine, because it is onely a particular example.

CHAP. XV.

1 Nicanor goeth about to come vpon Iudas on the Sabbath day. 5 The blasphemie of Nicanor. 14 Maccabeus encouraged him. 21 The prayer of Maccabeus. 30 Maccabeus commaundeth Nicanors head and handes to bee cut off, and his tongue to be giuen vnto the fowles. 39 The author excuseth himselfe.

NOwe when Nicanor knew that Iudas and his company were in the countrey of Samaria, hee thought with all assurance to come vpon them, vpon the Sabbath day.

2 Neuertheless the Iewes that were compelled to goe with him, sayde, O kill not so cruelly and barbarously, but honour and sanctifie the day that is appointed by him that seeth all things.

3 But this most wicked person demaunded, Is there a Lorde in heauen, that commaunded the Sabbath day to be kept?

4 And when they sayde, There is a liuing Lorde, which ruleth in the heauen, who commanded the seuenth day to be kept,

5 Then he sayde, And I am mightie vpon earth to commaund them to arme themselues, and to performe the kings businesse. Notwithstanding he could not accomplish his wicked enterprise.

6 For Nicanor lifted vp with great pride, purposed to set vp a memoriall of the victorie obtayned of all them that were with Iudas.

7 But Maccabeus had euer sure confidence and a perfect hope that the Lorde would helpe him,

8 And exhorted his people not to bee afrayde at the comming of the heathen, but alway to remember the helpe that had bene shewed vnto them from heauen, and to trust nowe also that they should haue the victorie by the Almightie.

9 Thus he encouraged them by the law and Prophetes, putting them in remembrance of the battels that they had wonne afore, and so made them more willing.

10 And stirred vp their heartes, and shewed them also the deceitfulnesse of the heathen, and howe they had broken their othes.

11 Thus hee armed euery one of them, not with the assurance of shieldes and speares, but with wholesome wordes and exhortations, and shewed them a dreame worthie to bee beleeued, and reioyced them greatly.

12 And this was his vision, He thought that he sawe Onias, (which had bene the hie Priest, a vertuous and a good man, reuerent in behauiour, and of sober conuersation, well spoken, and one that had bene exercised in all poynts of godlinesse from a childe) holding vp his handes toward heauen, and praying for the whole people of the Iewes.

13 After this there appeared vnto him an other man which was aged, honourable, and of a wonderfull dignitie, and excellencie aboue him.

14 And Onias spake, and sayde, This is a louer of the brethren, who prayeth much for the people, and for the holy citie, to wit, Ieremias the Prophet of God.

15 Her thought also that Ieremias helde out his right hand, and gaue vnto Iudas a sworde of golde: and as he gaue it, he spake thus, 16 Take this holy sworde a gift from God, wherewith thou shalt wounde the aduersaries.

17 And

17 And so being comforted by the wordes of Judas, which were very sweete and able to stirre them vp to valiantnes and to encourage the hearts of the young men, they determined to pitch no campe, but courageously to set vpon them, and manfully to assaile them, and to trie the matter hand to hand, because the citie and the Sanctuary & the Temple were in danger.

18 As for their wiues and children, and brethren, and kinsfolkes, they set lesse by their danger: but their greatest and principall feare was for the holy Temple.

19 Againe they that were in the citie, were carefull for the armie that was abroad.

20 Now whiles they all waited for the trial of the matter, and the enemies nowe met with them, and the hoste was set in aray, and the ‖beastes were separated into conuenient places, and the horsemen were placed in the wings:

‖Or, Elephants.

21 Maccabeus considering the comming of the multitude, and the diuers preparations of weapons, and the fiercenesse of the beasts, helde vp his hands toward heauen, calling vpon the Lorde that doeth wonders, and that looked vpon them, knowing that the victorie commeth not by the weapons, but that he giueth the victorie to them that are worthy, as seemeth good vnto him.

22 Therefore in his prayer hee sayde after this maner, O Lord, * thou that didst send thine Angel in the time of Ezechias king of Judea, who in the hoste of Sennacherib slewe an hundreth fourescore and fiue thousand,

1. Kings 19. 35. Isa. 37. 36. Iob. 1. 18. Ecclu. 48. 22.

23 Sende now also thy good Angell before vs, O Lorde of heauens, for a feare and dread vnto them, 24 And let them bee discomfited by the strength of thine armie, which come against thine holy people to blaspheme. Thus with these wordes he made an ende.

25 Then Nicanor and they that were with him, drewe neere with trumpets & shoutings for ioy.

26 But Judas and his company praying and calling vpon God, encountred with the enemies, 27 So that with their hands they fought, but with their hearres they prayed vnto God, and slewe no lesse then fiue and thirtie thousand men: for through the presence of God they were wonderously comforted.

28 Nowe when they left off, & were turning againe with ioy, they vnderstoode that Nicanor himselfe was slaine for all his armour.

29 Then they made a great shoute and a cry, praysing the Almightie in their owne language.

30 Therefore Iudas, which was euer the chiefe defender of his citizens both in body and minde, and which bare euer good affection towardes them of his nation, commaunded to smite off Nicanors head, with his hand and shoulder, and to bring it to Jerusalem.

31 And when hee came there, hee called all them of his nation, and set the ‖Priestes by the altar, and sent for them of the castell, 32 And shewed them wicked Nicanors head, and the hand of the blasphemer which hee had holden vp against the holy Temple of the Almightie with proude bragges.

33 He caused the tongue also of wicked Nicanor to be cut in litle pieces, and to bee cast vnto the foules, and that the rewardes of his madnes should be hanged vp before the Temple.

34 So euery man prayed toward the heauen the glorious Lord, saying, Blessed be hee, that hath kept his place vndefiled.

35 He hanged also Nicanors head vpon the high castell, for an euident and plaine token vnto all the helpe of God.

36 And so they established all together by a common decree that they would in no case suffer this day without keeping it holy:

37 And that the feast should be the thirteenth day of the twelfth moneth, which is called Adar in the Syrians language, the day before Mardocheus day.

38 Thus farre as concerning Nicanors matters, and from that time the Hebrewes had the citie in possession. And here will I also make an end.

39 If I haue done well, and as the story required, it is the thing that I desired: but if I haue spoken slenderly and barely, it is that I could.

40 For as it is hurtfull to drinke wine alone, and then againe water: and as wine tempered with water is pleasant and delighteth the taste: so the setting out of the matter delighteth the eares of them that reade the storie. And here shall be the ende.

The ſumme of the whole Scripture of the bookes of the olde and Newe Teſtament.

GOD.

THe bookes of the olde Teſtament doe teach vs that the ſame GOD, whom Adam, Noe, Abraham, Iſaac, Iacob, Dauid & the other fathers did worſhip, is *the only true God, and that he the ſame is Almightie and aeuerlaſting: who of his meere goodneſſe hath created by his word[b] heauen and earth, & al that is in them: From whom al things do come: without whom there is nothing at al: And that he is[c] iuſt and mercifull: who alſo[d] worketh al in all, [e] after his owne will: [f] To whome it is not lawfull to ſay, wherefore hee doth thus or thus.

Creation of man.

MOreouer, theſe bookes teach vs, that this very God Almightie, after he created al things, ſhope alſo Adam the firſt man, [g] to the image and ſpiritual ſimilitude of himſelfe, and that he did conſtitute him Lord ouer all things that he had created in earth. Which Adam, by the enuy and fraud of the deuil, tranſgreſſing the precept of his creator, [h] by this his ſinne brought in ſuch and ſo great ſinne into the world, that we which be ſprong from him by the fleſhe, [i] bee in nature the children of wrath, and thereupon wee be made ſubiect and thrall to death, to damnation, to the yoke and tyrannie of the deuill.

Sinne.

Chriſt promiſed

FVrthermore, we are taught by theſe exceellent bookes, that God promiſed to [k] Adam, [l] Abraham, [m] Iſaac, [n] Iacob, [o] Dauid, & to other fathers of the old time, that he would ſend that bleſſed ſeed, his ſonne Ieſus Chriſt our Sauiour, which ſhould deliuer all thoſe from ſinne, and from the ptyranny of the deuill, which by a [p] lively and working faith ſhould beleeue this promiſe, and put their truſt in Ieſus Chriſt, hoping that of him and by him, they ſhould obteine this deliuerance.

The Lawe

ALſo they giue vs to vnderſtand, that in the meane ſeaſon, while thoſe fathers the Iſraelites looked for the ſaluation, and deliuerance promiſed (for that the nature of man is ſuch, ſo prond and ſo corrupt, that thoſe would not willingly acknowledge themſelues to be ſinners, which had need of the Sauiour promiſed) God the creator gaue by Moſes his [q] Law written in two Tables of ſtone: that by it, ſinne & the malice of mans heart beeing [r] knowen, men mought more vehemently thirſt for the [s] comming of Ieſus Chriſt, who ſhould redeeme and deliuer them from ſinne: which thing, neither the Law, nor yet the ſacrifices and oblations of the Law did [t] performe. For they were ſhadowes and figures of the true oblation of the body of Chriſt: by which oblation all [u] ſinne ſhould be blotted out, and quite put away.

Chriſt God our Sauiour came.

BY the bookes of the new Teſtament we be taught, that Chriſt ſo afore promiſed (*which is God aboue al things moſt bleſſed for euer,) he, I ſay, was ſhadowed in the bookes of the olde Teſtament, and in ſacrifices figured, that he was [a] ſent at the laſt from the father, the ſelfe ſame time which the father did conſtitute within himſelfe: I ſay, [b] at that time, when all wickednesſe abounded in the worlde, then he was ſent. And this Ieſus our Sauiour, being borne in the fleſh, [c] ſuffered death, and roſe againe from the dead. Which actes of his were not done by him in reſpect of the [d] good workes of any man (for we were all ſinners) but ỹ this God our father ſhoulde [e] appeare true, in exhibiting the aboundant [f] riches of his grace which hee promiſed, and that [g] through his mercy hee mought bring vs to ſaluation.

A Lambe. A ſacrifice. Peace. Adoption.

Whereupon it is euidently ſhewed in the [h] newe Teſtament, that Ieſus Chriſt, beeing the true [i] Lambe, the true [k] ſacrifice of the world, [l] putting away the ſinnes of men, came into this world to purchaſe grace and [m] peace for vs with the Father, [n] waſhing vs from our ſinnes in his owne blood, and [o] ſhould deliuer vs from the bondage of the deuil, whome by ſinne wee did ſerue: And ſo we ſhould be [p] adopted by him to be the ſonnes of God, made [q] heires with him of that moſt excellent and euerlaſting kingdome.

The holy Ghoſt, Faith.

Nowe that we ſhould acknowledge this ſingular and excellent benefite of God towards vs, Almightie God [r] giueth vs his holy Spirit: the [s] fruite and effect of the which is faith in God, and in his Chriſt. For, without the holy Ghoſt, by which we are inſtructed and [t] ſealed, neither can we beleeue that God the father ſent Meſſias, nor yet that Ieſus is Chriſt: For [u] no man (ſaith Paul) can ſay that Ieſus is the Lord, but by the holy Ghoſt. The [x] ſame Spirit witneſſeth to our Spirit, ỹ we are the children of God, [y] and powreth into our bowels that charitie which Paul deſcribed to the Corinthians. Furthermore, ỹ holy Spirit doth giue vs hope, which is a ſure looking for eternal life, wherof he himſelfe is the certain [z] token & pledge. Alſo he giueth vs other *ſpiritual gifts, of the which Paul writeth to ỹ Galatians. Therfore ỹ benefit of faith is not to be deſpiſed, or litle to be ſet by. For by ỹ meanes of this truſt & [a] faith in Chriſt, which [b] worketh by charitie, & ſheweth it ſelf forth by ỹ works of charitie, mouing man thereto, we are [c] iuſtified & ſanctified: that is to ſay, God & the Father of our Lord Ieſus Chriſt (which is made our [d] Father alſo by him, being our [e] brother) doeth accompt vs to be iuſt and holy through his grace, and through the merit of his ſonne Ieſus Chriſt, not [f] imputing our ſinnes to vs, ſo farre forth that we ſhould ſuffer the paines of hell for them.

Good workes,

Finally, Chriſt himſelfe came into the world, to the intent that we through him being ſanctified and cleanſed from our ſinnes, following his will in good workes, ſhould deny the things pertaining to the fleſh, and [g] freely [h] ſerue him in righteouſneſſe and holineſſe all the dayes of our life: and that [i] by good workes (which God hath prepared for vs to walke in) we ſhould [k] ſhew our ſelues to bee called to his grace, and gift of faith: which good works who ſo hath not, doeth ſhew himſelfe not to haue ſuch a faith in Chriſt as is required in vs.

Chriſt our Maſter and teacher.

To Chriſt muſt we come, and [l] followe him with a cheerefull minde, that he may teach: For he is [m] our maſter, [n] lowly and humble of heart: he is to vs an [o] example, whereby we muſt learne the rule to liue well.

Biſhop. Mediatour, Aduocate.

Moreouer, he is our [p] Biſhop, and our [q] high Prieſt, which did himſelfe offer vp for vs his owne blood, being the onely [r] mediatour betweene God and men: Who now ſitteth at the right hande of God the Father, being made our ſaduocate, making prayer and interceſſion for vs: who doubtleſſe ſhall obteine for vs [t] whatſoeuer wee ſhall deſire, either of him, or els of his Father in his Name, if ſo be that we thus deſiring, ſhall beleeue that he will ſo doe: for thus hath he promiſed. Therefore let vs not doubt, if wee ſinne at any time, to come with [u] repentance (to the which he doeth inuite and ſtirre vs at the very beginning of his preaching) and with ſure truſt to the [x] throne of his grace, with this beliefe, that we ſhall obtaine mercie. For therefore [y] came he into the world, that he might ſaue ſinners by his grace.

Iudgment.

THis is verily Chriſt Ieſus, which ſhall come at a [z] certaine time appointed by his Father, and ſhall ſit in great maieſtie to [a] iudge all men, and to render to euery man [b] the workes of his body according to that he hath done, whether it be good or euill. And he ſhall ſay to them which ſhal be on the right ſide, which in this worlde did looke for the good things to come (that is to ſay, life euerlaſting:) [c] Come ye bleſſed of my Father, inioy the kingdome that hath bene prepared for you from the beginning of the world. But to them which ſhall be on the left ſide, hee ſhall ſay: Depart from me ye curſed into euerlaſting fire prepared for the deuil and his Angelles. And then [d] ſhall the ende be, when Chriſt hauing vtterly vanquiſhed all maner of enemies, ſhall deliuer vp the kingdome to God the Father.

Eternall life.

To what intent the Scriptures were written.

TO the intent that we mought vnderſtand theſe things, the [e] ſacred bookes of the Bible were deliuered to vs by the goodnes of God through his holy Spirit, with the preaching of that doctrine which is conteined in them, and with his Sacraments, by which the trueth of his doctrine is ſealed vp to vs: that we [f] mought vnderſtand, I ſay, and beleeue that there is one onely true God, & one Sauiour Ieſus Chriſt, whom (as he had promiſed) hee hath ſent: [g] and that we beleeuing, mought haue in his Name life euerlaſting.

Chriſt the onely foundation.

BEſide this [h] foundation, no man can lay any other in the Church of Chriſt: and vpon this foundation the Church doeth ſtand ſure and ſtedfaſt. And Paul willeth him to bee [i] accurſed which ſhall preach any other faith and ſaluation, then by Ieſus Chriſt, yea, although he were an Angel from heauen.

For [k] of him, through him, and for him, are all things: To whome with the Father and the holy Ghoſt, be all honour and glory, world without ende, Amen.

Certaine

Certaine questions and answeres touching the doctrine of Predestination, the vse of Gods worde and Sacraments.

Question.

WHy doe men so much varie in matters of religion?

Answere.

Because all haue not the like measure of knowledge, neither doe all beleeue ỳ Gospel of Christ.

Question.

What is the reason thereof?

Answere.

Because they onely beleeue the Gospell and doctrine of Christ, which are ordeined vnto eternall life.

Question.

Are not all ordained vnto eternall life?

Answere.

Some are vessels of wrath ordained vnto destruction, as others are vessels of mercie prepared to glory.

Question.

Howe standeth it with Gods iustice, that some are appointed vnto damnation?

Answere.

Very wel: because all men haue in themselues sinne, which deserueth no lesse: and therefore the mercie of God is wonderfull in that he vouchsafeth to saue some of that sinfull race, and to bring them to the knowledge of the trueth.

Question.

If Gods ordinance and determination must of necessitie take effect, then what neede any man to care? for hee that liueth well, must needes be damned, if he be thereunto ordeined: and hee that liueth ill must needes be saued, if hee be thereunto appointed.

Answere.

Not so: for it is not possible, that either the elect should alwayes be without care to doe well, or that the reprobate should haue any will thereunto. For to haue either good will or good worke, is a testimonie of the Spirit of God, which is giuen to the elect only, whereby faith is so wrought in them, that being graft in Christ, they growe in holinesse to that glory, whereunto they are appointed. Neither are they so vaine as once to thinke that they may doe as they list themselues, because they are predestinate vnto saluation: but rather they endeuour to walke in such good workes as God in Christ Iesus hath ordained them vnto, and prepared for them to be occupied in, to their owne comfort, stay, and assurance, and to his glory.

Question.

But howe shall I knowe my selfe to bee one of those whome God hath ordained to life eternall?

Answere.

By the motions of spirituall life, which belongeth onely to the children of God: by the which that life is perceiued, euen as the life of this body is discerned by the sense and mottons thereof.

Question.

What meane you by the mottons of spirituall life?

Answere.

I meane remorse of conscience, ioyned with the lothing of sinne, and loue of righteousnes: the hand of faith reaching vnto life eternall in Christ, the conscience comforted in distresse, and rayled vp to confidence in God by the worke of his Spirit: a thankfull remembrance of Gods benefites receiued, and the vsing of all aduersities as occasion of amendment sent from God.

Question.

Cannot such perish as at some time or other feele these motions within themselues?

Answere.

It is not possible that they should: for as Gods purpose is not changeable, so he repenteth not the gifts and graces of his adoption: neither doth he cast off those whome he hath once receiued.

Question.

Why then should wee pray by the example of Dauid, that he cast vs not from his face, and that hee take not his holy Spirit from vs?

Answere.

In so praying wee make protestation of the weaknesse of flesh, which mooueth vs to doubt: yet should not wee haue courage to aske, if wee were not assured that God will giue according to his purpose and promise, that which we require.

Question.

Doe the children of God feele the motions aforesayd alwayes alike?

Answere.

No truely: for God sometime to proone his, seemeth to leaue them in such sort, that the flesh ouermatcheth the spirite, whereof ariseth trouble of conscience for the time:

yet the spirite of adoption is neuer taken from them, that haue once receiued it: else might they perish. But as in many diseases of the body, the powers of bodily life are letted: So in some assaults these motions of spirituall life are not perceiued, because they lie hidden in our manifold infirmities, as the fire couered with ashes. Yet as after sickenesse commeth health, and after cloudes the Sunne shineth cleare: so the powers of spiritall life will more or lesse be felt and perceiued in the children of God.

Question.

What if I neuer feele these motions in my selfe, shal I despayre and thinke my selfe a castaway?

Answere.

God forbid: for God calleth his at what time hee seeth good: and the instruments whereby hee vsually calleth, haue not the like effect at all times, yet it is not good to neglect the meanes whereby God hath determined to worke the saluation of his. For as ware is not melted without heate, nor clay hardened but by meanes thereof: so God vseth meanes both to drawe those vnto himselfe, whome hee hath appointed vnto saluation, and also to bewray the wickednesse of them whom he iustly condemneth.

Question.

By what meanes vseth God to drawe men to himselfe that they may be saued?

Answere.

By the preaching of his worde and the ministring of his Sacraments thereunto annexed.

Question.

What meane you by the worde of God?

Answere.

I meane the doctrine of the Prophets and Apostles which they receiued of the spirit of God, and haue left written in that Booke which wee commonly call the Olde and Newe Testament.

Question.

Howe may I be assured, that it is the worde of God, which that Booke conteineth?

Answere.

By the maiestie of God appearing in that plaine and simple doctrine: by the pureneſſe, vprightneſſe and holines thereof: by the certaintie of euery thing therein affirmed: by the successe of all things according to it: by perpetuall consent which is to be seene in euery part thereof: by the excellencie of the matters vttered: But especially by the testimonie of Gods spirite, whereby it was written, who moueth the hearts of those in whome it resteth, to consent vnto the worde, and reuerently to embrace it.

Question.

Howe doeth this worde of God serue to drawe men vnto him?

Answere.

When it is so preached and heard, that men may vnderstand and learne what God teacheth: accept & receiue thankfully that which is thereby giuen, promised and assured: and be moued with desire and diligence to doe that which it commandeth.

Question.

Doe the Sacraments also serue to this ende?

Answere.

Yea verily: that by sight, taste and feeling, as well as by hearing, wee might bee instructed, assured, and brought to obedience.

Question.

Howe doeth our Baptisme serue hereunto?

Answere.

It teacheth vs to put on Christ, that with his righteousnes our sinfulnes may be hidden: it assureth vs, that we are so graft into Christ, that all our sinnes by him are washed away: it chargeth vs to die to sinne, to continue in the profession of Christ, and to loue eche other.

Question.

Hath the Lords Supper also this vse?

Answere.

Yea doubtlesse: for it teacheth, that the body and blood of Christ crucified is the onely foode of the newe borne children of God: it assureth that Christ is wholly theirs to giue and to continue life spirituall and heauenly to body and soule, to nourish, strengthen, refresh, and to make cheerefull the hearts of the elect: it requireth thankfull remembrance of the death of Christ, vnitie among those that doe professe him, with a true confession of his trueth.

Question.

Why is not this vse of the Sacraments commonly knowen?

Answere.

Because they are abused for custome, for fashion, for custome and company, without regard vnto the worde, whereunto they are so annexed, that they ought not vpon any necessitie by any person be seuered from it, which teacheth the right vse of euery thing.

Question.

I perceiue that nothing is more necessarie then the worde of God: therefore I pray you shewe me howe I may attaine to some knowledge and profite thereby.

Answere.

By diligent hearing of such as preach it, by continuall and orderly exercise of reading and praying.

Question.

What orderly exercise thinke you most conuenient to be vsed herein?

Answere.

Answere.

That as euery day, twise at the least, we most commonly receiue foode to the nourishment of this corporall life: so no day be let passe without some reading in such sort that occasion therby may be taken to speake againe vnto God by prayer, as hee in his word speaketh vnto vs: So that at the least two Chapters would bee orderly and aduisedly read euery day, all other businesse, impediments and lets set apart.

Question.

This seemeth very easie to be done, what thinke you elle requisite?

Answere.

That some especiall places of Scripture be so committed to memory, that the minde may euer bee furnished with some good matter against all temptations. To which ende I note these Scriptures vnto you, whereunto you may ioyne other at your owne choise: Psalmes 37.50.139. Esai.53. Iohn 17. Rom.8. 1. Tim.4.

Question.

But the Scriptures are hard and not easie to vnderstand.

Answere.

Discourage not your selfe herewith: for GOD maketh them easie to such as in humilitie seeke him: and that hardnesse that you finde serueth to moue you to the more diligence, and to make inquirie of such as haue knowledge, when any doubt ariseth. That which you perceiue not at one time, God shall reueale at another: So that you shall haue your growing in grace, knowledge and godlinesse, to Gods glorie and your owne comfort in Christ, whose name for euer be praysed. Amen.

¶ The holy [a] Gospell of Iesus Christ, [b] according to Matthewe.

a This word signifieth good tydings, and is taken here for the story, which conteyneth the ioyfull message of the comming of the sonne of God promised from the beginning.
b That is, written and taught by Matthewe.

THE ARGVMENT.

IN this historie written by Matthewe, Marke, Luke, and Iohn, the spirite of God so gouerned their hearts, that although they were foure in number, yet in effect and purpose they so consent, as though the whole had bene composed by any one of them. And albeit in stile and maner of writing they be diuers, and sometime one writeth more largely that which the other doth abridge: neuertheless in matter and argument, they all tend to one ende: which is, to publish to the world the fauour of God towarde mankinde through Christ Iesus, whome the Father hath giuen as a pledge of his mercie and loue. And for this cause they entitle their storie, GOSPEL, which signifieth good tydings, forasmuch as God hath performed indeede that which the fathers hoped for. So that hereby we are admonished to forsake the worlde, and the vanities thereof, and with most affectioned hearts embrace this incomparable treasure freely offered vnto vs: for there is no ioy nor consolation, no peace nor quietnesse, no felicitie nor saluation, but in Iesus Christ, who is the very substance of this Gospel, and in whome all the promises are Yea, and Amen. And therefore vnder this word is contained the whole New Testament: but commonly we vse this name for the history, which the foure Euangelists write, containing Christs comming in the flesh, his death and resurrection, which is the perfect summe of our saluation. Matthew, Marke, and Luke are more copious in describing his life and death: but Iohn more laboureth to set foorth his doctrine, wherein both Christs office, and also the vertue of his death and resurrection more fully appeare: for without this, to know that Christ was borne, dead, and risen againe, shoulde nothing profite vs. The which thing notwithstanding that the three first touch partly, as he also sometime intermedleth the historical narration yet Iohn chiefly is occupied herein. And therefore as a most learned interpreter writeth, they describe, as it were, the body, and Iohn setteth before our eyes the soule. Wherefore the same aptly resembleth the Gospell written by Iohn, the key which openeth the doore to the vnderstanding of the others: for whosoeuer doeth knowe the office, vertue and power of Christ, shal reade that which is written of the Sonne of God come to be the Redeemer of the worlde, with most profite. Now as concerning the writers of this historie, it is euident that Matthew was a Publicane, or custome gatherer, and was thence chosen of Christ to be an Apostle. Marke is thought to haue bin Peters disciple, and to haue planted the first Church at Alexandria, where he dyed the eight yeere of the reigne of Nero. Luke was a Phisition of Antiochia, and became Pauls disciple, and fellowe in all his trauailes: hee liued fourescore and foure yeeres, and was buried at Constantinople. Iohn was that Apostle whom the Lord loued, the sonne of Zebedeus, and brother of Iames: he dyed threescore yeeres after Christ, and was buried neere to the citie of Ephesus.

c This is the rehearsall of the progenie, whereof Iesus Christ is sprong according to the flesh.
d So called, for that he came of the stocke of Dauid.
e These two are first rehearsed, because Christ was especially promised to some of them and their seede, and therefore Christ commonly was called the sonne of Dauid, because the promise was more euidently confirmed vnto him. Gen.21.2 Gen.25.24. Gen.29.35. Gen.38.27.
f By incestuous adulterie, the which shame setteth foorth his great humilitie, who made himselfe of no reputation, but became a seruant for our sakes: yea, a worme and no man, the reproch of men, and contempte of the people, and at length suffered the accursed death of the crosse, 1.Chro.2.5 ruth 4,18,19.

THe* Booke of the generatiõ of IESVS CHRIST [d] sonne of [e] Dauid, the sonne of Abraham.

3 *And Iudas begate Phares, and Zara [f] of Thamar. And *Phares begate Esrom. And Esrom begate Aram.

4 And Aram begate Aminadab. And Aminadab begate Naasson. And Naasson begate Salmon.

5 And Salmon begate Booz of [g] Rachab. And *Booz begate Obed of Ruth. And Obed begate Jesse.

6 And *Jesse begate Dauid the King. And *Dauid the King begate Solomon of her that was the wife of Urias.

7 And *Solomon begate Roboam. And Roboam begate Abia. And Abia begate Asa.

8 And Asa begate Josaphat. And Josaphat begate Joram. And Joram begate Ozias.

9 And Ozias begate [h] Joatham. And Joatham begate Achaz. And Achaz begate Ezekias.

10 And *Ezekias begate Manasses. And Manasses begate Amon. And Amon begate Josias.

11 And *Josias begate Jacim. And Jacim begate Jechonias and his brethren about the time they were caried away to Babylon.

12 And after they were caried away vnto Babylon, *Jechonias begat Salathiel.

15 And Elihud begat Eleazar. And Eleazar begat Matthan. And Matthan begate Jacob.

16 And Jacob begat Joseph, the husband of Marie, [h] of whome was borne Jesus, that is called [i] Christ.

17 So all the generations from Abraham to David, are fourteene generations. And from David until they were caried away into Babylon, fourteene generations: and after they were carried away unto Babylon untill Christ, fourteene generations.

18 ¶ Now the birth of Jesus Christ was thus, [l] When as his mother Mary was * betrothed to Joseph, [m] before they came together, she was found [n] with childe of the holy Ghost.

19 Then Joseph her husband being a * iust man, and not willing to * make her a publike example, was minded to put her away secretly.

20 But whiles he thought these things, beholde, the Angell of the Lorde appeared vnto him in a [p] dreame, saying, Joseph the [q] sonne of David, feare not to take Marie for thy wife: for that which is conceiued in her, is of the holy Ghost.

21 And she shal bring forth a sonne, and thou shalt * call his name [r] Jesus: for hee shall * saue his people from their sinnes.

22 And all this was done that it might be fulfilled, which was spoken of the Lord by the Prophet, saying,

23 * Beholde, a Virgine shall bee with childe, and shall beare a sonne, and ‖ they shall call his name Emmanuel, which is by interpretation, [s] God with vs.

24 ¶ Then Joseph, being raised from sleepe, did as the Angel of the Lord had inioyned him, and tooke his wife.

25 But hee knewe her not, till shee had brought forth her [t] first borne sonne, and hee called his name IESVS.

a For there is another Bethlehem in the tribe of Zebulun.

WHen * Jesus then was borne at Beth-lehem in [a] Judea, in the dayes of Herode the King, beholde, there came [b] Wisemen from the East to Jerusalem,

2 Saying, Where is the King of the Iewes that is borne? for wee haue seene his [c] starre in the East, and are come [d] to worship him.

3 When King Herode heard this, he was troubled, and all Jerusalem with him.

4 And gathering together all the chiefe Priestes and Scribes of the people, he asked of them, where Christ should be borne.

5 [e] And they said vnto him, At Beth-lehem in Judea: for so it is written by the Prophet,

6 * And thou Beth-lehem in the land of Juda, art not the least among the princes of Juda: for out of thee shall come the gouernour that shall feede my people Israel.

7 Then Herode [f] priuily called the wisemen, and diligently inquired of them the time of the starre that appeared,

8 And sent them vnto Beth-lehem, saying, Go, and search diligently for the babe: and when yee haue found him, bring mee worde againe, that I may come also, and worship him.

9 ¶ So when they had heard the King, they departed: and loe, the [g] starre which they had seene in the East, went before them, till it came, and stoode ouer the place where the babe was.

10 And when they sawe the starre, they reioyced with an exceeding great ioy, 11 And went into the house, and ‖ found the babe with Marie his mother, and fell downe, and worshipped him, and opened their treasures, and presented vnto him giftes, [h] euen golde, and incense, and myrrhe.

12 And after they were warned of God in a dreame, that they should [i] not go againe to Herode, they returned into their countrey another way.

13 ¶ After their departure, beholde, the Angell of the Lorde appeareth to Joseph in a dreame, saying, Arise, and take the babe and his mother, and flee into Egypt, and bee there till I bring thee worde: for Herode will seeke the babe, to destroy him.

14 So hee arose, and tooke the babe and his mother by night, and departed into Egypt, 15 And was there vnto the death of Herode, [k] that it might be fulfilled, which was spoken of the Lorde by the * Prophet, saying, Out of Egypt haue I called my Sonne.

16 ¶ Then Herode, seeing that he was mocked of the wise men, was exceeding wroth, and sent forth, and slewe all the male children that were in Beth-lehem, and in all the coastes thereof, from two yeere olde and vnder, according to the time which hee had diligently searched out of the wisemen:

I Iudge * not, that ye be not iudged.

2 For with what * iudgement ye iudge, ye shalbe iudged, and with what * measure yee mete, it shall bee measured to you againe.

3 And why seest thou the mote that is in thy brothers eye, and perceiuest not the beame that is in thine owne eye?

4 *Or howe sayest thou to thy brother, Suffer me to cast out the mote out of thine eye, and behoulde, a beame is in thine owne eye?

5 Hypocrite, first cast out the beame out of thine owne eye, and then shalt thou see clearely to cast out the mote out of thy brothers eye.

6 ¶ b Giue yee not that which is holy, to dogges, neither cast yee your pearles before swine, least they treade them vnder their feete, and turning againe, all to rent you.

7 ¶ *Aske, and it shalbe giuen you: seeke, and ye shall finde: knocke, and it shall bee opened vnto you.

17 So euery good tree bringeth foorth good fruite, & a corrupt tree bringeth foorth euil fruite.

18 A good tree can not bring foorth euill fruite: neither can a corrupt tree bring foorth good fruite.

19 * Euery tree that bringeth not foorth good fruite, is hewen downe, and cast into the fire.

20 Therefore by their fruites yee shall know them.

21 ¶ Not euery one that sayth vnto me, f Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdome of heauen, * but he that doeth my Fathers will which is in heauen.

22 Many will say to me in that day, Lord, Lord, haue we not g by thy Name prophesied? and by thy Name cast out deuils? and by thy Name done many ‖ great workes?

23 And then will I professe to them, h * I neuer knew you: * depart from me, ye that worke iniquitie.

24 Whosoeuer then heareth of mine these wordes, * and doeth the same, I will liken him to a wise man, which hath builded his house on a rocke.

25 And the raine fell, & the floodes came, and the windes blewe, and beat vpon that house, and it fell not: for it was grounded on a rocke.

26 But who so euer heareth these my wordes, and doeth them not, shal be likened vnto a foolish man, which hath builded his house vpon the sand:

27 And the raine fell, & the floods came, and the winds blewe, and beat vpon that house, & it fell, & the fall thereof was great.

5 For whether is it [d] easier to say, Thy sinnes are forgiuen thee, or to say, Arise, and walke?

d Christ speaketh according to their capacities for they more esteemed outward myracles, then the vertue and power of Iesus Christ, whereby their sinnes might be forgiuen.

6 And that yee may knowe that the Sonne of man hath authoritie in earth to forgiue sinnes, (then sayd he vnto the licke of the palsie,) Arise, take vp thy bed, and go to thine house.

Marke.2.14. luke 5.27.

7 And hee arose, and departed to his owne house.

8 So when the multitude sawe it, they marueiled, and glorified God, which had giuen such authoritie to men.

9 ¶ * And as Jesus passed forth from thence, hee sawe a man sitting at the receite of custome, named Matthewe, and sayd to him, Followe mee. And hee arose, and followed him.

e He reproueth the vaine persuasion of them, which thought themselues whole, and contemned the poore sicke sinners, which sought Iesus Christ to be their physition.

10 And it came to passe, as Jesus sate at meate in his house, behold, many Publicanes and sinners, that came thither, sate downe at the table with Jesus and his disciples.

11 And when the Pharises sawe that, they said to his disciples, Why eateth your master with Publicans and sinners?

f Which are puffed vp with vaine confidence of your owne righteousnes.

12 Now when Jesus heard it, he sayde vnto them, The * whole neede not the physition, but they that are sicke.

Hose.6.6.chap. 12.7.

13 But go [e] ye and learne what this is, * I [f] will haue mercie, and not sacrifice: for I am not come to call the righteous, but the * sinners to repentance.

g God requireth not ceremonies, but brotherly loue of one towards another.

14 ¶ * Then came the disciples of John to him, saying, Why doe we and the Pharises fast oft, and thy disciples fast not?

1.Tim.1.15. Marke 2.18. luke 5.33.

15 And Jesus sayde vnto them, Can the [h] children of the marriage chamber mourne as long as the bridgrome is with them? But the dayes will come when the bridegrome shall bee taken from them, and then shall they fast.

h Christ would spare his disciples a while, not burdening them too much, least he should discourage them.

16 Moreouer, no man pieceth an [i] olde garment with a piece of ‖ new cloth: for that that should fill it vp, taketh away from the garment, and the breach is worse.

i Christ compareth his disciples for their infirmitie, to old garments, and olde vessels, which are not able as yet to beare the perfection of his doctrine, which he meaneth by new cloth and new wine.

17 Neither doe they put new wine into [k] olde ‖ vessels: for then the vessels would breake, and the wine would bee spilt, and the vessels should perish: but they put new wine into new vessels, and so are both preserued.

‖ Or, raw and vndressed.

k The minde which is infected with the dregs of superstitious ceremonies, is not meete to receiue the pleasant wine of the Gospel.

18 ¶ * While hee thus spake vnto them, behold, there came a certaine ruler, & worshipped him, saying, My daughter is now deceased, but come and lay thine hande on her, and she shal liue.

19 And Jesus arose and followed him with his disciples.

20 (And behold, a woman which was diseased [l] with an issue of blood twelue yeeres, came behinde him, and touched the hemme of his garment.

‖ Or, bottels or bags of leather or skin, wherein wine was carried on asses or camels. Mar. 5.22. luke 8.41.

21 For she sayde in her selfe, If I may touch but his garment onely, I shall bee whole.

22 Then Jesus turned him about, and seeing her, did say, Daughter, bee of good

23 Nowe when Jesus came into the rulers house, and sawe the l minstrels and the multitude making noyse, l Players vpon flutes or pipes, or other instrumẽts which in those dayes they vsed at burials.

24 Hee sayd vnto them, Get you hence: for the mayd is not dead, but sleepeth. And they laughed him to scorne.

25 And when the multitude were put forth, he went in and tooke her by the hand, and the mayd arose.

26 And this bruite went throughout all that land.

27 And as Jesus departed thence, two blinde men followed him, crying, and saying, O sonne of Dauid, haue mercy vpõ vs.

28 And when hee was come into the house, the blinde came to him, and Jesus sayde vnto them, m Beleeue yee that I am able to doe this? And they sayd vnto him, Yea, Lord.

m Hee would prooue whether they bare him that reuerence which was due to Messias. Luke 11.14. Chap. 12.24. marke 3.22. luke 11.15.

29 Then touched he their eyes, saying, According to your faith be it vnto you.

30 And their eyes were opened, and Jesus charged them, saying, See that no man know it.

31 But when they were departed, they spred abroad his fame throughout all that land.

32 ¶ * And as they went out, beholde, they brought to him a dumme man possessed with a deuill.

33 And when the deuill was cast out, the dumme spake: then the multitude marueiled, saying, The like was neuer seene in Israel.

34 But the Pharises sayd, * He n casteth out deuils, through the prince of deuils.

n This blasphemie proceedeth of extreme impietie, seeing all the people confessed the contrary. Mar. 3.6. luke 13.22.

35 ¶ And * Jesus went about all cities and townes, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the Gospell of the o kingdome, and healing euery sickenes and euery disease among the people.

o Whereby God gathereth his people together, that hee may reigne ouer them. Mar. 6.34. Luke 10.2. iohn 4.35,36.

36 But * when hee sawe the multitude, he had compassion vpon them, because they were dispersed, and scattered abroad, as sheepe hauing no shepheard.

37 Then saith he to his disciples, * Surely the p haruest is great, but the labourers are fewe.

p He meaneth the people are ripe, and ready to receiue the Gospel, comparing the number of the Elect to a plentifull haruest.

38 Wherefore pray the Lord of the haruest, that hee would ‖ send forth labourers into his haruest.

AND it came to passe, that when Iesus had made an ende of commaunding his twelue disciples, hee departed thence to teach and to preach in their cities.

2 ¶ * And when Iohn heard in the prison the workes of Christ, hee a sent two of his disciples, and sayd vnto him,

3 Art thou he that should come, or shall we looke for another?

4 And Iesus answering, said vnto them, Goe, and shew Iohn what things yee haue heard and seene.

5 The blinde receiue sight, and the halte goe: the lepers are cleansed, and the deafe heare: the dead are raised vp, * & the ‖ poore receiue the Gospel.

6 And blessed is he that shall not b be offended in me.

7 And as they departed, Iesus began to speake vnto the multitude, of Iohn, What went ye out into the wildernesse to see? A c reede shaken with the winde?

8 But what went ye out to see? A man clothed in soft raiment? Beholde, they that weare soft clothing, are in Kings houses.

9 But what went ye out to see? A Prophet? Yea, I say vnto you, and d more then a Prophet.

10 For this is he of whome it is written, * Beholde, I send my messenger before thy face, which shall prepare thy way before thee.

11 Verely I say vnto you, among them which are e begotten of women, arose there not a greater then Iohn Baptist: notwithstanding, he that is the f least in the kingdome of heauen, is greater then he.

CHAP. XII.

3 Christ excuseth his disciples which plucke the eares of corne. 10 He healeth the dried hand, 22 Helpeth the possessed that was blinde & dumme. 31 Blasphemie. 34 The generation of vipers. 35 Of good wordes. 36 Of idle wordes. 38 Hee rebuketh the vnfaithfull that woulde needes haue tokens, 49 And sheweth who is his brother, sister, and mother.

AT * that time Iesus went on a Sabbath day through the corne, and his Disciples were an hungred, and began to pucke the eares of corne and to eate.

2 And when the Pharises sawe it, they sayde vnto him, Beholde, thy disciples doe that which is not lawfull to doe vpon the Sabbath.

3 And hee sayde vnto them, * [a] Haue yee not read what Dauid did when hee was an hungred, and they that were with him?

4 How he entred into the house of God, and ate the shewe bread, which was not lawfull for him to eate, neither for them which were with him, but onely for the * Priestes?

5 Or haue ye not read in the Lawe how that on the Sabbath dayes the Priestes in the Temple * [b] breake the Sabbath, and are blamelesse?

6 But I say vnto you, that here is one greater then the Temple.

7 Wherefore if ye knewe what this is, * I will haue mercy, and not sacrifice, yee would not haue condemned the innocents.

8 For the Sonne of man is [c] Lorde, euen of the Sabbath.

9 * And he departed thence, and went into their Synagogue:

10 And beholde, there was a man which had his hande dryed vp. And they asked him, saying, Is it lawfull to heale vpon a Sabbath day? that they might accuse him.

11 And he sayd vnto them, What man shall there bee among you, that shall haue a sheepe, and if it fall on a Sabbath day into a pitte, will not hee take it and lift it out?

12 Howe much more then is a man better then a sheepe? therefore it is lawfull to doe well on a Sabbath day.

13 Then sayde hee to the man, Stretche foorth thine hand. And he stretched it forth, and it was made whole as the other.

14 Then the Pharises went out, & consulted against him, howe they might destroy him.

15 But when Iesus knewe it, hee departed thence, and great multitudes followed him, and he healed them all,

16 And charged them that they should not make him knowen,

17 That it might be fulfilled, which was spoken by Esaias the Prophet, saying,

18 * Beholde my seruant whome I haue chosen, my beloued in whome my soule delighteth: I will put my Spirite on him, and he shall shewe [d] iudgement to the Gentiles.

19 He shall not [e] striue, nor cry, neither shal any man heare his voyce in the streetes.

20 A [f] bruised reede shall he not breake, and smoking flaxe shall hee not quench, till hee bring foorth iudgement [g] vnto victorie.

21 And in his name shall the Gentiles trust.

22 ¶ * Then was brought to him one possessed with a deuill, both blind, [h] dumme, and he healed him, so that he which was blind and dumme, both spake and sawe.

23 And all the people were amased, and sayd, Is not this the Sonne of Dauid?

24 But when the Pharises heard it, they said, * This man casteth the deuils no otherwise out, but through Beelzebub the prince of deuils.

25 But Iesus knewe their thoughts, and sayd to them, Euery kingdome deuided against it selfe, shall be ‖ brought to nought: and euery citie or house deuided against it selfe, shall not stand.

26 So if Satan cast out Satan, hee is deuided against himselfe: howe shall then his kingdome endure?

CHAP. XIII.

3 The state of the kingdome of God set forth by the parable of the seede. 24 Of the tares. 31 Of the mustard seede. 33 Of the leauen. 44 Of the treasure hid in the fielde. 45 Of the pearles, 47 And of the net. 57 The Prophet is contemned in his owne countrey.

THe * same day went Jesus out of the house, and sate by the sea side.

2 And a great multitudes reioyced vnto him, so that he went into a shippe, and sate downe: and the whole multitude stood on the shore.

3 Then he spake many things to them in parables, saying, Beholde, a sower went forth to sowe.

4 And as hee sowed, some fell by the wayes side, and the foules came and deuoured them vp.

5 And some fell vpon stony ground, where they had not much earth, and anon they sprung vp, because they had no depth of earth.

6 And when the sunne rose vp, they were parched, and for lacke of rooting, withered away.

7 And some fell among thornes, and the thornes sprong vp, and choked them.

8 Some againe fel in good ground, and brought foorth fruite, one corne an hundreth folde, some sixtie folde, and another thirtie folde.

9 Hee that b hath eares to heare, let him heare.

10 ¶ Then the disciples came, and sayd to him, Why speakest thou to them in parables?

11 And he answered and said vnto them, Because it is giuen vnto you, to know the secrets of the kingdome of heauen, but to them it is not c giuen.

12 * d For whosoeuer hath, to him shalbe giuen, and hee shall haue abundance: but whosoeuer hath not, from him shalbe taken away, euen e that he hath.

13 Therefore speake I to them in parables, because they seeing, doe not see: & hearing, they heare not, neither vnderstand.

14 So in them is fulfilled the prophesie of Esaias, which prophesie saith, * By hearing, yee shall heare, and shall not understand, and seeing yee shall see, and shall not perceiue.

15 f For this peoples heart is waxed fat, and their eares are dull of hearing, and with their eyes they haue winked, least they should see with their eyes, and heare with their eares, and should understande with their heartes, and should returne, that I might heale them.

16 But blessed are your eyes, for they g see: and your eares, for they heare.

17 * For verily I say vnto you, that many Prophets, and righteous men haue desired to see those things which yee see, and haue not seene them, and to heare those things which ye heare, and haue not heard them.

18 ¶ * Heare yee therefore the parable of the sower.

19 Whensoeuer a man heareth the worde of the kingdome, and vnderstandeth it not, the euill one commeth, and catcheth away that which was sowen in his heart: and this is he which ‖ hath receiued the seede by the way side.

20 And hee that receiued seede in the stonie grounde, is hee which heareth the worde, and incontinently with ioy receiueth it.

21 Yet hath he no roote in himselfe, and dureth but a season: for assoone as tribulation or persecution commeth because of the word, by and by he is offended.

22 And he that receiueth the seed among thornes, is he, that heareth the word: but the care of this world, and the deceitfulnesse of riches choke the worde, and hee is made vnfruitfull.

23 But he that receiueth the seede in the good ground, is he that heareth the word, & vnderstandeth it, which also heareth fruite, and bringeth foorth, some an hundred folde, some sixtie folde, some thirtie folde.

24 ¶ Another parable put he foorth vnto them, saying, The kingdome of heauen is like vnto a man which sowed good seede in his field.

25 h But while men slept, there came his enemie, & sowed tares among the wheate, and went his way.

26 And when the blade was sprung vp, and brought foorth fruit, then appeared the tares also.

27 Then came the seruants of the householder, and said vnto him, Maister, sowedst not thou good seede in thy field? from whence then hath it tares?

28 And hee sayde to them, The enuious man hath done this. Then the seruants said vnto him, Wilt thou then that we goe and gather them vp?

29 But he said, Nay, lest while yee goe about to gather the tares, ye plucke vp also with them the wheate.

30 i Let both growe together vntill the harueste, and in time of harueste I will say to the reapers, Gather yee first the tares, and binde them in sheaues to burne them: but gather the wheate into my barne.

31 ¶ * Another parable he put forth vnto them, saying, The kingdome of heauen is like vnto a graine of mustard seede, which a man taketh and soweth in his field:

32 Which in deede is the k least of all seedes: but when it is growen, it is the greatest among herbes, and it is a tree, so that the birdes of heauen come and build in the branches thereof.

33 ¶ * Another parable spake hee to them, The kingdome of heauen is like vnto leauen, which a woman taketh and hideth in three peckes of meale, l till all bee leauened.

34 ¶ * All these things spake Jesus vnto the multitude in parables, and without parables spake he not to them, 35 That it might be fulfilled, which was spoken by the Prophet, saying, * I will open my mouth in m parables, and will vtter the things which haue bene kept secrete from the foundation of the world.

36 Then sent Jesus the multitude away, and went into the house. And his disciples came vnto him, saying, Declare vnto vs the parable of the tares of the field.

37 Then answered he, and said to them, He that soweth the good seede, is the sonne of man,

38 And the field is the world, and the good seede, they are the children of the kingdome, and the tares are the children of the wicked,

39 And the enemie that soweth them, is the deuil, * and the harueste is the end of the world, and the reapers be the Angels.

40 As then the tares are gathered and burned in the fire, so shall it be in the end of the world.

41 The sonne of man shall send forth his Angels, and they shall gather out of his kingdome all things that n offend, and them which doe iniquitie, 42 And shall cast them into a fornace of fire. There shalbe wayling and gnashing of teeth.

43 * Then shall the iust men shine as the Sunne in the kingdome of their Father. Hee that hath eares to heare, let him heare.

44 ¶ Againe the kingdome of heauen is like vnto a treasure hid in the field, which when a man hath found, hee hideth it, and for ioy thereof departeth and selleth all that he hath, and byeth that field.

45 ¶ Againe, the kingdome of heauen is like to a merchant man, that seeketh good pearles, 46 Who hauing found a pearle of great price, went, and solde all that hee had, and bought it.

47 ¶ Againe the kingdome of heauen is like o vnto a draw net cast into the sea, that gathereth of all kindes of things.

AT * that time Herode the Tetrarche heard of the fame of Iesus,

2 And sayde vnto his seruants, This is Iohn Baptist: t he is risen againe from the dead, & therefore great u workes are wrought by him.

3 * For Herod had taken Iohn & bound him, and put him in prison for Herodias sake, his brother Philips wife.

4 For Iohn saide vnto him, It is not * x lawfull for thee to haue her.

5 And when hee would haue put him to death, he feared the multitude, because they counted him as a * Prophet.

6 But when Herods birth day was kept, the daughter of Herodias danced before them, and pleased Herod.

7 Wherefore he y promised with an oth, that hee would giue her whatsoeuer shee would aske.

8 And she being before instructed of her mother, said, Giue me here Iohn Baptists head in a platter.

9 And the King was sorie: neuertheles because of the othe, and them that sate with him at the table, he commanded it to be giuen her,

10 And sent, and beheaded Iohn in the prison.

11 And his head was brought in a platter, and giuen to the maid, and shee brought it vnto her mother.

12 And his disciples came, and tooke vp his ‖ body, and buried it, and went, and told Iesus.

13 * And when Iesus heard it, he departed thence by ship into a z desart place apart. And when the multitude had heard it, they followed him afoote out of the cities.

14 And Iesus went foorth and sawe a great multitude, and was mooued with compassion towarde them, and hee healed their sicke.

15 ¶ And when euen was come, * his disciples came to him, saying, This is a desert place, and the houre is already past: let the multitude depart, that they may goe into the townes, and buy them vitailes.

16 But Iesus sayde to them, They haue no need to goe away: giue ye them to eate.

17 Then sayde they vnto him, We haue here but fiue loaues, and two fishes.

18 And he said, Bring them hither to me.

19 And he commanded the multitude to sit downe on the grasse, and tooke the fiue loaues and the two fishes, and looked vp to heauen and ‖ blessed, and brake, and gaue the loaues to his disciples, & the disciples to the multitude.

20 And they did all eate, and were sufficed, and they tooke vp of the fragments that remained, twelue baskets full.

21 And they that had eaten, were about fiue thousand men, beside women and little children.

22 ¶ And straightway Iesus a compelled his disciples to enter into a ship, and to goe ouer before him, while he sent the multitude away.

23 And assoone as he had sent the multitude away, hee went vp into a mountaine alone to pray: * and when the euening was come, he was there alone.

24 And the ship was now in the midst of the sea, and was tossed with waues: for it was a contrary winde.

25 And in the b fourth watch of the night, Iesus went vnto them, walking on the sea.

26 And when his disciples sawe him walking on the sea, they were troubled, saying, It is a spirit, and cryed out for feare.

27 But straightway Iesus spake vnto them, saying, c Be of good comfort. It is I: be not afrayd.

28 Then Peter answered him, and said, Master, if it be thou, d bid mee come vnto thee on the water.

29 And he sayd, Come. And when Peter was come downe out of the ship, he walked on the water, to goe to Iesus.

30 But when he sawe a mightie winde, he was afraide: and as hee e began to sinke, he cryed, saying, Master, saue me.

10 * Then hee called the multitude vnto him, & said to them, Heare and vnderstand.

11 That which goeth into ỹ mouth defileth not the man, but that which commeth out of the mouth, that defileth the man.

12 ¶ Then came his disciples, & said vnto him, Perceiuest thou not, that the Pharises are offended in hearing this saying?

27 But she sayd, Trueth Lorde: yet in deede the whelpes eate of the crummes, which fall from their masters table.

28 Then Iesus answered, and said vnto her, O woman, great is thy [i] faith: be it to thee, as thou desirest. And her daughter was made whole at that houre.

29 ¶ So Iesus * went away frō thence, and came neere vnto the sea of Galile, and went vp into a mountaine and sate downe there.

33 And his disciples sayde vnto him, Whence should wee get so much bread in the wildernesse, as should suffice so great a multitude?

34 And Iesus sayde vnto them, How many loaues haue yee? And they sayde, Seuen, and a fewe little fishes.

35 Then he commanded the multitude to sit downe on the ground,

13 ¶ * Nowe when Iesus came into the coastes of Cesarea Philippi, he asked his disciples, saying, Whome doe men say that I the sonne of man am?

14 And they said, Some say, Iohn Baptist, and some, Elias: & others, Jeremias, or one of the Prophets.

15 He saide vnto them, But whome say ye that I am?

16 Then Simon Peter answered, & saide, * Thou art the Christ, the Sonne of the liuing God.

17 And Iesus answered, & said vnto him, Blessed art thou, Simon, the sonne of Jonas: for [g] flesh and blood hath not reuealed it vnto thee, but my father which is in heauen.

18 And I say also vnto thee, that thou art * Peter, and vpon [h] this rocke I will build my Church: and the [i] gates of hel shal not ouercome it.

19 [k] And I * will giue vnto thee the keis of the kingdome of heauen, and whatsoeuer thou shalt [l] binde vpon earth, shall bee bounde in heauen: and whatsoeuer thou shalt ‖ loose on earth, shall bee loosed in heauen.

20 Then he charged his disciples, that they shoulde [m] tell no man that he was Iesus the Christ.

21 ¶ [n] From that time forth Iesus began to shewe vnto his disciples, that hee must go vnto Jerusalem, and suffer many things of the Elders, and of the hie Priestes and Scribes, and be slaine, and rise againe the third day.

22 Then Peter tooke him aside, & began to rebuke him, saying, Master, pitie thy self: this shall not be vnto thee.

23 Then hee turned backe, & sayd vnto Peter, Get thee behinde me, [o] Satan: thou art an offence vnto mee, because thou vnderstandest not the things that are of God, but the things that are of men.

24 Iesus then sayde to his disciples, * If any man will followe me, let him forsake himselfe, & take vp his crosse, & follow me.

25 * For whosoeuer will [p] saue his life, shall lose it: and whosoeuer shall lose his life for my sake, shall find it.

26 * For what shall it profite a man, though he should win the whole worlde, if he lose his owne soule? or what shall a man giue for recompence of his soule?

27 For the sonne of man shall come in the glory of his Father with his Angels, & * then shall he giue to euery man according to his deedes.

28 * Verily I say vnto you, there be some of them that stande here, which shall not taste of death, [q] till they haue seene the sonne of man come in his kingdome.

2 And was [a] transfigured before them: and his face did shine as the Sunne, and his clothes were as white as the light.

3 And beholde, there appeared [b] vnto them Moses and Elias, talking with him.

4 Then answered Peter, and saide to Iesus, Master, it is [c] good for vs to bee heere: if thou wilt, let vs make heere three tabernacles, one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias.

5 While hee yet spake, beholde, a bright cloude shadowed them: and beholde, there came a voice out of the cloude, saying, *This is my beloued Sonne, [d] in whom I am wel pleased: [e] heare him.

6 And when [f] disciples heard that, they fell on their faces, and were sore afraide.

7 Then Iesus came and touched them, and saide, Arise, and be not afraide.

8 And when they lifted vp their eyes, they sawe no man, saue Iesus onely.

9 ¶ And as they came downe from the mountaine, Iesus charged them, saying, Shewe the vision to no man, [g] vntill the Sonne of man rise againe from the dead.

10 * And his disciples asked him, saying, Why then say the Scribes that * Elias must first come?

11 And Iesus answered, and saide vnto them, Certainely Elias must first come, and restore all things.

12 But I say vnto you, that Elias is come already, and they knew him not, but haue done vnto him whatsoeuer they would: likewise shall also the Sonne of man suffer of them.

13 Then the disciples perceiued that hee spake vnto them of Iohn Baptist.

14 ¶ * And when they were come to the multitude, there came to him a certaine man, and kneeled downe to him,

15 And saide, Master, haue pitie on my sonne: for he is lunatike, and is sore vexed: for oft times he falleth into the fire, and oft times into the water.

16 And I brought him to thy disciples, and they could not heale him.

17 Then Iesus answered, and saide, [h] O generation faithles and crooked, how long now shall I be with you? howe long now shall I suffer you? bring him hither to me.

18 And Iesus rebuked the deuill, and he went out of him: and the childe was healed at that houre.

19 Then came the disciples to Iesus apart, and said, Why could not we cast him out?

20 And Iesus said vnto them, Because of your vnbeliefe: for * verely I say vnto you, if ye haue faith as much as is a graine of mustard seede, ye shall say vnto this mountaine, [i] Remoue hence to yonder place, and it shall remoue: and nothing shall be vnpossible vnto you.

21 Howbeit this kinde goeth not out, but by [k] prayer and fasting.

22 ¶ And as they ‖ abode in Galile, Iesus sayde vnto them, The sonne of man shall be deliuered into the hands of men, 23 And they shall kill him, but the third day shall he rise againe: and they were very sory.

24 ¶ And when they were come to Capernaum, they that receiued [l] polle money, came to Peter, and sayde, Doeth not your Master pay tribute?

25 He said, Yes. And when he was come into the house, Iesus preuented him, saying, What thinkest thou, Simon? Of who doe the kings of the earth take tribute, or polle money? of their children, or of strangers?

26 Peter sayde vnto him, Of strangers. Then sayd Iesus vnto him, Then are the children free.

27 Neuertheless, lest we should [m] offend them, goe to the sea, and cast in an angle, and take the first fish that commeth vp, and when thou hast opened his mouth, thou shalt finde a [n] piece of twentie pence: that take, and giue it vnto them for me and thee.

26 The seruant therefore fell downe, and besought him, saying, Master, appeale thine anger towarde me, and I will pay thee all.

27 Then that seruants master had compassion, and loosed him, and forgaue him the debt.

28 But when the seruant was departed, hee founde one of his fellowes, which ought him an hundreth o pence, and he laid hands on him, & tooke him by the throate, saying, ‖ Pay me that thou owest.

29 Then his fellowe fell downe at his feete, and besought him, saying, Appeale thine anger towarde mee, and I will pay thee all.

30 Yet he would not, but went and cast him into prison, till he should pay the debt.

31 And when his other fellowes sawe what was done, they were very sory, and came, and declared vnto their master all that was done.

32 Then his master called him, and said to him, O euill seruant, I forgaue thee all that debt, because thou prayedst me.

33 Oughtest not thou also to haue had pitie on thy fellowe, euen as I had pitie on thee?

34 So his master was wroth, and deliuered him to the taylers, till he should pay all that was due to him.

d For this band cannot be broken at mans pleasure.

9 I say therefore vnto you, * that whosoeuer shall put away his wife, except it bee for whoredome, and marry another, d committeth adultery: and whosoeuer marrieth her which is diuorced, doeth commit adulterie.

FOr the kingdome of heauen is like vnto a certaine housholder, which went out at the dawning of the day to hire labourers into his vineyarde.

2 And he agreed with the labourers for a a penie a day, and sent them into his vineyarde.

3 And hee went out about the b thirde houre, and sawe other standing idle in the market place,

4 And saide vnto them, Goe ye also into my vineyarde, and whatsoeuer is right, I will giue you: and they went their way.

6 And hee went about the eleuenth houre, and found other standing idle, and saide vnto them, Why stand ye here all the day idle?

7 They said vnto him, because no man hath hired vs. He said to them, Goe ye also into my vineyard, and whatsoeuer is right, that shall ye receiue.

8 ¶ And when euen was come, the Master of the vineyarde said vnto his steward, Call the labourers, and giue them their hire, beginning at the last, till thou come to the first.

9 And they which were hired about the eleuenth houre, came and receiued euery man a penie.

10 Now when the first came, they supposed that they shoulde receiue more, but they likewise receiued euery man a penie.

11 And when they had receiued it, they murmured against the master of the houle, 12 Saying, These last haue wrought but one houre, and thou hast made them equall vnto vs, which haue borne the burden, and heate of the day.

13 And he answered one of them, saying, ‖ Friend, I doe thee no wrong: diddest thou not agree with me for a penie?

14 Take that which is thine owne, and goe thy way: I will giue vnto this last, as much as to thee.

21 And he said vnto her, What wouldest thou? Shee said to him, Graunt that these my two sonnes may sit, the one at thy right hand, and the other at thy left hand in thy kingdome.

22 And Iesus answered, and saide, Yee knowe not what yee aske. Are yee able to drinke of the c cuppe that I shall drinke of, and to be baptized with the baptisme that I shall be baptized with? They said to him, We are able.

c He setteth the crosse before their eyes to draw them from ambition, calling it a cup, to signifie the measure of the afflictions, which God hath ordeined for euery man: the which thing also he calleth baptisme.

23 And he said vnto them, Ye shal drinke in deede of my cuppe, and shall be baptized with the baptisme that I am baptized with, but to sit at my right hand, and at my left hand, is f not mine to giue: but it shall be giuen to them, for whome it is prepared of my Father.

22 * And whatsoeuer yee shall aske in prayer, if ye beleeue, ye shall receiue it.

23 ¶ * And when he was come into the Temple, the chiefe Priests, & the Elders of the people came vnto him, and hee was teaching, and said, By what authority doest thou these things? and who gaue thee this authoritie?

24 Then Iesus answered and said vnto them, I also will aske of you a certaine thing, which if yee tell mee, I likewise will tell you by what authoritie I doe these things.

25 The baptisme of John whence was it? ‖from heauen, or of men? Then they reasoned among themselues, saying, If we shall say, From heauen, he wil say vnto vs, Why did ye not then beleeue him?

26 And if we say, Of men, we [m] feare the people: * for all hold John as a Prophet.

27 Then they answered Iesus, and said, We cannot tell. And he sayde vnto them, Neither tell I you by what authoritie I doe these things.

28 ¶ But what thinke yee? A certaine man had two sonnes, and came to the elder, and said, Sonne, goe, and [n] worke to day in my vineyard.

29 But he answered and said, I wil not: yet afterward hee repented himselfe, and went.

30 Then came he to the second, and said likewise. And he answered, and said, I wil, sir: yet he went not.

31 Whether of them twaine did the wil of the father? They sayde vnto him, The first. Iesus saide vnto them, Verily I say vnto you, that the [n] Publicanes and the harlots shall goe before you into the kingdome of God.

32 For John came vnto you in the [o] way of righteousnes, and ye beleeued him not: but the Publicanes, and the harlots beleeued him, and ye though ye saw it, were not moued with repentance afterwarde, that ye might beleeue him.

33 ¶ Heare another parable, There was a certaine householder, * which planted a [p] vineyarde, and [q] hedged it round about, and made a winepresse therein, and built a towre, and let it out to husbandmen, and went into a strange countrey.

34 And when the time of the fruit drew neere, he sent his seruants to [r] the husbandmen to receiue the fruits thereof.

35 And the husbandmen tooke his seruants, and beat one, and killed another, and stoned another.

36 Againe hee sent other seruants, more then the first: and they did the like vnto them.

37 But last of all he sent vnto them his owne [s] sonne, saying, They will reuerence my sonne.

38 But when the husbandmen sawe the sonne, they said among themselues, * This is the heire: come, let vs kill him, and let vs take his inheritance.

39 So they tooke him, and cast him out of the vineyard, and slew him.

40 ¶ When therefore the Lord of [p] vineyard shall come, what will he doe to those husbandmen?

41 They sayd vnto him, He wil cruelly destroy those wicked men, and will let out his vineyard vnto other husbandmen, which shall deliuer him the fruites in their seasons.

42 Iesus said vnto them, Read ye neuer in the Scriptures, * The stone which the builders refused, the same is made the [x] head of the corner? (This was the Lords doing, and it is marueilous in our eyes.

43 Therefore say I vnto you, the kingdome of God shall be taken from you, and shall be giuen to a nation, which shall bring forth the fruites thereof.)

44 * And whosoeuer shall fall on this stone, he shalbe broken: but on whomsoeuer it shall fall, it will grinde him to powder.

45 And when the chiefe Priestes and Pharises had heard his parables, they perceiued that he spake of them.

46 And they seeking to lay handes on him, feared the people, because they tooke him as a Prophet.

THen * Iesus answered, and spake vnto them againe in parables, saying,

2 The kingdome of heauen is like vnto a certaine king which maried his sonne,

3 And [a] sent forth his seruants, to call them that were bid to the wedding, but they would not come.

4 Againe he sent forth other seruants, saying, Tell them which are bidden, Behold, I haue prepared my dinner: mine oxen and my fatlings are killed, and al things are readie: come vnto the mariage.

5 But they made light of it, and went their wayes, one to his farme, and another about his merchandise.

6 And the remnant tooke his seruants, and intreated them sharpely, and slewe them.

7 But when the king heard it, hee was wroth, and sent forth his warriers, and [b] destroyed those murderers, and burnt vp their citie.

8 Then said he to his seruants, Truely the wedding is prepared: but they which were bidden, were not worthy.

9 Go ye therefore out into the hie waies, and as many as yee finde, bid them to the mariage.

10 So [c] those seruants went out into the hie wayes and gathered together all that euer they found, both [d] good and bad: so the wedding was furnished with ghests.

3 And as he sate vpon the mount of Olives, his disciples came vnto him apart, saying, Tell vs when these things shall be, and what signe shall bee of thy comming, b and of the end of the world.

34 Verely I ſay vnto you, this d generation ſhall not paſſe, till all theſe things be done.

35 * Heauen and earth ſhall paſſe away: but my wordes ſhall not paſſe away.

36 But of that day and houre knoweth no man, no not the Angels of heauen, but my Father onely.

37 But as the dayes of Noe were, ſo likewiſe ſhall the comming of the Sonne of man be.

CHAP. XXV.

1 By the ſimilitude of the virgins Ieſus teacheth euery man to watch. 14 And by the talents to bee diligent. 31 The laſt iudgement. 32 The ſheepe and the goates. 35 The workes of the faithfull.

Then

Then the a kingdome of heauen shall bee likened vnto ten virgins, which tooke their lamps, and went to b meet the bridegroome.

2 And fiue of them were wise, and fiue foolish.

3 The foolish tooke their lampes, but tooke none oyle with them.

4 But the wise tooke oyle in their vessels with their lamps.

5 Nowe while the bridegroome taried long, all slumbred and slept.

6 And at midnight there was a crie made, Beholde, the bridegroome commeth: goe out to meet him.

7 Then all those virgins arose, & trimmed their lamps.

8 And the foolish said to the wise, c Giue vs of your oyle, for our lamps are ‖ out.

9 But the wise answered, saying, We feare least there will not bee enough for vs and you: but d goe yee rather to them that sell, and buy for your selues.

10 And while they went to buy, the bridegroome came: and they that were readie, went in with him to the wedding, and the gate was shut.

11 Afterwardes came also the other virgins, saying, Lord, Lord, open to vs.

12 But he answered, and said, Verely I say vnto you, e I know you not.

13 *Watch therefore: for ye know neither the day nor the houre, whe the Sonne of man will come.

14 *f For the kingdome of heauen is as a man that going into a strange country, called his seruants and deliuered to them his goods.

15 And vnto one hee gaue fiue g talents, and to another two, and to another one, to euery man after his owne habilitie, and straightway went from home.

16 Then hee that had receiued the fiue talents, went and occupied with them, and ‖ gained other fiue talents.

17 Likewise also, he that receiued two, he also gained other two.

18 But hee that receiued that one, went and digged it in the earth, and hid his masters money.

19 But after a long season, the master of those seruants came, and reckoned with them.

20 Then came he that had receiued fiue talents, and brought other fiue talents, saying, Master, thou deliueredst vnto me fiue talents: behold, I haue gained with them other fiue talents.

21 Then his master sayde vnto him, It is well done good seruant and faithfull, Thou hast bene faithfull in little, I will make thee ruler ouer much: h enter in into thy masters ioy.

22 Also he that had receiued two talents, came and said, Master, thou deliueredst vnto me two talents: beholde, I haue gained two other talents with them.

23 His master sayde vnto him, It is well done good seruant, and faithfull, Thou hast bene faithful in little, I will make thee ruler ouer much: enter in into thy masters ioy.

24 Then hee which had receiued the one talent, came and said, Master, I knew that thou wast an hard man, which reapest where thou sowedst not, and gatherest where thou strawedst not:

25 I was therefore afraid, and went and hid thy talent in the earth: behold, thou hast thine owne.

26 And his master answered, and saide vnto him, Thou euill seruant and ‖ slouthfull, thou knewest that I reape, where I sowed not, & gather where I strawed not.

27 Thou oughtest therefore to haue put my money to the exchangers, and then at my comming should I haue receiued mine owne with vantage.

28 Take therefore the talent frō him, and giue it vnto him, which hath ten talents.

29 *For vnto euery man that hath, it shall be giuen, and he shall haue abundance, and i from him that hath not, euen that he hath, shall be taken away.

30 Cast therefore that vnprofitable seruant into vtter *darkenesse: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

31 ¶ And when the Sonne of man commeth in his glory, and all the holy Angels with him, then shall hee sit vpon the throne of his glory.

32 And before him shall be gathered all nations, and he shal separate them one from another, as a shepheard separateth the sheepe from the goates.

33 And hee shall set the sheepe on his right hand, and the goates on the left.

34 Then shall the King say to them on his right hand, Come ye k blessed of my father: inherite ye the kingdome prepared for you from the l foundations of the world.

35 *For m I was an hungred, & ye gaue me meate: I thirsted, & ye gaue me drinke: I was a stranger, and ye lodged me:

36 I was naked, and ye clothed me: I was *‖ sicke, and ye visited mee: I was in prison, and ye came vnto me.

37 Then shall the righteous answere him, saying, Lorde, when sawe we thee an hungred, and fedde thee? or athirst, & gaue thee drinke?

38 And when sawe we thee a stranger, and lodged thee? or naked, & clothed thee?

39 Or when sawe we thee sicke, or in prison, and came vnto thee?

40 And the king shal answere & say vnto them, Verely I say vnto you, in as much as yee haue done it vnto one of the least of these my brethren, ye haue done it to me.

41 Then shall he say vnto them on the left hand, *Depart from me ye cursed, vnto euerlasting fire, which is prepared for the deuill and his angels.

42 For I was an hungred, and ye gaue me no meate: I thirsted, and ye gaue mee no drinke:

43 I was a stranger, and ye lodged me not: I was naked, & ye clothed me not: sicke, and in prison, and ye visited me not.

44 Then shal they also answer him, saying, Lord, when saw we thee an hungred, or athirst, or a stranger, or naked, or sicke, or in prison, and did not minister vnto thee?

8 And when his diſciples ſawe it, they had b indignation, ſaying, What needed this waſte?

9 For this oyntment might haue beene ſolde for much, and bene giuen to the poore.

10 And Ieſus knowing it, ſayde vnto them, Why trouble ye the woman? for ſhe hath wrought a good worke vpon me.

11 * For ye haue the poore alwayes with you, but me ſhall ye not c haue alwayes.

12 For in that ſhe powred this oyntment on my body, ſhe did it to d burie me.

13 Verely I ſay vnto you, Where ſoeuer this Goſpel ſhall bee preached throughout all the world, there ſhall alſo this * ſhe hath done, be ſpoken of for a memoriall of her.

14 ¶ * Then one of the twelue called Iudas Iſcariot, went vnto the chiefe Prieſts, 15 And ſaid, What will ye giue me, and I will deliuer him vnto you? and they appointed vnto him thirtie e pieces of ſiluer.

16 And from that time he ſought opportunitie to betray him.

17 ¶ * Now on the firſt day of the feaſt of vnleauened bread the diſciples came to Ieſus, ſaying vnto him, Where wilt thou that we prepare for thee to eate the Paſſeouer?

18 And he ſayd, Goe into the citie to ſuch a man, f ſay to him, The maiſter ſaith, * My time is at hand: I will keepe the Paſſeouer at thine houſe with my diſciples.

19 And the Diſciples did as Ieſus had giuen them charge, and made ready the Paſſeouer.

20 * So when the euen was come, hee ſate downe with the twelue.

21 And as they did eat, he ſaid, verely I ſay vnto you, g one of you ſhall betray me.

22 And they were exceeding ſorowfull, and began euery one of them to ſay vnto him, Is it I, Maiſter?

23 And he anſwered, and ſaid, * Hee that h dippeth his hand with mee in the diſh, hee ſhall betray me.

24 Surely the Sonne of man goeth his way, i as it is written of him: but woe be to that man, by whome the Sonne of man is betrayed: it had bene good for that man, if he had neuer bene borne.

25 Then Iudas which betrayed him, anſwered, and ſaide, Is it I, Maiſter? He ſayd vnto him, Thou haſt ſaid it.

26 ¶ * And as they did eate, Ieſus tooke the bread: and when he had giuen thanks, he brake it, and gaue it to the diſciples, and ſayd, Take, eate: k this is my body.

27 Alſo hee tooke the cup, and when he had giuen thankes, he gaue it them, ſaying, Drinke ye all of it.

28 For this is my k blood of the Newe teſtament, that is ſhedde for many, for the remiſſion of ſinnes.

29 I ſay vnto you, that l I will not drinke henceforth of this fruite of the vine vntill that day, when I ſhall drinke it newe with you in my Fathers kingdome.

30 And when they had ſung a Pſalme, they went out into the mount of Olives.

31 ¶ * Then ſayd Ieſus vnto them, All ye ſhalbe m offended by me this night: for it is written, I will * ſmite the ſhepheard, and the ſheepe of the flocke ſhalbe ſcattered.

32 But * after I am riſen againe, I will goe before you into Galilee.

33 But Peter anſwered, and ſayd vnto him, n Though that all men ſhould be offended by thee, yet will I neuer be offended.

35 Peter ſaid vnto him, Though I ſhould dye with thee, yet will I not denie thee. Likewiſe alſo ſayd all the diſciples.

36 ¶ * Then went Ieſus with them into a place which is called Gethſemane, and ſayd vnto his diſciples, Sit ye here, while I goe and pray yonder.

37 And he tooke Peter, & the two ſonnes of Zebedeus, and began to waxe ſorowfull, o and grieuously troubled.

38 Then ſaid Ieſus vnto them, My ſoule is very heauie, euen vnto the p death: tarie ye here, and watch with me.

62 Then the chiefe Priest arose, and saide to him, answerest thou nothing? What is the matter that these men witnesse against thee?

63 But Iesus c held his peace. Then the chiefe Priest answered, and said to him, I d charge thee by the liuing God, that thou tell vs if thou be Christ the Sonne of God.

64 * Iesus said to him, e Thou hast said it: neuertheless I say vnto you, hereafter shall ye see the Sonne of man sitting at the right hand of the power of God, and come in the cloudes of the heauen.

65 Then the hie Priest rent his f clothes, saying, He a hath blasphemed: what haue we any more neede of witnesses? beholde, now ye haue heard his blasphemie.

66 What thinke ye? They answered, and said, He is worthie to die.

67 * Then spate they in his face, and buffeted him; and b other smote him with their rodes, 68 Saying, ‖ Prophecie to vs, O Christ, Who is he that smote thee?

69 ¶ * Peter sate without in the hall: ỳ a maide came to him, saying, Thou also wast with Iesus of Galile.

70 But he denied before them all, saying, I wot not what thou sayest.

71 And when hee went out into the porch, another maide sawe him, and said vnto them that were there, This man was also with Iesus of Nazaret.

72 And b againe he denied with an oth, saying, I know not the man.

73 So after a while, came vnto him they that stoode by, and sayd vnto Peter, Surely thou art also one of them: for euen thy speach bewrayeth thee.

74 Then began he to curse himselfe, and to sweare, saying, I know not the man. And immediatly the cocke crewe.

75 Then Peter remembred the wordes of Iesus, which had sayd vnto him, Before the cocke crowe, thou shalt deny me thrise. So he went out, and i wept bitterly.

2 Christ is deliuered vnto Pilate. 5 Iudas hangeth himselfe. 24 Christ is pronounced innocent by the iudge, & yet is condemned, & crucified among theeues. 46 He prayeth vpon the crosse. 51 The vaile is rent. 52 The dead bodies arise. 57 Ioseph burieth Christ. 64 Watchmen keepe the graue.

WHen * the morning was come, all the chiefe Priestes, and the Elders of the people tooke counsell against Iesus, to put him to death, a For they had no authoritie to condemne him, or to put any to death.

2 And led him away bound, ỳ a deliuered him vnto Pontius Pilate the gouernour.

3 ¶ Then when Iudas which betrayed him, sawe that hee was condemned, b hee repented himselfe, and brought againe the thirty pieces of siluer to the chiefe Priestes, and Elders, b Ouerlate repentance bringeth desperation.

c Although he abhorre his sinnes, yet is he not discharged therewith but despaireth in Gods mercies, & seeketh his owne destruction.

4 Saying, I haue c sinned betraying the innocent blood. But they sayd, What is that to vs? d see thou to it.

d These hypocrites lay the whole fault vpon Iudas. Act. 1.18.

5 And when hee had cast downe the siluer pieces in the Temple, he departed, and went, * and hanged himselfe.

e The hypocriees are full of cõscience in a matter of nothing, but to shed innocent blood they make nothing at it.

6 And the chiefe Priests tooke the siluer pieces, and sayde, It is not e lawfull for vs to put them into the ‖treasure, because it is the price of blood.

7 And they tooke counsell, and bought with them a potters field, for the buriall of f strangers.

8 Wherefore that field is called, *The field of blood vntill this day.

9 (Then was fulfilled that which was spoken by Jeremias the Prophet, saying, * And they tooke thirtie siluer pieces, the price of him that was valued, whom they of the children of Israel valued.

10 And they gaue them for the potters field, as the Lord appointed me.)

11 ¶ *And Jesus stood before the gouernour, and the gouernour asked him, saying, Art thou the king of the Jewes? Jesus said vnto him, Thou layest it.

12 And whe he was accused of the chiefe Priests and Elders, he answered nothing.

13 Then said Pilate vnto him, Hearest thou not how many things they lay against thee?

14 But hee answered him not to one word, insomuch that the gouernor maruailed greatly.

15 Now at the feast the gouernour was wont to ‖deliuer vnto the people a g prisoner, whom they would.

16 And they had then a notable prisoner called Barabbas.

17 When they were then gathered together, Pilate said vnto them, Whether will ye that I let loose vnto you Barabbas, or Jesus which is called Christ?

18 (For he knew wel, that for enuy they had deliuered him.

19 Also when he was set down vpon the iudgement seate, his wife sent to him, saying, h Haue thou nothing to doe with that iust man: for I haue suffered many things this day in a dreame by reason of him.)

20 *But the chiefe Priests and the Elders had perswaded the people that they should aske Barabbas, and shoulde destroy Jesus.

21 Then the gouernour answered, & said vnto them, Whether of the twaine will ye that I let loose vnto you? And they saide, i Barabbas.

22 Pilate said vnto them, What shal I do then with Jesus which is called Christ? They all said to him, Let him be crucified.

23 Then said the gouernour, But what euill hath hee done? Then they cryed the more, saying, Let him be crucified.

24 When Pilate saw that he auailed nothing, but that more tumult was made, he tooke water and washed his handes before the multitude, saying, I am innocent of the blood of this k iust man: looke you to it.

25 Then answered all the people, & said, His l blood be on vs, and on our children.

26 Thus let hee Barabbas loose vnto them, and scourged Jesus, and deliuered him to be crucified.

27 ¶ * Then the souldiers of the gouernour tooke Jesus into the common hall, and gathered about him the whole band.

28 And they stripped him, and put vpon him a m skarlet robe,

29 And platted a crowne of thornes, and put it vpon his head, & a reede in his right hande, and bowed their knees before him, and mocked him, saying, God saue thee king of the Jewes,

30 And spitted vpon him, and tooke a reede, and smote him on the head.

31 Thus when they had mocked him, they tooke the robe from him, and put his owne rayment on him, and led him away to crucifie him.

32 *And as they came out, they found a man of Cyrene, named Simon: him they compelled to beare his crosse.

33 * And when they came into the place called Golgotha, (that is to say, the place of dead mens skulles)

34 They gaue him n vineger to drinke mingled with gall: And when he had tasted thereof, he would not drinke.

35 ¶ And when they had crucified him, they parted his garments, & did cast lots, that it might bee fulfilled, which was spoken by the Prophet, * They deuided my garments among them, and vpon my vesture did cast lots.

36 And they sate, & watched him there.

37 ¶ They set vp also ouer his head his cause written, o THIS IS IESVS THE KING OF THE IEWES.

38 ¶ And there were two theeues crucified with him, one on the right hand, and an another on the left.

39 And they that passed by, reuiled him, wagging their heads, 40 And saying, * Thou that destroyest the Temple, and buildest it in three dayes, saue thy selfe: if thou be the sonne of God, come downe from the crosse.

41 Likewise also the hie Priests mocking him, with the Scribes, and Elders, and Pharises, sayd, 42 He saued others, but hee cannot saue himselfe: if hee bee the King of Israel, let him now come downe from the crosse, and we will beleeue him.

43 * He p trusted in God, let him deliuer him now, if he will haue him: for hee sayd, I am the Sonne of God.

44 That same also the q theeues which were crucified with him, cast in his teeth.

45 Now from the r sixt houre was there darkenesse ouer al the s land, vnto the ninth houre.

46 And about the ninth houre Jesus cryed with a loud voyce, saying, *Eli, Eli, lamma sabachthani? that is, t My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?

47 And some of them that stoode there, when they heard it, sayd, This man calleth u Elias.

48 And straightway one of them ranne, and tooke * a sponge, and filled it with vineger, and put it on a ‖reede, and gaue him to * drinke.

49 Other sayd, Let be: let vs see, if Elias will come and saue him.

3 And his countenance was like lightening, and his raiment white as snowe.

4 And for feare of him, the keepers were astonied, and became as dead men.

5 But the Angel answered, and sayde to the women, Feare ye not: for I know that yee seeke Iesus which was crucified:

6 Hee is not here, for he is risen, as hee sayde: Come, see the place where the Lord was layd,

7 And goe quickly, and tell his disciples that he is risen from the dead: and beholde, he goeth before you into Galile: there yee shall see him: c loe, I haue tolde you.

8 So they departed quickly from the sepulchre, with feare and a great d ioy, and did runne to bring his disciples worde.

9 And as they went to tell his disciples, beholde, Iesus also met them, saying, God saue you. And they came, and tooke him by the feete, and worshipped him.

10 Then sayd Iesus vnto them, Be not afraide, Goe, and tell my brethren, that they goe into Galile, and there shall they see me.

11 ¶ Now when they were gone, beholde, some of the watch came into the citie, and shewed vnto the hie Priests all the things that were done.

CHAP. I.

1 The office, doctrine and life of Iohn the Baptist. 9 Christ is baptized, 13 and tempted. 14 He preacheth, 17 calleth the fishers. 23 Christ healeth the man with the vncleane spirit, 27 Newe doctrine. 29 He healeth Peters mother in lawe. 34 The deuils know him. 41 He cleanseth the leper, and healeth diuers others.

THe [a] beginning of the Gospell of Iesus Christ, the Sonne of God:

2 As it is written in the Prophets, * Beholde, I sende my [b] messenger before thy face, which shall prepare thy way before thee.

3 * The voyce of him that crieth in the wildernes, is, ¶ Prepare the way of the Lord: make his paths straight.

4 * Iohn did baptize in the wilderneſſe, and [d] preach the baptisme of amendement of life, for remission of sinnes.

5 And all the countrey of Iudea, & they of Ierusalem went out vnto him, and were all baptized of him in the Riuer Iordan, confessing their sinnes.

6 * Nowe Iohn was clothed with camels haire, and with a girdle of a skinne about his loynes: and he did eate ‖ * Locusts and wilde honie,

7 * And preached, saying, A stronger then I, commeth after me, whose shooes latchet I am not worthy to stoope downe, and vnlooſe.

8 Trueth it is, I haue * baptized you with [e] water: but he will baptize you with the holy Ghost.

9 ¶ * And it came to passe in those dayes, that Iesus came from Nazaret a citie of Galile, and was baptized of Iohn in Iordan.

10 And assoone as ‖ hee was come out of the water, Iohn sawe the heauens cloue in twaine, and the [f] holy Ghost descending vpon him like a doue.

11 Then there was a voyce from heauen, saying, Thou art my beloued [g] sonne, in whom I am well pleased.

12 * And immediatly the ‖ Spirit driueth him into the wildernesse.

13 And hee was there in the wildernesse fourtie dayes, and was [h] tempted of Satan: hee was also with the wilde beastes, and the Angels ministred vnto him.

14 ¶ * Nowe after that Iohn was committed to prison, Iesus came into Galile, preaching [i] the Gospell of the kingdome of God, 15 And saying, The time is fulfilled, and the kingdome of God is at hand: repent and beleeue the Gospel.

16 ¶ * And as he walked by the ‖ sea of Galile, hee sawe Simon, and Andrew his brother, casting a net into the sea, (for they were fishers.) Matth.4.18. luke 5.2. ‖ Or, lake.

17 Then Iesus said vnto them, Follow me, & I will make you to be [k] fishers of men.

18 And straightway they forlooke their nettes, and followed him.

19 And when he had gone a litle further thence, he sawe Iames the sonne of Zebedeus, and Iohn his brother, as they were in the shippe, mending their nettes.

20 And anon he called them: and they left their father Zebedeus in the ship with his hired seruants, and went their way after him.

21 ¶ So * they entred into Capernaum, and straightway on the Sabbath day he entred into the Synagogue, and taught. Matth.4.13. luke 4.31.

22 And they were astonied at his doctrine: * for he taught them as one that had authoritie, and [l] not as the Scribes. Mat.7.28,29. luke 4.32.

23 ¶ And there was in their Synagogue a man which had an vncleane spirit, and he cryed, 24 Saying, Ah, what haue wee to doe with thee, O Iesus of Nazareth? Art thou come to destroy vs? I knowe thee what thou art, euen that holy one of God.

25 And Iesus rebuked him, saying, [m] Holde thy peace, and come out of him.

26 And the vncleane spirit tare him, and cryed with a loude voyce, and came out of him.

27 And they were all amased, so that they demaunded one of another, saying, What thing is this? what [n] newe doctrine is this? for he commandeth the foule spirits with authoritie, and they obey him.

28 And immediatly his fame spred abroad throughout all the region bordering on Galile.

29 ¶ * And assoone as they were come out of the Synagogue, they entred into the house of Simon and Andrew, with Iames and Iohn.

30 And Simons wiues mother lay sicke of a feuer, and anon they tolde him of her.

31 And he came & tooke her by the hand, and lift her vp, and the feuer forlooke her by and by, and she ministred vnto them.

32 And when euen was come, and the sunne was downe, they brought to him all that were diseased, and them that were possessed with deuils.

33 And the whole citie was gathered together at the doore.

34 And he healed many that were sicke of diuers diseases: and hee cast out many deuils, and [o] suffered not the deuils to say that they knewe him.

35 And in the morning very earely, ‖ before day, Iesus arose and went out into a solitarie place, and there prayed.

36 And Simon, & they that were with him, followed after him.

38 Then he sayd vnto them, Let vs goe

there also: for I came out for that purpose.
39 And hee preached in their Synagogues, throughout all Galile, and cast the deuils out.
40 ¶ *And there came a leper to him, beseeching him, and kneeled downe vnto him, and sayd to him, If thou wilt, thou canst make me cleane.
41 And Iesus had compassion, and put forth his hand, & touched him, and sayd to him, I will: be thou cleane.
42 And assoone as hee had spoken, immediatly the leprosie departed from him, and he was made cleane.

45 But when he was departed, * he began to tell many things, and to publish the euery quarter.

CHAP. II.

He healeth the man of the palsie. 5 He forgiueth sinnes. 14 He calleth Leui the customer. 16 He eateth with sinners. 18 He excuseth his disciples, as touching fasting, and keeping the Sabbath day.

AFter * a fewe dayes, he entred into Capernaum againe, and it was noysed that he was in the a house.
2 And anon, many gathered together, in so much that the places about the doore could not receiue any more: and hee preached the worde vnto them.
3 And there came vnto him, which brought one sicke of the palsie, borne of foure men.
4 And because they could not come neere vnto him for the multitude, they vncouered the roofe of the house where hee was:
and when they had broken it open, they let downe the bed, wherein the sicke of the palsie lay.
5 Now when Iesus sawe their faith, he said to the sicke of the palsie, Sonne, thy b sinnes are forgiuen thee.
6 And there were certaine of the Scribes, sitting there, and reasoning in their hearts,
7 Why doeth this man speake such blasphemies? * who can forgiue sinnes, but God onely?
8 And immediately when Iesus perceiued in his spirit, that thus they thought with themselues, he saide vnto them, Why reason ye these things in your hearts?
9 c Whether is it easier to say to the sicke of the palsie, Thy sinnes are forgiuen thee?
or to say, Arise, and take vp thy bed, and 12 And by and by he arose, and tooke vp and he taught them.

14 * And as Iesus passed by, he saw Leui the sonne of Alpheus sit at the receite of custome, and said vnto him, Followe mee.
And he arose and followed him.
15 ¶ And it came to passe, as Iesus sate at table in his house, many Publicanes and sinners sate at table also with Iesus, and his disciples: for there were many that followed him.
16 And when the Scribes and Pharises sawe him eate with the Publicanes and sinners, they said vnto his disciples, Howe is it, that he eateth & drinketh with Publicanes and sinners?
17 Now when Iesus heard it, he sayde vnto them, The whole haue no neede of the Phisician, but the sicke. * I came not to call the e righteous, but y sinners to repentance.
18 *And the disciples of Iohn, and the Pharises did fast, & came & saide vnto him,
Why doe the disciples of Iohn and of the Pharises fast, and thy disciples fast not?
19 And Iesus sayd vnto them, Can the f children of the marriage chamber fast, whiles the bridegroome is with them? as long as they haue the bridegroome with them, they cannot fast.
20 But the dayes will come, when the bridegroome shall be taken from them, and then shall they fast in those dayes.

22 Likewise, no man putteth new wine into olde vessels: for els the new wine breaketh the vessels, and the wine runneth out, and the vessels are lost: but newe wine must be put into new vessels.
23 ¶ *And it came to passe as hee went through the corne on the Sabbath day, that his disciples, as they went on their way, began to plucke the eares of corne.
24 And the Pharises sayde vnto him,
Behold, why doe they on the Sabbath day,
that which is not lawfull?
25 And he sayd to them, Haue ye neuer read what * Dauid did, when he had neede, and was an hungred, both he, and they that were with him?
26 How he went into the house of God, in y dayes of h Abiathar the hie Priest, and did eate the shewe bread, which were not lawfull to eate, but for the * Priestes, and

27 And he sayd to them, The Sabbath

28 Wherefore the Sonne of man is Lord, euen of the Sabbath.

9 Then he said vnto them, He that hath [b] eares to heare, let him heare.

10 And when hee was alone, they that were about him with the twelue, asked him of the parable.

11 And he said vnto them, To [c] you it is giuen to know the mysterie of the kingdome of God: but vnto them that are [d] without, all things be done in parables, 12 * That they seeing, may see, and not discerne: and they hearing, may heare, and not vnderstand, lest at any time they should turne, and their sinnes should bee forgiuen them.

13 Againe hee said vnto them, Perceiue ye not this parable? howe then shoulde yee vnderstand all other parables?

14 The sower soweth the word.

15 And these are they that receiue the seed by the wayes side, in whom the worde is sowen: but when they haue heard it, Satan commeth immediatly, and taketh away the worde that was sowen in their hearts.

16 And likewise they that receiue the seede in stony ground, are they, which when they haue heard the word, straightwayes receiue it with gladnesse, 17 Yet haue they no roote in themselues, and endure but a time: for when trouble and persecution ariseth for the word, immediatly they be offended.

18 Also they that receiue the seede among the thornes, are such as heare the word:

19 But the cares of this world, and the * deceitfulnesse of riches, and the lustes of other things enter in, and choke the word, and it is vnfruitfull.

20 But they that haue receiued seede in good ground, are they that heare the word, and receiue it, and bring foorth fruite, one corne thirtie, another sixtie, and some an hundreth.

21 ¶ Also he sayd vnto them, * Is [e] the candle ‖lighted to bee put vnder a bushell, or vnder the table, and not to bee put on a candlesticke?

22 * [f] For there is nothing hid, that shall not be opened: neither is there a secret, but that it shall come to light.

23 If any man haue eares to heare, let him heare.

24 And he sayde vnto them, Take heed what yee heare. * With [g] what measure yee mete, it shall bee measured vnto you: and vnto you that heare, shall more bee giuen.

25 * For vnto him that hath, shall it bee giuen, and from him that hath not, shall be taken away, [h] euen that he hath.

26 ¶ Also he sayd, So is the [i] kingdome of God, as if a man should [k] cast seede in the ground, 27 And should sleepe, and rise vp night and day, and the seede shoulde spring and growe vp, he not knowing how.

28 For the earth bringeth foorth fruite of her selfe, first the blade, then the eares, after that, full come in the eares.

29 And assoone as the fruite sheweth it selfe, anon he putteth in the sickle, because the harueste is come.

30 ¶ * He said moreouer, whereunto shall we liken the kingdome of God? or with what comparison shall we compare it?

31 It is like a graine of mustard seede, which when it is sowen in the earth, is the least of all seedes that be in the earth:

32 But after that it is sowen, it groweth vp, and is greatest of all herbes, and beareth great branches, so that the foules of heauen may builde vnder the shadow of it.

33 And * with many such parables hee preached the worde vnto them, as they were able to heare it.

34 And without parables spake hee nothing vnto them: but hee expounded all things to his disciples apart.

35 ¶ * Nowe the same day when euen was come, hee said vnto them, Let vs passe ouer vnto the other side.

36 And they left the multitude, and [l] tooke him as he was in the ship: and there were also with him other ships.

37 And there arose a great storme of winde, and the waues dashed into the ship, so that it was now full.

38 And he was in the sterne [m] asleepe on a pillowe: and they awoke him, and sayde to him, Master, carest thou not that wee perish?

39 And hee rose vp, and rebuked the winde, and sayd vnto the sea, Peace, and be still. So the wind ceased, and it was a great calme.

40 Then he said vnto them, Why are ye so fearefull? ‖howe is it that yee haue no faith?

41 And they feared exceedingly, and said one to another, Who is this, that both the winde and the sea obey him?

2 The miracle of the seuen loaues. 11 The Pharises aske a signe. 15 The leauen of the Pharises. 22 The blind receiueth his sight. 29 He was knowen of his disciples. 33 He reproueth Peter, 34 And sheweth howe necessarie persecution is.

IN * those dayes, when there was a very great multitude, and had nothing to eate, Jesus called his disciples to him, and sayde vnto them, a Christ prouideth for his, when they seeme to be destitute and forsaken.

3 And if I send them away fasting to their owne houses, they would faint by the way: for some of them came from farre.

4 Then his disciples answered him, ‖ Howe can a man satisfie these b with bread here in the wilderneste?

‖ Or, whence.
b If bread were so hard to come by, it seemed vnpossible to obteine other meate,

5 And hee asked them, Howe many loaues haue ye? And they said, Seuen.

6 Then hee commaunded the multitude to sit downe on the ground: and hee tooke the seuen loaues, and gaue thankes, brake them, and gaue to his disciples to set before them, and they did set them before the people.

7 They had also a fewe small fishes: and when he had giuen thanks, he commanded them also to be set before them.

8 So they did eate, and were sufficed, and they tooke vp of the broken meate that was left, seuen baskets full,

9 (And they that had eaten, were about foure thousand) so he sent them away.

11 * And the Pharises came forth, and began to dispute with him, seeking of him a signe from heauen, and tempting him.

Matth. 16.1.

12 Then he d sighed deepely in his spirit, and said, Why doth this e generation seeke a signe? verely I say vnto you, ‖ f a signe shall not be giuen vnto this generation.

d O the incomprehensible loue of our Christ! howe long shall we abuse his great mercies?
e Christ goeth about by sharpnesse of speech to saue them from wilfull destruction.
‖ Or, if a signe be giuen.
f As if he would say, If I shewe them any signe, let me be a lyar and a deceiuer.

13 ¶ So he left them, and went into the ship againe, and departed to the other side.

14 ¶ * And they had forgotten to take bread, neither had they in the shippe with them, but one loafe.

Matth. 16.5.

15 And hee charged them, saying, Take heede, and beware of the g leauen of the Pharises, and of the leauen of Herod.

g Hee willeth them to beware contagious doctrine, and such subtile practises as the aduersaries vsed to suppresse his Gospel. Iohn 6.11.

16 And they thought among themselues, saying, It is, because we haue no bread.

17 And when Jesus knewe it, he sayde vnto them, Why reason you thus because ye haue no bread? perceiue yee not yet, neither vnderstand? haue yee your hearts yet hardened?

18 Haue yee eyes and see not? and haue ye eares and heare not? and doe ye not remember?

19 * When I brake the fiue loaues among fiue thousand, howe many baskets full of broken meate tooke yee vp? they said vnto him, Twelue.

Matth. 16.9.

20 And when I brake seuen among foure thousand, howe many baskets of the leauings of broken meate tooke yee vp? and they said, Seuen.

21 Then hee sayd vnto them, h How is it that ye vnderstand not?

h Christ reprooueth them because their minds are as yet vpon the materiall leauen, notwithstanding they had prooued by diuers miracles that hee gaue them their daily bread.

22 ¶ And hee came to Bethsaida, and they brought a blinde man vnto him, and desired him to touch him.

23 Then he tooke the blinde by the hand, and led him out of the towne, & spate in his eyes, and put his hands vpon him, and asked him, if he sawe ought.

24 And he looked vp, and said, I see men: for I see them walking like trees.

25 After that, he put his hands againe vpon his eyes, and made him looke againe. And hee was restored to his sight, and sawe euery man a farre off cleerely.

26 And hee sent him home to his house, saying, Neither goe into the towne, nor tell it to any in the towne.

27 ¶ * And Jesus went out, & his disciples into the townes of Cesarea Philippi. And by the way hee asked his disciples, saying vnto them, Whome men say 28 And they answered, Some say, John Baptist: and some, Elias: and some, one of the Prophets.

29 And hee saide vnto them, But whom say yee that I am? Then Peter answered and said vnto him, Thou art the i Christ.

30 And he sharpely k charged them that concerning him they should tell no man.

31 Then he began to teach them that the Sonne of man must suffer many things, and should be reprooued of the Elders, and of the hie Priestes, and of the Scribes, and be slaine, and within three daies rise againe.

32 And hee spake that thing plainely. Then Peter tooke him aside, and began to rebuke him.

33 Then he turned backe, and looked on his disciples, and rebuked Peter, saying, Get thee behinde me, l Satan: for thou vnderstandest not the things that are of God, but the things that are of men.

34 ¶ And hee called the people vnto him with his disciples, and sayde vnto them, * Whosoeuer will followe mee, let him forsake himselfe, and take vp his crosse, and followe me.

35 For whosoeuer will m saue his life, shall lose it: but whosoeuer shall lose his life, for my sake and the Gospels, he shall m saue it.

36 For what shall it profite a man, though hee should winne the whole worlde, if he lose his soule?

37 Or what shall a man giue for recompence of his soule?

38 * For whosoeuer shalbe ashamed of me, & of my wordes among this adulterous and sinfull generation, of him shall the Sonne of man bee ashamed also, when hee commeth in the glorie of his Father with the holy Angels.

AND * he said vnto them, Verely I say vnto you, that there be some of them that stand here, which shall not taste of death, til a they haue seene the o kingdome of God come with power.

a The preaching of the Gospel receiued and increased: he spake this to comfort them, and that they should not thinke they trauailed in vaine.
*Matt.*17.1. luke 9.28.
b Christ sheweth his maiestie so farre as their infirmitie was able to comprehend it.
c Peter measured this vision according to his owne capacitie, not considering the ende thereof.

2 * And sixe daies after, Jesus took Peter, and James, and John, & brought them vp into an hie mountaine out of the way alone, and he was transfigured before them.

3 And his raiment did b shine, and was very white as snowe, so white as no fuller can make vpon the earth.

4 And there appeared vnto them Elias with p Moses, and they were talking with Jesus.

5 Then Peter answered, and said to Jesus, Master, it is good for vs to be here: let vs make also three Tabernacles, one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias.

6 c For he knewe not what he sayde: for they were afraide.

7 And there was a cloud that shadowed them, and a voyce came out of the cloude, saying, * This is my beloued Sonne: d heare him.

8 And suddenly they looked rounde about, and sawe no more any man saue Jesus onely with them.

9 * And as they came downe from the mountaine, hee charged them, that they shoulde tell no man what they had seene, saue when the Sonne of man were risen from the dead againe.

10 So they kept that matter to themselues, & demanded one of another, what the rising from the dead againe should meane.

11 Also they asked him, saying, Why say the Scribes, that * Elias e must first come?

12 And he answered, and said vnto them, Elias verely shall first come and restore all things: and *as it is written of the Sonne of man, he must suffer many things, and be set at nought.

13 But I say vnto you, that f Elias is come, (and they haue done vnto him whatsoeuer they would) as it is written of him.

14 ¶ * And when he came to his disciples, he saw a great multitude about them, and the Scribes disputing with them.

15 And straightway all the people, when they beheld him, were amased, and ranne to him, and saluted him.

16 Then he asked the Scribes, What dispute you || among your selues?

17 And one of the companie answered, and said, Master, I haue brought my sonne vnto thee, which hath a dumme spirit:

18 And whersoeuer hee taketh him, he h teareth him, and hee foameth, and gnasheth his teeth, and pineth away: and I spake to thy disciples that they should cast him out, and they could not.

19 Then he answered him, and said, i O faithlesse generation, how long now shall I be with you? how long now shall I suffer you? Bring him vnto me.

20 So they brought him vnto him: and assoone as the spirit sawe him, hee tare him, and hee fell downe on the ground, wallowing and foming.

21 Then he asked his father, How long time is it since he hath bene thus? And hee sayd, Of a childe.

22 And oft times hee casteth him into the fire, and into the water to destroy him: but if thou canst doe any thing, helpe vs, and haue compassion vpon vs.

23 And Jesus said vnto him, If k thou canst beleeue it, all things are l possible to him that beleeueth.

24 And straightway the father of the childe crying with teares said, Lord, I beleeue: helpe my m vnbeliefe.

25 When Jesus saw that the people came running together, hee rebuked the vncleane spirit, saying vnto him, Thou dumme and deafe spirite, I charge thee, come out of him, and enter no more into him.

‖ Or, against them.
h When the spirit cõmeth vpon him, he teareth him with inward sorow and pangs, as in a colike a man feeleth such griefe, as if his bowels were rent asunder.
i It seemeth that this man deserued not so sharpe an answere: but Christ speaketh in his person to the Pharisee, which were stubburn & desperate.
k The Lord is euer ready to helpe vs, so that we put him not backe through our incredulitie.
l All things that are agreeable to the will of God, shalbe granted to him that beleeueth: for faith seeketh nothing that is contrary to his will, or that is not reuciled in his word.
m That is, the feebleneſſe, and imperfection of my faith.

26 Then the spirit cryed, & rent him sore, and came out, and [n] hee was as one dead, in so much that many sayde, He is dead.

27 But Jesus tooke his hande, and lift him vp, and he arose.

28 And when hee was come into the house, his Disciples asked him secretly, Why could not we cast him out?

29 And he sayde vnto them, This kinde can by no other meanes come forth, but by [o] prayer and fasting.

30 ¶ * And they departed thence, & went through Galile, and he would not that any should haue knowen it.

31 For he taught his disciples, and sayde vnto them, The sonne of man shall bee deliuered into the hands of men, and they shall kill him, but after that he is killed, hee shall rise againe the third day.

32 But [p] they vnderstoode not that saying, and were afraid to aske him.

33 * After, he came to Capernaum: and when he was in the house, hee asked them, What was it that ye disputed among you by the way?

34 And they held their peace: for by the way they reasoned among themselues, who should be the chiefest.

35 And hee sate downe, and called the twelue, and sayd to them, If any man desire to be first, the same shall bee last of all, and seruant vnto all.

36 And he tooke a litle child, and set him in the middes of them, & tooke him in his armes, and sayd vnto them, 37 Whosoeuer shall receiue one of such litle children in my Name, receiueth mee: and whosoeuer receiueth mee, receiueth not [q] me, but him that sent me.

38 ¶ * Then Iohn answered him, saying, Master, wee sawe one casting out deuils by thy name, which followeth not vs, and wee forbade him, because he followeth vs not.

39 * But Jesus sayde, Forbid him not: for there is no man that can doe a ‖ miracle by my Name, that can lightly speake euill of me.

40 For whosoeuer is not [r] against vs, is on our part.

41 * And whosoeuer shall giue you a cup of water to drinke for my Names sake, because ye belong to Christ, verely I say vnto you, he shall not lose his reward.

42 * And whosoeuer shall offend one of these litle ones, that beleeue in mee, it were better for him, rather that a millstone were hanged about his necke, and that he were cast into the sea.

43 * Wherefore, if thine [s] hand cause thee to offende, cut it off: it is better for thee to enter into life, maymed, then hauing two handes, to goe into hell, into the fire that neuer shall be quenched,

44 * Where their [t] worme dieth not, and the fire neuer goeth out.

45 Likewise, if thy foote cause thee to offende, cut it off: it is better for thee to goe halt into life, then hauing two feete to bee cast into hell, into the fire that neuer shall be quenched,

46 Where their worme dieth not, and the fire neuer goeth out.

47 And if thine eye cause thee to offend, plucke it out: it is better for thee to goe into the kingdome of God with one eye, then hauing two eyes, to be cast into hell fire,

48 Where their worme dieth not, and the fire neuer goeth out.

49 For euery man shall be [u] salted with fire: and * euery sacrifice shalbe salted with salt.

10 Blessed be the kingdome that commeth in the c Name of the Lorde of our father d Dauid: Hosanna, O thou which art in the highest heauens.

c Many came in their owne name, but Christ came in the Name of the Lord.

d Because the promise was made to him. Matth.21.10. luke 19.45. Matth.21.19.

11 * So Jesus entred into Jerusalem, and into the Temple: and when he had looked about on all things, and nowe it was euening, hee went foorth vnto Bethania with the twelue.

12 * And on the morow when they were come out from Bethania, hee was e hungrie.

e Christ was subiect to our infirmities.

13 And seeing a figge tree afarre off, that had leaues, hee went to see if hee might finde any thing thereon: but when hee came vnto it, he found nothing but leaues: for the time of figs was not yet.

14 Then Jesus answered, and said to it, f Neuer man eate fruite of thee hereafter while the world standeth: and his disciples heard it.

f This was to declare howe much they displease God, which haue but an outward shew and appearance without fruite.

15 ¶ And they came to Jerusalem, and Jesus went into the Temple, and began to cast out them that solde and bought in the Temple, and ouerthrewe the tables of the money changers, & the seates of them that solde doues.

Isa.56.7. Iere.7.11.

16 Neither would he suffer that any man should carry a vessell through the Temple.

17 And he taught, saying vnto them, Is it not written, * Mine house shall be called the house of prayer vnto all nations? * but yee haue made it a deane of theeues.

g For neither could they suffer reprehension, nor that their profite should be hindered.

18 And the Scribes & hie Priests heard it, and sought howe to s destroy him: for they feared him, because the whole multitude was astonied at his doctrine.

19 But when euen was come, Iesus went out of the citie.

Mat.21.19,20.

20 ¶ * And in the morning as they passed by, they sawe the figtree dryed vp from the rootes.

21 Then Peter remembred, & sayd vnto him, Master, beholde, the figtree which thou cursedst is withered.

22 And Jesus answered, and sayd vnto them, Haue h faith in God.

h Christ taketh occasion to instruct them of the vertue of faith.

23 For verily I say vnto you, that whosoeuer shall say vnto this mountaine, Take thy selfe away, and cast thy selfe into the sea, and shall not wauer in his heart, but shall beleeue that those things which hee sayth shall come to passe, whatsoeuer hee sayth, shalbe done to him.

Mat.7.7. luke 11.9.

24 * Therefore I say vnto you, i whatsoeuer ye desire when ye pray, beleeue that ye shall haue it, and it shalbe done vnto you.

i He teacheth vs not hereby to aske whatsoeuer seemeth good in our fantasies: for our prayer must be grounded on faith, & our faith vpon the worde of God.

25 * But when ye shall stand and pray, forgiue, if yee haue any thing against any man, that your Father also which is in heauen may forgiue you your trespasses.

Matth.6.14.

26 For if you will not forgiue, your Father which is in heauen, will not pardon you your trespasses.

Matth.21.23. luke 20.1,2.

27 ¶ * Then they came againe to Jerusalem: and as hee walked in the Temple, there came to him the hie Priests, and the Scribes, and the Elders, 28 And sayd vnto him, By what authoritie doest thou these things? and who gaue thee this authoritie, that thou shouldest doe these things?

29 Then Jesus answered, and said vnto them, I will also aske of you a certaine thing, and answere ye me, & I will tell you by what authoritie I doe these things.

30 The k baptisme of Iohn, was it from heauen, or of men? answere me.

k He comprehendeth his whole office and ministerie.

31 And they thought with themselues, saying, If we shall say, From heauen, hee will say, Why then did ye not beleeue him?

32 But if we say, Of men, we feare the people: for all men counted Iohn, that hee had bene a very Prophet.

33 Then they answered, and sayd vnto Jesus, We cannot tell. And Jesus answered and sayde vnto them, l Neither wil I tell you by what authoritie I doe these things.

l They came of malice, and not to learne: therefore Christ thought them vnworthie to be taught.

CHAP. XII.

1 The vineyarde is let out. 14 Obedience and tribute due to Princes. 25 The resurrection of the dead. 28 The summe of the Lawe. 35 Christ the sonne of Dauid. 38 Hypocrites must be eschewed. 41 The offering of the poore widowe.

Isa.5.1. iere.2,21. matth.21.33. luke 20.9.

AND he began to speake vnto them in parables, * A certaine man planted a vineyarde, and compassed it with an hedge, and digged a pit for the a winepresse, and built a towre in it, and let it out to husbandmen, and went into a strange countrey.

a The Greeke worde signifieth the vessell or fat, which standeth vnder the winepresse to receiue the iuyce or liquor.

2 And at a time, he sent to the husbandmen a seruant, that hee might receiue of the husbandmen of the fruite of the vineyarde.

3 But

3 But they tooke him, and beat him, and sent him away emptie.

4 And againe, he sent vnto them another seruant, and at him they cast stones, and brake his head, and sent him away shamefully handled.

5 And againe he sent another, and him they slewe, and many other, beating some, and killing some.

6 Yet had he one sonne, his deare beloued: him also he sent the last vnto them, saying, They will reuerence my sonne.

7 But the husbandmen sayde among themselues, This is the heire: come, let vs kill him, and the inheritance shalbe ours.

8 So they tooke him, & killed him, and cast him out of the vineyard.

9 What shall then the Lord of the vineyard doe? He b will come and destroy these husbandmen, and giue the vineyarde to others.

10 Haue yee not read so much as this scripture? * The stone which the builders did refuse, is made the head of the corner:

11 This c was done of the Lord, and it is marueilous in our eyes.

12 Then they went about to take him, but they feared ỹ people: for they perceiued that hee spake that parable against them: therefore they left him, and went their way.

13 ¶ * And they sent vnto him certaine of the Pharises, and of the Herodians that they might take him in his talke.

14 And when they came, they sayd vnto him, Master, we knowe that thou art true, and carest for no man: for thou considerest not the d person of men, but teachest the e way of God truely, Is it lawfull to giue tribute to Cesar, or not?

15 Should we giue it, or should wee not giue it? But he knew their hypocrisie, & said vnto them, f Why tempt ye me? Bring me a peny, that I may see it.

16 So they brought it, and he sayd vnto them, * Whose is this image & superscription? and they sayd vnto him, Cesars.

17 Then Iesus answered, and said vnto them, * Giue to Cesar the things that are Cesars, and to God, those that are Gods: and they marueiled at him.

18 ¶ * Then came the Sadducees vnto him, (which say, there is no resurrection) and they asked him, saying,

19 Master, * Moses wrote vnto vs, If any mans brother die, and leaue his wife, and leaue no children, that s his brother should take his wife, and raise vp seede vnto his brother.

20 There were seuen brethren, & the first tooke a wife, and when he died, left no issue.

21 Then the second tooke her, and he died, neither did he yet leaue issue, & the third likewise.

22 So seuen had her, and left no issue: last of all the wife died also.

23 In the resurrection then, when they shall rise againe, whose wife shall she be of them? for seuen had her to wife.

24 Then Iesus answered, and said vnto them, Are yee not therefore deceiued, because ye know not the Scriptures, neither the power of God?

25 For when they shall rise againe from the dead, neither men marry, nor wiues are married, but are h as the Angels which are in heauen.

26 And as touching the dead, that they shall rise againe, haue yee not read in the booke of Moses, how in the bush God spake vnto him, saying, I * am the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Iacob?

27 He is not the God of the dead, but the God of the i liuing. Ye are therefore greatly deceiued.

28 ¶ * Then came one of the Scribes, that had heard them disputing together, and perceiuing that hee had answered them well, he asked him, Which is the first commandement of all?

29 Iesus answered him, The first of all the commandements is, * Heare, Israel, the Lord our God is the onely Lord.

30 Thou shalt therefore loue the Lord thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy soule, & with all thy ‖minde, & with all thy strength: this is the first commandement.

31 And the second is k like, that is, * Thou shalt loue thy neighbour as thy selfe. There is none other commandement greater then these.

32 Then the Scribe said vnto him, Well Master, thou hast said the trueth, that there is one God, and that there is none but he.

33 And to loue him with all the heart, and with all the vnderstanding, and with all the soule, and with all the strength, and to loue his neighbour as himselfe, is more then all burnt l offerings and sacrifices.

34 Then, when Iesus sawe that he answered discreetely, hee sayde vnto him, Thou m art not farre from the kingdome of God. And no man after that durst aske him any question.

35 ¶ * And Iesus answered & sayd teaching in the Temple, How say the Scribes that Christ is the Sonne of Dauid?

36 For Dauid himselfe sayd by the n holy Ghost, * The Lord sayd to my Lord, Sit at my right hand, till I make thine enemies thy footestoole.

37 Then Dauid himselfe calleth him Lord: by what meanes is he then his sonne? and much people heard him gladly.

38 * Moreouer he said vnto them in ‖his doctrine, Beware of the Scribes, which loue to goe in long o robes, and loue salutations in the markets,

39 And the chiefe seates in the Synagogues, and the first roomes at feastes, 40 Which * deuoure widowes houses, ‖euen vnder a colour of long prayers. These shall receiue the greater damnation.

41 * And as Iesus sate ouer against the treasurie, hee beheld howe the people cast money into the treasurie, & many rich men cast in much.

42 And there came a certaine poore widowe, and she threwe in two mites, which make a p quadrin.

43 Then hee called vnto him his disciples, and sayde vnto them, Verely I say vnto e This is not to make them negligent, but to assure them that he wil assist them & instruct them sufficientiy with answeres, so that they may hereby perceiue that their defence standeth not in their owne wisedome, or eloquence.

10 And the Gospel must first bee published among all nations.

Matth.24.15.

11 * But when they leade you, and deliuer you vp, take yee d no thought afore, neither premeditate e what ye shall say: but whatsoeuer is giuen you at the same time, that speake: for it is not ye that speake, but the holy Ghost.

h For they shall not be able to flee.

18 i Pray therefore that your flight bee not in the winter.

i That you haue no let to hinder you when you should escape.

19 For there shall be in those dayes such tribulation, as was not from the beginning of the creation which God created vnto this time, neither shall be.

30 Verely I say vnto you, y this n generatiõ shal not passe, til al these things be done.

31 Heauen and earth shall passe away, but my wordes shall not passe away.

32 But of that o day and houre knoweth no man, no, not the Angels which are in heauen, neither the p Sonne himselfe, saue the Father.

o When the destruction of Ierusalem, the persecutions & illusions shall come: but chiefly these are vnderstood of the second comming of Christ.

p In that he is man and Mediatour.

Matth.24.42.

33 * Take heede: watch, and pray: for ye know not when the time is.

34 For the Sonne of man is as a man going into a strange countrey, and leaueth his house, and giueth authoritie to his seruants, and to euery man his worke, and commandeth the porter to watch.

35 q Watch therefore, (for ye knowe not when the master of the house will come, at euen, or at midnight, at the cocke crowing, or in the dawning)

q For of the coming wee are most assured: but of the time, the yeere, the day or houre, we are ignorant, & therefore must watch continually.

36 Least if he come suddenly, hee should finde you sleeping.

37 And those things that I say vnto you, I say vnto all men, Watch.

45 And assoone as he was come, he went straightway to him, and sayd, p Maister, Maister, and kissed him.

46 Then they layd their handes on him, and tooke him.

47 And q one of them that stood by, drew out a sword, and smote a r seruant of the hie Priest, and cut off his eare.

48 And Iesus answered and sayd vnto them, Be he come out as vnto a theefe with swordes and with staues to take me.

49 I was dayly with you teaching in the Temple, and ye s tooke me not: but this is done ỹ the Scriptures should be fulfilled.

50 Then they t all forlooke him, & fled.

51 And there followed him a certaine yong man, clothed in linnen vpon his bare body, and the yong men caught him.

52 But he left his linnen cloth, and fled from them naked.

53 * So they led Iesus away to the hie Priest, & to him came all the u hie Priests, and the Elders, and the Scribes.

54 And Peter followed him x afarre off, euen vnto the hall of the hie Priest, and sate with the seruants, and warmed himselfe at the ‖ fire.

59 But their witnesse yet agreed not together.

60 Then ỹ hie Priest stood vp amongst them, and asked Iesus, saying, Answerest thou nothing? What is the matter that these beare witnesse against thee?

61 But he held his peace, and answered nothing. Againe the hie Priest asked him, and sayde vnto him, Art thou Christ the Sonne of the z Blessed?

1 Iesus is led to Pilate. 15 He is condemned, reuiled, put to death, 46 And is buried by Ioseph.

AND * anon in the dawning, the high Priests helde a counsell with the Elders and the Scribes, and the whole counsell, and bound Iesus, and led him away, and deliuered him to Pilate. *Matth.*27.1,2. Luke 22.66. Iohn 18.28.

a For the Romanes gaue them no authoritie to put any man to death.

2 Then Pilate asked him, Art thou the King of the Iewes? And he answered, and sayd vnto him, Thou sayest it.

3 And the hie Priests accused him of many things.

4 * Wherefore Pilate asked him againe, saying, Answerest thou nothing? Beholde howe many things they witnesse against thee. *Matth.*27.12. Luke 23.3. Iohn 18.35.

5 But Iesus answered b no more at all, so that Pilate marueiled.

b He would not defend his cause, but presented himselfe willingly to be condemned.

6 Nowe at the feast Pilate did deliuer a prisoner vnto them, whomsoeuer they would desire.

7 Then there was one named Barabbas, which was bound with his fellowes, that had made insurrection, who in the insurrection had committed murder.

8 And the people cryed aloude, and began to desire that hee would doe as hee had c euer done vnto them.

c The people alwayes mainteine their customes, although they be worth nothing.

9 Then Pilate answered them, & sayd, Will yee that I let loose vnto you the King of the Iewes?

10 For hee knewe that the hie Priestes had deliuered him of enuie.

11 But the hie Priests had mooued the people to desire that he would rather deliuer Barabbas vnto them.

12 And Pilate answered, and sayde againe vnto them, What will ye then that I doe with him, whome yee call the King of the Iewes?

13 And they cryed againe, Crucifie him.

14 Then Pilate sayde vnto them, But what euill hath hee done? And they cryed the more fermently, Crucifie him.

d When a iudge hath respect to men, hee quite forgetteth iustice.

15 So Pilate d willing to content ỹ people, ple, loosed them Barabbas, and deliuered Iesus when he had scourged him, that hee might be crucified.

16 Then the souldiers led him away into the hall, which is the ‖common hall, and called together the whole band,

17 And clad him with purple, and platted a crowne of thornes, and put it about his head, 18 And began to salute him, saying, Haile, King of the Iewes.

19 And they smote him on the head with a ‖reede, and spat vpon him, and bowed the knees, and did him reuerence.

20 And when they had mocked him, they tooke the purple off him, and put his owne clothes on him, and led him out to crucifie him.

21 *And they e compelled one that passed by, called Simon of Cyrene (which came out of the countrey, and was father of Alexander and Rufus) to beare his crosse.

22 And they brought him to a place named Golgotha, which is by interpretation, the place of dead mens skulles.

23 And they gaue him to drink wine mingled f with myrhe: but he receiued it not.

24 And when they had crucified him, they parted his garments, casting lottes for them, what euery man should haue.

25 And it was g the third houre, when they crucified him.

26 And the title of his cause was written aboue, THE KING OF THE IEWES.

27 They crucified also with him two theeues, the one on the right hand, and the other on his left.

28 Thus the Scripture was fulfilled, which sayth, * And he was counted among the wicked.

29 And they that went by, railed on him, wagging their heads, and saying, * Hey, thou that destroyest the temple, and buildest it in three dayes, 30 Saue thy selfe, and come downe from the crosse.

31 Likewise also euen the high Priestes mocking, said among themselues with the Scribes, Hee saued other men, himselfe he cannot saue.

32 Let Christ the King of Israel nowe come downe from the crosse, that we may see, and beleeue. h They also that were crucified with him, reuiled him.

33 ¶ Nowe when the sixt houre was come, darkenesse arose ouer i all the land vntill the ninth houre.

34 And at the k ninth houre Iesus cried with a loude voyce, saying, * Eloi, Eloi, lamma sabachthani? which is by interpretation, My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?

35 And some of them that stood by, when they heard it, sayd, l Beholde, hee calleth Elias.

36 And one ran, and filled a *sponge full of vineger, and put it on a reed, & gaue him to drinke, saying, Let him alone: let vs see if Elias wil come and take him downe.

37 And Iesus cryed with a loude voyce, and gaue vp the ghost.

38 ¶ And the vaile of the Temple was rent in twaine, from the top to the bottome.

39 Now when the m Centurion, which stood ouer against him, sawe that hee thus crying gaue vp the ghost, hee sayd, Truely this man was the sonne of God.

40 ¶ There were also women, which beholde afarre off, among whome was Marie Magdalene, and Mary (the mother of James the lesse, and of Ioses) and Salome, 41 Which also when hee was in Galile, *followed him, and ministred vnto him, and many other women which came vp with him vnto Ierusalem.

42 ¶ *And now when night was come (because it was the day of the preparation, that is before the Sabbath)

43 Ioseph of Arimathea, an n honorable Counsellour, which also looked for the kingdome of God, came, & went in o boldly vnto Pilate, and asked the body of Iesus.

44 And Pilate marueiled if he were already dead, and called vnto him the Centurion, and asked of him whether he had bene any while dead.

45 And when he knewe the trueth of the Centurion, he gaue the body to Ioseph, 46 Who bought a linnen cloth, & tooke him downe, and wrapped him in the linnen cloth, and laide him in a tombe that was hewen out of a rocke, and rolled a stone vnto the doore of the sepulchre.

47 And Marie Magdalene, and Mary Ioses mother beholde where hee should be layde.

AND *when the Sabbath day was past, Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James, & Salome, bought sweete ointments that they might come, and embalme him.

2 Therefore earely in the morning, the first day of the weeke, they came vnto the sepulchre, when the sunne was ‖ yet rising,

3 And they sayd one to another, Who shall rolle vs away the stone from the doore of the sepulchre?

4 And when they looked, they sawe that the stone was rolled away (for it was a very great one.)

5 * So they went into the sepulchre, and sawe a yong man sitting at the right syde, clothed in a long white robe: and they were afraide.

6 But he said vnto them, Be not afrayd: ye seeke Iesus of Nazaret, which hath bene crucified: he is risen: he is not here: beholde the place where they put him.

7 But goe your way, and tell his disciples, and b Peter, that hee will goe before you into Galile: there shall ye see him, * as he sayd vnto you.

8 And they went out quickly, & fled from the sepulchre: for they trembled, and were amased: neither sayd they any thing to any man: for they were afraide.

CHAP. I.

5 Of Zacharias & Elisabet. 11 The Angel sheweth him of the nativity of Iohn Baptist. 20 His incredulity is punished. 28 The salutacion of the Angel, & Mary. 46 Her song. 57 The birth, circumcision, and graces of Iohn. 68 Zacharias giueth thankes to God, and prophecieth.

FOr as much as many haue taken in hand to set foorth the storie of those things whereof we are fully perswaded,

2 [a] As they haue deliuered them vnto vs, which from the beginning saw them their selues, and were ministers of the [b] worde,

3 It seemed good also to me (most noble Theophilus) after one as I had searched out perfectly all things from the beginning, to write vnto thee thereof from point to point,

4 That thou mightest acknowledge the certaintie of those things, wherein thou hast bene instructed.

5 ¶ In the time of [c] Herod King of Iudea, there was a certain Priest named Zacharias, of the [d] course of Abia: and his wife was of the [e] daughters of Aaron, and her name was Elisabet.

6 Both were [f] iust before God, and walked in all the commaundements and [g] ordinances of the Lord, without reproofe.

7 And they had no child, because that Elisabet was barren: and both were well stricken in age.

8 And it came to passe, as he executed the Priestes office before God, as his course came in order, 9 According to the custome of ỹ Priests office, his lot was to [h] burne incense, when he went into the [i] Temple of the Lorde.

10 And the whole multitude of the people were without in prayer, * while the incense was burning.

11 Then appeared vnto him an Angell of the Lorde standing at the right side of the altar of incense.

12 And when Zacharias sawe him, hee was troubled, and feare fell vpon him.

13 But the Angel sayd vnto him, Feare not, Zacharias: for thy prayer is heard, and thy wife Elisabet shall beare thee a sonne, and thou shalt call his name [k] Iohn.

14 And thou shalt haue ioy and gladnes, and many shall reioyce at his birth.

15 For he shalbe great in the sight of the Lord, & shal neither drinke wine, nor [l] strong drinke: and hee shall be filled with the holy Ghost, euen from his mothers wombe.

16 * And many of the children of Israel shall he turne to their Lord God.

17 * For he shall goe [m] before him in the spirite and power of Elias, to turne the hearts of the [n] fathers to the children, and the disobedient to the wisedome of the iust men, to make ready a people prepared for the Lord.

18 Then Zacharias said vnto the Angel, Whereby shall I know this? For I am an olde man, and my wife is of a great age.

19 And the Angel answered, & said vnto him, I am [o] Gabriel that stand in the presence of God, and am sent to speake vnto thee, and to shewe thee these good tidings.

20 And beholde, thou shalt be dumme, and not be able to speake, vntil [p] the day that these things be done, because thou beleeuedst not my wordes, which shall be fulfilled in their season.

21 Nowe the people waited for Zacharias, and marueiled that he taried so long in the Temple.

22 And when he came out, he could not speake vnto them: then they perceiued that he had seene a vision in the Temple: for he made signes vnto them, and remayned dumme.

23 And it came to passe, when the dayes of his office were fulfilled, that he departed q to his owne house.

24 And after those dayes, his wife Elisabet conceiued, and hid her selfe fiue moneths, saying, 25 Thus hath the Lord dealt with mee, in the dayes wherein hee looked on mee, to take from me r my rebuke among men.

26 ¶ And in the first moneth, the Angel Gabriel was sent from God vnto a cite of Galile, named Nazaret, 27 To a virgin affianced to a man whose name was Joseph, of the house of Dauid, and the virgins name was Marie.

28 And the Angel went in vnto her, and sayde, ‖ Haile thou that art ‖freely beloued: the Lord is with thee: blessed art thou among women.

29 And when she saw him, she was troubled at his saying, and thought what maner of salutation that should be.

30 Then the Angel said vnto her, Feare not, Marie: for ſ thou hast found fauour with God.

31 * For loe, thou shalt conceiue in thy wombe, and beare a sonne, and shalt call his name Iesvs.

32 Hee shall be great, and shall be called the Sonne t of the most High, and the Lord God shall giue vnto him the throne of his father Dauid.

33 * And hee shall reigne ouer the house of Iaacob for euer, and of his kingdome shall be none ende.

34 Then sayde Marie vnto the Angel, u Howe shall this bee, seeing I knowe not man?

35 And the Angel answered, and sayde vnto her, The holy Ghost shall come vpon thee, and the power of the most High shall x ouershadow thee: therefore also that y holy thing which shall bee borne of thee, shall be called the Sonne of God.

36 And beholde, thy z cousin Elisabet, shee hath also conceiued a sonne in her olde age: and this is her sixe moneth, which was called barren.

37 For with God shall nothing bee vnpossible.

38 Then Mary sayd, Behold, the seruant of the Lord: bee it vnto me according to thy word. So the Angel departed from her.

39 ¶ And Marie arose in those dayes, and went into the hill countrey, with haste to a a citie of Iuda, 40 And entred into the house of Zacharias, and saluted Elisabet.

41 And it came to passe, as Elisabet heard the salutation of Marie, the babe b sprang in her bellye, and Elisabet was filled with the holy Ghost.

42 And shee cried with a loude voyce, and sayd, Blessed art thou among women, because the c fruit of thy wombe is blessed.

43 And whence commeth this to mee, that the mother of my Lorde should come to me?

44 For loe, assoone as the voyce of thy salutation sounded in mine eares, the babe sprang in my belly for ioy.

45 And blessed is shee that beleeued: for those things shall be performed, which were tolde her d from the Lord.

46 Then Marie sayd, My e soule magnifieth the Lord,

47 And my spirite reioyceth in God my Sauiour.

48 For hee hath looked on the ‖ poore degree of his seruant: for behold, from henceforth shall all ages call f me blessed.

49 Because he that is mightie hath done for me great things, and holy is his Name.

50 And his g mercy is from generation to generation on them that feare him.

51 * Hee hath shewed strength with his arme: * he hath scattered the proude in the h imagination of their hearts.

52 He hath put downe the mightie from their seates, and exalted them of low degree.

53 * He hath filled the hungry with good things, and sent away the rich emptie.

54 * Hee hath vpholden Israel his seruant, being mindefull of his mercy, 55 (* As he hath spoken to our fathers, to wit, to Abraham, and his ‖ seede) for euer.

56 ¶ And Mary abode with her about three moneths: after, shee returned to her owne house.

57 ¶ Now Elisabets time was fulfilled, that she should be deliuered, and she brought forth a sonne.

58 And her neighbours, & cousins heard tell howe the Lorde had shewed his great mercy vpon her, and they reioyced with her.

59 And it was so that on ỹ eight day they came to circumcise the babe, and called him Zacharias, after the name of his father.

60 But his mother answered, and sayd, Not so, but he shalbe called Iohn.

61 And they said vnto her, There is none of thy kinred, ỹ is named with this name.

62 Then they made signes to his father, how he would haue him called.

63 So he asked for writing tables, and wrote, saying, His name is Iohn, and they marueiled all.

64 And his mouth was opened immediatly, and his tongue loosed, and hee i spake and prayed God.

65 Then feare came on all them that dwelt neere vnto them, and all these wordes were noysed abroad throughout all the hill countrey of Iudea.

66 And all they that heard them, layde them

7 The birth and circumcision of Christ. 22 He was receiued into the Temple, 28 Simeon and Anna prophecie of him. 46 He was found among the doctours. 51 His obedience to father and mother.

AND it came to passe in those dayes, that there came a commaundement from Augustus Cesar, that all the [a] world should be ‖taxed.

2 (This first [b] taxing was made when Cyrenius was gouernour of Syria.)

3 Therefore went all to be taxed, euery man to his owne citie.

4 And [c] Ioseph also went vp from Galile out of a citie called Nazaret, into Iudea, vnto the citie of * Dauid, which is called Beth-lehem (because hee was of the house and linage of Dauid,)

5 To be taxed with Marie that was giuen him to wife, which was with childe.

6 ¶ And so it was, that while they were there, the dayes were accomplished that she should be deliuered.

7 And she brought forth her [d] first begotten sonne, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and layd him in a [e] cratch, because there was no roume for them in the Inne.

8 ¶ And there were in the same countrey shepheards abiding in the fielde, and keeping watch by night because of their flocke.

9 And loe, the Angel of the Lord came vpon them, and the glory of the Lord shone about them, and they were sore afrayde.

10 Then the Angel layd vnto them, Be not afraid: for beholde, I bring you tidings of great ioy, that shalbe to all the people:

11 That is, that vnto you is borne this day in the citie of [f] Dauid, a Sauiour, which is Christ the Lord.

12 And [g] this shall be a signe to you, Yee shall finde the childe swadled, and layde in a cratch.

13 And straightway there was with the Angel a multitude of heauenly souldiours, praysing God, and saying, 14 Glory bee to God in the high heauens, and peace in earth, and towardes men [h] good will.

15 And it came to passe when the Angels were gone away from them into heauen, that the shepheardes sayde one to another, Let vs goe then vnto Beth-lehem, and see this thing that is come to passe, which the Lord hath shewed vnto vs.

16 So they came with haste, and found both Mary and Ioseph, and the babe layde in the cratch.

17 And when they had seene it, they published abroade the thing, which was tolde them of that childe.

18 And all that heard it, wondered at the things which were tolde them of the shepheards.

19 But Mary kept all those sayings, and pondered them in her heart.

20 And the shepheards returned, glorifying & praysing God, for all that they had heard & seene, as it was spoken vnto them.

21 ¶ * And when the eight dayes were accomplished, that they shoulde circumcise the childe, his name was then called * IESVS, which was named of the Angel, before he was conceiued in the wombe.

22 * And when the dayes of ‖ her purification after the Lawe of Moses were accomplished, they brought him to Ierusalem, to present him to the Lord,

27 And hee came ‡ by the motion of the Spirit into the Temple, and when the parents brought in the childe Iesus, to doe for him after the custome of the Lawe,

28 Then he tooke him in his armes, and praysed God, and sayde,

29 Lord,] nowe lettest thou thy seruant depart in peace, according to thy word:

30 For mine eyes haue seene thy m saluation,

31 Which thou hast prepared before the face of all people:

32 A light to ‖ bee reuciled to the Gentiles, and the glory of thy people Israel.

33 And Ioseph and his mother marueiled at those things, which were spoken touching him.

34 And Simeon blessed them, and said vnto Marie his mother, Beholde, this childe is appointed for the ° fall and rising againe of many in Israel, and for a signe which shall be spoken against,

35 (Yea, and a p sword shall pierce thorowe thy soule) that the q thoughts of many hearts may be opened.

36 And there was a Prophetisse, one Anna the daughter of Phanuel, of the tribe of Aser, which was of a great age, and had r liued with an husband seuen yeeres from her virginitie.

37 And shee was widowe about fourescore and foure yeeres, and went ſ not out of the Temple, but serued God with fastings and prayers, night and day.

41 ¶ Now his parents went to Ierusalem euery yeere, * at ỳ feast of the Passeouer.

42 And when he was twelue yeeres old, and they were come vp to Ierusalem, after the custome of the feast,

43 And had finished the daies thereof, as they returned, the child Iesus remained in Ierusalem, and Ioseph knewe not, nor his mother:

44 But they supposing, that hee had beene in the company, went a dayes iourney, and sought him among their kinsfolke, and acquaintance.

45 And when they found him not, they turned backe to Ierusalem, and sought him.

46 And it came to passe three dayes after, that they found him in the Temple, sitting in the middes of the ‖ doctours, both hearing them, and asking them questions.

47 And all that heard him, were astonied at his vnderstanding, and answers.

48 So when they sawe him, they were amazed, and his mother saide vnto him, Sonne, why hast thou thus dealt with vs? beholde, thy father and I haue sought thee with heauie hearts.

49 Then saide he vnto them, Howe is it that ye sought mee? t knewe yee not that I must goe about my fathers businesse?

50 But they u vnderstoode not the worde that he spake to them.

51 Then he went downe with them, and came to Nazaret, and was subiect to them: and his mother kept all these sayings in her heart.

52 And Iesus increased in wisedome, & stature, and in fauour with God and men.

3 The preaching, baptisme, and prisonment of Iohn. 15 He is thought to be Christ. 21 Christ is baptized. 23 His age, and genealogie.

NOwe in the fifteenth yere of the reigne of Tiberius Cesar, Pontius Pilate being Gouernour of Iudea, and a Herode being Tetrarch of Galile, and his brother Philip Tetrarch of Iturea, and of the countrey of Trachonitis, and Lysanias the Tetrarch of Abilene,

2 (* When Annas and Caiaphas were the hie b Priestes) the worde of God came vnto Iohn, the sonne of Zacharias in the wildernesse.

3 * And hee came into all the coastes about Iordan, preaching the baptisme of repentance for the remission of sinnes,

4 As it is written in the booke of the sayings of Esaias the Prophet, which sayth, * The voice of him that cryeth in the wildernesse is, Prepare yee the way of the Lord: make his paths straight.

5 Euery c valley shall be filled, and euery mountaine and hill shall be brought lowe, and crooked things shall be made straight, and the rough wayes shall be made smooth.

6 And ‖ all flesh shall see the d saluation of God.

7 Then sayde he to the people that were come out to be baptized of him, * ‖ generations of vipers, who hath forewarned you to flee from the wrath to come?

8 Bring foorth therefore fruites worthy amendement of life, and beginne not to say with your selues, Wee haue Abraham to our father: for I say vnto you, that God is able of these stones to raise vp children vnto Abraham.

9 Nowe also is the e axe layde vnto the roote of the trees: therefore euery tree which bringeth not foorth good fruite, shall be hewen downe, and cast into the fire.

10 ¶ Then the people asked him, saying, What shall we doe then?

11 And he answered, and said vnto them, * Hee f that hath two coates, let him part with him that hath none: and he that hath meate, let him doe likewise.

12 Then came there g Publicanes also to be baptized, and sayd vnto him, Master, What shall we doe?

13 And he sayde vnto them, Require no more then that which is appointed vnto you.

1 Iesus is led into the wildernes to be tempted. 13 He ouercōmeth the deuil. 14 He goeth into Galile, 16 Preacheth at Nazaret, & Capernaum. 22 The Iewes despise him. 38 He cōmeth into Peters house, & healeth his mother in law. 41 The deuils acknowledge Christ. 43 He preacheth through the cities.

AND Iesus full of the holy Ghost, returned from Iordan, and was led by the Spirit into the wildernesse,

2 * And was there fourtie dayes tempted of the deuill, and in those dayes [a] he did eate nothing: but when they were ended, he afterward was hungry.

3 Then the deuill said vnto him, If thou be the Sonne of God, commaund this stone that it be made bread.

4 But Iesus answered him, saying, It is written, * That man shall not liue by bread onely, but by euery [b] word of God.

5 Then the deuill tooke him vp into an high mountaine, and shewed him all the kingdomes of the worlde, ‡ in the twinckeling of an eye.

15 For he taught in their Synagogues, and was honoured of all men.

16 * And he came to Nazaret where hee had bene brought vp, and (as his custome was) went into the Synagogue on the Sabbath day, and stoode vp to reade.

17 And there was deliuered vnto him the booke of the Prophet Elias: and when hee had opened the booke, hee found the place, where it was written,

18 *. The Spirit of the Lord is vpon me, because hee hath g anointed mee, that I should preach the Gospell to the poore: hee hath sent mee, that I shoulde heale the broken hearted, that I should preach deliuerance to the captiues, and recouering of sight to the blinde, that I should set at libertie them that are bruised, 19 And that I should preach the h acceptable yeere of the Lord.

20 And he closed the booke, and gaue it againe to the minister, and sate downe: and the eyes of all that were in the Synagogue were fastened on him.

21 Then hee beganne to say vnto them, This day is this scripture fulfilled in your eares.

22 And all i bare him witnesse, and wondered at the gracious wordes, which proceeded out of his mouth, and saide, Is not this Iosephs sonne?

23 Then hee said vnto them, Ye will surely say vnto mee this prouerbe, Physician, k heale thy selfe: Whatsoeuer we haue heard done in Capernaum, doe it here likewise in thine owne countrey.

24 And he said, Verely I say vnto you, * No l Prophet is accepted in his owne countrey.

25 But I tell you of a trueth, many widowes were in Israel in the dayes of * Elias, when heauen was shut three yeeres and sixe moneths, when great famine was throughout all the land, 26 But vnto none of them was Elias sent, saue into Sarepta, a citie of Sidon, vnto m a certaine widowe.

27 Also many lepers were in Israel, in the time of * Eliseus the Prophet: yet none of them was made cleane, sauing Naaman the Syrian.

28 Then all that were in the Synagogue, when they heard it, were filled n with wrath, 29 And rose vp, & thrust him out of the citie, and led him vnto the edge of the hill, whereon their citie was built, to cast him downe headlong.

30 But hee passed o through the middes of them, and went his way, 31 ¶ * And came downe into Capernaum a citie of Galile, and there taught them on the Sabbath dayes.

32 * And they were astonied at his doctrine: for his word was p with authoritie.

33 And in the Synagogue there was a man which had a q spirit of an vncleane deuill, which cryed with a loude voyce, 34 Saying, Oh, what haue wee to doe with thee, thou Iesus of Nazaret? art thou come to destroy vs? I know who thou art, euen the holy one of God.

35 And Iesus rebuked him, saying, Hold thy peace, and come out of him. Then the deuill throwing him in the middes of them, came out of him, and hurt him not.

36 So feare came on them all, and they spake among themselues, saying, What thing is this? for with authoritie and power he commandeth the foule spirits, and they come out.

37 And the fame of him spred abroade throughout all the places of the countrey round about.

38 ¶ * And hee rose vp, and came out of the Synagogue, and entred into Simons house: and Simons wiues mother was taken with a great feuer, and they required him for her.

39 Then he stoode ouer her, and rebuked the feuer, and it left her: and immediatly she arose, and ministred vnto them.

40 Now when the sunne was downe, all they that had sicke folkes of diuers diseases, brought them vnto him, and hee laide his handes on euery one of them, and healed them.

41 * And deuils also came out of many, crying, and saying, r Thou art the Christ, the Sonne of God: but hee rebuked them, and suffered them not to say that they knew him to be the Christ.

42 And when it was day, he departed, and went foorth into a desert place, and the people sought him, and came to him, and kept him, that hee should not depart from them.

43 But he saide vnto them, Surely I must also preach the kingdome of God to other cities: for therefore am I sent.

44 And he preached in the Synagogues of Galile.

5 And he sayde vnto them, The sonne of man is b also Lord of the Sabbath day.

6 ¶ * It came to passe also on another Sabbath, that he entred into the Synagogue and taught, and there was a man, whose right hand was dried vp.

7 And the Scribes and Pharises watched him, whether hee would heale on the Sabbath day, that they might finde an accusation against him.

8 But hee knewe their thoughts, and sayde to the man which had the withered hand, Arise, and stand vp in the middes. And he arose, and stood vp.

9 Then sayde Iesus vnto them, I will aske you a question, Whether is it lawfull on the Sabbath dayes to do good, or to doe euill? to saue ‖ life, or to destroy it?

10 And hee beheld them all in compasse, and sayde vnto the man, Stretch foorth thine hand. And he did so, & his hand was restored againe, as whole as the other.

11 Then they were filled full of madnesse, and communed one with another, what they might doe to Iesus.

12 ¶ And it came to passe in those dayes, that hee went into a mountaine to pray, and spent the night in prayer to God.

13 * And when it was day, hee called his disciples, and out of them he chose c twelue, which also he called d Apostles.

19 And the whole multitude sought to touch him: for there went vertue out of him, and he healed them all.

20 ¶ * And he lifted vp his eyes vpon his disciples, and said, Blessed be ye e poore: for yours is the kingdome of God.

21 * Blessed are ye that hunger now: for ye shall bee satisfied: Blessed are yee that * weepe now: for ye shall laugh.

33 And if yee doe good for them which doe good for you, what thanke shall yee haue? for euen the sinners doe the same.

34 * And if ye lend to them of whome yee hope to receiue, what thanke shall ye haue? for euen the sinners lende to sinners, to receiue the like.

35 ¶ Wherefore loue ye your enemies, & do good, & lend, o looking for nothing againe, and your reward shall bee great, and yee shall be the children of * the most High: for he is kind vnto the vnkind, and to the euill.

36 Bee ye therefore mercifull, as your Father also is mercifull.

WHen *he had ended all his sayings in the audience of the people, he entred into Capernaum.

a It might be that this captaine did lie with his garrison in Capernaum.

2 And a certaine a Centurions seruant was sicke and ready to dye, which was deare vnto him.

3 And when he heard of Iesus, he sent vnto him the Elders of the Iewes, beseeching him that hee would come and heale his seruant.

4 So they came to Iesus, and besought him instantly, saying that hee was worthie that he should doe this for him.

5 For he loueth, sayde they, our nation, and he hath built vs a b Synagogue.

b In building them a temple for their assemblies, he shewed his zeale towards the true seruice of God.

6 Then Iesus went with them: but when he was now not far from the house, the Centurion sent friends to him, c saying vnto him, Lord, trouble not thy selfe: for I am not worthie that thou shouldest enter vnder my roofe, c The friends speake to Iesus in the captaines name.

h That is, to establish, and restore them.

17 And this rumour of him went forth throughout all Iudea, and throughout all the region round about.

18 ¶ And the disciples of Iohn shewed him of all these thinges.

19 So Iohn called vnto him two certaine men of his disciples, and sent them to Iesus, saying, Art thou i he that shoulde come, or shall we waite for another?

44 Then hee turned to the woman, and said vnto Simon, Seest thou this woman? I entred into thine house, and thou gauest me no water to my feete: but she hath washed my feete with teares, and wiped them with the haires of her head.

45 Thou gauest me no kisse: but she since the time I came in, hath not ceassed to kisse my feete.

a Whereby they acknowledged the benefit which they had receiued of him, and also shewed their perseuerance, which prooued their knowledge to be of God. ‖ Or, to them. Matth. 13.3. mar. 4.1,2.

b That is, to vnderstand, and beleue these things.

c Which word is here taken for an obscure or darke saying. Isa. 6.9. mat. 13. 14. mar. 4.12. Iob. 12.40. act. 28.26 rom. 11.8. Matth. 13.18. mar. 4.15.

d That is, acknowledge, and consent to the word, and also reuerence it.

e When they returne home to their affaires.

heare the word, and keepe it, & bring foorth fruit with patience.

16 ¶ * No f man when he lighteth a candle, couereth it vnder a vessell, neither putteth it vnder the ||table, but setteth it on a candlesticke, that they that enter in, may see the light.

17 * For nothing is secret, that shall not be vttered: neither any thing hid, that shall not be knowen, and come to light.

18 Take heede therefore howe ye heare: * for whosoeuer hath, to him shalbe giuen: and whosoeuer hath not, from him shall be taken euen that, which e it seemeth that he hath.

19 ¶ * Then came to him his mother & his brethren, and couldc not come neere to him for the preasse.

20 And it was told him by certeine which sayd, Thy mother and thy ||brethren stand without, and would see thee.

21 But he answered, & sayd vnto them, My mother, and my brethren are h these which heare the word of God, and do it.
